Poetry.

The Last Supper.

"And when they had sung a hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives."

What song sung the twelve with the Savior,
When finished the Sacrament wine?
Were they bowed and subdued in behavior,
Or bold as made bold with a sign?

Were the hairy breasts strong and defiant?
Were the naked arms brawny and strong?
Were the bearded lips lifted in vaunt,
Thrust forth and full stanch with a song?

What song they? What sweet song of Zion?
With Christ in their midst like a crown?
While here sat Saint Peter, the lion
And there, like a lamb, with head down.

Sat Saint John, with his silken mane raven
Rich here on his shoulders, and ever
Lifting up to the grace unshaven
Like a sensitive child's in surprise.

Was the song as strong fishermen swinging
Their nets full of hope to the sea?
Or low, like the ripple-wave, singing
Sea-songs on their loved Galilee?

Were they sad with a shade-shadow of sorrows,
Like the birds that sing low when the breeze
Is lip-toe with a tale of to-morrows,—
Of earthquake and sinking of seas?

Ah! sun was their song as the waves are
That fall in low-musical moans:
And sad I should say as the winds are
That blow by the white graves of ones.

—Joaquin Miller.

Communicated.

Suggestions Concerning Sin.

In reading Rom. v. 12, it is necessary to keep the connection from verse 11 relating to "reconciliation." "Wherefore as through one man sin entered into the world, in which all sinned and through sin death, and in this way death passed to all men." For until the law sin was in the world (the same world as verse 12) but sin is not imputed where law is not (13). For if by the trespass of one the many died, whether sin was imputed or not, because "death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them who did not sin as Adam did." Death had it all its own way. The sentence was from one (man) unto condemnation, but the free gift is from many offences unto justification. Before the law they died right along, and after the law came into force they continued to die, plus a penal death for transgression against the law in the case; so that law caused sin to abound—intensified the offense. Ch. vii. 13. Sin by the commandment became exceedingly sinful.

The wages of sin is death. And yet millions of the race never earned the wages—death passed along to them, (being in the world into which sin entered through the one man) in the natural course and as the stream cannot rise above the fountain, so the nature derived from Adam cannot be higher than his. Because out of nothing, nothing comes, and that which we may have in excess of that derived from Adam, comes from a Power outside of ourselves and independent of our efforts to lift ourselves. The motions of sin in our members, apart from law, are not charged up to us. Because sin is not counted where there is no law, as in this case. But again: Law having been instituted for a purpose so that the original offense might abound to the degree that the divine intervention might superabound in the justification of all who come under the divine favor by complying with the conditions of reconciliation unto justification of life. Being under law to Christ we become amenable whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto justification.

Death penal and final, appropriately is the wages of sin to all who are amenable. And the gracious gift of God through Jesus Christ, is the eternal life promised in the Holy Scriptures. None are justly punished twice for the same offense, because we read (Heb. ii. 2) that under Moses the "transgressors received a just retribution. Therefore the "second death" does not have reference to time but to penalty.

The sentence came of one (man) to condemnation; and the verdict was executed in his return to the original inorganic elements out of which he was formed. He transmitted to his posterity, according to the laws of heredity, the same nature which he himself possessed.

The race starts under these abnormal conditions, and though not having sinned as Adam did, yet death reigned right along, and continues to reign. But there is a time coming when every one will die on account of his own sin, as Adam died for his own, "The soul that sinneth shall die" for it. This, it will be understood, will be racial, and after the promulgation of the new Israelitish covenant. "Condemnation" and justification are legal terms, and to be understood from a legal point of view. "Unto" from us, (verse 10) signifies procession, motion towards. And gets there apart from outside influence which may change the course of things.

Verses 18 and 19 sum up the case in this way: "The sentence came to all men to condemnation," consequently: and the "Sentence came to all men unto justification of life" also consequently, a process ending in condemnation on the one hand, and on the other, "The life of the world to come." The results here stated in this passage grows out of individual relation to law and covenant. Under law as Adam was and put to the proof so as to develop worthiness for the utilities about to be realized in the Divine government for a purpose. Or, on the other hand, like Adam die, or be put to death on account of being useless. Adam received the wages of sin, although a long time intervened between the sentence and its execution. It appears evident that penal death is the result of transgression of law; and as all are born into the world into which sin entered through the one man; all are helpless apart from divine intervention according to the plan of ages, which God purposed before the time of the Mosaic ages. Hence the reading, Gen. vi. 6, "And God pondered deeply because he made man to be upon the earth; and he thought it through."—Chas. Gardner. And hence the proclamation of "the word of reconciliation." Compare Rom. vii. 8, 9: with verse 23, "Another law." Vs. the law of the mind formed within by the truth, called "the inward man,"—Verse 22 compared with verse 25.

The law of sin in our members have a powerful grip, and to this law we have to submit—all our physical ailments inherited or acquired must be born because of pre-existing conditions. But as the outward man wastes away the inward man is renewed by knowledge day by day. Consult ch. viii. 2, 3, 4; God's Son did that which the law could never do, and emphasize ver. 4, "So that the righteousness of the law," etc.

C. W. Tomkins.

"The Lord is at Hand."

"The night is far spent; and the day [of the Lord] is at hand." "Surely I come quickly."

There are some who would impeach the veracity of these statements because 1800 years have passed away and they still remain unfulfilled. There is some ground for the cavil. Let us look at the declaration from the Spirit's stand-point and the difficulty will vanish.

The Spirit's stand-point is Eternity. It is written that with God a thousand years are but as a watch of the night; that 1800 years and more are but as a small moment. Recognize this and the truth and force of the statements in question will be seen. But why does not the Spirit in addressing man speak in accordance with man's computation of times? There is an explanation. Those to whom God speaks stand related to eternity. The faithful are taught to regard immortality as certain of attainment. They are told that death is theirs;—that they have passed relatively and prospectively from death into life.

Looking at the subject in this way—estimating the present from the stand-point of an eternal future, how beautiful is the Divine way of speaking, viz., "Yet a little while and he that shall come will come and will not tarry." "Cast not away therefore your confidence which hath great recompense of reward." "Now the just shall live by faith," "rejoicing in hope of the glory soon to be revealed;" "when the sons of God will be made partakers of the Divine nature, inheriting the promises conjointly with Christ the Head of the Body, which is the church, the fulness of him that filleth all in all."

J. O. Woodruff.

Dear Restitution:

The members of the Church of God of the faith of Abraham at Freedom, Nebraska, have been encouraged and edified by a visit from Elder D. M. Hudler, of Muskatine, Iowa. The meeting commenced on Thursday evening, Oct. 12, and continued over two Sundays. We believe it to be as interesting a meeting as ever held at Freedom, and one to be long remembered by the Church at this place. It being meat in due season. Each discourse becoming more interesting and being delivered in a Christ-like spirit went home to the hearts of the people, and we trust will bring forth fruit in the kingdom of God. Bro. Hudler is as good a speaker as we ever heard on the Scriptures. There was a fair attendance throughout the meeting. The last three evenings the house was well filled. There were visiting brethren and sisters from a distance whom we were glad to greet again as of old. We trust much good has been done to build up the members of our church, and turn their minds again to the promises of God which are sure and steadfast. God is not changed, but will perform that which he has promised. We long to see the time when those promises will be fulfilled and righteousness shall fill the earth as the waters cover the deep; when our King shall come to claim his own and clothe them with the house from heaven—immortality.

Your Brother in hope,
W. A. Moore.

Dear Restitution:

I am one of the isolated ones. Have no preaching of the one faith; nothing but the blessed Word and the dear old Restitution. It seems like an old friend. I have never written to the paper before; but I will say to the dear ones of like precious faith, that I am trying to live so as to meet you all when the Life Giver comes and the dead in Christ shall be raised, and the sleeping saints of all ages. I love to read the many letters from the brothers and sisters. I would love to meet you all, but that is impossible, but thanks be to God we have the blessed promise of a crown of eternal life when Jesus comes to reign on David's throne. Oh blessed day! Come Lord Jesus, and come quickly is my prayer.

If would like to correspond with any of the faith that would care to. Address me at Tunas, Mo.

Bell Quigley.

Selected.

The Keys of the Kingdom Entrusted to Peter.

The gospel invites men to enter into the kingdom of God. The way of entering is made exceedingly plain in the Bible. There is now no hidden mystery concerning it as there was before the sufferings of Christ were manifested. The mystery of the kingdom has been unlocked. The key of knowledge has been given.....Before a man can enter into the kingdom of God, he must be unloosed from his sins in the present state; and liberated hereafter from the prison-house where the dead lie bound in chains of intense darkness. The unloosing from sins, Jesus committed to Peter; but the enlargement from the chamber of death, he reserved to himself. Rev. i. 18; xx. 1. Knowledge is the key to remission, or release from sins, and to an entrance into the kingdom of God. No one can enter this kingdom in his sins, and destitute of a character approved of God; and none could answer the question, how can a man obtain the remission of sins; and what kind of a character would God henceforth account worthy?—until the Apostle Peter revealed the secret, communicated to him by the Spirit, on the day of Pentecost.

If the reader peruse the second chapter of Acts he will learn there how Peter used one of the keys of the kingdom given to him by its King. On that occasion, I say, he used but one of the keys. He revealed the mystery of the gospel of God's kingdom to Jews only. They believed in the kingdom, glory and dominion, promised to the Son of Man in Daniel and the prophets; and that the righteous were to take the kingdom with him: these things were the substance of the national hope; but they did not then know upon what conditions the obtaining of them was predicted. Hence, it was Peter's duty to instruct them. He first called to their recollection certain notable things concerning Jesus. That the wonders he performed by the power of God, evidently showed that God approved him; that they had been guilty of his death in clamoring for his crucifixion; but that all this was pre-determined of God; that God had "loosed him from the pains of death" by raising him from the dead. He then proceeded to show by their prophets that the things that had thus happened to Jesus were verifications of certain predictions. He adduced the testimony of David, that Christ was to be "raised up to sit on David's throne," and consequently, must previously suffer death; and that after he was resurrected, he was to ascend to the right hand of God. He then concluded by saying, "Let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and King Anointed." For the truth of this statement he appealed to what they saw and heard; to the cloven tongues like fire sitting upon their heads, the "sound of a rushing mighty wind," and, the many languages spoken by Galilean fisherman without

The result of the ...oning was their convic... was indeed the King of ...the Shiloh that had been ...em for so many ages. ...owledged him to be the ...name should be called ...Counsellor, the Mighty ...under of the Future Age, ...of Peace." Isa. ix. 6. This ...er, also convinced them ...his great personage, they ...ed an enormous crime; ...lled the Prince of Life." ...nces smote them; "they ...oly and Just One, and de... ...er before him;" and had ...is beloved blood upon ...nd their posterity. Of ...s their faith to them in ... They believed in the ... believed in Jesus, they ...d with remorse, but ...ill conscious only of ...udgment well deserved. ...n mystery to them ...e for pardon of this ...was "the right... ...ould be required of them? Should they go to the priest, and offer a whole burnt offering and confess their sin? This would have been impracticable.....To what, or to whom, were they to look for a solution of "the mystery?" Who could unlock it, and open to them the door of liberty, and loose them from their sins? Is not the reader prepared to answer, "The Holy Spirit alone could reveal to them of righteousness, because Jesus had gone to the Father." Jno. xvi. 7, 10. This is true: and the time had arrived to do it. But how and through what channel, was the Spirit to do this? Was it by words thundered from heaven; by a still small voice whispering in their ears; by a feeling that they were forgiven; by words of inspiration spoken by the tongues of angels; or by the mouth of man? The reader will be prepared to say, "The keys of knowledge, or the power to reveal the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, were committed to Peter; therefore the new doctrine concerning righteousness, or justification to life, was to be revealed through him.

This is also true: but the "devout Jews" were ignorant of this arrangement; therefore, instead of addressing Peter alone, they inquired of all the Apostles, saying, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Acts ii. 37. Mark, reader, though the question was put to all, only one of them, and that one Peter, replied to the inquiry. He was the spokesman of the twelve, by whose mouth God had chosen that Israel should hear the Word of the gospel, and believe, or as Paul writes, "The gospel of the circumcision was committed to Peter, in whom God wrought effectually for the purpose." Gal ii. 8.

The answer given by Peter announced for the first time, what believers of the gospel of the kingdom and in the things concerning Jesus, must do in order to become joint-heirs with him of the promise made to the fathers, to these devout Jews, who now believed what both the prophets an Apostles had spoken, who were now humbled in disposition as little children, swift to hear, and anxious to do, whatever the Spirit should dictate; the holder of the keys to unlock the mystery of the gospel, said, "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Acts ii. 38. Such an annunciation as this had never been made before. In this way "repentance and the remission of sins" were "preached in the name of Jesus." This is God's way of righteousness, and besides this, there is no other way of salvation; "for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts iv. 12. God's salvation is placed in the name of Jesus, and this name is accessible to mankind only upon the condition of believing "the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus," and being baptized by his name, "He that believes the gospel and is baptized shall be saved"—is the unrevoked fiat of the Son of God.

The words of the Spirit by the mouth of Peter went home to the hearts of these devout Jews. "They that gladly received his Word were baptized; and the same day there was added to the congregation about three thousand souls. And they continued steadfastly in the Apostle's doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." Acts ii. 41, 42. These disciples were "a kind of first fruits" of God's creatures begotten of the Spirit will by the Word of truth, Jno. i. 18, which "lives and abides for ever."—Selected by Mrs. C. W. Russell.

ADD THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Shun Gossip.

Beware of gossip: it is an incubator of all evil. Its eggs are serpentine. Its work is rapid. In ten minutes its aspen offspring are twining their coils about innocent hearts. Its brood are Mischief, Falsehood, Slander, Selfishness, Hatred, Division, and Death. Like the cyclone, gossip leaves devastation and destruction in its path. It would disturb the peace of heaven, and has caused many a bitter, deadly war on earth. Notwithstanding its cruel character, professed Christian people take this incubator into their homes, and permit its vile brood to invest parlor, sitting room, chamber, and kitchen. The unclean birds of slander spread their deadly poison over ministers and people, teachers and pupils, missionaries and converts, rich and poor, young and old, good and bad, living and dead.

Gossip ruins the peace of families. It destroys the love of home, and causes doubt and despair. It breaks hearts. Husbands and wives are parted by it. Mothers and daughters, fathers and sons, are disunited, and separated, never again to be reunited. It is a costly, satanic extravagance. It drinks the blood of the broken hearts of men.

Gossip is an inquisitor. One by one it spies out its victims. They may or may not be guilty of indiscretion—it matters not. It is a contagious fever that spreads from house to house, from church to church, from neighborhood to neighborhood. Wherever gossip comes division follows, society is disturbed, evil reigns, and souls are lost.

In the Psalms we read, "Thy tongue deviseth mischiefs; like a sharp razor, working deceitfully," and, "Thou lovest all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue." "They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent; adder's poison is under their lips." "What shall be given unto thee? or what shall be done unto thee, thou false tongue? Sharp arrows of the Almighty, with coals of juniper."

In marked contrast, how beautiful and sweet are these words of the Psalmist: "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard: that went down to skirts of the garments; as the dew of Hermon and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life forevermore." Christ says, "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."

Humility.

Humility is not a mean estimate of self. The ancient contempt for humility is still felt by many. It seems a sign of weakness, and is abhorrent and impossible to the self-respecting and strong. It is identical with meanness of spirit, and the endorsement of it is like an insult to human nobility. Such scorn of this rare and radiant grace of humility is based upon a misunderstanding of its nature. If it really is mean spiritedness, then scorn for it is to be commended. But to identify it with anything so abject as mean-spiritedness is to insult a grace and exalt a weakness. Meanness of spirit is as despicable as any other kind of meanness, and has nothing in common with humility. For an understanding of this lovely virtue, as for the understanding of every virtue which enters into symmetrical character, we go to him in whom all moral treasures are to be found in his integrity and completeness. Read John xiii. 3 and learn that he who humbly performs a menial's task, and whose lowly dead was but a detail in that perfect humbling (Phil. ii. 8), which marked his obedient consecration of himself to the work of man's redemption, has a clear knowledge and estimate of his divine authority, origin and destiny. He need not have degrading views of self in order to do lowliest service. To lie in the dust before God is but the simple recognition of truth—the lesson brought to us by the contrast of our littleness with his almightiness. Moreover, such attitude before him is the natural graceful acknowledgement of the fact that the life's whole worthy equipment, moral, mental and physical, is his gift.

Tears falling fast shut out the light,
Onward we go, what hope, what choice,
Before us lies the tomb's dark night;
But listen! We can hear his voice;
His voice:
"I have abolished death;
Be strong in that bright faith—
Look up,—rejoice."

We should always make the best of those whom we desire to make better.

OBITUARY.

A noble woman passed away in the death of Mrs. R. F. Shirley, of Rock Falls, Ill., which occurred at her home on Dixon avenue, last Sunday at 1.30 p. m. She had been afflicted for many years with stomach trouble, and that was the primary cause of her death.

Jane Thompson was born in Fayette County, Indiana, May 27, 1828. She was married to R. F. Shirley June 2, 1842, in Marshall, County, Ind. Four sons and two daughters were born to them: Samuel T. Shirley, Rock Falls, Ill.; James, who died in infancy; J. A., died Aug. 28, 1878, at Marysville, Cal.; Meridith A., died in Rock Falls, Ill., Feb. 16, 1894; Sarah Payson, Rock Falls, Ill., and Mrs J. H. Meckling, Boyton, Ga. Mrs. Shirley moved with her husband from Indiana to Lee County, Ill., in 1865, and to Coloma in 1867. They lived on a farm east of Rock Falls until a few years ago, when they retired and moved to Rock Falls. Mrs. Shirley had been a member of the Church of God from her youth through a long and useful life. The home of the Shirleys was ever a retreat for the sick or the homeless, and the cry of the distressed always found there generous hearts and willing hands to help all in need. The deceased was of a particularly amiable and lovable disposition, making friends of all who could appreciate the true and noble in womanhood. Her life was an incentive to all within its influence to aspire to the higher and purer aims of life, and to attain to the glories of the first resurrection. Her life work is done, and well done; and she has passed into rest from toil and trouble, which will end only with the awakening to the reward of the faithful.

The funeral took place at the Congregational church, Rock Falls, yesterday, the services being conducted by Rev. H. A. Kern, pastor of the church, and was attended by a large number of neighbors and sympathizing friends. The interment was at Riverside cemetery.—Sterling, Illinois, Herald, Oct. 26.

Thomas J. Tilton was born in Knox Co., Ohio, Nov. 15, 1832; came to Ogle Co., Ill., in the year of 1850. On Dec. 9, 1855, he was united in marriage with Miss Nancy Jane Akins who survives him. Died Oct. 22, 1899, at the age of 66 years, 11 months and 7 days.

Bro. Tilton leaves many sorrowing relatives and friends. He died having an obedient faith in the soon coming King, having recently put on Christ by baptism in the likeness of his death. We sorrow, but not as those who have no hope, for we believe that Christ died and that on third the day he arose from the dead. Knowing this, we know also that that same Spirit which brought forth Christ from the dead will also quicken our mortal bodies in due season if it dwell in us. What a comfort to the believer!

The esteem in which Bro. Tilton was held by those who knew him was attested by the great number who were in attendance to pay their last respects to the one who now sleeps in the little cemetery, but a short distance from the home now bereft of the husband and father.

May we all prove faithful and endure unto the end, so that we may hear the Master's welcome, "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

S. J. Lindsay.

Dr. Chalmers says, a time will come when "God's own truth, expressed in God's own language will form the universal creed of intelligent, and harmonized and happy Christendom. When men's faith and their affections will come into more direct contact with heaven's original revelation; and the spirit of goodwill to man, which prompted heaven's message, will be felt in all its freshness and power; when the uproar of controversy is stilled, and its harsh and jarring discords have died away into everlasting silence."

Faster than ever to California.

"The Overland Limited," Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line, leaves Chicago daily 6.30 p. m., arrives San Francisco afternoon of third day Los Angeles next morning. No change of cars, all meals in dining car. Buffet smoking and library cars, with barber. The best of everything. "The Pacific Express" leaves Chicago daily 10.30 p. m., with first-class and through tourist sleepers to California. Personally conducted excursions every Thursday. Illustrated pamphlet describing fully this wonderful state sent free on application to Chicago & North-Western Railway. A. H. Waggener, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago.—Nov. 18.

For Our Children.

Sunday School Hymn.

TUNE—"GOING HOME."

There is a school on earth begun,
Instructed by the Holy One;
The school-book is the Scripture true,
The lessons are forever new.

CHORUS,—
Then let us sing; yes sweetly sing,
For Jesus Christ, will be our King.

'Tis here we learn the Golden Rule;
Around this little temple, cool;
'Tis here we hear the Savior say,
"Come hither, souls, I am the way."

'Tis here we learn God's holy plan
To save poor, lost and sinful man.
His Word enables us to see,
What he would have us all to be.

'Tis here we meet in union dear,
He teaches us, we need not fear.
His truth will make us free indeed;
For he supplies our every need.

Then come, dear children, one and all,
And listen to the heavenly call,
'Twill make us strong, and make us wise
So we can run and win the prize.

SARAH F. MORGAN.

Power of Temptation.

I knew of a man who was a temperance lecturer. In his early years he had been a great drunkard; but he was reformed and had considerable notoriety as a platform speaker in one of our large cities. By trade he was a glass cutter. One day, many years after he had been a confirmed Christian as every one thought a servant girl brought into his place of business a decanter with a broken neck, and asked him to cut it smooth. He took up the bottle to see what was wrong; the fumes of brandy came out of the neck and went into his brain. He turned the decanter upside down and got a drop of the liquid upon his finger. He put it to his lips. It set his blood on fire. He went to the nearest public-house and got drunk. That was the beginning of a very bitter and disgraceful ending.—Prof. Drummond.

The Miser's Daughter.

One cold winter, when the ground was so covered with snow that the little birds could not find anything to eat, the little daughter of a miserly rich man gathered up all the crumbs she could find, and was going to carry them out and scatter them on the snow.

Her father saw her, and asked her what she was going to do. She told him, and he said, "What good will it do? The crumbs will not be enough to feed one in a hundred of the birds."

"I know it, dear father," said she, "but I shall be glad to save even one in a hundred of them if I cannot save them all."

The father thought a moment. He knew that many poor persons were suffering in the village, and he had refused to help any, because he could not help them all. His conscience hurt him, and he told his little daughter to break a loaf of bread into crumbs for the birds, while he went to scatter loaves among the poor villagers.

Failed and Succeeded.

Men admit that no one is equally great in all things. Yet they often do not see that a man's failure in one line of work is no reason why he may not succeed in a different calling.

An incident which occurred some years ago in a London store illustrates this blindness.

A young man, whose bluntness was such that he was of no use as a salesman, was told that he did not suit and must go. Seeking the head of the house the youth said:

"Don't turn me away; I am good for something."

"You are good for nothing as a salesman," replied the principal.

"I am sure I can be useful," continued the youth.

"How? Tell me how?"

"I don't know, sir; I dont know."

"Nor do I," said the principal, laughing at the boy's eagerness and ignorance.

"Don't put me away," continued the youth; "try me at something else. I know I can't sell, but I can make myself useful somehow; I know I can."

Moved by his earnestness the principal placed him in the counting-room. Immediately his aptitude for figures showed itself. In a few years he became the head cashier of the concern. He was known throughout the country as an eminent accountant.

Why He was Never Late.

"How is it that you are never late at Sunday-school, Edwin?" I asked.

His Sunday-school began a quarter before nine in the morning, and I concluded many of the children found it hard to be prompt as they came straggling in all through the opening service; Edwin, never; he was always in time.

"How is it Edwin?"

"Oh, I always plan to come," said Edwin. "I put the polish on my boots over night. I find my Bible and question-book, and place them in a safe corner beforehand. I brush and put on my Sunday clothes before breakfast. So after breakfast and prayers I start in time to get there before the superintendant rings the school to order."

"And you never lag by the way?"

"Never!" said Edwin. "It is better to be five minutes too early than one minute too late."

Ah, boys, see how it helps one along to have a plan!

How to Retain Youth.

Take frequent recreation, but not so much as to rob it of its zest.

Preserve the feelings and habits of youth as late in life as possible.

Keep free of intense excitements. They wither the physical energies like fire.

Keep a clear conscience and lead a life void of offense in the sight of God and man.

Insist upon an abundance of regular sleep—so much of it as possible before midnight.

Avoid excesses of all kinds, whether of work, pleasure, eating, drinking, or any otherwise proper enjoyment of mind and body.

A man cannot long keep young who gives up all the active, health-giving exercises of youth. Take a boy and treat him as a good many middle-aged men treat themselves, and he would soon notice the deterioration of his physical powers.

It is intense excitement, the excitement of social life, the ball-room, the theater and the various forms of fashionable dissipation, that makes our girls fade so rapidly. If they took life more quietly and reasonably they would preserve their beauty and physical vigor longer.

Have You Read This?

By examining our list we find there are between 500 and 600 people whose time has expired. Some only a few months and others some years. If each one of you who are thus owing us would go to the office right now and send the money due us, we would have over a thousand dollars with which to push forward our work.

Brothers and Sisters, we need this money very much. We have earned it—it is ours—and if you do not send it to us, but use it on self, you are simply spending our money. It is not yours—it is ours. Were we in position to do so we would gladly lend you the amount, but the fact is we have bills to pay and cannot lend it to you longer. We ask you kindly and in the spirit of love and justice, to at once send us what you owe us. If you cannot spare it all now, then send part of it, and the balance after awhile. Please do not neglect this, but get a dollar and send to us right away today. We thank you in advance for the favor, and assure you we appreciate it very much.

Conference Notice.

The first Quarterly Conference of the Church of God of the Abrahamic Faith in Indiana, will be held at Plymouth, commencing Thursday evening, Nov. 16, 1899, and continue over the following Sunday. The brethren here are anxious for a good meeting, so let all come with that end in view. Come with hearts full of love and charity and let us earnestly pray that that divine influence may be with us that will lift us up and consecrate our lives more to his service. This we need above everything else.

A welcome is extended to all lovers of the truth. Let each organization send delegates. A program is being prepared which will appear in due time.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

N. Roblee,	1.50
L. Booth,	1.50

Notice.

To those interested in the Illinois Conference, the Secretary wishes to state that his time has been so occupied with other duties during the day time and at night his eyes will not permit him to write but little; but will endeavor to have the report ready by the next issue.

L. BOOTH, Sec.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by use in usage in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 80 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying so lately, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and should a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Pike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
R. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. B. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. H. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skoda, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Winer, Plerceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Henn, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hutch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. P. Waggoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Cotonville, Ark
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Primo, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave, Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olsen, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. S. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Garwkin, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Anaconda, Mont.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. B. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 927 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foors, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
H. B. Kendall, Urichsville, Ohio.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Tithing Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Box 884, Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Romeoville, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Box 124 Andover, S. D.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Wood'and Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their home on Michigan St., one block e. of Preaching by S. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have all brethren on the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 202 West Hey St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's home at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co. Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave. San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hutch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. P. Waggoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. B. Edelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rock Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kulle, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ia., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Author, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trindell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 19th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skoda and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays o each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren A. D. Allen in charge.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rorke and B. T. Voetbomble.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1203½ Euclid Ave., or Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meets each fourth Sunday, at private home [illegible] breaking bread and social [illegible] on the second Sunday at the [illegible] Church Wilson Ave. Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Uncle Woodie, Sec.

[illegible] Church of God, W. [illegible] invites to [illegible] Christ's and [illegible] reasonably. H. W. Pe[illegible] and L. Stevens, Sec'y.

Pennsylvania Lines

Schedules in Effect September 24, 1899.

[illegible]

Eastward.	Mail & Express.	Pittsburg Express.	Fast Line.	Atlantic Express.	Day Express.	Mail & Express.	Pacific Express.
Pittsburg	1 30	3 00	7 50	8 00	12 10	4 30	8 00
Altoona	4 55	6 30	11 15	11 30	3 40	8 00	11 30
Conway	5 43	7 18	12 06	12 20	4 28	8 48	12 20
Rochester	6 45	8 20	1 08	1 22	5 30	9 50	1 22
Manchester	6 55	8 30	1 18	1 32	5 40	10 00	1 32
Crestline	8 15	9 50	2 40	2 55	7 00	11 20	2 55
Bucyrus	8 45	10 20	3 10	3 25	7 30	11 50	3 25
Galion	9 05	10 40	3 30	3 45	7 50	12 10	3 45
Van Wert	10 40	12 15	5 05	5 20	9 25	1 45	5 20
Fort Wayne	12 15	1 50	6 40	6 55	11 00	3 20	6 55
Arcola	1 05	2 40	7 30	7 45	11 50	4 10	7 45
Fort Wayne	1 35	3 10	8 00	8 15	12 20	4 40	8 15
Van Wert	3 10	4 45	9 35	9 50	1 55	6 15	9 50
Lima	4 20	5 55	10 45	11 00	3 05	7 25	11 00
Bluffton	4 55	6 30	11 15	11 30	3 40	8 00	11 30
Kingsland	5 33	7 08	11 53	12 08	4 18	8 38	12 08
Crestline	6 55	8 30	1 18	1 32	5 40	10 00	1 32
Wooster	8 15	9 50	2 40	2 55	7 00	11 20	2 55
Mansfield	8 45	10 20	3 10	3 25	7 30	11 50	3 25
Orrville	9 45	11 20	4 10	4 25	8 30	12 50	4 25
Canton	10 05	11 40	4 30	4 45	8 50	1 10	4 45
Alliance	10 30	12 05	4 55	5 10	9 15	1 35	5 10
Pittsburg	1 30	3 00	7 50	8 00	12 10	4 30	8 00

Westward.	Mail & Express.	Pittsburg Express.	Fast Line.	Atlantic Express.	Day Express.	Mail & Express.	Pacific Express.
Chicago	8 15	7 25	3 50	3 40	10 30	4 00	10 00
Valparaiso	9 33	8 43	5 08	4 58	11 48	5 18	11 18
Wanatah	9 50	8 58	5 23	5 13	12 03	5 33	11 33
Hanna	9 55	9 03	5 28	5 18	12 08	5 38	11 38
Davis	10 00	9 08	5 33	5 23	12 13	5 43	11 43
Hanna	10 05	9 13	5 38	5 28	12 18	5 48	11 48
Hanna	10 10	9 18	5 43	5 33	12 23	5 53	11 53
Brewerton	10 15	9 23	5 48	5 38	12 28	5 58	11 58
Plymouth	10 30	9 38	6 03	5 53	12 43	6 13	12 13
Bourbon	10 55	10 03	6 28	6 18	1 08	6 38	12 38
Elkhart	11 15	10 23	6 48	6 38	1 28	6 58	12 58
Wakarusa	11 30	10 38	7 03	6 53	1 43	7 13	1 13
Goshen	11 45	10 53	7 18	7 08	1 58	7 28	1 28
Millersburg	12 00	11 08	7 33	7 23	2 13	7 43	1 43
Benton	12 15	11 23	7 48	7 38	2 28	7 58	1 58
Wakarusa	12 30	11 38	8 03	7 53	2 43	8 13	2 13
Hanna	12 45	11 53	8 18	8 08	2 58	8 28	2 28
Hanna	13 00	12 08	8 33	8 23	3 13	8 43	2 43
Davis	13 05	12 13	8 38	8 28	3 18	8 48	2 48
Hanna	13 10	12 18	8 43	8 33	3 23	8 53	2 53
Wanatah	13 15	12 23	8 48	8 38	3 28	8 58	2 58
Valparaiso	13 30	12 38	9 03	8 53	3 43	9 13	3 13
Chicago	14 48	1 56	10 21	10 11	5 01	10 31	4 31

Eastward—Leave Chicago 8:15 a. m., 7:25 p. m., 3:50 p. m., 3:40 p. m., 10:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., 10:00 p. m. Arrive Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m.

Westward—Leave Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m. Arrive Chicago 2:48 a. m., 1:56 p. m., 10:21 p. m., 10:11 p. m., 5:01 p. m., 10:31 p. m., 4:31 a. m.

Fast Line leaves Pittsburg 8:00 a. m. Arrives Chicago 10:21 p. m. Daily except Sunday. Day Express 12:10 noon. Daily except Sunday. Pacific Express 4:30 a. m. Daily except Sunday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 5, 6 and 8 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 5, 8 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served at "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at reasonable rates. Passengers checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

NICKEL PLATE

10-14-1900

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastward Leave.	All Nickel Plate Dining Cars.	Westward Leave.
Chicago	8 15 7 25 3 50 3 40 10 30 4 00 10 00	Chicago
Valparaiso	9 33 8 43 5 08 4 58 11 48 5 18 11 18	Valparaiso
Wanatah	9 50 8 58 5 23 5 13 12 03 5 33 11 33	Wanatah
Kouts	4 16	Kouts
Hanna	10 05 9 13 5 38 5 28 12 18 5 48 11 48	Hanna
Rolland	10 15 9 23 5 48 5 38 12 28 5 58 11 58	Rolland
Argos	10 30 9 38 6 03 5 53 12 43 6 13 12 13	Argos
Plymouth	10 55 10 03 6 28 6 18 1 08 6 38 12 38	Plymouth
Bourbon	11 15 10 23 6 48 6 38 1 28 6 58 12 58	Bourbon
Elkhart	11 30 10 38 7 03 6 53 1 43 7 13 1 13	Elkhart
Wakarusa	11 45 10 53 7 18 7 08 1 58 7 28 1 28	Wakarusa
Goshen	12 00 11 08 7 33 7 23 2 13 7 43 1 43	Goshen
Millersburg	12 15 11 23 7 48 7 38 2 28 7 58 1 58	Millersburg
Benton	12 30 11 38 8 03 7 53 2 43 8 13 2 13	Benton
Hanna	12 45 11 53 8 18 8 08 2 58 8 28 2 28	Hanna
Hanna	13 00 12 08 8 33 8 23 3 13 8 43 2 43	Hanna
Davis	13 05 12 13 8 38 8 28 3 18 8 48 2 48	Davis
Hanna	13 10 12 18 8 43 8 33 3 23 8 53 2 53	Hanna
Wanatah	13 15 12 23 8 48 8 38 3 28 8 58 2 58	Wanatah
Valparaiso	13 30 12 38 9 03 8 53 3 43 9 13 3 13	Valparaiso
Chicago	14 48 1 56 10 21 10 11 5 01 10 31 4 31	Chicago

Eastward—Leave Chicago 8:15 a. m., 7:25 p. m., 3:50 p. m., 3:40 p. m., 10:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., 10:00 p. m. Arrive Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m.

Westward—Leave Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m. Arrive Chicago 2:48 a. m., 1:56 p. m., 10:21 p. m., 10:11 p. m., 5:01 p. m., 10:31 p. m., 4:31 a. m.

Fast Line leaves Pittsburg 8:00 a. m. Arrives Chicago 10:21 p. m. Daily except Sunday. Day Express 12:10 noon. Daily except Sunday. Pacific Express 4:30 a. m. Daily except Sunday.

Dining cars between Jersey City and Pittsburg. Meals (a la carte) in Dining Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Through Sleeping Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Parlor Cars on Day Express between Pittsburg and Chicago.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, sleeping car berths, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

J. P. TOWER, General Agent. E. A. FORD, Gen. Passenger Agent.

5-23-99-F PITTSBURG, PENN'A.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastward Leave.	All Nickel Plate Dining Cars.	Westward Leave.
Chicago	8 15 7 25 3 50 3 40 10 30 4 00 10 00	Chicago
Valparaiso	9 33 8 43 5 08 4 58 11 48 5 18 11 18	Valparaiso
Wanatah	9 50 8 58 5 23 5 13 12 03 5 33 11 33	Wanatah
Kouts	4 16	Kouts
Hanna	10 05 9 13 5 38 5 28 12 18 5 48 11 48	Hanna
Rolland	10 15 9 23 5 48 5 38 12 28 5 58 11 58	Rolland
Argos	10 30 9 38 6 03 5 53 12 43 6 13 12 13	Argos
Plymouth	10 55 10 03 6 28 6 18 1 08 6 38 12 38	Plymouth
Bourbon	11 15 10 23 6 48 6 38 1 28 6 58 12 58	Bourbon
Elkhart	11 30 10 38 7 03 6 53 1 43 7 13 1 13	Elkhart
Wakarusa	11 45 10 53 7 18 7 08 1 58 7 28 1 28	Wakarusa
Goshen	12 00 11 08 7 33 7 23 2 13 7 43 1 43	Goshen
Millersburg	12 15 11 23 7 48 7 38 2 28 7 58 1 58	Millersburg
Benton	12 30 11 38 8 03 7 53 2 43 8 13 2 13	Benton
Hanna	12 45 11 53 8 18 8 08 2 58 8 28 2 28	Hanna
Hanna	13 00 12 08 8 33 8 23 3 13 8 43 2 43	Hanna
Davis	13 05 12 13 8 38 8 28 3 18 8 48 2 48	Davis
Hanna	13 10 12 18 8 43 8 33 3 23 8 53 2 53	Hanna
Wanatah	13 15 12 23 8 48 8 38 3 28 8 58 2 58	Wanatah
Valparaiso	13 30 12 38 9 03 8 53 3 43 9 13 3 13	Valparaiso
Chicago	14 48 1 56 10 21 10 11 5 01 10 31 4 31	Chicago

Eastward—Leave Chicago 8:15 a. m., 7:25 p. m., 3:50 p. m., 3:40 p. m., 10:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., 10:00 p. m. Arrive Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m.

Westward—Leave Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m. Arrive Chicago 2:48 a. m., 1:56 p. m., 10:21 p. m., 10:11 p. m., 5:01 p. m., 10:31 p. m., 4:31 a. m.

Fast Line leaves Pittsburg 8:00 a. m. Arrives Chicago 10:21 p. m. Daily except Sunday. Day Express 12:10 noon. Daily except Sunday. Pacific Express 4:30 a. m. Daily except Sunday.

Dining cars between Jersey City and Pittsburg. Meals (a la carte) in Dining Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Through Sleeping Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Parlor Cars on Day Express between Pittsburg and Chicago.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, sleeping car berths, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

J. P. TOWER, General Agent. E. A. FORD, Gen. Passenger Agent.

5-23-99-F PITTSBURG, PENN'A.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastward Leave.	All Nickel Plate Dining Cars.	Westward Leave.
Chicago	8 15 7 25 3 50 3 40 10 30 4 00 10 00	Chicago
Valparaiso	9 33 8 43 5 08 4 58 11 48 5 18 11 18	Valparaiso
Wanatah	9 50 8 58 5 23 5 13 12 03 5 33 11 33	Wanatah
Kouts	4 16	Kouts
Hanna	10 05 9 13 5 38 5 28 12 18 5 48 11 48	Hanna
Rolland	10 15 9 23 5 48 5 38 12 28 5 58 11 58	Rolland
Argos	10 30 9 38 6 03 5 53 12 43 6 13 12 13	Argos
Plymouth	10 55 10 03 6 28 6 18 1 08 6 38 12 38	Plymouth
Bourbon	11 15 10 23 6 48 6 38 1 28 6 58 12 58	Bourbon
Elkhart	11 30 10 38 7 03 6 53 1 43 7 13 1 13	Elkhart
Wakarusa	11 45 10 53 7 18 7 08 1 58 7 28 1 28	Wakarusa
Goshen	12 00 11 08 7 33 7 23 2 13 7 43 1 43	Goshen
Millersburg	12 15 11 23 7 48 7 38 2 28 7 58 1 58	Millersburg
Benton	12 30 11 38 8 03 7 53 2 43 8 13 2 13	Benton
Hanna	12 45 11 53 8 18 8 08 2 58 8 28 2 28	Hanna
Hanna	13 00 12 08 8 33 8 23 3 13 8 43 2 43	Hanna
Davis	13 05 12 13 8 38 8 28 3 18 8 48 2 48	Davis
Hanna	13 10 12 18 8 43 8 33 3 23 8 53 2 53	Hanna
Wanatah	13 15 12 23 8 48 8 38 3 28 8 58 2 58	Wanatah
Valparaiso	13 30 12 38 9 03 8 53 3 43 9 13 3 13	Valparaiso
Chicago	14 48 1 56 10 21 10 11 5 01 10 31 4 31	Chicago

Eastward—Leave Chicago 8:15 a. m., 7:25 p. m., 3:50 p. m., 3:40 p. m., 10:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., 10:00 p. m. Arrive Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m.

Westward—Leave Pittsburg 1:30 p. m., 3:00 p. m., 7:50 p. m., 8:00 a. m., 12:10 p. m., 4:30 a. m., 8:00 p. m. Arrive Chicago 2:48 a. m., 1:56 p. m., 10:21 p. m., 10:11 p. m., 5:01 p. m., 10:31 p. m., 4:31 a. m.

Fast Line leaves Pittsburg 8:00 a. m. Arrives Chicago 10:21 p. m. Daily except Sunday. Day Express 12:10 noon. Daily except Sunday. Pacific Express 4:30 a. m. Daily except Sunday.

Dining cars between Jersey City and Pittsburg. Meals (a la carte) in Dining Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Through Sleeping Cars between Pittsburg and Chicago.

Parlor Cars on Day Express between Pittsburg and Chicago.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, sleeping car berths, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

J. P. TOWER, General Agent. E. A. FORD, Gen. Passenger Agent.

5-23-99-F PITTSBURG, PENN'A.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN

(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50TH YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A new, be

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Our One Life.

'Tis not for us to trifle! life is brief,
And sin is here.
Our age is but the falling of a leaf—
A dropping tear.
We have no time to sport among the hours,
Life must be earnest in this work of ours.

You do not many lives, but one have we—
One, only one—
How sacred should that life ever be
That narrow span
Day after day filled up with blessed toil,
Hour after hour still bringing in new spoil.

O, day of time, how dark! O, sky and earth,
How dull your hue!
O, day of God, how bright, O sky and earth
Made fair and new!
Come, better Eden with thy freshness now;
Come, brighter Sabbath, gladden all the world.

Communicated.

What would Jesus do? No. 10.

PINE WOODS BIBLE CLASS.

Teacher. We have this week a copy of Mr Williams' confession of faith, which he has prepared to submit to the Church of God at Rainesville.

Miss Gordon met him according to previous appointment, to listen to his paper, which reads as follows:

CONFESSION OF FAITH.

To the Church of God at Rainesville:

1. I confess my faith in the Supreme Being. The Scriptures teach us that he which cometh to God must believe that HE IS, and also that he is the rewarder of those who diligently seek him. I apprehend that this is the foundation rock in the temple of faith. Disbelief in the Creator would undermine every other article in the Christian faith.

2. Observation teaches us all, that sooner or later death lays his icy hand upon us, and brings us into a condition which baffles the power and skill of man to release his fellows from its demain.

3. I believe the Bible to be the revealed will of God to man. In that alone, I find the Divine purpose concerning man and earth.

4. I find salvation from death offered in a proposition called "the gospel." Paul, a chosen Apostle of Jesus Christ says in Rom. i. 15, 16: "I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also. For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth: to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

Jesus said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be damned." Mark xvi. 15, 16. These two heralds of the gospel, in the above passages, simply state the saving efficacy of the gospel, but do not give the system of truth which constitute the gospel; but that we find elsewhere.

(1.) From the above passage we learn that Paul preached, the gospel which was the "power of God unto salvation" at Rome. The proper thing to do then, to learn the subject-matter of his preaching at Rome, concerning "the salvation of God," would be to appeal to that, and then we can be sure that we have made no mistake. We find this in Acts xxviii. 20-30. He appeared before his auditors at Rome, as a prisoner, and says: "For the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain." In another place he declared "the hope of Israel," to be "the hope of the promise made of God unto the fathers." "There come many to him into his lodging to whom he expounded and testified THE KINGDOM OF GOD, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening."

"Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him, preaching THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and teaching those things which concern the LORD JESUS CHRIST." Thus was Paul's gospel preaching at ROME of which he was "not ashamed." The "power of God unto salvation," was in it also. A denfear being turned to his preaching he said: "Be it known unto you that THE SALVATION OF GOD ("the power of God unto salvation") is sent unto the Gentiles, and they will hear it."

It may be asked why did the Israelites object to Paul's preaching "the kingdom of God," or in other words "the hope of Israel?"

The objection was not in preaching "the hope of Israel." as can be seen in Acts xxvi. 6, 7: "I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers: unto which our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night, hope to come." The trouble was all found in the phrase: "Pereunding them concerning JESUS, both out of the law of Moses and out of the prophets." They were aware the prophet had declared: "But thou Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, art not the least among the princes of Judah; for out of thee shall come a GOVERNOR, that shall RULE MY PEOPLE ISRAEL." They objected to Jesus as being that "Governor," and hence they crucified him, with the accusation over his head, "this is JESUS OF NAZARETH, THE KING OF THE JEWS." Hence Paul's preaching at Rome, was the gospel of the kingdom of God.

(2) What did Jesus preach as the gospel? Mark i. 14, records the subject matter of the gospel (or "Word") first sent to Israel, and which Peter, under instruction from heaven gave to the Gentile household of Cornelius as, "Words whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved." The record reads as follows: "Now, after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD."

The writer of the Hebrews was deeply impressed with the saving virtue of the gospel as preached by Jesus, as can be seen by referring to Heb ii. 1-4:

"HOW SHALL WE ESCAPE
if we neglect so great salvation; which AT FIRST began to be SPOKEN BY THE LORD, and was confirmed unto us BY THEM that HEARD HIM."

Peter testifies on the same line, and says God sent this message, first to Israel, and afterward commanded it to be sent to the Gentiles, that they also may enjoy its saving benefits. Peter addressing Cornelius and household concerning that message says: "The Word which God sent unto

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL, preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (he is Lord of all:) that word ye know, which was published throughout Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached."

In Luke ix. 2, 6, we have Jesus' commission to the twelve: "He called his twelve disciples together and * * * sent them to preach THE KINGDOM OF GOD. And they departed and went through the towns preaching the GOSPEL." Here we learn that preaching "the kingdom of God," and preaching "the gospel," is one and the same thing. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that BELIEVETH and is BAPTIZED shall be SAVED." What gospel? The gospel he sent them to preach, of course. The Bible never recognized but ONE gospel, and such being the case he advised stability in its belief. "To present you holy and unreprovable in his sight: if ye CONTINUE IN THE FAITH, grounded and settled, and be not moved away from THE HOPE OF THE GOSPEL, which ye have heard." Col. i. 23. Hence, we are at no loss to know what the subject-matter of the gospel is, Paul preached at Rome, of which he was "not ashamed," nor Christ's commission in Mark xvi. 15, 16.

All the gospel preaching has its base in "the covenants of promise made of God unto the fathers." It is the only gospel that has saving virtue in it. Don't take my say-so, but read it yourself in Eph. ii. 12: "Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, * * * that at that time, ye were WITHOUT CHRIST, being ALIENS from the COMMONWEALTH of ISRAEL, and STRANGERS FROM THE COVENANTS OF PROMISE, having NO HOPE, and WITHOUT GOD in the world." I believe we are completely mortal by nature. In 2 Tim. i. 10. we are told that Christ has brought life and immortality to light THROUGH THE GOSPEL. How important the gospel message is.

Allied with, and inseparable from the message of the kingdom, are those things concerning the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. [illegible] the "EVERLASTING COVENANT," and made it sure, and purchased eternal redemption for those who enter into the bonds of the covenant.

Heb. xiii. 20, 21: "Now the God of peace that brought again from the dead, our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the BLOOD of the EVERLASTING COVENANT, (God made with Abraham and his seed an everlasting covenant) make you perfect in every good work," etc.

THE MISSION OF JESUS.

I find SIN is the adversary or opponent separating mankind from God, which adversary must be met, overcome and destroyed.

I find the Son of God was manifested or sent for that purpose. I will here quote as proof, 1 John iii. 8; Heb. ii. 14: "For THIS PURPOSE the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil."

"Forasmuch, then, as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he (Jesus), also himself took part of the same, that THROUGH DEATH he might DESTROY him that had THE POWER OF DEATH, that is the devil." We have here three points:

1. To destroy the works of the devil.
2. To destroy the devil.
3. The weapon of destruction "through death,"—the atonement, when allied with the covenants of promise.

Now, inasmuch as many people when they read the words, "the devil," their minds at once revert to a supposed personality which they call "the devil," which is but a relic, to my mind of pagan superstition; therefore, to show clearer my conception of the mission of Jesus, I wish to show that Jesus came to destroy SIN and not an omnipotent personal devil, possessing super-natural power. Right here you will perceive an issue can be made in our knowledge of the mission of Jesus.

It must certainly be conceded that the atonement of Jesus can never KILL or (take the physical life) of the devil of popular conception, who is described as the great arch-enemy and opponent of God who is ever on the alert to defeat his will and purpose. It is not reasonable to suppose that the All Powerful Jehovah, the Great I AM, would permit such a foe to step in between him and his people, and work their eternal ruin. The power ascribed to this supposed evil personality, makes him a species of a god. He is said to be omnipresent, and possessed of supernatural power. He is said to be able to practice his seductive art in the hearts of millions of people in every part of the earth, all at the same moment, and at the same time have a personal knowledge of the weak points in each individual of this vast host, and can plan and operate differently in each case.

The belief in such a personality is a belief in a monstrous piece of pagan fiction, and is not the devil named in the passages of Scripture above quoted. A little careful investigation of the Scriptures quoted, will make this apparent to the most simple mind.

It will be helpful to remember what the words devil and Satan mean. Cruden says: "Satan, Sathan, Sathanos; this is a mere Hebrew word, and signifies an adversary, an enemy, an accuser."

The word devil "Comes from the Greek diabolos, which signifies calumniator, or accuser," thus any adversary, accuser, etc., may be a devil. The adversary called "the devil," in the passages under consideration is SIN, and sin in the flesh, above all other adversaries, may in a general term be called "THE devil."

We are at no loss to comprehend who "the devil" was Jesus was commissioned to destroy as given in Heb. ii. 14. The key is found in the words: "THAT HAD THE POWER OF DEATH." "The power of death" is centered in only one adversary, or devil. For proof,

See Rom. v. 12: "By one man SIN entered into the world, and DEATH BY SIN," [illegible] life and immortality [illegible] true gospel.

[illegible] 1 Cor. xv. 56: "The STING OF DEATH is SIN."

Rom. vi. 23: "The wages of SIN is DEATH."

"The soul that SINNETH it shall DIE."

HOW TO KILL THE SIN-DEVIL.

Heb. ix. 26: "He PUT AWAY SIN by the SACRIFICE of himself."

1 John iii. 5: "He was MANIFESTED TO TAKE AWAY OUR SINS."

Heb. ii. 14: "That THROUGH DEATH he might DESTROY him that had the POWER OF DEATH,—that is the devil."

Take notice, that the phrase: "That is the devil" may be taken as a phrase defining the words preceding it, him that had the power of death, as being "the devil"—that is the devil.

Said John: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

In the case of Ananias and Sapphira, we have the sin, or devil of covetousness, personified as Satan.

Acts v. 3: "Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart with a lie to the Holy Spirit, and to keep back part of the price of the land?"

At first sight we might attribute this work to the personal devil of pagan superstition, but the verse following explains. (It would have been a mean thing to kill them both on account of the work of the supernatural devil over which they had no power.) reader, what [illegible] "Why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart," etc.? Again: "How is it that ye have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord?"

James i. 14, 15: "Every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, (not tempted by a personal devil) and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin, when it (sin) is finished bringeth forth death." We cease to be servants of sin, and pass from under the dominion of sin, when we receive the pardon of sin in baptism.

"Repent and be baptized, every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Acts ii 38.

"And now why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Acts xxii. 16. After Peter had preached the gospel which began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached, to Cornelius and household he said: "Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord."

"Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God." John iii. 5.

I confess that it is my earnest desire to enter the kingdom of God. I believe [illegible] gospel which is the power of God unto salvation," as given above, and ask for the birth of water, and if I continue faithful, I know I shall be born of the Spirit, when made like my Lord at the resurrection.

Yours in hope,
CHAS. WILLIAMS.

Mr. Williams. Now Miss Gordon, what do you think of the above paper?

Miss Gordon. I am delighted, I feel sure the Church will endorse it.

Mr. Williams. You please take it and present it to the Church.

W. H. WILSON.

"I know that my Redeemer liveth."—Job xix. 25. "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again, unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."—1 Pet. i. 3.

If we take care to keep a good conscience, we may trust God to take care of our good name.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, NOVEMBER 1, 1899. NUMBER 41.

Report.

Dear Household of Faith:

I am home again after visiting and holding meeting with the brothers and sisters at Bosworth, Mo. It had been about seventeen months since they had had any preaching. Oh, what a condition for a church to be in. I find a number of other churches in the same condition. No preaching, [illegible] low tide. THE RESTITUTION, or any religious paper at all. They might get along with these silent preachers for three or four months but not so long as seventeen months. We gave five discourses at this place and immersed two intelligent sisters. On account of school we had to move four miles northeast, where we gave three discourses. We partook of the emblems of bread and wine and then left. We left an appointment for Dec. 24th, to continue to the 1st of January. All that can are invited to attend this meeting.

I can truthfully say that the Lord was with us, all seemed loathe to leave, and seemed to say it was good to be there, and I believe all will try to live better the coming year. 1899 will soon be past, and oh, how many of our brothers and sisters are gone.

On Oct. 15th met at the home of our dear Sister Sturgeon, but alas she was not there. She had gone to her long home, the place or house that Job said, "If I wait the grave is my house." The occasion was the wedding of J. T. Williford and Francis Sturgeon. After reading the 5th chapter of Eph., we joined them in holy matrimony. Sister Francis is a faithful member of the Church of God, and my prayer is her husband will also be in the near future.

While here we met Sister Hacker, formerly of Ripley, Ill.

[illegible]

Editor Restitution:

On Friday, Oct. 13, Brother S. J. Lindsay immersed Brother Thomas J. Tilton into the name of Christ, for the remission of sins. But a few weeks previous Brother Hudler immersed two others. Very shortly after leaving the water Brother Tilton regretted not having obeyed, but resolved to do so soon. It was only a very few days thereafter when a malady of a very serious matter (Cancer of the stomach) was known to be consuming his strength and vitality, and being anxious to have a part in the promised inheritance, resolved to obey the Master's call at once. He therefore dispatched a messenger for Brother Lindsay, who being away did not arrive until the second day. While the medical adviser was somewhat fearful of the results, yet he said he was not alarmed and desired to be taken to the water and be buried with his Master in baptism. Twenty-five or thirty friends and relatives went with him to a little stream of water flowing through his land, and there he exchanged the old for the new name. Cast off the old garment of sin for the robe of righteousness, in which we truly hope he, with us, may appear when the Great Physician shall come to rescue his faithful from the ravages of disease, the bonds of corruption and the gloom of death.

L. BOOTH.

Selections.

Faint Not.

"If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small." Yet there are many things which would often cause the hearts of men to faint. Things are so disappointing and discouraging, that they are almost ready to give way to despondency, and abandon their efforts for good. Hindrances arise, friends prove unfaithful, trusted leaders fall, cherished organizations are wrecked, things which were expected do not come, many a hopeful scheme proves to be ruinous and disastrous, and the temptation is to abandon every thing, to trust nobody, and to give up in despair.

This course is not the part of wisdom, nor is it warranted by the experience of ages and generations. Disappointment is the common lot of man; failure is no new thing. Age after age hopes have been blighted, plans have failed, mortals have erred, and men have been disappointed. Everything earthly is uncertain, everything human is fallible, everything temporal is liable to pass away. But there are some things permanent yet. Men may disappoint us, God does not; men may change, but in him there is no variableness or shadow of turning. Our purposes may end in disappointment, but his better purposes may be carried forward to their triumphant accomplishment.

Even the wreck and ruin of our hope is not so disastrous as we fear. When was there ever a more complete and utter wreck of hope than when our Savior lay in the tomb? One trusted disciple, the treasurer, the almoner, the business man of the concern, had turned out to be a hypocrite, a thief and a traitor. Another, the leading spokesman of the party, proved himself a coward and a liar, and swore he did not know the Master whom he had followed for years. All the rest of his disciples forsook him and fled, like frightened sheep before the wolf; and the leader and teacher who had been hailed with shouts and hosannas, was hung between two thieves on a Roman cross. Surely a more absolute and utter failure of every cherished prospect could hardly be imagined; and yet, out of those depths of darkness and discouragement came the light and gladness of immortal hope. A little while and those scattered disciples were gathered; a little while, and those sad hearts were made glad; a little while, and that frightened, doubting, fearing company became bold as lions in their testimony for God and proclaimed in the very city where [illegible] world the resurrection of the Crucified One and salvation through his name. Out of the depths of their despondency was born the height of their triumphant hope, and those who doubted and feared and gave way to discouragement, could say, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

You may have been disappointed in many things; hopes which you have cherished have failed, friends which you trusted have proved untrue; schemes from which you expected much have proved abortive, and have finally given way to despondency and despair. But do not for a moment allow such feelings to possess your thoughts or influence your mind. You may have been on the wrong track; there is nothing then to do but get right, and you may be thankful that you know it so soon, and that you have been undeceived before it is too late. For past disappointments make you more cautious and prudent. But do not despond, and do not doubt that God has plans and purposes that are wiser than all which you have known, and that he can bring good out of evil; can overturn the plots and plans of sinful men; can bring to naught the craftiest schemes, and can glorify himself by the wreck of all the plans which we have formed, and the accomplishment of the better purposes which he in his wisdom has devised. A temporary check leads us to more certain success. Schooled by disappointment, we dig deeper, and lay broader foundations, and complete our work triumphantly at last.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." Let no discouragement or failure hinder you from doing the present work which God has for you. Today has its duties. Let us not stop to mourn over the past, but let us gird ourselves for present emergencies, and go forward in the strength of the Lord God.

Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance. Remember you get all the balance of 1899 free.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, NOV. 1, 1899.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Stockholders of the Christian Publishing Association will be held at the office of THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind. on Nov. 18, 1899 at 2:00 P. M. for the election of a Board of Directors and to transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

J. H. WILLEY, Pres.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Sec'y.

In this paper is a report of a meeting held by Bro. Butler at Freeburn, Neb. Inasmuch as this is the second report of this meeting, we deem it unnecessary to print the two more reports that have been received, as they only repeat what is in the others.

If you want to keep your heart warm keep in the Sun after you get into him—Christ. Walk up to the fire,—that is, the Word of God. "Is not my Word like fire?" How many warning and comforting passages there are. Keep in motion and action, stirring up yourselves and the gifts God has given you, by converse and communion. How can one be warm alone?

READER, did you ever notice that the apostolic style of address was:—"Children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you that fear eth God, to you is the Word of salvation sent." Plainly a man's piety did not exempt him from the necessity of believing the gospel of the kingdom of God: or as Paul styles it, "the Word of this salvation." Peter went to Caesarea to tell pious, God-fearing people, "Words whereby they should be saved." Piety in general has so little to do with an understanding of the Word of the kingdom and the obedience it enjoins, that it has passed into a proverb, that "ignorance is the mother of devotion."

FOR E. N. D. If you read Matt. xv. 13 without the 12 preceding verses you are likely to be "puzzled" to harmonize it with Mark ix. 38.—40. By reading from the first verse of Matt. xv. you will perceive that the pernicious teachings of the Pharisees so scathingly rebuked by our Lord were the plant the Heavenly Father did not plant, and which shall be rooted up,—and that they were to let alone; because of its human origin.

Mark ix. 38—40 reads as follows:—"And John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us." This was precisely what Jesus' disciples were told to do, and did do, by the Spirit's power. John proves that he really cast out devils in Jesus' name, as they did; and that means that it was by spirit power he did it; and it would have been a great wonder if Jesus had not corrected John and his fellows for forbidding him. This is not out of harmony with Matt. xv. 13, it being another matter entirely.

"Dr." John Alexander Dowie is having a tough time of it, and if "persecution" is a sign of "sainthood" then certainly Mr. Dowie has the palm. He has undertaken a series of meetings in different parts of Chicago and towns in that vicinity, but even with the aid of the police and his "Zion Guards," he has been interrupted and the meetings broken up by loud shouts from his audience. Bottles of foul smelling drugs have been spilled on the floors, and when he has left the halls stones and dirt have been thrown on him, obliging him at one place to run a half mile through the muddy street to a car, where the windows were broken and a general smash up was the result before he was finally gotten away. Of course, there is no excuse sufficient to justify such conduct, but it shows the humor of the people. The Illinois State Board of Health is now investigating some cases of diptheria and scarlet fever which are said to have occurred among the followers of Dowie, and where children have died without medical treatment. If this man is a "Divine Healer" it looks as if he should also be able to arrest the contagion arising from contact with these diseases, and so prevent its spreading among others.

CARDINAL Ledochowski, Prefect of the Propaganda at Rome, to whom belongs the final settlement of all Roman ecclesiastical controversies arising between the people and Bishops, has decided the trouble that arose at Belleville, Ill., over the appointment of a German priest to have charge of an Irish Catholic Church, in favor of the people, and he has ordered the Bishop to remove the obnoxious priest and give them a man of their own choice. Further he has ordered that the ban of excommunication resting on these people be removed. There is no appeal from this ruling. This means that the members of the Catholic Church in America can in the future ask for the appointment of such priests as they may chose, and the Bishops must not decide contrary to these reasonable requests.

THE Chronicle says there is a touching fact related in history of a Scottish chief, who fell wounded by two balls in a battle. Seeing their chief fall the clan wavered, and gave the enemy an advantage. The old chieftain, beholding the effect of the disaster, raised himself up while the blood flowed from his wounds, and shouted aloud, "I am not dead my children, I am looking at you to see you do your duty."

These words revived the sinking courage of his brave Highlanders. There was a charm in the fact that they still fought under the eye of their chief. It roused them to put forth their mightiest energies, and they did all that human strength could do to turn and stem the tide of battle.

And is there not a charm to thee, O believer, in the fact that you contend in the battle-field of life under the eye of your Savior? Wherever you are, however you are oppressed by foes,—however exhausted by the stern strife with evil, the eye of Christ is fixed most lovingly upon you. No is Jesus the only observer of your conduct. You are also a spectacle unto the angels." "You are compassed about with a crowd of witnesses. This makes the theatre of your life sublime. You contend for victory under circumstances sufficiently grand to arouse your most intent power, and to stimulate you to strive bravely, vigorously and perseveringly even unto victory.

The Twenty-Third Psalm.

The following notes on the Twenty-third Psalm are now going the rounds of the Press and may be helpful to some of our readers, and therefore give them a place:—

"You will notice David does not say, "I shall not need." He used a far better word—want. We often want things we do not need, but the more we come to understand that the Lord is our Shepherd, the more our wants and needs become identical, and we can say, as David said, "I shall not want." If this Twenty-third Psalm be the valley of our present-day experience then we shall want nothing he does not supply.

"I shall not want rest. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures."

"I shall not want drink. He leadeth me beside the still waters."

"I shall not want forgiveness. He restoreth my soul."

"I shall not want guidance. He guideth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake."

"I shall not want companionship. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me."

"I shall not want comfort. Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

"I shall not want food. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of my enemies."

"I shall not want joy. Thou hast anointed my head with oil."

"I shall not want anything. My cup runneth over."

"I shall not want anything in this life. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life."

"I shall not want anything in eternity. For I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

The South African War.

The situation in Africa is one of plotting and waiting. The Boers are concentrating their forces and looking for a favorable time to strike, realizing full well that they must be quick about it. The British are aware that their forces are not sufficient to cope with the combined forces of the Boers and Free State Burgers, and so are playing for delay of any decisive battles until they are reinforced by the aid that is on the way to them. How long this state can be maintained is a question. The odds at present are against the English.

The question of probable interference by other powers is presented. That there is a movement in Europe to antagonize England, and see that she does not gain too much advantage in this struggle is certain. Whether it will develop into any tangible form is a question. It is quite evident that President Kruger expects some assistance either by way of attracting England to other parts of the world, or else in a direct way by open antagonism. His action in taking the aggressive when he did would indicate an understanding of this kind. We are asked if there is any real reason for belief that any European nations contemplate hostile action against England. So far as this is concerned we will state that Russia and France are both hostile to England all the time, and only await a chance to do her ill. Have they done anything lately to indicate that they were contemplating any active measure? The movement, without any apparent reason, of the Russian and French Black and Mediterranean Sea fleets, to such points that a combining of the whole in one is a question of only a few days, is certainly cause to suspect something. In the official papers of both nations the question of "arbitration" is freely discussed.

England has taken note of this with the result that the Mediterranean and Channel squadrons already join around Gibraltar, and other vessels are in place where the Channel fleet was doing duty. This aggregation of British vessels in the Mediterranean makes a stronger line of ships than any nation in the world aside from England can make, comprising as it does 156 vessels of the first class. Further the calling out of the Militia in England is an act not warranted by the simple trouble in South Africa. So that whether we can explain it or not, certain it is that England scents trouble, and is bound to be in a position to care for herself.

Meanwhile Russia has in hand a side play in the lately discovered plot to seize on Herat in Afghanistan, and thereby check English influence in Persia. This may call for some sharp negotiations.

Again the question is asked, what right has England to engage in this war? And why do the nations of Europe, and our own too, hesitate to tell her she is wrong and must stop? This is a large question to answer, and involves questions of international law. Many men and a good [illegible] newspaper writers in this country are fast to denounce England for fighting the Boers, claiming that they are being trodden under foot by the British, are warring for independence, for freedom, are being oppressed, and like expressions. That they are being treated as were the Cubans by Spain, and that if it was right for our country to interfere for Cuba it is just as right to interfere for the Boers. Our readers may give just as much weight to these utterances as they please. We have no wish to prejudice the minds of any, but to state the case.

During the Spanish-Cuban war no nation recognized the "belligerent rights" of Cuba, because Cuba was recognized as belonging to Spain, and to do so would be an "unfriendly act." When at last the United States did so recognize the "independence" of Cuba, she was forced to fight Spain. Incidentally the blowing up of the Maine hastened the beginning of hostilities, but primarily the recognition of Cuban independence caused our war with Spain.

But, says one, is not the "Dutch Republic" with President Kruger at its head independent? Well, the Burgers of the "Orange Free State" have thought so, and taken arms to help them. However, so far no other nation has so said, nor even [illegible] "declaration of neutrality" [illegible] sufficient evidence that the [illegible] Republic" is so only in name. The whole question from which the war came was over rights of British subjects, and the fact of the then existing compact between the Cape Colony government and the Transvaal being broken by the Boers, settles the matter as to recognized British suzerainty.

It must be plain then to all that a "declaration of neutrality" between Great Britain and the Transvaal, or a "recognition of belligerent rights" of the Boers, would be an unfriendly act toward England. This sort of action would mean that in the judgment of the nation so declaring, the Boer contention they are absolutely independent, is correct, and no power has appeared who will take this step. Should any nation desire to take action the polite way would be to offer Mediation. The sterner way would be to address a note of interrogation to Britain asking for her ultimate designs in South Africa. Following this would be armed intervention, or the matter would be allowed to linger and nothing be done about it.

When Greece and Turkey were at war the nations of Europe combined and recognized the independence of Greece, then interfered to prevent her absorbtion by Turkey. This was done to maintain the "balance of power."

Should the European nations now combine and declare neutrality it would be only to accuse England of attempting to conquer an independent nation, and intervention would not only be probable but necessary, in order to maintain the international balance. When the United States and Spain were at war some European nations talked of interference and at one time it came near being more than "talk" alone. There is no doubt but what there would have been interference had it not been for England. Only the fact that previous to that time our nation had never been reckoned among the "world powers," made it possible for English influence to hold in check her sister nations, and let us go on and thrash Spain till she could stand no more.

England however, is in a different position, and only by trenting the Boers as under British restraint, from which they have revolted, can she hope to escape interruption. This must be maintained at all hazards. Should the British be successful in the next few days, and the Boers lose ground, then if President Kruger should ask Russia or France, or both to arbitrate the differences, and they should attempt to do so, they will find England in no humor to look kindly on such an act. Should Russia and France be involved in a war with England there would be a re-adjustment of the present condition of Europe if England should gain the ascendancy, and in case of her defeat almost every quarter of the globe would be affected.

A dispatch from Constantinople says that Russia intends at an early date to hand the Porte a note demanding the opening of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus. Commenting on this the Journal of Geneva says, "Unless Great Britain is a party to such a demand Russia's action will undoubtedly stir up a hornet's nest, compared with which the Transvaal question will be quite insignificant."

In view of passing events and possible events we are admonished to watch closely, remembering ever that they but tend to the great change that will occur when the King of Peace shall come.

Aaron and Christ.

Continuing this subject we would remind our readers that the baptism of Jesus, sinless as he was, was necessary to his redemption from death. This may be a startling statement to some perhaps: but we are so fully persuaded of its truth that we expect the honest of heart, who give it the attention it deserves, will agree with it. Hebrews ix. 12, plainly teaches that he obtained eternal redemption himself. Before he obtained it, he needed it. This completely shuts out the theory of his having, because of his sinlessness, a free life to give up in behalf of others. Sinless as he was, he was subject to the law of sin and death because of his connection with the earthly Adam who sinned and introduced death. Possibly, and even probably, those who have not the means of knowing that there is absolutely nothing in the Greek text to warrant the insertion of the words "FOR US," in Heb. ix. 12, may think we are out of the way when we say that Christ himself obtained Eternal Redemption through or by means of his own blood. The Diaglott reading is as follows;—"He entered once for all into the Holy Places. Not indeed by means of the blood of goats and of bullocks, by means of his own blood, having found Aionian Redemption." It stops where the Greek text stops,—and to us that appears the only proper place to stop. The recently published "Interlinear," reads just as the Diaglott—having found. Young's Translation reads:—"Age-during Redemption having obtained." Rotherham,—"An Age-Abiding redemption discovering." The Revised Version also stops at the word Redemption. Sawyer's Translation reads,—"With his own blood entered once into the sanctuary having found Eternal Redemption." The Syriac reads,—"He entered once into the sanctuary, and obtained Eternal Redemption." Jamieson, Fausette and Brown translates the passage thus:—"Having thereby obtained;" and says literally, it means "found for himself." The American Bible Union reads,—"But through his own blood, entered once for all into the holy places obtaining eternal Redemption." Henderson's also ends at the word Redemption. And lastly the Common Version prints the words "for us," in italics to show that they were supplied by the translators.

We do not see how any one can fail to see from the above, that all in Adamic nature of existence are under the law of sin and death,—and that this shows the meaning of the Scripture which says Christ was made sin for us. Heb. xiii. 20 already quoted, proves that Christ was redeemed from death by his own precious blood, which brought into force the great Life-giving covenant made to Abraham and confirmed to Jacob for a sign. And as he himself certainly received the benefit of his own precious blood, what a stupendous error to teach that he possessed free life, and offered it substantially for the natural life of the human race. Heb. xiii. 20 strikes at the root of this idea. To make his death substitutionary in the above sense, is simply to make him a Savior of others before he himself was raised from the dead,—and to credit him with paying the debt of myriads of others with something he did not have himself. This reduces the redemption which is in Christ Jesus to those who comply with the conditions exacted by our Lord himself: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be condemned." Illustrating that other divine statement, that the way to life is narrow, and but few find it.

Again, if Christ died instead of myriads of others, then they should not die, but they do die. If he paid the penalty due us from Adamic sin, he ought not to have risen. But he did rise. If his death alone was substitutionary, then Paul was all astray when he said, "If Christ be not raised then those having fallen asleep in Christ have perished," to say nothing of other countless millions. In a word, if Christ paid our debts, that blots out Forgiveness.

Jesus in the likeness of the sinful flesh in which it was the Father's purpose to condemn it, after awhile, came to John as the sum of consecration, Ex. xxix. 22, 17 to be washed according to the law. For 30 years he had maintained a spotless character and it was this that was granted to him for repentance in fulfilling all the righteousness of the law by baptism, which of course was only typical of the robe of righteousness with which he must be clothed before he could enter the Most Holy Place as High Priest after the order of Melchizedec. Although he had lived without sin so long he does not seem to have been recognized by the Father till he put on the antetype of Aaron's holy garments,—and he could only put it on by washing his flesh in water. If he had heeded John's remonstrance Jesus would have said before his people as the High Priest, claiming to officiate in the Most Holy Place without baptism.

It is worthy of note that the symbolic right-consness of the Mosaic law not only required the High Priest to put on the holy garments after baptism: but it also commanded his household to be baptized. It reads as follows in Lev. viii. 5, 6, 13; xvi. 4. "This is the thing Jehovah commanded to be done: And Moses brought Aaron and his sons and washed them with water. And he put upon Aaron the coat, etc., and he put coats upon his sons, and girded them with girdles, and put turbans upon them as Jehovah commanded." So we see that John the immersed did for Jesus what Moses did for Aaron and his sons.

Jesus has a household as well as Aaron; and we are apostolically told that Christ is a Son over his own house, whose house we are, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end. Heb. iii. 5, 14. We also find Jesus saying "Thus it becometh US to fulfill all righteousness," making it necessary for all his house to do as he did, with this difference, that his holiness was his own, while they must be baptized into his through faith and obedience. Jesus and his household are the future kings and priests to rule Israel and the nations. The law and the prophets which attest the righteousness of God required them all to put on that righteousness by the washing of water;—and Jesus requires all who would be of his household to do the same thing, and says, "Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." Therefore he said to his apostles, "Go ye and preach the gospel to every creature;" and "teach them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." This constituted them the depositories of his commands, so that he that heareth them heareth him; and he that despiseth him, despiseth him that sent him.

In conclusion we would ask:—Shall it be said that it was necessary for our Great High Priest who was altogether innocent of transgression, and who for 30 years had enjoyed the favor of God and man, to be immersed in a baptism for the remission of sin by nature, and not necessary for the sinners who would become members of his household, although sinners by practice as well as by nature? Depend upon it an Immersed High Priest must have and will only have an Immersed household."

(Concluded.)

Program of the Indiana Conference.

THURSDAY, NOV. 16.

Opened by President.
7:00 p. m. Song Service.
7:15 Address of Welcome. W. D. Thompson.
Response—President.
7:30 Reading of Paper, Mrs. Ada Butler.
8:00 Sermon, J. L. Wince.

FRIDAY, NOV. 17.

10:00 a. m. Singing.
Prayer, J. F. Wagoner.
10:15 Paper, Stella Taber.
10:45 Sermon, G. W. Smith.
2:00 p. m. Song.
Prayer, A. H. Zilmer.
2:15 Paper, Miss Lydia Evans.
2:45 Sermon, C. Fish.
7:00 p. m. Song Service.
Prayer, R. S. Duggins.
7:15 Paper, Mrs. M. E. Thompson.
7:45 Sermon, J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY, NOV. 18.

10:00 a. m. Song Service.
Prayer, F. L. Austin.
10:15 Business Meeting.
Report of Ministers.
Sermon, F. L. Austin.
2:00 Meeting of Publishers' Association.
7:00 p. m. Social Meeting, William Railsback.
7:30 Paper, Idona Cordill. Subject, God as Revealed by Science.
8:00 Sermon, R. S. Duggins, Subject, The Ten Virgins.

SUNDAY, NOV. 19.

9:30 a. m. Social Meeting, Richard Railsback.
10:15 Song Service, Plymouth Church.
10:30 Sermon, A. H. Zilmer.
2:00 Social Meeting, E. K. Barnhill.
2:30 Talk to the Children, S. Roxana Wince.
2:45 Communion, J. F. Wagoner.
7:00 p. m. Social Meeting, J. H. Willey.
8:00 Sermon, F. L. Austin.

Submitted to the Conference by Committee.

H. F. CORDILL,
L. B. BONAR,
FOBA HARRIS.

Died of heart failure and dropsy at her father's residence, three miles east of Walkerton, Ind., on Sunday Oct. 22, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., Irma Valentine, daughter of Frank E. Head. Her mother died five years ago and she with her little sister was raised by their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Head, of South Plymouth. Irma was a very kind, loving child and endeared herself to all who knew her. We layed her to rest Tuesday by the side of her mother, in the Knox cemetery, where there was a goodly number of friends and relatives gathered, to look for the last time on the face of the little darling that we all loved, but we sorrow not without hope, for Jesus says, "Suffer little children to come unto me, of such is the kingdom of heaven." She was 7 years, 8 months and 8 days old.

MRS. B. F. HEAD.

Have You Read This?

By examining our list we find there are between 500 and 600 people whose time has expired. Some only a few months and others some years. If each one of you who are thus owing us would go to the office right now and send the money due us, we would have over a thousand dollars with which to push forward our work.

Brothers and Sisters, we need this money very much. We have earned it—it is ours—and if you do not send it to us, but use it on self, you are simply spending our money. It is not yours—it is ours. Were we in position to do so we would gladly lend you the amount, but the fact is we have bills to pay and cannot lend it to you longer. We ask you kindly and in the spirit of love and justice, to at once send us what you owe us. If you cannot spare it all now, then send part of it, and the balance after awhile. Please do not neglect this, but get a dollar and send to us right away today. We thank you in advance for the favor, and assure you we appreciate it very much.

Poetry.

The Last Supper.

"And when they had sung a hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives."

What song sang the twelve with the Savior,
When flushed the Sacrament wine?
Were they bowed and subdued in behavior,
Or bold as made bold with a sign?

Were the hairy breasts strong and defiant?
Were the naked arms brawny and strong?
Were the bearded lips lifted reliant,
Thrust forth and full manly with song?

What sang they? What sweet song of Zion?
With Christ in their midst like a crown?
While hovered Saint Peter, the lion;
And there, like a lamb, with head down,

Sat Saint John, with his silken and raven
Rich hair on his shoulders, and eyes
Lifting up to the face unshaven
Like a conscious child's in surprise.

Was the song as strong fishermen swinging
Their nets full of hope to the sea?
Or low, like the ripple-wave, singing
Sea-songs on their love? Unlike?

Were they sad with foreshadow of sorrows,
Like the birds that sing low when the leaves
Is tip-toe with a tale of tomorrow.—
Of earthquake and sinking of seas?

All soft was their song as the waves are
That fall in low musical moans,
And sad I should say as the words are
That blow by the white gravestones.

—Joaquin Miller.

Communicated.

Suggestions Concerning Sin.

In reading Rom. v. 12, it is necessary to keep the connection from verse 11 relating to "reconciliation." "Wherefore as through one man sin entered into the world, in which all sinned and through sin death, and in this way death passed to all men." For until the law sin was in the world (the same world as verse 12) but sin is not imputed where law is not (13). For if by the trespass of one the many died, whether sin was imputed or not, because "death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them who did not sin as Adam did." Death had it all its own way. The sentence was from one (man) unto condemnation, but the free gift is from many offences unto justification. Before the law they died right along, and after the law came into force they continued to die, plus a penal death for transgression against the law in the case; so that law caused sin to abound—intensified the offense. Ch. vii. 13. Sin by the commandment became exceedingly sinful.

The wages of sin is death. And yet millions of the race never earned the wages—death passed along to them, (being in the world into which sin entered through the one man) in the natural course and as the stream cannot rise above the fountain, so the nature derived from Adam cannot be higher than his. Because out of nothing, nothing comes, and that which we may have in excess of that derived from Adam, comes from a Power outside of ourselves and independent of our efforts to lift ourselves. The motions of sin in our members, apart from law, are not charged up to us. Because sin is not counted where there is no law, as in this case. But again: Law having been instituted for a purpose so that the original offense might abound to the degree that the divine intervention might superabound in the justification of all who come under the divine favor by complying with the conditions of reconciliation unto justification of life. Being under law to Christ we become amenable whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto justification.

Death penal and final, appropriately is the wages of sin to all who are amenable. And the gracious gift of God through Jesus Christ, is the eternal life promised in the Holy Scriptures. None are justly punished twice for the same offense, because we read (Heb. ii. 2) that under Moses the "transgressors received a just retribution. Therefore the "second death" does not have reference to time but to penalty.

The sentence came of one (man) to condemnation; and the verdict was executed in his return to the original inorganic elements out of which he was formed. He transmitted to his posterity, according to the laws of heredity, the same nature which he himself possessed.

The race starts under these abnormal conditions, and though not having sinned as Adam did, yet death reigned right along, and continues to reign. But there is a time coming when every one will die on account of his own sin, as Adam died for his own, "The soul that sinneth shall die" for it. This, it will be understood, will be racial, and after the promulgation of the new Israelitish covenant. "Condemnation" and justification are legal terms, and to be understood from a legal point of view. "Unto," from us, (verse 16) signifies procession, motion towards. And gets there apart from outside influence which may change the course of things.

Verses 18 and 19 sum up the case in this way: "The sentence came to all men to condemnation," consequently: and the "Sentence came to all men unto justification of life:" also consequently, a process ending in condemnation on the one hand, and on the other, "The life of the world to come." The results here stated in this passage grows out of individual relation to law and covenant. Under law as Adam was and put to the proof so as to develop worthiness for the utilities about to be realized in the Divine government for a purpose. Or, on the other hand, like Adam die, or be put to death on account of being useless. Adam received the wages of sin, although a long time intervened between the sentence and its execution. It appears evident that penal death is the result of transgression of law; and as all are born into the world into which sin entered through the one man; all are helpless apart from divine intervention according to the plan of ages, which God purposed before the time of the Mosaic ages. Hence the reading, Gen. vi. 6, "And God pondered deeply because he made man to be upon the earth; and he thought it through."—Chas. Gardner. And hence the proclamation of "the word of reconciliation." Compare Rom. vii. 8, 9; with verse 23, "Another law." Vs. the law of the mind formed within by the truth, called "the inward man."—Verse 22 compared with verse 25.

The law of sin in our members have a powerful grip, and to this law we have to submit—all our physical ailments inherited or acquired must be born because of pre-existing conditions. But as the outward man wastes away the inward man is renewed by knowledge day by day. Consult ch. viii. 2, 3, 4; God's Son did that which the law could never do, and emphasize ver. 4, "So that the righteousness of the law," etc.

C. W. Tomkins.

"The Lord is at Hand."

"The night is far spent; and the day (of the Lord) is at hand." "Surely I come quickly."

There are some who would impeach the veracity of these statements because 1800 years have passed away and they still remain unfulfilled. There is some ground for the cavil. Let us look at the declaration from the Spirit's standpoint and the difficulty will vanish.

The Spirit's stand-point is Eternity. It is written that with God a thousand years are but as a watch of the night; that 1800 years and more are but as a small moment. Recognize this and the truth and force of the statements in question will be seen. But why does not the Spirit in addressing man speak in accordance with man's computation of times? There is an explanation. Those to whom God speaks stand related to eternity. The faithful are taught to regard immortality as certain of attainment. They are told that death is theirs;—that they have passed relatively and prospectively from death into life.

Looking at the subject in this way—estimating the present from the stand-point of an eternal future, how beautiful is the Divine way of speaking, viz., "Yet a little while and he that shall come will come and will not tarry." "Cast not away therefore your confidence which hath great recompense of reward." "Now the just shall live by faith," "rejoicing in hope of the glory soon to be revealed;" "when the sons of God will be made partakers of the Divine nature, inheriting the promises conjointly with Christ the Head of the Body, which is the church, the fulness of him that filleth all in all."

J. O. Woodruff.

Dear Restitution:

The members of the Church of God of the faith of Abraham at Freedom, Nebraska, have been encouraged and edified by a visit from Elder D. M. Hudler, of Muskatine, Iowa. The meeting commenced on Thursday evening, Oct. 12, and continued over two Sundays. We believe it to be as interesting a meeting as ever held at Freedom, and one to be long remembered by the Church at this place. It being meat in due season. Each discourse becoming more interesting and being delivered in a Christ-like spirit went home to the hearts of the people, and we trust will bring forth fruit in the kingdom of God. Bro. Hudler is as good a speaker as we ever heard on the Scriptures. There was a fair attendance throughout the meeting. The last three evenings the house was well filled. There were visiting brethren and sisters from a distance whom we were glad to greet again as of old. We trust much good has been done to build up the members of our church, and turn their minds again to the promises of God which are sure and steadfast. God is not changed, but will perform that which he has promised. We long to see the time when those promises will be fulfilled and righteousness shall fill the earth as the waters cover the deep: when our King shall come to claim his own and clothe them with the house from heaven—immortality.

Your Brother in hope.

W. A. Moore.

Dear Restitution.

I am one of the isolated ones. Have no preaching of the one faith; nothing but the blessed Word and the dear old Restitution. It seems like an old friend. I have never written to the paper before; but I will say to the dear ones of like precious faith, that I am trying to live so as to meet you all when the Life Giver comes and the dead in Christ shall be raised, and all the sleeping saints of all ages. I love to read the many letters from the brothers and sisters. I would love to meet you all, but that is impossible, but thanks be to God we have the blessed promise of a crown of eternal life when Jesus comes to reign on David's throne. Oh blessed day! Come Lord Jesus, and come quickly is my prayer.

If would like to correspond with any of the faith that would care to. Address me at Tunas, Mo.

Bell Quigley.

Selected.

The Keys of the Kingdom Entrusted to Peter.

The gospel invites men to enter into the kingdom of God. The way of entering is made exceedingly plain in the Bible. There is now no hidden mystery concerning it as there was before the sufferings of Christ were manifested. The mystery of the kingdom has been unlocked. The key of knowledge has been given.....Before a man can enter into the kingdom of God, he must be unloosed from his sins in the present state; and liberated hereafter from the prison-house where the dead lie bound in chains of intense darkness. The unloosing from sins, Jesus committed to Peter; but the enlargement from the chamber of death, he reserved to himself. Rev. i. 18; xx. 1. Knowledge is the key to remission, or release from sins, and to an entrance into the kingdom of God. No one can enter this kingdom in his sins, and destitute of a character approved of God; and none could answer the question, how can a man obtain the remission of sins; and what kind of a character would God henceforth account worthy?—until the Apostle Peter revealed the secret, communicated to him by the Spirit, on the day of Pentecost.

If the reader peruse the second chapter of Acts he will learn there how Peter used one of the keys of the kingdom given to him by its King. On that occasion, I say, he used but one of the keys. He revealed the mystery of the gospel of God's kingdom to Jews only. They believed in the kingdom, glory and dominion, promised to the Son of Man in Daniel and the prophets; and that the righteous were to take the kingdom with him: these things were the substance of the national hope; but they did not then know upon what conditions the obtaining of them was predicted. Hence, it was Peter's duty to instruct them. He first called to their recollection certain notable things concerning Jesus. That the wonders he performed by the power of God, evidently showed that God approved him; that they had been guilty of his death in clamoring for his crucifixion; but that all this was pre-determined of God; that God had "loosed him from the pains of death" by raising him from the dead. He then proceeded to show by their prophets that the things that had thus happened to Jesus were verifications of certain predictions. He adduced the testimony of David, that Christ was to be "raised up to sit on David's throne," and consequently, must previously suffer death; and that after he was resurrected, he was to ascend to the right hand of God. He then concluded by saying, "Let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and King Anointed." For the truth of this statement he appealed to what they saw and heard; to the cloven tongues like fire sitting upon their heads, the "sound of a rushing mighty wind," and, the many languages spoken by Galilean fisherman without previous study. The result of the Apostle's reasoning was their conviction that Jesus was indeed the King of Israel, even the Shiloh that had been promised them for so many ages. They acknowledged him to be the "Son whose name should be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the Founder of the Future Age, The Prince of Peace." Isa. ix. 6. This belief, however, also convinced them that, being this great personage, they had committed an enormous crime; and had "killed the Prince of Life." Their consciences smote them; "they denied the Holy and Just One, and desired a murderer before him:" and had imprecated his beloved blood upon themselves and their posterity. Of what use was their faith to them in this extremity? They believed in the kingdom, they believed in Jesus, they were penetrated with remorse, but they were still conscious only of guilt, and of judgment well-deserved. It was yet a hidden mystery to them what should be done for pardon of this transgression. What was "the righteousness of God" which he required of them? Should they go to the priest, and offer a whole burnt offering and confess their sin? This would have been impracticable.....To what, or to whom, were they to look for a solution of "the mystery?" Who could unlock it, and open to them the door of liberty, and loose them from their sins? Is not the reader prepared to answer, "The Holy Spirit alone could reveal to them of righteousness, because Jesus had gone to the Father." Jno. xvi. 7, 10. This is true; and the time had arrived to do it. But how and through what channel, was the Spirit to do this? Was it by words thundered from heaven; by a still small voice whispering in their ears; by a feeling that they were forgiven; by words of inspiration spoken by the tongues of angels; or by the mouth of man? The reader will be prepared to say, "The keys of knowledge, or the power to reveal the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, were committed to Peter; therefore the new doctrine concerning righteousness, or justification to life, was to be revealed through him.

This is also true; but the "devout Jews" were ignorant of this arrangement; therefore, instead of addressing Peter alone, they inquired of all the Apostles, saying, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Acts ii. 37. Mark, reader, that the question was put to all, and every one of them, and that one Peter, replied to the inquiry. He was the spokesman of the twelve, by whose mouth God had chosen that Israel should hear the Word of the gospel, and believe, or as Paul writes, "The gospel of the circumcision was committed to Peter, in whom God wrought effectually for the purpose." Gal. ii. 8.

The answer given by Peter announced for the first time, what believers of the gospel of the kingdom and in the things concerning Jesus, must do in order to become joint-heirs with him of the promise made to the fathers, to these devout Jews, who now believed what both the prophets an Apostles had spoken, who were now humbled in disposition as little children, swift to hear, and anxious to do, whatever the Spirit should dictate; the holder of the keys to unlock the mystery of the gospel, said, "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Acts ii. 38. Such an announciation as this had never been made before. In this way "repentance and the remission of sins" were "preached in the name of Jesus." This is God's way of righteousness, and besides this, there is no other way of salvation; "for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts iv. 12. God's salvation is placed in the name of Jesus, and this name is accessible to mankind only upon the condition of believing "the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus," and being baptized by his name, "He that believes the gospel and is baptized shall be saved"—is the unrevoked fiat of the Son of God.

The words of the Spirit by the mouth of Peter went home to the hearts of these devout Jews. "They that gladly received his Word were baptized; and the same day there was added to the congregation about three thousand souls. And they continued steadfastly in the Apostle's doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." Acts ii. 41, 42.

These disciples were "a kind of first fruits" of God's creatures begotten of his own will by the Word of truth, Jas. i. 18, which "lives and abides forever."—Selected by Mrs. C. W. Russell.

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Shun Gossip.

Beware of gossip: it is an incubator of all evil. Its eggs are serpentine. Its work is rapid. In ten minutes its aspen offspring are twining their coils about innocent hearts. Its brood are Mischief, Falsehood, Slander, Selfishness, Hatred, Division, and Death. Like the cyclone, gossip leaves devastation and destruction in its path. It would disturb the peace of heaven, and has caused many a bitter, deadly war on earth. Notwithstanding its cruel character, professed Christian people take this incubator into their homes, and permit its vile brood to invest parlor, sitting room, chamber, and kitchen. The unclean birds of slander spread their deadly poison over ministers and people, teachers and pupils, missionaries and converts, rich and poor, young and old, good and bad, living and dead.

Gossip ruins the peace of families. It destroys the love of home, and causes doubt and despair. It breaks hearts. Husbands and wives are parted by it. Mothers and daughters, fathers and sons, are disunited, and separated, never again to be reunited. It is a costly, satanic extravagance. It drinks the blood of the broken hearts of men.

Gossip is an inquisitor. One by one it spies out its victims. They may or may not be guilty of indiscretion—it matters not. It is a contagious fever that spreads from house to house, from church to church, from neighborhood to neighborhood. Wherever gossip comes division follows, society is disturbed, evil reigns, and souls are lost.

In the Psalms we read, "Thy tongue deviseth mischiefs; like a sharp razor, working deceitfully," and, "Thou lovest all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue." "They have sharpened their tongues like a serpent; adder's poison is under their lips." "What shall be given unto thee? or what shall be done unto thee, thou false tongue? Sharp arrows of the Almighty, with coals of juniper."

In marked contrast, how beautiful and sweet are these words of the Psalmist: "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard: that went down to skirts of the garments; as the dew of Hermon and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life forevermore." Christ says, "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."

Humility.

Humility is not a mean estimate of self. The ancient contempt for humility is still felt by many. It seems a sign of weakness, and is abhorrent and impossible to the self-respecting and strong. It is identical with meanness of spirit, and the endorsement of it is like an insult to human nobility. Such scorn of this rare and radiant grace of humility is based upon a misunderstanding of its nature. If it really is mean spiritedness, then scorn for it is to be commended. But to identify it with anything so abject as mean-spiritedness is to insult a grace and exalt a weakness. Meanness of spirit is as despicable as any other kind of meanness, and has nothing in common with humility. For an understanding of this lovely virtue, as for the understanding of every virtue which enters into symmetrical character, we go to him in whom all moral treasures are to be found in their integrity and completeness. Read John xiii. 3 and learn that he who humbly performs a menial's task, and whose lowly deed was but a detail in that perfect humbling (Phil. ii. 8), which marked his obedient consecration of himself to the work of man's redemption, has a clear knowledge and estimate of his divine authority, origin and destiny. He need not have degrading views of self in order to do lowliest service. To lie in the dust before God is but the simple recognition of truth—the lesson brought to us by the contrast of our littleness with his almightiness. Moreover, such attitude before him is the natural graceful acknowledgement of the fact that the life's whole worthy equipment, moral, mental and physical, is his gift.

Tears falling fast shut out the light,
Onward we go, what hope, what choice,
Before us lies the tomb's dark night;
But listen! We can hear his voice,
His voice
"I have abolished death;
Be strong in that bright faith—
Look up,—rejoice."

We should always make the best of those whom we desire to make better.

OBITUARY.

A noble woman passed away in the death of Mrs. R. F. Shirley, of Rock Falls, Ill., which occurred at her home on Dixon avenue, last Sunday at 1.30 p. m. She had been afflicted for many years with stomach trouble, and that was the primary cause of her death.

Jane Thompson was born in Fayette County, Indiana, May 27, 1828. She was married to R. F. Shirley June 2, 1842, in Marshall, County, Ind. Four sons and two daughters were born to them: Samuel T. Shirley, Rock Falls, Ill.; James, who died in infancy; J. A., died Aug. 28, 1873, at Marysville, Cal.; Meridith A., died in Rock Falls, Ill., Feb. 15, 1894; Sarah Payson, Rock Falls, Ill., and Mrs J. H. Meckling, Boyton, Ga. Mrs. Shirley moved with her husband from Indiana to Lee County, Ill. in 1865, and to Colona in 1867. They lived on a farm east of Rock Falls until a few years ago, when they retired and moved to Rock Falls. Mrs. Shirley had been a member of the Church of God from her youth through a long and useful life. The home of the Shirleys was ever a retreat for the sick or the homeless, and the cry of the distressed always found there generous hearts and willing hands to help all in need. The deceased was of a particularly amiable and lovable disposition, making friends of all who could appreciate the true and noble in womanhood. Her life was an incentive to all within its influence to aspire to the higher and purer aims of life, and to attain to the glories of the first resurrection. Her life work is done, and well done; and she has passed into rest from toil and trouble, which will end only with the awakening to the reward of the faithful.

The funeral took place at the Congregational church, Rock Falls, yesterday, the services being conducted by Rev. H. A. Kern, pastor of the church, and was attended by a large number of neighbors and sympathizing friends. The interment was at Riverside cemetery.—Sterling, Illinois, Herald, Oct. 26.

Thomas J. Tilton was born in Knox Co., Ohio, Nov. 15, 1832; came to Ogle Co., Ill., in the year of 1850. On Dec. 9, 1855, he was united in marriage with Miss Nancy Jane Akins who survives him. Died Oct. 22, 1899, at the age of 66 years, 11 months and 7 days.

Bro. Tilton leaves many sorrowing relatives and friends. He died having an obedient faith in the soon coming King, having recently put on Christ by baptism in the likeness of his death. We sorrow, but not as those who have no hope, for we believe that Christ died and that on third the day he arose from the dead. Knowing this, we know also that that same Spirit which brought forth Christ from the dead will also quicken our mortal bodies in due season if it dwell in us. What a comfort to the believer!

The esteem in which Bro. Tilton was held by those who knew him was attested by the great number who were in attendance to pay their last respects to the one who now sleeps in the little cemetery, but a short distance from the home now bereft of the husband and father.

May we all prove faithful and endure unto the end, so that we may hear the Master's welcome, "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

S. J. Lindsay.

Dr. Chalmers says, a time will come when "God's own truth, expressed in God's own language will form the universal creed of intelligent, and harmonized and happy Christendom. When men's faith and their affections will come into more direct contact with heaven's original revelation; and the spirit of goodwill to man, which prompted heaven's message, will be felt in all its freshness and power; when the uproar of controversy is stilled, and its harsh and jarring discords have died away into everlasting silence."

Faster than ever to California.

"The Overland Limited," Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line, leaves Chicago daily 6.30 p. m., arrives San Francisco afternoon of third day Los Angeles next morning. No change of cars, all meals in dining car. Buffet smoking and library cars, with barber. The best of everything. "The Pacific Express" leaves Chicago daily 10.30 p. m., with first-class and through tourist sleepers to California. Personally conducted excursions every Thursday. Illustrated pamphlet describing fully this wonderful state sent free on application to Chicago & North-Western Railway. A. H. Waggener, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago.—Nov. 18.

For Our Children.

Sunday School Hymn.

TUNE—"GOLDEN HOURS."

There is a school on earth begun,
Instructed by the Holy One;
The school-book is the Scripture true,
The lessons are forever new.

CHORUS,—
Then let us sing, yes sweetly sing,
For Jesus Christ, will be our King.

'Tis here we learn the Golden Rule;
Around this little gospel pool;
'Tis here we hear the Savior say:
"Come hither, souls, I am the way."

'Tis here we learn God's holy plan
To save poor, lost and sinful man.
His Word enables us to see,
What he would have us all to be.

'Tis here we meet in union dear,
He teaches us, we need not fear.
His truth will make us free indeed:
For he supplies our every need.

Then come, dear children, one and all,
And listen to the heavenly call,
'Twill make us strong, and makes us wise
So we can run and win the prize.

SARAH F. MORGAN.

Power of Temptation.

I knew of a man who was a temperance lecturer. In his early years he had been a great drunkard; but he was reformed and had considerable notoriety as a platform speaker in one of our large cities. By trade he was a glass cutter. One day, many years after he had been a confirmed Christian as every one thought a servant girl brought into his place of business a decanter with a broken neck, and asked him to cut it smooth. He took up the bottle to see what was wrong; the fumes of brandy came out of the neck and went into his brain. He turned the decanter upside down and got a drop of the liquid upon his finger. He put it to his lips. It set his blood on fire. He went to the nearest public-house and got drunk. That was the beginning of a very bitter and disgraceful ending.—Prof. Drummond.

The Miser's Daughter.

One cold winter, when the ground was so covered with snow that the little birds could not find anything to eat, the little daughter of a miserly rich man gathered up all the crumbs she could find, and was going to carry them out and scatter them on the snow.

Her father saw her, and asked her what she was going to do. She told him, and he said, "What good will it do? The crumbs will not be enough to feed one in a hundred of the birds."

"I know it, dear father," said she, "but I shall be glad to save even one in a hundred of them if I cannot save them all."

The father thought a moment. He knew that many poor persons were suffering in the village, and he had refused to help any, because he could not help them all. His conscience hurt him, and he told his little daughter to break a loaf of bread into crumbs for the birds, while he went to scatter loaves among the poor villagers.

Failed and Succeeded.

Men admit that no one is equally great in all things. Yet they often do not see that a man's failure in one line of work is no reason why he may not succeed in a different calling.

An incident which occurred some years ago in a London store illustrates this blindness.

A young man, whose bluntness was such that he was of no use as a salesman, was told that he did not suit and must go. Seeking the head of the house the youth said:

"Don't turn me away; I am good for something."

"You are good for nothing as a salesman," replied the principal.

"I am sure I can be useful," continued the youth.

"How? Tell me how?"

"I don't know, sir; I dont know."

"Nor do I," said the principal, laughing at the boy's eagerness and ignorance.

"Don't put me away," continued the youth; "try me at something else. I know I can't sell, but I can make myself useful somehow; I know I can."

Moved by his earnestness the principal placed him in the counting-room. Immediately his aptitude for figures showed itself. In a few years he became the head cashier of the concern. He was known throughout the country as an eminent accountant.

Why He was Never Late.

"How is it that you are never late at Sunday-school, Edwin?" I asked.

His Sunday-school began a quarter before nine in the morning, and I concluded many of the children found it hard to be prompt as they came straggling in all through the opening service; Edwin, never; he was always in time.

"How is it Edwin?"

"Oh, I always plan to come," said Edwin. "I put the polish on my boots over night. I find my Bible and question-book, and place them in a safe corner beforehand. I brush and put on my Sunday clothes before breakfast. So after breakfast and prayers I start in time to get there before the superintendant rings the school to order."

"And you never lag by the way?"

"Never!" said Edwin. "It is better to be five minutes too early than one minute too late."

Ah, boys, see how it helps one along to have a plan!

How to Retain Youth.

Take frequent recreation, but not so much as to rob it of its zest.

Preserve the feelings and habits of youth as late in life as possible.

Keep free of intense excitements. They wither the physical energies like fire.

Keep a clear conscience and lead a life void of offense in the sight of God and man.

Insist upon an abundance of regular sleep—so much of it as possible before midnight.

Avoid excesses of all kinds, whether of work, pleasure, eating, drinking, or any otherwise proper enjoyment of mind and body.

A man cannot long keep young who gives up all the active, health-giving exercises of youth. Take a boy and treat him as a good many middle-aged men treat themselves, and he would soon notice the deterioration of his physical powers.

It is intense excitement, the excitement of social life, the ball-room, the theater and the various forms of fashionable dissipation, that makes our girls fade so rapidly. If they took life more quietly and reasonably they would preserve their beauty and physical vigor longer.

Have You Read This?

By examining our list we find there are between 500 and 600 people whose time has expired. Some only a few months and others some years. If each one of you who are thus owing us would go to the office right now and send the money due us, we would have over a thousand dollars with which to push forward our work.

Brothers and Sisters, we need this money very much. We have earned it—it is ours—and if you do not send it to us, but use it on self, you are simply spending our money. It is not yours—it is ours. Were we in position to do so we would gladly lend you the amount, but the fact is we have bills to pay and cannot lend it to you longer. We ask you kindly and in the spirit of love and justice, to at once send us what you owe us. If you cannot spare it all now, then send part of it, and the balance after awhile. Please do not neglect this, but get a dollar and send to us right away today. We thank you in advance for the favor, and assure you we appreciate it very much.

Conference Notice.

The first Quarterly Conference of the Church of God of the Abrahamic Faith in Indiana, will be held at Plymouth, commencing Thursday evening, Nov. 10, 1899, and continue over the following Sunday. The brethren here are anxious for a good meeting, so let all come with that end in view. Come with hearts full of love and charity and let us earnestly pray that that divine influence may be with us that will lift us up and consecrate our lives more to his service. This we need above everything else.

A welcome is extended to all lovers of the truth. Let each organization send delegates. A program is being prepared which will appear in due time.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

N. Robles,	1.50
L. Booth,	1.50

Notice.

To those interested in the Illinois Conference, the Secretary wishes to state that his time has been occupied with other duties during the day time and at night his eyes will not permit him to write but little; but will endeavor to have the report ready by the next issue.

L. BOOTH, Sec.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 288 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time, will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Chickelward, Bonham, Texas.
P. H. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Gilesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 3810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heath, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scirceville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark
A. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Gleim, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Baxter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hadler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Colver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stelle, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
R. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Poore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
H. R. Kendall, Delchville, Ohio.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Tithing Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Box 884, Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Box 124 Andover, S. D.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:30 p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:30, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 200 West Hey St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Keene Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:30 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scirceville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Edelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Keeper, or H. L. Lohman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trandell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grout of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

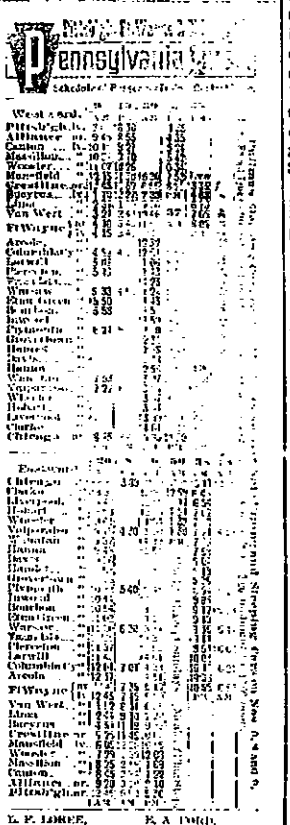
Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren A. D. Allen in charge.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1038 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave., near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Gospel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday a. m. in private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Meet on the second Sunday at the Grand Pacific Hotel, Chicago, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec.

"The Church of God of [illegible], Washington, meet each Sunday [illegible] for public worship and social worship, and prayer meeting occasionally. H. W. [illegible], Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.



E. P. LORCH, General Manager.
R. A. SMITH, General Passenger Agent.
3-27-99-15 PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastward.

	All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily.	Weekdays.	Sundays.
Lv. Chicago		12 01 n	12 01 n
Ar. Valparaiso		1 54	1 54
Ar. Wanatah		2 25	2 25
Ar. Hanna		3 11	3 11
Ar. Kimmell		3 44	3 44
Ar. Arcola		4 01	4 01
Ar. Montpelier		4 20	4 20
Ar. Pioneer		4 35	4 35
Ar. Edgerton		4 50	4 50
Ar. Stryker		5 10	5 10
Ar. Archbold		5 25	5 25
Ar. Wauseon		5 40	5 40
Ar. Swanton		5 55	5 55
Ar. Delta		6 05	6 05
Ar. Toledo		6 30	6 30
Lv. Toledo		6 40 a	6 40 p
Ar. Fremont		7 30	7 30
Ar. Clyde		7 55	7 55
Ar. Bellevue		8 20	8 20
Ar. Norwalk		8 40	8 40
Ar. Wakeman		8 55	8 55
Ar. Collamer		9 10	9 10
Ar. Orwell		9 20	9 20
Ar. Andover		9 35	9 35
Ar. Conneaut		9 50	9 50
Ar. Erie		10 40	10 40
Ar. Girard		10 55	10 55
Ar. Youngstown		11 25	11 25
Ar. Niles		11 45	11 45
Ar. Warren		12 10 n	12 10 n
Ar. Kinsman		12 25	12 25
Ar. Mesopotamia		12 40	12 40
Ar. Orwell		12 55	12 55
Ar. Jefferson		1 10	1 10
Ar. Rock Creek		1 25	1 25
Ar. Conneaut		1 40	1 40
Ar. Ashtabula		1 55	1 55
Ar. Geneva		2 10	2 10
Ar. Painesville		2 25	2 25
Ar. Mentor		2 40	2 40
Ar. Willoughby		2 55	2 55
Ar. Euclid		3 10	3 10
Ar. Cleveland		3 25	3 25
Ar. Buffalo		6 30	6 30

Westward.

	All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily.	Weekdays.	Sundays.
Lv. Buffalo		7 45 a	7 45 p
Lv. Cleveland		10 15	10 15
Lv. Euclid		10 30	10 30
Lv. Willoughby		10 45	10 45
Lv. Mentor		11 00	11 00
Lv. Painesville		11 15	11 15
Lv. Geneva		11 30	11 30
Lv. Ashtabula		11 45	11 45
Lv. Rock Creek		12 00 n	12 00 n
Lv. Conneaut		12 15 p	12 15 p
Lv. Erie		1 00	1 00
Lv. Girard		1 15	1 15
Lv. Youngstown		1 45	1 45
Lv. Niles		2 05	2 05
Lv. Warren		2 30	2 30
Lv. Kinsman		2 45	2 45
Lv. Mesopotamia		3 00	3 00
Lv. Orwell		3 15	3 15
Lv. Jefferson		3 30	3 30
Lv. Andover		3 45	3 45
Lv. Orwell		4 00	4 00
Lv. Collamer		4 15	4 15
Lv. Wakeman		4 30	4 30
Lv. Norwalk		4 45	4 45
Lv. Bellevue		5 05	5 05
Lv. Clyde		5 30	5 30
Lv. Fremont		5 55	5 55
Lv. Toledo		6 40 p	6 40 a
Lv. Delta		6 55	6 55
Lv. Swanton		7 05	7 05
Lv. Wauseon		7 20	7 20
Lv. Edgerton		7 35	7 35
Lv. Pioneer		7 50	7 50
Lv. Montpelier		8 05	8 05
Lv. Arcola		8 25	8 25
Lv. Kimmell		8 40	8 40
Lv. Hanna		9 05	9 05
Lv. Wanatah		9 40	9 40
Lv. Valparaiso		10 10	10 10
Ar. Chicago		12 01 n	12 01 n

Dining Cars between Conneaut and Chicago, and between Conneaut and Buffalo.
Limited Trains, Eastward leaves Chicago 4:30 P. M. daily except Sunday; arrives Buffalo 7:45 A. M. daily except Monday. Westward leaves Buffalo 7:45 A. M. daily except Saturday; arrives Chicago 12:01 noon daily except Sunday.
Light type A. M. Dark type P. M.
Daily. Daily except Sunday. L. Lays on Mond.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 8 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 6, 3 and 1 to Chicago. Meals are served at "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.
For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ A YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A most beautiful colored plate; latest fashions; dress making economies; fancy work; household hints; fiction, etc. Subscribe to-day, or send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ 15¢

(No Scale—Allowance Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts., each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from
THE McCALL CO.,
138-140 West 14th St., New York.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin

Brethren and Sisters. Have you loved ones who think sincerely will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with wise hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's Immortal purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it forever. If so send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Christ Shall Earth to Be Born Again?" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Sole Cause for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, O

Books and Tract List.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Guess Morrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Necessity of Baptism.—As a Bible Plan of Salvation. 2 cts. each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed. 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

"Word of Man. vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. 2 cents each, or 15 for 25 cents.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in other than the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can send bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles such mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect May 15, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun.	For South Bend	8:34 am
No. 14,	" "	12:39 pm
No. 8,	" "	10:03 pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun.	For Terre Haute	6:15 a m
No. 3,	" " "	12:52 noon
No. 9,	" " "	Logansport 7:40 pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or
E. A. Foun,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Homeseekers' Rates Via Vandalia Line.

On special dates during September and October the Vandalia Line will sell homeseekers' tickets to more than 33 States and Territories. For full information call on the undersigned,
T. A. Downs, Agt.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Walter Tomlinson 90
St Kilmuna St
Oregon, Illinois

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, NOVEMBER 8, 1899. NUMBER 42.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

Who Teaches Best?

He teaches best who best doth learn;
We give what we receive;
We cannot give unless we get—
Let none their hearts deceive.

He teaches best who best doth pray;
Enriched by prayer, we live.
Our every man tears bring down the rain
Which makes the seed to live.

He teaches best who best doth live;
'Tis thus the truth we know;
The power which living hearts doth win
From earnest lives must flow.

He teaches best who best doth love;
This quickens, yet commands;
This grace must live and reign in those Whose aim is to win souls.

He teaches best who best doth show
The wants of Christ's dear death,
Through whose kind words true hope doth glow,
And life breathe in every breath.

—W. Poole-Bailey.

Selections.

Europe Against England.

The war between Great Britain and the two Boer republics in South Africa may yet be the determining cause for the long expected, oft predicted conflict which is to involve all the greater and lesser powers of Europe. Already the attitude of Europe is sufficiently menacing to impel Great Britain to take early steps not only to secure the fruits of the victory that nation expects to win in south Africa, but to defend its empire in all parts of the globe in the event that it finally rejects European interference in its plan to make the southern half of the African continent all British.

In every naval port in England squadrons are being hastily fitted out for sea. A strong naval force is already assembled at Gibraltar, and other battleships and cruisers are adding their strength to it every day. Every preparation for calling out the naval reserves has been made, and at the signal England would be ready for all eventualities.

The movements in European diplomatic circles leave no room for doubt that at least France and Russia are endeavoring to secure the assistance of other powers in joint representations to Great Britain before the close of the present war. It is regarded as certain that neither France nor Russia is acting from motives of sympathy with the Boers, for if so they would have entered their protests before the negotiations between Kruger and Chamberlain reached the ultimatum stage. Therefore it is reasonable to infer that if France and Russia act at or before the close of the present war they will do so from purely selfish motives, and with the expectation of compelling Great Britain to remain passive while they seize some other parts of the globe for their own. Russia's ambition in the direction of the Indian Ocean is well known, and France has designs in China and Africa which it never has taken the pains to conceal.

INTERESTS ARE OPPOSED.

Unfortunately for a pacific outlook, the ambitions of both France and Russia are dangerous to the British Empire. England can neither permit France to secure preponderance in the control of northern Africa nor allow Russia to advance to the borders of India without practically destroying the British Empire. Consequently, Great Britain is almost certain to accept the alternative of war, even in its "splendid isolation," for to no power can it turn, unless, perhaps, it may be to Germany, for assistance. If Great Britain is finally brought face to face with the alternative of submission to the dictates of Europe or a war which shall girt the globe with a belt of flame, it unquestionably will choose the dread alternative of war.

The attitude of the several European powers and of the United States, the probable direction of such a war, and the changes it would ultimately make in the map of the old world are subjects which are just now engrossing the attention of the diplomats of Europe.

Count Mouravieff, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, has been hurrying between Paris and San Sebastian for three weeks in constant consultation with the French and Spanish foreign departments. The German Emperor has officially announced that he will visit England in November. All over Europe the press, free for the time being from the restraint of censorship in waging a campaign of bitter invective.

The crux of the situation will come when, after whipping the Boers of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State into submission, Great Britain will make known its plans for the future government of those two republics.

RUSSIA HAS MOST TO GAIN.

In any future demands on Great Britain Russia will necessarily take the lead, for the Czar's empire has the most to gain. Although having the most subtle and secretive diplomats in Europe, the ambition and inflexible purpose of Russia are well known. In a general statement, Russia's ambition lies in the direction of an open sea, unfettered by the ice shackles of winter. Until recently her forts faced the frozen Baltic, the Arctic Ocean and the northern Pacific. For six months of every year Russia's merchant steamers and Russia's warships were locked in ice and it was not until the recent acquisition from China of Port Arthur that the Czar's naval base in the Pacific was rendered effective by open water the year around.

For years Russia hoped to extend its empire southward to the Mediterranean, with Constantinople as the objective point, but its ambition, while perhaps not completely shattered, was definitely delayed by the congress of Berlin in 1878, when Europe erected the quasi independent Balkan States as a buffer between the Czar's dominions and the sea.

PUSHING TO THE SOUTH.

Since then Russia has been pushing steadily southward toward Persia and Afghanistan. All the intrigue of which Russian diplomacy is capable has been exerted in securing a preponderating influence in the semi-barbaric courts of the Ameer and the Shah. So successfully has this diplomatic intrigue been carried on that today it is generally believed that Russia has engaged by secret treaty to occupy Afghanistan with Russian troops in order to preserve order after the death of the present Ameer and secure the throne to his successor.

And it is an open secret in European capitals that the Shah has agreed to give Russia the port of Bunder-Abbis, on the Persian Gulf, whenever Russia chooses to occupy it, and has also granted concessions to Russian syndicates for railways running from Russian soil to the Persian Gulf.

Nothing is more certain than that, when the Czar's army enters Afghanistan, it goes there to stay until Great Britain drives it out. The day that a Russian army corps occupies Herat, that day Afghanistan becomes territory of the Czar, and brings the Russian frontier down to Khyber Pass, an ever-present menace to British control of India. It has long been an aphorism in London that "When Russia goes to Herat we fight."

Equally dangerous to the British Indian empire would be Russia's control of the Persian Gulf. Great Britain has given ample evidence of a true appreciation of the danger from this quarter by deciding three days ago to send a powerful squadron to the Persian Gulf, thus serving notice on Russia, in terms not to be misunderstood, that the Czar must keep hands off for the present.

CZAR'S HOLD IN CHINA.

Russia's designs in China are equally understood. Already the Czar holds the Manchurian peninsula and is disputing with Great Britain at Peking the right to dictate terms and concessions to the Chinese government.

Great Britain has secured from China a well defined sphere of interest in the Yang-tse-Kiang Valley, by which ultimately the Indian Empire will reach eastward from Burmah to the Pacific. English capital is already building long lines of railroad through and across the valley. In any united European coalition against Great Britain, Russia, if the coalition succeeded in its object, not only would overthrow British influence at Peking and deprive Great Britain of the Yang-tse-Kiang Valley, but in all probability would extend its boundaries of the territory already seized from China southward until it included Peking, and ultimately make the Chinese Empire all Russian.

FRANCE THE CZAR'S ALLY.

As far as territorial acquisition is concerned, France has almost as much to gain as Russia. Then, too, France is still smarting under the chagrin of the Fashoda incident, when a year ago Major Marchand was unceremoniously bundled out of the Upper Nile country by Lord Kitchener.

France has territorial ambitions in Africa and China, and unfortunately in the present crisis these ambitions run counter to British interests. In Africa France already controls Algeria and Tunis, bordering on the Mediterranean, and the French Soudan, reaching from the Atlantic nearly to the Nile. France dreams of a great empire in Africa, and long has coveted Tripoli. That France will undertake to seize the latter in the event of a war goes without saying. And with Tripoli added to Algeria, France would be up to the gates of Egypt, which Great Britain already occupies, and probably always will occupy, in order to safeguard the Suez Canal.

Again, France would like to add Morocco to the western frontier of Algeria, and in a general European coalition undoubtedly would endeavor to annex it. Morocco under French control would give France the right at last to divide with Great Britain the control of the Gibraltar gateway to the Mediterranean.

If united Europe should defeat Great Britain in war, the latter would be driven out of Egypt, and the British control pass to another power. France would again step in to demand the land of the Pharaohs as its share of the booty. With Egypt would naturally go the control of the Suez canal, this depriving Great Britain of a short road to India.

ISSUES IN CHINA.

In China France, too, would expect to gain in a war with Great Britain. France already has a strong foothold in the Orient, Indo-China, including Tonkin, being a valuable, if not a remunerative, colonial possession. In addition to the territory already held in the far East, France has a treaty with China giving it a sphere of interest in several of the southern provinces of the Chinese Empire, together with valuable railway concessions which already threaten to extend into the British sphere in the Yang-tse-Kiang Valley.

Added to all this is the feverish condition of France at home. The army is disaffected, conspiracies are rife, and royalist plotting is incessant. The republic is torn by internal strife. Nothing would clear the French atmosphere more thoroughly than a war in which factional quarrels at home would be forgotten and employment given to a great army that long has chafed under idleness.

WILL KAISER AID QUEEN?

The crux of the whole situation seems to rest with the German Emperor. If Germany casts its lot with Europe, Great Britain may as well call out its last available man, for the sea girt empire will indeed be in danger. But up to the present moment there is apparent reason to believe that Germany will cast its lot with Great Britain.

Several months ago, before the Transvaal negotiations assumed a dangerous phase, Lord Salisbury and the German Ambassador to the court of St. James reached an agreement which today is the most mysterious diplomatic secret in all Europe. That this agreement has among other things given Great Britain a free hand in south Africa is apparent, for the Kaiser's attitude now is in strange contrast to his friendliness toward the Boer government immediately after the Jameson raid in 1896, when he sent a congratulatory message to President Kruger that inflamed England, mobilized the British squadrons, and nearly ended in war.

Despite the evident sympathy of a large majority of the German people for the Boers, the German government is preserving an attitude of the most impartial neutrality.

The mysterious agreement between Great Britain and Germany, which is exciting so much concern in Europe, is said to be interpreted, the most probable solution of its tenor being that backed by an English statesman, who believes it gives Germany free hand in the Kaiser's pet project of establishing a great German colonial empire in Asia Minor.

The successful formation of a European coalition, therefore, depends largely upon Germany. If Germany unites its fleets with Great Britain and holds its army ready to march against France and Russia the proposed European coalition will end in abortion.

If, on the other hand, Germany shall finally decide to make terms with France and Russia, trusting to an agreement with those powers to give it what it wants in Asia Minor or any other quarter of the globe, the coalition is as good as formed.

But up to the present time every indication points to German sympathy with Great Britain and every effort is being made in France and Russia to break this mysterious bond of friendship.

It hardly seems credible that France and Russia would provoke war with Great Britain and Germany united. The risk would be too great, for both would be menaced by the English squadrons on their coasts and by the German, Austrian, and Italian armies on their frontiers.

THE SMALLER POWERS.

The attitude of the smaller powers is worthy of consideration, for they could hardly escape being drawn into any controversy which involves Great Britain, Russia, France, and Germany.

Take Italy first. Italy is almost the only exclusively Mediterranean power, and must, for its own protection, exercise a considerable voice in the control of that great inland ocean. It is a member of the dreibund, that offensive and defensive alliance which calls Italy's army into the field whenever Germany or Austria, or both, are attacked.

If Germany involves itself in war either for or against Great Britain, Italy, by the terms of the dreibund, is bound to assist.

But aside from the dreibund, Italy has interests, mostly in the Mediterranean, and a mythical one in China, which almost compel it to attach itself to the fortunes of Great Britain in the present crisis.

In the first place, Italy long has asserted its claim to Tripoli, and its claim is well known to Europe. Inasmuch as Tripoli is equally coveted by France, it is certain that it cannot be taken over by both. By joining issue with France and Russia Italy would have nothing to gain in the way of compensation. On the other hand, by allying itself with Great Britain Italy would be able to claim Tripoli when peace was once more restored.

It may be set down as practically certain that Austria, if it takes any hand at all in the international quarrel, will do so most unwillingly, and on the side with which Germany allies itself. Austria is in no condition financially or otherwise to go to war. Even were its treasury full, the fear of Hungarian revolt and a break-up of the Danubian empire would deter Francis Joseph from becoming a party to a general European war.

To many it might seem almost ridiculous even for a moment to consider Spain in connection with the word "war." But at the same time it must be remembered that Spain easily can put from 100,000 to 150,000 men in the field, providing the funds were forth-coming. A loan from France in the emergency, together with the hope of securing the retrocession of Gibraltar from England, might induce Spain to forget the trouncing it received from the United States a year ago and once more try its fortune at the game of war.

The position of Turkey might bother the diplomats on both sides of the controversy. It is difficult to see how the Sultan could be drawn into the war, and equally to understand how he could keep out of it. Abdul Hamid is in the unfortunate position of being compelled to choose sides in a possible conflict with the certain knowledge that he will lose whichever side he espouses.

He is bound by the treaty of Berlin to guard the Dardanelles against the passage of the Russian Black Sea squadron. He has been enabled by judicious loans from England to fortify the Dardanelles so strongly with modern Krupp guns that he can, if he chooses, butter the Russian warships to pieces when they try to force their way through into the Mediterranean.

If he uses his Krupp guns against Russia he will have the Czar's armies knocking at his door to the north, and Bulgaria, Servia, and Roumania ready to unite to liberate Macedonia, with Austria waiting for a convenient opportunity to seize Saloniea Bay.

If, on the other hand, the Sultan, even tacitly allies himself with Russia by permitting the Black Sea squadron to pass unscathed, he will have Germany and Great Britain on his back, with the certainty of losing Asia Minor, in addition to the Bulgarian uprising and the loss of Saloniea Bay.

As to the little kingdoms of Europe, they undoubtedly will be permitted to remain passive spectators of the great international tragedy—to preserve a stolid neutrality in the midst of the vortex of war about them.

WAR AROUND THE GLOBE.

It is impossible to appreciate the magnitude and the horror which must characterize a war involving Great Britain, Russia, Germany, Austria, Italy, France, and Spain in one general, widespread conflict. It would mean a war around the globe. All Europe, all Africa, most of Asia, the islands of the south Pacific, the West Indies, and the northern part of North America would be the scenes of conflict.

Britain would have first of all to defend its empire in India. The Russian army, passing through Afghanistan, would attempt to force its way through Khyber and Chitral Passes, thence to pour down on the plains of India, in attempt to drive Great Britain into the Indian Ocean. The campaign in India alone would be a Napoleonic contest, for here Great Britain maintains an army of nearly 300,000 regular and native troops, and the mountain gateways are protected by fortresses almost as impregnable as the mountains in which they are concealed.

But while Great Britain would be defending India from the incursions of the Cossack legions of the Czar, France would have seized Tripoli and be marching an army against Egypt in an effort to drive John Bull into the Red Sea. But in Egypt and the Soudan Great Britain has control of 40,000 troops, with native levies to draw upon.

If Spain should decide to enter the contest, its army might be used in an effort to regain Gibraltar from Great Britain, or to assist in the defense of France from possible invasion by Italy.

But the greatest horrors of such a war would only be realized if Germany and its allies in the dreibund should decide to enter the field. Then France and Russia would be assailed from each side by the armies of Germany, Austria, and Italy.

With the greater powers engrossed in war, it is almost certain the conflict would involve the Balkan States with Turkey, and the Sultan would be compelled to make his last stand to retain his place on the map of Europe.

The enormous sacrifice of life and paralysis of all commerce and industry would be beyond computation. Hardly a nation engaged in the contest but would emerge from it as hopelessly bankrupt and poverty stricken as Spain is today, and it is this aspect of the situation that furnishes the surest guarantee for peace. There is not a power in Europe, Great Britain excepted, that can engage in war upon its own financial resources. Every one would have to borrow, and in a conflict which involved all, to whom could the Ministers of Finance apply?

GREAT BRITAIN'S DEFENSE.

It is upon its navy, however, that Great Britain would depend largely for defense of its [illegible] Empire. In addition to the [illegible] Britain's soldiers would engage in land campaigns which would tax their courage and endurance to the utmost. But in all other respects the great battles of an international war would be fought upon the sea. But powerful as Great Britain's navy is, it must be conceded at the outset that France and Russia united can put a navy to sea that would be terribly effective.

The British navy has been built up to its present mammoth proportions on the theory that some day it will have to defend the empire against a possible coalition of the European powers.

At the present time Great Britain maintains a powerful squadron at Gibraltar, at the entrance to the Mediterranean, and another at Malta, strong enough to cope with the fleets of any two powers that might be sent against them. Another squadron is at Cape Town. Another at Colombo, in Ceylon, and one at Hongkong. Across the Pacific from Hongkong is a squadron at Esquimalt, on the North American shore. At Halifax another fleet swings at anchor, and there is yet another at Bermuda, in the West Indies.

These are the vantage grounds of the British squadron, but they do not include the larger fleet kept in home waters for the defense of the home shores of the British islands. The true strength of this great fleet is an admiralty secret; but it is known to be strong enough to protect England from attack by any possible combination, and if necessary to assume offensive operation in addition.

On the other hand, France maintains powerful squadrons at Cherbourg and Brest in the Atlantic and at Toulon in the Mediterranean. Russia has three great fleets, one in the Baltic, one in the Black Sea, and the third at Port Arthur on the China station. Italy has a navy not to be despised in the Mediterranean. Germany's squadrons are in the Baltic and North Seas and at Kiau Chou, China.

GREAT SEA BATTLES.

At the beginning of a possible war in which Great Britain would be compelled to face France and Russia principally, within a few days after the declaration of hostilities there would come a series of naval battles that would startle the world. First, the French squadron at Toulon would be compelled, from motives of self-security, to form a juncture with either the French squadron at Brest and Cherbourg, or with the Russian Black Sea squadron coming through the Dardanelles. To prevent this juncture would be the first task of the British fleet at Malta, and the battle would be fought as quickly as the English ships could find the Frenchmen.

In the meantime the French fleet in the Atlantic would receive the immediate attention of the British Channel squadron at Gibraltar, and a second naval battle would result.

To prevent Russia's squadron in the Baltic from escaping to waters where it could strike a blow a powerful squadron would be detached from Great Britain's home fleet and sent into the Baltic to destroy, if possible, the Czar's warships.

Again the destruction of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur would be absolutely necessary to the safety of British possessions in the Pacific, and the English warships at Hongkong would speed for the Gulf of Pechi-li to give battle for the control of the Orient.

These are the battles on sea that

[Continued on Page Three.]

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, NOV. 8, 1899.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Stockholders of the Christian Publishing Association will be held at the office of THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind. on Nov. 18, 1899 at 2:00 P. M. for the election of a Board of Directors and to transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

J. H. WILLEY, Pres.
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Sec'y.

[redacted]

Have you read our premium offer on page 4 of this paper? Send early so we will be able to get your books to you before the rush of the Holiday trade begins. The offer is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Remember, the time is soon coming when the shippers and transportation companies will be very busy, and delays are liable to occur, so in order to get your books promptly order now. You can get nothing better for Christmas and New Year Gifts than a nice Bible, and here is your chance to get a very desirable gift at a very low price.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

OLIVER Wendall Holmes said that "Knowledge and Timber should not be used until they are well seasoned."

"WHEN one can give as good as he gets, it is easy to forgive an injury: it is when such ability is lacking that a greater effort is required."

THIS is rolling on to the great consummation—events speak in Trumpet tones that we are almost home. Yet the condition of the world, church, and even our own standing presents a picture that will saddeu every true heart and make the saints cry out, "Spare thy people Lord and bring them full salvation."

WE apologise to our readers for the length of the article "Europe against England" in this issue of our paper, but the subject is so important just at this time, that we ventured to give it entire. Events transpire so rapidly now that a day may bring forth the most stupendous changes. Treaties and compacts of long standing are broken with impunity, and there is no telling what is the little thing that will start the nations of earth flying at each other's throats. Watch and be sober.

FOR H. Grimes, and others: Positively yes; Jesus rose from the tomb with the very body that hung upon the cross! How else could the Lord, speaking from heaven, say, "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold I am alive forevermore, Amen; and have the keys of hades and of death?" How else could Peter say, "God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified both Lord and Christ." Do not forget it—It was the same Jesus that was crucified, and you know yourself that the body is the man: no body, no man. Without the body there can be nothing of the man; and the change to deathlessness does not affect the truth of this position at all, in our judgment.

REMEMBER the Indiana State Conference is to be held at Plymouth next week and arrange to attend. The friends here will be glad to entertain you, and you can do us good and be benefitted yourself by thus meeting to encourage and aid in the Master's cause.

PRAYER that is notbased on God's promises and offered in the name of Jesus, is like the clicking of a telegraphic instrument that is unattached to the transmitting wire. The sound is all right and the petition may be understood on earth, but it will not be transmitted to heaven."

IT has well been said that Truth cannot be invented; it may be discovered. that is uncovered, by the mind of man being brought into greater harmony with the Divine mind. It is just so in the natural order of things. All so-called inventions are but the perception on the part of man, of eternal principles in nature, which are of God. As to principles, what man invents cannot be truth. It is a lie [redacted] father of EVERY Jewish child was born unclean,—under the sentence of death, and had no standing before God until typically covered by the blood of animals, which blood could not take away sin. Consequently, although typically covered, he was still under sin. He could not deliver himself from under it, even although he observed the law perfectly. It required something more than this to rescue him from death. Faith was required, and faith (or what the faith was based upon, viz., the covenant) required the "better sacrifice."

FOR enquirer,—As to education being "an excellent thing," we hold that that depends upon what sort of an education it is. Education is properly speaking the act of leading out the intellect and moral sentiments, which are naturally blind. Supposing a blind man be set to educate, or draw out the intellect and moral sentiments, he would be obliged to exercise them in darkness. To instruct a lad in reading, writing, arithmetic and many other things besides, is not education, because it practically ignores the fact that he is capable of developing a character in harmony with God's,—capable of loving, reverencing, believing and obeying him. So, in spite of the vast educational system in operation in this country, the rowdyism of Congress, Stategislative bodies, and the corruption of Municipal governments throughout the land go to prove what we say. They all walk in the flesh; because they have received only a fleshly education, and the most noble and elevating faculties have well nigh dried up.

WE have received from Mr. F. C. Donald, Commissioner of the Central Passenger Association, a letter requesting us to call attention to the change in the manner of issuing Clergyman's certificates. Heretofore a card has been issued to those entitled to reduced fares, which on presentation to any ticket agent within the territory specified, a low fare ticket was sold. Owing to the difficulty in keeping track of these card certificates, and the tickets sold by the various lines of Railroads, a change will be made for 1900. Instead of the card as usual, a book, convenient for the pocket, containing 100 numbered requests for clergy tickets will be issued, one of which the holder will be required to sign and deliver to the ticket agent for each ticket purchased. This will enable the Clergy Bureau to keep their accounts more accurately, and will also prevent unscrupulous persons from taking advantage of the favor granted by the Passenger Association. Inasmuch as this will cost many times what the old card certificates did, the fee will be increased from 50 cts to $1 00. When the book of 100 requests is exhausted, the cover sent in with a fee of 50 cents will bring a new book. This seems to be a much better plan than the old way, and we trust those entitled to and using these favors will take note and conform to the new regulation.

The 50th Psalm.

The time is coming when this Psalm will be fulfilled—"Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice;" and as we are told by the Lord. "Hereafter shall ye see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven." Matt. xxvi. 64 It is also testified by Jude—"The Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints to execute judgment upon all," etc. Here the future position of the saints begins. Instead of being the tail of society, they will be the head. In place of being despised and forgotten, they will be remembered and honored. Instead of being oppressed by the laws of the Mighty Ones of this age, they will be the law-givers of that age, and shall dispense righteous judgment. Instead of being poor as they are now, they will possess the unsearchable riches of the Anointed One, for they are the heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Anointed. Instead of being "pilgrims and strangers," having neither continuing city nor sure place of residence,—they will possess and rule this very earth on which they have suffered so much. Instead of seeing the laws of God broken and disregarded, they will have the pleasure of seeing law breakers removed, and their heavenly Father's name hallowed far and near. And instead of being surrounded by temptations and snares, they will be far above everything of the sort, by being in glorious immortal nature.

Well, have we proof that the faithful saints shall realize [redacted] spirations? Indeed we have [redacted] the Spirit, "The saints shall judge the world." "But the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever." Dan. vii. 18. "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame and am set down with my Father in his throne." Rev. iii. 21. "The meek shall inherit the earth, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace." Psa. xxxvii. 11.

Again the Psalmist testifies:—"Let the saints be joyful in glory, let them sing aloud upon their beds; let the high praises of God be in their mouths, and a two-edged sword in their hands; to execute vengeance upon the heathen and punishment upon the peoples; to bind their kings with chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron; to execute the judgments written; this honor have all his saints."

"To them who by patient continuance in well doing, seek for glory, honor and incorruptibility, God will render eternal life. And again in Revelations, "To him that overcometh will I grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God."

These quotations show us somewhat of the honors to which we may attain if we strive earnestly for them. We often think of these sayings and get the idea into our heads that the reward is sure whether we make much of an effort for it or not. Not that we admit this in so many words, of course, but we often act it out without being aware of it. Let us then be fully alive to what we must do if we would win the race of life; and as a means to this end, let our prayers ascend to God Most High for the wisdom which he alone can give."

Communicated.

Read History.

By the light of God's Word, read the history of the nations in the past ages. It will penetrate the great darkness, covering earth's gloomy days, and reveal a vast amount of error, superstition, selfishness, intrigues, fear, misery and destruction without end. He who reads by the aid of this great search light, will behold the real necessity and reason, for a righteous ruler on earth. The weakness of the strongest men and women, who have arisen in the past ages, like a momentary bubble, and have fallen to decay, are far more clearly revealed by the light of God's power, through his Word.

The impossibility of a perfect ruler among human beings, becomes more visible and real, as one so clearly perceives the great errors and failures of the wisest and best of our strongest minds. Momentary wisdom and power we may gain, but not long in this life maintain. Our historical records reveal a great sickening scene of mortal woe and endless contention. One turns away with a feeling of disgust and shame, from a long search of the past ages, wondering if justice, wisdom and truth will ever prevail.

To the believer in the gospel of the great promise unto this world comes a stronger desire, a greater joy, a truer and deeper feeling for that age when "God's will" (not man's) shall be done on this earth. Ah! when I arise from reading of the bloody records of the past dismal ages! How joyful, grand and noble the future seems! Where is the mind that can grasp this great heavenly picture and would ask for more!! 'Tis full of the strongest hope, greatest joy, rich in color, majestic in thought, brilliant with hope, and "endless life." Earth purified and renewed! Our great Redeemer and King here with us! even now leading us toward the heavenly mansion on Mount Zion!! Controlling all nations; driving away anxiety, trouble, sickness and sorrow. What a contrast! Poor, weak, mortal man. How joyful the life of a true believer may be, in oft beholding the grand picture of our glorious future world, and through the camera of the past dark ages! How delightful as the scene comes o'er me! True as the earth and the heavens, never a doubt, never a fear! Ah, yes; noble waiting one, this hope will soon come to pass. This picture will ere long be a reality. Cheer up! The cup of sorrow is nearly full, and will be emptied out of this world. Do you begin to see the glimmer of the great morning dawn? So do I! This century is nearly closed. Not far in the next may appear our dear Lord and King in the clouds of heaven, calling for his beloved to arise and meet him in the air.

Shall we be among the witnesses of that great marriage ceremony in heaven? Shall we be in the great company, when our glorious King descends with his bride unto his earthly home! here to live and reign a thousand years! Yes, ah yes, true and faithful ones; and a very precious gift he will bring for thee, everlasting life. Earth, thou shalt be redeemed! Yes, born again, when thy great King comes. Long hast thou borne thy torments right nobly, long struggled in darkness, and witnessed a vast amount of destruction and death. God created thee for a nobler, brighter purpose, out of the bowels of the universe, up among the brilliant stars, into the light of God, robed in beauty is thy hope and joy.

World, thy Creator is watching thee. Like a ship at sea; and no compass, sailing away from home, on the great sea of selfishness and pleasure. When the storm of God's wrath shall arise and surely come o'er thee! Where shall the anchor of thy hope be found? The history of thy past life is final, and the present not very hopeful. Thy Conqueror, Jesus, the coming King of this world, will redeem or destroy thee. Awake and grasp quickly thine only true hope. Come mighty King! The history of our world is written in sorrow, anguish and blood. Come dear Redeemer, come soon! Thy loved ones have long waited for thee! Come and teach the poor, weak, down-trodden world, mercy, judgment, righteousness, true, holy nobleness, and soon grant us peace here on earth.

A. G.

Report.

Five weeks ago last Saturday we left home for Mecosta County, Michigan, not knowing where we might be led to proclaim the "unsearchable riches of Christ;" but supposing we were to hold meetings either at Blanchard, East Millbrook or Woolcott school house. We went to the last named place, held four meetings, and although the interest was good, they had prohibited the use of the house for meetings during school sessions, and receiving an invitation to the Allen school house, one mile east, there we went after Conference closed and began meetings, found a good congregation and considerable interest manifested. We have been there three weeks, the second Sunday four were baptized, last Sunday twenty put on the all-saving name. Never in our experience of evangelizing have we seen such deep contrition, such tearful and earnest sorrow for sin, such a breaking down, as sinners and returning prodigals knelt before the pitying and merciful Christ, asking for pardon. Night after night the crowds gather and with such earnest quietness, look and listen to this, to them, new gospel. The last evenings of each week the house, which is a comfortable good sized one, does not begin to hold all who come, serious thought is written upon many faces; while subject after subject is placed before them, so strangely new, but so beautiful and plain they say, and never have seen so large a concourse of people gathered at a water burial, as followed last Sunday; the procession was fully three quarters of a mile in length. Tears and praises to God, were heard on every hand, as old and young followed each other into the watery grave. Up to this date, Oct. 31, 25 have acknowledged Christ as their Savior and Life-giver. Last evening a crowded house listened to the beautiful subject of "Life Only Through Christ," and when the invitation was given two more, who had once known and felt God's love but have been for some time strangers to it, and never had heard the gospel of the kingdom before, came forward thanking God they were learning the way of life more perfectly.

We had expected to be in southern Michigan holding meetings before this, but could not leave this increasing interest. We thank God every day that both of us are being kept so well. The Elder is standing the work remarkably well, feeling no inconvenience standing in the water during the baptism of twenty persons. To God be all the praise and glory.

Yours in his name,
B. W. & M. A. WOODWARD.

Editor Restitution:

The little band of believers near Holbrook, Neb., was visited by D. M. Hudler, Oct. 25 to 29. He preached seven discourses, three of which were delivered on Sunday to quite large and attentive audiences. The brethren here were not only strengthened, but encouraged and edified by Bro. Hudler's timely remarks and logical Scriptural reasoning. We trust this may not be his last visit, because we need men who rightly divide the Word of truth, and are bold and fearless advocates of the written Word, not preaching just to please the pet theories of men. After many good byes and clasping of hands the Brother left us, going to Cheyenne County, Neb., a distance of about 250 miles northwest, where he expects to hold a two weeks' meeting. May God bless his efforts is the prayer of your brother in Christ,

J. J. CADY.

OBITUARY.

Fell asleep in Jesus, Oct. 22, 1899, aged 79 years, Mrs. Mary Alden Cummings, wife of Mr. Royal S. Cummings, of Cordova, Ill. Her maiden name was Mary Elden Simonton; she was born in Dorchester, New Brunswick, June 9, 1820, was united in marriage to Royal S. Cummings, in Lawrence, Mass., June 1, 1851. She was the mother of two children, one of which died in childhood, and the other, Mrs. Emma F. Cook, whose home is in Waterbury, Conn., together with the bereft husband and three sisters and five brothers mourn their loss. At the early age of 18 she united with the Baptist Church of Portland, Me. Her piety was very marked, she making many sacrifices, and in some cases denying herself the necessities of life to give to her church. During the prophetic preaching of Wm. Miller in Portland, Me., in 1840, she embraced the Advent faith, and walked in the light of that faith until 1868, when she embraced the glorious and blessed truths of the gospel of the kingdom, which hope was an anchor to her soul, and held her peacefully and calmly down to the close of life. She was a great Bible student, and was always ready as in 1 Pet. iii. 15, "To give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason for the hope that is in you with meekness and fear." In May, 1855, she came west with her family, and located in Cordova, Ill., in Mar., 1856, where she has spent most of her life till her death. The funeral services were held from the family residence at 2 o'clock on Wednesday, Oct. 25, Rev. Crane, of the Methodist church, ably officiating. Text Job xiv. 14, "If a man die shall he live again?" A quartette sang, "Asleep in Jesus," "Sometime we shall understand," and "God be with you till we meet again." Her remains were laid to rest in the cemetery in Cordova. We read: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, yea, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them." She has fought a good fight, she has finished her course, she will hear the Father's "well done;" when he calls she will answer.

Yours in Christ,
R. S. CUMMINGS.

Evangelizing Trips.

I expect to start to Tekoa, Wash., early in November. Any of the brethren in eastern Washington, or in the Sound country that want meetings held in their localities will address me in care of E. J. Tramill, Tekoa, Whitman Co., Wash. I also expect to make a trip to the southern part of Oregon, in December or January, any wishing preaching that live on or within reach of the Southern Pacific railway will address me at Scholls, Oregon, before that date, so the duration of that trip can be planned.

W. L. SKEELS.

Correction.

In the Illinois Conference Report, 1st page, third column, second line from the bottom, please read "our voices" instead of "one voices."

L. BOOTH.

If we look for great things in the next world, we should be content with mean things in this.

Program of the Indiana Conference.

THURSDAY, NOV. 16.

Opened by President.
7:00 p. m. Song Service.
7:45 Address of Welcome, W. D. Thompson.
Response—President.
7:30 Reading of Paper, Mrs. Ada Butler.
8:00 Sermon, J. L. Wince.

FRIDAY, NOV. 17.

10:00 a. m. Singing.
Prayer, J. F. Wagoner.
10:15 Paper, Stella Taber.
10:45 Sermon, G. W. Smith.
2:00 p. m. Song.
Prayer, A. H. Zilmer.
2:15 Paper, Miss Lydia Evans.
2:45 Sermon, C. Fish.
7:00 p. m. Song Service.
Prayer, R. S. Dwiggins.
7:15 Paper, Mrs. M. E. Thompson.
7:45 Sermon, J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY, NOV. 18.

10:00 a. m. Song Service.
Prayer, F. L. Austin.
10:15 Business Meeting.
Report of Ministers.
Sermon, F. L. Austin.
2:00 Meeting of Publishers' Association.
7:00 p. m. Social Meeting, William Railsback.
7:30 Paper, Ilona Cordill, Subject, God as Revealed by Science.
8:00 Sermon, R. S. Dwiggins, Subject, The Ten Virgins.

SUNDAY, NOV. 19.

9:30 a. m. Social Meeting, Richard Railsback.
10:15 Song Service, Plymouth Church.
10:30 Sermon, A. H. Zilmer.
2:00 Social Meeting, E. K. Barnhill.
2:30 Talk to the Children, S. Roxana Wince.
2:45 Communion, J. F. Wagoner.
7:00 p. m. Social Meeting, J. H. Willey.
8:00 Sermon, F. L. Austin.

Submitted to the Conference by Committee.

H. F. CORDILL,
L. B. BONUS,
FLORA HARRIS.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. Ida Overholt,	1.50
Inez Titus,	1.50
J. A. Moyer,	1.50

Dear Restitution:

I am striving to so live, that when the Master comes I may wear a crown of glory and enter into the kingdom.

Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither can enter into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. May we ever be ready to enjoy that beautiful morn of rest.

Your Sister in hope of the soon coming kingdom,

INEZ TITUS.

If the reproof be just, though the reproover be not, we must not lose the benefit of it.

Low Rates to Philadelphia via Pennsylvania Lines for Export Exposition.

On Nov. 14th and 25th excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines account the National Export Exposition. Tickets may be purchased by the public generally. The rate will be one fare for the round trip, and will be good for return trip leaving Philadelphia within ten days from date of sale. For particulars apply to J. E. Hanes, Ticket Agent, Plymouth, Ind.—Nov. 24.

The Nickel Plate Road offers one fare for the round trip to Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 14th and 25th, account the National Export Exposition. Tickets available going only on date of sale and returning within 10 days from date of issue. Your choice of a Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains. Secure sleeping car reservations early.—Nov. 25.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

Poetry.

Lord, Come Away.

Hand and foot are weary,
Brow and eye are weary,
Heart and soul are weary;
Lord, come away!

Years are swiftly flying,
Heaven and earth are sighing,
And thy church is crying,
Lord, come away!

Broken low creation,
Shaken earth's foundation,
Anchorless each nation;
Lord, come away!

Kingly props all falling;
Boldest bosoms quailing,
Fear forlorn prevailing;
Lord, come away!

Thrones of ages shaking,
Bonds of empire breaking,
Sullen priesthoods quaking!—
Lord, come away!

Evil darkly reigneth,
Nought to love remaineth,
And thy Bride complaineth;
Lord, come away!

Might the right is wronging,
Swarthiest millions thronging,
Earth's miserable prolongings:—
Lord, come away!

Lonely hearts are clinging,
Loyal souls are clinging
To the light now ringing:—
Lord, come away!

Calm, midnight winds blowing,
Long has faith been sowing,
See the harvest growing;
Lord, come away!

'Tis no time for sorrow,
See the glorious morrow,
Hope and gladness borrow;
Lord, come away!

'Tis no time for dreaming,
See the day-star gleaming
Through the darkness streaming—
Lord, come away.

Sounds the last long thunder,
Bursts the day in wonder,
Glory, gladness yonder;
Lord, come away!

—H. Bonar.

Selected.

Europe Against England.

[Continued from Page One.]

would be almost certain to follow within a few weeks after such a war should begin. What would be the results of such stupendous naval contests one can only surmise. As a general proposition, however, it may be [illegible] the British [illegible] prove equal to its proudest traditions. There is no lack of those who would prophesy that the results of the initial contests on the sea would be so decisive that the powers arrayed against Great Britain would be convinced that all further efforts to continue effective warfare would be fruitless, and that the contest would end then and there.

MUST COUNT ON JAPAN.

In all the discussions leading up to a possible coalition against Great Britain the probable position to be assumed by Japan must not be lost sight of. Japan has just stepped out of the Oriental mediævalism into the light of modern civilization, and, more than that, has ambition to participate in the world's affairs.

Japan has within recent months, it is believed, come to a friendly understanding with China, by which the two far Eastern nations have agreed to work in closer harmony.

It is known at Peking that China has signified a willingness to transfer the Province of Swatow to Japan. Aside from any territorial interest in China, however, Japan has an instinctive and growing distrust of Russia, and it is quite certain that any attempt on the part of the latter to secure, through war or diplomacy, a preponderating influence in China will be met with evidence of hostility.

If necessary Japan's new and powerful navy would unquestionably be thrown into the scales on the British side, and if so the issue would be quickly decided in favor of the alliance between Great Britain and the Oriental power.

The first question that would be asked on this side of the Atlantic, in the event of so stupendous a conflict, would be:

"Where will America stand?"

There can be no doubt that in such a combination of circumstances the sympathy of the great masses of the people of the United States would go out to Great Britain. The sympathy engendered by a common tongue, a common literature, a common civilization would impel the people of this country to hope for the success of the mother country.

But when one goes beyond sympathy he will reach a domain of discussion in which it would be not only difficult but dangerous to enter.

In the first place, it may be taken for granted that every power engaged in the struggle would make every endeavor to maintain the most cordial and friendly relations with the United States.

It is true, unforeseen contingencies might arise which would make it difficult for the United States to hold aloof. It may be set down as certain that any attempt to break through the Monroe doctrine, say, by an invasion of Canada, or the seizure of the West India Islands, would arouse a dangerous sentiment in this country, and this sentiment, it may be remarked, is one of the strongest defenses Great Britain could have for the defense of her possessions on the North American continent.

There is one point which the United States would be compelled to watch with closest interest. That would be the safety and protection of the Philippines.

The United States can rest secure in the knowledge that in the Philippines there is an army greater than any European power could possibly bring, and in Manila Bay the fleet of battleships, monitors, and cruisers strong enough to cope with any squadron any of the powers would be able to assemble after the first and necessary battles with the British fleets.

It must also be remembered that before any nation or combination of nations would dare seek to attack the United States, either at home or in the far East, the British fleets must be destroyed, and after the destruction of a British fleet the enemy's squadron would be in poor condition for another battle.

CHANGES IN THE MAP.

And, finally, when the struggle was ended and the international congress met to arrange its terms of peace, the geographers would have to prepare new maps of Europe, Asia, and Africa.

There is room for abundant speculation as to the nature and extent of these changes.

If Great Britain after a heroic struggle in self-defense, would win, it is easy to conceive that all Africa, or, at least, all now held by France, would be transferred to the British flag. In Asia British ascendency would be recognized in Persia, Afghanistan, Indo-China, and the Yang-tse-Kiang Valley, thus practically stretching the British empire across Africa and southern Asia from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and bringing under the government of the English-speaking race a territory larger than Russia and Siberia.

On the other hand, if Great Britain lost in the struggle it would seem almost that the British empire had been destroyed. No longer would England be in Egypt. South Africa then would in all probability be a confederacy under Dutch control. Persia and Afghanistan would become Russian soil, British pretensions in China would be destroyed, and many of the island colonies would be added to the possession of the victors. India would or would not fall to the share of Russia, just according to the terms of settlement.

There would likely be few changes in Europe, although if France were victorious against England and Germany, Alsace and Lorraine would be restored to the republic. The Balkan States would undoubtedly lose their identity, and become merged with Russia, and there would be other and minor changes.

All the world will necessarily watch Europe within the next few weeks, for the negotiations now in progress will either fail within that time, or, succeeding, open the gates of the Temple of Janus in sign of universal war.—Chicago Tribune.

A Sure Cure for Bigotry.

Take one ounce of intelligence, two ounces of common-sense, three ounces of modesty, four ounces of charity,—mix well together, then boil slowly over the fire of self-imperfection till the whole shall attain the consistency of impartial justice. When cool take in considerable doses every hour till you begin to discover that there are others in the world who know something as well as yourself. This symptom will indicate convalescense, and you may begin to feel that your case is hopeful. Continue taking it in somewhat smaller doses till you shall recognize the right of every other person to think and speak as well as yourself, and then it will be safe for you to leave your place of refinement and go into society.

P. S., A cure always warranted when directions are followed.

Price, a little self-reflection.—J. O. Woodruff's Scrap Book.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Communicated.

Sowing The Seed.

"In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand; for thou knowest not whether this shall prosper or that."

As a witness in behalf of the above named testimony of the wise man, Solomon, I can testify that in the year of our Lord, 1850, our much lamented Brother N. J. Morgan, who fell asleep in Jesus, April 26, 1898, came through the great valley of Virginia, sowing the seed of the kingdom and while our community was favored with preaching every Sunday and sometimes during the week, yet this gospel of the kingdom was called something new, and caused quite a stir; and like the Master said in his parable, "Some seed fell by the wayside, and some fell on a rock, and some fell among thorns, and some fell in good ground." Thank the Lord, we are not left to guess who the good ground is; for it is he that "heareth the Word and understandeth it, which beareth fruit, some an hundred, some sixty and some thirty." For awhile the multitude flocked to hear this faithful old servant of the Lord, but afterwhile persecution arose, and all sorts of misrepresentations, even like this, that he did'nt preach from the same kind of a Bible that the other preachers used: but he could gladly take shelter under the Master's Words where he said to his disciples, "Blessed are ye when they shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake." I do not mean to say that the people desired to misrepresent him: but this new doctrine of the kingdom which was his constant theme and delight, aroused their prejudices and as a natural result persecution followed, but wisdom is justified of her children. My short experience in this life teaches me that God has a purpose in all his dealings with his children, and he tells us that his Word has gone forth and that it shall accomplish the thing whereunto he has sent it, and I am thankful to say that there are a few faithful ones in the valley of Virginia, and some of the adjoining states, who are ever ready to thank our Heavenly Father that he ever put it in the heart of that old pioneer of the truth, to visit this part of his habitable, and enlighten the eyes of our understanding so that we might know what is the hope of our calling and the hope of our inheritance among the saints. Yes, it has caused us to sit together in heavenly places from time to time, for the last 40 years, and feast on the Bread of Life, which, if we eat thereof we shall never die. Yes, it has been quite a joyful season for the few faithful ones here during the past summer months.

It was my happy privilege to attend the dedication of our new church home at Mauertown, Va., which was one of the most pleasant and happy meetings that I ever attended. It made me think of David, when he said, "Behold, how good and pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." There was quite a number of visiting brethren and sisters at this meeting, as well as those who live there, and it was pleasant to behold their love and fellowship, their hearts seemed to be knit together in the bonds of Christian union. The Brotherhood at this place are largely composed of the sons of our much esteemed Brother William Boyer, of Seven Fountains, who has been sleeping in Jesus a number of years. Truly I can say for him, what cannot be said of many in this day, he had eight sons and three daughters, and every one became obedient to the faith with father and mother. What an exemplary family. Two of the sons are able workers in the Master's vineyard. The father, mother, and one daughter are asleep waiting for the trump to sound. All the rest are living epistles known and read of all men. One does not have to become acquainted with a member of this family long before they are convinced that they have been with Jesus.

I could say much more in behalf of this worthy old brother, and his well-trained family, but space forbids, at present, as I have some more good news to relate, and I do not wish to weary your patience, therefore I must condense my story by saying that from the year 1850 down to the present time, there has been a few faithful believers of the gospel here, as preached by the old pioneer who traveled and preached from house to house for them as long as he was able to work in the Master's vineyard, and after his departure it was suggested by a worthy sister that it was our duty to build a house of worship, so that his long and faithful labors would not be in [illegible] said, we must not forsa[illegible]bling of ourselves to-get[illegible] would like to meet in a wo[illegible]pacity, and let our light so [illegible] to constrain others to glori[illegible] Heavenly Father, and to bring [illegible]ildren together and let them [illegible]ade wise unto salvation, as was [illegible]thy of old. Her husband and s[illegible]with what help they could get [illegible] the rest of the friends of truth [illegible]re built and completed a neat [illegible] house of worship in the vicini[illegible] Browntown, known as the "Chu[illegible] of God, at Cool Spring, Warren C[illegible]Va.," and on the 4th Sunday in Au[illegible]st last, it was dedicated to his s[illegible]ce by Brother Samuel Wilson, [illegible] New York, accompanied by Broth[illegible]B. F. Boyer, of Seven Fountains[illegible]a., and Brother John D. Boyer, of [illegible]oodstock, Va. Brother Wilson d[illegible]ered five discourses on this occas[illegible] which were very edifying, to large [illegible]d attentive congregations, which [illegible]wakened quite an interest in the [illegible]nday intelligent people. [illegible] sisters from the different cou[illegible] Virginia, and some from the s[illegible] of Maryland and Pennsylvania. The new house of worship is locate[illegible] on the public road running betw[illegible] the county-seats of Warren and [illegible]appahannock counties. It is nestled close up to the Blue Ridge Mountains, in a beautiful grove, and built on a rock, but this is all right; for we have made the rough place smooth with a little labor, and the brethren built a table on the ground 64 feet long; and the sisters and friends tried to excel themselves in preparing an abundance of the delicacies as well as the substantials of life, and the tables filled to overflowing and dinner and supper was bountifully served on the ground, so it was truly a double feast upon the Bread of Life, and towards on the necessaries to this life teaches me that God has a [illegible] the natural life, and I cannot [illegible] the happiness that we the few [illegible]ones experienced on this occ[illegible]sion we had been meeting from [illegible] house for more than four [illegible] and sometimes under very unfa[illegible] circumstances; but now we [illegible] to rejoice that we had a [illegible] church home of our own [illegible]an meet and worship God [illegible]and in truth. I would not [illegible]mention that the last discourse, delivered on Sunday night, by [illegible]ther Wilson was a memorial for [illegible]t faithful and untiring servant of [illegible] Master, my beloved husband.

[illegible]other Wilson said all on that occ[illegible]sion in his behalf that one good [illegible]her could say of another, and then [illegible]howed plainly the faith in which [illegible]red and died. These were some [illegible]s last words, "I have fought a [illegible]d fight, I have kept the faith, and [illegible] now ready to be offered, henceforth there is a crown of righteousness laid up for me against that day, and [illegible]t for me only, but for all them that [illegible]ove his appearing."

He often said, while living, that he was "gathering sheaves to lay away in his Master's barn," or "jewels to decorate his crown in the Age to Come, as they that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever." Oh, the beautiful promises we have set before us in the good old Book.

Well, a few more words in reference to the good sister who has encouraged her husband and her son by her influence, her labor, and her means in order to get a house of worship erected. She has had five daughters already obedient to the faith and on the evening of this memorial day, she had the happy privilege of following the sixth one to the water and saw her planted in the likeness of the Savior's death, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, in order to arise to walk in newness of life, by Brother B. F. Boyer. It was Mrs. Dunlap of Winchester, Va., who with her kind husband, drove thirty miles to attend the meeting. She had embraced the truth before but preferred being baptized here at her old home; she was happy in obeying the truth, and we hope she may hold fast the beginning of her confidence of rejoicing firm unto the end, and thus reap eternal life in the kingdom. We had a pleasant Bible Class at our new house on Sunday last, with good prospect.

I would say that our nearest Railroad station is Bentonville, Va., about five miles, and should any laborer in the vineyard of the Lord be passing this way please let us know and we will gladly meet them, and give them a hearty welcome.

Done by order of the church.

S. F. MORGAN.

'Tis thought and digestion that make books serviceable and give vigor and health to the mind.

The Rich Man and Lazarus.

In reading the Gospel Preacher, Vol. I., a book of twenty sermons, by Benjamin Franklin, editor of the American Christian Review, on page 465, I was surprised at the following assertion from so eminent a theologian as Mr. Franklin, in a sermon on the three states of man, in which he uses the parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus to prove the consciousness of the dead, he says, "It is no parable at all, but the statement of an actual case." While I have due respect for father Franklin, who spent much of his life in what he honestly believed to be the truth, I have more respect for Christ and his Word, and as we have Christ's Word indirect that it was a parable, we are bound to consider it in that light.

I. We will ascertain who the Savior was addressing in Luke xvi., after the parable of the unjust steward, in the 14th verse, it reads, "And the pharisees who were covetous heard all these [illegible] and they derided him." Then in the 15, "And he said unto them, [illegible] they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts." So it was with the pharisees that he was speaking to, and to say that he spoke to the pharisees only in parable is to dispute the witness.

Mark iv. 1-11, 33, 34: Matt. xiii. 34, 35, these witnesses testify that that, "Without a parable spake he not unto them." Then in the 16 and 17 verses he speaks of law and the prophets, which was until John when the kingdom was preached, then the stability of God's Word. And in the 18 verse he tells them the result of putting away their wives and marrying others, (a thing so common in the church under the law, and too common in some sectarian churches in this day, I am sorry to say). These few verses were direct testimony and condemnation to the pharisees, the chief sect of the Jews, who made loud claims of, and boasted of being Abraham's children and the rightful heirs to all the blessings promised to Abraham and his seed. Then he goes on with the allegory or parable, "There was a certain rich man, and a certain beggar named Lazarus," and they died. And as Mr. Franklin states on page 467, that they went to Hades, I will give his language. "The rich man though in hades, was also in Tartarus; and Lazarus, though also in hades, was in Abraham's bosom, or literally in Paradise, and there was a great gulf between them. But neither of them was in Gehenna.....when the saints die they go to Paradise, and enjoy a state of rest or comfort till the resurrection. When the wicked die, they go to Tartarus, to a place of torment, where they remain till the resurrection. After the final judgment, the wicked go into Gehenna, and the righteous into heaven, to remain forever."

It is plain that the above position is against the plainest teachings of the Bible, for it not only advocates two judgments, one at death, in order to determine which place to send them, Paradise or purgatory, as the Catholics call it; and another at what is termed the final judgment, but it also makes the resurrection non-essential for if they enjoy a state of rest and comfort, Paul must have been beside himself in laying such stress on the resurrection in 1 Cor. xv. And it is a literal fact that Abraham was conscious and constituted a literal department called Paradise in hades, and Lazarus was literally in that department, while that department was conversing with the rich man in tartarus, another department in hades. Isaiah must have been mistaken about Abraham, for it is stated in the 63rd chapter and verse 16, that God was his father, but Abraham was ignorant of it. "Doubtless thou art our father, though Abraham be ignorant of us and Israel acknowledge us not; and again if they were in hades (the grave) and holding a conversation, Isa. xxxviii. 18, was wrong for he says, "For the grave cannot praise thee, death cannot celebrate thee, they that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth." Ver. 19, "The living, the living, he shall praise thee, as I do this day; the father to the children shall make known thy truth."

Lu e says the rich man and Lazarus died. Mr. Franklin says it is literal. Solomon says the dead know not anything. Eccl. ix. 4, "For to him that is joined to all the living there is hope; for a living dog is better than a dead lion, for the living know that they shall die; but the dead know not anything." Surely Mr. Franklin or Solomon is wrong, one says the dead are unconscious, the other says they are not; because they are represented in that figure as talking, having eyes, fingers, etc., is no evidence that it is a literal fact, for the trees are represented as walking and talking, clapping their hands for joy. All figurative language in the Scriptures must be harmonized with positive assertions, and agree with the general teachings, is a rule among all Bible students, and I think that rule will explain the meaning of the parable.

The rich man represents the Jews, and the pharisees the chief sect, and the five brethren, the other sects of the Jews' religion. Lazarus represents Christ, and the Gentiles were the dogs that licked his sores; the sores were the distresses heaped upon him by his own nation, the Jews, the crumbs were the few of his own that received him when he came to his own.

"He came to his own, and his own received him not, but as many as did receive him to them he gave power to become the sons of God." The Jews were the favored people, God's people. He came to them, lay at their gate, desiring them to accept him, they cast him out, and God rejected them as his [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] place to lay his head. The woman that came to heal her daughter was a Gentile. It is not fit meat to cast the children's bread to dogs, the Gentiles were looked upon by the Jews as only dogs.

Abraham was the father of the Jewish nation, hence the rich man addresses him as father Abraham. Abraham addresses the rich man as son, which was appropriate. The Jews in their natural life-time enjoyed God's favor, the good things. Christ during his life received evil things; persecuted, put to death, the impassable gulf was the cutting them off from God's special favor, for their unbelief the flame of torment is the curse sent upon them, which they have received as a nation, by all nations. The Dreyfus case in France is a sample. They said, "Let his blood be upon us and our children." The going to Abraham's bosom was Christ making reconciliation and insuring the promises made to Abraham, to all that became his seed through Christ, or became under the bonds of the covenant. After he found there was no help for him he says, "I pray thee, therefore, father that thou wouldest send him to my father's house." Send him to his own house, the house of Israel, "For I have five brethren, that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment." "Abraham saith unto him they have Moses and the prophets, let them hear them; and he said, nay father Abraham; but if one went unto them from the dead they will repent. And he said unto him, if they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they repent, though one raise from the dead." The Jews had the teachings of Moses and the prophets to guide them. The Book containing God's will and directions was read in their synagogues. Every Sabbath day they had priests, Levites and Rabbis to instruct the common people, notwithstanding God by Moses and the prophets had thoroughly furnished them with the means to know his whole plan and the coming of Christ. It appears that having eyes, they see not; having ears, they hear not. Those who ought to have received him, were his bitter enemies. It was the proud, haughty, sectarian spirit that blinded their eyes, so it is at the present time. While the common people or church members would receive the true teachings of the Bible gladly, if they were not hindered by their teachers. The leaders though ever so zealous and honest are so strongly joined to their idols that they will not even read or refer in public to a Scripture that does not agree with the theory taught in their schools, and we as a little flock, looking for the coming and kingdom of Christ need not be discouraged, for the Scripture says, "They that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution, and the law age being a type of the present, it is not strange to the close observer, that those who ought, by the common cause of reasoning, be the first to seek out and receive the mysteries hidden from ages, are like the type, the priests and Levites, and so it will be until the King comes in his glory. Matt. xxv. 31.

C. P. GRAHAM.

Reduced Rates for Thanksgiving Day Trips via Pennsylvania Lines.

For the accommodation of persons wishing to make Thanksgiving Day trips, excursion tickets will be sold at any ticket station of the Pennsylvania Lines to stations on those lines within a radius of 150 miles of selling point. Tickets will be on sale November 29th and 30th, good returning until December 1st, inclusive. For rates, time of trains, etc., apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.—Nov. 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkscbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stoulfer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. O. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251. Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisamville, Ark
J. J. Curly, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Chalbrook, In.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olsen, Fair Haven, Kas.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. M. Adams, [illegible] Kas.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kas.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kas.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, In.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hank, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Ogborn, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Bathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kas.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 027 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 43, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Penny, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave, Tacoma, Wash.
H. R. Kendall, Cricksville, Ohio.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Tithing Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Driggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams Ashton, Kan.
B. T. Halstead, Box 121 Andover, S. D.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.

Books and Tract List.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page, pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Necessity of Baptism.—Also Bible Plan of Salvation. 2 cts. each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

"Word of Man. vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. 2 cents each, or 15 for 25 cents.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Conference Notice.

The first Quarterly Conference of the Church of God of the Abrahamic Faith in Indiana, will be held at Plymouth, commencing Thursday evening, Nov. 16, 1899, and continue over the following Sunday. The brethren here are anxious for a good meeting, so let all come with that end in view. Come with hearts full of love and charity and let us earnestly pray that that divine influence may be with us that will lift us up and consecrate our lives more to his service. This we need above everything else.

A welcome is extended to all lovers of the truth. Let each organization send delegates. A program is being prepared which will appear in due time.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

Faster than ever to California.

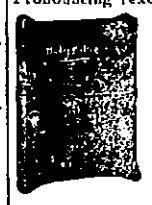
"The Overland Limited." Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line, leaves Chicago daily 6.30 p. m., arrives San Francisco afternoon of third day Los Angeles next morning. No change of cars, all meals in dining car. Buffet smoking and library cars, with barber. The best of everything. "The Pacific Express" leaves Chicago daily 10.30 p. m., with first-class and through tourist sleepers to California. Personally conducted excursions every Thursday. Illustrated pamphlet describing fully this wonderful state sent free on application to Chicago & North-Western Railway. A. H. Waggener, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago.—Nov. 18.

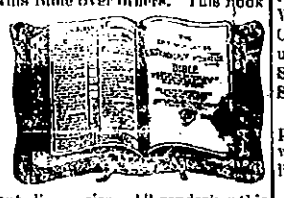
OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.





The Binding is Imperial Seal, Turk Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - $3.50
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - 1.50
Total, - - $5.00

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The points of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.

36 Behold, we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:

37 And it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

38 And because of all this we make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 29 The points of the covenant.

NOW those that sealed were, Ne-he-mi'ah, the Tir'shatha, the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,

2 Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Jer-e-mi'ah,

3 Pash'ur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,

4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,

5 Ha'rim, Mer'e-moth, O-ba-di'ah,

6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,

7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,

8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'ge-i, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.

9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni'ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;

10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,

11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,

12 Zac'cur, Shere-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,

13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Be-ni'nu.

14 The chief of the people; Par'osh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Ba'ni,

15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,

16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'vai, A'din,

17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'zur,

18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,

19 Ha'riph, An'e-thoth, Neb'a-i,

20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,

21 Me-shez'a-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,

22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,

23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Ha'shub,

24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Sho'bek,

25 Re'hum, Ha-shab'nah, Ma-a-se-iah,

26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,

27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.

28 ¶ And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Neth'i-nims, and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;

29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, and entered into a curse, and into an oath, to walk in God's law, which was given by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our LORD, and his judgments and his statutes;

30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:

31 And if the people of the land bring wares or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the seventh year, and the exaction of every debt.

32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;

33 For the showbread, and for the continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.

34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law:

35 And to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:

36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect May 15, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:30pm
No. 8, " " " 10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:15a m
No. 3, " " " " 12:52noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:40p m

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	18	16	20	4	22
	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	P.M.	P.M.
Pittsb'gh lv.	7 00	11 30	4 30
Allianee ar.	9 45	2 20	7 15
Canton "	10 55	3 30	8 25
Massillon "	11 22	3 57	8 52
Wooster "	12 07	4 42	9 37
Mansfield "	1 15	5 50	10 45
Crestline ar.	2 35	7 15	12 05
Bucyrus lv.	2 55	7 35	12 25
Lima "	4 30	9 10	2 00
Van Wert "	5 35	10 15	3 05
Ft Wayne ar.	6 45	11 25	4 15
Arcola "
Columbia City "	7 30		4 55
Larwill "	7 50		5 15
Pierceton "	8 00		5 25
Etna Green "	8 10		5 35
Warsaw "	8 30	12 10	5 55
Bourbon "	8 40		6 05
Bremen "	8 50		6 15
Plymouth "	9 05		6 30
Hamlet "	9 15		6 40
Hanna "	9 30		6 55
Davis "
Hessler "	9 35		7 00
Chesterton "	9 50		7 15
Valparaiso "	9 55		7 20
Wanatah "	10 10		7 35
Hanna "	10 20		7 45
Davis "
Hessler "	10 25		7 50
Chesterton "	10 40		8 05
Plymouth "	10 55		8 20
Baker St "	11 00		8 25
Wanamaker "	11 05		8 30
Walkerton "	11 15		8 40
Kingsbury "	11 25		8 50
La Porte "	11 35		9 00
Otis "	11 45		9 10
Hudson "	11 55		9 20
Elston "	12 05		9 30
Michigan City "	12 15		9 40
Westward.	20	6	8	22	12
	A.M.	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	A.M.
Chicago lv.	7 00	3 00	11 00	5 15	12 00
Clarke "	7 15		11 15	5 30	12 15
Grove "	7 30		11 30	5 45	12 30
Hessler "	7 45		11 45	6 00	12 45
Wheeler "	8 00		12 00	6 15	1 00
Valparaiso "	8 15	4 30	12 15	6 30	1 15
Wanatah "	8 30		12 30	6 45	1 30
Hanna "	8 40		12 40	6 55	1 40
Davis "
Hessler "	8 45		12 45	7 00	1 45
Chesterton "	8 55		12 55	7 10	1 55
Plymouth "	9 10	5 40	1 10	7 25	2 10
Baker St "	9 15		1 15	7 30	2 15
Wanamaker "	9 20		1 20	7 35	2 20
Walkerton "	9 30		1 30	7 45	2 30
Kingsbury "	9 40		1 40	7 55	2 40
La Porte "	9 50		1 50	8 05	2 50
Otis "	10 00		2 00	8 15	3 00
Hudson "	10 10		2 10	8 25	3 10
Elston "	10 20		2 20	8 35	3 20
Michigan City "	10 30		2 30	8 45	3 30
Westward.	18	16	20	4	22
	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	P.M.	P.M.
Bucyrus lv.	3 15	8 00	12 45
Crestline ar.	3 35	8 20	1 05
Mansfield "	4 55	9 40	2 25
Wooster "	6 03	10 48	3 33
Massillon "	6 48	11 33	4 18
Canton "	7 00	11 45	4 30
Alliance ar.	7 35	12 20	5 05
Pittsb'gh lv.	10 20	3 05	7 50
	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.

Eastward.	19	15	21	3	23
	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	P.M.	P.M.
Michigan City lv.	7 00	11 00	4 00	10 00	3 00
Valparaiso "	7 45	11 45	4 45	10 45	3 45
Kouts "	8 00	12 00	5 00	11 00	4 00
Hanna "	8 15	12 15	5 15	11 15	4 15
Wanatah "	8 25	12 25	5 25	11 25	4 25
Westville "	8 40	12 40	5 40	11 40	4 40
New Carlisle "	8 50	12 50	5 50	11 50	4 50
Hudson "	9 00	1 00	6 00	12 00	5 00
Walkerton "	9 10	1 10	6 10	12 10	5 10
Kingsbury "	9 20	1 20	6 20	12 20	5 20
La Porte "	9 30	1 30	6 30	12 30	5 30
Otis "	9 40	1 40	6 40	12 40	5 40
Hudson "	9 50	1 50	6 50	12 50	5 50
Elston "	10 00	2 00	7 00	1 00	6 00
Michigan City "	10 10	2 10	7 10	1 10	6 10
Eastward.	21	17	9	23	13
	A.M.	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	P.M.
Chicago lv.	7 00	3 00	11 00	5 15	12 00
Clarke "	7 15		11 15	5 30	12 15
Grove "	7 30		11 30	5 45	12 30
Hessler "	7 45		11 45	6 00	12 45
Wheeler "	8 00		12 00	6 15	1 00
Valparaiso "	8 15	4 30	12 15	6 30	1 15
Wanatah "	8 30		12 30	6 45	1 30
Hanna "	8 40		12 40	6 55	1 40
Davis "
Hessler "	8 45		12 45	7 00	1 45
Chesterton "	8 55		12 55	7 10	1 55
Plymouth "	9 10	5 40	1 10	7 25	2 10
Baker St "	9 15		1 15	7 30	2 15
Wanamaker "	9 20		1 20	7 35	2 20
Walkerton "	9 30		1 30	7 45	2 30
Kingsbury "	9 40		1 40	7 55	2 40
La Porte "	9 50		1 50	8 05	2 50
Otis "	10 00		2 00	8 15	3 00
Hudson "	10 10		2 10	8 25	3 10
Elston "	10 20		2 20	8 35	3 20
Michigan City "	10 30		2 30	8 45	3 30
Eastward.	19	15	21	3	23
	A.M.	A.M.	P.M.	P.M.	P.M.
Pittsb'gh lv.	7 00	11 30	4 30
Alliance ar.	9 45	2 20	7 15
Canton "	10 55	3 30	8 25
Massillon "	11 22	3 57	8 52
Wooster "	12 07	4 42	9 37
Mansfield "	1 15	5 50	10 45
Crestline ar.	2 35	7 15	12 05
Bucyrus lv.	2 55	7 35	12 25
Lima "	4 30	9 10	2 00
Van Wert "	5 35	10 15	3 05
Ft Wayne ar.	6 45	11 25	4 15
Arcola "
Columbia City "	7 30		4 55
Larwill "	7 50		5 15
Pierceton "	8 00		5 25
Etna Green "	8 10		5 35
Warsaw "	8 30	12 10	5 55
Bourbon "	8 40		6 05
Bremen "	8 50		6 15
Plymouth "	9 05		6 30
Hamlet "	9 15		6 40
Hanna "	9 30		6 55
Davis "
Hessler "	9 35		7 00
Chesterton "	9 50		7 15
Valparaiso "	9 55		7 20
Wanatah "	10 10		7 35
Hanna "	10 20		7 45
Davis "
Hessler "	10 25		7 50
Chesterton "	10 40		8 05
Plymouth "	10 55		8 20
Baker St "	11 00		8 25
Wanamaker "	11 05		8 30
Walkerton "	11 15		8 40
Kingsbury "	11 25		8 50
La Porte "	11 35		9 00
Otis "	11 45		9 10
Hudson "	11 55		9 20
Elston "	12 05		9 30
Michigan City "	12 15		9 40

Local trains, eastward between Hessler and Michigan City, will leave Hessler as follows: Train No. 19 at 7.00 A. M., Train No. 15 at 11.00 A. M., Train No. 21 at 5.00 P. M., Train No. 17 at 9.00 P. M. Westward between Hessler and Michigan City as follows: Train No. 20 at 8.00 A. M., Train No. 16 at 12.00 M., Train No. 18 at 4.00 P. M., Train No. 22 at 10.00 P. M. Trains No. 6 and 8 run daily between Chicago and Hessler. Trains No. 4 and 12 run daily between Hessler and Pittsburgh. Trains No. 3 and 23 run daily between Michigan City and Hessler. Trains No. 5 and 7 run daily between Hessler and Fort Wayne. Trains No. 9 and 13 run daily between Hessler and Logansport. Trains No. 10 and 14 run daily between Hessler and Plymouth. Trains No. 1 and 2 run daily between Pittsburgh and Fort Wayne. Trains No. 11 and 24 run daily between Fort Wayne and Chicago. Trains No. 19 and 21 run daily between Michigan City and Logansport. Trains No. 15 and 17 run daily between Michigan City and Plymouth. Trains No. 20 and 22 run daily between Michigan City and Walkerton. Trains No. 16 and 18 run daily between Walkerton and Plymouth. Trains No. 23 and 24 run daily between Michigan City and Chicago. Trains No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24 run daily between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Trains No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24 run daily between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Trains No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23 and 24 run daily between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

Dining Cars. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 1 and 2 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 3 and 4 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 5 and 6 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 7 and 8 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 9 and 10 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 11 and 12 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 13 and 14 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 15 and 16 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 17 and 18 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 19 and 20 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 21 and 22 between Pittsburgh and Chicago. Parlor and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 23 and 24 between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

E. P. LORER, General Manager.
E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
5-21-99-3m PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastward.					Westward.
No. 2	No. 4	No. 6			No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
Daily	Daily	Daily			Daily	Daily	Daily
P.M.	P.M.	A.M.			P.M.	P.M.	A.M.
12 00	5 00	7 00	Chicago		1 10	7 20	10 00
12 07	5 07	7 07	Valparaiso		1 03	7 13	9 53
12 45	5 45	7 45	Ex. Wanatah		12 25	6 35	9 15
1 03	6 03	8 03	Kouts		12 06	6 16	8 56
1 15	6 15	8 15	Hanna		11 55	6 05	8 45
1 23	6 23	8 23	Wyatt		11 47	5 57	8 37
1 30	6 30	8 30	Ex. Kingsbury		11 40	5 50	8 30
1 40	6 40	8 40	Hudson		11 30	5 40	8 20
1 50	6 50	8 50	Ex. Walkerton		11 20	5 30	8 10
2 00	7 00	9 00	Bass Lake		11 10	5 20	8 00
2 10	7 10	9 10	Knox		11 00	5 10	7 50
2 20	7 20	9 20	Ex. Winamac		10 50	5 00	7 40
2 30	7 30	9 30	Monterey		10 40	4 50	7 30
2 40	7 40	9 40	Ex. Hoaglin		10 30	4 40	7 20
2 50	7 50	9 50	Ex. Winamac		10 20	4 30	7 10
3 00	8 00	10 00	Star City		10 10	4 20	7 00
3 10	8 10	10 10	Ex. Francesville		10 00	4 10	6 50
3 20	8 20	10 20	Ex. Medaryville		9 50	4 00	6 40
3 30	8 30	10 30	Wheatfield		9 40	3 50	6 30
3 40	8 40	10 40	Ex. Kniman		9 30	3 40	6 20
3 50	8 50	10 50	Ex. Wheatfield		9 20	3 30	6 10
4 00	9 00	11 00	Rensselaer		9 10	3 20	6 00

Local trains, eastward between Stony Island and Calumet River, leave Stony Island as follows: No. 7 at 7.00 A. M., No. 9 at 12.00 M., No. 11 at 5.00 P. M. Westward same as No. 8, No. 10 and No. 12 respectively.

Chicago Time. Central Time.
Daily except Sunday. Daily except Saturday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 1, 3 and 5 to Chicago. Meals are served in "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On reaching you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agents.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A gem: beautiful colored plates; latest fashions; dressmaking at command; fancy work; household hints; fiction, etc. 24 to 36 pages each month, or, send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ 15¢

(No Scale—A Measure Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from
THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hunt Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and R. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible-class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:30, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Day St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Wetton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, IND., DECEMBER 13, 1899. NUMBER 46.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

Our Times are In God's Hand.

Marked our time upon God's dial
Testing faith by fiery trial:
Giving time for self-denial,
While we suffer, suffer with the Lord.

God gives time for daily crosses;
Time to suffer shame and losses;
Time to purge away earth's dresses
In the furnace, furnace of the Lord.

Time to labor for the Master
In the vineyard, vineyard of the Lord.

Time to take the pathway narrow;
Time to take the cup of sorrow;
Never taking thought for morrow,
Always trusting, trusting in the Lord.

When our hope is called in query;
Time to fight where places dreary;
Time to run and not be weary,
Mounting upward, upward to the Lord.

Time to die to worldly pleasures;
Time to give and press good measures;
Time to lay up heavenly treasures
In the kingdom, kingdom of the Lord.

Now, we're realizing sore distressing,
But we're near the time of blessing,
Near the times of God's refreshing
From the presence, presence of the Lord.

While our hearts are longing, yearning,
For the Savior's soon returning,
Let our sacrifice be burning
On the altar, altar of the Lord.

While we wait the Lord's appearing,
Let us pass our sojourn fearing;
Spend our time in persevering,
Walking worthy, worthy of the Lord.

To the heart all bruised and broken,
Christ has always comfort spoken;
Sends the Spirit's blessed token—
Parting promise, promise of the Lord.

Wonderful one, the blessed Jesus,
Words of life and spirit gave us,
Which doth knit, cement, and build us
An holy temple, temple in the Lord.

MRS. P. W. POST.

Communicated.

Papers Read at Indiana Conference.

WHAT IT IS TO BE A CHRISTIAN.

If all that has been said concerning the life hid with Christ in God be true, its results in the practical daily walk and conversation ought to be very marked. And the people who have entered into the enjoyment of it ought to be, in truth, a peculiar people, zealous of good works.

The want of connection between the great words of religion and everyday life has discouraged all of us. Christianity possesses the noblest words in the language; its literature overflows with terms expressive of the greatest and happiest moods which can fill the souls of men. Rest—Joy—Peace—Faith—Love—Light—these words occur with such persistency in hymns and prayers that an observer might think they formed the staple of Christian experience. But on coming to close quarters with the actual life of most of us, how sorely would he be disappointed.

There is only one great character in the world that can draw out all that is best in men. He is so far above all others in his influence over men for good, that he stands alone. That man was the founder of Christianity. To be a Christian is to have that character for our ideal in life, and to live under its influence. It is to adopt Christ's doctrine of God, and his view of the kind and nature of that life which leads us to and reconciles us with God. It is also to feel Christ himself as a reconciler and revealer and the influence of his life working as a healing and impelling force. It is to stand for Christ against the selfish and material world.

We all have noticed that when there has been a faithful following of the Lord, several things have inevitably followed. Meekness and quietness become, in time, the characteristics of the daily life. A submissive acceptance to the will of God, as it comes in the hourly events of each day. Calmness in the midst of turmoil and bustle, yielding to the wishes of others, and an insensibility to slights and affronts. Absence of worry and anxiety—all these, and many others, are invariably found to be the natural outward development of that inward life which is hid with Christ in God.

Nothing that happens in this world happens by chance. It is a methodical, and not an accidental world. Character is governed by law, happiness is governed by law, and Christian experiences are governed by law.

Then to be a Christian means to be tenderly and humbly eager to obey the few and simple directions that he laid down as to the outward rites of his society. To bring others to baptism with God, in the same of the [illegible] mortal feast as a symbol and food of our union with him, with the brethren and with God. It is to recognize the kingdom of God and the striving life of faith, and the society of the faithful, as that to which Christ calls, and to own himself as its King and leader.

Why is it so hard to have faith? Faith is the one most essential thing in the matter of salvation,—the thing God demands first and most continually from all sorts and all conditions of men, and the one thing, without which, he declares it is impossible to please him. Heb. xi. 6, says "But without faith it is impossible to please him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." And in James i. 6, we find, "But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like the waves of the sea driven with the wind and tossed about. For let not that man think he shall receive anything of the Lord."

It is, therefore, of the utmost importance what that faith is, and how to exercise it should be made so plain that no one need have difficulty in understanding it. To every human being he has given the power to believe, and we must believe, and are responsible for believing.

Neither are there different kinds of faith. Men talk about a healing faith, and a living faith, and a saving faith, and an intellectual faith, and an historical faith, and a dead faith,—but God talks about believing what he says,—and this is the only kind of faith mentioned in the Bible.

Either a man believes a thing, or he does not believe it. If he does, he has faith; if he doubts, he has not faith. Instead then, of looking inside at my faith, to see if it is the right kind, I must look outside and see if it is the right thing, see whether it is God's Word or man's that I am believing. Nor does James at all contradict this when he says "Faith without works is dead," for it simply means that such a thing is no faith at all, just as we say fire is dead when there is no fire.

O! Brothers, and Sisters, I entreat of you—recognize the power that God has given you of believing his Word, and put the power into use. Resolve that from henceforth you will believe what the Lord has said, and that whatever else others may do, you, at least, will set to your seal that God is true, and will show the world, by the reality and steadfastness of your faith in him, that he is worthy to be trusted.

To be a Christian means that we will live this life in his love and service, and in his faith. It means that we let everything else go, and live out in a practical way the Christ life to which we are all seeking. We are all united to the Lord with a wondrous tie, and must walk as he walked, and show to the bellaying world the blessed reality of this mighty power to save.

It is the law of influence that we become like those we habitually admire. Through all the range of literature, of history, and of biography this law presides. Paul says "So we all reflecting as a mirror the glory of Christ, are changed unto the same image."

There are some men and some women in whose company we are always at our best; and if to live with men, diluted to the millionth degree with the virtue of the highest, can exalt and purify the nature, what bounds can be set to the influence of Christ. To have lived with Christ, must have made one like Christ, that is to say, a Christian, and as a matter of fact it did produce this effect in the case of Paul and Christ's disciples. Day by day we can almost see the first disciples grow, until they found themselves like their Master, going about doing good.

Henry Drummond says, "Make Christ your constant companion. Be more under his influence than under any other influence. Ten minutes spent in his society every day—aye, two minutes if it be face to face and heart to heart, will make the whole day different. [illegible]

Christ has given his love and life for us. His love! What manner of love is it? What should be quoted to prove or describe it? The whole Bible with its mysteries and marvels of redemption, cannot tell of the love. For it is the love of Christ that passeth knowledge. One glimpse of its fullness and glory and we feel that henceforward it must be, shall be, and by his grace will be our true-hearted, whole-hearted cry.

"Take my life, and let it be Consecrated, Lord, to thee.

Take my moments and my days;
Let them flow in ceaseless praise.

Take my hands, and let them move
At the impulse of thy love.

Take my feet, and let them be
Swift and beautiful for thee.

Take my voice, and let me sing
Always, only, for my King.

Take my lips, and let them be Filled with messages from thee.

Take my silver and my gold;
Not a mite would I withhold.

Take my intellect, and use
Every power as thou shalt choose.

Take my will and make it thine;
It shall be no longer mine.

Take my heart; it is thine own;
It shall be thy royal throne.

Take my love; my Lord, I pour
At thy feet its treasure store.

Take myself, and I will be Ever, only, all for thee."

STELLA TABER.

THE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.

The inspiration of the Bible is the subject of this paper. This is a subject upon which there is much difference of opinion. There is one class of religious people that claim that every word written in the Bible is written by inspiration; while another class (and some of them claiming to be religious) claim that none of it is written by inspiration. These are the two extreme views, and the question arises where is the truth of the matter; for it is the truth alone we seek. And by examining the subject the truth seems to lie between these two extremes; for while all the writers of the Bible claim inspiration, they do not claim that every word they wrote came by inspiration.

The Prophets write that "the Word of the Lord came unto them, saying," then they give the message that was given them of the Lord; and they make a distinction between what was given them to say and other matters of which they speak with reference to their surroundings, the time, the place, and what king was reigning, etc. These matters they speak of from their own knowledge of them, but they tell the message God gives them to tell as coming from him, and not of their own knowledge. And in the messages they make known things of which they knew nothing until revealed to them.

Take the writings of Paul, the great Apostle to the Gentiles. While he claims that the gospel which he preached came direct from God to him, and says that he received it not of man, and forbids any one from preaching any other gospel than that he preached, yet he does not claim that all he wrote in his letters to the various churches, came to him by inspiration; for of some matters of which he wrote, he says that the Spirit had given him no instructions. But he gives his own judgment in the matter, and is particular to say so; as he does twice in the seventh chapter of the I Corinthians. He there gives instruction upon matters of which he says he has no commandment of the Lord; but he gives them his own judgment, which he thinks is good, under the [illegible] existing circumstances. But he tells them plainly that he speaks it of himself, and not as coming from the Spirit, thus making a marked distinction between what he says and what the Spirit tells him to say. And our duty is to make the same distinction, and not claim for the writers of the Bible more than they claim for themselves; but seek to rightly divide the word, and look for the true [illegible] which [illegible] have heard the Scriptures read and counted unworthy of belief, because the writers of the gospels vary slightly in their narrative. For instance,—Matthew and Mark both say it was six days from the time that Jesus spoke of the transfiguration scene until it was fulfilled on the Mount, while Luke says it was about eight days after Jesus said there be some standing here which will not taste death until they see the kingdom of God; that he took with him three of those that heard this saying, and went up into a mount and was transfigured before them, and goes on to describe the scene of the coming glory of the kingdom, as it will be when Jesus comes to his glory. But cavilers say if writers claiming to be inspired are mistaken in so small a matter as the time that transpired between this saying and the event, how can we believe what they say transpired on the Mount, etc. Now we think much of this kind of objection to the written Word comes from the idea being taught that every word written in the Bible is written by inspiration. It seems to us that a proper view to take of the four gospels is that they are a truthful record of what they saw and heard during the life of Jesus. They were not all present at all times, but they were all witnesses of his works and heard his teaching, and they record it as they saw and heard,—not all of it, for John says at the close of his record that many other signs did Jesus that are not written, but these are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, and believing ye might have life through his name. This is the object of these narratives, and they are made up of things the writers saw and heard, and their record is true; but each one tells of what he saw and heard in his own way, and when Matthew and Mark speak of the length of time that transpired between Christ foretelling the event and its fulfillment on the Mount, they both count all the full days that intervened, which were just six; Luke counts these days, also the day Christ foretold the event and the day it was fulfilled, making about eight. Not eight full days, but about that as it was fulfilled on the eighth day from spoken. Peter also refers to this scene on the mount in his second letter, but gives no circumstances connected with it, although he was standing by when Jesus spoke of it, and was one of the three taken up into the mount; but he does say that he was an eye witness of his Majesty, for he received from God the Father honor and glory when there came to him such a voice from the excellent glory, saying, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased," and this voice we heard when we were with him in the holy mount. There Peter was an eye witness of his Majesty, he saw Jesus just as he will appear when he comes in power and great glory, and this confirmed Peter in his belief of this event. To him it made the Word of prophecy more sure, for what evidence could be stronger than to be an eye witness and to hear the voice which came from the Father. Hence he knew it was not a cunningly devised fable, but confirmed the Word of the prophecy to which he exhorts his followers to take heed as unto a light that shines in a dark place, until the day (of which he was speaking) dawn and the day star (which is Christ) arise, and follows this admonition with the assurance that the Holy men of old spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit.

But some claim that Paul says emphatically that all Scripture is given by inspiration. But when we come to search for the meaning of the passage, which is recorded in Paul's second letter to Timothy, third chapter and sixteenth verse, we find that he is not speaking of the amount of Scripture that is inspired, but rather of the quality of the inspired Word; and most versions render this passage so as to make that thought clear. The Diaglott translation reads thus: "All Scripture divinely inspired is profitable for teaching, for correction, for [illegible] which God may be complete, 'thoroughly fitted for every good work;'" thus showing that the inspired Word is a complete outfit.

But the thought that there was nothing written but what was written by inspiration is not in the passage, and it seems to be doing violence to the inspired Word to so construe it. And while it is thus apparent that somethings written in the Bible were not dictated by inspiration, yet there is nothing written by the authors of the Bible contrary to the teachings of the Spirit, but, on the contrary, all the writers of this book are in harmony, and this is, to my mind, one of the strongest proofs that the Bible is a revelation from God to man. For notwithstanding the writers of the Bible lived in different ages of the world and wrote at different times or periods of the world's history, yet they all tell the same story. They all point to the Messiah, and reveal the same plan of salvation for fallen mankind. You may take up any Bible subject, and go through all the authors of the Bible, and if they speak of the subject at all, they all speak in harmony; thus showing that they received their knowledge of the subject from a higher power, for it would be impossible for them all to thus harmonize if they were dependent upon their own knowledge. Take for instance the subject of the resurrection of the dead. All the Old Testament writers wrote of the resurrection of the dead, although the word 'resurrection' is not in the Old Testament. Christ was the first to use that word; but Christ quotes from the writing of Moses to prove to the Jews that there was to be a resurrection. They believed in Moses, or thought they did, but Christ tells them if they believed Moses they would believe in him, for Moses wrote of him. Paul also quotes Moses to prove the resurrection of the dead, both showing that Moses, the oldest Bible writer, wrote of the resurrection and of the Messiah. And the promise made to Abraham involves a resurrection, and cannot be fulfilled without it. Job also understood about a resurrection, and asked the question "If a man die shall he live again?" and answers it thus, "All the days of my appointed time will I wait until my change; thou wilt call and I will answer thee; thou wilt have a desire to the work of thy hands." What call was Job expecting, and what change was he waiting for? Paul makes it plain, he says "Behold I show you a mystery, we shall not all sleep (or die) but we shall all be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye at the last tramp, for the trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we that are alive (at that time) shall be changed from mortality to immortality, for this mortal shall put on immortality, and this corruptible must put on incorruption." Here is the call Job was expecting, and the change he was waiting for, and he knew that it would come for he further expressed himself on this subject. "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he will stand at the latter day upon the earth." Job too was looking for the coming of Christ, and he was expecting to see him, although he knew that his body would be destroyed by death, yet he says "In my flesh shall I see him." Thus showing that he fully understood the coming of Christ and the resurrection of the dead.

And David, the sweet singer of Israel, is in harmony with every other writer of the Bible upon this subject. He says "As for me I shall behold thy face in righteousness. I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness." He expected to awake at the resurrection in the likeness of Christ's glorious body, then he would be satisfied; showing that he understood this subject just as Paul explains it when he says, "These corruptible bodies shall be fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body." All the prophets speak of this subject in the same way. Isaiah says, "Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise, and the earth shall cast out the [illegible] through all the prophets that have spoken on this subject, and they are all in harmony, thus showing that they all got their knowledge from a higher power.

And when Christ came and began his mission he taught the resurrection and verified it by his own resurrection after having been dead three days, thus showing that all the Old Testament writers in the ages gone by had spoken truly and had been inspired with that knowledge from a higher source, for this is something that man could not have devised, and it seems hard for men to believe in this theory of future life even after it has been made known by revelations and the resurrection of Christ. But the human mind seems inclined to devise some other means of future life than by a resurrection from the dead, and this is another proof that the Bible plan of salvation and future life never was devised by MAN, but came by revelation.

And thus we may take up any subject taught in the Bible, such as the "Reign of Christ upon the earth," the "Restitution of all things" the "Redemption of Israel," "The nature of man," "The reward of the righteous," the fate of the wicked or any other subject connected with the plan of salvation, and all the different writers of the Bible are as a unit. There is no contradiction when you get the thought of the writer; they are the same. This is evidence clear and strong that the Bible is a revelation from God to man, written for our learning that we may thereby become wise unto salvation and inherit the exceedingly great and precious promise of everlasting life. May this be our happy lot.

MRS. M. E. THOMPSON.

GOD IN SCIENCE.

Let us take for granted the statement that there is a living God, a heavenly Father, a supreme Ruler of heaven and earth, and view him in and through his wondrous works. It is a commonly held opinion that when deep scientific investigation commences, then becomes a lessening of one's belief in God's power. But the closer investigation of the wonders around us is carried, the more one may and does realize of the Creator's power. A lover of nature is seldom an infidel. Bryant tells us,

"To him who in the love of nature,
Holds communion with her visible forms,
She speaks a various language."

He then tells us how even the clod may speak of another life. No matter which way we turn, above, beneath and all around are evidences of God's love to us. At night we look up and behold the stars, and then science goes farther and tells us that each shining body is another world, hung in space and perhaps teeming with life as is this globe of ours. We are but a speck in the great boundless universe, hung in space and kept there by the great law of gravitation. These laws which control all things, are ever present and never change, perhaps show in a greater degree what boundless attributes God possesses. Astronomy shows beyond all other sciences the magnificence of God's operations. It raises the mind to the most sublime views of the Deity. It gives us views of our real insignificance in the universe of space, matter and time. Or on the other hand it teaches us the dignity of the human intellect as offspring and measurably the counterpart of the Divine, able in a sense to comprehend the universe and know its plan and meaning. The sky appears as a hollow dome and to it are attached the stars, but instead of this they are many thousands of

(Concluded on Page 8d)

Oregon Bible College
Gregon, Illinois

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD,

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Our Times are In God's Hand.

Marked our time upon God's dial
Testing faith by fiery trial;
Giving time for self-denial,
While we suffer, suffer with the Lord.

God gives time for duty, crosses;
Time to suffer shame and losses,
Time to purge away earth's dresses
In the furnace, furnace of the Lord.

The Re

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath [illegible] by t

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, IND[illegible] DECE[illegible]

Nothing that happens in this world happens by chance. It is a methodical, and not an accidental world. Character is governed by law, happiness is governed by law, and Christian experiences are governed by law.

Then to be a Christian means to be tenderly and humbly eager to obey the few and simple directions that he laid down as to the outward rites of his society. To bring others to baptism with God, in the name of the [illegible]. To partake of the [illegible] day we can almost see the first disciples grow, until they found themselves like their Master, going about doing good.

Henry Drummond says, "Make Christ your constant companion. Be more under his influence than under any other influence. Ten minutes spent in his society every day—aye, two minutes if it be face to face and heart to heart, will make the whole day different. Every character has [illegible] to Christ to it.

[illegible] existing cir[illegible] them plainly [illegible], and not [illegible] it, thus m[illegible] on between [illegible] Spirit tells [illegible] we to m[illegible], and not cl[illegible] Bible more [illegible] themselves? but [illegible] Word and [illegible], and not a[illegible] itution.

... by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

DECEMBER 13, 1899. NUMBER 46.

existing circumstances. But sage, which is recorded in Paul's second letter to Timothy, third chapter and sixteenth verse, we find that he is not speaking of the amount of Scripture that is inspired, but rather of the quality of the inspired Word; and most versions render this passage so as to make that thought clear. The Dinglott translation reads thus: "All Scripture divinely inspired is profitable for teaching, for correction, for conviction and for the discipline which is in righteousness: that the man of

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of Kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for the salvation.

expected to awake at the resurrection in the likeness of Christ's glorious body, then he would be satisfied; showing that he understood this subject just as Paul explains it when he says, "These corruptible bodies shall be fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body." All the prophets speak of this subject in the same way. Isaiah says, "Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise and the earth ... cast out the dead; and ...

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DEC. 13, 1899.

WE must calculate not on the weather, nor on fortune, but upon God and ourselves. He may fail to gratify our wishes, but never in the encounter with our needs.

ANY one who can do so will confer a favor on us by supplying the present address of E. J. Godfrey, who used to live at Sutherland, Neb. and went to Aurora, Neb. and left without giving address.

AUBLIN, in his "Life of Luther," speaking of some of his disciples, says, —"They left Wittenberg and went to Geneva, where we found them. In 1517, sustaining in a crowded school and in printed thesis, that all which was said about the immortality of the soul was invented by Anti-christ for the purpose of making the pope's pot boil."

THE fight between the British and Boers for the last week has been an even one. One day the British gain and the next day the Boers. There is more gain for the English by the full in operations, as they are given a rest after days of marching, and also are given time to bring up their artillery and supplies.

GERMANY seems to have check-mated Russia in her designs for a Persian railroad, having obtained concessions that will practically ruin the Czar's scheme. The Bear is alive, however, and scenting danger of too much British in Japan has sent one of the most skillful diplomats in his kingdom to that island with the view of removing the prejudice existing there. More battles are fought by diplomats than armies nowadays.

IT is time to think and plan for our "Christmas Love Feast" letters. For a number of years it has been our custom to have a "Social meeting" about the last of the year, and many short testimonies of what the Lord has done for us have been given by this medium. These short letters of greeting are full of cheer for many who are isolated and have no opportunities for attending church services, and once more we invite you all, old and young, preachers and listeners, to contribute a little word in brotherly and sisterly greeting, that we may have a real foretaste of what our meeting will be when the Lord comes to gather his loved ones home. Do not delay, but write and send your letters in early so we may make provision for them.

FOR Sister J., and all others similarly tried, bear with us. We must say to you that unbelief is always impatient and fretful,—faith on the other hand is willing to wait God's time. Trial one, in proportion to your trustfulness during the dark and cloudy day will be your peace of mind through God's sustaining grace. While realizing how much easier it is to prescribe medicine for others than to take it one's self, we are constrained to say to you,—cast your burden upon the Lord. He graciously invites you to do this; and therefore cannot take it as an imposition. Oh, take hold upon his strength, dear one, and then if he tarry you will be content to wait, and the waiting will make you more and more fit to enter into the joy of your Lord; but this attitude will not prevent the constant prayer, Come Lord Jesus, come quickly.

Death.

We think it is Watts who says in one of his hymns:—

"Why do we mourn departed friends,
Or shake at death's alarms?
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call us to his arms!"

How untrue that is! Jesus sends no such "voice to call them to his arms." When he wants our friends or ourselves he will himself descend accompanied by his holy angels, and get us to himself. Oh, no; he will send no such cruel, heartless monster as death to fetch us to him.

But all the poets do not sing the same song about death. Dr. Johnson says:

"Oh! name not death! distraction and amazement
Horror and agony are in that sound!
Let me but live! Heap woes on woes upon me,
Hide me with murderers in the dungeon's gloom,
Bind me to wander on some pathless shore,
Let shame and heating infamy pursue me,
Let slavery harass, let hunger gripe."

People sometimes talk of death as if they were almost impatient to meet him, but when they begin to think he is coming after them, they send for the doctor right off; and evidently feel as Milton represents Adam to have felt, and expressed his horror thus:—

"But have I now seen death? Is this the way
I must return to dust? O sight
Of terror, foul and ugly to behold!
Horror to think, how horrible to feel!"

Talk about death being a friend. It is not true. No friend would slay the companion of your life, with whom you walk its pathway, on whom you lean in sunshine and sorrow. No friend would kill the little one on your bosom who never knew a thought. No friend would follow you with a sword. No friend would await your coming and then stab you to the heart! Natural instincts and commonsense both say this is not true. Almost all love life and dread death and ward it off as long as possible, and Tupper in his Proverbial Philosophy speaking of this fact says:—

"Even to the best, the wise, and pure, and pious,
Death, repulsive king, thins iron rule is terrible;
Yes; even at the best, in company with buried kindred,
With hallowing rites, and friendly tears, and the dear old country church,
Death, cold and lonely, thy frigid face is hateful;
The bravest look on thee with dread, the humblest curse thy coming."

Reader, "the living know that they shall die, but the dead know not anything;" is the testimony of the Scriptures throughout. And you are distinctly warned in 1 John v. 10–12, that you make God a liar if you believe not the record he has given of his Son. Then in the next verse you are told what that record is, viz., that God has given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. "He that hath the Son hath life. He who hath not the Son, hath not the life." We entreat you to heed this warning voice, if you have not the Son.

Another Has Fallen.

The sad intelligence has reached us that our beloved brother in Christ, Amory W. Woodbury, Sr., of Springfield, Ohio, fell asleep in Jesus, Nov. 3, 1899, aged 72 years, six months, and ten days, after a very protracted illness, terminating in bright's disease. His sufferings at last were very great, but they were borne with Christian fortitude, the Blessed Hope of unending life, where the inhabitants will not say they are sick, sustained him throughout; and the "many last words" which expressed his unshaken confidence in the veracity and faithfulness of the God of Abraham, and the assurance of his acceptance in the Beloved, will never be forgotten by the loved ones left behind.

Brother Woodbury was a son of Israel and Olive Woodbury, of Leminster, Mass., where he was born April 24th, 1827. Two daughters and one son by a former wife, one step-son, and five grand children, together with the widow, two brothers, and four sisters, and a large circle of friends, relatives and brethren and sisters mourn his loss. He was an affectionate husband, an indulgent father, an upright citizen, always affable and pleasant. And when to this we add that he was an ardent advocate of the truth as it is in Jesus, we think it safe to say we seldom see a character better rounded out, judging by the fruits.

He came to Ohio in 1852, and before many years he was induced to investigate the Scriptures by a brother of the One faith, and having discovered after three years study what God's eternal purpose in regard to earth and man is, and that the gospel of the grace of God is founded upon the oath confirmed promises to the fathers of the Hebrew nation, including all the offices and work of the Lord Jesus Christ at his first and second advent. He was baptized into the loving name of Jesus for remission of past sins, and identified himself with the ecclesia at Springfield; and to the day of his death was characterized by a consistent walk and conversation.

His wife Sarah J. Woodbury, who sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, Jan. 5, 1892, was also a baptized believer of the truth as it is in Jesus, and a member of the Springfield ecclesia. Brother Woodbury was married again to Mrs. Matilda Cook, of Cleveland, Ohio, and a member of the Church of the Blessed Hope. She had been reared in the truth, being a daughter of that veteran in the cause, Bro. Wm. Fish of Dayton, Ohio, long since dead. He was an uncompromising defender of the faith once delivered to the saints.

With their faces set Zionward they traveled on for a little while, watching the signs of redemption's approach, but the enemy rudely snatched one away and left the other to finish life's journey alone. She, however, sorrows not as those who have no hope, being persuaded that death's destroyer will soon chase the shades of night away, release his prisoners from the pit wherein there is no water and re animate them with the spirit life. That will wipe away all tears, dear sister; and may the bright tomorrow soon dawn, we pray.

The funeral services were held at the late residence of the deceased, 66 Cassidy street, and were conducted by B. T. Howell. He spoke many words of comfort from the Word, and when referring to the rest that remaineth for the people of God, was deeply affected by the loss of one with whom he had been associated for 30 years in the household of faith.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer on page 4 of this paper? Send early so we will be able to get your books to you before the rush on the Holiday trade begins. The offer is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for the RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Remember, the time is soon coming when the shippers and transportation companies will be very busy, and delays are liable to occur, so in order to get your books promptly order now. You can get nothing better for Christmas and New Year Gifts than a nice Bible, and here is your chance to get a very desirable gift at a very low price.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the finoness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

Report of Labor.

Began work here at Brady, Dist. No. 1, two and one half miles northeast from Vicksburg, Mich., Nov. 23. Our faithful co-laborers, Brother and Sister Richard Worthington, moved here last spring and my husband has been speaking here every four weeks since then. Through their effort we are here now holding meetings, have had good interest the nine evenings already here, and Sunday had the pleasure of seeing three taken into the family of God by baptism, more are almost ready to come. Some thirty years ago Bro. H. V. Reed attended conference here, and at intervals, Bro. L. C. Chase's father, Bros. Simons, Hoyt, Miller, Chesebro and Kendall have held forth the words of life. This is Bro. Jacob Lemons' home, and at one time a conference was held here, and between 75 and 80 were entertained at their hospitable board. But it has been many years since "the faith" has been preached here. After listening several evenings a very intelligent lady said, "I cannot see why Elder—— has not told us these things, I always supposed he was a very smart man, but in all the years I have listened to him he has never mentioned these truths of God." Shame on the [illegible] When the Judge calls for their account, what can they say? The congregations are not large here, but the same intelligent faces appear every night, and all seem greatly interested. May God's blessing still attend the work.

M. A. WOODWARD.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. C. W. Compton,	1.50
John & C. B. Carpenter,	5.25
Mrs. H. Winter,	.40
Peter Jeffrey,	1.50
L. F. Gunn,	.50

Communicated.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 23.

DRAWBACKS AND HINDRANCES.

"That they all may be one.....that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."

The writer of these papers happened quite recently to a sight of the "Christadelphian" magazine for June, 1899, and was much struck with what he considered as a remarkable instance of "Drawbacks and Hindrances" to the gospel, therein recorded. The late editor of that periodical, Robert Roberts, has been already named in these articles of mine in connection with "division," and their heart-burning results, and I need therefore offer no apology for asking the reader's attention to this.

A letter of date Oct. 29, 1898, from a brother in San Francisco, U. S. A., giving some details of the visit of Robert Roberts to that city, and his sad and sudden death there, in September last year, was printed in the number mentioned. He referred to a gathering of some Christadelphians in his own house at which Robert Roberts was present. To avoid the appearance of any misrepresentation, I quote the words of the letter.

* * * * *

"Brother Roberts was requested to speak. He said he was in a rather difficult position, and somewhat in the fog, as it were, not knowing our position, and, he thought the best thing to do, would be to try to clear the fogs away if possible, and that would make the way clear for a longer stay on his return here. The first question he asked, was, would we fellowship a brother coming amongst us believing in a partial inspiration of the Scriptures? He said we, no doubt, knew there were certain questions which had arisen amongst us as a body, during these last fifteen years or more, and this was one of the most important, sapping the very vitals of the truth. Some one remarked there were present brethren and sisters, who had never heard this question brought up, and Brother Roberts was requested to give an explanation of what he meant by partial inspiration. He defined his position clearly: that holy men spake as they were moved by the Holy Spirit, and were guided by it into all truth, and only gave utterance to what the Spirit permitted them, and gave the instance of John in the Isle of Patmos, when he was not permitted to write certain things which he had seen and heard, "write not," etc.

"We assented to what was said, and then Brother R. C. Bingley said he did not endorse what was on the cover of the CHRISTADELPHIAN, "The Bible wholly inspired." (after endorsing Bro. Roberts' remarks) and asked "was Paul inspired to tell Timothy to take a little wine for his stomach's sake? And to tell a certain brother to bring his cloak from such a place? * * * He evidently did not care what remarks he made, and said he had always been a black sheep, at least, so considered by a good many. Brother Roberts soon saw where Brother Bingley stood, and that it was no use talking with him. But it was no use. Brother Bingley would not stop though I requested him myself, and Brother J. A. McCarl also. Brother Roberts remarked we should never have faithful brethren visit us, so long as we had no basis: we would always be in isolation. Sister Bingley remarked, "We shall remain in isolation then." Brother McCarl got up and said they would have to go, as they had to go over to Oakland, so that put an end to the meeting. Brother Roberts was, no doubt, upset a great deal, by what had taken place. It was at Brother Bingley's request that he [illegible] Brother Roberts up to my home. In company with Brother McCarl and Sister McCarl, and Sister Bowden, of Stockton, and Sister Chauncy, of Byron, I walked along the street. Brother Roberts requested to walk a few feet ahead of us, and did so until near the hotel, when we bid him good night."

* * * * *

On this extract I would venture one or two remarks. The editor, to test the position of those present, launched one of his favorite topics, making a strong stand upon it as most vital—The Inspiration of the Bible. An exposition of this received the assent of most of those present. Dissent was expressed by a brother, to my knowledge one of many years standing in the faith. The editor's assertion about want of a basis (his basis, of course) necessitating "isolation" found a response from Sister Bingley, "We shall remain in isolation then." The report says "Bro. Roberts was no doubt upset a great deal by what had taken place." This result evidently found manifestation during the return to the hotel, when Robert Roberts chose to walk some distance ahead of the company.

The inspiration of the Bible, vital and fundamental as it is, in relation to the gospel, is well known to have various aspects. Divergent view on this subject have been held by religious men of the highest intellectual attainments, and sanctified orthodox and evangelical. It would seem that the most extreme view had been adopted by Robert Roberts, and, with his usual zeal for what he terms "the truth," imposed it upon his brethren. Such a view found expression by one authority as follows:—"Every verse of the Bible, every word of it, every syllable of it, every letter of it, is the direct utterance of the Most High."

Without seeking to enter into any discussion of the subject here, it may be observed that the contention really comes to this. A sincere believer in Moses and the Prophets, Christ and the Apostles, and obedient to the faith of the gospel is doomed to "isolation" by the Christadelphian body, for the following reason. He considers Paul's mention of his "cloak" on an entirely different level, as regards inspiration, with his declaration—"Behold I show you a mystery, we shall not all sleep."

It is easy to see that, in a subject of this nature, persons of honest and good hearts, but, it may be, not blessed with the requisite mental calibre for the study of metaphysics, will be apt to yield their assent to a plausible argument on a difficult point like the inspiration of the Bible. Such persons may certainly not be described as "fully persuaded in their own minds." I submit that there can hardly be a reasonable doubt that many Christadelphians are in this position as regards many of the 30 or 40 points of their so-called creed.

It is sad to think that the incident recorded in the foregoing extract was the final touch to a series of similar circumstances which commenced to my knowledge 35 years ago. This was in 1864, when Robert Roberts withdrew from a worthy and intelligent brother in Edinburgh because of an opinion he held that Satan was a personality. There is little wonder that we find a statement in the San Francisco letter as follows—"One of his valises was open by his side, and it seemed as if he had taken some medicine from a bottle, which the doctors said was for heart troubles." Brain irritation and its accompaniment, over action of the heart, could not fail of resulting from a life of activity, of which so large a portion was made up of contention with brethren, leading in so many cases to division, alienation, and heart-burnings. What were those voyages to distant lands but, in part at least, a "compassing sea and land to make proselytes" to his system of vital truths and questionable opinions?

In the article containing the letter above quoted a coincidence is mentioned—the last words written by R. Roberts and by Dr. Thomas respectively, both making allusion to the resurrection. In the circumstances, however, under which those words were indited, there was a co-incidence of a less gratifying kind. The words of Robert Roberts occur at the close of his account of the voyage to San Francisco on the occasion mentioned above. About a year before leaving Britain he had a notice in his Magazine desiring to be informed by brethren in the United States, in view of "matters that have been brought into dispute," whether their condition in that respect would allow of his paying them a visit on his journey homewards. "All know the flag we sail under;" those "who fly the right flag," might receive a visit, but not otherwise.

The last words written by Dr. Thomas occur in an article he was writing at the time he took his last illness. The subject was "What is flesh?" The object of it may be seen in these words taken from it—"I would suggest that discussion of the very knotty and intricate subject of the quo modo of the manifestation of Deity in flesh be suspended among you till each member of the ecclesia be furnished with a copy of my forthcoming Pictorial Illustration and Explanatory Key." He also gives the advice to "eschew metaphysics."

It is amply evident from these extracts that the circumstances of the "last words" referred to were those of disputes and divisions of the brotherhood. The gravity of this coincidence is the more intensified from the fact that the "matters that had been brought into dispute" were the natural result of certain action on the part of the writers themselves. In the first instance by Dr. Thomas, afterwards by Roberts, in organized creed form, and then practically endorsed by the Doctor.

The new editor (Charles C. Walker) in the article referred to, says, "It was a beautiful and fitting termination that he (Robert Roberts) should lie side by side with Dr. Thomas in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn." This coincidence has its "drawback." Truth can never escape the reflection that, however sincerely we honor departed worth, the "fitness" spoken of has its other side, of which the reader of this article can judge.

J. CAMERON.

OBITUARY.

James Elliott was born Dec. 7, 1841, in De Kalb Co., Ill. Departed this life Nov. 10th, 1899 at his home near Olpe, Kan., aged 57 years, 11 months and 4 days. He leaves a sorrowing wife, two daughters, Mrs. H. L. Soule and Mrs. O. I. Martin, both of Olpe, two brothers, Merritt Elliott of Oregon, Scott Elliott of Emporia, Kan., three sisters, Mrs. L. P. Clark of Wisconsin, Mrs. Will Crowley of Iowa, Mrs. Walter Wright of Emporia, Kan., besides numerous friends to mourn his loss. Deceased was stricken with paralysis, Aug. 11, 1892, from which he never recovered, but his afflictions were borne patiently and without a murmur, saying he was ready to go when the Lord should call. He was baptized in the Church of God, July 11, 1895, to which faith he remained constant until his death.

He enlisted in the War of the Rebellion, Aug. 21, 1862, in Co. I., 14th Illinois Infantry Volunteers and was honorably discharged June 10, 1865. He was a very patriotic member of Thomas James Post No. 369, G. A. R. of Olpe, Kan.

The funeral services were held at the M. E. Church, Sunday morning, Nov. 12, 1899, and attended by a large concourse of friends and relatives. The sermon was preached by Rev. Harkness of the M. E. Church, who preached from the text, Psa. xc. 12, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." The choir sang, "Jesus Lover of my Soul," "Nearer my God to Thee," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Shall we gather at the River." The remains were laid to rest in the Pleasant Ridge Cemetery.

Yours in Christ,
MRS. S. A. ELLIOTT.

Michael Mahr, a well known resident of Mendon, died at his home in that village, Wednesday evening, Nov. 29. Mr. Mahr was the beloved husband of our much loved sister in Christ, Dora Mahr, nee, Dora Hopple. She became a member of the body of Christ through the preaching of Elder B. W. Woodward, some four or five years ago, and has been a faithful lover of the truth since. She was married soon after, but the few short years of happiness were suddenly cut off, and she is left alone, and yet not alone, for God is her sure resting place and refuge in this hour of darkness. Elder B. W. Woodward was called to preach the funeral sermon, addressing a very large audience at the Methodist church, in Mendon, using the words of James iv. 14, for his text, and nothing could have been more appropriate, for Mr. Mahr's death came so suddenly. Attending his business on Monday as usual, early Tuesday morning he was taken with a most excruciating pain in his head, and at 7 p. m. Wednesday, he fell asleep. Apoplexy being the cause of death. God pity and help the sorrowing wife, she has our sympathy and prayers.

M. A. WOODWARD.

The Nickel Plate Road offers to students desiring to return home for the Holidays, the special rate of one and one third fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on the day school closes and the day immediately preceding, good returning to and including the date school reconvenes, but not later than Jan. 10th.—dec 25

Holiday Excursions, Vandalia Lines.

On account of Holidays the Vandalia line will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good to return up to and including Jan. 2nd.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell Holiday excursion tickets good going on Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan 1st, 1900, at one and one third fare for the round trip, good returning to and including Jan. 2nd, 1900. With its Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains and an Unexcelled Dining Car Service, the Nickel Plate Road offers special inducements for Holiday travel.—jan 1

Poetry.

Rock of Ages.

"Rock of Ages cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee."
Let these words by all be sung
By every nation 'neath the sun.
Yes, sing it with their latest breath,
And know for them this Rock was cleft.
For us our Lord was crucified,
Meekly bowed his head and died.
The water and the blood we know,
Freely from his side did flow.
O! that side for us was riven,
And that precious life was given,
That mankind might live and be Happy in eternity.

"Could our tears forever flow,"
"Could our zeal no languor know,"
This we know would not suffice,
For the bleeding sacrifice.
We must feel the blood applied,
Feel for us our Lord has died.
Know that he is all our own,
That he's sitting on the throne,
Interceding there for us.
When are nothing now but dust.
Anything our hands have done,
Cause Him our sins atone.
This is what we all should sing,
"Simply to the cross we cling."

"While we draw this fleeting breath,"
"When our eyes shall close in death,"
When our robe of white is given,
When our Savior comes from heaven,
And the saints of ages rise.
Meet their Savior in the skys,
Still we'll sing this good old song,
Sing it with the happy throng.
O! 'Tis then we'll sing it best,
With the loved ones and the blest.
All will join the chorus when
Christ at all come to earth again.
Then we'll raise our voices high,
When our Lord descends the sky,
"Rock of Ages cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

ALMIRA BROOKS.

Communicated.

Papers Read at Indiana Conference.

(Continued from Page First.)

miles apart. One writer on the subject gives an illustration to show the extent of this marvelous, superb creation. He says, "To give an idea of the relative distances suppose a voyager through the celestial spaces could travel from the sun to the outermost planet of our system in twenty-four hours. So enormous would be his velocity that it would carry him across the Atlantic Ocean, from New York to Liverpool in less than a tenth of a second of the clock. Starting from the sun with this velocity he would cross the orbits of the inner planets in rapid succession and the outer ones more slowly, until at the end of a single day he would reach the confines of our system. But though he passed eight planets the first day he would pass more the next, for he would have to journey eighteen or twenty years without diminution of speed before he would reach the nearest star and would then have to continue his journey as far again before he could reach another. All the planets of our system would have vanished in the distance and the sun be but an insignificant star in the firmament. Could there be a more wonderful creation than this universe? And yet skeptics say it all comes by chance. It seems beyond reason to say that there is not a great power in existence which put into operation these wonders.

Coming back from the starry heavens to the world we have for our home, we find just as many evidences of God's love. In every nook and corner life abounds in all its varied forms. The sluggish amoeba takes out its miserable existence, the dragon fly darts hither and thither on bright wings, flowers are blooming, birds are singing, from the cold lands of the north to the warm tropics, are living creatures. There is regularity through all. The tiny cell in its perfect existence is combined in every variety of form, and millions of organisms abound. Man, the highest of all, made in the image of the Creator was pronounced very good. And now man goes to work and tries to solve the great problems about him.

We delve deep into chemistry, we imagine ourselves in the days of alchemy, in the so-called sorcerer's cave. He is producing this substance and changing it into another. Today we pass into the chemical labratory and minute examination of natural forces, chemical affinities is going on. Is it useless, we ask? Is it useless to know of the laws of God? and this is what we are learning. We study physiology, find out the perfect adaptation of every part of our bodies. Complex parts all fitted together and working as a unit. The dexterity of the hand, the voice in its astonishing capacity, the circulation, digestion, all are playing their parts just at the moment needed.

And again in mathematics. Laws of numbers control all things, even the snow flake falls in a six sided crystal. A teacher in telling of teaching a class in geometry tells this story. The class were earnest students and had step by step developed the fact that the area of a sphere is equal to $4\times R^2$ Some one in the class happened to notice that this is four times the area of a great circle of the same sphere and the class felt much impressed by the discovery and finally some one voiced the feeling of the class by exclaiming impressively, "Now, this did not all come by chance." And the professor said, "Those pupils were just beginning to see and feel the system of God's universe. They were beginning to see what will become more and more apparent to them, that all nature is governed by mathematical law." If these laws fail, God must fail, for they are a part of God." But the law which distresses us all most is that all things must die and fade, and for that reason we rejoice and are glad because we have a promise made to us by this wonderful God, that if we are but true to him and do as he wishes us to do we shall "Live Again." There are defects in this universe and we are promised that all shall be made new in that latter day, and as fair as this land is today, what will it be then. It is worth striving for, sacrificing for, living for, each day and hour. Let us so live that we may be in the beautiful city described in the 2nd chapter of Revelation, "And he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it and on either side of the river was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits and yielded her fruit every month, and the leaves of the tree for the healing of the nations. And there shall be no more curse, but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and his servants shall serve him. And they shall see his face and his name shall be in their foreheads. And there shall be no more night there, and they need no candle, neither light of the sun, for the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign forever and ever.

IDONIA CORDILL.

The Gospel of the Kingdom Superceded. No. 3.

JAMES BROWNING AFFIRMS AND W. H. WILSON DENIES.

The position I take was plainly stated (in first article) that the gospel of the kingdom was a phrase used to denote the glad message of the proximity of the kingdom as expressed in the words, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand." In answer to this you assume that the "Resurrection of our Lord was a part of this gospel and take a multitude of words to prove that it was preached, where one passage alone would suffice. Of course it was preached, so also was baptism and circumcision; but was it preached as a part of this gospel of the kingdom?

Again you labor to prove that Paul preached the same gospel as the rest of the Apostles. This I have never denied; what I do deny is that Paul's gospel was the same as that preached by the other Apostles (prior) to the rejection of Christ, meaning of course, the gospel of the kingdom. See again my first letter.

Still again you refer to Heb. ii. 3 to show that the gospel, or as you put it, "The old gospel" was still proclaimed and was not limited to Israel. But here you take out the word "salvation" and substitute the word gospel, and then accuse me of stating that the salvation was limited to Israel. This I emphatically deny. You further ask, "Is it a safe matter to neglect this great salvation?" I answer with emphasis, no; and I make no apology for the statement that it is very unsafe to take out a word that God has selected, because it expresses the right thought, and substitute a word of your own because it conforms to your ideas. Whether we understand it or not there is design in God's choice of words, and he who substitutes another for that of his selection is surely on dangerous ground because presumptuous ground.

But now I pass on to resume my observations on Acts x. 36-42, and to the conclusions you draw from that interesting passage. Having shown in my former paper that the Word (Logos) which God sent to the sons of Israel, was the proclamation of peace through Jesus Christ (verse 36) preached by the Apostles after peace was made through the cross. Eph. ii. 16; Acts iii. 20. I then proved that the word (Rhema) of verse 37 has reference to the works that Jesus performed as contained in verse 38. In addition to the testimony then gathered from Luke vii. 17, we have in verse 39 evidence corroborative of the same truths. "We (says Peter) are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews and in Jerusalem;" and as the testimony is concerning Jesus he adds the further words, "whom they slew and hanged on a tree." These facts it will at once be seen are in perfect accord with verse 37 (as quoted below), nor are we left to base our conclusions on mere inference.

Still more emphatic to the point is the truth as brought out by a closer investigation of this verse, "Ye know what had already occurred along the whole of Judea, beginning from Galilee (in Cana of Galilee, John ii. 11) after the immersion which John preached respecting Jesus, him from Nazareth, how God anointed him with Holy Spirit and power, who went through doing good and healing all that were oppressed by the adversary because God was with him. Roth. Now, you will observe my brother, that in this translation from the Greek text (Tregelles), the word Rhema as having been published is omitted. The reason is obvious. The word translated published is from Ginomai (Dr. Young) and this is the only place where that word is so translated. It is rendered come to pass about 75 times, done 59, fulfilled 3 times, finished in Heb. iv. 3, and happened in Rom. xi. 35. I take it that you would hesitate before admitting that the kingdom came to pass in the days of our Lord.

JAS. BROWNING.

ANSWER.

Says Mr. Browning: "The position I take was plainly stated (in my first article) that the gospel of the kingdom was a phrase used to denote the glad message of the proximity of the kingdom as expressed in the words, the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

The word gospel signifies good news, or glad tidings. When the phrase, "the gospel of the kingdom," is used it relates to the good things that kingdom stands for, which things, faith embraces, in a message entitled, "the faith of the gospel," this being the base or ground-work which inspires confidence; hope thus leaps for joy, and in glad anticipation lays hold upon "the hope of the gospel." Now, the proximity of those good things, is not the "things concerning the kingdom," announced as gospel by heaven-inspired men. The gospel preached in the long ago to the faithful Abraham, which inspired his heart to heroic deeds of faith, consisted in outline, or skeleton form, in "THE BLESSING OF ALL NATIONS," which blessings are enlarged upon in the renewing of the same covenants of promise unto Israel, Jacob and David, and still further revealed in its amplitude to "Abraham's seed"—the Christ.

Mr. Browning cites Mark i. 14, as expressing his proximity gospel: "Now, after John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God, and saying, the time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand, repent ye and believe the gospel."

The gospel consisted in the good things which is yet to be a "blessing to all nations," as promised to Abraham, and not in their proximity, as any thoughtful student must admit. If that was all they would have believed a gospel which proved a failure, even if they had repented, and pinned their faith on the said proximity gospel.

The phrase, "at hand," does not necessarily imply its immediate realization. It is used with reference to that which is next in order. Daniel prophecied with regard to five kingdoms or universal empires, the fifth of which would be the kingdom of God. When Jesus spoke of the kingdom "at hand," four of these kingdoms had already appeared, and hence, the fifth (the kingdom of God) was next "at hand," but is now "NIGH AT HAND." See Luke xxi. 29-31. "When ye see these things come to pass (which are now taking place) know ye that the kingdom of God is NIGH AT HAND." There is a difference between "at hand," and "nigh at hand."

My friend further says: "What I do deny is, that Paul's gospel was the same as that preached by the other Apostles prior to the rejection of Christ, meaning of course, the gospel of the kingdom."

The above language implies that the Apostles have preached two gospels, one of which superceded the other. Any one versed in the teaching of God's Word, knows full well that God never authorized the preaching of but ONE gospel. In early days, as is the case now, men, (not God) sought to introduce "ANOTHER gospel," (Gal. i. 6-9) and Paul, as a one gospel preacher, wondered at their instability, and invoked heaven's curse upon either man or angel who would be so presumptuous as to preach "ANOTHER gospel."

"The Word which God sent unto the children of Israel," is now preached to Gentiles, and they have become fellow-heirs with Israel to what was promised to them, and surely there was not a new gospel introduced, see Eph. iii. 6: "The Gentiles have been made fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ, BY THE GOSPEL."

Yes, have become fellow-heirs with Israel, to whom the gospel was first preached, ("to the JEW FIRST, and also to the Greek") and also "partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel," the same gospel "which God sent unto the children of Israel." The very gospel which constituted "THE HOPE OF ISRAEL." For proof of this I will call Mr. Browning's special attention to Eph. xi. 19, 20: "And for me that utterance may be given me, that I may open my mouth boldly to make known the mystery of THE GOSPEL, for which I am AN AMBASSADOR IN BONDS." The words "ambassador in bonds," indicates what gospel it was he wished to have "utterance" given him, to "boldly" and without fear, "make known," for which he was already fettered with chains. The gospel he preached at Rome, concerning which he said: "I am not ashamed," because it is "the power of God unto salvation." Before starting for Rome, he said, "bonds and affliction wait for me," as a result of his fidelity to the gospel. He arrived at Rome, a prisoner in bonds, and first of all called for his countrymen, (Acts xxviii. 20) and said: "I have called to see you, and to speak with you; because for the "HOPE OF ISRAEL, I am BOUND WITH THIS CHAIN."

1. "The gospel, for which I am an ambassador in BONDS." Eph. vi. 19, 20.

2. "For the hope of Israel, I am BOUND with this chain." Acts xxviii. 20.

3. "Then Agrippa said unto Paul, almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian. (To believe the gospel for which he a prisoner was in BONDS.) And Paul said, I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day (preach the gospel as an "ambassador in BONDS,") were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these BONDS."

4. While still in BONDS, he said, "And now I stand and am judged, for the hope of the promise made of God unto the fathers."

And now, Mr. Browning, after fairly considering the above, can you honestly separate the gospel Paul preached to the Gentiles from "the hope of Israel," or the "covenants of promise," which were made of God unto the fathers?" Would it not be better for you to "walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory," (1 Thes. ii. 12,) if you will only believe and obey the gospel preached by Jesus and his Apostles, in place of endeavoring to establish "another gospel?" Remember the call is made BY THE GOSPEL, "Ye are called in ONE HOPE of your calling," (Eph. iv. 4) which is the "hope of Israel, (for which) I am bound with this chain," or "the gospel for which I am an ambassador in bonds." Eph. vi. 19, 20.

Friend Browning further says: "Still you refer to Heb. ii. 3, to show that the gospel, as you put it, the old gospel was still proclaimed, and was not limited to Israel. But here you take out the word salvation, and substitute the word gospel, and accuse me of stating that the salvation was limited to Israel."

Are you not aware that many synonymous words are used in Scripture, which correspond with the word gospel, and are of the same power and effect, and mean the same, and that it is both proper and right, to substitute synonomous words, if any good effect, or clearer comprehension of the Divine Word is conveyed by it. This practice is common in Scripture usage.

Take for example that which the Lord first preached, (Heb. ii. 3): "How shall we escape if we neglect so GREAT SALVATION, which at first began to be spoken by the Lord?" This corresponds with Mark i. 14, which is the record of the subject-matter of that "which at first began to be spoken by the Lord." "Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD."

1. Paul calls Jesus' first preaching "the GREAT SALVATION."

2. Mark calls Jesus' first preaching "the gospel of the kingdom of God."

3. Jesus called his twelve disciples, "and he sent them to preach THE KINGDOM OF GOD."

4. "And they departed and went through the town preaching THE GOSPEL." Luke ix. 1-6.

5. "Be it known unto you that the SALVATION OF GOD is sent unto the Gentiles." Acts xxviii. 28-30.

6. "That the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the WORD OF THE GOSPEL." Acts xv. 7.

7. "To you is the WORD OF THIS SALVATION sent." Acts xv. 26.

8. "The Word of faith which we preach." Rom. x. 8.

The above is the way the Scripture uses interchangeable words to represent the same thing.

Friend Browning seems to think that the proclamation of "the gospel of peace," was not made until after the offering of Jesus on the cross.

Paul quotes the gospel of peace, as preached by Isaiah, (Rom. x. 15) and says: "How beautiful are the feet of them which preach the gospel of peace, and bring GLAD TIDINGS of GOOD THINGS." (Something which is grander than a proximity gospel which failed.) But they have not all obeyed the gospel (like my friend Browning), for Esaias saith, "Lord, who hath believed our report?"

Mr. Browning can never come to correct conclusions concerning the gospel, by dating its origin with the crucifixion of Christ. The common salvation was first proclaimed by the Old Testament saints, and is continued in force during the Christian dispensation, but on account of men like friend Browning advocating "another gospel," it is made incumbent upon true gospel believers to earnestly defend from corruption, the faith once delivered unto the saints.

Paul told Timothy that "the time will come, when they WILL NOT endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts (desires, etc.) shall heap to themselves teachers having itching ears, and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." Paul, while preaching the gospel (for which he was "an ambassador in bonds") said to his judge, "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" The old gospel of the kingdom would prove a failure if the dead were not raised. There is no resurrection of the dead in Mr. Browning's "proximity" gospel. Paul speaking of Hymeneus and Philetus, says: "Who concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already, and overthrow the faith of some."

It was needful in early days to contend for the old gospel as preached by Jesus and his Apostles. It is necessary today, when teachers seek to lay it aside and introduce "ANOTHER gospel," in its place. Jude says: I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you, that ye should earnestly contend for the FAITH which was once delivered unto the saints.

If it was so "needful" at that time, what is it today when the full tide of the apostacy has set in, and we are taught that "the gospel as preached by the Master and his Apostles throughout Judea and Galilee," has "ceased to be preached," as the Word of life.

Paul says: "They received not the love of the truth that they might be saved, and for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: that they all might BE DAMNED who BELIEVED NOT THE TRUTH," etc.

Mr. Browning teaches that the gospel of the kingdom as a message of salvation has "ceased to be preached," which was the message the Lord first preached to Israel. Paul (in Heb. ii. 3,) asks a serious question: "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him?" Have we not learned that the gospel of the kingdom, "first began to be spoken by the Lord," is devoid of saving efficacy, and consequently in that direction can be of no more practical use to us than last year's almanac. To this effect notice the following declarations of Mr. Browning: "The statement of the Apostle that there is 'one gospel,' proves conclusively that the gospel revealed to him (Paul Gal. i.) by 'revelation,' SUPERCEDES the gospel as preached by the Master and his apostles throughout Juden and Galilee, prior to his rejection by the Jews." He further said:

"When our Lord ascended, and the kingdom was deferred till the end of Gentile times, THIS gospel CEASED TO BE PREACHED."

The way of life is so plainly revealed in the Scriptures of Truth, that a wayfaring man though a fool, (a simple one) need not err therein," therefore ignorance will not prevail in the day of accounts. Blind leaders lead the blind, and at the end, the leader and his blind dupes will both fall into the ditch. Why? Because being blind they cannot see the ditch. Would it not be better to take the advice of Jesus, and "anoint thine eyes with eye-salve that thou mayest see?"

There is no eye-opener like a clear perception of the gospel preached before unto Abraham. Its luminous light dispels the mists. In it is centered the future blessings of the nations, which will be dispensed to others through his Seed—the Christ. And "that they which are of faith, (the faith of the gospel) the same are the children of Abraham." "And if ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise." There is not the least possibility of any one becoming "heirs according to the promise," except by first becoming "Abraham's Seed," everything depends upon sustaining that relationship. Nothing can be plainer than Paul's declaration that "aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise," have "no hope." Eph. ii. 12.

Mr. Browning seems to think that "the preaching of the cross," relates primarily to Jesus' offering upon the cross. That is true only in part. To preach the cross of Christ, we must preach the entire message nailed to the cross.

"JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS."

The cross, like a banner thrown to the breeze, has proclaimed the gospel of the kingdom to all people, in every clime, wherever the Word of God has found its way, ever since the memorable and tragic scene upon Calvary. Today millions of people are reading the inscription once written upon the cross, preaching Jesus, not only as SAVIOR, but equally "THE KING OF THE JEWS."

Jesus, when asked by Pilate, "Art thou a King then?" replied, "Thou sayest that I am a king, to this END was I BORN, and for this CAUSE, came I into the world." This is Jesus' testimony, "who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession."

The commission is now world wide, "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the UTTERMOST PART OF THE EARTH."

"And this GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM shall be preached in ALL THE WORLD, for a witness unto ALL NATIONS; and then shall the end come."

There is no laying it on the shelf at the close of the Mosaic dispensation, as Browning teaches, but is now open to "all the world," "all nations," even "unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

Under the world-wide commission we read: "When they believed Philip preaching the things concerning THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and the name of JESUS CHRIST they WERE BAPTIZED both men and women." All who were baptized before believing the above preaching made by a man who spoke as he was moved by the Holy Spirit, were baptized before they believed the gospel.

Don't risk your eternal interest upon an uncertainty.

W. H. WILSON.

Report.

Dear Household of Faith:

I hasten to inform you of our success in getting Elder D. M. Hudler to feed our hungry cry for the whole gospel proclaimed in its purity. He is one that rightly divides the Word of Truth. The meeting was held at Redington, Neb. It began the 5th of Nov. and continued every night till the 19th. After the last discourse four were baptized into the all-saving name of Christ, our Life Giver. We had large crowds and good attention throughout the entire meeting. The good seed has been sown in a field where it was much needed, and we hope it will bring forth more fruit for the Master. It seemed like Latin to some who had never made the blessed Bible a special study. I often ask the question, Why is it that this precious Book is so sadly neglected, when it is the only one that God has given to man, and he gave it for every one, not just a few, and all must be judged by what it contains? Teacher, what grade would you expect if examined in a branch that you knew nothing about? Just pause and think one moment how that (0) will appear opposite God's Holy Will, at the last day, when the last trump shall sound. My sympathy goes out to all the poor isolated ones, and especially to one alone in a large community. We are few in number here, but have met regularly once a week for over two years to study God's Word. May he comfort and bless all who are striving to walk in the straight and narrow way, is my daily prayer.

MRS. C. W. ENDSLEY.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chessbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wince, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heun, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidel, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Quawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corsing Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler. 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Box 124 Andover, S. D.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 397 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.

Change in Time of Trains on Pennsylvania Lines.

Under a new schedule in effect Sunday Nov. 19, 1899, passenger trains over the Pennsylvania lines leave Plymouth station as follows:

For the East: No. 6, 2:55 a. m. daily; No. 18, 5:18, a. m. daily; No. 20, 10:37, a. m. except Sunday; No. 8, 5:48 p. m. except Sunday; No. 2, 7:50, p. m. extra fare; No. 38, 8:51, p. m. except Sunday.

For the West: No. 15, 5:34 a. m. daily; No. 5, 6:48 a. m. extra fare; No. 37, 9:22 a. m., except Sunday; No. 39, 2:10 p. m. except Sunday; No. 9, 6:12 p. m. daily; No. 7, 6:34 p. m. daily.

For particular information on the subject apply to J. E. Haines, Agt.

Notice.

Editor Restitution:

Please say to the brethren that I will be at Vineland, Mo., Saturday, Dec. 2nd, 1899, and will continue meetings for one week.

On Saturday, the 9th of Dec., at Morse's Mills, Mo., to continue at least one week.

On Saturday, the 23rd of Dec., at Bosworth, Mo., to continue until the 30th of Dec. At each place all are invited to attend. Let us have one more good meeting in 1899.

JOHN FOORE.

Tourist Tickets to Florida and Winter Resorts in the South.

Ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines will answer inquiries about low fares to Florida and winter resorts in the South. Full information concerning Tourist Tickets, time tables, etc., will be furnished free. Persons contemplating a Southern trip may secure valuable information on the subject by merely inquiring of the nearest representative of the Pennsylvania Lines, or by addressing C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio. Say where and when you wish to go, how many will be in the party, starting point, etc., and you will be promptly posted. The inquiry will not cost much effort—it will save considerable bother in arranging details, as they will be looked after gratis.—Dec. 31.

Home-Seekers' Excursion.

For information about reduced fares, through time, and other particulars regarding Home-Seekers' Excursions to the South and West apply to Pennsylvania Lines Ticket Agents.—Dec. 16.

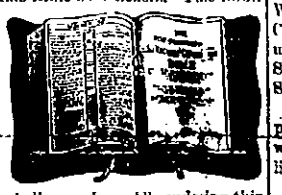
Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance. Remember you get all the balance of 1899 free.

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine, and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.



The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH, X. The points of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.
30 Behold, d we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:
37 And c it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have f dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.
38 And because of all this we g make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, h seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 28 The points of the covenant.

NOW i those that sealed were,
k Ne-he-mi'ah, l the Tir-sha'tha, m the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,
2 n Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Je-re-mi'ah,
3 Pash'-hur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,
4 Hat'tush, She-b-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,
5 Ha'rim, Me-re-mo'th, O-ba-di'ah,
6 Dan'-jel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,
7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,
8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'ga-i, She-ma-i'ah: these were the priests.
9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;
10 And their brethren, She-b-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,
11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,
12 Zic'cur, She-re-bi'ah, She-b-a-ni'ah,
13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Be-ni'nu.
14 The chief of the people; o Par'osh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Ba'ni,
15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Be'b-i,
16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'va-i, A'din,
17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,
18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'sai,
19 Ha'riph, An'a-thoth, Neb'a-i,
20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,
21 Me-shez'a-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,
22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,
23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Ha'shub,
24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'a-ha, Sho'bek,
25 Re'hum, Ha-shab'nah, Ma-a-se'iah,
26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,
27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.
28 ¶ q And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Ne'th'i-nims, r and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;
29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, s and entered into a curse, and into an oath, t to walk in God's law, which was given u by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our Lord, and his judgments and his statutes;
30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:
31 x And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the y seventh year, and the z exaction of a every debt.
32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;
33 For b the shewbread, and for the c continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.
34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, d for the wood offering, to bring e into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, f as it is written in the law:
35 And f to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:
36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 6, " " " " .....12:35 noon
No. 0, " " " " Logansport.....7:36pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. DOWNS, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1000. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

NICKEL PLATE

11-12-99

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Ballard Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on these trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastern Std. Time.				All Nickel Plate Daily.				Week days only.
Lv.	A.	P.	A.		P.	A.	A.	P.	P.	A.	A.
3	10	2	2	Chicago,	5	10	2	10	5	10	2
11	20	4	11	Valparaiso,	3	58	1	58	3	58	1
11	45	4	36	Wanash,	3	33	1	33	3	33	1
4	37	12	00	Kent,	4	40	2	15	4	15	2
5	10	12	33	Mexico,	4	7	1	42	3	42	1
5	44	1	11	Akron,	3	33	1	7	3	7	12
6	14	1	41	Marion,	2	58	12	32	2	32	12
6	55	2	22	Crestline,	2	17	11	50	1	50	11
7	30	3	00	Galion,	1	40	11	13	1	13	11
8	10	3	40	Bucyrus,	1	0	10	35	12	35	10
8	40	4	10	Leesville,	12	30	10	5	12	5	10
9	10	4	40	Orrville,	12	0	9	35	11	35	9
10	00	5	30	Wooster,	11	10	8	45	10	45	8
10	40	6	10	Orrville,	10	30	8	15	10	15	8
11	30	7	00	Cleveland,	9	40	7	25	9	25	7
1	30	9	00	Erie,	7	40	5	25	7	25	5
3	30	11	00	Buffalo,	5	40	3	25	5	25	3
8	00	3	30	New York,	1	0	10	0	1	0	10
10	00	5	30	Boston,	11	0	8	0	11	0	8

Eastern Std. Time. Central Std. Time. Stops on signal.
Daily except Sunday. † Stop on signal.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 3, 5 and 7 to Chicago. Meals are served at "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.
For rates and detailed information, address O. W. Hosmer, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(Your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.
McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50th YEAR
A LADIES' MAGAZINE.
A most beautiful colored plate; latest fashions; dressmaking simplified; fancy work; household hints; fiction, etc. Subscribe to-day, or send for particulars, copy, sample worth 10 cts. Send for terms.
Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Practical, Economical, Perfect Fitting
McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10 and 15 cts
(No-Seam-Allowance Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from
THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1026 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. H. Ruthe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope. 926 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church. Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., at follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Sub m, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Daily St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul R. R., going west to Watertown, thirty miles east thereof

The Church of God, in Fredon, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Prairie Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 P. M., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. B. Eshelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Buck Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Ready and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Rabbin Center is presided over by Brother L. O. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Fulda or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Groat of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and shed Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Christ. All [illegible]

The Church of God at Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 8:00 o'clock for worship, in private houses. All lovers of truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Hoover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday, Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays o each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DECEMBER 20, 1899. NUMBER 47.

Walter Tomlinson
St Kinnaman
St

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

If We Knew.

Could we but draw the curtains
That surround each other's lives,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we should find it better,
Purer than we judge we should;
We should love each other better
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner
All the while we loathe the sin;
Could we know the powers working
To overthrow integrity,
We should judge each other's errors
With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and crosses,
Know the efforts all in vain,
Sin, the bitter disappointments,
Undeserved, of the loss and gain—
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Should we help, where now we hinder?
Should we pity where we blame?

Ah! we judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbid at its source,
Seeing not amid the evil
All the golden grains of good—
O! we'd love each other better
If we only understood!

Bessie W. Smith.

Communicated.

The War of the Standards.

I assume two facts to be true and well authenticated in the history of civilization, namely: That there has been a divine revelation to mankind and a written record of it which has been preserved and which has come down to us as other records have, but with far greater evidence of their validity than any other ancient records of whatever name and nature. For ages of years these records summed up in one collection have been popularly known as "The Book" or "The Bible." Some of these records were originally in the unlettered-pointed or unvocalized Hebrew and were known to the Hebrews themselves who understood themselves to be and proclaimed to the world that they were the divinely appointed custodians of them by the title or name of the Writings (or Scriptures) of the Old Covenant (not Testament) and any question of the validity of the record would naturally revert to this unvocalized text if any copy of it were extant, which by the way I would say in passing there is not or at least has not yet been discoverd if indeed there be any such still divinely preserved and undiscovered. The rest of these records were originally in the Greek as delivered to mankind and in the fully vocalized and perfected Greek language to which as a spoken and written vehicle of thought nothing has since been added although the modified and corrupted Greek is still a living spoken and written language of a small and insignificant nation and kingdom so-called. These as a whole were denominated the Writings (or Scriptures) of the New Covenant (not Testament).

The Scriptures of the Old Covenant remained in the original unvocalized Hebrew until the dispersion and subjugation of the final Joudaic kingdom and the remnant of the twelve-tribed nationality by the Greek Empire, and until the Hebrew written language had become a dead-letter and an anachronism except to the learned few, and then in the providence of God was translated and transferred by Hebrews themselves into the Greek language which had become the vernacular as well as the vehicle of all the recorded important thought of the empire, of which the Hebrew had become an integer, and such a phenomenon, the Hebrew written language had not then become and never made any pretense of having become a properly vocalized language from this time on until early in the fifteenth century when a futile attempt was made from such sources as were then extant and is still continued to revive and properly vocalize it, all of which attempts to this day have proved abortive and only approximate as might have been expected from the very nature of the problem.

It will be seen from what has been said above that the original records of the Old Covenant Scriptures so far as the testimony of the custodians and according to their own claims that this custody and trusteeship was divinely appointed, though delivered to them in Hebrew, were under the same direction transferred or translated by them into the Greek for their own immediate generation and a coming posterity. This occured some time in the fourth century before Christ as nearly as any authentic record now extant informs us. That it was fairly and honestly done as a translation of the thought of the original Hebrew in general use in the Hebrew synagogues throughout the Greek Empire down to Christ's day attests. That the Greek Scriptures received the imprimatur of the Christ himself and his Apostles and became "the Bible" of their day is still stronger evidence of the validity of this claim; and as proof of their having so done is the unquestioned historical fact, that the early Christian Church recognized, used and adopted the Greek as original and quoted from it unto the New Records it was making for other generations. There are no quotations in the New Covenant Scriptures from any Hebrew text now extant or yet discovered, nor even from other contemporaneous translations from the unletter-pointed Hebrew like the Coptic, the Arabic, the Peshito or the Armaic. And moreover there was not only no Hebrew text known to the Christian Church in the second century of the Christian era, but no knowledge of Hebrew among the lettered or unlettered Christians of that day, and when the apostate Latin church wanted a translation from the rolls of the Apostate Hebrew of the fifth or sixth century it had to employ and rely upon the veracity of the proselyte Jew—Jerome, for the translation which became the basis of all the Latin and other European translations on down to the fifteenth century, when Protestantism thought it could improve on this Latin translation by patching up a Hebrew text from such sources as were then open and attainable. Now what was the state of things which this revival of interest in Hebrew on the part of Protestantism found. Outside of the disputed and apostate Hebrew Ghettos, in all Europe there was not enough knowledge of Hebrew to warrant the existence of a Hebrew grammar or lexicon and a diligent search throughout Europe and the East resulted in finding nothing more than what is now known to every scholar as the text based upon the Massoretic fragments, and the very definition itself of Massora is "tradition." There was truth in it of course; but like all tradition was truth mixed with error, and we should bear in mind the warning of the Christ himself addressed not only to his disciples, but to the apostate Hebrews of that day, "Ye make void the Word of God by your traditions." If then this had already occurred in the green what should we expect in the dry of the fifteenth century afterwards?

So when you read on the title pages of the versions of today "Translated from the original Hebrew and Greek of the Old and New Testament" you may and should read between the lines—through the Apostate Hebrew and the more apostate Latin. For every translation down to Luther's time and even later was made from the Latin or Vulgate as it is commonly called, into the English as well as the other languages of Europe. And even the Greek Church as it is called was a full fledged apostate in its liturgy and fossilized forms and ceremonies before it split off from its mother, the Latin Apostasy, and has never gone back to the fundamental teachings of the Greek Scriptures nor "done the first works" of a repentant sinner, and "their last state" is today, "worse than the first" as predicted in the very Scriptures they profess to teach and follow.

Read the so-called church history of both branches of the European Christian Apostasy—the Latin and the Greek—"for by their fruits," Christ says, "will ye know them," read the history of the inquisition written in blood all over Europe, read the persecutions and "holy wars," read America's early history, and follow the blood-red trail of the Latin Apostasy from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Gulf of Mexico to the frozen North, and then ask yourself and your enlightened common sense, if these are "fruits" of Christianity or of the Word of God made void by the traditions of "the Apostasy which must first come" for some good reason known only to the infinite One, before "the kingdom" can come which we are all taught to pray for, and before the Christ can return to assert the kingdom as the Son of the Father whose kingdom it is and whose kingship we recognize and confess when we say "Our Father who art in heaven. May thy kingdom have come, et cet."

That there have been two divine commissions of the oracles of God, namely of the Scriptures of the Old and New Covenant, among many other proofs in the Scriptures themselves, see Rom. iii. 1 and 2, "What advantage then hath the Jondaian or what profit was there in the circumcision? Much in every way. For they were first entrusted with the oracles (oracular words) of God." Who were entrusted with them a second time? And did not this trust cover the Old Covenant Scriptures as well as the New? What is and was the claim of Christ and his disciples and the early Christian Church after them? What was Christ's reproof to the old custodians? Was it not that they had been faithless to their trust? And what did their faithlessness consist in? Was it merely their conduct of life? Does he not tell them specifically in the Sermon on the Mount and elsewhere in his teachings, "Ye make void the Word of God with your traditions."

What is the so-called "Higher Criticism" of the present day doing? Is it not saying and re-iterating, Mousses did not write "Moses" and Hesaulas did not write "Isaiah" and so on to the end of the chapter? They do not even know the true names of the authors whom they are criticising. And when asked for their documentary claims, they quote the apostate Hebrew and tradition, and when confronted with the falsity and absurdity of their deductions when tried by the testimony of the Greek Scriptures, the answer is, But this is not the original—it may be and probably was a pretty fair translation. Well, do you not know that the original Hebrew has been lost and a dead letter for more than two thousand years, and that what you are claiming to be original Hebrew is a rag-patched garment of Apostasy? Did you ever make a critical study of the Greek Scriptures in their entirety? Well, no. We hardly thought it worth our while. It did not agree with your theory of three or more Isaiah's did it? We do not consider the Greek authoritative when we have the original Hebrew. The Hebrew themselves have the original Hebrew to which you refer have they not? Why do they not then as a people become Christians? Do they have the custodians of this original text since Christ's day till you acquired it some time in the fifteenth century? Were they not the very people who rejected Christ and who were branded as apostates? Is it at all likely that they proved faithful to their trust in regard to the original Hebrew when it is a well known historical fact that they tampered with the Greek in the second century of the Christian era and were discovered and exposed in their craftiness? Spurious copies of the Greek Scriptures are still extant as evidence of this unworthy attempt.

A sample of the tinkering appears in the famous Messianic prophecy. "The virgin will have in womb and will bring forth a son, etc." Changed to read, "The young woman will conceive, etc."

These Hebraist Higher Critics are now issuing a Plychrome edition of the "Old Testament" as they still call it—their new translation from the original Hebrew—original apostasy would be a more correct designation of the textual sources, and judging from the specimens given in the advance sheets which are not even good English translations of anything, no future author will ever form his literary style upon a study and meditation of them as did a Shakespeare or a Milton or Tennyson who were brought up on the English of the Common Version. This had at least the merit of being as a whole good English if not an accurate transcript of the thought of God. There is a providence in the fact that an English speaking race under both flags could have made prominent to the extent it has in its educational curricula the study of two dead languages, the Latin and the Greek, so preeminently conspicuous in fact for several hundred years as to make an analytical and philosophical knowledge of the grammatical structure of these languages and a familiarity with their classics the test of all honors in all degrees in their schools and universities until quite recently. Did God foresee this great "battle of the standards"?

The fact that the great Catholic hierarchy hid the Word of God in the Latin apostasy away from the common people and common knowledge using the world-wide authority it once exercised might account for the prevalence of the Latin; but will the scant of Greek wisdom and the halo of its past glory still shining over all the nations of the earth account for this absorbing interest and study of the centuries?

I wot not. There is a profounder reason than this and a holier grail at the end of this pursuit, and not only the ghosts of cherished apostate creeds proclaim it, but the utter barrenness of their fruits to the taste and appetite of a generation set free from the yoke of bigotry and the cunning of selfish priest-craft. Too many "common people" have learned that God has said and with special emphasis too. "Come and let us reason together," and they have come and are still coming by the millions and standing morning, noon and night at God's door, the personal Christ namely, and are asking, How can these things be so; and he is answering them as he did of yore on the shores of the Sea of Galilain and in the upper-chamber. His sheep hear his voice now as they did then, and he leadeth them in and out as of yore, and they find pasturage. The leaders of thought in this land and abroad are pleading "the Higher Criticism" as their excuse for an utter or partial abandonment of the so-called "old doctrines" of fifty years, even fifteen years ago. The Bible of their childhood, their "mother's Bible" is now denominated by them "a fetish" or say they, we must view it and study and treat it as we would the literature of any other nation. It is a collection of Hebrew literature, prose, poetry, history, philosophy, idylic song, etc. It was a good thing, the best thing of its day; but revelation and vision is not a closed book. Great is the God of our conception and we see the prophets. We understand in his hypothesis." "Christian science" says another class of higher critics is not "science so-called, but the real thing, and Mrs. Eddy is the discover of it or at least of all its fundamental principles. Have you made a pilgrimage to her temple and shrine in Boston, the new Mecca of the orient? Have you oriented yourself? If not it is time to do so and get wisdom and with all your getting get understanding. Not only "know yourself," but "heal yourself"—after you have paid me a hundred dollars to know how. If Boston is too far away, seek Chicago and the great Dowie and pay your "tithes" and live.

Does not this cutting loose from old and cherished ties and general departure from the old paths in "Christian Endeavor" and a great many other endavors signify a great change going on—an upheaval of some sort? Is it a renaissance of common sense? Will true Christian science be long satisfied with the philosophy that nothing is the matter and no matter if there is? Go back and study the Greek Scriptures of the early Christian Church not the pabulum that passes for them filtered down through the apostate Latin and Hebrew, and make yourself acquainted with the first principles of God's wisdom according to the Christ "in whom they are summed up."

Acquaint yourself with Mousses and Habraham and Joob, not "Moses" and "Abraham" and "Job" and the rest of the early prophets who were "attested" to be true witnesses and who all claimed to be inspired and "moved pieces" of God, not merely historians, philosophers, poets, statesmen or literary ink-slingers and proved to be what they claimed by the "signs and prodigies" that followed them. Strike out the signs and prodigies from the sacred record, as "the Higher Criticism" is now teaching its followers to do, and you illuminate the most important testimony in the Word of God to its superhuman origin and wisdom.

Acquaint yourself with Paul and what he said on all these subjects, not the Paul of the creeds and the interpreters; read for yourself just what he writes and says. He did not claim to be anything more than "a mouthpiece" of inspiration and his testimony is in exact harmony with Mousses. The divine testimony and record seems to be complete and closed, and mankind's case has gone up to the great assize for final adjudication, and the further language of the record is that "we (Christians) have an advocate with the Father, Jesous Christos a justified one." The record also says that "it is appointed unto all men once to die and after that a judgment-trial." "For we must all stand at the bema of the Christ and give an account," etc. The bema is not "the judgment-seat" where God the Judge of all the earth sits, but the place where the Advocate and the Accuser stands. The testimony then is all in at this juncture and if we have an advocate with the Father, the case is closed so far as the evidence for or against us is concerned. The fact stated that "it remaineth for all men once to die" is conclusive as to the death-penalty, having been pronounced upon the whole race of mankind under the judgment of law. Therefore the pardon of grace is denominated "the gospel" or "good news." If it were not a conditional pardon we would need no advocate, and if we are not already dead, there would be no need of a resurrection in order that we might put in an appearance at the new trial.

Now, the apostasia has made Paul and the rest of the Apostles say and teach that we don't really die, but are kept alive in Hades, hell, purgatory or heaven as "souls," which are to be rehabilitated for further purgatorial or heavenly purposes when this great day of trial shall have come, if it does not come to each one individually when he or she shuffles off this mortal coil, as some teach. Why does Paul say "dead in trespasses and sins" when addressing people just as much alive as you and I now are? Or why does he exhort us to put off the old man and put on the new, or at this the language even how [illegible] not the law account the condemned convict dead, although the sentence of death has not already been executed? What is regeneration but a renewal or re-importation of life? A re-begettal or birth? How does the butterfly come out of the cocoon of the dead catterpillar? There must be a point of time when the creeping, crawling thing as an organism dies and the flying, souring thing lives. There must be a point of time when the organic mortal man in his evolution towards the higher immortal life dies to the organic functional mortal life and begins to live to the organic, functional immortal life. All the teaching of inspiration along this line agrees with this inference or assumption.

We are exhorted to feed on "the pure milk of the Word as unborn babes" (or possibly "recently born"). We are told that certain teachings "are strong food for adults who have had their functional faculties exercised to discriminate between good and bad." We are told to feed or take nourishment that we may grow in grace and knowledge. In other words revelation teaches us to assume an analogy if not an exact likeness between the spiritual and natural (or soul) life—that they are both functional as well as organic and that in both cases they have a germinal origin or beginning, and that they are determinative at the will of their Infinite Author or Creator. How do these conclusions agree with the teaching and conclusions of Apostasy?

The issues are issues of life and death, and the war is now on. It is the Word of God against the word of the creature man. Once spoken through Mousses as a mediator, once for all through Jesous Christos as another mediator. On one side is the standard of the truth of God as it is in Christ Jesous, our Lord; on the other is the standard of the Apostasy which not only "must first come," but has come, and had even begun to come in the day of John the Evangelist. Read what he says about it, and determine where you stand my reader and hearer. Moreover when you have "put on the whole armor of God" so far as you are able yourself, be willing "to accept the helmet of salvation and the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God"—you cannot in and of yourself take these—accept the great fact of inspiration, that God has saved you and wants you to hear and know "the good news," and when you have heard his call to the heavenly warfare, accept from his hand the divinely tempered weapon of your knightly and courtier service, his Thracian, two-edged, sharp-pointed to cut or thrust Sword of the Spirit, accept it as did the young knight of old from the royal hand of his king, after fasting and vigil, remembering that to your faith you are expected to add "valor," and shed your very heart's blood, for the high purpose, and resolve your vows and the royal preferment have placed upon you as a younger brother and son of the Most High, whose emblematic cross is on your shield and whose sword is this emblem too.

CHARLES GARDNER.

Dear Restitution:

Mrs. Anna Cook, of Wolf, Nevada Co., California, wants to know "If there is some preaching brother, who would like to do missionary work in northern California?" She does "not know of any preacher of the gospel, or any place where the people of the Church of God hold meetings north of Sacramento." There are three members where she lives, but "they have no leader and do not hold meetings." They are poor, and could not bear the expenses of a minister, but there is a good opening there. "There are three school houses within two miles and a half of Mrs. Cook's home, that have neither preaching nor Sunday school." Can any go? And who will volunteer to help pay the preacher? Time is short. These calls ought to be answered. We are the overseers of the vineyard and will be held responsible if the Lord's work is not done. I will do something; who will join me?

S. ROXANA WING.

ADDE.—Volume IV. of Millennial Dawn, 660 pp., is not so completely saturated with the notion of the "presence" of the Lord here 40 years before his second coming, (referred to in my article in THE RESTITUTION of Nov. 22,) as are the first three volumes. This volume contains a large amount of valuable information and the opinions of many noted men pertaining to the present times, with comments by the author, pointed, faithful, and mostly helpful. It, like the first three volumes could be greatly improved by thorough revision; and no other can do it so well as their author, if he will first carefully reconsider his own opinions on a few fundamental points.

It seems a pity to do so much work and so near right in a matter of the highest importance, and spoil it with a few radical misapprehensions. If the author had been schooled in the first 25 years of the Advent movement, or if he had more carefully consulted those who had been thus schooled, he could have made his work more useful.

O. R. L. C.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DEC. 20, 1899.

To Our Subscribers.

Very many of our patrons well know their time expires with Dec. 31, 1899. A goodly number know equally well that they are behind in their payments varying from a month to some years. Any one can ascertain by examining their label just how they stand. The month is given and then a figure to indicate the year. Some object to us putting notice in the paper to try and induce payment to be made, and we do not like it at all—would rather not do so. Now, brethren, [illegible] it necessary for us to ask but this once more, but send your money now, even before the time is out, so as to have it here by the first of January. We must have your aid or we shall be sorely crippled in getting out our paper. Please do not lay this aside till you have complied with our request.

LET malice alone, and they that are living in malice will pay the natural penalty of their iniquity.

PRAISE is never unseasonable to a Christian; because mercies are always in season.—New every morning.

IS it not amazing that any man of sense can think that God can be put off with the outward form of worship?

DANGERS cause us to exercise faith; trials cause us to exercise patience; desertions cause us to exercise love; tempests cause us to exercise hope.

TRULY the words of the Apostle Peter, 2 Pet. iii. 3, 4, are being fulfilled in our day: "There shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of creation."

BROTHER D. T. Halstead has sold his home at Andover, Dakota, and returned to Rensselaer, Ind., for the present. He will answer calls to preach, and we trust will be kept busy. Bro. Halstead is so well known to the Indiana brethren that no word we can say will serve to introduce him. He will be found sound in the faith and true every way.

THE worldliness of the times we live in corresponds with what Jesus declared in Matt. xxiv. 38, 39: "For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the Ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."

THE War in South Africa the past week has been full of disaster to the British, the efforts to relieve the besieged cities has failed, and a retreat made necessary. The British empire is aroused as it has not been for many years, and the order for Generals Roberts and Kitchener both to hasten to the scene, together with large drafts of men and munition of war is evidence that England at last realizes her danger, and the necessity of heroic measures. With so large a part of her forces engaged in [illegible] the world over are working to undermine her interests, and unless a change in the fortunes of war soon comes Britain will face grave troubles on every side. It looks very much as if should any serious troubles arise in other places, as if the whole world will be involved in the conflict.

IT is time to think and plan for our "Christmas Love Feast" letters. For a number of years it has been our custom to have a "Social meeting" about the last of the year, and many short testimonies of what the Lord has done for us have been given by this medium. These short letters of greeting are full of cheer for many who are isolated and have no opportunities for attending church services, and once more we invite you all, old and young, preachers and listeners, to contribute a little word in brotherly and sisterly greeting, that we may have a real foretaste of what our meeting will be when the Lord comes to gather his loved ones home. Do not delay, but write and send your letters in early we so may make provision for them.

IT was in view of the dark and cloudy days we are now passing through, Jesus said, when describing his coming with power and glory: "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads for your redemption draweth nigh. And he spake to them a parable,-behold the fig-tree, and all the trees; when they now shoot forth ye see and know of your own selves that summer is nigh at hand. So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand."

Trust In God.

Throughout the whole of Scripture teaching, we are again and again commanded not to put our trust in man; nor in princes, nor in a friend, not even in a brother. And the wise man said that "he who trusteth in his own heart is a fool." Paul also instructed Timothy not to trust in uncertain riches,—evidently teaching that neither man or anything connected with [illegible] this life, is worthy, of implicit confidence; but on the other hand, we are frequently informed that they shall be fat; that they shall be safe; and,

LIKE MOUNT ZION

never be moved." We do not understand that these passages teach that we are to put no confidence in one another, but that we must not place implicit confidence in any mortal man, but in God only. God is always faithful to his word. Did he ever promise and not fulfil? Have any ever trusted him in vain? Never? Whatever he has promised to the righteous, or whatever his declaration to the wicked, He will in his own time, and in his own way surely perform. It is to God we must look in sickness for in prosperity lest we become high-minded and trust to uncertain riches; in adversity that we may not be borne down by the troubles and trials of the way, and give up in despair, in persecution, that our enemies may not triumph over us; in fact, it is God only on whom we can safely rely. It is he, in all the varied circumstances of life in whom we can confidently trust and not be afraid, nor fear what man can do unto us. God has in his Word given us ample proof of his watchful care over those who put their trust in him. He does not help those who trust to their own ability, wisdom, knowledge and goodness;—but to those who have humble views of themselves and

CONSOLATION AND COMFORT;

TRUST IN GOD

even when they cannot trace him, and when all other sources of help have failed. The Lord delivers when no other help is near. He restores when the ablest physicians have exhausted their skill; he rescues when all human aid is powerless: in short, "Man's extremity is

GOD'S OPPORTUNITY."

This was strikingly manifested when the Israelites of old reached the Red Sea. The mountains were on either hand, and the Egyptian army in sight, hotly pursuing,—what were they to do? What could they do? They could only stand still and see the salvation of God. God's children now are sometimes brought into similar straits; it may be when one has tried every possible means

TO OBTAIN EMPLOYMENT,

so as to obtain the necessaries of this life, but has failed; or when in business, through bad trade conditions, he has sustained heavy losses, and other causes, over which he had no control, he is reduced to poverty and want; or when bereavement has stepped in and [illegible] the flower or support of the family; or when in trouble from estrangement of relatives, or the loss of friends, or by the slanders of others. It is absolutely necessary in all such cases to stand still, and see

THE SALVATION OF GOD.

He delights to help his children in their extremities, and it is then made unmistakably manifest that the deliverance is from God, and not from man; from the Heavenly Father, and not from an arm of flesh. But for this we should never have recorded in Scripture, such a thrilling song of gratitude and as that which Moses and the Israelites sung after the great deliverance at the Red Sea, wrought by God, over their numerous enemies who were afterwards seen lying dead upon the seashore. And just so, now, when a great deliverance has been wrought by God on behalf of one of his children, then praise to God bursts forth in full force, from the heart of him who places implicit

PRAISE TO GOD

CONFIDENCE IN GOD.

At other times, we may arrogate to ourselves some praise to which we have no claim, and to that extent rob God of his just due. But when help comes in extremities like these, at a time and from a source we had never anticipated, then we give God all the praise. By this means our faith is strengthened, our hope confirmed, and we go on our way rejoicing in the Lord for his goodness and loving-kindness vouchsafed to us in such times of need. The more we are tried in this way, the more we are convinced that they who will never be confounded; but if we fear man, and trust in him it brings a snare. Jeremiah in his 17th chaptir and 5th verse uses very strong language on this point, and says, "Cursed is man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm," whether he is high or low, rich or poor, wise or ignorant, God, and not man, is he in whom we must put our trust."

TRUST IN THE LORD

Question Drawer.

For E. L. In answer to the question, as to whether all authorities agreed that the primary meaning of Baptizo and Baptismo are "to immerse," "an immerse," "an immersion," we are not fully competent to say. We have often read that they are; but we do not know all the authorities and therefore cannot speak for them. Some of them we are acquainted with. Bullinger's critical Lexicon and Concordance to the Greek and English New Testament, says Baptizo means "to make a thing dipped, to immerse," and "Baptismo" means an immersion.

Liddle and Scott say Baptizo means "To dip in or under water."

Parkhurst says Baptizo means "to dip, immerse, or plunge in water," and Baptisma means immersion.

T. Sheldon Green says Baptizo means "to dip, immerse," and Baptisma means immersion.

Cremer says Baptizo means "to immerse, submerge," and that Baptisma is the rite of Baptism.

In Dr. Geo. Campbell's Notes on the Gospels, we find the following on Matt. xx. 22:—"The primitive signification of baptisma is immersion; of baptize, to immerse, plunge, or overwhelm."

On Mark vii. 3, 4, "For the Pharisees.....eat not until they have washen their hands, by pouring a little water upon them; and if they be come from market, by dipping them." The first word is nipsontai, properly translated wash; the second is baptisontai, which limits us to a particular kind of washing, for baptizo denotes to dip, Vol. 3, p. 147.....I think the word immersion which, though of Latin origin, is an English noun, regularly formed from the verb to immerse, a better English name than baptism. Vol. 1, Diss. 8, Part 2, p. 2.

The foregoing is about all the assistance lexicographers can afford us. And it remains for you and all other interested persons to search and see whether the circumstances in which these words are used by New Testament writers support this meaning. Special attention should be given to John iii. 23; Acts viii. 36-38 in the Revised Version, and to Romans vi. 3, 4, 5, 6, where a burial, and a death, and a raising up, and a planting in the likeness of Christ's death and a raising in the likeness of his resurrection as set forth in the act are corrobborative of the evidence given above. In conclusion, it must be borne in mind that other Greek words respectively mean sprinkling and affusion; and these are rhantizo to sprinkle, whence rhantismos (the act) and rhantisma (the result) epicheo, to pour down upon, whence katachusis (the act) and katachusma (the result.) This must suffice for the present.

For J. M. A:—You ask what is the "willful sin" of Hebrews x. 26? For our part we see no willful sin alluded to in the passage named. The reference is, we think, to any and every sin willfully committed. And lest you should come again and ask what is to sin wilfully, we may add here by way of suggestion, that it may be, and probably is, sin premeditated or determined upon. We cannot think that the knowledge that a certain act is sinful would constitute it a wilful sin; because it is not difficult to find instances where heinous sins, and known to be such have been graciously pardoned,—notably those of David. In unguarded moments temptations are yielded to, and men and women are for the moment carried off their base, as it were; but coming to their right mind, return to the shepherd and bishop of their souls. If others have clearer perceptions of the truth in the premises, we would be glad to see them presented. The [illegible] would do well to study the [illegible] of Numbers in connection with 2 Sam. xii. 10, in order to see the principle we have suggested, illustrated, and we will dismiss the subject. Our correspondent may want to know what it is to count the blood of the covenant an unholy thing. We think it is to regard the blood of the Son of God on a par with the common blood of the race,—not precious for salvation purposes.

Communicated.

Reports.

Dear Restitution:

I feel that I would like to write a piece for THE RESTITUTION. It is my first effort at writing for a paper, and I ask you to excuse all mistakes. We have just had the pleasure of hearing the Truth delivered to us by Bro. Hudler, and it did our hearts good, we have been longing for the Truth for years. There are only six of us here of the one faith, and one hope. There were only two here that were baptized believers. Brother and Sister Belden were baptized by Bro. Clifton several years ago. Brother and Sister Endsley have been believers for three or four years. My husband has always been a believer, as he has always been taught the Word of God by his parents, who are known by a good many brethren and sisters at Plymouth, Indiana; but he never obeyed till Bro. Hudler came to our aid, Nov. 2, and commenced his first meeting Sunday, Nov. 6, and ended Sunday forenoon, Nov. 19, and in the afternoon Brother and Sister Endsley, my husband and myself were buried with Christ in baptism, and the six of us with Bro. Hudler took of the emblems of bread and wine, and all spent the evening there, as we wanted to be with Bro. Hudler as long as possible, as he was going to start for Sydney the next day and take the train for home. We parted with tears; we should like to have had him with us longer, but we knew his family was anxiously awaiting his return home, as he had not seen them since the 19th of June. He had his time set for going home when at Freedom, Neb., but when he heard how we were situated here, he came to us, and we ask God to bless him in all his efforts. We feel thankful to him for the good he has done us, besides we think [illegible] sowed seed that will reap a big harvest as the people here have never heard the Word of God preached in its fulness before, and it has given them something to study on, and we hope if we can have the pleasure of having Bro. Hudler with us again next summer, that there will be some prepared to obey the Gospel. I will bring my letter to a close hoping that we may meet in that glorious kingdom to be established at the coming of Christ, and that we may prove faithful and be one of God's chosen, is my prayer.

Your Sister in Christ,
MRS. H. G. BEEDE.

Dear Restitution:

Feeling it a sense of duty on my arrival at home, after an absence of more than five months, I will endeavor to give a report of my labor. Leaving home June 19th, I returned to my appointments in Illinois, and preached in my old field until August, when I was sent to Clark County, Ill., through the month of August, returning to Antioch, Adoline, Lanark, then to Conference at Oregon. At the close of Conference I left for Nebraska, arrived at Edison on Sept. 26, and preached there until Oct. 9, Freedom Oct. 12 to 22, Holbrook Oct. 25 to 29, Redington Nov. 5 to 19, Eagle Grove Nov. 25 to Dec. 3. At above places I found earnest brethren contending for the faith of Abraham, once delivered to the saints, but are sorely in need of laborers; truly the harvest is great but the laborers are few. I feel sad when I see the need of laborers, and a deeper interest in support of the truth, but may we not say as Jesus has said when he comes to earth again. He asks the question, "Shall I find faith?" If indifference increases in the next thirty years as in the last twenty, there will be but very little faith found on the earth. Surely Jesus knew what would be the condition of the Church, if not he would not have asked the question. I find anxious souls wherever I go, hungering for the truth, and are as Paul has said feeling after God, hopefully that they may find him, yet for the want of teachers will die without the knowledge of the gospel of the kingdom of God. I was away from home 167 days, preached 128 discourses, baptized 18 persons.

And now to the brethren of the one faith scattered abroad, 1899 is near to a close, and we are one year nearer to the coming of our King; the battle of God Almighty is near upon us, the signs of the times are indicative of mighty changes. The chief Prince, the Czar of Russia, is preparing for the great struggle. We as a Church ought to discern the signs of the times, for Paul says, "Ye brethren are not in darkness, that the day overtake you as a thief in the night, for ye know perfectly well." Yes, the prophecies are a sure light, as Peter has said, shining in a dark place, until the light of the world shall come and dispel the gloom and cares of the doctrines of men; and it is evident that some of us will never meet each other in mortal life, but my hope and prayer is, that we may be counted worthy to have a part in the first resurrection, and by virtue of a spiritual birth he made equal to the angels and can die no more. Blessed hope, based on the exceeding great and precious promises of God. We can become partakers of the eternal nature of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, qualifying us for the high position of subordinate rulers in the government of the nations for one thousand years. He that overcometh will be given power over the nations, until all principalities, powers and dominions are subdued and the last enemy death destroyed. Then the Son turns over the kingdom to the Father, and God himself will dwell with men, and the nations of those that are saved will carry their glory and honor into the City of God and partake of the tree of life, and drink of the river of life, and through the golden age of a never ending eternity. Then will be fulfilled God's promises to Abraham, "In thee and thy seed shall all nations be blessed, with the promised inheritance of the land of Canaan for an everlasting inheritance. Then the righteous will never be removed, but the wicked will be removed and not inherit the earth, but sleep a perpetual sleep and never awake; and the upright will have dominion over them and the beauty of the finally disobedient will consume away with them in their graves, receiving the wages of sin, which is death.

Your Brother in hope of life eternal through Jesus Christ.

D. M. HEMLER.

And still the Lord is so good We closed our meeting at Tiffiny school house, Dec. 11, having baptized eleven souls into the precious name of Christ. We are sorry to leave some almost persuaded to accept the gospel. May they continue to search the Scriptures and be obedient to the heavenly words. "Come unto me." The congregations have not been large at this place, but very attentive. We expect to return to this place after Christmas (D. V.) for a few evenings. God keep the dear ones who have trusted him thus far. Remembering his grace is sufficient for all our needs, do not try to walk alone, dear lambs, for the Shepherd will safely guide you.

Trust him always,
M. A. WOODWARD.

As announced in RESTITUTION meetings were begun at the Brush Creek Church, in Ohio, Nov. 26. The same were continued nearly two weeks. The same results followed us so often attend efforts of similar duration,—a warm interest with several almost persuaded. The Brush Creek Church took steps toward engaging some one to speak for them, at least once each month. They also desire to see the truth promulgated in the surrounding country. With a view to this end it is requested that all believers in southwestern Ohio, correspond with Luther Worley, Tippecanoe City, O. The desire has also been expressed that during the coming year arrangements may be made to hold a few days meeting at such time and place, that all of the faith in these parts may gather and strengthen each other. Through the desire and efforts of the Brush Creek Church meetings are now being held at a school house, about three miles southeast of Piqua, Ohio. An excellent interest is being manifested, but it is to be feared that the time allotted for the work is not sufficient to develop the same. Let one and all of the faith of the gospel be diligent in using their individual efforts to spread the truth.

F. L. AUSTIN.

The Nickel Plate Road

on Dec. 17, 1899, will inaugurate a new through vestibuled sleeping car service leaving New York City via D. L. & W. R. R. at 11:45 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 12:10 noon, connecting there with train No. 5 on the Nickel Plate Road arriving in Chicago at 7:20 a. m. Also, No. 6 leaving Chicago at 10:15 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 4:55 p. m. will carry a through vestibuled sleeper arriving in New York via the D. L. & W. R. R. at 7:25 a. m.—Dec. 27.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer on page 4 of this paper? Send early so we will be able to get your books to you before the rush of the Holiday trade begins. The offer is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Remember, the time is soon coming when the shippers and transportation companies will be very busy, and delays are liable to occur, so in order to get your books promptly order now. You can get nothing better for Christmas and New Year Gifts than a nice Bible, and here is your chance to get a very desirable gift at a very low price.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

OBITUARY.

Sister Sallie Regal, wife of Benjamin Regal, died December 1, 1899; born March 24, 1841. After a life of suffering our dear sister has fallen at last under the great enemy death, the enemy of all mankind, which entered Eden by man's disobedience. So death has passed upon us all, but thank God there has been sent to us a Redeemer, a mighty One to redeem us, to give us eternal life, and in him she put her trust, having obeyed the commands of the gospel. She sleeps in hope, sweetly sleeps, all unconscious of the sorrowing ones that are left, and we trust she will come forth to immortal joy [illegible] resurrection of the redeemed. She was a great Bible student and perhaps many of the readers of THE RESTITUTION remember her writings as they appeared in the paper from time to time; but in the last few years her health had failed so that her pen was laid aside. She suffered from paralysis. She went from her home about ten weeks ago to visit her daughter at Youngstown, and suffered a severe stroke from which she never recovered. She has been a great sufferer for the past weeks, being unable to move, and her throat and tongue were so affected that it was with difficulty that she could be understood. But now her sufferings are over. She leaves a husband and four children. She was brought back to her home at Patmos, Ohio, and laid to rest in the old Goshen burying ground, where all our dear ones are sleeping until called forth to join the Redeemer. Words of comfort were spoken by Mr. Morgan; his subject, "Where is man in death?" and "the hope of the resurrection," were well answered with Bible answers.

Her Sister,
MRS. MARY E. KNOWLES.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

A B Griffith	1.50
Mrs M E Dawson	.50
Mrs J Wilen	3.50
Lucy A Campbell	1.00

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

Poetry.

Born, Crucified, Risen.

The sheriows(?) evening were silently creeping
Through Bethlehem's streets, as there stopped at the door
Of its hostel two travellers, anxiously seeking
For shelter and food till the long night be o'er.

But the gate-keeper answered, "The house is o'erflowing;
The chambers, the court-yard, and even the roof;
Not an inch of the place can we spare for you, Joseph;
Just ghines at the people who wait here, for proof."

"But I and my wife have been riding since daylight—
And Mary with weariness now is o'ercome,
If no shelter to-night I can find for my dear one,
To-morrow may find her in death cold and dumb."

The gate-keeper pondered; then slowly he answered,
"'Tis cruel to leave her to die of the cold;
But we've never a nook nor a corner to give you;
But wait! in the barn you may sleep with the fold."

So there on the straw with the kine sleeping round them,
Adown on its floor lay the travellers worn;
And there just at midnight was crowned in the heavens
To Joseph and Mary an infant was born.

And, lo! in the heavens a wonderful glory,
Whose lightness revealed the scene by night rays!
The mountains, the valleys, the hedges were flooded;
And hark! what a chorus of jubilant pra

From the ground where they lay, o'er their flocks vigil keeping,
The shepherds, affrighted, the splendor beheld;
The portals of heaven are suddenly opened,
And forth come the angels with harps of pure gold.

Adown on their knees fell the shepherds in terror;
But sweet from the midst of the throng came a voice:—
"Fear not; for glad tidings we bring to all mankind
Home.
The Christ-King is born! Fear ye not, but rejoice!

By this ye shall know him: a swaddling-clothes babe;
He sleeps in a manger, the place of his birth;
From sinning and death he for aye shall redeem you,—
His kingdom shall reach to the ends of the earth."

Then thousands of seraphs caught up the glad anthem,
"On earth peace forever and good-will to men!"
Loud swells the glad chorus; then suddenly ceases;
The heavens are silent and dark once again.

Now hundreds of mystified people are thronging
To gaze on the Christ Child, from near and from far;
The shepherds adore him; and here are the wise Men,
Directed and guided by Bethlehem's star.

The sweet Mary-mother in wonder beholdeth
The throng that bow down to the Babe on her knee;
The men of the East at his feet lay their treasure,—
The promised Messiah, the King yet to be!

Years pass. Through the streets of Jerusalem toiling,
Urged on by the soldiers with weapon and jeer,
Spit upon, bruised and bleeding and stripped of his garment,
Comes Bethlehem's King, at the point of the spear!

He comes to be crucified. He and two others.
Himself in the midst as the worst of the three;
Through his feet and his hands are the cruel nails driven;
Thorn crowned; pierced with spears; King of heaven is he!

Ah, Mary! thy piteous heart is near breaking
As thou seest on the cross the dear Son that thou bore;
But his shame and his tortures will soon all be ended;
He speaks—"It is finished!" The agony's o'er.

The heavens grow black with a terrible darkness;
The veil of the temple is rent in twain;
The thunder bolt falls; fierce the wild lightning flashes,
And shuddering nature seems groaning in pain.

Christ is dead; and his toiling and suffering over;
His body is tenderly laid in the tomb;
The few who are faithful are left without guidance,
Their hearts filled with sadness and covered with gloom.

But he said, "Though I go, I will come again to you;
In God ye believe; believe also in me.
I go that for you I a place may make ready—
That where I am dwelling, you also may be."

"Christ is risen!" their doubt and their sorrow has vanished;
They have seen in his fingers the print of the nail;
They have looked at the wound in his side; he has told them
His blood over sin and the grave shall avail.

Years after, once more heaven's portals are opened
And Jesus, the faithful, is taken above
To sit on the throne of the Father in glory
The Lord of our life, and the Christ of our love.

Ten thousands and millions of angels adore him,
Unceasingly singing the praise of his name;
Salvation and honor and glory and wisdom
And riches and power to the Lamb," they proclaim.

And John, as he looks on their robes white and shining,
The harps of pure gold, and the palms in their hands,
And the star-gleaming crowns, is with awe filled and wonder,
For countless they are as the "numberless sands."

"These are they that have come up through great tribulation,
Whose robes in the Blood of the Lamb are washed white;
Now are tears nevermore; never sorrow nor sighing;
With Jesus the Christ all is glory and light."

O sometime, my friends, and it may be to-morrow,
The gateway of glory will open for you;
You shall stand at the throne of your mighty Creator,
And for every act given account just and true.

It may be this evening Christ Jesus stands waiting,
And patiently knocks at the door of your heart.
O, open and give to him welcome and shelter,
Beware how thou biddest the Lord to depart!

Do not crucify Christ; can you feel on this Christmas
The Blessed Redeemer is born in your soul?
Then safe may you rest though the heavens be rended,
And over your life should eternity roll.

"Behold, I come quickly; and he that is righteous
Be more righteous still;
And he that is filthy shall yet be more filthy."
To-night thou may'st choose which thy record may fill.

And all those who dwell in the heavenly city
Must enter with robes pure and white as the snow:
Without it are liars and all they who do evil
Within, life and glory; without, death and woe.

Are you ready to sing with the host of redeemed ones?
To trust in his promise, and happiness find?
To-night you may join in the glad Christmas anthem
For Christ the Redeemer is born to mankind!

—Ida G. Rust.

Selections.

The Wonderful Counselor.

Whether we read Isa. ix. 6, as "Wonderful Counselor," as in the text of the Revised Version, or "Wonderful Counselor," as in the margin, it matters not. Jesus Christ is the Counselor, the Advocate of his people, of all that long to be his people. He is also a Wonderful Counselor, in wisdom so surpassing, in knowledge so profound, in love so infinite, that all the counsel of all the wise of earth is not worthy of mention.

He knows all about our case. He understands the principles involved. He sees the harvest in the seed, the end in the beginning. He knows all the dangers that lurk in the way. He looks with clear eye upon all the snares of the enemy. He sees the subtle, sweetened, poisoned draughts the adversary has prepared for thirsty lips. He beholds the enchantress' bed which would lull to the sleep of death our wearied limbs and brain. He has met all these things himself, and knows how to escape all dangers, how to make the best use of all blessings; nay, more, how even to turn the banes into blessings. O, our Counselor understands it all; he is perfect in knowledge and wisdom. Moreover, he counsels to save. He can counsel in no other way, for he loves us with measureless love. Others may counsel us to do what is "expedient," what is the best "policy." But there are no makeshifts to the advice of our Counselor. His counsel is founded in the everlasting principles of truth and righteousness and life. He would not advise you to endeavor to escape a temporary ill and fall into the permanent evil. He would not save you from confession of sin, to let you meet sin's doom at the end. He would not give you the satisfaction of your temporary triumph here, and keep you from his eternal triumph for you hereafter. No; love leads our Counselor to do for us what is always for our best and eternal good.

But the knowledge, the wisdom, the intermingled love are not all that make wonderful our great Counselor. His ear, his private office, is open to all. The poor of earth cannot get access, except in rare instances, to the world's great counselors. The legal advice of Blackstone, an Evarts, or a Choate costs more than the poor can afford. A retaining fee for such as they, even if life were at stake, would be more than the poor could raise. But the wonderful Counselor ever keeps open office for earth's millions. No servant or lackey will keep you from access to the Master. It is your privilege to go to him. Surely he speaks not to deceive or tantalize; hear him: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden." The righteous may come in his perplexity. The sinner, deep-dyed and criminal against his Father's law, may come and find an Advocate who intercedes, a Judge who justifies. And this is love.

Then, reader, go to him. Let nothing keep you from it. Tell him all about your case. Keep back nothing. Only so will you realize the need of his help. And then his Spirit will by his own Word teach you the way, and you will indeed know him to be the Wonderful Counselor.—Signs of the Times.

The Tongue.

The tongue is more powerful than the sceptre and rules where the sword would fail. We are told in sacred language that it is a "little member and boasteth great things." Time has proven the wisdom of the adage.

The ear was made to listen to the music of prattling babes, the anthems of the forests, the eloquence of man and the voice of God. The eye to behold the beauties of the universe, the pathway of [illegible] with undimmed vision, to look upon the crown of immortality resting on the brow of virtue. The tongue was made to utter words of truth and sympathy, to unite the brotherhood of man, and to supplicate the throne of the Eternal.

It was the tongue that broke the silence of ages and opened to man the gates of Paradise. It was the tongue which made the confession of sin as the flaming sword guarded the way of the tree of life. It was the tongue of the eloquent Greek that calmed the stormy passions of the multitude at Athens and opened the temple of liberty to the sons of Greece. It was the tongue of our great Example that hushed the wild waves and said: "Peace, be still;" that rebuked diseases, and quickened the lifeless form of the dead.

Who can recount its wonders? It is the ever-ready messenger, standing at the portals of thought, to bear the words of grief or joy to anxious hearts. By it the dreary walks of life are cheered into gladness, and the wilderness is made to blossom as the rose.

But alas! it often sends the shafts of pain where life was full of joy. Its sting is like the touch of the death-angel; it reproaches the Infinite and blasts the hope of man.

It ruins the innocent and dethrones the right, it seals the destiny of the unfortunate and crushes the poor. Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing, good and evil. It becomes a fire, burning to the lowest hell, and blackens the face of truth, wrong.

The tongue is the wild man of the earth, and cannot be tamed by man alone. It is described as the "pen of a ready writer," and from its hiding place it sends forth the bitter words of

Who can read its history and recount its deeds of crime? Unsanctified by the principles of justice and truth, it becomes the worst enemy of man; but when restrained by the impulses of a noble heart, it becomes the good angel of our destiny. The heart-fountains must be cleared before it will only speak the words of truth and goodness. He who would utter the voice of right and prove a blessing to man, must develop his moral nature and ennoble his mind by thoughts of purity; then will the tongue bow in humility at the shrine of virtue and its words will be as "apples of gold in picture of silver."—H. V. R., in Restitution, 1872.

One Man's Duty.

The stoker in the hold of a great steamship, homesick, and sweaty and grimy and weary, with an insignificant shovelful of coal poised ready to throw into the furnace, talks with himself: "Will this shovel full of coal drive this ship across the ocean? Not! Will it keep this ship going one mile, one inch, one second? No; but there are other stokers and more coal; will they be faithful? I don't know: I am not the captain of this ship, but I am the commodore of this shovel."

"This ship may go to port or 'lie to' or go to the bottom, but my duty goes on and I will do it. Let the captain see to the ship and the rest of his crew. But he may know that he has one stoker who will shovel 'square' until the bell rings him off his shift."—John G. Woolley.

Notice.

Editor Restitution:

Please say to the brethren that I will be at Bosworth, Mo., on Saturday, the 23rd of Dec., to continue until the 29th of Dec. At each place all are invited to attend. Let us have one more good meeting in 1899.

JOHN FOOTE.

Communicated.

What Would Jesus do?

This important question has become a common caption of late, even [illegible] papers have caught on to it. [illegible] time ago we heard a minister say in public, that he had read in a little [illegible] that if we would ask ourselves the question when we went to vote, "What would Jesus do?" and then do as he would do, we would vote with the right party and not vote amiss. I reflected my thinker a going, and I told [illegible] the question in my mind was this, would Jesus vote with any political party? He smiled and said that was the question, and went on his way. I cannot persuade myself that Jesus [illegible] in person would go near the polls on election day: if he did it would be to teach, reprove and rebuke [illegible] persons who were there. "What would Jesus do if he were to see his disciples going around with such as us attend elections? Would he not [illegible] and say, "Oh Jerusa- [illegible] and stoned of the [illegible] me out from among them [illegible] ye a separate people, and touch [illegible] te and handle not the unclean [illegible] and I will receive you? "Birds of a feather flock together," and [illegible] ple are known by the company [illegible] p." They run political parties [illegible] t license to the saloons and [illegible] dens of infamy that enslave and [illegible] millions of God's creation. I cannot entertain the thought for a moment, that Jesus my Lord and Master would vote and cast his influence with any such parties. Do you think he would, my brother? You say no, and I say no. Then we are agreed, and are one in faith, purpose and action as Jesus and his Father are one. Then let us both be consistent and run with patience the race set before us. Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy set before him, endured the cross, despised the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God." Jesus never did take part with vile men who rule in this world, but he often reproved them, and told them "this is your hour and the power of darkness," and for this reason they hated him, and no marvel if they hate his people. When he smiles upon his disciples, and tells them to be of good cheer, as he had overcome the world, (the snares and temptations of the present evil world) study his trials in the wilderness, and compare your actions with his. He overcame all temptations and spurned the offer of all the kingdoms of this world and the glory of them. No selfishness there, but how is it with us when we switch off from the narrow path and the little company, and mount the broad road and sail along with the multitude down to destruction. What can prompt us but selfishness, the hope of making times better, and more money. See what Paul says about that, and how dangerous it is to disregard all the Master's danger signals. Paul tells us not to conform to this world, but be transformed, or changed that we may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. We must die to sin and the rudiments of this world, if we would see the King in his beauty. We all know that the kingdoms of this world are corrupt, as represented by wild ferocious beasts, shall you and I endanger our lives in trying to tame and oppose them? Has the time come for this work? And did Jesus set such an example, and tell us to follow him? Love not the world, neither the things of the world. "If any man love the world, the love [illegible] is not in him." Brethren, let us drop our love for the world and be one in purpose and action, and lay aside every weight, and follow Jesus, and do as he would do and have us do, and all will be well.

T. E. ADAMS.

The Soul of Man

If you will allow me a little space in your paper, I would like to give a few thoughts on the subject of the Spirit as it is recorded in Eccl. xii. 7, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." As this seems to be the principal text that the orthodox people take to prove the immortality of the soul, and the consciousness of man after death, I will try to show from a Bible standpoint, what the spirit is that returns unto God who gave it. It is generally acknowledged by every one that the body returns to the dust as it was. But it is almost universally thought that the spirit, soul, or thinking part of man, goes to heaven at death. Now if the spirit is the mind or thinking power of man, then the Scriptures must be wrong, for we read that, "The dead know not anything." Eccl. ix. 5. And again that, "The dead praise not the Lord." Psa. cxv. 17. And still again we read, "For in death there is no remembrance of thee." Psa. vi. 5. This proves to my mind that the spirit spoken of in my text is not the mind of the man or person, and if not what is it? We read in Gen. ii. 7, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul."

And Job says, "The spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life." Job xxxiii. 4. Now, it cannot be the soul that returns to God, for we read that, "The soul that sinneth it shall die." Ezek. xviii. 4. "And every living soul died in the sea." Rev. xvi. 3. And David says, "Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, and upon them that hope in his mercy; to deliver their soul from death." Psa. xxxiii. 18. And in cxvi. 8, he says, "For thou hast delivered my soul from [illegible] and the [illegible] mine eyes and the [illegible] from falling." Now we must have the same understanding when he said, "Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live." Isa. lv. iii. 3. These witnesses all seem to have the same understanding in regard to the death of the soul.

Now, as I have proven by all of these witnesses that the soul surely dies, I will try to show what it is that returns to God. In the first place let us see what it is that gives man life. In Gen. ii. 7, we find a complete record given of the creation of man, it tells us that the "Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Now, if we will just stop and think for a moment, we can plainly see that if it takes the breath to make the man a living soul, to take the breath away from him would leave him a dead soul.

Job says, "The breath of the Almighty hath given me life." Now by turning to the xxxvii. of Ezek., we find after God tells him to prophesy over the valley of dry bones, and they had come together, and the flesh had come upon them; that God tells Ezekiel to prophesy again. "Thus saith the Lord God; come from the four winds, O breath and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." Now this is a plain declaration from God through the prophet, to show us where the breath comes from, and that it is for the purpose of giving life. Now we know that to shut the air away from a person they would very soon perish, for it takes the breath to give life, to take the breath away will surely cause death. And David in speaking of the frailty of man, says, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth: in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. 4, and again he says, "Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled: thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust." Psa. civ. 29.

To my mind there is no doubt, but what the spirit of my text, and the breath here spoken of is one and the same thing, for we breathe the air that is around us, and God created all things, created and caused the wind to blow that we might have pure air to breathe, and when death overtakes us, "The breath returns to the God who gave it; and the man returns to the dust of the ground, from whence it was first spoken into existence," there to remain until God calls them forth on the resurrection morn. For says David, "Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the face of the earth."

Now, dear friends, it would not be so very hard to understand the Bible, if we would be willing to take plain statements of God, given to us through the prophets as true, and not try to twist God's Word to make it fit man's theology, for when you do that you will make a great mistake, for man's word and God's plan of salvation are as different as daylight is from darkness. We hear men say when a good person dies that such a one has gone to heaven and is sitting on the right hand of God. While on the other hand we hear God say, "The heavens, the heavens are the Lord's, but the earth hath he given to the children of men."

Man says we go to heaven to receive our reward. While Jesus says, "Behold I come quickly and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

Now, dear friends I will leave this with you to study over for yourselves, and say which you are ready to believe the word of man, or the Word of God. God has set forth the plan, you can accept it or reject it as you see fit.

Submitted in the love of truth

JOS. WILLIAMS.

Religion.

Religion is that divine science which teaches how man may be brought into favor of and union with God. It also implies that once he did enjoy union and communion with God, and that a disruption has taken place,—hence his present alienation and severance from God and mortality.

The term religion is derived from ligio, to bind, and re, again. Hence religion means, literally, to bind again,—to re-unite. The word ligature, which signifies a binder, comes from the same source.

Religion is an emanation from the Divine mind,—a scheme of God-like benevolence designed to restore to man communion with God, the joys of Paradise and unending life.

As these are God's gracious gifts to man, so he has appointed the Medium by or through which only they can be obtained. This is reasonable and just; and we next ask: What is this divinely appointed Medium of obtaining these blessings? Answer, Faith [illegible]

As it was by *un*belief and disobedience that these inestimable blessings were lost, so it is only by belief and obedience that they can be regained; which briefly consists in believing the gospel, which is the power of God for salvation, and being immersed for the name of Jesus unto remission of sins. This is a sealing of our covenant relationship to God; and by a continuance in well doing will in the end result in immortality and everlasting life.

J. O. WOODRUFF.

"Henceforth I call you not servants, for the servant knoweth not what his Lord doeth, but I have called you friends." John xv. 15.

If we are not servants then we are not working for wages, but it is a labor of love for a friend. It is said that we have a friend that sticketh closer than a brother. Christ Jesus did not work for wages, but for the good of humanity and to do the will of God. Our reward is not reckoned as wages but a gift, for it says the wages of sin is death. But the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. So eternal life is not reckoned as wages, but a gift. So if we do any thing in this life for God and Christ and the good of our fellow creatures, it must be done willingly and not for wages, but in gratitude to God, who so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life." Now if we want this everlasting life, we must get into the straight and narrow way that leads to life. Jesus says, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father except by me." Now let us all take this to heart and consider ourselves, what are our motives and our desires, are we in the straight and narrow path, are we serving God with willingness, are we doing his will, or is it a sham, an outward form to be seen of men? Let what we do be done for the love of God and Jesus, and may we be ready when his kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth. Amen.

J. E. HOGARTH.

A Brave Coward.

The Chicago & North-Western Railway Company announces the publication of a thrilling story of campaigning in the Philippines, entitled "A Brave Coward." The famous battle of Malate, the charge at La Loma, a love romance, the career of the Tenth Pennsylvania at Manila and in Luzon, the conquering of cowardice by a young Pennsylvanian, are all interwoven into one of the most delightful short stories of the hour yet issued. In common with the first Nebraska, the Thirteenth Minnesota, the Utah and Oregon men and the Fourteenth Kansas, the Tenth Pennsylvania made history in the war against Aguinaldo. The tale is superbly illustrated with half-tones printed in convenient form, and will be forwarded to addresses on receipt of 6 cents in postage by W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Illinois.—Dec. 30.

Reduced Fares.

Excursion tickets will be sold Dec. 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan. 1st, 1900, via Pennsylvania Lines account Christmas and New Year Holidays. The rate for adults will not be less than 80 cents, nor less than 15 cents for children. Tickets will be good returning until Jan. 2, 1900, inclusive. For details about fares, time of trains, etc., call on or address J. E. Haines, Ticket Agent, Plymouth, Ind.

Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance. Remember you get all the balance of 1899 free.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Pike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. S. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward. Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Cheesbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W.L. Shields, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Henn, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sciotaville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 261, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Window, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Hidd, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. H. Fisk, Caldwell, Kansas.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Bathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadean, Cal.
W. O. Stelle, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Poore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave, Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halsted, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 307 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.

Change in Time of Trains on Pennsylvania Lines.

Under a new schedule in effect Sunday Nov. 19, 1899, passenger trains over the Pennsylvania lines leave Plymouth station as follows.

For the East: No. 6, 2:55 a. m. daily; No. 18 5:18, a. m. daily, No. 20, 10:37, a m. except Sunday; No. 8, 5:48 p. m. except Sunday; No. 2, 7:50, p. m. extra fare; No. 38, 8:51, p. m. except Sunday.

For the West: No. 15, 5:34 a. m. daily; No. 5, 6:43 a. m, extra fare; No. 37, 9:22 a. m., except Sunday; No. 39, 2:10 p. m. except Sunday; No. 9, 6:12 p. m. daily; No. 7, 6:34 p. m. daily.

For particular information on the subject apply to J. E. Hanes, Agt.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell Holiday excursion tickets good going on Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan 1st, 1900, at one and one third fare for the round trip, good returning to and including Jan. 2nd, 1900. With its Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains and an Unexcelled Dining Car Service, the Nickel Plate Road offers special inducements for Holiday travel.—jan 1

Tourist Tickets to Florida and Winter Resorts in the South.

Ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines will answer inquiries about low fares to Florida and winter resorts in the South. Full information concerning Tourist Tickets, time tables, etc., will be furnished free. Persons contemplating a Southern trip may secure valuable information on the subject by merely inquiring of the nearest representative of the Pennsylvania Lines, or by addressing C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio. Say where and when you wish to go, how many will be in the party, starting point, etc., and you will be promptly posted. The inquiry will not cost much effort—it will save considerable bother in arranging details, as they will be looked after gratis.—Dec. 31.

The Nickel Plate Road offers to students desiring to return home for the Holidays, the special rate of one and one third fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on the day school closes and the day immediately preceding, good returning to and including the date school reconvenes, but not later than Jan. 10th.—dec 25

Holiday Excursions, Vandalia Lines.

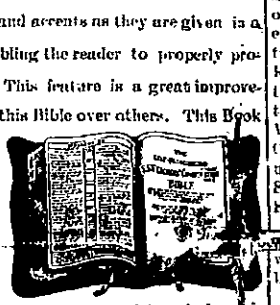
On account of Holidays the Vandalia line will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good to return up to and including Jan. 2nd.

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.



The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The points of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.
30 Behold, d we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:
37 And e it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.
38 And because of all this we f make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, g seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 29 And the points of the covenant.

NOW a Ne-he-mi'ah, b the Tir'sha-thà, b the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,
2 c Ser-a-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Jer-a-mi'ah,
3 Pash'ur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,
4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,
5 Ha'rim, Me're-moth, O-ba-di'ah,
6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,
7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,
8 Ma-a'zi-ah, Bil'ga-i, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.
9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;
10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,
11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,
12 Zac'cur, Sher-e-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,
13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Be-ni'nu.
14 The chief of the people; d Pa'rosh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Be'ni,
15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,
16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'vi-i, A'din,
17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,
18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,
19 Ha'riph, An'e-thoth, Neb'a-i,
20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,
21 Mes-he'za-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,
22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,
23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Has'shub,
24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Sho'bek,
25 Re'hum, Hash-sub'nah, Ma-a-se'iah,
26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,
27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.
28 ¶ c And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Ne'thi-nims, f and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;
29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, g and entered into h a curse, and into an oath, h to walk in God's law, which was given h by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our Lord, and his judgments and his statutes;
30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:
31 k And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the seventh year, and the m exaction of n every debt.
32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with o the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;
33 For p the shewbread, and for the o continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.
34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, p for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, q as it is written in the law:
35 And r to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:
36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All Remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:08pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 3, " " " " .....12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport,.....7:30pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Fonn,
Gen Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1860. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts. 100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

15-11-99

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Latest and Coloured Porters attend first and second class cars on through trains. Modern and scrupulously clean cars operate.

Eastern time			All Nickel Plate Trains Daily.	Western time
L.	A.	P.		A.	P.	L.
10 00	10 35	7 35	Chicago	7 00	7 35	11 00
10 03	10 38	7 38	Englewood	6 57	7 32	10 57
10 11	10 46	7 46	So. Wanatah	6 49	7 24	10 49
11 20	11 55	8 55	Kouts	5 40	6 15	9 40
11 40	12 15	9 15	Hobart	5 20	5 55	9 20
11 55	12 30	9 30	Tryon	5 05	5 40	9 05
12 15	12 50	9 50	Dyer	4 45	5 20	8 45
12 25	1 00	10 00	Clarke Jct.	4 35	5 10	8 35
12 30	1 05	10 05	Ft. Wayne	4 30	5 05	8 30
4 30	5 05	1 05	Cleveland	12 30	1 05	4 30
7 50	8 25	4 25	Buffalo	9 10	9 45	7 10
12 05	12 40	8 40	New York	5 00	5 35	2 55

(Lv. or Fr. Hoboken, northwest bottom Hoboken Ferry Island 32nd Street, daily except Sunday. Lv. Hoboken, Wednesday and Friday, northeast side on Sunday, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Light type A. M. Dark type P. M.
Daily except Sunday. ‡ Meals a la Carte.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 8 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 8, 3 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served at "Nickel Plate" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than rates of other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. F. Hower, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.
McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50TH YEAR
A LADIES' MAGAZINE.
A most beautiful colored plate; latest fashions; entertaining reading; fancy work; household hints; fiction, etc. Subscribe to-day, or send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.
Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.
McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10 AND 15¢
(No Seam-Allowance Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from
THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hurt Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Pulon Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Pulon Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor. Center and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. P. Thompson and W. Turple, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 526 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on M Jagan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through thereby, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing the Elder at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Pershing St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Readings, every Sunday at 3:30 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scipioville, Ind., meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Edelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kolle, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. Is Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Pork Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Ruisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Shields and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 8:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren A. D. Allen in charge.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DECEMBER 20, 1899. NUMBER 47.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

If We Knew.

Could we but draw the curtains
That surround each other's lives,
See the naked heart and spirit,
Know what spur the action gives,
Often we should find it better,
Purer than we judge we should;
We should love each other better
If we only understood.

Could we judge all deeds by motives,
See the good and bad within,
Often we should love the sinner,
All the while we loathe the sin;
Could we know the powers working
To overthrow integrity,
We would judge each other's errors,
With more patient charity.

If we knew the cares and trials,
Knew the efforts all in vain,
And the bitter disappointments,
Understood the loss and gain—
Would the grim, external roughness
Seem, I wonder, just the same?
Should we help, where now we hinder?
Should we pity where we blame?

Ah! we judge each other harshly,
Knowing not life's hidden force;
Knowing not the fount of action
Is less turbid at its source,
Seeing not amid the evil
All the golden grains of good—
O! we'd love each other better
If we only understood!

Jessie W. Smith.

Communicated.

The War of the Standards.

I assume two facts to be true and well authenticated in the history of civilization, namely; That there has been a divine revelation to mankind and a written record of it which has been preserved and which has come down to us as other records have, but with far greater evidence of their validity than any other ancient records of whatever name and nature. For hundreds of years these records summed up in one collection have been popularly known as "The Book" or "The Bible." Some of these records were originally in the unlettered-pointed or unvocalized Hebrew and were known to the Hebrews themselves who understood themselves to be and proclaimed to the world that they were the divinely appointed custodians of them by the title or name of the Writings (or Scriptures) of the Old Covenant (not Testament) and any question of the validity of the record would naturally revert to this unvocalized text if any copy of it were extant, which by the way I would say in passing there is not or at least has not yet been discovered if indeed there be any such still divinely preserved and undiscovered. The rest of these records were originally in the Greek as delivered to mankind and in the fully vocalized and perfected Greek language to which as a spoken and written vehicle of thought nothing has since been added although the modified and corrupted Greek is still a living spoken and written language of a small and insignificant nation and kingdom so-called. These as a whole were denominated the Writings (or Scriptures) of the New Covenant (not Testament).

The Scriptures of the Old Covenant remained in the original unvocalized Hebrew until the dispersion and subjugation of the final Joudaic kingdom and the remnant of the twelve-tribed nationality by the Greek Empire, and until the Hebrew written language had become a dead-letter and an anachronism except to the learned few, and then in the providence of God was translated and transferred by Hebrews themselves into the Greek language which had become the vernacular as well as the vehicle of all the recorded important thought of the empire, of which the Hebrew had become an integer, and stick a pin here, the Hebrew written language had not then become and never made any pretense of having become a properly vocalized language from this time on until early in the fifteenth century when a futile attempt was made from such sources as were then extant and is still continued to revive and properly vocalize it, all of which attempts to this day have proved abortive and only approximate as might have been expected from the very nature of the problem.

It will be seen from what has been said above that the original records of the Old Covenant Scriptures so far as the testimony of the custodians and according to their own claims that this custody and trusteeship was divinely appointed, though delivered to them in Hebrew, were under the same direction transferred or translated by them into the Greek for their own immediate generation and a coming posterity. This occurred some time in the fourth century before Christ as nearly as any authentic record now extant informs us. That it was fairly and honestly done as a translation of the thought of the original Hebrew, its general use in the Hebrew synagogues throughout the Greek Empire down to Christ's day attests. That the Greek Scriptures received the imprimatur of the Christ himself and his Apostles and became "the Bible" of their day is still stronger evidence of the validity of this claim; and as proof of their having so done is the unquestioned historical fact, that the early Christian Church recognized, used and adopted the Greek as original and quoted from it unto the New Records it was making for other generations. There are no quotations in the New Covenant Scriptures from any Hebrew text now extant or yet discovered, nor even from other contemporaneous translations from the unletter-pointed Hebrew like the Coptic, the Arabic, the Peshito or the Aramic. And moreover there was not only no Hebrew text known to the Christian Church in the second century of the Christian era, but no knowledge of Hebrew among the lettered or unlettered Christians of that day, and when the apostate Latin church wanted a translation from the rolls of the Apostate Hebrew of the fifth or sixth century it had to employ and rely upon the veracity of the proselyte Jew—Jerome, for the translation which became the basis of all the Latin and other European translations on down to the fifteenth century, when Protestantism thought it could improve on this Latin translation by patching up a Hebrew text from such sources as were then open and attainable. Now what was the state of things which this revival of interest in Hebrew on the part of Protestantism found. Outside of the dispised and apostate Hebrew Ghettos, in all Europe there was not enough knowledge of Hebrew to warrant the existence of a Hebrew grammar or lexicon and a diligent search throughout Europe and the East resulted in finding nothing more than what is now known to every scholar as the text based upon the Massoretic fragments, and the very definition itself of Massora is "tradition." There was truth in it of course; but like all tradition was truth mixed with error, and we should bear in mind the warning of the Christ himself addressed not only to his disciples, but to the apostate Hebrews of that day, "Ye make void the Word of God by your traditions." If then this had already occurred in the green what should we expect in the dry of the fifteenth century afterwards?

So when you read on the title pages of the versions of today "Translated from the original Hebrew and Greek of the Old and New Testament" you may and should read between the lines—through the Apostate Hebrew and the more apostate Latin. For every translation down to Luther's time and even later was made from the Latin or Vulgate as it is commonly called, into the English as well as the other languages of Europe. And even the Greek Church as it is called was a full fledged apostate in its liturgy and fossilized forms and ceremonies before it split off from its mother, the Latin Apostasy, and has never gone back to the fundamental teachings of the Greek Scriptures nor "done the first works" of a repentant sinner, and "their last state" is today, "worse than the first" as predicted in the very Scriptures they profess to teach and follow.

Read the so-called church history of both branches of the European Christian Apostasy—the Latin and the Greek—"for by their fruits," Christ says, "will ye know them," read the history of the inquisition written in blood all over Europe, read the persecutions and "holy wars," read America's early history, and follow the blood-red trail of the Latin Apostasy from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Gulf of Mexico to the frozen North, and then ask yourself and your enlightened common sense, if these are "fruits" of Christianity or the Word of God made void by the traditions of "the Apostasy which must first come" for some good reason known only to the infinite One, before "the kingdom" can come which we are all taught to pray for, and before The Christ can return to assert the kingdom as the Son of the Father whose kingdom it is and whose kingship we recognize and confess when we say "Our Father who art in heaven. May thy kingdom have come, et cet."

That there have been two divine commissions of the oracles of God, namely of the Scriptures of the Old and New Covenant, among many other proofs in the Scriptures themselves, see Rom. iii. 1 and 2, "What advantage then hath the Joudaian or what profit was there in the circumcision? Much in every way. For they were FIRST entrusted with the oracles (oracular words) of God." Who were entrusted with them a SECOND time? And did not this trust cover the Old Covenant Scriptures as well as the New? What is and was the claim of Christ and his disciples and the early Christian Church after them? What was Christ's reproof to the old custodians? Was it not that they had been faithless to their trust? And what did their faithlessness consist in? Was it merely their conduct of life? Does he not tell them specifically in the Sermon on the Mount and elsewhere in his teachings, "Ye make void the Word of God with your traditions."

What is the so-called "Higher Criticism" of the present day doing? Is it not saying and re-iterating, Mousees did not write "Moses" and Heesaias did not write "Isaiah" and so on to the end of the chapter? They do not even know the true names of the authors whom they are criticising. And when asked for their documentary claims, they quote the apostate Hebrew and tradition, and when confronted with the falsity and absurdity of their deductions when tried by the testimony of the Greek Scriptures, the answer is, But this is not the original—it may be and probably was a pretty fair translation. Well, do you not know that the original Hebrew has been lost and a dead letter for more than two thousand years, and that what you are claiming to be original Hebrew is a rag-patched garment of Apostasy? Did you ever make a critical study of the Greek Scriptures in their entirety? Well, no. We hardly thought it worth our while. It did not agree with your theory of three or more Isaiah's did it? We do not consider the Greek authoritative when we have the original Hebrew. The Hebrew themselves have the original Hebrew to which you refer have they not? Why do they not then as a people become Christians? Who have been the custodians of this original text since Christ's day till you acquired it some time in the fifteenth century? Were they not the very people who rejected Christ and who were branded as apostates? Is it at all likely that they proved faithful to their trust in regard to the original Hebrew when it is a well known historical fact that they tampered with the Greek in the second century of the Christian era and were discovered and exposed in their craftiness? Spurious copies of the Greek Scriptures are still extant as evidence of this unworthy attempt.

A sample of the tinkering appears in the famous Messianic prophecy, "The virgin will have in womb and will bring forth a son, etc." Changed to read, "The young woman will conceive, etc."

These Hebraist Higher Critics are now issuing a Plychrome edition of the "Old Testament" as they still call it—their new translation from the original Hebrew—original apostasy would be a more correct designation of the textual sources, and judging from the specimens given in the advance sheets which are not even good English translations of anything, no future author will ever form his literary style upon a study and meditation of them as did a Shakespeare or a Milton or Tennyson who were brought up on the English of the Common Version. This had at least the merit as a whole good English transcript of the thoughts of God. There is a singular providence in the fact that an English speaking race under both flags should have made prominent to the extent it has in its educational curricula the study of two dead languages, the Latin and the Greek, so predominantly conspicuous in fact for several hundred years as to make an analytical and philosophical knowledge of the grammatical structure of these languages and a familiarity with their classics the test of all honorary degrees in their schools and universities until quite recently. Did God foresee this great "battle of the standards?"

The fact that the great Catholic hierarchy hid the Word of God in the Latin apostasy away from the common people and common knowledge and the world-wide authority it once exercised might account for the predominance of the Latin; but will the cant of Greek wisdom and the halo of its past glory still shining over all the nations of the earth account for this absorbing interest and study of the centuries?

I wot not. There is a profounder reason than this and a holier grail at the end of this pursuit, and not only the ghosts of cherished apostate creeds proclaim it, but the utter barrenness of their fruits to the taste and appetite of a generation set free from the yoke of bigotry and the cunning of selfish priest-craft. Too many "common people" have learned that God has said and with special emphasis too. "Come and let us reason together," and they have come and are still coming by the millions and standing morning, noon and night at God's door, the personal Christ namely, and are asking, How can these things be so; and he is answering them as he did of yore on the shores of the Sea of Galilain and in the upper-chamber. His sheep hear his voice now as they did then, and he leadeth them in and out as of yore, and they find pasturage. The leaders of thought in this land and abroad are pleading "the Higher Criticism" as their excuse for an utter or partial abandonment of the so-called "old doctrines" of fifty years, even fifteen years ago. The Bible of their childhood, their "mother's Bible" is now denominated by them "a fetish" or say they, we must view it and study and treat it as we would the literature of any other nation. It is a collection of Hebrew literature, prose, poetry, history, philosophy, idylic song, etc. It was a good thing, the best thing of its day; but revelation and vision is not a closed book. Great is the God of our conception and we are his prophets. We too "stand in his hypostasis." "Christian Science" says another class of higher critics is not "science so-called," but the real thing, and Mrs. Eddy is the discover of it or at least of all its fundamental principles. Have you made a pilgrimage to her temple and shrine in Boston, the new Mecca of the orient? Have you oriented yourself? If not, haste to do so and get wisdom and with all your getting get understanding. Not only "know yourself," but "heal yourself"—after you have paid me a hundred dollars to know how. If Boston is too far away, seek Chicago and the great Dowie and pay your "tithes" and live.

Does not this cutting loose from old and cherished ties and general departure from the old paths in "Christian Endeavor" and a great many other endeavors signify a great change going on—an upheaval of some sort? Is it a renaissance of common sense? Will true Christian science be long satisfied with the philosophy that nothing is the matter and no matter if there is? Go back and study the Greek Scriptures of the early Christian Church not the pabulum that passes for them filtered down through the apostate Latin and Hebrew, and make yourself acquainted with the first principles of God's wisdom according to the Christ "in whom they are summed up."

Acquaint yourself with Mousees and Habraam and Joob, not "Moses" and "Abraham" and "Job" and the rest of the early prophets who were tested to be true witnesses and all claimed to be inspired and "mouthpieces" of God, not merely historians, philosophers, poets, statesmen or literary ink-slingers and proved to be what they claimed by the "signs and prodigies" that followed them. Strike out the signs and prodigies from the sacred Record, as "the Higher Criticism" is now teaching its followers to do, and you illiminate the most important testimony in the Word of God to its superhuman origin and wisdom.

Acquaint yourself with Paul and what he said on all these subjects, not the Paul of the creeds and the interpreters; read for yourself just what he writes and says. He did not claim to be anything more than "a mouthpiece" of inspiration and his testimony is in exact harmony with Mousees. The divine testimony and record seems to be complete and closed, and mankind's case has gone up to the great assize for final adjudication, and the further language of the record is that "we (Christians) have an advocate with the Father, Jesous Christos a justified one." The record also says that "it is appointed unto all men once to die and after that a judgement-trial." "For we must all stand at the bema of the Christ and give an account," etc. The bema is not "the judgment-seat" where God the Judge of all the earth sits, but the place where the Advocate and the Accuser stands. The testimony then is all in at this juncture and if we have an advocate with the Father, the case is closed so far as the evidence for or against us is concerned. The fact stated that "it remaineth for all men once to die" is conclusive as to the death-penalty, having been pronounced upon the whole race of mankind under the judgment of law. Therefore the pardon of grace is denominated "the gospel" or "good news." If it were not a conditional pardon we would need no advocate, and if we are not already dead, there would be no need of a resurrection in order that we might put in an appearance at the new trial.

Now, the apostasia has made Paul and the rest of the Apostles say and teach that we don't really die, but are kept alive in Hades, hell, purgatory or heaven as "souls," which are to be rehabilitated for further purgatorial or heavenly purposes when this great day of trial shall have come, if it does not come to each one individually when he or she shuffles off this mortal coil, as some teach. Why does Paul say "dead in trespasses and sins" when addressing people just as much alive as you and I now are? Or why does he exhort us to put off the old man and put on the new? Is not this the language even now of law? Does not the law account the condemned convict dead, although the sentence of death has not already been executed? What is regeneration but a renewal or re-importation of life? A re-begettal or birth? How does the butterfly come out of the cocoon of the dead catterpillar? There must be a point of time when the creeping, crawling thing as an organism dies and the flying, soaring thing lives. There must be a point of time when the organic mortal man in his evolution towards the higher immortal life dies to the organic functional mortal life and begins to live to the organic, functional immortal life. All the teaching of inspiration along this line agrees with this inference or assumption.

We are exhorted to feed on "the pure milk of the Word as unborn babes" (or possibly "recently born"). We are told that certain teachings "are strong food for adults who have had their functional faculties exercised to discriminate between good and bad." We are told to feed or take nourishment that we may grow in grace and knowledge. In other words revelation teaches us to assume an analogy if not an exact likeness between the spiritual and natural (or soul) life—that they are both functional as well as organic and that in both cases they have a germinal origin or beginning, and that they are determinative at the will of their Infinite Author or Creator. How do [illegible] Apostasy?

The issues are issues of life and death, and the war is now on. It is the Word of God against the word of the creature man. Once spoken through Mousees as a mediator, once for all through Jesous Christos as another mediator. On one side is the standard of the truth of God as it is in Christ Jesous, our Lord; on the other is the standard of the Apostasy which no: only "must first come," but has come, and had even begun to come in the day of John the Evangelist. Read what he says about it, and determine where you stand my reader and hearer. Moreover when you have "put on the whole armor of God" so far as you are able yourself, be willing "to accept the helmet of salvation and the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God"—you cannot in and of yourself take these—accept the great fact of inspiration, that God has saved you and wants you to hear and know "the good news," and when you have heard his call to the heavenly warfare, accept from his hand the divinely tempered weapon of your knightly and courtier service, his Thracian, two-edged, sharp-pointed to cut or thrust Sword of the Spirit, accept it as did the young knight of old from the royal hand of his king, after fasting and vigil, remembering that to your faith you are expected to add "valor," and shed your very heart's blood, for the high purpose, and resolve your vows and the royal preferment have placed upon you as a younger brother and son of the Most High, whose emblematic cross is on your shield and whose sword is this emblem too.

CHARLES GARDNER.

Dear Restitution:

Mrs. Anna Cook, of Wolf, Nevada Co., California, wants to know "If there is some preaching brother, who would like to do missionary work in northern California?" She does "not know of any preacher of the gospel, or any place where the people of the Church of God hold meetings north of Sacramento." There are three members where she lives, but "they have no leader and do not hold meetings." They are poor, and could not bear the expenses of a minister, but there is a good opening there. "There are three school houses within two miles and a half of Mrs. Cook's home, that have neither preaching nor Sunday school." Can any go? And who will volunteer to help pay the preacher? Time is short. These calls ought to be answered. We are the overseers of the vineyard and will be held responsible if the Lord's work is not done. I will do something; who will join[me]?

S. ROXANA WINCE.

NOTE.—Volume IV. of [illegible] Dawn, 660 pp., is not so completely saturated with the notion of the "presence" of the Lord here 40 years before his second coming, (referred to in my article in THE RESTITUTION of Nov. 22,) as are the first three volumes. This volume contains a large amount of valuable information and the opinions of many noted men pertaining to the present times, with comments by the author, pointed, faithful, and mostly helpful. It, like the first three volumes could be greatly improved by thorough revision; and no other can do it so well as their author, if he will first carefully reconsider his own opinions on a few fundamental points.

It seems a pity to do so much work and so near right in a matter of the highest importance, and spoil it with a few radical misapprehensions. If the author had been schooled in the first 25 years of the Advent movement, or if he had more carefully consulted those who had been thus schooled, he could have made his work more useful.

O. R. L. C.

Oregon Bible College
Oregon, Illinois

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DEC. 20, 1899.

To Our Subscribers.

Very many of our patrons well know their time expires with Dec. 31, 1899. A goodly number know equally well that they are behind in their payments varying from a month to some years. Any one can ascertain by examining their label just how they stand. The month is given and then a figure to indicate the year. Some object to us putting notice in the paper to try and induce payment to be made, and we do not like to do it—would rather not do so. Now, friends, do not make it necessary for us to ask but this once more, but send your money now, even before the time is out, so as to have it here by the first of January. We must have your aid or we shall be sorely crippled in getting out our paper. Please do not lay this aside till you have complied with our request.

LET malice alone, and they that are living in malice will pay the natural penalty of their iniquity.

PRAISE is never unseasonable to a Christian; because mercies are always in season.—New every morning.

IS it not amazing that any man of sense can think that God can be put off with the outward form of worship?

DARKNESS cause us to exercise faith; trials cause us to exercise patience; desertions cause us to exercise love; tempests cause us to exercise hope.

TRULY the words of the Apostle Peter, 2 Pet. iii. 3, 4, are being fulfilled in our day: "There shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of creation."

BROTHER D. T. Halstead has sold his home at Andover, Dakota, and returned to Rensselaer, Ind., for the present. He will answer calls to preach, and we trust will be kept busy. Bro. Halstead is so well known to the Indiana brethren that no word we can say will serve to introduce him. He will be found sound in the faith and true every way.

THE worldliness of the times we live in corresponds with what Jesus declared in Matt. xxiv. 38, 39: "For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the Ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."

THE War in South Africa the past week has been full of disaster to the British, the efforts to relieve the besieged cities has failed, and a retreat made necessary. The British empire is aroused as it has not been for many years, and the order for Generals Roberts and Kitchener both to hasten to the scene, together with large drafts of men and munition of war is evidence that England at last realizes her danger, and the necessity of heroic measures. With so large a part of her forces engaged in Africa, her enemies the world over are working to undermine her interests, and unless a change in the fortunes of war soon comes Britain will face grave troubles on every side. It looks very much as if should any serious troubles arise in other places, as if the whole world will be involved in the conflict.

IT is time to think and plan for our "Christmas Love Feast" letters. For a number of years it has been our custom to have a "Social meeting" about the last of the year, and many short testimonies of what the Lord has done for us have been given by this medium. These short letters of greeting are full of cheer for many who are isolated and have no opportunities for attending church services, and once more we invite you all, old and young, preachers and listeners, to contribute a little word in brotherly and sisterly greeting, that we may have a real foretaste of what our meeting will be when the Lord comes to gather his loved ones home. Do not delay, but write and send your letters in early so we may make provision for them.

IT was in view of the dark and cloudy days we are now passing through, Jesus said, when describing his coming with power and glory: "And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads for your redemption draweth nigh. And he spake to them a parable, behold the fig-tree, and all the trees; when they now shoot forth ye see and know of your own selves that summer is nigh at hand. So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand."

Trust in God.

Throughout the whole of Scripture teaching, we are again and again commanded not to put our trust in man; nor in princes, nor in a friend, not even in a brother. And the wise man said that "he who trusteth in his own heart is a fool." Paul also instructed Timothy not to trust in uncertain riches,—evidently teaching that neither man or anything connected with man in this life, is worthy of implicit confidence; but on the other hand, we are frequently informed that they shall be fat; that they shall be safe; and, never be moved." We do not understand that these passages teach that we are to put no confidence in one another, but that we must not place implicit confidence in any mortal man, but in God only. God is always faithful to his word. Did he ever promise and not fulfil? Have any ever trusted him in vain? Never? Whatever he has promised to the righteous, or whatever his declaration to the wicked, He will in his own time, and in his own way surely perform. It is to God we must look in sickness for in prosperity lest we become high-minded and trust to uncertain riches; in adversity that we may not be borne down by the troubles and trials of the way, and give up in despair, in persecution, that our enemies may not triumph over us; in fact, it is God only on whom we can safely rely. It is he, in all the varied circumstances of life in whom we can confidently trust and not be afraid, nor fear what man can do unto us. God has in his Word given us ample proof of his watchful care over those who put their trust in him. He does not help those who trust to their own ability, wisdom, knowledge and goodness;—but to those who have humble views of themselves and

LIKE MOUNT ZION

CONSOLATION AND COMFORT;

TRUST IN GOD

even when they cannot trace him, and when all other sources of help have failed. The Lord delivers when no other help is near. He restores when the ablest physicians have exhausted their skill; he rescues when all human aid is powerless: in short, "Man's extremity is

GOD'S OPPORTUNITY."

This was strikingly manifested when the Israelites of old reached the Red Sea. The mountains were on either hand, and the Egyptian army in sight, hotly pursuing,—what were they to do? What could they do? They could only stand still and see the salvation of God. God's children now are sometimes brought into similar straits; it may be when one has tried every possible means

TO OBTAIN EMPLOYMENT,

so as to obtain the necessaries of this life, but has failed; or when in business, through bad trade conditions, he has sustained heavy losses, or other causes, over which he had no control, he is reduced to poverty and want; or when bereavement has stepped in and taken away the flower or support of the family; or when in trouble from estrangement of relatives, or the loss of friends, or by the slanders of others. It is absolutely necessary in all such cases to stand still, and see

THE SALVATION OF GOD.

He delights to help his children in their extremities, and it is then made unmistakably manifest that the deliverance is from God, and not from man; from the Heavenly Father, and not from an arm of flesh. But for this we should never have recorded in Scripture, such a thrilling song of gratitude and as that which Moses and the Israelites sang after the great deliverance at the Red Sea, wrought by God, over their numerous enemies who were afterwards seen lying dead upon the seashore. And just so, now, when a great deliverance has been wrought by God on behalf of one of his children, then praise to God bursts forth in full force, from the heart of him who places implicit

PRAISE TO GOD

CONFIDENCE IN GOD.

At other times, we may arrogate to ourselves some praise to which we have no claim, and to that extent rob God of his just due. But when help comes in extremities like these, at a time and from a source we had never anticipated, then we give God all the praise. By this means our faith is strengthened, our hope confirmed, and we go on our way rejoicing in the Lord for his goodness and loving-kindness vouchsafed to us in such times of need. The more we are tried in this way, the more we are convinced that they who will never be confounded; but if we feer man, and trust in him it brings a snare. Jeremiah in his 17th chapter and 5th verse uses very strong language on this point, and says, "Cursed is man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm," whether he be high or low, rich or poor, wise or ignorant. God, and not man, it he in whom we must put our trust."

TRUST IN THE LORD

Question Drawer.

For E. L. In answer to the question, as to whether all authorities are agreed that the primary meanings of Baptizo and Baptismo are "To dip or immerse," and "an immersion," we are not fully competent to say. We have often read that they are: but we do not know all the authorities and therefore cannot speak for them. Some of them we are acquainted with. Bullinger's critical Lexicon and Concordance to the Greek and English New Testament, says Baptizo means "to make a thing dipped, to immerse," and "Baptismo" means an immersion.

Liddle and Scott say Baptizo means "To dip in or under water."

Parkhurst says Baptizo means "to dip, immerse, or plunge in water;" and Baptismo means immersion.

T. Sheldon Green says Baptizo means "to dip, immerse," and Baptismo means immersion.

Cremer says Baptizo means "to immerse, submerge," and that Baptismo is the rite of Baptism.

In Dr. Geo. Campbell's Notes on the Gospels, we find the following on Matt. xx. 22:—"The primitive signification of baptisma is immersion; of baptize, to immerse, plunge, or overwhelm."

On Mark vii. 3, 4, "For the Pharisees.....eat not until they have washen their hands, by pouring a little water upon them; and if they be come from market, by dipping them. The first word is nipsontai, properly translated wash; the second is baptisontai, which limits us to a particular kind of washing, for baptizo denotes to dip, Vol. 3, p. 147... .....I think the word immersion which, though of Latin origin, is an English noun, regularly formed from the verb to immerse, a better English name than baptism. Vol. 1, Diss. 8, Part 2, p. 2.

The foregoing is about all the assistance lexicographers can afford us. And it remains for you and all other interested persons to search and see whether the circumstances in which these words are used by New Testament writers support this meaning. Special attention should be given to John iii. 23; Acts viii. 36-38 in the Revised Version, and to Romans vi. 3, 4, 5, 6, where a burial, and a death, and a raising up, and a planting in the likeness of Christ's death and a raising in the likeness of his resurrection as set forth in the act are corroborative of the evidence given above. In conclusion, it must be borne in mind that other Greek words respectively mean sprinkling and affusion; and these are rhantizo to sprinkle, whence rhantismos (the act) and rhantisma (the result) epicheo, to pour down upon, whence katachusis (the act) and katachusma (the result.) This must suffice for the present.

For J. M. A:—You ask what is the "willful sin" of Hebrews x. 26? For our part we see no willful sin alluded to in the passage named. The reference is, we think, to any and every sin willfully committed. And lest you should come again and ask what it is to sin willfully, we may add here by way of suggestion, that it may be, and probably is, sin premeditated or determined upon. We cannot think that the knowledge that a certain act is sinful would constitute it a wilful sin; because it is not difficult to find instances where heinous sins, and known to be such have been graciously pardoned,—notably those of David. In unguarded moments temptations are yielded to, and men and women are for the moment carried off their base, as it were: but coming to their right mind, return to the shepherd and bishop of their souls. If others have clearer perceptions of the truth in the premises, we would be glad to see them presented. The querist would do well to study the 15th of Numbers in connection with 2 Sam. xii. 10, in order to see the principle we have suggested, illustrated, and we will dismiss the subject. Our correspondent may want to know what it is to count the blood of the covenant an unholy thing. We think it is to regard the blood of the Son of God on a par with the common blood of the race,—not precious for salvation purposes.

Communicated.

Reports.

Dear Restitution:

I feel that I would like to write a piece for THE RESTITUTION. It is my first effort at writing for a paper, and I ask you to excuse all mistakes. We have just had the pleasure of hearing the Truth delivered to us by Bro. Hudler, and it did our hearts good, we have been longing for the Truth for years. There are only six of us here of the one faith, and one hope. There were only two here that were baptized believers. Brother and Sister Behlen were baptized by Bro. Clifton several years ago. Brother and Sister Endsley have been believers for three or four years. My husband has always been a believer, as he has always been taught the Word of God by his parents, who are known by a good many brethren and sisters at Plymouth, Indiana; but he never obeyed till Bro. Hudler came to our aid. Nov. 2, and commenced his first meeting Sunday, Nov. 6, and ended Sunday forenoon, Nov. 19, and in the afternoon Brother and Sister Endsley, my husband and myself were buried with Christ in baptism, and the six of us with Bro. Hudler took of the emblems of bread and wine, and all spent the evening there, as we wanted to be with Bro. Hudler as long as possible, as he was going to start for Sydney the next day and take the train for home. We parted with tears: we should like to have had him with us longer, but we know his family was anxiously awaiting his return home, as he had not seen them since the 11th of June. He had his time set for going home when at Freedom, Neb., but when he heard how we were situated here, he came to us, and we ask God to bless him in all his efforts. We feel thankful to him for the good he has done us, besides we think he has sowed seed that will reap a big harvest as the people here have never heard the Word of God preached in its fulness before, and it has given them something to study on, and we hope if we can have the pleasure of having Bro. Hudler with us again next summer, that there will be some prepared to obey the Gospel. I will bring my letter to a close hoping that we may meet in that glorious kingdom to be established at the coming of Christ, and that we may prove faithful and be one of God's chosen, is my prayer.

Your Sister in Christ,
MRS. H. G. BEEBE.

Dear Restitution:

Feeling it a sense of duty on my arrival at home, after an absence of more than five months, I will endeavor to give a report of my labor. Leaving home June 19th, I returned to my appointments in Illinois, and preached in my old field until August, when I was sent to Clark County, Ill., through the month of August, returning to Antioch, Adeline, Lanark, then to Conference at Oregon. At the close of Conference I left for Nebraska, arrived at Edison on Sept. 26, and preached there until Oct. 9, Freedom Oct. 12 to 22, Holbrook Oct. 25 to 29, Redington Nov. 5 to 19, Eagle Grove Nov. 25 to Dec. 3. At above places I found earnest brethren contending for the faith of Abraham once delivered to the saints, but are surely in need of laborers; truly the harvest is great but the laborers are few. I feel sad when I see the need of laborers, and a deeper interest in support of the truth, but may we not say as Jesus has said when he comes to earth again. He asks the question, "Shall I find faith?" If indifference increases in the next thirty years as in the last twenty, there will be but very little faith found on the earth. Surely Jesus knew what would be the condition of the Church, if not he would not have asked the question. I find anxious souls wherever I go, hungering for the truth, and are as Paul has said feeling after God, hopefully that they may find him, yet for the want of teachers will die without the knowledge of the gospel of the kingdom of God. I was away from home 167 days, preached 128 discourses, baptized 13 persons.

And now to the brethren of the one faith scattered abroad, 1899 is near to a close, and we are one year nearer to the coming of our King; the battle of God Almighty is near upon us, the signs of the times are indicative of mighty changes. The chief Prince, the Czar of Russia, is preparing for the great struggle. Was a Church ought to discern the signs of the times, for Paul says, "Ye brethren are not in darkness, that the day overtake you as a thief in the night, for ye know perfectly well." Yes, the prophecies are a sure light, as Peter has said, shining in a dark place, until the light of the world shall come and dispel the gloom and cares of the doctrines of men; and it is evident that some of us will never meet each other in mortal life, but my hope and prayer is, that we may be counted worthy to have a part in the first resurrection, and by virtue of a spiritual birth be made equal to the angels and can die no more. Blessed hope, based on the exceeding great and precious promises of God. We can become partakers of the eternal nature of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, qualifying us for the high position of subordinate rulers in the government of the nations for one thousand years. He that overcometh will be given power over the nations, until all principalities, powers and dominions are subdued and the last enemy death destroyed. Then the Son turns over the kingdom to the Father, and God himself will dwell with men, and the nations of those that are saved will carry their glory and honor into the City of God and partake of the tree of life, and drink of the river of life, and through the golden ages of a never ending eternity. Then will be fulfilled God's promise to Abraham, "In thee and thy seed shall all nations be blessed, with the promised inheritance of the land of Canaan for an everlasting inheritance. Then the righteous will never be removed, but the wicked will be removed and not inherit the earth, but sleep a perpetual sleep and never awake; and the upright will have dominion over them and the beauty of the finally disobedient will consume away with them in their graves, receiving the wages of sin, which is death.

Your Brother in hope of life eternal through Jesus Christ,
D. M. HUDLER.

And still the Lord is so good. We closed our meeting at Tiffiny school house, Dec 11, having baptized eleven souls into the precious name of Christ. We are sorry to leave some almost persuaded to accept the gospel. May they continue to search the Scriptures and be obedient to the heavenly words, "Come unto me." The congregations have not been large at this place, but very attentive. We expect to return to this place after Christmas (D. V.) for a few evenings. God keep the dear ones who have trusted him thus far. Remembering his grace is sufficient for all our needs, do not try to walk alone, dear lambs, for the Shepherd will safely guide you.

Trust him always,
M. A. WOODWARD.

As announced in RESTITUTION meetings were begun at the Brush Creek Church, in Ohio, Nov. 26. The same were continued nearly two weeks. The same results followed as so often attend efforts of similar duration,—a warm interest with several almost persuaded. The Brush Creek Church took steps toward engaging some one to speak for them, at least once each month. They also desire to see the truth promulgated in the surrounding country. With a view to this end it is requested that all believers in southwestern Ohio, correspond with Luther Worley, Tippecanoe City, O. The desire has also been expressed that during the coming year arrangements may be made to hold a few days meeting at such time and place, that all of the faith in these parts may gather and strengthen each other. Through the desire and efforts of the Brush Creek Church meetings are now being held at a school house, about three miles southeast of Piqua, Ohio. An excellent interest is being manifested, but it is to be feared that the time allotted for the work is not sufficient to develop the same. Let one and all of the faith of the gospel be diligent in using their individual efforts to spread the truth.

F. L. AUSTIN.

The Nickel Plate Road

on Dec. 17, 1899, will inaugurate a new through vestibuled sleeping car service leaving New York City via D. L. & W. R. R. at 11:45 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 12:10 noon, connecting there with train No. 5 on the Nickel Plate Road arriving in Chicago at 7:20 a. m. Also, No. 6 leaving Chicago at 10:15 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 4:55 p. m. will carry a through vestibuled sleeper arriving in New York via the D. L. & W. R. R. at 7:25 a. m.—Dec. 27.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer on page 4 of this paper? Send early as we will be able to get your books to you before the rush of the Holiday trade begins. The offer is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Remember, the time is soon coming when the shippers and transportation companies will be very busy, and delays are liable to occur, so in order to get your books promptly order now. You can get nothing better for Christmas and New Year Gifts than a nice Bible, and here is your chance to get a very desirable gift at a very low price.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

OBITUARY.

Sister Sallie Regal, wife of Benjamin Regel, died December 1, 1899; born March 24, 1844. After a life of suffering our dear sister has fallen at last under the great enemy death, the enemy of all mankind, which entered Eden by man's disobedience. So death has passed upon us all, but thank God there has been sent to us a Redeemer, a mighty One to redeem us, to give us eternal life, and in him she put her trust, having obeyed the commands of the gospel. She sleeps in hope, sweetly sleeps, all unconscious of the sorrowing ones that are left, and we trust she will come forth to immortal joy at the resurrection of the redeemed. She was a great Bible student and perhaps many of the readers of THE RESTITUTION remember her writings as they appeared in the paper from time to time; but in the last few years her health had failed so that her pen was laid aside. She suffered from paralysis. She went from her home about ten weeks ago to visit her daughter at Youngstown, and suffered a severe stroke from which she never recovered. She has been a great sufferer for the past weeks, being unable to move, and her throat and tongue were so affected that it was with difficulty that she could be understood. But now her sufferings are over. She leaves a husband and four children. She was brought back to her home at Patmos, Ohio, and laid to rest in the old Goshen burying ground, where all our dear ones are sleeping until called forth to join the Redeemer. Words of comfort were spoken by Mr. Morgan; his subject, "Where is man in death?" and "the hope of the resurrection," were well answered with Bible answers.

Her Sister,
MRS. MARY E. KNOWLES.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

A B Griffith	1.50
Mrs M E Dawson	.50
Mrs J Wilen	3.50
Lucy A Campbell	1.00

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

Poetry.

Born, Crucified, Risen.

The shadows of evening were silently creeping
Through Bethlehem's streets, as there stopped at the door
Of its hosted two travellers, anxiously seeking
For shelter and food till the long night be o'er.

But the gate-keeper answered, "The house is overflowing;
The chambers, the court-yard, and even the road;
Not an inch of the place can we spare for you, Joseph;
Just glance at the people who wait here, for grain."

"But I and my wife have been riding since daybreak,
And Mary with weariness now is o'ercome,
If no shelter to-night I can find for my dear one,
To-morrow may find her is death cold and dumb."

The gate-keeper pondered; then slowly he answered,
"There is room to bestow her in one of the stalls;
But watch over it safely, put it corner to give you;
Cut wait on the hay you may sleep with the colts."

So there on the straw with the kine sleeping round them,
Adown on the floor lay the travellers worn;
And there just at midnight was throned in the heavens,
To Joseph and Mary an infant was born.

And, lo! in the heavens a wonderful glory,
Whose lightness exceeded the sun's brightest rays!
The mountains, the valleys, the hilltops were flooded;
And list! what a chorus of jubilant praise!

From the ground where they lay, o'er their flocks vigil keeping,
The shepherds, affrighted, the splendor beheld;
The portals of heaven are suddenly opened,
And forth come the angels with harps of pure gold.

Adown on their knees fall the shepherds in terror;
But sweet from the midst of the throng comes a voice—
"Fear not, for glad tidings we bring to all nations.
The Christ-King is born! Fear ye not, but rejoice!

By this ye shall know him, 'tis swaddling clothes lying,
He sleeps in a manger, the place of his birth;
From sinning and death he for ever shall redeem you,
His kingdom shall reach to the ends of the earth."

Then thousands of seraphs caught up the glad anthem,
"On earth peace forever and good-will to men!"
Loud swells the glad chorus; then suddenly ceases;
The heavens are silent and dark once again.

Now hundreds of mystified people are thronging
To gaze on the Christ Child, from near and from far;
The shepherds relate how and here are the wise Men,
Directed and guided by Bethlehem's star.

The sweet Mary-mother in wonder beholdeth
The throng that bow down to the Babe on her knee;
The men of the East at his feet lay their treasures,—
The promised Messiah, the King yet to be!

Years pass. Through the streets of Jerusalem toiling,
Urged on by the soldiers with weapon and fire,
Spit upon, bruised and bleeding and stripped of his garments,
Comes Bethlehem's King, at the point of the spear!

He comes to be crucified. He and two others,
Himself in the midst as the worst of the three;
Through his feet and his hands are the cruel nails driven;
Thorn-crowned; pierced with spears; King of heaven is he!

Ah, Mary! thy piteous heart is near breaking
As thou seest on the cross the dear Son that thou bore;
But his shame and his tortures will soon all be ended;
He speaks—"It is finished!" The agony's o'er.

The heavens grow black with a terrible darkness;
The veil of the temple is rent in twain;
The thunder bolt falls; fierce the wild lightning flashes,
And shuddering nature seems groaning in pain.

Christ is dead; and his toiling and suffering over;
His body is tenderly laid in the tomb;
The few who are faithful are left without guidance,
Their hearts filled with sadness and covered with gloom.

But he said, "Though I go, I will come again to you;
In God ye believe; believe also in me.
I go that for you I a place may make ready—
That where I am dwelling, you also may be."

"Christ is risen!" their doubt and their sorrow has vanished;
They have seen in his fingers the print of the nail;
They have looked at the wound in his side; he has told them
His blood over sin and the grave shall avail.

Years after, once more heaven's portals are opened
And Jesus, the faithful, is taken above
To sit on the throne of the Father in glory
The Lord of our life, and the Christ of our love.

Ten thousands on millions of angels adore him,
Unceasingly singing the praise of his name;
Salvation and honor and glory and wisdom
And riches and power to the Lamb," they proclaim.

And John, as he looks on their robes white and shining,
The harps of pure gold, and the palms in their hands,
And the star gleaming crowns, is with awe filled and wonder,
For countless they are as the "number of sands."

"These are they that have come up through great tribulation,
Whose robes in the Blood of the Lamb are washed white;
Here are tears never more; never sorrow nor sighing;
With Jesus the Christ all is glory and light."

O sometime, my friends, and it may be to-morrow,
The gateway of glory will open for you;
You shall stand at the throne of your mighty Creator
And for every act give account just and true.

It may be this evening Christ Jesus stands waiting,
And patiently knocks at the door of your heart.
O, open and give to him welcome and shelter,
Beware how thou bidd'st thy Lord to depart!

Do not cruelly Christ; can you feel on this Christmas
The Blessed Redeemer is born in your soul?
Then safe may you rest though the heavens be rended,
And over your life should eternity roll.

"Behold, I come quickly; and he that is righteous
Before me shall stand and be more righteous still;
And he that is filthy shall yet be more filthy."
To-night thou may'st choose which thy record may fill.

And all those who dwell in the heavenly city
Must enter with robes pure and white as the snow;
Without it are liars and all they who do evil
Within, life and glory; without, death and woe.

Are you ready to sing with the host of redeemed ones?
To trust in his promise, and happiness find?
To-night you may join in the glad Christmas anthem
For Christ the Redeemer is born to mankind!

—Ida G. Hunt.

Selections.

The Wonderful Counselor.

Whether we read Isa. ix. 6, as "Wonderful Counselor," as in the text of the Revised Version, or "Wonderful Counselor," as in the margin, it matters not. Jesus Christ is the Counselor, the Advocate of his people, of all that long to be his people. He is also a Wonderful Counselor, in wisdom so surpassing, in knowledge so profound, in love so infinite, that all the counsel of all the wise of earth is not worthy of mention.

He knows all about our case. He understands the principles involved. He sees the harvest in the seed, the end in the beginning. He knows all the dangers that lurk in the way. He looks with clear eye upon all the snares of the enemy. He sees the subtle, sweetened, poisoned draughts the adversary has prepared for thirsty lips. He beholds the enchantress' bed which would lull to the sleep of death our wearied limbs and brain. He has met all these things himself, and knows how to escape all dangers, how to make the best use of all blessings; nay, more, how even to turn the banes into blessings. O, our Counselor understands it all; he is perfect in knowledge and wisdom. Moreover, he counsels to save. He can counsel in no other way, for he loves us with measureless love. Others may counsel us to do what is "expedient," what is the best "policy." But there are no makeshifts to the advice of our Counselor. His counsel is founded in the everlasting principles of truth and righteousness and life. He would not advise you to endeavor to escape a temporary ill and fall into the permanent evil. He would not save you from confession of sin, to let you meet sin's doom at the end. He would not give you the satisfaction of your temporary triumph here, and keep you from his eternal triumph for you hereafter. No; love leads our Counselor to do for us what is always for our best and eternal good.

But the knowledge, the wisdom, the intermingled love are not all that make wonderful our great Counselor. His ear, his private office, is open to all. The poor of earth cannot get access, except in rare instances, to the world's great counselors. The legal advice of Blackstone, an Evarts, or a Choate costs more than the poor can afford. A retaining fee for such as they, even if life were at stake, would be more than the poor could raise. But the wonderful Counselor ever keeps open office for earth's millions. No servant or lackey will keep you from access to the Master. It is your privilege to go to him. Surely he speaks not to deceive or tantalize; hear him: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden." The righteous may come in his perplexity. The sinner, deep-dyed and criminal against his Father's law, may come and find an Advocate who intercedes, a Judge who justifies. And this is love.

Then, reader, go to him. Let nothing keep you from it. Tell him all about your case. Keep back nothing. Only so will you realize the need of his help. And then his Spirit will by his own Word teach you the way, and you will indeed know him to be the Wonderful Counselor.—Signs of the Times.

The Tongue.

The tongue is more powerful than the sceptre and rules where the sword would fail. We are told in sacred language that it is a "little member and boasteth great things." Time has proven the wisdom of the adage.

The ear was made to listen to the music of prattling babes, the anthems of the forests, the eloquence of man and the voice of God. The eye to behold the beauties of the universe, the pathway of life, and finally, with undimmed vision, to look upon the crown of immortality resting on the brow of virtue. The tongue was made to utter words of truth and sympathy, to unite the brotherhood of man, and to supplicate the throne of the Eternal.

It was the tongue that broke the silence of ages and opened to man the gates of Paradise. It was the tongue which made the confession of sin as the flaming sword guarded the way of the tree of life. It was the tongue of the eloquent Greek that called the stormy passions of the multitude at Athens and opened the temple of liberty to the sons of Greece. It was the tongue of our great Example that hushed the wild waves and said: "Peace, be still;" that rebuked diseases, and quickened the lifeless form of the dead.

Who can recount its wonders? It is the ever-ready messenger, standing at the portals of thought, to bear the words of grief or joy to anxious hearts. By it the dreary walks of life are cheered into gladness, and the wilderness is made to blossom as the rose.

But alas! it often sends the shafts of pain where life was full of joy. Its sting is like the touch of the death-angel; it reproaches the Infinite and blasts the hope of man.

It ruins the innocent and dethrones the right, it seals the destiny of the unfortunate and crushes the poor. Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing, good and evil. It becomes a fire, burning to the lowest hell, and blackens the face of truth, wrong.

The tongue is the wild man of the earth, and cannot be tamed by man alone. It is described as the "pen of a ready writer," and from its hiding place it sends forth the bitter words of

Who can read its history and recount its deeds of crime? Unsanctified by the principles of justice and truth, it becomes the worst enemy of man; but when restrained by the impulses of a noble heart, it becomes the good angel of our destiny. The heart-fountains must be cleared before it will only speak the words of truth and goodness. He who would utter the voice of right and prove a blessing to man, must develop his moral nature and ennoble his mind by thoughts of purity; then will the tongue bow in humility at the shrine of virtue and its words will be as "apples of gold in picture of silver."—H. V. R., in Restitution, 1872.

One Man's Duty.

The stoker in the hold of a great steamship, homesick, and sweaty and grimy and weary, with an insignificant shovelful of coal poised ready to throw into the furnace, talks with himself: "Will this shovel full of coal drive this ship across the ocean? No! Will it keep this ship going one mile, one inch, one second? No; but there are other stokers and more coal; will they be faithful? I don't know: I am not the captain of this ship, but I am the commodore of this shovel."

"This ship may go to port or 'lie to' or go to the bottom, but my duty goes on and I will do it. Let the captain see to the ship and the rest of his crew. But he may know that he has one stoker who will shovel 'square' until the bell rings him off his shift."—John G. Woolley.

Notice.

Editor Restitution:

Please say to the brethren that I will be at Bosworth, Mo., on Saturday, the 23rd of Dec., to continue until the 29th of Dec. At each place all are invited to attend. Let us have one more good meeting in 1899.

JOHN FOORE.

Communicated.

What Would Jesus do?

This important question has become a very common caption of late, even secular papers have caught on to it. Some time ago we heard a minister say in public, that he had read in a little book, that if we would ask ourselves the question when we went to vote, "What would Jesus do?" and then do as he would do, we would vote with the right party and not vote amiss. This set my thinker a going, and I told him the question in my mind was this, would Jesus vote with any political party? He smiled and said that was the question, and went on his way. I cannot persuade myself that Jesus if here in person would go near the polls on election day; if he did it would be to teach, reprove and rebuke those persons who were there. "What would Jesus do if he were to see his disciples going around with such us[illegible]end elections? Would he not lament, and say, "Oh Jerusalem, Jerusalem, and children of the King of heaven, come out from among them and be ye a separate people, and touch, taste and handle not the unclean thing and I will receive you? "Birds of a feather flock together," and "people are known by the company they keep." They run political parties, grant license to the saloons and other dens of infamy that consume and ruin millions of God's creation. I cannot entertain the thought for a moment, that Jesus my Lord and Master would vote and cast his influence with any such parties. Do you think he would, my brother? You say no, and I say no. Then we are agreed, and are one in faith, purpose and action as Jesus and his Father are one. Then let us both be consistent and run with patience the race set before us. Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy set before him, endured the cross, despised the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God." Jesus never did take part with vile men who rule in this world, but he often reproved them, and told them "this is your hour and the power of darkness, and for this reason they hated him, and no marvel if they hate his people. While he smiles upon his disciples, and tells them to be of good cheer, as he had overcome the world, (the snares and temptations of the present evil world) study his trials in the wilderness, and compare your actions with his. He overcame all temptations and spurned the offer of all the kingdoms of this world and the glory of them. No selfishness there, but how is it with us when we switch off from the narrow path and the little company, and mount the broad road and sail along with the multitude down to destruction. What can prompt us but selfishness, the hope of making times better, and more money. See what Paul says about that, and how dangerous it is to disregard all the Master's danger signals. Paul tells us not to conform to this world, but be transformed, or changed that we may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. We must die to sin and the rudiments of this world, if we would see the King in his beauty. We all know that the kingdoms of this world are corrupt, as represented by wild ferocious beasts, shall you and I endanger our lives in trying to tame and cage them? Has the time come for this work? And did Jesus set such an example, and tell us to follow him? Love not the world, neither the things of the world. "If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." Brethren, let us drop our love for the world and be one in purpose and action, and lay aside every weight, and follow Jesus, and do as he would do and have us do, and all will be well.

T. E. ADAMS.

The Soul of Man.

If you will allow me a little space in your paper, I would like to give a few thoughts on the subject of the Spirit as it is recorded in Eccl. xii. 7, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." As this seems to be the principal text that the orthodox people take to prove the immortality of the soul, and the consciousness of man after death, I will try to show from a Bible standpoint, what the spirit is that returns unto God who gave it. It is generally acknowledged by every one that the body returns to the dust as it was. But it is almost universally taught that the spirit, soul, or thinking part of man, goes to heaven at death. Now if the spirit is the mind or thinking power of man, then the Scriptures must be wrong, for we read that, "The dead know not anything." Eccl. ix. 5. And again that, "The dead praise not the Lord." Psa. cxv. 17. And still again we read, "For in death there is no remembrance of thee." Psa. vi. 5. This proves to my mind that the spirit spoken of in my text is not the mind of the man or person, and if not what is it? We read in Gen. ii. 7, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul."

And Job says, "The spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life." Job xxxiii. 7. Now, it cannot be the soul that returns to God, for we read that, "The soul that sinneth it shall die." Ezek. xviii. 4. "And every living soul died in the sea." Rev. xvi. 3. And David says, "Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, and upon them that hope in his mercy; to deliver their soul from death." Psa. xxxiii. 18. And in cxvi. 8, he says, "For thou hast delivered my soul from death." And the Prophet Isaiah must have had the same understanding when he said, "Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live." Isa. lv. iii. 3. These witnesses all seem to have the same understanding in regard to the death of the soul.

Now, as I have proven by all of these witnesses that the soul surely dies, I will try to show what it is that returns to God. In the first place let us see what it is that gives man life. In Gen. ii. 7, we find a complete record given of the creation of man, it tells us that the "Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Now, if we will just stop and think for a moment, we can plainly see that if it takes the breath to make the man a living soul, to take the breath away from him would leave him a dead soul.

Job says, "The breath of the Almighty hath given me life." Now by turning to the xxxvii. of Ezek., we find after God tells him to prophesy over the valley of dry bones, and they had come together, and the flesh had come upon them; that God tells Ezekiel to prophesy again. "Thus saith the Lord God; come from the four winds, O breath and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." Now this is a plain declaration from God through the prophet, to show us where the breath comes from, and that it is for the purpose of giving life. Now we know that to shut the air away from a person they would very soon perish, for if takes the breath to give life, to take the breath away will surely cause death. And David in speaking of the frailty of man, says, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth: in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. 4, and again he says, "Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled: thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust." Psa. civ. 29.

To my mind there is no doubt, but what the spirit of my text, and the breath here spoken of is one and the same thing, for we breathe the air that is around us, and God created all things, created and caused the wind to blow that we might have pure air to breathe, and when death overtakes us, "The breath returns to the God who gave it; and the man returns to the dust of the ground, from whence it was first spoken into existence," there to remain until God calls them forth on the resurrection morn. For says David, "Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created: and thou renewest the face of the earth."

Now, dear friends it would not seem very hard to understand the Bible, if we would be willing to take plain statements of God, given to us through the prophets as true, and not try to twist God's Word to make it fit man's theology, for when you do that you will make a great mistake, for man's word and God's plan of salvation are as different as daylight is from darkness. We hear men say when a good person dies that such a one has gone to heaven and is sitting on the right hand of God. While on the other hand we hear God say, "The heavens, the heavens are the Lord's, but the earth hath he given to the children of men."

Man says we go to heaven to receive our reward. While Jesus says, "Behold I come quickly and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

Now, dear friends I will leave this with you to study over for yourselves, and say which you are ready to believe the word of man, or the Word of God. God has set forth the plan, you can accept it or reject it as you see fit.

Submitted in the love of truth,

JOS. WILLIAMS.

Religion.

Religion is that divine science which teaches how man may be brought into favor of and union with God. It also implies that once he did enjoy union and communion with God, and that a disruption has taken place,—hence his present alienation and severance from God and mortality.

The term religion is derived from ligio, to bind, and re, again. Hence religion means, literally, to bind again,—to re-unite. The word ligature, which signifies a binder, comes from the same source.

Religion is an emanation from the Divine mind,—a scheme of God-like benevolence designed to restore to man communion with God, the joys of Paradise and unending life.

As these are God's gracious gifts to man, so he has appointed the Medium by or through which only they can be obtained. This is reasonable and just; and we next ask: What is this divinely appointed Medium of obtaining these blessings? Answer, Faith and obedience.

As it was by *un*belief and disobedience that these inestimable blessings were lost, so it is only by belief and obedience that they can be regained; which briefly consists in believing the gospel, which is the power of God for salvation, and being immersed for the name of Jesus unto remission of sins. This is a sealing of our covenant relationship to God; and by a continuance in well doing will in the end result in immortality and everlasting life.

J. O. WOODRUFF.

"Henceforth I call you not servants, for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth, but I have called you friends." John xv. 15.

If we are not servants then we are not working for wages, but it is a labor of love for a friend. It is said that we have a friend that sticketh closer than a brother. Christ Jesus did not work for wages, but for the good of humanity and to do the will of God. Our reward is not reckoned as wages but a gift, for it says the wages of sin is death. But the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. So eternal life is not reckoned as wages, but a gift. So if we do any thing in this life for God and Christ and the good of our fellow creatures, it must be done willingly and not for wages, but in gratitude to God, who so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him might not perish but have everlasting life." Now if we want this everlasting life, we must get into the straight and narrow way that leads to life. Jesus says, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father except by me." Now let us all take this to heart and consider ourselves, what are our motives and our desires, are we in the straight and narrow path, are we serving God with willingness, are we doing his will, or is it a sham, an outward form to be seen of men? Let what we do be done for the love of God and Jesus, and may we be ready when his kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth. Amen.

J. E. HOGARTH.

A Brave Coward.

The Chicago & North-Western Railway Company announces the publication of a thrilling story of campaigning in the Philippines, entitled "A Brave Coward." The famous battle of Malate, the charge at La Loma, a love romance, the career of the Tenth Pennsylvania at Manila and in Luzon, the conquering of cowardice by a young Pennsylvanian, are all interwoven into one of the most delightful short stories of the hour yet issued. In common with the first Nebraska, the Thirteenth Minnesota, the Utah and Oregon men and the Twentieth Kansas, the Tenth Pennsylvania made history in the war against Aguinaldo. The tale is superbly illustrated with half-tones printed in convenient form, and will be forwarded to addresses on receipt of 6 cents in postage by W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Illinois.—Dec. 30.

Reduced Fares.

Excursion tickets will be sold Dec. 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan. 1st, 1900, via Pennsylvania Lines account Christmas and New Year Holidays. The rate for adults will not be less than 30 cents, nor less than 15 cents for children. Tickets will be good returning until Jan. 2, 1900, inclusive. For details about fares, time of trains, etc., call on or address J. E. Haines, Ticket Agent, Plymouth, Ind.

Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance. Remember you get all the balance of 1899 free.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Salesburgh, Mich.
Norton Goubt, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Steele, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Miss Hesse Dudley, Wednesbirie, England.
J. S. Hatch, Seiverd's, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Godfrey, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. X. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Buyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
P. M. Hughes, Missouline, Iowa.
J. R. Fitz, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, In.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hauk, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. G. Steffe, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
R. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Bwaggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 397 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.

Change in Time of Trains on Pennsylvania Lines.

Under a new schedule in effect Sunday Nov. 19, 1899, passenger trains over the Pennsylvania lines leave Plymouth station as follows:

For the East: No. 6, 2:55 a. m. daily; No. 18, 5:13, a. m. daily; No. 20, 10:37, a. m. except Sunday; No. 8, 5:48 p. m. except Sunday; No. 2, 7:50, p. m. extra fare; No. 38, 8:51, p. m. except Sunday.

For the West: No. 15, 5:34 a. m. daily; No. 5, 6:43 a. m. extra fare; No. 37, 9:22 a. m., except Sunday; No. 39, 2:10 p. m. except Sunday; No. 9, 6:12 p. m. daily; No. 7, 6:34 p. m. daily.

For particular information on the subject apply to J. E. Hanna, Agt.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell Holiday excursion tickets good going on Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan 1st, 1900, at one and one third fare for the round trip, good returning to and including Jan. 2nd, 1900. With its Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains and an Unexcelled Dining Car Service, the Nickel Plate Road offers special inducements for Holiday travel.—jan 4

Tourist Tickets to Florida and Winter Resorts in the South.

Ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines will answer inquiries about low fares to Florida and winter resorts in the South. Full information concerning Tourist Tickets, time tables, etc., will be furnished free. Persons contemplating a Southern trip may secure valuable information on the subject by merely inquiring of the nearest representative of the Pennsylvania Lines, or by addressing C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio. Say where and when you wish to go, how many will be in the party, starting point, etc., and you will be promptly posted. The inquiry will not cost much effort—it will save considerable bother in arranging details, as they will be looked after gratis.—Dec. 31.

The Nickel Plate Road offers to students desiring to return home for the Holidays, the special rate of one and one third fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on the day school closes and the day immediately preceding, good returning to and including the date school reconvenes, but not later than Jan. 10th.—dec 25

Holiday Excursions, Vandalia Lines.

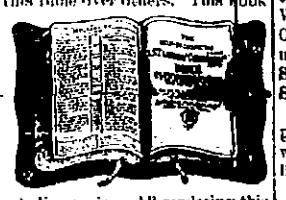
On account of Holidays the Vandalia line will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good to return up to and including Jan. 2nd.

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.



The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The saints of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.
38 Behold, *a*we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:
37 And *b*it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.
38 And because of all this we *c*make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, *a*seal unto it.

Deut. 28. 33, 51.

Deut. 28. 1 Kings 9. 6.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that took the covenant. 29 The words of the covenant.

NOW *a*those that sealed were, *b*Ne-he-mi'ah, *c*the Tir'sha-thah, *d*the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,
2 *e*Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Je-re-mi'ah,
3 Pash'ur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,
4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,
5 Ha'rim, Me're-moth, O-ba-di'ah,
6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,
7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,
8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'ga-i, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.
9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;
10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,
11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,
12 Zac'cur, Sher-e-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,
13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Be-ni'nu.
14 The chief of the people; *f*Par'osh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Ba'ni,
15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,
16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'va-i, A'din,
17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,
18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,
19 Ha'riph, An'a-thoth, Neb'a-i,
20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, Hez'ir,
21 Me-shez'a-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,
22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,
23 Ho-shea, Han-a-ni'ah, Hash'shub,
24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Shu'bek,
25 Re'hum, Hash-ab'nah, Ma-a-se'iah,
26 And Ah'i-jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,
27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.
28 ¶ *g*And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Neth'i-nims, and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;
29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, and entered into a curse, and into an oath, *h*to walk in God's law, which was given by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our LORD, and his judgments and his statutes;
30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:
31 *i*And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the *k*seventh year, and the *l*exaction of every debt.
32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;
33 For *m*the shewbread, and for the *n*continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.
34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, *o*for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law:
35 And *p*to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:
36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

Deut. 28. 33, 51.

Deut. 28. 1 Kings 9. 6.

1 Heb. of the 6th. 2 Or, the governor. 3 Ezra 10. 1.

4 Ezra 8. 11. 13. 13. 2 Sam. 23. 8. 1 Chron. 11. 11. 2 Ezra 7. 24.

1 Chron. 9. 1. 2 Ezra 7. 7. 1 Chron. 9. 2. 3 Ezra 8. 15. 1 Chron. 9. 14. 4 Ezra 8. 33. 5 Ezra 10. 23. 6 Ezra 10. 24. 7 Ezra 10. 25. 8 Ezra 10. 26. 9 Ezra 10. 27. 10 Ezra 10. 28. 11 Ezra 10. 29. 12 Ezra 10. 30. 13 Ezra 10. 31. 14 Ezra 10. 32. 15 Ezra 10. 33. 16 Ezra 10. 34. 17 Ezra 10. 35. 18 Ezra 10. 36. 19 Ezra 10. 37. 20 Ezra 10. 38. 21 Ezra 10. 39. 22 Ezra 10. 40. 23 Ezra 10. 41. 24 Ezra 10. 42.

1 Heb. every day. 2 Chron. 31. 3. 3 Heb. from year to year. 4 Heb. from year to year. 5 Ex. 23. 19. 34. 26. Deut. 26. 2. Prov. 3. 9. 6 Lev. 23. 17. Deut. 26. 2. 7 Num. 18. 12. Deut. 18. 4. 8 Lev. 27. 30. Num. 18. 21. Deut. 14. 22. 2 Chron. 31. 5. Neh. 13. 5. 9 Lev. 27. 26. Num. 18. 15. Deut. 15. 19.

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to Be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free, or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For Southbend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:05pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:34 a m
No. 3, " " " " .....12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport,.....7:36pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1650. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short consise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts. 100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 50 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago. Dining and Cafe Parlor cars attached first and second class day coaches on fast trains. Inspection of scrupulously clean cars earnestly solicited.

Eastward Bound. | All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily. | Westward Bound.

Lv.	Ar.		Ar.	Lv.
10 00	3 15	Chicago	3 15	7 30
11 01	4 16	Valparaiso	2 15	6 30
11 40	5 00	Ft. Wayne	1 30	5 45
12 55	6 15	Kent	12 15	4 30
1 30	6 50	Bellevue	11 40	3 55
2 05	7 25	Attica	11 05	3 30
2 40	8 00	Arcadia	10 30	2 55
3 15	8 35	Cardington	9 55	2 20
3 50	9 10	Galion	9 20	1 45
4 25	9 45	Crestline	8 45	1 10
5 00	10 20	Mansfield	8 10	12 35
5 35	10 55	Shelby Junction	7 35	12 00
6 10	11 30	Norwalk	7 00	11 25
6 45	12 05	Berea	6 25	10 50
7 20	12 40	Cleveland	5 50	10 15
8 00	1 20	Ashtabula	5 10	9 30
9 30	2 50	Erie	3 40	8 00
11 45	5 05	Buffalo	1 25	5 45
12 30	5 50	Niagara Falls	12 40	5 00
3 30	8 50	Rochester	9 40	2 00
5 30	10 50	Syracuse	7 40	12 00
8 30	1 50	Albany	4 40	9 00
12 30	5 50	New York	1 00	5 00
12 30	5 50	Boston	1 00	5 00

Lv. Chicago, 10:00 A. M. Daily except Sunday, for Niagara Falls and Rochester, Buffalo and New York, Wednesday and Friday for Boston only.
Ar. Chicago, 5:00 P. M. Daily except Sunday. † Stop to discharge.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 Runs to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 1, 3 and 10 Chicago. Meals are served at "Nickel Plate" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at regulating meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service consider'd.
For rates and detailed information address R. F. Harper, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.
McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ A YEAR
A LADIES' MAGAZINE.
A gem; beautiful colored plates; fascinating stories; entertaining cross-stitch; fancy work; household hints; fashion, etc. Send no money, as we send it for three copy Lady's agents wanted. 5 and for terms.
Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.
McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ AND 15¢
(No-Seam-Allowance Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from
THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Dutes Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and H. T. Macintosh.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1213½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 a. m., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Starrus, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. P. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sun. by School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be glad to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St. Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Free Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Pine School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:30 p. m., 1215 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. C. Edelmann.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Rhino Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Clure.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Steele and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
MAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
J. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Children's Christmas Letter.

Happy children, Sunday-scholars,
In your sainted Christian land—
How I wish, for just a moment,
I could clasp each tiny hand!
But that pleasure is denied me.
For you live too far away;
So I send my yearly greeting
On this merry Christmas-day.

I have prayed that heavenly blessings
On your head, like dew, might fall;
Oh, I have a home, dear children,
Large enough to hold you all!
And its wealth of love divided
Gives a touch a goodly share;
I will call my heart a casket,
You the gems that sparkle there.

I am thinking of a story,
That you all remember well—
How a little helpless baby,
Jesus came on earth to dwell;
How an angel told the shepherds,
While a chorus in the sky
Sang good will to men forever,
"Glory be to God on High!"

With the festive hours returning,
Let us lift our souls above;
Let us thank our Kind Redeemer
For his rich and boundless love.
I am sure you all are grateful,
And I hope, my children dear,
You will have a merry Christmas
And a cloudless, bright New-Year.

—Fannie Crosby.

Our Love Feast.

We devote the greater part of this paper to our "Social Meeting" letters, and will continue them for the few weeks that our friends will supply them. It rejoices the hearts of the lone and struggling ones to read a few words of cheer from you, and we are glad that so many have given attention to this call and written us they have. Let others speak right out a few words of testimony for the Master. Do not write anything of a harsh, bitter nature, but let this be a "Love Feast" in very truth. We begin with the letter from our young Brother, Dr. Hemphill.

He that overcometh shall inherit eternal life. If people would only stop for a moment and think how great is this reward, nothing in this life can be compared to it. How can we afford to miss such an offer? Also, how can we escape if we neglect so great a salvation? We find it hard oftimes to walk as we should, so easy to neglect that we should do, and do many things we should not. We find it so handy to see the mote in our neighbor's eye, and in that same easy going way overlook the beam in our own eye. We many times neglect our duty and put off things that could easily be done.

Job says, "If I wait the grave is mine house, I have made my bed in the darkness. Where is now my hope?" This reward "the greatest by far ever offered to mortal man," can be obtained so easily, simply by working for the Master, and while doing the Master's work, we will find far more joy, hope and real satisfaction during this life than we can ever expect to get in any other than this line of work. By patient continuance in well doing, we will reach a time when it is not a burden to do our Lord's will, but instead a great pleasure. If we are ashamed to stand square out for the cause of the Master, we can only expect him in return to be ashamed of us. Many of us are backward and feel that we cannot talk in public, or testify in prayer meeting as some one else does. We should at least make an attempt and ask the Lord to strengthen our feeble efforts, and we will surely grow gradually stronger. If we can only say one word, it will please the Master, as did the poor individual who only said, "Lord have mercy on me a sinner." Masons in building a wall do not always build the wall entirely of large smooth stones, all of one size, texture or temperament, but find it very necessary to fill in with small stones occasionally and they are necessary to strengthen the larger ones. Possibly some of us are among the smaller stones, yet necessary that it be so for the support of the great Spiritual Wall. So let us be not discouraged.

F. H. HEMPHILL.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVIII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DECEMBER 27, 1899. NUMBER 48.

Dear Restitution:

I am glad that we are to have another love feast, for it does me so much good to read the letters from loved ones although I may never see you in this life, I trust we may meet in God's kingdom. I am alone here in the faith and have much opposition to contend with, and have my trials as others, but in only serves to make me the stronger as I study my Bible the more and try to stick closer to my Master, and pray for more grace and strength that I may hold out to the end. As I read in his Word, they that will live godly in Christ Jesus must suffer persecution. So dear brothers and sisters, let us not get discouraged nor faint in well doing, for in due time we shall reap if we faint not, but let us contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints, and do all we can to teach others the truth as it is in God's dear Son (not Joseph's son). I find that we are in great danger of being led away from the truth by those that should be our guides, so our only safe way is to study our Bibles and think for ourselves, and prove all things, and hold fast that which is good and not be led by those that want to lead. It seems that grevious wolves have entered in, not sparing the flock, so it stands us in hand to be on our guard, and watch and pray for our strength, and may the God of peace guide us in the ways of all truth and help us to live soberly, righteously and godly in this present evil world, ever looking to Jesus, who is the author and finisher of our faith. I am doing what I can to spread the truth, and now that we have a chance to speak let us tell of our hopes and prospects and of our faith. Come one, come all, and let us have a good love feast, for it encourages and strengthens us to hear from loved ones. Though strangers in the flesh, we are brothers and sisters in the Lord.

Your Brother in the Lord striving for a place in the kingdom when Jesus comes.

A. B. GRIFFITH.

Editor Restitution:

As Christmas is almost here we send greeting to all true believers in Christ and hope to see a goodly number of letters from all that are interested in the promises our Savior has given us. Bro. Edwin Grout has been holding a series of meetings at Shoalls, Oregon. He commenced on the eve of Nov. 17 and held over Sunday, but during the week the weather was very bad, consequently he did not put in all of the time, but on the following Sunday, although it was raining in the morning we had a good congregation, after the sermon 4 young people came forward confessing Jesus and were baptized, after which the Lord's Supper was taken and the right hand of fellowship given them. Oh, how our hearts rejoice to see the young (fairest of God's handiwork) come and confess the name of Jesus. Just taking the first step in the Christian race. Oh how we pray for them that they will not fall, that they will never look back (as did Lot's wife) but forward, always forward, looking upward to Jesus for forgiveness, if we stumble, for guidance and comfort in all things. When we see others make the start in the way of eternal life, we remember when we took our first step, over 20 years passed by since then. Many times have we made mistakes, many times cast down and discouraged, heart-sick; still not for one moment have we forgot Jesus and his promises. He has always been our anchor in times of trouble, the one hope that makes life worth living at all, and this I would say to all the young who make the start. Remember the promises of are sure and steadfast, and that if all things else fail us, remember that love of Jesus never fails to those who trust him; and although we may have trials hard and stern to face before life is done, remember Jesus has been there, he has borne them all, the twelve Apostles bore them all, all the pain and disappointments, all the sneerings and taunts of unbelievers, and they did not fail, they did not want to go back into the beggarly elements of the world. Why then, should we? Why not press forward to the prize of a high calling, the gift of eternal life, as well as they? A scene that took place long ago, when Jesus was here, always impresses me. Many of his followers because of unbelief were leaving him, then Jesus said unto the 12, "Will you also go away?" Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." And, yes, to Jesus, shall we go but to Jesus, if we ever expect to gain an inheritance in the promised land. The world cannot give us anything lasting. At the best life is only a fleeting span of years, therefore let us lay up for ourselves treasures in heaven, which shall be sure and steadfast in that day when Christ shall come to gather all his children home. Bro. Edwin Grout is a successful teacher in the Sunday school and has taught young people for some time past. He is also a zealous worker in the Master's cause, going to many new fields and making converts, preaching the gospel to the poor without money and without price, like our brother Paul of old he works with his own hands, that he may not be chargeable to any man. May God bless the good work. And now as we are coming close to a new year, let us try to be more faithful, more Christ-like, more zealous as we grow older, for Jesus soon will come and will not tarry.

Yours in hope,
MRS. M. E. THRSDELL.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I see by THE RESTITUTION it is time for our annual love feast, and if I can say anything edifying or comforting, I am glad to send in my testimony for Christ. I have been encouraged and comforted in reading your testimonies, and I hope we shall have a heavenly love feast this year, one never to be forgotten. It is six years this present month since I have heard a gospel sermon. But God is good, his mercy endureth for ever. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters; he restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. The Lord is my strength and my shield, my heart trusteth in him and I am helped. Therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth, and with my mouth will I praise him all the days of my life, for his anger endureth but a moment; in his favor is life. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. Read Psa. xlvi. I am one of the isolated ones. I believe that Israel will be literally restored to their own land, according to the Word of God. I believe the covenants of promise made to the fathers will be literally fulfilled at the coming and kingdom of Jesus Christ, the only Son of God. I am rejoicing in the one blessed hope of the resurrection of the dead in Christ. I expect to be one of the glorified bodies, who will live and reign with Christ a thousand years. It will be a glorious and triumphant reign over all the earth, for his kingdoms and dominions will be under the whole heaven. Oh my brothers and sisters, let us pray for one another that our faith fail not, that we walk worthy of the calling wherewith we have been called. Forgetting the past, press forward to the mark of the prize of our high calling in Christ Jesus, our Life-giver. May it please God, that not one of us who have put on Christ will be found wanting when the Life-giver comes. O come Lord Jesus and come quickly.

R. A. NEFF.

To the brothers and sisters in the Lord's anointed:

I write to inform you that I am in the land of the living, and all alone in the faith, of the gospel of the kingdom. As far as I know, there is not a believer in the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus the Christ, in the city of Syracuse, N. Y. If there is I would like to know it; we once had a goodly number; but some have moved away, and some have died, and others have gone back and joined the apostasy, and so I am left alone to battle my way through in this wicked city, but I am not discouraged, for the truth is mighty, and will not disappoint us; for God's promises never fail, if we do our part; be faithful and obey his requirements, our reward is sure. There are many inducements around us to draw us from Christ and his Word; but John says, "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." 1 John ii. 15, 16, 17. Now brethren, here is what the Spirit says by John: and if we want to live and abide forever; we must not give way to the lust of the flesh? I think one lust is this; now, if there is gotten up by the world's people some great excitement in shape of a show of some kind, say horse racing, baloon raising, or theatrical performance, or any thing else gotten up by the world's people, which our natural mind would like to see; (lust of the eyes,) we must not let our lust overcome us, but abstain from it, and let the love of God overcome it, and keep ourselves unspotted by the world, for it will all pass away, but the kingdom of God will stand forever. O think of it brethren, stand forever. Then can we pray, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." We must watch and pray lest we enter into temptation; God will not suffer us to be tempted above that we are able, but will make a way for us to escape. I am watching the movement of this war of England and the Transvaal; it looks now as if all Europe will be drawn in; if that should be the result, God only knows what the [illegible] may be ready, for what may come.

C. P. ALGIRE.

Editor Restitution:

Accept my thanks for past favors and the continued prosperity of the dear RESTITUTION, and the upholding of the Church of God, and the soon coming kingdom, when sin, sorrow, pain and death shall be done away, and there shall be peace on earth and good will to men.

MRS. SARAH L. GRIGGS.

Dear Restitution:

We cannot do without so good a paper. Oh how we enjoy reading the letters from the dear ones. We also send our mite for the Lord, as you see proper to dispose of. Only a half dollar, but that may cheer some lonely heart to do good. Yours in the hope of the soon coming kingdom,

M. E. DAWSON.

Dear Restitution:

As my time expires the first of next year for which I have paid for our excellent paper, and I think that I cannot do well without it, I will send you a money order for three dollars, half of it for my subscription, and the balance to go to the helping fund, as it will send the paper to some one for a year who is not able to pay for it, as I presume the editor knows of such; and will be the means of keeping them posted in regard to the signs of the times. And for my part think that these disturbances among the nations of the earth are the beginning of the end of Gentile times. Let us keep posted in regard to them. It is a sure thing that the end will be brought about in God's own way, although it may not be as we might suppose, but come it will, and, dear brothers and sisters, let us hold fast the profession of our faith, for it certainly is the true one according to the Scriptures of truth. The Scriptures certainly teach that Christ's kingdom is to be established on this earth, when the restitution of all things takes place, and may we be worthy to share a part in that glorious kingdom, is my prayer for all of the true faith.

W. D. TOWNSEND.

Editor Restitution.

In my weakness I will try to write a few lines to the paper. I am glad there is such a weekly visitor as THE RESTITUTION, it is a great joy to me to read it. I am still clinging to the one faith and one hope, to let that go I do not know what I could hold to that would give joy and peace in this life, and the pleasures of the life to come in that beautiful city where sorrow will never come, where our bodies will not be racked with pain, where death will never call for our loved ones. There will be no more farewell tears, but joy and peace forever more. There we will see the King in his beauty. O that beautiful thought, it fills my soul with joy, it lifts me up and cheers me on. As the signs of the times indicate the soon coming of the Lord, we should all keep our lamps trimmed and full of oil, that we may be found ready when the Bridegroom comes, that we may hear his welcome voice, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord." Here our friends forsake us, instead of joy and peace it is sorrow and tears, instead of friendship and love there is coldness; but if we cling to the Lord he will never forsake us; cling to the mighty One, he will lead us through, he is the Captain of our salvation, in him we rejoice in hope of a better life. "Blessed is he that hath part in the first resurrection, on such the second death hath no power; they shall live and reign with Christ a thousand years. They will sing the song of the Redeemed, and they shall reign on the earth." Rev. v. 9, 10. I hope we will all be worthy of this honor, all that are in Christ will be, may it be you and I. Bro. W. J. Orem was with us; he landed at Blythedale, Mo., the 18th of Nov. and left the 29. He preached 8 discourses at Blythedale and 3 at the Alef school house; while here he baptized four into the all-saving name of Christ. May they walk worthy of the vocation wherewith they are called. Bro. Orem is a man of great ability, he can handle the Sword of the Spirit with great ease. He gives us a view of the Church as it is and as it will be. If the Church had remained in its purity the gifts and signs would have followed them, but they went off into apostasy, and as the Church never did repent, God removed their candlestick, (the light of the Holy Spirit). I do not think (nor do I believe) that the Church nor individual has that power, but I believe the time will come when a people known of God, will be given that power, as the Apostles were given the (not the full power to each one to do all the miracles) power, and they were sent to proclaim the gospel to all the world, so I think that the hundred and forty and four thousand out of the tribes of Israel, each will be given the full power of the Holy Spirit, and that they will go forth among all nations and proclaim the law that will go from Zion, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem, that will cause men to beat their swords into plowshares and learn war no more, (am I correct?) it seems so to me.

Yours waiting for the Lord,
JESSE HARROLD.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I am thankful to meet you once more in our annual love feast or social meeting, which I enjoy very much. I shall impatiently wait to hear from every one, especially those isolated ones. We have no preaching here; I mean that kind that has the right ring to it. The good old RESTITUTION comes to us every week, it cheers us on the way, many times our hearts are made glad when it informs us of the success of the gospel, in Michigan for instance. Our hearts are many times filled with sorrow when it tells of some dear one being captured by the enemy death. I am expecting ere long that death will be swallowed up in victory. The last enemy to be destroyed is death. The pitiable conditions of the nations constrain us to believe that soon the voice of God's dear Son will shake the mansions of the sleeping saints. Yes, dear ones, the kingdom is coming, then justice and equity will be dealt out to man. Be of good cheer, soon he that is to come, will come, and will not tarry. Then it will be said, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Then Jesus will occupy the throne of his glory. Then the kingdom will be given to the saints under the whole heavens. Don't let us talk of going to some other planet; this earth will be good enough when Jesus comes and reigns on Mount Zion in Jerusalem. Then let us pray, "Thy kingdom come." Paul preached the gospel at Rome, when he preached the kingdom of God. He received all that came unto him preaching the kingdom of God. Paul preached the gospel by which we are saved. I presume they know less now at Rome about the gospel than when Paul preached his last discourse at that place. I can say with Paul; I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth it. Dear ones, don't let us be swallowed up in some modern perversion of this blessed gospel. Paul said, "I marvel that you are so soon removed from him that called you by his grace unto another gospel, which is not another, but there be some that would trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ." Oh, think of the consequence. Jesus said, "I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities, for therefore am I sent." What an important theme of our dear Lord. After he had passed through the tomb it was yet his noted theme, for forty days after his passion he went about speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God. No wonder they would ask him at the foot of Olivet, "Wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" Our Baptist Sunday school teacher told us the kingdom never would be restored. I asked him to let me talk to the class a few minutes pertaining to the kingdom of God, but he would not let me. It made my poor heart feel sad. Oh, let us be faithful soldiers for Jesus, not shunning to declare his holy truth. Let our faith lay hold of his promises. We will reap in due season, if we faint not. I wish you all a happy Christmas, hoping to meet you all in the kingdom that is now near at hand.

D. F. BOWLES.

Dear Restitution:

And brothers and sisters of the household of faith, we are glad to see the call to the Christmas love feast, for we love to hear that the dear ones are not "weary in well doing" and are watching and waiting the Master's coming and kingdom. We have had a refreshing time in Eagle Grove, Ia. For first Bro. P. B. Stouffer of Bayard, Ia., came and preached for us Nov. 12, two able sermons; admonishing and encouraging us to be faithful. He is a godly man and we love him. Then Bro. D. M. Hudler came Nov. 24, and preached eleven discourses, unfolding the truths of the Word of life, as no one but Bro. Hudler can; many of you know him, and, O how I wish I could tell all the dear brethren what a feast we had, so we could all rejoice together. How glad we are to know that God has chosen the weak things of this world to confound the wise. And he has said, "Gather my saints together unto me, those who have made a covenant with me by sacrifice, for eye hath not seen nor ear heard of the grandeur that is to be for those who love his appearing. Let us all be faithful is the prayer of your brother and sister in Christ,

JOHN & MARY ALLARD.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

It is nearing the close of another year and it is time for our love feast. I can say that I am firm in the faith. The few faithful ones here have done some work for the good cause during the past year. The brethren at other places of the State of Virginia are arranging to co-operate here and other places during the year. I do hope that we can sound out the gospel so that a few more faithful ones can be reached before the night cometh, that no man can work. My prayer is that all may hear the well done plaudit, Heb. iv. 11, "Let us labor therefore to enter into that rest."

M. F. COOK.

Continued on Page Third.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, DEC. 27, 1899.

To Our Subscribers.

Very many of our patrons well know their time expires with Dec. 31, 1899. A goodly number know equally well that they are behind in their payments varying from a month to some years. Any one can ascertain by examining their label just how they stand. The month is given and then a figure to indicate the year. Some object to us putting notice in the paper to try and induce payment to be made, and we do not like it at all—would rather not do so. Now, friends, do not make it necessary for us to ask but this once more, but send your money now, even before the time is out, so as to have it here by the first of January. We must have your aid or we shall be sorely crippled in getting out our paper. Please do not lay this aside till you have complied with our request.

THERE is no change in the South African situation since last week. No new battles have been fought, but preparations are being made by both sides. The war spirit is in full possession of England, and there is no intimation that the field will be abandoned, but a grim determination to go on with the task in hand. There is no peace in sight for the world this side the coming of our Lord Jesus, and so we pray, Come Lord Jesus and come quickly, for thou art needed here.

THE Church of the Blessed Hope in Cleveland, had the unspeakable pleasure of receiving five more obedient ones into fellowship on Dec. 17th. This gladdened and encouraged us all to labor on while the door stands open. The church scattered abroad are hereby introduced to Sister Jennie Salsbury, Sister Lillie Stafford, Sister Edna Cowles, Bro. Stanley Sanford and Brother H Potts. That these eleventh hour laborers may redeem what of time remains, and be found fit for the Master's use when he appears is our earnest prayer.

THIS issue of our paper closes up the work for 1899. It has been an eventful year, as you each so well know. What the new year holds for us we know not—more than this, that we are nearer the end of Gentile times, and as we approach closer to their termination, the events will be of more and more interest to us. It has been a struggle to maintain our work the past year, and we realize that the one to come will be no better in this respect. Many things are constantly coming up to detract from the service of the Master, but we do not feel one bit like giving up. We must overcome difficulties and trials as they come, for therein lies the blessing and reward. Brethren, watch the signs of the times and be true to the ancient faith. Pray for us that we may receive the needed strength, and that our faith fail not.

Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy.

The Vienna Correspondent of Jewish Chronicle, says that within the last few days a meeting was held of Zionists possessing the confidence of the leaders, at which the various groups submitted their wishes and grievances. Dr. Herz, on behalf of the Actions Committee, gave important information on the work now in hand, and especially on the desired acquisition of a Charter from the Sultan.

"It is generally known that Russian newspapers are limited in political discussion to question in which the government is not interested or upon which it has no definite opinions. It is regarded as significant that ever since the South African war broke out, the leading Journals of Russia have been urging decisive action against England in various quarters of the world. They have openly instigated the utilization of British difficulties by Russia and the accomplishment of long-cherished objects at the expense of England. "It is the duty of the government to pursue the national welfare and take advantage of the preoccupation of Russia's chief adversary," has been the burden of their propaganda. The government has tolerated—some believe it has inspired—these utterances, and the recent rumors that Russian troops had occupied Herat, the Key to India, have doubtless resulted from the persistent talk about the advisability of doing this in the Russian press.

A writer in the St. Petersburg Soiet, thus expressed himself:—

"A moment rare in political history has arrived of which Russia must avail herself to place a garrison at Herat with the consent of the Emir, of course. Our railway to Kushk cannot remain without a terminus, and Herat must be the terminus. A good diplomatist, with a purse well filled, would easily persuade the Emir of the necessity of the railway extension, and of the need of a Russian force to guard it. This would not diminish the power of the Emir, and would not undermine Afghan sovereignty; but it would render it vain for England to cast greedy glances in the direction of Herat. The opportunity is of the exclusive kind and will not happen again. England would not at present dare even to think of war with Russia, and the consequences would be a pause in the African war and easier terms to the Boers, who would be saved from extermination."

Other writers have been harping upon the same theme, but the Novoye Vremya, a later of England has deprecated this advice. It, too, wants a coup de main against that power, but not in Afghanistan. It considers editorially the whole question and concludes that nothing would be gained by the invasion of Herat. It says in part:—

"Would it be expedient for us to acquire Herat in one way or another? The first question is, what would be our object? Is Herat the first halting place in an invasion of India? But this invasion cannot be in itself our object. If we are to invade there must be some purpose in it. But Russia has long since relinquished the idea of conquering India, for the simple reason that we could do nothing with her, while the expense and the cost in energy of conquest and retention would be colossal.

"The invasion of India would be merely a method of influencing England in case she resisted the realization of our real aims in Persian Asia—the access to the Indian Ocean. Would the seizure of Herat be a means to that end? No. It would make the Emir our enemy. 'To-day, Herat; to-morrow, Cabul,' is too simple a deduction not to occur to him..... As a point of support in a march upon India Kushk is not inferior to Herat."

The paper develops this idea and shows that the situation has radically changed in the last two decades, and that Herat has lost all its importance. It is better for Russia to establish a permanent residence at Cabul and to prevent the English from extending their dominion to the Persian Gulf. "Our present prospects in Persia," continues the Novoye Vremyer "have decreased for us the value of Herat," referring to the extension of the monopoly of railway concessions in Persia recently secured by Russia. The real object of Russia is to acquire a sphere on the littoral of the Indian Ocean, and this should be furthered without offending the Asiatic rulers or dismembering their kingdoms. Russia has no need of further territory, and she must be on good terms with Afghanistan and Persia.

The Trans-Caspian Railway now under construction is projected to run through the heart of Persia, down to the Persian Gulf, and with this and other plans a forcible invasion of Herat would fatally interfere. The Novoye Vremyer thinks this an auspicious time to promote those prospects by demanding British acquiescense as "compensation" for England's acquisition in China and South Africa. The above translations were made for the Literary Digest, and we are sure our readers will be grateful for the light thrown on the schemes of the Great Northern Bear they have been so long watching.

A few minutes after copying the above the dailies brought the news that there was a probability that no direct attack or open defiance of England would be made by France and Russia, but that they would follow the devious and stealthy course common to European statecraft, and strike a heavy blow at Khartoum, (where the British have been carrying things with a high hand) through King Menelik, of Abyssinia, who could easily retire to his own mountains where he could not be followed, except with such a force as that sent to South Africa.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Our Love Fea[st]

(Continued.)

To the Brethren:

On a New Year's day I [went] church and saw on the wall [a picture] representing a book and on [the] book was inscribed "Record of [the year] for 189—" and underneath was [the in]quiry—"What have I written [for e]ternity?" The thought impressed me [deeply]. Well may this be our inquiry, [not] only from year to year, but from [hour] to day. Let us consider the [past] years and enquire—is there [any]thing in our lives that is particularly [pleas]ing in the sight of God? May [we] make a greater effort to fill [up] the time with good works. May [we] live nearer to God, remembering that [each] passing year brings us nearer [to] that joyful reunion when time shall be [no] more.

EDWIN [illegible]

Dear brothers and sisters [in the] household of faith:

I love to read the many encouraging letters from the dear brethren and sisters in Christ. They are a true source of comfort to the weary pilgrim as he journeys the rough and stony path that every true child of God has to travel; for we read "They that will live Godly shall suffer persecution." Again we read, "If we suffer with him we shall also reign with him." "If we deny him he will also deny us before our Father which is in heaven." I rejoice and am exceeding glad that I am counted worthy to suffer persecution for Christ's sake and the gospel, for it is to us what fire is to gold, if we overcome the trials and temptations it will take out the dross and make us more perfect. The Lord was made perfect through suffering, why not we? When I read the exceeding great and precious promises that "God who cannot lie" made to all the faithful ones, it makes me more determined than ever before to press forward to the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. If by any means I might attain to the resurrection of the dead. I cannot preach but am willing to give freely of my earnings to those that can; for those that preach the gospel should live by it. This world has not much attraction for me. My mind, my hope, is on the kingdom. The signs indicate the coming of the Bridegroom near. Words cannot express [illegible] to be among the foolish virgins without oil in our vessels, for then there will be no time to buy; but the wise will go in to the marriage and the door will be shut, and the foolish will be left outside weeping and wailing. Yes, it will be too late. Let us be more faithful in all things so that when the Lord comes we will not be found wanting. May the Lord give us strength to do his will and overcome that we may inherit all things. Let us watch and pray.

Yours in the one hope.

MARY M. RENNER.

Editor Restitution:

We like the paper very much and wish many of our dear friends would read it. We have sent it to many of them; but they cannot stand such strong meat. I would love to see some of the dear ones of like precious faith whose names have become household words, by seeing them in the paper. The time I believe is near at hand when we shall see them and all the dear ones who are asleep in Jesus, and if we have overcome unto the end, and fought the fight, and kept the faith will meet to part no more.

MRS. S. J. LANPHEAR.

Dear Friends:

I am glad that we have a dear [Fa]ther to remember; just the Christ [child] that he is coming by and by to [raise] up the dead.

OMAR CLO[illegible]

"Peace be to the brethren and [love] with faith," this happy Christmas time.

Our eyes have seen through God's dear Book, "the Lord's Christ." We have looked through that clear glass upon him who is "the consolation of Israel." We remember the glory of the Lord that shone round about the shepherds, and the sweet words of the angel's song. The child that lay in the manger has given "knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of their sins; through the tender mercy of our God." Let us sing with the angels, "Glory to God in the highest! on earth Peace, and good will to men!"

S. ROXANA WILL[illegible]

Greeting to all:

To all the household of faith to whom this letter may come, I send Christmas greeting in Brother Paul's familiar form of words: "Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ." The most of you I never saw. It is enough to know that you and I are members of the same family; holding a common faith and hope. Some of you I know by name and face and have talked with you familiarly as friend with friend; have shared your bed and board and been helped by your counsel. "I thank God upon every remembrance of you." I am older in the faith than nine out of ten of the ones I address, but perhaps not wiser than this proportion of the school of Christ. I ought to know more than the younger members of my Father's family; Job's proverb being true: "With the ancient is wisdom and in length of days understanding." Job xii. 12. I have had a long time in which to learn and the Text Book I have in hand is a good one to provoke study, and challenge investigation. Some of its problems a child may solve, but others thus far are too [illegible]. The whole Book is styled a Revelation, and so it is. It reveals but little to those who carelessly read it; but much to him who persistently searches its pages; comparing Scripture with Scripture I would not wish the Book to be other than it is. Study is good for the mind. I have been in the faith forty-four years, this is about as long as I have been studying. Prior to my coming into the faith, I read the Bible, but thought it was to be read spiritually; consequently I made no headway in the acquisition of divine knowledge and wisdom. This foolish notion is a bar to understanding the Scriptures. I thank God for the good Old Book in my mother-tongue, and for the liberty to read it without fear of interference. I reflect that this boon came to us at a terrible cost of blood and treasure and human suffering. Many changes have taken place since the date of my conversion to the truth. Our paper in this time has passed through several hands, has been published at different towns and cities and under several different names. When I first began to read it in 1854, it was "The Prophetic Expositor and Bible Advocate," Joseph Marsh, Editor and Proprietor, place of publication Rochester, N. Y. But few remain who read it or wrote for its columns back there. Another generation has come on the stage with other hands wield the pen to write the articles that help to make the weekly issues of our paper welcome to the household of faith. I ask the question, Is the Bible as precious to us as it was to the pioneers of our faith? Do we prize the truth according to its worth? Has the modern watchword, "liberalism" made the truth appear less important than it was years ago? The fear of being thought exclusive and clannish may have the effect on some of loosening the grasp on truth. At the Christmas season our minds turn to little Bethlehem from whence the prophet Micah said should come the One to be Ruler in Israel. Sacred spot! The birth-place of the Redeemer! But the prophecy sweeps on and takes in the rulership in Israel and of course our "blessed hope" the goal toward which we all set our faces; the great event around which gathers so much that is grand and glorious; the epoch of mighty changes. Do we cry out from the depths of our hearts as the glad echo of his own words "Surely I come quickly, Amen." Even so come, Lord Jesus. Amen.

JOHN L. WINCE.

Dear Christian Friends:

It makes my heart glad to read the letters from different places where good is the result of the meetings, and to learn of some being brought to Christ. "Let the heart of them rejoice who seeketh the Lord." The Word of the Lord is "A lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Let us rejoice and be faithful, that we may receive a crown of life with all of those who love his appearing. As ever your Sister, in hope.

LOUISA CORBALEY.

Dear Brethren in Christ;

Great and manifold are the mercies of the Lord towards us, not only for his preserving care over us in the preservation of our lives till the present time, but for the provision he has made for our salvation through the gift of his Beloved Son. We may say with Paul, "The love of Christ constraineth us," for we thus judge. If he died for all, then were all dead. Yes, he died for all that they should not henceforth live unto themselves; but unto him who died for them, and rose again, and therefore has become Lord both of the dead and living, and hence his people may be steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as they know their labor will not be in vain. In due time they will reap if they faint not. And truly they may say with David, "The Lord is my Shepherd. I shall not want;" for all things will work together for good to those who love God." This is the love of God that we keep his commandments, and one important commandment is to believe on his Son and to love one another as he gave us commandment. God is love, "For he so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life." Well may Paul thank God for the Unspeakable Gift. May we lay aside every weight and the sin that doth so easily beset us, and run with patience the race set before us, ever looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who, if we endure to the end, will say to us "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." To this end may we watch and pray always, that we may be counted worthy to escape all those things that shall come to pass and be permitted to appear before him and not be ashamed.

Yours in hope.

P. H. BOYK.

Dear Restitution:

I see in a late number of THE RESTITUTION that the Editor has kindly solicited short letters from the isolated brethren of the Abrahamic faith for our Christmas number. So we deem it a privilege to comply as we are so widely separated from those of like faith, and so many of us do not have a privilege of listening to a true gospel sermon, delivered by some of our able ministers. It behoves us to be the more watchful and guarded over our daily life, that we hold fast the faith once delivered to the saints. We were sorry to see such a large number of delinquent subscribers to our beloved paper. Now, brethren, this ought not to be, let us be more self sacrificing, and if necessary give up some of our secular papers. Let us be zealous workers in the Lord's vineyard while the day lasts. And if we are not all able to send an extra copy of THE RESTITUTION to our friends, or some one we think would be interested enough to read it, let us at least distribute an assortment of Brother Joblin's Lectures, or some other good tracts advertized in THE RESTITUTION. Some day a brother or sister may take us by the hand and say, "I thank God that you and the writer have been the means of opening my eyes to the truth, and leading me to Christ."

Your Brother and Sister in the one faith,

GEORGE & LOUISE BRADLEY.

Dear Restitution:

As the years pass I am a stronger believer in the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ. I am somewhat isolated from those who believe and have obeyed the precious faith. I have often spoken of the gospel of the kingdom of God, but the minds of the people of this section are filled with other things and have no time to listen to the truth. Some say this is a strange doctrine. The trouble seems to be that we have Bibles without number, but very few who read them, "rightly dividing the Word of truth." We listen in vain to hear preached "The Son of the living God." The doctrine of the resurrection of the dead is no longer preached, but in its stead "Going to heaven at death," etc. With our Bible and THE RESTITUTION we keep fresh in our minds the blessed promises of the future. If this letter should greet the eyes of any of the one faith, who reside near the center of the State of Ohio, I would be very glad to hear from them. Have we a yearly meeting, if so, where will it meet next year? With love to all who believe the precious promises I close hoping soon to meet the Lord.

Your Brother,

D. C. ROBINSON.

Dear Restitution:

The Divine record sums up the character of God in three words, "God is love." This short definition embodies the leading attributes of the divine manifestations as seen in all his dealings with the race. We may safely regard the principle of love as the motive for man's existence and eternal well being. Hence in whatever condition man places himself by his own volition cannot divorce him from the motive that brought him into being. This is in harmony with the precious saying, "God so loved the world that he gave his Son to die for it," that the world might be saved. Malice found no place in his dealings with our first parents any more after they sinned than before. The remedy of love and the discipline to which he subjects them that their recovery may be assured bears alike the tender impress of love. "His mercies endure forever." Can man resist the power of this love and thus effect his own destruction? In the light of truth we answer, he can. Can he absolutely end his being by sin? Yea, verily, "The wages of sin is death." "Sin when finished bringeth forth death." Is God therefore to blame for the sinner's death? Surely not. "He wills not the death of him that dieth; but rather that they should turn and live." He bears no malice toward any though they are walking in the way of destruction, and are drawing near to the harvest of their own sowing. They have spurned his offer of life and exhausted his mercies. Will he now at this point lay by his love and take up his spite, no verily. His answer is, "Let the wicked perish forever." Justice and mercy are wisely blended in the sentence of the divine Judge. Can you, dear reader, discover any motive in the Creator should he prolong their lives when all remedies had failed to recover them? Will he now cease to pity only to take up the weapon of unrelenting hate, and arrest the course of destruction and force endless life and unending pain and suffering upon them? Think for one moment what all this involves, and do forget that "God is love."

A. B. WINCE.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

W D Townsend	1.50
J Morrison	.50

Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance. Remember you get all the balance of 1899 free.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

Art Calendar.

One of the handsomest calendars that has appeared for the new year represents children playing on the broad beach of one of our Atlantic Coast resorts. The youngest a little tot, is defying the approaching tide of the ocean, and in a spirit of bravado calls out to his companions who are eagerly watching him, "Who's Afraid?" Copy of this calendar, carefully mailed in strawboard to protect in transmitting, will be mailed on receipt of 10 cents in postage stamps by W. B. Kniskern, G. P. & T. A., Chicago & North-Western Ry, Chicago, Ill. Early application should be made as the edition is limited.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

Love Feast.

(Continued.)

Dear Restitution:

I am thankful to say I can give in my testimony of the love and kindness, which has followed me up to this present time, and I can and do rejoice for the precious promises given for our encouragement in God's dear Word. That he will never leave nor forsake those who put their trust in him. And surely if ever I realized my dependence it is now that my days are few and evil. Therefore I have to pray, "Teach me to number my days, that I may apply my heart unto wisdom from above;" and I need that my Spiritual strength be renewed as I feel my temporal strength failing. My age is 82 years the 22nd of this month. I want to say I am glad I came to Eagle Grove, Ia., as it has been my desire many years to be with those of the one faith. We have Sunday school at 3 p. m., and prayer meeting and Bible reading Sunday evening and young peoples' meeting every Wednesday evening. And Bro. Hudler came the 24, on his way home from Kansas. Stayed over two Sundays, preaching eleven discourses. O bless Bro. Hudler, he is an able speaker, rightly dividing the Word of truth. Harmonizing both old and new Scriptures. It was like apples of gold in pictures of silver. Bless the Lord, those here who have been hungering, had a precious feast. O how I wish Bro. Hudler could have stayed with us, as we have no one to preach for us, but he had to go home, and my prayer is may the blessings of the Lord go with him, and give him souls for his ministry and souls for his hire. And may the God of Israel be with all the brethren is the prayer of

JOHN CAUSDALE.

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the one faith:

As I see a call for another love feast I thought I would send in my mite. I wish you all a happy Christmas. I will say to you all that I am trying to live so as to be counted amongst the overcomers, to sit with Christ in his throne. I have seen but very few of your faces, but I hope to meet you all in the kingdom of God's dear Son, and not only you but all of the sleeping saints of all the past ages. O what a glorious thought to think of meeting with our father Abraham and good old Sarah, and all of the ancient worthies and the greatest of all will be to meet with our blessed Lord, who gave his life for us. Let us all try harder to serve him in the future than we have in the past. Now, brethren, above all things, let us have fervent charity among ourselves and always look to Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith. Pray for me,

MARY E. HOWARD.

Dear Restitution:

Allow me to drop a word for our blessed Christ who has done so much for us all; that sweet babe of Bethlehem that came to bring peace and good will to men. He is coming again, dear ones, but not as a babe, he is coming to be King of the world and to rule in righteousness. Perhaps before another year shall roll around we may be so happy as to see the King coming in all his beauty to reward the faithful ones. God grant that we who have named his name may be found with the white wedding garments on, waiting for his return, and can look into his face and say, Lo, this is our God, we've waited for him and he will save us.

Your Sister in Christ,

MAE CUMMINGS.

Dear Household of Faith:

As the anniversary of the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ is dawning upon us again, I feel like adding a little testimony to the power of the Spirit, as operating upon my consciousness relative to love manifested toward me a sinner, in the person of the Seed of the woman, who shall shortly by his love toward me, bruise Satan under my—our feet, and give me—us, the victory through God's eternal Word. It is fifty-four years this winter since I cast in my lot with the saints of God and disciples of our Lord Jesus, and I have been struggling all these years to retain spiritual life. Many have been the conflicts with the flesh, since my attempt at living a Christian life. Many have been the sore trials I endured, because of my faith in God, who has promised the restitution of all things by his Son, the Word of God, and the Seed of the woman. In my earlier Christian profession, in my babe life, the Church fed me on the strong meat of partialism as to the final result of human salvation. The leaven of the Pharisees, and the traditions of the heathen, and of Papal Rome as then taught by sectarians, found good soil for rooting in my mind. But God works in mysterious ways his purposes to fulfil. I was impressed in early life with the idea, or thought, that I ought to preach the gospel. It occurred to my mind, do you know what the gospel is? What does it consist in? I set about to try to find out, and in my reading I read, "Behold I bring you good news of great joy, which shall be to all people," etc. I thought, is the doctrine of eternal punishment in a hell of fire good news? Is eternal anguish good news? Can a human soul endure never ending burning? Is man a compound of material and immaterial elements—soul? What is immateriality, I said to myself? So I kept on reading, and asking the brethren questions along these lines of dogmatism, without getting satisfactory answers. The more I investigated these doctrines of partial salvation, the more I became convinced they were stultifying the character of the Lord God Almighty. And it was a libel perpetrated upon his revelation of himself and the race of men. And since investigating the Scriptures I have learned that the gospel of God does not consist in the records given by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, but covers the whole revelation of God. So for many years I have been teaching the gospel of God, and relegated the traditions of the heathen and of Papal Rome. Brethren, I am enjoying good physical and spiritual health, and could stand a good winter's work in what is called revival work. I am at liberty this winter and stand isolated from sectarian churches. Pray for me that I fail not.

Yours in experience meeting,

ELD. E. POTTS.

Dear ones of the household of God:

I would again like to join with you in exhorting one another for we surely see the day approaching, and how it thrills us with joy, when we learn that prophecy is being fulfilled that tells us what will take place shortly before the coming of our Lord. Therefore, let us not sleep as do others, but let us watch and be sober. Paul exhorts us that we are not in darkness, that that day should overtake us as a thief. How thankful we should be that we have been blessed with the knowledge of the truth, so we can watch and be ready when our blessed Master returns to awake the righteous dead and change the righteous living and change our vile bodies that they may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, and become a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people, and never be parted from each other, but always enjoying the presence of our Lord and Master, arrayed in fine linen, clean and white, for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints; and be called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb and to attain unto this let us strive to be overcomers unto whom the promises are given. Although we are buffeted about in this life, yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. We, therefore, choose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a reason; that we may at the coming of our dear Lord and Master hear that welcome plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord," and enter into an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled and that fadeth not away. May this time hasten, is my prayer. Anxiously waiting,

SARAH BUTCHER.

Dear Brothers and Sisters of the household of faith:

As the time for our annual love feast draws near I feel like testifying for my Master. I feel sometimes as though I was alone in the world, though surrounded by kind friends. I seldom see any of like precious faith, except my own family. We used to meet here every first day but our meetings closed nearly a year ago, and as the brethren live quite a distance from us we seldom see them any more. We have attended the Congregational Sunday school and have tried to let our light shine as best we could, hoping and praying that God will open the eyes of these people to see and understand his whole blessed gospel plan of salvation. They have been very kind to us and we have been allowed to express our opinions freely, and we must leave the result with our heavenly Father. We have had no preaching here since Bro. Hudler was here two years ago. I sincerely hope he or some other good brother may get around and see us this winter. We have tried to live very near to the Master, and though troubles and trials come we have taken them all to him, believing that all things shall work together for good to them that love him, to them that have been called according to his purpose. Oh, if we could only remember at all times that God's hand is guiding, what a world of worry and trouble we might save ourselves. Pray for me, brothers and sisters, that my faith fail not, that I may be given strength to stand firm for God's Word in every hour of trouble and trial, and may receive the crown when the Master comes.

Your Sister in Christ,

MRS. A. M. SIPLE.

Dear Restitution:

All the preaching, that is gospel, that we get is through THE RESTITUTION. I hope and pray for the time to come when all may know the Lord, from the least to the greatest. Oh, may we stand steadfast in the one faith and have our lons girded about with the glorious truth of the gospel of Christ, which is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believes. We are watching the nations in their movements, and hope ere long we will see plainly. Their movements will surely indicate the coming of our blessed Lord and Master, who will strike through kings in the day of his wrath, and wound the heads over many countries, and take his right and reign from sea to sea, and from the rivers to the ends of the earth, and then there will be peace that is peace, and no peace congress will make a failure then. Wishing the prayers of the dear ones of the one faith I remain yours in the one faith,

L. P. CLARK.

Editor Restitution:

Many times through the year I think of you and thank you for the continued free gift of THE RESTITUTION. Surrounded as I am here, with those who care not for the things taught in its precious columns, I feel that I cannot do without its instruction. My neighbors will not read it when I ask them to. My dear brother, I want to get among the brethren again, but I don't know where to go, and I have no means to go far, but I am very lonely and unhappy here alone. I want my little adopted girl where she can attend church and Sunday school, where she will learn things agreeing with Bible teaching. I ask an interest in your prayers that the dear Lord will open a way for me. I am trying to trust my heavenly Father implicitly. Please send THE RESTITUTION free as in the past, if you can, that is if the Lord gives the means.

Your Sister in hope of life,

MRS R. BEARDSLEY.

Editor Restitution:

Concerning; our love feast I will simply refer our brothers and sisters to the 1 Peter iii. 15, 16, we find these words: "But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, in meekness and fear. Having a good conscience, that whereas they speak evil of you as of evil doers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ."

Yours truly waiting for the appearing of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, to reign on David's throne in peace and righteousness.

JOHN W. & SUSAN SIEGLE.

Dear Restitution:

It is time for the love feast, I thought. I would endeavor to write something to encourage. Every one of us should write something once a year. I love its weekly visits and to hear from the brothers and sisters. It is quite a blessing to me to read so many good pieces, as I have been sick since the 12th day of July, 1898, and am not able to be out of the house yet, but am thankful that I can walk about the house and be with my family. But we must keep up courage for our Master. O what a blessing it will be when our Savior comes back to the earth to call his chosen ones home, if we are faithful to the end. Oh brothers and sisters, what a glorious time that will be. There will be no more sickness nor sorrow, nor pain nor tears. "I shall be satisfied when I awake in his likeness." O may we ever be watchful, for we know not when the Bridegroom cometh. May we all keep our lamps trimmed and burning, is my humble prayer. Yours in hope,

N. S. WESTFALL.

Christmas Greeting to one and all:

I wish to say at the close of another year that I am still watching and waiting for our Savior, longing for the time to come when he will take the throne and reign, and bring all things into subjection unto his righteous rule. May we all be found worthy to see this earth in its beauty, and live and reign with Christ in his kingdom,

MRS. C. E. HILLSBECK.

Dear Friends and Sisters:

One more year has rolled away since we last [illegible] with our letters for the love feast, and how sad to think that many that met with us last year are now sleeping in their silent home, waiting for our Redeemer to come. Who knows who will be missing next year. Come let us all try more earnestly than in the past, that we may be accepted of our Master when he comes, whether awake or asleep.

Yours in love,

MRS. N. S. WESTFALL.

To the Brothers and Sisters in the faith:

We are again asked to send our testimonies and our greetings to the love feast, and may it be a feast indeed, and all strengthened and comforted by the testimonies of the brethren. I am resting in the precious promises looking for the coming King. His [illegible] have been many in the [illegible] loving care is over all. I trust him. O love ye the Lord, all ye his saints, for the Lord preserveth the faithful. Be of good courage and he shall strengthen your heart. All ye that trust in the Lord, for his merciful kindness is great toward us, and the truth of the Lord endureth forever.

ELLA T. KNOWLES.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Well Master, thou hast said the truth; for there is one God and there is none other but he. And to love him with all thy heart and with all thy understanding, and to love our neighbor as ourselves, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices. Mark xii. 32-33. The readers of THE RESTITUTION are asked to write a few lines to serve as a kind of love feast, etc. Love is very much mentioned in both the Old and the New Testament Scriptures. Knowledge is valuable, so is wisdom. Yes, I separate them, certainly. For one may know the way to Plymouth and yet act very foolish in his method of going there. Love is surely the crowning grace. The Book says so. I had a friend once who spent most of his life in the Indian country. The Indians loved him because they always found him sincere and truthful. He never threatened to hang those who refused to accept the gifts from Washington. Suppose he had told those Indians that if they did not accept the good things that were ready for them at Washington, the great father McKinley, for their refusal, would send them to a reservation, where there was no water, nor any thing else to live on. I am thinking that this threat would have ended my friend's labor among Captain Jack's braves. Yes, sir, the red man would have dropped my friend just like the masses are dropping most of the churches, if he had mixed up Washington gifts and threatenings in the same speech, like some sermons are mixed up. We had a preacher at our church once that used to advertize his sermons a week in advance in this way, "My sermon next Sunday night will be eternal torment,"—hell. When he stood up to preach, he looked just as cheerful as a girl would when marrying the man she loves. He surely did not believe himself what he was preaching. He played with his fob chain all the time. We love God because he loved us, not because of his threatenings. When I was a boy in Ireland I ran away from home. A man found me wandering and told me that father and mother were almost crazy looking for me, crying, "Where are you Isaac?" Of course I returned at once. Had the man had intimated that they had a fire to put me in as soon as they got hold of me, I might have [illegible] stayed away longer. The prodigal son did not have time to tell he had been. Love refused to [illegible]. It is love that brings us [illegible].

ISAAC MCCURRY, SR.

To the dear Restitution:

I would like through this medium, to take part in our Christmas love feast, and while we are waiting and watching for the return of the Master, let us encourage one another in this way, as we are a scattered people, and isolated, so we do not have the opportunity here in Blackwell, Okla., as a great many others have, of listening to the Word of truth, yet our faith in God's promises is strong, for we see that every day is fulfilling prophecy, according to the signs of our times, which is according to God's foreknowledge from the beginning, as we see from different sources, that the nations are growing more angry every day, which no doubt will terminate in the last great battle at Jerusalem, at which time the Redeemer shall come to Zion. In this, dear brethren, we can rejoice and be glad, for it does seem, dear loved ones, that the last days of this age will be hard for a child of God to endure and hold out faithful, and contest the world, with truth against error, which is so much rejected by the world, but we must be watchful, and prayerful lest the enemy of all good should lull us to sleep, and the day of the Lord should overtake us unawares. But we must not falter at this late hour, when we think of the dear Master and all the Apostles being put to death for the truth's sake, though the world hate us, Jesus says it hated him before it hated us, and we shall reap if we faint not is a promise of God, though we are disowned of men, we are owned and loved of God, which brings to mind the following poem, which reflects upon the Christian the narrow way,

"What poor despised company,
Of travelers are these,
Who walk in yonder narrow way,
Along the rugged maze?

Ah, they are of a royal line,
All children of a heavenly King,
Heirs of immortal crowns divine,
And lo, for joy they sing.

But why keep they that narrow road,
That rugged thorny maze?
Ah, that's the way their Leader trod;
They love and keep his ways.

A little flock, so calls he thee,
Who bought thee with his blood,
A little flock disowned of men,
But owned and loved of God."

ELIZA A. RAHE.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

We are all requested to write some thing for our Christmas feast, some thing to encourage the down-hearted and weary pilgrims on their journey to the home of the faithful, and especially for those lone ones who are deprived of the privilege of hearing a gospel sermon or of associating with those of like precious faith, indeed their lives must be lonely, but don't be discouraged, weary and lone pilgrims, the night is far spent, the day is at hand, soon the joyful news will come, child your Father calls, come home. A little while and he that shall come, will come, and will not tarry. Lord Jesus come quickly, is the prayer of all God's children. Let every one of us be careful to maintain good works, so live that we may be worthy of the inheritance incorruptible, undefiled and that fadeth not away. Oh the promises of God to his children; "eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man the things which God has in store for them that love him." Jesus said, "If I go away I will come again and receive you to myself, that where I am ye may be also." Soon the grave will give up our friends who are sleeping in Jesus, they will come forth to immortality, come forth to die no more, death will have no more dominion over them. Hail happy day, the Lord hasten it in his own good time. May we all meet, without the loss of one, in the kingdom of our Lord when he comes.

ELIZA WEST.

Dear Brethren and Sisters of like precious faith:

As the time is at hand, when we can enjoy our blessed love feast together through the columns of the dear RESTITUTION, let us all contribute liberally from our spiritual storehouse, that each member of the heavenly family may feast with us, and be built up in their most holy faith, by having oil in our vessels so we can see, in this dark and cloudy day, how to run the race with patience, ever looking unto Jesus, who is the author and finisher of our faith. Yes, if we understand the Word of God, it will fill our natural vessels so that we can say like David, it is a lamp to our feet, and a light to our path; and by it he got understanding, and so can we. O what a feast it is to read the great and precious promises over and over, and feel that we have the witness within, and we are trying to keep ourselves unspotted from the world by an orderly walk and a godly conversation. Let it be said of us that we are living epistles, known and read of all men so that others may see our good works and be constrained to glorify our Father who art in heaven, and say "Thy kingdom come." Let us all who have had the name Christ named upon us try to present ourselves a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto him who has called us out of darkness into light, and hast by faith translated us into his heavenly kingdom, then let us contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints, and be ever ready to give a reason for the hope that is within us with meekness and fear, and while the Christian race is not always strewn with roses, still we have the blessed assurance, that we know in whom we have believed and his promise stands secure. Then let us all stand worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called. Let brotherly love continue, and let us be mindful of the words of our brother Paul, who said, "Know ye not that ye are the temple of the Holy Spirit." O what a high and exalted position is ours. May we ever prove worthy and hold out faithful to the end, and reap the reward of eternal life in his kingdom, where we will all feast together, is my prayer.

Your Sister in hope,

S. F. MORGAN.

Dear Brethren and Sisters in the one faith:

I am thankful that it is my happy privilege to be associated with you all, and though young in the cause I feel as though I would like to have a voice in our precious love feast, and as an humble child of God ask an interest in your prayers, and while I am a stranger to you all in the flesh, yet there is a love for the truth's sake, and my Bible tells me that we may know that we have passed from death unto life because we love the brethren. I have lately become a reader of THE RESTITUTION and I gain much instruction from it, and I think all lovers of the truth ought to read it with Bible in hand, I find it a very great help to me. Well, as this is my first effort to write to the dear ones, I will close for this time for fear I weary your patience. Your Sister in hope of the soon coming kingdom of God,

CANZADY V. DUNLAP.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I feel greatly impressed with the thought, that according to the Word of God, we are in the eve of the harvest and cannot make ready too fast for our world's Redeemer. How little consequence all else is compared to a home in that future life, where sorrow, pain and death are unknown, but all is joy and gladness, and all tears are wiped away.

Your waiting Sister,

EMMA S. W. HYER.

Editor Restitution:

The time of year is drawing near for our "Annual Love Feast," and I will write a few lines for your columns. THE RESTITUTION and the Bible are our only preachers of the truth in this part of the country. It is needless to say that the paper is a very welcome visitor at our home. I have been a reader of its pages for about sixteen years and it seems to me that it grows dearer to me as time goes on. All these years I have been watching the signs of the times, and no one, I think who would watch the signs and study the Scriptures, would have any doubt that the Bible is the Word of God, and that the coming of the Savior is drawing near. Soon, O very soon, he will come to claim his waiting Bride. Soon he will say, "Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away." Songs of Solomon ii. 13. May that glad day soon dawn is my prayer. Yours in hope.

NANNIE OSBORN.

Change in Time of Trains on Pennsylvania Lines.

Under a new schedule in effect Sunday Nov. 19, 1899, passenger trains over the Pennsylvania lines leave Plymouth station as follows:

For the East: No. 6, 2:55 a. m. daily; No. 18, 5:13, a. m. daily; No. 20, 10:37, a. m. except Sunday; No. 8, 5:48 p. m. except Sunday; No. 2, 7:50, p. m. extra fare; No. 38, 8:51, p. m. except Sunday.

For the West: No. 15, 5:34 a. m. daily; No. 5, 6:43 a. m. extra fare; No. 87, 9:22 a. m., except Sunday; No. 39, 2:10 p. m. except Sunday; No. 9, 6:12 p. m. daily; No. 7, 6:34 p. m. daily.

For particular information on the subject apply to J. E. Haines, Agt.

Holiday Excursions, Vandalia Lines.

On account of Holidays the Vandalia line will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th, 31st, and Jan. 1st, and good to return up to and including Jan. 2nd.

The Nickel Plate Road

on Dec. 17, 1899, will inaugurate a new through vestibuled sleeping car service leaving New York City via D. L. & W. R. R. at 11:45 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 12:10 noon, connecting there with train No. 5 on the Nickel Plate Road arriving in Chicago at 7:20 a. m. Also, No. 6 leaving Chicago at 10:15 p. m. and arriving in Buffalo at 4:55 p. m. will carry a through vestibuled sleeper arriving in New York via the D. L. & W. R. R. at 7:25 a. m.—Dec. 27.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Rayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Sutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga St., Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Steelis, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Princeton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worchestershire England.
J. S. Bates, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince, Edison, Neb.
J. A. Cochrane, 624 Brock St.
W. L. Woodson, 528 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keen, 4507, S. N. St., Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
R. F. Boger, Seven Pines, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Aiden, Kan.
D. M. Hedler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Joseph, La.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. F. Paine, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcola, Ark.
J. R. Ogletree, North Branch, Kansas.
U. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola Idaho.
R. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2724 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rossdale, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Alton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 597 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell Holiday excursion tickets good going on Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan 1st, 1900, at one and one third fare for the round trip, good returning to and including Jan. 2nd, 1900. With its Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains and an Unexcelled Dining Car Service, the Nickel Plate Road offers special inducements for Holiday travel.—Jan 1

Tourist Tickets to Florida and Winter Resorts in the South.

Ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines will answer inquiries about low fares to Florida and winter resorts in the South. Full information concerning Tourist Tickets, time tables, etc., will be furnished free. Persons contemplating a Southern trip may secure valuable information on the subject by merely inquiring of the nearest representative of the Pennsylvania Lines, or by addressing C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio. Say where and when you wish to go, how many will be in the party, starting point, etc., and you will be promptly posted. The inquiry will not cost much effort—it will save considerable bother in arranging details, as they will be looked after gratis.—Dec. 31.

A Brave Coward.

The Chicago & North-Western Railway Company announces the publication of a thrilling story of campaigning in the Philippines, entitled "A Brave Coward." The famous battle of Malate, the charge at La Loma, a love romance, the career of the Tenth Pennsylvania at Manila and in Luzon, the conquering of cowardice by a young Pennsylvanian, are all interwoven into one of the most delightful short stories of the hour yet issued. In common with the first Nebraska, the Thirteenth Minnesota, the Utah and Oregon men and the Twentieth Kansas, the Tenth Pennsylvania made history in the war against Aguinaldo. The tale is superbly illustrated with half-tones printed in convenient form, and will be forwarded to addresses on receipt of 6 cents in postage by W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Illinois.—Dec. 30.

Reduced Fares.

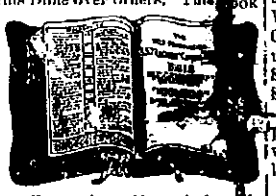
Excursion tickets will be sold Dec. 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th and 31st, 1899, and Jan. 1st, 1900, via Pennsylvania Lines account Christmas and New Year Holidays. The rate for adults will not be less than 30 cents, nor less than 15 cents for children. Tickets will be good returning until Jan. 2, 1900, inclusive. For details about fares, time of trains, etc., call on or address J. E. Hanes, Ticket Agent, Plymouth, Ind.

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.



The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The points of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.
33 Behold, d we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:
37 And e it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have f dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.
38 And because of all this we g make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, h a seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 29 The points of the covenant.

NOW a those that sealed were, b Ne-he-mi'ah, c the Tir'sha-tha, b the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,
2 d Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Jer-e-mi'ah,
3 Pash'ur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,
4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,
5 Ha'rim, Me-re-moth, O-ba-di'ah,
6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,
7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,
8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'ga-i, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.
9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;
10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,
11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,
12 Zac'cur, Shir-e-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,
13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Ben'i-nu.
14 The chief of the people; e Pa'rosh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Ba'ni,
15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,
16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big've-i, A'din,
17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,
18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,
19 Ha'riph, An'a-thoth, Neb'a-i,
20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,
21 Me-shez'a-be-el, Zad'dok, Jad-du'a,
22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,
23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Has'shub
24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Sho'bek,
25 Re'hum, Ha-shab'nah, Ma-a-se'iah,
26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,
27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.
28 f And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Neth'i-nims, and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;
29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, and entered into a curse, and into an oath, g to walk in God's law, which was given by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our LORD, and his judgments and his statutes;
30 And that we would not give h our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:
31 i And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the k seventh year, and the l exaction of every debt.
32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;
33 For m the shewbread, and for the n continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.
34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, o for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law:
35 And p to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:
36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 621 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the loss of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 5, " " " " .....*12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:30pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts; or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Mencieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

19—10-1-99

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on Ohio trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastward Trains.	All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily.	Westward Trains.
Lv.	1 2 3 4	Ar.
8 15	12 01 12 01 12 01 12 01	Chicago	11 45	7 30	7 30	7 30
10 00	1 46 1 46 1 46 1 46	Valparaiso	10 00	5 45	5 45	5 45
11 15	3 01 3 01 3 01 3 01	Kouts	8 45	4 30	4 30	4 30
11 30	3 16 3 16 3 16 3 16	Hanna	8 30	4 15	4 15	4 15
12 05	3 51 3 51 3 51 3 51	Wolcott	7 55	3 40	3 40	3 40
12 30	4 16 4 16 4 16 4 16	Kentland	7 30	3 15	3 15	3 15
1 00	4 46 4 46 4 46 4 46	Morocco	7 00	2 45	2 45	2 45
1 30	5 16 5 16 5 16 5 16	Brook	6 30	2 15	2 15	2 15
2 00	5 46 5 46 5 46 5 46	Rensselaer	6 00	1 45	1 45	1 45
2 30	6 16 6 16 6 16 6 16	Wheeler	5 30	1 15	1 15	1 15
2 45	6 31 6 31 6 31 6 31	Wanatah	5 15	1 00	1 00	1 00
3 15	7 01 7 01 7 01 7 01	La Porte	4 45	12 30	12 30	12 30
3 30	7 16 7 16 7 16 7 16	Door Village	4 30	12 15	12 15	12 15
3 45	7 31 7 31 7 31 7 31	Westville	4 15	12 00	12 00	12 00
4 00	7 46 7 46 7 46 7 46	Dunlap	4 00	11 45	11 45	11 45
4 30	8 16 8 16 8 16 8 16	New York	3 30	11 15	11 15	11 15
7 30	11 15 11 15 11 15 11 15	Boston	12 30	8 15	8 15	8 15

(Local) Night, eastbound Stops (Hour and Minute) at Kouts, Wheeler and Dunlap (Flag) Westbound only on Monday, Thursday and Saturday.

Main Line A. R. Daily except Sunday. † Stop on Signal.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 8, 9 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served à la "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. Go legally you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

---

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN

Your own selection to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ A YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A gem; beautiful colored plates; latest fashion; dressmaking economies; fancy work; household hints; fiction, etc. 25¢ copy to-day; or, send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ 15¢

(No Seam-Allowance Patterns.)

Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for 15 cts. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from

THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1026 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. Macdonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave, Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:30 for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be served for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 200 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sedlick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1246 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scipioville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Bates, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Esselmann.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Bruch Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyelsimer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as five, and Sister Woodward can be present. The church of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Ruisin Center is presided over by Brother L. G. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trastdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday after at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grout of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skreis and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec'y.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. first every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 2:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gardner, Secy and Treas. J. B. Forsythe, Leader.

The church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother [illegible] Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday, [illegible] meeting every Thursday evening. [illegible] Erskine, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. P. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

The Best Memorial.

One day a home—like God it seems—lit up
By wealth and luxury, its little host
Decked with a cozy hat his cosiness and
The city toilet—even, or worse—that
Can gather from almsgiver or needful host.

And by the door a boy in wretched hat,
Who on the Sabbath-dishonour might have brought,
And very dear to the Christian's hope and
[illegible]

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

Communicated.

God has Left us no Excuse for Unbelief.

The works of his hands are all around us, and we know that it is an axiom in philosophy, that cause and effect are inseperable. Where there is an effect there must have been a cause. In anything that we see intelligence displayed, it is the work of an intelligent being. We see intelligence displayed in all the works of God. If we study the animal, the vegetable and the mineral kingdoms we see intelligence displayed, and have to admit that they are the works of God. If we raise our eyes heavenward, and behold the countless number of worlds floating in the immensity of space, directed by God's almighty power, we see intelligence displayed. If we reflect upon this world revolving on its axis, causing a change from day to night, a change of seasons, we see wisdom and almighty power displayed, and have to admit that the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork. If we turn to the history of the past, and follow the Jews through all their wanderings, and listen to their prophets unlock the future, we will see that their prophecies have been fulfilled, and are being fulfilled in our day, leaving us no excuse for unbelief. The Jews are scattered through all the nations of the earth, fulfilling prophecies made thousands of years ago. The Jews are a perpetual evidence of the existence of God, and the truthfulness of Christianity. No infidel or critic can explain away the Jews, and their miraculous history and destiny. Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how much more their fulness. The Jews pretend to believe the Old Testament, but do not. If they believed it, they would believe in Christ. He said, "Search the Scriptures, for they are they that testify of me," and he referred to the Old Testament. They did not believe the prophets that God raised up among them, and rejected and crucified Christ. The Old Testament confirms the New, and the New the Old. If you deny one you may deny both. The two Testaments are God's Word to man which he must believe and obey. If we follow Christ from the manger to the tomb we will find that most of the prophecies about him have been fulfilled, and we will be watching for him to come and fulfil the rest, and establish his kingdom in this world. Knowing that Paul was an enemy to Christianity we follow him. We listen to what he says about his miraculous conversion, and his evidence is strong, that it leaves no room for doubt. We read that he said, a power will arise that will forbid to marry, and command to abstain from meats, and that he will declare himself equal with God. The Pope declared himself infallible, making himself equal with God. We know that is not so. David was a man after God's own heart, and he erred and was reproved. There is none righteous, no not one. Christ came into the world to save sinners, and unless the self-righteous believe, repent and obey the gospel they will be destroyed. The wages of sin is death. Paul was stopped in his blind career, and changed his course and so must we. I read in THE RESTITUTION that infidels wanted miracles to prove that miracles had been performed. What are the prophecies made thousands of years ago, that are being fulfilled in our day but miracles. God's Word is a miracle, for Christ by the Word of his almighty power raised the dead, and the raging of the wind and seas was stopped by the power of his Word. We have God's Word and the effect of his almighty power all around us. And we can see miracles if we are not blinded by sin and a desire to break the commandments of God. When we tell men the "common" creed are false, we are advocating crime in the world. Many of our lives are founded on the teachings of the Scriptures. When you make a man believe the foundation is false, you make him believe the laws are false, and you are an instigator of crime in the world. Some on account of their love for God, Christ and the gospel are missionaries in foreign climes, some have suffered persecution and death. Knowing that they would receive a crown of life on the resurrection morn. When we thoroughly study the Scriptures faith becomes so strong that we can say, I know that my Redeemer lives, and when the Holy Spirit is with us we know it. I have seen Christians die, and it is glorious to see a youth triumphing over death and the grave, relying on the merits of the atonement. Christianity robs death of its sting, and the grave of its victory. To live is Christ, to die is gain. The Word of God is truth and light, and it teaches us the way. Believe and obey its teachings, and you will be happy in time and eternity.

THOS. ROBINSON.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 24.

DRAWBACKS AND HINDRANCES.

"That they all may be one.....that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."

Referring to number 22 of this series, in which the subject of John's preaching—"the kingdom of heaven is at hand," and certain controversies which arose out of Dr. Thomas' interpretation thereof was continued, I wish to mention that this question had been introduced in the "Gospel Banner," Nottingham, England, in 1854. Two contributors, D. L. and J. D. maintained the same position against Dr. Thomas' view, which has been reported in No. 22 as held so tenaciously by A. F. Glasgow, and others.

I now proceed very briefly, to make a final reference to this part of the subject, by reporting how this controversy was allowed to die out.

The four articles on the preaching of "the kingdom of God at hand," by A. F. Glasgow, mentioned at the close of Paper No. 22, were printed in the "Messenger of the Churches" Vols. III. and IV. 1862 and 1863. These extended to upwards of 20 pages, and the subject was discussed by him in many of its phases. The writer was surprised to find that A. F., although a rather keen controversialist, ignored entirely, in the papers referred to, the "Suggestion" offered in Vol. I. as to the various statements to the effect that "the Lord is at hand," which occur in the letters of the Apostles. This "suggestion," briefly, was—"The Coming of the Lord, and the.....Coming of the kingdom, although immediately connected, are very distinct events." The latter is dependent on the former, "but the coming of the Lord may precede the setting up of the kingdom by a very considerable period. The Coming of the Lord (therefore) is the event 'AT HAND.'" The proximity of the kingdom is "at least one remove distant in point of time, so that the nearness of the kingdom gives place in their teaching to the nearness of the Coming of the Lord." The references to this close only with the final utterance in the Apocalypse.

Meanwhile, about the close of 1864, matters in Glasgow began to assume a decisive aspect on this point, and a separate assembly was shortly the result, which "continued for many years; but that phase of the question was latterly allowed quietly to drop."

While this unhappy state of things lasted, four lectures on "Church Union;" were delivered in Glasgow, by Alex D. Black of Edinburgh, in 1863. He chose for his subject Eph. iv. 1-6. These formed the subject of four articles in the "Messenger" during 1868, closing with a suggestion that the matter might form the subject of discussion by those interested. This was opened in Jan., 1869 by a communication from the brethren in Glasgow who had taken up the separate position on this subject. Following on this appeared eleven papers, by six brethren including the writer of the Glasgow letter, and the author of the four papers referred to. These communications extended to 36 columns, and presented all phases of the subject, except the "suggestion," just mentioned. The nearest approach to this was in a letter from a brother in Nottingham, England, who says "The human aspect, then, I take to be this—that as the destruction of Nineveh was delayed by the repentance of the Ninevites, so the restoration of the kingdom to Israel was delayed by the crucifixion of Christ." It may be noticed here that crucifixion and ascension of our Lord, with his express promise—"If I go away, I will come again," brings the "second appearing" into a position of precedence over the setting up of the kingdom.

An apt illustration is given by Bro. Black. The Glasgow letter had coupled with the preaching "at hand" the idea that "the kingdom of God" will speedily appear, it "warns them of the speedy fulfilment of God's purpose," that those who simply believe that word ground upon it their earnest expectation of the revelation of the Lord Jesus in his kingdom and glory." Bro. Black asks—"Does the simple belief of the words 'The kingdom of God is at hand' necessitate the belief in continual expectation? Certainly the words convey no such meaning, unless it be added, 'and may be momentarily expected'.....With a friend I go to a railway station to enquire as to the train from London.....We are told that the train is 'at hand.' Now say I, you see how we would have been had we persisted in calling upon so and so. Not so fast, says my friend; the fact of it being at hand does not determine what time we may have to spare. A second enquiry may be answered in various ways—1. The train is at hand, and may be momentarily expected. 2. It must wait where it is until another train comes and departs for a different quarter. 3. It is telegraphed that that other has been delayed, and it is therefore quite uncertain when it may arrive. 4. It has been delayed, but will arrive in half an hour." J. CAMERON.

What Would Jesus do?

Volumes could be written under this head line and it would not be exhausted. Every Christian in the land could write an essay on this all important question, and ought to do so, and yet there would be plenty of room for others. Christians or followers of Christ, could not well afford to hesitate in often asking "What would Jesus do," if he was in my place? And then make a personal application of their better judgment. If Jesus was here would he meditate and sweat and worry over the problems of this life, "What shall I eat, what shall I drink and wherewithal shall I be clothed?" He did not so do when here, and he told his disciples not to do that way, as that is the way the heathen do, and an evidence of a very weak disciple. If Jesus was here would he watch for the morning, chicken like, and rise up before day and rustle and scratch after the things of this life, "eat, drink and be merry," and tomorrow die and go the way of all the earth? He did not so live and do when here on earth, and he forewarned his disciples against this common dangerous mark of a weak, sickly faith. But he did often rise up before day and retire to a solitary, sacred spot to pray and converse with his Father God. What would Jesus do, if here? would he toil early and late for the mighty dollar, get all he could and keep all he got? Would he be pleased to see his people do that way, and lay up treasures on earth for moth to corrupt, thieves to steal and children to rise up and fuss and quarrel over? Jesus set no such examples, and told his disciples not to do that way. Would Jesus if here, prefer the company and conversation of the worldly minded to that of those who love God and his Word supremely, and would he side with those who drag and stumble along through life, too indolent and lazy (spiritually) to read the Bible and seek for that wisdom from above, which enables them to [illegible] and know what and why [illegible] and can readily with pleasure give a Bible reason for the hope they cherish? They have no time for, or interest in these things, yet they fuss at, and condemn those who have time for them. What would Jesus do and say to such folks, if he was here? Again. What would Jesus do and say to us, if he was present in person when we get on a high horse and raise a little cyclone over nothing every few days? Would he not cast out the evil spirit, and say "peace be still," as he did to the winds and waves of the troubled sea, and there was, and would be again a great calm, for the winds and the sea did, and will again obey him. Again. What would Jesus do if here in person? Would he join heart and hands with the world and its secret, oath-bound societies and take his turn as chaplain reading the ritual and going through a hollow form of worship with a motley crew of Christians, sinners and infidels, who revile his cause and blaspheme his name? If you say no, he would not mix up with such a band, lest he be converted to, and by the world, and thus fail to be an overcomer, then I say to you, my brother and my sister, come out and stay out, and run in the narrow way. Oh, I hasten away and fly for your life, do not stop in the suburbs, nor in all the plain of Sodom. Look not behind you, remember Lot's wife. Do you not know my brother or my sister, that as your interest increases and runs high in and for worldly societies, that it necessarily grows weak, and runs low for the good Lord and his cause? This is admitted by honest men and women. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Ye cannot serve Abraham's God, and the God of this world the same day.

Once more, What would Jesus do if here in person? Would he conform to the habits and fashions of this world and chew and smoke the poisonous weed and thus set the example for men and women to follow, while Paul comes up a little later and forbids it, by telling Christians to cleanse themselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God. Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord. Conclusion, if we would see the Lord—the King in his beauty, we must be holy and pure, and to be holy and pure, we must take the Lord's advice and cleanse ourselves and be clean, from all filthy habits of body and mind. Note, the Lord tells us to do this, and he does not propose to do for us what we can do for ourselves, but he will help us, and do for us what we cannot do for ourselves. Now, if any brother finds himself in any of these traps and really desires to be free, let him shun them as he would a mad dog or a saloon. While on the other hand, if he can see and feel how filthy he is before God and man, and will not make a strong effort to be free, he will soon hear not the "Well done," but that awful sentence. "He that is filthy, let him so remain." Then you will cry when it is too late. The harvest is past and the summer is ended, and I am not saved." The Lord is just if we all are lost. Now, my brother or my sister, if you honestly think these worldly luxuries I have hinted at are an ornament and a compliment to a Christian life, or even admissable at heaven's court, then do not be ashamed of them, but come out and defend and sustain them. If not, then I beg you to be consistent and abandon them at once, and forever, and let the world have and enjoy its own institutions for a short season, and then they must all pass away and be no more. And may the good Lord bless you, and sustain you unto his coming kingdom. Amen. T. E. ADAMS.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JANUARY 10, 1900. NUMBER 2.

The Wisdom of God.

Paul exclaims: "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out." Rom. xi. 33. And the Psalmist after a brief survey of God's marvelous works in nature, breaks forth in these words: "O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom thou hast made them all: the earth is full of thy riches." Psa. civ. 24. The wisdom displayed in the great scheme of human redemption, and in the works of nature above and beneath and around about us is sufficient to arouse our admiration and adoring wonder, and overwhelm us with a sense of our own littleness and ignorance. Prophet and Psalmist have recorded some of their rapturous emotions on contemplating the wisdom and power of God as displayed in his Word and his works. Shall we look up to the heavens with but the dull gaze of the unreasoning brute; or into his Word with only an idle curiosity? How often have our feelings of reverence toward the Divine Being been shocked by the irreverent and blasphemous remarks about God's ways and works, as if he had made mistakes and blunders. These self-constituted judges of the Judge of all are "exceeding wise!" The Christian sees things in nature, in Providence and in Revelation which seem inharmonious, but he humbly acknowledges his own short-sightedness, that what he sees and understands is but a very small part of God's all-comprehending plan. He believes that Jehovah has an ulterior purpose in view, and toward which he is unerringly working, and all his operations are carried on without interfering with man's free moral agency.

JOHN L. WINCE.

Debt.

"Owe no man anything." These words of the Spirit through Paul are often overlooked by those who neglect not the "assembling of themselves together." We would like to ask why these are not of equal importance. At this season of the year when presents are so freely made, ought we not first to ask, is this money ours, or is it due to another? Can we take that which another has trusted to our honesty to return at a certain time, to buy even necessary things? First we ought to see that our brother or friend "hath not ought against us," before we offer our gifts upon the altar of friendship, love or God. How can we offer to him who knoweth all things, gifts of that which is not our own? Will not "he who weigheth in the balance of justice," give to him who has offered but the mite which is his own, greater honor, than to the one who offers an abundance of that which is due another? Let us "Render therefore to all their dues," at the earliest possible moment, if we have had the misfortune to become indebted to any in this world's goods. Often has the writer known of persons being in actual need of things necessary to their comfort and health, while men who were indebted to them were living in extravagance, able to give rich presents to their friends, yet unwilling to pay those who have served them with goods, or loaned them money upon positive promises that payment would be made, either at a certain date or as early as possible. Ought these things to be among those who profess to be guided by him who has said, "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them, for this is the law and the prophets."

W. H.

Report.

Brethren in Christ;

I left home December 2nd for Vineland, Mo. While at that place I gave them six discourses, and left them with good interest and a promise to see them again in the spring. From there I went to Morse Mills in company with Brother John Williams. We began our meetings on Saturday evening before the 2nd Sunday and continued over the 3rd Sunday. We began with a small congregation and closed with a large one and also with good interest. Preached sixteen discourses, and left with a promise to be with them about the 1st of May, 1900 if it is God's will. Here I worked in earnest. I secured five new subscribers for THE RESTITUTION, at this place and one at Bosworth, Mo. I said in my former article that I would do more for God's cause in 1900 than I did in 1899, so while the old year was dying I began to secure some crumbs of God's truth for the dear sisters and the dear little children to read and to eat while our brethren are feeding on husks that fall from Uncle Sam's table. Come back brethren. Let the swine-feeders use their husks, and let us work for the Master. If we cannot go ourselves, help to send others into the vineyard.

To say that this was a good meeting would hardly express the thought. No one was added to the church but the prospect is good.

From here we went to Bosworth, Mo., on Saturday before the 4th Sunday. The congregations were small at first but were larger when we closed on Wednesday night. It was voted that I should return again and on Thursday before the 2nd Sunday in April, 1900, we will try to meet with them again, and at this time we expect to remain in Mo., two or three months and evangelize. Brethren take notice of this and any one wanting my labors on, or near my route let me know and I will see what I can do for you. We are to pray for one another but still prayers do not clothe and feed our families, neither will it pay railroad fare. So you see it needs the aid of every member of the body to help on the cause. We are willing to follow our Captain who was made perfect through suffering. He says "He was dead but now he is alive forevermore." Brethren, let us follow Jesus, even unto death, if it need be, so that we may obtain the crown. At all these places the brethren remembered my wants. I am more determined today, than I ever have been to continue faithful, and to try to set a good example before the world. We must remember that it is by our fruits that we are to be known. The church is the light of the world and the salt of the earth, and also, the paper that we write on is very gentle, and that we can write on it just what we please, and after we have written we may not do what we said we would do. Then we deceive ourselves and others, but God we cannot deceive. Dear ones, if we say and do not, the world will say we are hypocrites, and we do more harm than good. "Let us hold fast our profession without wavering: for he is faithful that promised. And let us consider one another, to provoke unto love and good works. Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another, and so much the more as ye see the day approaching."

Since August 16, 1899, I have travelled 2400 miles, preached 42 sermons, immersed 7. Have taken six subscriptions for the paper, and I feel that I have done no more than my duty. Let us all live nearer our Lord than ever before, is my prayer.

JOHN FOORE.

"If but thou deest well
In service of thy Master—Lord—
No that thy deeds shall tell
Of loved obedience to his Word,
Then shall thy Master's life
In that of thine reflected be,
And the world's scorn and strife,
As felt by him, be felt by thee.
Be not dismayed; thy triumph waits,
As did thy Master's victory;
He lives for evermore, and death's proud gates
At his command shall not prevail o'er thee;
He comes again, in all his glory crowned;
Thou shalt be like him, and in him be found.
The time draws near; we wait the trumpet's sound.

OBITUARY.

Died at the home of his son Alvin, on Dec. 18, Samuel Engleburger; age 70 years, 7 months and 12 days. The remains were interred in the cemetery at Oronoque. He leaves five sons to mourn his death. The funeral services were conducted by J. T. Prime of Edison, Nebraska.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalisation of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JAN'Y 10, 1900.

To Our Subscribers.

Very many of our patrons well know their time expires with Dec. 31, 1899. A goodly number know equally well that they are behind in their payments varying from a month to some years. Any one can ascertain by examining their label just how they stand. The month is given and then a figure to indicate the year. Some object to us putting notice in the paper to try and induce payment to be made, and we do not like it at all—would rather not do so. Now, friends, do not make it necessary for us to ask for this once more, but send your money now, even before the time is out, so as to have it here by the first of January. We must have your aid or we shall be sorely crippled in getting out our paper. Please do not lay this aside till you have complied with our request.

BROTHER F. L. AUSTIN announces to begin meetings at Argos this week. Let all who can take notice and attend.

IT IS a very poor record when night comes if we have been spending every hour of the day with our thoughts bent wholly upon our own pleasure or profit. If this is a sad way to spend one day, how much worse is it when we spend a week, a month, a year selfishly bent upon our own affairs?

"WHAT is success? It is not to be determined by any commercial standard. Success is not to be measured in terms of wealth, or fame or social position. What then, is success? It is the realization of a divinely appointed destiny. Full-orbed manhood, which is obtainable by striving lawfully, and which receives its ultimate coronation, is held before us an ideal to which we are to attain."

"A TIMID, nervous nature is a constant incitement to the cultivation of trust," says an unknown writer; and adds as if speaking from experience:—"The uneasy feeling of apprehension finds relief in prayer—prayer in all circumstances, in company or out of it, at labor or away from it, going to work, or coming back from it—prayer, silent and unknown to all but God. This is true prayer, and true prayer is trust."

IT is said that Pope Leo XIII. has taken part in his last public function, and his physician has ordered absolute quiet. He will be 90 years old in March, and has been pope for 22 years. Naturally a good deal of attention is given to who will be his successor. He is chosen by the College of Cardinals and it takes a two-thirds vote of the 61 members of that body for a choice. At no time was this College so preponderatingly Latin as now, for of the 61 there are 49 of the Latin speaking races. There are 35 Italian, 7 French, 1, French-Belgian, 5 Spanish and 1 Portuguese. The main question in the selection of the next pope is, Will he be a "Politician" or a "Saint?" We predict that he will be politician.

THE New York Independent's annual summary of the growth of churches shows up very poorly for the class who look for the conversion of the world. The most important denominations report gains in the number of church buildings and ministers, while deficient in "the most important item of all—increase of communicants." Larger sums of money are given and the work is increased in proportion, but the extra efforts fail to gain any added numbers in the real membership. The ministers have so debauched their office, by the fad of giving popular "lectures" on various catchy subjects, and have for several years spoken so loudly for "Universal Brotherhood" and said in effect that "one belief is as good as another, if only a man be sincere," that all too late they realize that the "pew" has taken them at their word, and while paying in money and attending the showy services, are content to remain so, and cannot be made to see that any other step is necessary. Blind leaders of the blind, they have failed to understand that it does make all the difference in the world what a man believes and what he does.

JOHN ALEXANDER DOWIE has secured possession of a large tract of land near Waukegan, a suburb of Chicago, and intends building the "City of Zion" there. An immense tabernacle modeled after the present Mosque of Omar is to be built, together with factories, houses, temples and various institutions. The plan is a gigantic one, and will call for several million of dollars from the "faithful." It is to be a veritable "Golden City." The land was bought by secret agents and then turned over to Dowie.

God is Love.

Here we have such an attractive and finished portrait of the Great God, with one stroke of the pen, such as philosophy never furnished after ages of laborious research. It eclipses every conception of the Supreme Being found in the writings of ancient poets, philosophers, statesmen and historians. God is love. How simple, yet sublime; so self-evident as to require no argumentation; transparent without analysis, beautiful without embellishment, pure without taint, perfect without a defect, fixed without the least tendency to change. It is a description of God by his own inspiration. How admirably adapted to arrest attention, generate affection, kindle admiration and afford consolation! We approach with trembling lest we darken counsel by unmeaning words, and weaken the impression its announcement may have made. Yet it is written for our edification and comfort, and so we take the shoes from our feet, and draw near to see this great sight.

GOD IS LOVE.

God—the very name is music in our ears. It cheers the heart, expands the vision, and gives a loftier note to our loftiest song. It means good. God and good are convertible terms. When our Saxon ancestors thought or spoke of God, they meant the good Being, who devises and promotes happiness, and all blessedness.

GOD IS.

He exists. There is such a Being. The inspired penman opens his book with the magnificent language, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." His existence forms the broad, firm, immovable basis on which our hope of immortality rests. If there is no God, the pictured firmament is rottenness, and earth's base built on stubble. If there be no God there can be no religion; no system is binding; every person is at liberty to think, speak, and do as seems good in his own eyes. There can be no agreement in faith, morals, or worship, if there be no Supreme Being to whom we may appeal as the authority. We cannot by searching

FIND OUT THE ALMIGHTY.

He can be only known by us as he is pleased to reveal himself. He can only be seen in his own light; but he left not himself without witness. He came forth from the thick darkness and made known to the creature his Creator.

If God is, he must be our moral Governor, the Being with whom we have to do, and to whose scrutinizing eye all our thoughts, words, and actions are exposed—to whom we must give an account, and by whom our characters will be dissected. To know his character is a matter of supreme importance—whether he be good or evil, benevolent or malevolent. "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God." Would-be-philosophers there are who profess to believe but their God is not our God. They deny his providence,—shut him out of his own world,—impugn the wisdom with which he governs it,—snatch from his hand the balance and the rod, rejudge his justice and thus assume to be the God of God. Professing themselves to be wise they become fools. If they speak not according to this Word it is because there is no light in them. Our text tells us, not only that God is, but what he is!

THERE IS A GOD,

(To be continued.)

"Facts and Fiction."

A writer in the Western Mail asked the question—"Where is Paradise?" He stated that Divines were mistaken in thinking Paradise was heaven. And then at considerable length went on to argue that probably it existed in the hades of the Greeks, and wound up by asking—"Was Paradise a prison?" The place to which Christ is said to have gone and preached unto spirits in prison. The said writer, "Mavicus," is a voluminous writer who bases his theories upon Welsh fiction rather than upon historical facts.

"We ventured to point out that the Paradise of Scripture was not the orthodox heaven, the Greek hades, or Welsh paganism. To this we got but a scarce answer, viz., that we did not know. At some trouble we have been turning up these ancient myths, the result being to establish the Truth, as revealed in the Scriptures of Truth more firmly than ever in our mind. The one thing more than the other that forcibly struck us in the corresponding links existing between Greek mythology and pulpit theology."

Mythology asserts that the soul is immortal, and so does pulpit theology. The one rewards and punishes at death, and so does the other. The one is an immortal being of evil, so is the other; the one is the crossing of a dark river at death, and so is the other.

Those who have read Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress will remember how the pilgrim descends air to the cold dark river of death, and those who have read the pagan myth will remember how the soul has to cross the dark river "Styx," ferried over by the demon boatman "Charon," where sits the judge on the other side. If condemned the soul passes on to the left, or is hurled into Tartarus; if approved it is sent to the right, into the Elysian fields of pleasure and enjoyment.

Paganism has its priests and dispensers of religious rites and ceremonies, even so has the modern system, headed up by the Church of Rome.

The pagan priest dispensed the holy water, as does the modern Roman priest, followed up by most of the other denominations, who set aside God's ordinance of immersion into Christ, by sprinkling a few drops of water over the face of an irresponsible infant. What in the sight of God is the difference between the act of the pagan priest and the so-called Christian minister who performs an unauthorized and meaningless ceremony? If there be any difference we think the modern actor is most to blame, because that act is condemned by the book he professes to be governed by. The Elysian fields of the ancients for departed souls are the fictions of the orthodox heaven for departed souls.

The Tartarus of the ancients is the same in substance as the Hell of modern orthodoxy. Pluto the devil-god reigns supreme in the one, and the devil of modern theology reigns supreme in the other.

The evil spirits in the land of Hades were the ghosts of the ancients,—even so are the ghosts of the moderns. The connecting links in each case are inseparable, and reveal the one source from which they sprang. Many other evidences of a similar character might be stated.

A clergyman once said to us, "I cannot believe the soul is not immortal." "No," said we, "You have not examined the evidence, and therefore you cannot believe it." Such would be a blind faith, not acceptable to God. "God is a rewarder of those who diligently seek him."

The faith that hangs on fables, like the apples of Sodom, will perished when handled. Where are today the gods and myths of the ancients? And where will the fables of modern theology be fifty years hence? Having sown to the wind they will reap the whirlwind; and if the dead could speak they would declare with one voice the abrogation of theories once taught them.

The darkness of the tomb shall extinguish for ever every torch of man's kindling, and blot out his traditions, and prove how vain the hopes on which he prided himself.

God by Christ shall wipe from the earth the rebuke of those who hold the Truth in purity and righteousness, and the Gentiles shall come unto him from the ends of the earth, and shall say, surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things wherein is no profit." Jer. xvi. 19.

Let us all ascertain whether we are building on fact or fiction, truth or lies, rock or sand. The hour is coming that shall try every man's work. The index finger points the hour upon us when the Judge shall surely appear. Present events of the most startling character indicate the coming storm. Who shall abide the day of his coming? Who shall stand before him whose "eyes are as a flame of fire?" Rev. i. 14. What hidden recesses of the heart shall resist his scrutiny, or hide away from the searchlight of his piercing gaze?"

Jesus Christ.

Professor Gaikie says, "Of all the race he is The Man. Of all the race there is none to be so gazed on and persistently studied. We ponder the thoughts of others; we smile at their weaknesses; we allow for their prejudices; we condemn their errors. His judgments are ever accurate; his morals are ever perfect; his emotions are ever pure. No personal ambition, or hatred, or love, or interest sways him at any time. He thinks as before God; he denounces as before God; he rejoices as before God; he weeps as before God. All he does is right. By him alone was the precept ever fulfilled:—"Whether ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Passing Events.

The South African War is not yet ended. Several battles of minor importance have been fought the past week, with varying success. Neither side has so far gained any perceptable advantage. The British are playing for time, not being ready to strike a decisive blow. Meanwhile the Delagoa Bay matters are taxing the diplomats for settlement. The ship that had a consignment of American flour has been released after the flour was unloaded. Most likely England will have to pay roundly for the flour, unless direct proof of its intended destination can be found. Regarding the seizure of German vessels the German press has been very indignant and dire threats of revenge were made, but all at once a change comes over them, and now the leading journals admit that no law has been violated, and England has only done what Germany would have deemed proper in her place. Evidently the people have been seen by the authorities, and told to keep still. A vessel attempting to load war materials at Naples was warned not to take them as they would not be allowed to unload at Delagoa Bay points, and so wisely declined to receive the goods.

The French have won a point in North Africa, having defeated a large body of natives, and have occupied Insalah, which is the principal point on the route between Morocco to the Tripolitaine region, and is of the utmost importance. This places France in a better position to push her demands for settlement of Coast Treaty with England, and considering English entanglements elsewhere it is likely the French will ask enough this time to compensate her for the Fashoda incident.

A semi-official explanation of the stories that Russia is massing troops on the Afghan frontier comes to London from St. Petersburgh to the effect that they were merely to test the capacity of the central Asian railroads to transport troops. The experiment, it is added, is regarded as highly successful, as it proves that in case of necessity troops from the Caucasus can reach Kushka in eight days.

The above explanation is hardly regarded as entirely satisfactory, but official circles discredit the idea that Russia's present movements in any way threaten Afghanistan or India.

The Berlin Post sees dark clouds arising on the political horizon of Great Britain which threaten greater dangers than all the mishaps of South Africa. It says:

"Russia seems to view the situation still undecidedly, but the foreign policy of Russia always follows in the footsteps of public opinion. The day will come when England will in vain look for a friend on the continent, and will rue its present conduct toward Germany."

The London Spectator today publishes an article entitled, "Germany and the Monroe Doctrine," in which it says:

"America and not England is the rival in German opinion. It is with America and not England that Germany realizes she must struggle for supremacy. We do not say for a moment that Germany regards America as an enemy, but Germany realizes it is America that at the moment lies across Germany's path, and that unless she is able to reckon with America on equal terms she will not become the world power of the future she desires to be."

The Spectator then goes on to declare that Germany's objective is South America, but that the Monroe doctrine bars her way. How to get around this is puzzling, but, the paper declares, Emperor William counts upon the German vote in the United States to help when his new navy is ready to carry out his South American expansion idea, especially in Brazil.

The Spectator then warns the United States that if it intends to uphold the Monroe doctrine in the future it must not go to sleep over it now, but prepare to support a navy and army equal to the strain of maintaining a policy so tremendous. If not, she is certain to suffer great humiliation at the hands of "patient, efficient and persistent Germany," adding:

"When the hour comes Germany won't be bluffed into respect for Monroeism. She will call the American fleet, and if the fleet is no higher than hers Germany will act."

Communicated.

A Word of Greeting.

To the preaching brethren of the one faith:

At the beginning of the new century and new year, it is well for us all to stand still, and looking back upon the few past years consider if the work done, the good accomplished, the seeming results have been all we might wish, or might have accomplished; if not, what is the matter; are we to blame, perhaps for lack of judgment we have made many failures, it could hardly be for love of money, for none of us receive enough to make us vain! As we turn the retrospective eye, we think we can solve much of the problem. With Bro. J. F. Wagoner we can say: "The highways and hedges" have been neglected too much, and we have been trying to prop up the old established churches, who ought to be able to sustain themselves, and help mightily in teaching others the way of life. We can say heartily say amen and amen to Bro. Hudler's article in RESTITUTION of Jan. 3, every word of it is good, and I have been much distressed over the thought (for it had already come to me) that Bro. Hudler was so poorly sustained he feared he would have to leave the field, I am so glad he has renewed his vow to suffer with Christ, "who was once rich but for our sakes become poor." O brethren everywhere, what are you all doing; are we all doing all our known duty? Do we remember we are living in the last days? What if we do not have the latest of furniture of house or dress or hat or bonnet. What if when our sons and daughters are married we should give them a little less and our Christ a little more. See the need of money with our publisher of RESTITUTION, trying to do his part to give the gospel to the world, but how poorly supported, even many who are feeding on the blessed words, week by week, still neglecting to forward the pay as the years go by. How can people be so slack concerning spiritual things, when they are looking for and hoping to see their soon coming Lord and life-giver. Yes, there the words are, Bro. Hudler and all the dear precious ones, "Gather my saints unto me, those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice." O God help us to learn the meaning of that word "sacrifice;" few have ever known its meaning when it comes to sacrificing for Christ; a few have we known, some of them well, God knows all of them better. Brethren, shall we all, priest and people, leave the bickerings, all things that impede the progress of God's truth and put our whole effort for one year into preaching the gospel to them that know it not? Forty years or more have been spent arguing, discussing or printing arguments that only gender to strife. The Sonship, universal salvation and other questions that never converted a soul to the gospel and never will, and we have yet to see the church that has been built up spiritually by these things. We are thankful the publisher of THE RESTITUTION has the good sense and back bone to keep much hurtful controversy out of the paper, by doing so it gives us a paper we can safely place in the hands of new converts and feel they will be benefitted by reading. God help us. The time to work is short.

B. W. & M. A. WOODWARD.

The Apostles' Creed as it Was.

Our faith is in God, the Father, the All-Controller, and in Jesous Christ his Son, who was spiritually begotten by God, the Father and born (brought forth) of the Virgin Mary; and who during his natural life of 33 years fulfilled his testimony and ministration with which he had been entrusted by the Father even unto death, and that too the death of a cross, thus becoming the faithful witness; that he was falsely accused, illegally tried, condemned and crucified; and the same day was dead and buried; and that his flesh did not know corruption, nor was there a bone of his body broken; and that on the third day after his burial very early in the morning, God awakened him from death and raised him from among the dead unto complete sonship and organic eternal life, a first-fruits of those who had already died in Christ; and that thereafter during the forty days before his taking up, he went as he was in spirit and heralded the gospel, the same gospel he had already heralded to mankind, to the spirits in prison, namely the disobedient angels (not dead men) who are to be judged by Christ and the glorified saints; and that he appeared at intervals of eight days, during the forty days before his taking up, unto many of his disciples.

And having been taken up into heaven he is represented to be seated at the right hand of God the Father and ever liveth and is ever ready to intercede for repentant sinners; and where he has gone to receive a kingdom, for the coming of which he has taught us to pray, and whence he will come in due time, known only to the Father, to assert this kingdom here upon the earth in the midst of resurrected and glorified saints, who will rule here along with him, subject to the universal rule of God the Father: and this kingdom will be a reign of righteousness and ultimate peace and blessedness forever: and that when he has fully asserted this kingdom and abrogated sin and death, he will surrender the kingdom to God the Father, that God may be all in all.

This is our faith. Amen. Our faith "once for all delivered to the saints" includes a great deal more than herein stated; but these are a few of the important points in which we have been misrepresented by the apostasy which we predicted.

CHARLES GARDNER.

Report.

Upon invitation from Brother G. A. Maxey, of Burr Oak, Ind. I began meetings at that place on Jan. 5 and held over Sunday. An excellent interest prevailed. Five were baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus. Meetings were announced to be held in the school-house, but upon cordial invitation they were changed to the church of the United Brethren.

The few of the Faith at Burr Oak are making efforts to erect a building this same coming summer. It is to be hoped that they will receive such encouragement from one and all as will enable them to succeed. Let us be workers together.

F. L. AUSTIN.

Married.

At Spokane, Wash., Jan. 2, 1900, Mr. J. H. Willey, of Monon, Ind. and Miss Phebe C. Thompson, of Plymouth, Ind.

Brother Willey is well known to most of our readers, being at the present time one of the Board of Directors of the Christian Publishing Association. Sister Thompson is the eldest daughter of Brother W. D. Thompson of this city, and has been for a number of years engaged as teacher in the City High School. Brother Willey is at present traveling for a mercantile house, and in a few days they will sail for Sidney, Australia, in the interest of his firm. We wish them success in business and unalloyed happiness in their new relationship, trusting that they may return to us again ere many years.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs E C Gilbert,	1.50
Wm G Rothe,	2.00
Abbie A Howard,	.50
Selia Anderson,	3.50

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

Poetry.

An Open Secret.

What is it that gives to the plainest face
The charm of sweetest beauty?
Not the thought of the duty of happiness,
But the happiness of duty.

This is life's lesson, children dear;
They are blest who learn it early,
For it brightens the darkest day with cheer,
Though fortune's face be surly.

There's a certain narrow, quiet path
Of daily thinking and living,
Of little deeds of sacrifice,
Of loving and forgiving—

Of patience and obedience,
Of gentle speech and action,
Of choosing the right and leaving the wrong,
With a sunny satisfaction.

And if we never leave this path
For the thing the world calls pleasure,
There will come to meet us a heavenly joy
Beyond all power to measure.

For on this narrow, quiet way
God's angels move forever,
Waiting to crown with peace divine,
Our every high endeavor.

Yes, this is what sheds on the lowliest life,
The glory of the sweetest beauty:
Not the thought of the duty of happiness,
But the happiness of duty.

Communicated.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

I would join with the brethren in greeting to all the servants of the Deity, who are waiting for his Son from heaven, and are praying for the time to come, when the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ. Those who are patiently waiting for the coming of him who by his Word stilled the tempest of the sea, shall speak peace to the nations, so that they shall learn war no more. Be strong and of good courage in the Lord who is ever faithful to deliver those who trust in him. The coming of him in whom it is written, "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged till he hath set judgment and justice in the earth," is the one event of all to be desired.

GEO. FRANCIS.

Editor Restitution:

You can say to the brethren that I am still striving to live so as to be ready when the Lord comes to make up his jewels. I ask an interest in all your prayers that I may hold out faithful. A Merry Christmas to all.

GEO. W. HAYNES.

Dear Restitution:

I love your weekly visits very much, and would feel very lonesome without it, as we have moved fourteen miles from the Brush Creek church to which I belong. The people here were all strangers to our faith until Brother F. L. Austin came on Dec. 9, 1899, and held a series of meetings in our School-house, three miles southeast of Piqua, Ohio, that continued for thirteen evenings which has already been announced in our paper.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, I cannot express the joy it gave me to see our neighbors attend so regularly and listen so eagerly as our Brother delivered the words unto them with such earnestness, concerning Christ's return to the earth to set up his kingdom. They loved to hear him and said that the meeting did not last long enough. Some did not miss a service except on one stormy evening when they thought there would be no service.

The neighbors were very sociable and invited our Brother to their homes. They, as well as ourselves are looking, anxiously looking forward to the time when he will return. None obeyed but they are searching the Scriptures to see if these things be true.

I intend to send the paper to four of our neighbors for one year, and they promised me they would read it and hand it to others. I give our paper to one of our neighbors when we get through with it.

Dear brothers and sisters, as the New Year is at hand let us one and all try and see if we can make some improvement over the past one. The time is short. Our Lord will soon come to set up his kingdom. We must get to work in earnest. There are many ways in which we may do some good. If we cannot talk in public we can send the paper to some one or get some tracts and hand them out. Sometimes a small spark creates a great flame. We may think that what we can do is so small that it is not worth anything; but we are wrong. We may not see the good effect all at once, but we will by and by. Faith without works is dead, being alone. We can see there is a work for each one of us to do, in order to have a part in our Father's kingdom.

Dear brothers and sisters, may we all so live that when our Lord and Master comes that we may be gathered together one unbroken band, is my prayer.

Your Sister, waiting for the soon coming King.

MRS. W. H. EIDMILLER.

Editor Restitution:

Please send through your paper to Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Reed; Chas. Gardner; Merton Case and all my old Chicago friends a New Year Greeting. I wish they would kindly drop a reply to this greeting through this paper. How I would rejoice to see you all! I fondly remember you as we used to meet at Gleason's Academy in Chicago years ago. I hope to visit the city soon and may call on several of my dear brethren.

J. S. MILLER

Dear Household of Faith:

It is time for another Love Feast and we will try to add a few words for our Blessed Savior, who gave his life that we might have life. Surely the time is near at hand when he who is to come will come and awake the sleeping saints of all ages. How thankful we ought to be for the blessed gospel of truth which will guide us to eternal life. If we but follow its teachings. Are we living as Paul says, "An example of the believers in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity? May our faith grow stronger and our lives be in accordance with the example set before us.

MINNIE L. CHAPLIN.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Once more we have the chance of sending our love to one another through the paper, wishing you all a happy New Year, and hoping that we may, if permitted to live another year that we may spend it to better advantage than the past. It has been a long time since I started in this cause, but I am not ready to give it up yet. It is the only thing that can save. Let the world scoff if they will, but let us hold fast the faith and earnestly contend for the same by an orderly walk and a Godly conversation, hoping that we may all be ready when the Master comes. 36 years ago last Saturday I baptized Brother and Sister Garrett Terhune, of Indiana. If Sister Terhune sees this I wish she would write me at Chana, Ill.

Your brother in Christ.

J. W. BOOTH.

Editor Restitution:

The anniversary of the birth of our dear Redeemer has arrived. Glorious and welcome day! "And the angel of the Lord and the Heavenly Host exclaimed, Glory to God in the Highest, Peace on earth and good will toward men." Now I ask the question, Is that the spirit and disposition of the present time? No; by no means. It is the very reverse. "Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles. Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, and let all the men of war draw near. Let them come up." Read the connection Joel iii. 10-15. That great time of trouble spoken of by Daniel will soon fall upon all the wicked nations of the earth without any exception, and the Lord will be the only hope of his people. In conclusion let me repeat the instruction of the Spirit's teaching, "Come out, and be ye separate, and I will receive you, saith the Lord," and by so doing show to the world that we are that peculiar people he would have us be, and would assure our own hearts before him. Love to all.

H. B. FOWLER.

Dear Restitution:

It has been a little over a year since I lost my dear, loving companion, hard to part with indeed, even though it be but a short time till God will wipe away all tears from our eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain. This may have caused chastening trials to come upon me, and the Word of God teaches how to overcome them, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne." Rev. iii. 21. Oh, what joy it will be to meet our loved ones and those that love the Lord's appearing.

Yours in hope of life when Jesus comes.

L. J. SWIGET.

Dear Restitution:

It is with pleasure that I participate in the Love Feast, and add a few lines in praise to the Creator of all things; for in the words of the Psalmist, "His mercy endureth forever." Taking for a criterion the words of Christ and the apostles, I believe the coming of the Lord is nigh, even at the door. To the household of faith, we who have believed his gospel and been immersed in water for the remission of sins, the coming of Christ forms the greatest hope of our lives. Oh, what a blessed hope, to become partakers of the Divine nature, share the society of Jesus, and the redeemed of every age and clime, free from sickness, pain and death. Is it not worth striving for? To inherit the new earth restored to its former edenic beauty, where there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, is the desire of those who are looking for God's Son from heaven, to establish here his eternal kingdom, which shall have no end. "Blessed are they who do his commandments, that they may have a right to the tree of life and may enter through the gates into the city." "Which shall have no need of the sun nor of the moon; for the glory of God and the Lamb shall be the light of it," and where we can walk the streets of gold forevermore.

JNO. A. DICKINSON.

The Little Horn.

I believe the little horn seen in Dan. vii. and viii. to be one person. I have come to this belief for the following among other reasons. 1. The visions of the 7th and 8th chapters in their main features are parallel. No one doubts the identity of the bear and the ram, or the leopard with 4 heads and the goat with 4 horns. The 4th beast being largely described in the 7th, is not mentioned by name in the 8th, but appears in its second interpretation as "the people of the princes" who "destroy the city." ix. 26; Deut. xxviii. 42-50, and he comes out full in Rev. xii., xvii. and xix., where he reappears from the sea now with ten horns, for like the goat's horn xi. 10, and the image xi. 35, this beast has a "latter time" at the time of the end. Dan. xi. 35; viii. 23; Rev. xvii. 8, R. V. While Persia and Greece are represented by different beasts, the little horn power is revealed by the same name in both visions. Why is the little horn in 8th given the same name as the little horn in the 7th? Evidently because it is the same person. Why these cautions to "understand the matter?" Dan. viii. 17; ix. 23; x. 14; xi. 3; xii. 4; Matt. xxiv. 15. Because the "time was long" to the fulfillment and the danger of misunderstanding, and the temptation to apply these prophecies to this or that power would be great.

2. Similar explanations: a, In vii. 8, we are told among whom the little horn appears, in viii. 9, from whence he comes. b, vii. 8, tells of his three conquests, viii. 9, gives locality. c, vii. 25, speaks great words against the most high: this is given more fully in viii. 25, xi. 36-39. d, vii. 21, "made war with the saints and prevailed against them," vii. 10, "cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground and stamped upon them." e, vii. 25, "shall think to change times and the law," (R. V.) viii., "by him the duality was taken away." f, vii. 25, "given into his hand;" viii. 12, "the host was given over together with the continual burnt offering." xi. 31. g, vii. 25. "Until a time times and half a time;" xii. 7, "for a time times and a half." h, vii. 11, "beast was slain—given to the burning plain;" viii. 25, "broken without hand." Dan. xi. 34-35; 2 Thess. xi. 8; Rev. xix. 20.

3. In both visions the little horn's career is near or in the time of the end, vii. 11, viii. 25; xi. 40-45; xii. 9, and his limit of time is the same—3½ years, vii. 25, xii. 7,11, Rev. xi. 2, xiii. 5. Can two such awful powers co-exist and do the same acts to the same people at the same time and place?

4th, In 2 Thess. xi. 4, Paul quotes the man of sin's character from Dan. viii. 25, xi. 31-39, and his end from Dan. vii.

5. John also quotes the character of his beast. Rev. xiii. 5-17, from Dan. vii. 24-25, xi. 31-38, and his end, Rev. xix. 20, from Dan. vii. 11, showing that both Paul and John regarded the "two little horns" as one. The main purpose of the vision of the 8th seems to more fully reveal the little horn in his dealings with the evening and morning sacrifice, the sanctuary and the host, the ram and goat form a brief introduction to the scene. The first interpretation of this vision begins with the important admonition, "Understand O Son of Man, for the vision belongeth to the time of the end." viii. 17. "Behold, I will make thee to know what shall be in the latter time of the indignation, for it belongeth to the time of the end." viii. 19, R. V. The purpose of the third interpretation is thus stated, "Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befall thy people in the latter days." x. 14, xii. 9. These three statements of the time of the vision were doubtless designed to aid the reader to "understand the matter," and escape the many false applications which have disappointed, confused and discouraged so many, and brought the study of prophecy into disrepute.

A. S. CLOUGH.

Park Hill Pulpit Echoes.—No. 1.

THE HYGIENE OF THE BIBLE.

"Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" Jer. viii 22.

By Hygiene is meant that system of laws of life by which health is preserved.

To be healthy one must live in harmony with the laws of his being.

The length of life depends upon being able to overcome those environments which encroach upon the conditions of existence.

The Bible contains many excellent hints for the preservation of health and also rules of longevity.

He who follows these suggestions will not only live long but his life will be a pleasant one—free from aches and pains and full of enjoyment.

The person who is born right has the advantage in life over others. Every child has the right to be well born. He who was born a cripple cannot expect to excel in the chase, the foot-race—or the game of ball. He that was born deformed in the head can never expect to master philosophy, mathematics, logic and oratory. He who comes into this life with a moral deformity transmitted through parent to child can never tell the difference between honesty and self-interest.

The differences and deficiencies of mental and physical makeup, depend upon the parents and the pre-natal influences and conditions. The Bible clearly points out the law of heredity and the parental responsibility. In Ex. xx. 5, we read "The iniquity of the father is visited upon the children to the third and fourth generation." But so good is God that while iniquity may descend to the fourth generation righteousness by the law of superiority descends through thousands of generations in those who love God and keep his commandments. Godliness tells through a long line of ancestors, while devilishness quickly descends into the tomb of oblivion.

A trait of character for good, will manifest itself through father to son for many generations. It is so in many generations. It is so in physical traits in the eyes, the hair, the form, the walk.

Paul says, to Timothy "I thank God FROM my FOREFATHERS with a pure conscience." If there was anything of which Paul could be proud it was that he was well-born, that his conscience was well cultivated both in his father and grandfather, and transmitted to him pure as the white snow, sensitive as the magnetic needle, and able to weigh the delicate distinctions of right and wrong. Again he writes to Timothy thus—"The faith that is in thee dwelt in thy grandmother Lois and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded is in thee also." The "faith" here spoken of is that trusting, hopeful disposition, that confiding abiding reliance upon God and man that we see so often manifested in women—and as the boy is like his mother, Timothy was trusting and tender, and the gospel found a rich soil in him for its development into perfect fruit.

So we see, God has not left us without a knowledge of heredity and rules to guide us in health.

To be born well is the first condition of health. Sin against the law of our being is the cause of all sickness. Sin is as a tree which bears a terrible fruitage and in no place does it exhibit its fearful effects more than upon the constitution of the child.

I cannot emphasize this thought too much or make it too plain. To study carefully the law of heredity is the first duty of the parent.

The breeder of fine stock or poultry applies this principle to his business and so certain is he of the operations of these laws of heredity that he stakes his fortune upon results, yet that same man who is so careful of his horses and pigs enters into the matrimonial state under the same laws with as little judgment and forethought as the most ignorant city dude. Schooled all his life from boyhood up to observe the laws of heredity in careful selection, careful training, nice points of physical development, attractiveness in disposition, the gait, the action and all that makes his stock so perfect and attractive and yet when he comes to personal selection and matrimony he acts as though his own children were of less importance than the hogs in his barnyard.

As the successful issue in a race depends as much upon the start as upon any subsequent act so to a character and a successful life depends upon the start—being well born. The Bible, all along the ages has emphasized this thought and so far reaching is the law of heredity, that perfect health cannot be attained by one born under conditions of disease, or of moral conditions which result in sin and consequently in disease.

Wedlock is too often a Pad-lock where love never existed and where when the gilded glitter of the marriage ceremony and wedding are over the parties awake to the fact that the dumb ox has been mated to the stubborn mule, but the law of heredity operates just the same and the pre-existing conditions are faithfully reproduced in the off-spring and the result is a kind of hybrid with more firmness than good sense,—a poor start in this world of vexations and contrary conditions.

A. J. EYCHANER.

(To Be Continued.)

The Two Ways.

The narrow way and the broad way which lead to entirely different destinations, said Jesus, whose word is authoritative, because he spake the words of the Father who sent him into the world and whose will he came to do, "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leads to life and few there be that find it, because broad is the way and wide is the gate that leads to destruction and many go in thereat." Again, he said, "Strive to enter at the straight gate, for, many will seek to enter in and shall not be able, when once the Master of the house is risen up and hath shut the the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are." "Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity." On the other hand those who enter in at the straight gate will sit down with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of God and be associated with Jesus and all the redeemed forever and ever.

May this be our blessed privilege is my prayer.

P. H. BOCK.

Selected.

A Scotch View.

Brother J. Cameron sends us some extracts from the Evening News of Edinburgh, Scotland, showing the opinion the editor has of the war now in progress in South Africa. He says:

A week ago we endeavored to show the essential relationship of Christianity to war. The very genius of Christianity, according to our view, is opposed to wars and fightings, which, according to the Apostle James, spring from the spirit of domination so dear to the unregenerate heart of humanity. But the founder of Christianity did something more than introduce into the world the gospel of peace and brotherhood. He illustrated the beauty of his gospel by a life of entire harmony with its precepts. Let us examine this point for the benefit of those Jingo clergy who think they are doing God's service by stirring the brutal passions of humanity, while in reality they are offering incense to the Devil, and feeding upon the good things in the shape of popular applause which he reserves for his elect. We read that in pursuance of his plan of campaign to convert the world, or, in the words of the clergy, to bring civilizing influences to bear on the dark places of the earth, Christ determined to visit a Samaritan village. As became one of such exalted rank, Christ sent messengers to prepare the villages for his reception. The Samaritans would not receive him, whereupon the disciples, stung to the quick, said: "Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?" Christ "turned and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of. For the Son of Man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them." What would the fire eating Free Church minister of Hawick, the Rev. Mr. Johnman, say about the incident? From a sermon preached by him on a recent Sunday evening it is plain that Mr. Johnman would have told Christ that he was a dreamer who had lost all touch with the realities of life. The Founder of Christianity, in the words endorsed by Mr. Johnman, would have been told that "civilization advances upon the powder cart," that the Samaritans were a poor lot, and should be wiped out. Mr. Johnman would further have advised Christ to read the account of Old Testament wars, where he would find the sword mentioned 371 times. We can imagine Mr. Johnman applauding the disciples, and telling them that no self-respecting body of Christians could sit down under the insult offered by these miserable Samaritans. Christ would be told there were worse things than war and that, besides, the calling down of fire from heaven would have a salutary effect upon the enemies of Christianity, inasmuch as it would mightily increase the prestige of the disciples. How disgusted must the Hawick pulpit braggart and bellower have been with the Founder of Christianity and his peace-at-any-price gospel. We come next to another incident where the Jingoism of the disciples came into conflict with the pacific policy of the Master. When the officers came to arrest Christ, Peter drew his sword and cut off the ear of the high priest's servant. What said the Master to that military display? His words are: "Put up thy sword into the sheath: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Now it is open for a man of the world who has never received the baptism of the Spirit to ridicule the peace doctrines of Jesus Christ. It is open for such a one to decare that the gospel of love, of self-sacrifice, is totally unsuited to man in his present stage of development. But it is not open to a minister of the gospel to take up such a line. A clergyman who justifies war, and views it as a part of the divine constitution of the universe, is a traitor to religion—a contemptible creature who, while professing loyalty to the Founder of Christianity deliberately stabs him under the fifth rib.

"On the tracks of all evil deeds there follow avenging hell-hounds from which there is no escape." So says an old Greek poet, and the thought, though differently expressed, is the same as that uttered by the Apostle Paul about the harvest of retribution which inevitably follows a springtime of evil. What are the disasters in South Africa but the natural Heaven-ordained punishment for a high-handed policy of injustice? Where the old theologians saw in national disasters the supernatural expression of divine wrath, the evolutionist sees the natural retribution which follows proud, high-handed defiance of the laws of the universe. Men and nations, when they become proud and defiant, become careless and reckless. Swollen with a sense of their invincibility, they believe they can rule the earth with a rod of iron. Napoleon played that role till he wearied humanity, which turned and rent him. The English nation is the Napoleon of the nineteenth century. Leading statesmen for years have helped to swell the national head. Lord Rosebery, in a speech received with applause, assures the mob that the spirit of Agincourt is not yet dead; while Mr. Chamberlain insults Russia and France, and other smaller Jingoes are proud of the thought that single-handed we can lick creation. The wise man has said that pride goeth before a fall, a haughty spirit before destruction. How great is the fall may be seen in the gloomy news from South Africa. A nation inspired with the spirit of Agincourt, and lately willing to fight Russia in China and France over the Soudan, is now baffled by an army of farmers. All this reminds us forcibly of the career of Nebuchadnezzar. While he was walking in the palace of the Kingdom of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar mused thus: "Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honor of my majesty?" The result we all know. Nebuchadnezzar was driven from his throne to eat grass with the beasts of the field, and only when his reason returned was he an altered man, humbly and gratefully rendering obedience to the laws of the universe. We have had our spell of pride and domination. We are now entering the Valley of Humiliation. When we emerge, the country will turn with disgust from its Chamberlains and its Roseburys—the Nebuchadnezzars of today—and fall back upon its old advisers, the Adam Smiths and the Richard Cobdens, prophets who teach under the guise of political economy the great truth of the brotherhood of man and the essential harmony of international interests.

Notice of Election of Trustees.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, January 15th, 1900, at 7 o'clock P. M., at the residence of George A. Maxey, in Burr Oak, Marshall County, Indiana, there will be a meeting of the members of the Church of God, of Burr Oak, said County, for the purpose of electing three trustees of said Church, or Society.

SAMUEL OSBORN,
GEORGE A. MAXEY.
Elders.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamberg, Iowa.
John Compton, Bisby, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St, Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Cuykendall, Bonham, Texas.
P. L. Stouffer, Boyd, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dalton, Mich
L. H. Cheesbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st Omaha Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeen, Scioto, Ore.
S. Buxton Wines, Peru, Ind.
C. A. Snyder, Tempe, Arizona.
Steve Hess, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 171, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Daly, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winlow, 224 Monroe Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keun, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Comer, Sac, Ill.
B. L. Boyer Seven Fountains, Va.
T. L. Adams, Hawkie, Kan.
S. P. Oliver, Arlee, Kan.
D. M. Bidler, Monona, Iowa
J. B. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. B. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Pa.
Mollie Bakewell, W. L. C. Home Wadesboro, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. P. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglesby, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Colfax, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard Sentard, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Angeles Ave. Anaheim, Cal.
W. O. Stone, Pearman, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 42, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1315 G St., Sacramento, Cal
John Flora, 2012 West Corning Ave Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mildred, Crowley, La.
D. F. Tyler, 2711 6th ave, Tacoma Wash.
Miss Em ma Jacksteen, Tennessee City, Box 60, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Barton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Barton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Driggins, Rensselaer Ind.
B. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. F. Halstead, Forestdale, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 397 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Cobb, Jefferson, Ore.

Married.

Mr. Leonard McFarland and Miss Ora Dell Partlow were married by the writer, on December 30, 1899. May the dear Lord bless them, and may they be a happy family is our prayer.

Z. E. Brant.

Subscribe for The Restitution now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance.

Books and Tract List.

Bible Pearls—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

Four-Page Tracts.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God. —Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

The Calendar issued by the Nickel Plate Road will be mailed to any one who will send their address to the General Passenger Agent, Nickel Plate Road, Cleveland, Ohio.—jan 15

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, Illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.

The Binding is Imperial Seal, Turk Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - -	$3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - -	1.50.
Total, - -	$5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The points of the covenant.

graven before them, neither turned they from their wicked works. B. C. 446.

30 Behold, d we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:

37 And e it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have f dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

38 And because of all this we g make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, h seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 29 The points of the covenant.

NOW i those that sealed were, k Ne-he-mi'ah, l the Tir'shatha, m the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,

2 n Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Jir-e-mi'ah,

3 Pash'hur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,

4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,

5 Ha'rim, Mer'a-moth, O-ba-di'ah,

6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,

7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mi'a-min,

8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'ga-i, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.

9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nu-i of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;

10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,

11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,

12 Zac'cur, Sher-e-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,

13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Bin'nu-i.

14 The chief of the people; o Par'osh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'thu, Be'ni,

15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,

16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'va-i, A'din,

17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,

18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,

19 Ha'riph, An'a-thoth, Neb'a-i,

20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,

21 Me-she'za-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,

22 Pel-a-ti'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,

23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Ha'shub,

24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Sho'bek,

25 Re'hum, Ha-shab'nah, Ma-a-se'iah,

26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,

27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.

28 p And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Neth'i-nims, q and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;

29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, r and entered into a curse, and into an oath, s to walk in God's law, which was given t by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the Lord our Lord, and his judgments and his statutes;

30 And that we would not give u our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:

31 v And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the w seventh year, and the x exaction of y every debt.

32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;

33 For z the shewbread, and for the a continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.

34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, b for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the Lord our God, c as it is written in the law:

35 And d to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the Lord:

36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

Twelve Words, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

The Gospel of the Kingdom, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

Early Lessons, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 80 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 8, " " " " .....12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:30pm

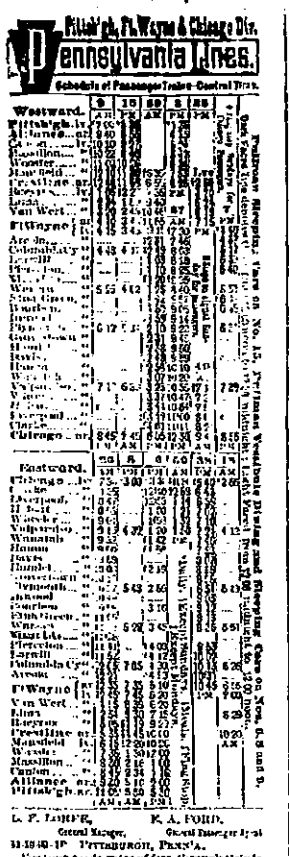
For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.



Westward.

	6	10	20	8	22
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsburgh, lv	7 00			4 30
Allegheny, ar	7 10			4 40
Rochester	9 40			7 10
Massillon	10 55			8 25
Wooster	11 30			8 55
Mansfield	12 07			9 30
Crestline, ar	12 55			10 15
Crestline, lv	1 05			10 25
Leipsic	2 35			11 50
Van Wert	3 45	10 40	6 07	1 00
Ft Wayne	5 15	12 15	7 30	2 30
Arcadia	6 15	1 15	8 30	3 30
Columbia City	6 43	1 43	8 58	3 58
Larwill		1 55
Silver Lake		2 05
Warsaw	7 10	2 15	9 25	4 25
Bourbon		2 30
Bremen		2 45
Hamlet		2 55
Knox	8 05	3 10	10 10	5 10
Plymouth	8 12	3 17	10 17	5 17
North Liberty		3 30
Walkerton		3 40
Hamlet		3 55
Bass Lake		4 05
Wanatah		4 12
Hanna		4 20
Hayes		4 30
Hanlon		4 38
Tassinong		4 45
Gardner		4 50
25th Street		5 00
Wright		5 05
Miller		5 10
Riverview		5 15
Ogden		5 20
Columbia City		5 30
Arcola		5 40
Ft Wayne	9 25	6 30	11 30	6 30
Van Wert	12 05	9 10	2 20	9 10
Edon	12 35	9 40	2 50	9 40
Bryan	1 05	10 10	3 20	10 10
Pioneer	1 15	10 20	3 30	10 20
Montpelier	1 30	10 35	3 45	10 35
Bryan	1 45	10 50	4 00	10 50
Stryker	2 05	11 10	4 20	11 10
Archbold	2 15	11 20	4 30	11 20
Wauseon	2 30	11 35	4 45	11 35
Swanton	2 45	11 50	5 00	11 50
Delta	2 55	12 00	5 10	12 00
Fayette	3 05	12 10	5 20	12 10
Pettisville	3 15	12 20	5 30	12 20
Whitehouse	3 25	12 30	5 40	12 30
Waterville	3 40	12 45	5 55	12 45
Providence	3 50	12 55	6 05	12 55
Maumee	4 00	1 05	6 15	1 05
Toledo	4 15	1 20	6 30	1 20

Eastward.

	55	5	9	7	39
	AM	AM	AM	PM	AM
Chicago, lv	7 35	3 00	11 45	6 00	2 55
Calumet			12 20
Hobart			1 30
Wanska			1 50
Valparaiso			2 10
Wanatah			2 45
Hanna			2 52
Hayes			3 00
Hanlon			3 08
Tassinong			3 15
Gardner			3 20
25th Street			3 30
Wright			3 35
Miller			3 40
Riverview			3 45
Ogden			3 50
Columbia City			4 00
Arcola			4 10
Ft Wayne	12 25	7 30	7 30	10 20	6 30
Van Wert	3 55	10 40	10 40	1 30	9 40
Edon	4 25	11 10	11 10	2 00	10 10
Bryan	4 55	11 40	11 40	2 30	10 40
Pioneer	5 05	11 50	11 50	2 40	10 50
Montpelier	5 20	12 05	12 05	2 55	11 05
Bryan	5 35	12 20	12 20	3 10	11 20
Stryker	5 55	12 40	12 40	3 30	11 40
Archbold	6 05	12 50	12 50	3 40	11 50
Wauseon	6 20	1 05	1 05	3 55	12 05
Swanton	6 35	1 20	1 20	4 10	12 20
Delta	6 45	1 30	1 30	4 20	12 30
Fayette	6 55	1 40	1 40	4 30	12 40
Pettisville	7 05	1 50	1 50	4 40	12 50
Whitehouse	7 15	2 00	2 00	4 50	1 00
Waterville	7 30	2 15	2 15	5 05	1 15
Providence	7 40	2 25	2 25	5 15	1 25
Maumee	7 50	2 35	2 35	5 25	1 35
Toledo	8 05	2 50	2 50	5 40	1 50

L. F. LOREE, General Manager.
K. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
11-19-99-1P PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information apply to ticket agents of trains, specify to any point on Pennsylvania Lines.

NICKEL PLATE

10-11-1899

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Dining cars, Colored Porters attend first and second class. Any room in one train is similar in all respects. Elegant vestibuled clean cars exclusively on each train.

Eastbound.			All Nickel Plate Daily.	Westbound.
Lv.	Ar.	Ar.		Lv.	Ar.	Lv.
11 00 pm	7 00 am	7 30 am	Chicago	6 10	7 20	7 50 pm
11 30 pm	7 30 am	8 00 am	Valparaiso	5 40	6 50	7 20 pm
12 01 am	8 01 am	8 31 am	Wanska	5 15	6 25	6 55 pm
12 20 am	8 20 am	8 50 am	Kouts	4 55	6 05	6 35 pm
12 40 am	8 40 am	9 10 am	Wheatfield	4 35	5 45	6 15 pm
1 00 am	9 00 am	9 30 am	Kersey	4 15	5 25	5 55 pm
1 20 am	9 20 am	9 50 am	Argos	3 55	5 05	5 35 pm
1 40 am	9 40 am	10 10 am	Walkerton	3 35	4 45	5 15 pm
2 00 am	10 00 am	10 30 am	Kewaunee	3 15	4 25	4 55 pm
2 20 am	10 20 am	10 50 am	Bass Lake	2 55	4 05	4 35 pm
2 40 am	10 40 am	11 10 am	Knox	2 35	3 45	4 15 pm
3 00 am	11 00 am	11 30 am	Rochester	2 15	3 25	3 55 pm
3 20 am	11 20 am	11 50 am	Akron	1 55	3 05	3 35 pm
4 00 am	12 00 m	12 30 pm	Orrville	1 15	2 25	2 55 pm
4 20 am	12 20 pm	12 50 pm	Wooster	12 55	2 05	2 35 pm
4 40 am	12 40 pm	1 10 pm	Mansfield	12 35	1 45	2 15 pm
5 00 am	1 00 pm	1 30 pm	Shelby Junction	12 15	1 25	1 55 pm
5 20 am	1 20 pm	1 50 pm	Crestline	11 55	1 05	1 35 pm
5 40 am	1 40 pm	2 10 pm	Galion	11 35	12 45	1 15 pm
6 00 am	2 00 pm	2 30 pm	Bucyrus	11 15	12 25	12 55 pm
6 20 am	2 20 pm	2 50 pm	Crestline	10 55	12 05	12 35 pm
6 40 am	2 40 pm	3 10 pm	Galion	10 35	11 45	12 15 pm
7 00 am	3 00 pm	3 30 pm	Bucyrus	10 15	11 25	11 55 am
7 20 am	3 20 pm	3 50 pm	New York	9 55	11 05	11 35 am
7 40 am	3 40 pm	4 10 pm	Galion	9 35	10 45	11 15 am
8 00 am	4 00 pm	4 30 pm	Bucyrus	9 15	10 25	10 55 am
8 20 am	4 20 pm	4 50 pm	Crestline	8 55	10 05	10 35 am
8 40 am	4 40 pm	5 10 pm	Galion	8 35	9 45	10 15 am
9 00 am	5 00 pm	5 30 pm	Bucyrus	8 15	9 25	9 55 am
9 20 am	5 20 pm	5 50 pm	Crestline	7 55	9 05	9 35 am
9 40 am	5 40 pm	6 10 pm	Galion	7 35	8 45	9 15 am
10 00 am	6 00 pm	6 30 pm	Bucyrus	7 15	8 25	8 55 am
10 20 am	6 20 pm	6 50 pm	Crestline	6 55	8 05	8 35 am
10 40 am	6 40 pm	7 10 pm	Galion	6 35	7 45	8 15 am
11 00 am	7 00 pm	7 30 pm	Bucyrus	6 15	7 25	7 55 am
11 20 am	7 20 pm	7 50 pm	Crestline	5 55	7 05	7 35 am
11 40 am	7 40 pm	8 10 pm	Galion	5 35	6 45	7 15 am
12 00 m	8 00 pm	8 30 pm	Bucyrus	5 15	6 25	6 55 am
12 20 pm	8 20 pm	8 50 pm	Crestline	4 55	6 05	6 35 am
12 40 pm	8 40 pm	9 10 pm	Galion	4 35	5 45	6 15 am
1 00 pm	9 00 pm	9 30 pm	Bucyrus	4 15	5 25	5 55 am
1 20 pm	9 20 pm	9 50 pm	Crestline	3 55	5 05	5 35 am
1 40 pm	9 40 pm	10 10 pm	Galion	3 35	4 45	5 15 am
2 00 pm	10 00 pm	10 30 pm	Bucyrus	3 15	4 25	4 55 am
2 20 pm	10 20 pm	10 50 pm	Crestline	2 55	4 05	4 35 am
2 40 pm	10 40 pm	11 10 pm	Galion	2 35	3 45	4 15 am
3 00 pm	11 00 pm	11 30 pm	Bucyrus	2 15	3 25	3 55 am
3 20 pm	11 20 pm	11 50 pm	Crestline	1 55	3 05	3 35 am
3 40 pm	11 40 pm	12 10 am	Galion	1 35	2 45	3 15 am
4 00 pm	12 00 m	12 30 am	Bucyrus	1 15	2 25	2 55 am
4 20 pm	12 20 am	12 50 am	Crestline	12 55	2 05	2 35 am
4 40 pm	12 40 am	1 10 am	Galion	12 35	1 45	2 15 am
5 00 pm	1 00 am	1 30 am	Bucyrus	12 15	1 25	1 55 am
5 20 pm	1 20 am	1 50 am	Crestline	11 55	1 05	1 35 am
5 40 pm	1 40 am	2 10 am	Galion	11 35	12 45	1 15 am
6 00 pm	2 00 am	2 30 am	Bucyrus	11 15	12 25	12 55 am
6 20 pm	2 20 am	2 50 am	Crestline	10 55	12 05	12 35 am
6 40 pm	2 40 am	3 10 am	Galion	10 35	11 45	12 15 am
7 00 pm	3 00 am	3 30 am	Bucyrus	10 15	11 25	11 55 pm
7 20 pm	3 20 am	3 50 am	Crestline	9 55	11 05	11 35 pm
7 40 pm	3 40 am	4 10 am	Galion	9 35	10 45	11 15 pm
8 00 pm	4 00 am	4 30 am	Bucyrus	9 15	10 25	10 55 pm
8 20 pm	4 20 am	4 50 am	Crestline	8 55	10 05	10 35 pm
8 40 pm	4 40 am	5 10 am	Galion	8 35	9 45	10 15 pm
9 00 pm	5 00 am	5 30 am	Bucyrus	8 15	9 25	9 55 pm
9 20 pm	5 20 am	5 50 am	Crestline	7 55	9 05	9 35 pm
9 40 pm	5 40 am	6 10 am	Galion	7 35	8 45	9 15 pm
10 00 pm	6 00 am	6 30 am	Bucyrus	7 15	8 25	8 55 pm
10 20 pm	6 20 am	6 50 am	Crestline	6 55	8 05	8 35 pm
10 40 pm	6 40 am	7 10 am	Galion	6 35	7 45	8 15 pm
11 00 pm	7 00 am	7 30 am	Bucyrus	6 15	7 25	7 55 pm
11 20 pm	7 20 am	7 50 am	Crestline	5 55	7 05	7 35 pm
11 40 pm	7 40 am	8 10 am	Galion	5 35	6 45	7 15 pm
12 00 m	8 00 am	8 30 am	Bucyrus	5 15	6 25	6 55 pm
12 20 pm	8 20 am	8 50 am	Crestline	4 55	6 05	6 35 pm
12 40 pm	8 40 am	9 10 am	Galion	4 35	5 45	6 15 pm
1 00 pm	9 00 am	9 30 am	Bucyrus	4 15	5 25	5 55 pm
1 20 pm	9 20 am	9 50 am	Crestline	3 55	5 05	5 35 pm
1 40 pm	9 40 am	10 10 am	Galion	3 35	4 45	5 15 pm
2 00 pm	10 00 am	10 30 am	Bucyrus	3 15	4 25	4 55 pm
2 20 pm	10 20 am	10 50 am	Crestline	2 55	4 05	4 35 pm
2 40 pm	10 40 am	11 10 am	Galion	2 35	3 45	4 15 pm
3 00 pm	11 00 am	11 30 am	Bucyrus	2 15	3 25	3 55 pm
3 20 pm	11 20 am	11 50 am	Crestline	1 55	3 05	3 35 pm
3 40 pm	11 40 am	12 10 pm	Galion	1 35	2 45	3 15 pm
4 00 pm	12 00 m	12 30 pm	Bucyrus	1 15	2 25	2 55 pm
4 20 pm	12 20 pm	12 50 pm	Crestline	12 55	2 05	2 35 pm
4 40 pm	12 40 pm	1 10 pm	Galion	12 35	1 45	2 15 pm
5 00 pm	1 00 pm	1 30 pm	Bucyrus	12 15	1 25	1 55 pm
5 20 pm	1 20 pm	1 50 pm	Crestline	11 55	1 05	1 35 pm
5 40 pm	1 40 pm	2 10 pm	Galion	11 35	12 45	1 15 pm
6 00 pm	2 00 pm	2 30 pm	Bucyrus	11 15	12 25	12 55 pm
6 20 pm	2 20 pm	2 50 pm	Crestline	10 55	12 05	12 35 pm
6 40 pm	2 40 pm	3 10 pm	Galion	10 35	11 45	12 15 pm
7 00 pm	3 00 pm	3 30 pm	Bucyrus	10 15	11 25	11 55 am
7 20 pm	3 20 pm	3 50 pm	Crestline	9 55	11 05	11 35 am
7 40 pm	3 40 pm	4 10 pm	Galion	9 35	10 45	11 15 am
8 00 pm	4 00 pm	4 30 pm	Bucyrus	9 15	10 25	10 55 am
8 20 pm	4 20 pm	4 50 pm	Crestline	8 55	10 05	10 35 am
8 40 pm	4 40 pm	5 10 pm	Galion	8 35	9 45	10 15 am
9 00 pm	5 00 pm	5 30 pm	Bucyrus	8 15	9 25	9 55 am
9 20 pm	5 20 pm	5 50 pm	Crestline	7 55	9 05	9 35 am
9 40 pm	5 40 pm	6 10 pm	Galion	7 35	8 45	9 15 am
10 00 pm	6 00 pm	6 30 pm	Bucyrus	7 15	8 25	8 55 am
10 20 pm	6 20 pm	6 50 pm	Crestline	6 55	8 05	8 35 am
10 40 pm	6 40 pm	7 10 pm	Galion	6 35	7 45	8 15 am
11 00 pm	7 00 pm	7 30 pm	Bucyrus	6 15	7 25	7 55 am
11 20 pm	7 20 pm	7 50 pm	Crestline	5 55	7 05	7 35 am
11 40 pm	7 40 pm	8 10 pm	Galion	5 35	6 45	7 15 am
12 00 m	8 00 pm	8 30 pm	Bucyrus	5 15	6 25	6 55 am
12 20 pm	8 20 pm	8 50 pm	Crestline	4 55	6 05	6 35 am
12 40 pm	8 40 pm	9 10 pm	Galion	4 35	5 45	6 15 am
1 00 pm	9 00 pm	9 30 pm	Bucyrus	4 15	5 25	5 55 am
1 20 pm	9 20 pm	9 50 pm	Crestline	3 55	5 05	5 35 am
1 40 pm	9 40 pm	10 10 pm	Galion	3 35	4 45	5 15 am
2 00 pm	10 00 pm	10 30 pm	Bucyrus	3 15	4 25	4 55 am
2 20 pm	10 20 pm	10 50 pm	Crestline	2 55	4 05	4 35 am
2 40 pm	10 40 pm	11 10 pm	Galion	2 35	3 45	4 15 am
3 00 pm	11 00 pm	11 30 pm	Bucyrus	2 15	3 25	3 55 am
3 20 pm	11 20 pm	11 50 pm	Crestline	1 55	3 05	3 35 am
3 40 pm	11 40 pm	12 10 am	Galion	1 35	2 45	3 15 am
4 00 pm	12 00 m	12 30 am	Bucyrus	1 15	2 25	2 55 am
4 20 pm	12 20 am	12 50 am	Crestline	12 55	2 05	2 35 am
4 40 pm	12 40 am	1 10 am	Galion	12 35	1 45	2 15 am
5 00 pm	1 00 am	1 30 am	Bucyrus	12 15	1 25	1 55 am
5 20 pm	1 20 am	1 50 am	Crestline	11 55	1 05	1 35 am
5 40 pm	1 40 am	2 10 am	Galion	11 35	12 45	1 15 am
6 00 pm	2 00 am	2 30 am	Bucyrus	11 15	12 25	12 55 am
6 20 pm	2 20 am	2 50 am	Crestline	10 55	12 05	12 35 am
6 40 pm	2 40 am	3 10 am	Galion	10 35	11 45	12 15 am
7 00 pm	3 00 am	3 30 am	Bucyrus	10 15	11 25	11 55 pm
7 20 pm	3 20 am	3 50

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JANUARY 17, 1900. NUMBER 3.

The Restitution.

ISSUED WEEKLY BY
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
FOR THE
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Oregon Bible College
Oregon, Illinois

The Restitution.

The Restitution advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel, the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

Resurrection.

From the throne of the Father morning in might,
He shall come!
To gather his saints in the glory and light,
He shall come!
With the trumpet of God and the archangel's voice,
To watch his loved ones and bid them rejoice,
He shall come!

From the caverns and waves of the bottomless deep,
They shall rise!
From the graves of the earth, where they peacefully sleep,
They shall rise!
And the living be changed with a glorious surprise,
As in numberless numbers they mount through the skies,
They shall rise!

And forever with God and with Christ shall they live,
They shall live!
In unspeakable glory, which God shall then give,
They shall live!
And increasingly more of his love they shall know,
As the ages pass on in their rapturous flow,
They shall live!

Take comfort, bereaved ones, for sure is the Word,
"I will come!"
And the Faithful and True One, your glorified Lord,
He will come!
And not one shall be lost, who has clung to his name,
In this day of rejection, and suffering, and shame,
He will come!

Communicated.

The King of the Jews.

Long before the angel rang out the glad tidings of great joy to the shepherds of Judea, and wise men journeyed from the east in search of the infant King of Israel, Isaiah sang of a virgin mother, whose son should be called Immanuel. Isa. vii. 14. It was but the prelude to the most ecstatic of all harmonies. With his lips aglow with the touch of the Almighty, he sings, "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given, and the government shall be upon his shoulders, and his name shall be called wonderful Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace, of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom to order it, and to establish it with justice, from henceforth even forever." Isa. ix. 6, 7. As each succeeding strain passed from the lips of the Prophet, it only gave place to other melodies, descriptive of the great work of restitution, and the complete overthrow of sin as a result of his reign of righteousness. See chap. xi. and xxxv. Again he breaks forth with a swell of joy, it is the song of victory, and makes the heart of his people glad. "Thine eye shall see the King in his beauty. Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise, awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs: and the earth shall cast out the dead. He will swallow up death in victory, and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces. Chapters xxv., xxvi. and xxxiii. Neither shall the inhabitant say I am sick. O what a glorious world that will be. But with all those joyful symphonies, the Prophet strikes a low pathetic chord. He sings of the man of sorrows. He is despised and rejected of men—he is wounded for our transgressions, he is bruised for our iniquities, he is oppressed and is afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth. He is brought as a Lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth..... Who shall declare his generation, for he is cut off out of the land of the living. At this point, let us look forward to the scene at Jerusalem. The poor sorrowing disciples have witnessed the cruel mockery, which their Master bore while on trial for his life. They have heard the death sentence pronounced upon him. Now the question arises in their minds, Will the King of the Jews have to die? The prophets had so spoken and the Master had told them that he would be delivered into the hands of wicked men, and would be slain and would rise again the third day. Now they see him upon the cross. Yes, their King is dying now. The hope of Israel is cut off without a successor. The friends of the Roman government are glad, for they cry out, We have no king but Cesar. How dark is the picture, how sad the hearts of his dear followers. The spirit is willing though the flesh is weak, and their faith grows dim, and one says to another, I go a fishing. But on the third morning, O joy, joy, a cry is heard. The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared unto Simon. But they were slow to believe all the prophets had spoken. Then opened he their understanding that they might understand the Scriptures. And after tarrying with them for forty days, instructing them concerning the kingdom of God, he led them out as far as Bethany, and lifted up his hands, he blessed them, and was parted from them and taken up into heaven, and after the Master was taken away, and the spirit of promise had given them power, they remembered his words that he had said unto them. The servant is not greater than his Lord. If they have persecuted me they will also persecute you. How true were the Master's words, he bore witness for the truth before Pilate, claiming to be born King of the Jews, and it was this testimony that caused him to suffer death. And the fate of the Apostles as recorded in the history of the early church, was but the verification of the Master's words. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you, and for the same cause, as they all except one, paid the penalty of their crime, by suffering a cruel death. The crime was preaching Jesus as the Lord's Anointed. The King of the Jews and heir of the world. The blood of the martyrs under the altar of Rome, still cry for vengeance, but they are told to rest yet for a little season, until their fellow servants and their brethren that should be killed as they were should be fulfilled. Are we who are living in the last days of Gentile times, able to bear witness to this truth? For it is not known how soon it may be termed treason again, to proclaim Jesus the King of the Jews, and the royal heir of David, to the throne of universal dominion. Dear friends, if we are called to this hour of trial, O may we be ready to fall with our face to the foe. It is certain the present ruling powers of the world, will not surrender their authority without a great struggle. Already we see a growing tendency in that direction. Even professing Christians are rather in favor of maintaining what is called the rights of kings, and let Jesus, King of Israel rule above in heaven, and call them to come up higher when they die. Why do the heathen rage and the people imagine a vain thing. The kings of the earth set themselves, and their rulers take counsel together against the Lord, and against his Anointed, saying, "Let us break their bonds asunder, and cast away their cords from us. He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision. Then shall he speak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his sore displeasure. Yet have I set my King upon my holy hill of Zion. I will declare the decree: the Lord hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee. Ask of me and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Truly this is God's Word, so of a truth the night cometh when no man can work. Already the professed church makes friends with Cesar again, and to preach Christ as King over all the earth, may bring down vengeance upon the people of God. But victory is sure. And when the bride has made herself ready, she will go into the marriage. And the message of glory that was sung on that eventful night by the angelic messenger, will yet be glad tidings of great joy to all people. And he who was born King of the Jews, shall reign in righteousness. For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the water cover the sea. Come Lord Jesus, come quickly.

SALLIE BLACK.

Park Hill Pulpit Echoes.—No. 2.

THE HYGIENE OF THE BIBLE.

"Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there: why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" Jer. viii. 22.

The Bible furnishes many important hints in regard to hygiene of life—and—

1st, In regard to "Sinning with thy mouth." The mouth was not made for breathing purposes. The nostrils were made for that purpose. The breath is said to be in the nostrils. Their physiology shows their hygiene or use. The membrane of the nostrils and the whole internal structure was formed in such a way that the health is much better by breathing through the nostrils. It is not necessary to enter into the reasons why, but only to state some of the results. "Keep thy mouth shut" is an injunction that applies in more ways than one. "He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life, but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction." If there is any physiological application of this text it is this, breathe through your nostrils if you want to keep your health: and keep your mouth shut if you want to keep your life.

Science has demonstrated that the expectorations or spit of sickly people are infected with the microbes of the disease with which they are afflicted. This spit upon the floors of houses, depots, post offices, sidewalks and elsewhere are fruitful sources of and agents in the spread of the disease. What has taken science so long to find out was written by Moses 3400 years ago. He says, "If he that hath the issue spit upon him that is clean, then he shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water and be unclean until the evening." Deut. xv. 8. So particular was Moses, that any person having a contageous disease was kept apart from all other persons, and anything he touched, unless he had washed his hands, was unclean. Even his clothing was unclean—his bed and his saddle, and all that he touched.

The microbes of la grippe, consumption, typhoid fever and diphtheria are very tenacious of life and may be carried in the clothing for weeks or months or even years. Moses is directed of God to give Israel a law by which they may escape all these diseases, if only they will follow his directions. He does not enter into any explanation why nor how these diseases may be communicated, he only tells them, "Observe diligently to do all that the Lord thy God commandeth thee, that thou mayest live long in the land whither thou goest to possess it." You may say that the law of Moses is "done away with," and that we are under the New Testament laws, but I want to whisper in your ear there are no laws of hygiene laid down in the New Testament, and that a disregard these hygienic directions will cost the people many a fever, consumption and contageous disease. Get out of that idea that has rung in your ears from childhood and which you have learned to repeat, "that was for Israel." It was for God's people while given to Israel. What if wholesome laws were given to Israel, may we not adopt them too and reap the benefits of them? There are some people who seem to think it is the part of a Christian to discard everything God ever said to Israel; the law may be ever so pure or good or wholesome, you are always met by that one knock-down argument, "that was given to Israel."

Well, I have only this to say in reply, God is God. He never cautioned Israel without a good reason. If you want a spittoon standing around in your living rooms—a successful culture of microbes supplied from the corrupt lungs, decayed teeth and disease loaded spittle of the sick, if you want to sleep upon the same bed and in the same room with the person who is affected with any—I say any—disease, if you want to close the window and stop up the key-hole, and shut out the light by a dark curtain at the window, if you get sick and melancholy and die of fever or consumption or rheumatism, don't I beseech you, don't throw the blame back upon God and say with a long face and a sepulchral tone, that it was a mysterious dispensation of providence. It was the mysterious dispensation of a fool of a man, that is all it was. God had told you better in his law, yet you would not heed because he had told it to you.

[illegible] and contracted the poison of a disease into her system by washing the clothes used upon a running sore. Had she burned them with fire as directed by Moses, it would have been better. Another young lady bound a piece of pork upon her neck for sore throat, and paid the penalty of death by trichenosis as the result of her ignorance. Moses had written long ago that it was unclean and should not be used as food, nor touched for fear of disease. Lev. x. 7-8.

Though we may not always know the reason for a law, yet it is safe to obey it, for God says, "Ye shall serve the Lord your God and he shall bless thy bread and thy water, and I will take sickness away from the midst of thee." Ex. xxiii. 25. It is obedience to God's simple directions that secures immunity from all these diseases, and long life will be the result. See Ex. xxiii. 26.

A. J. EXCHANGE.

If He Really Means So.

"When God says Jacob, Jerusalem, Zion, Sodom, Ephraim, if he really means so: when he says days, months and years, if he means just what these words literally denote, like an honest business man: and if we may not add to, or take from God's Word. Deut. iv. 2; Rev. xxii. 19. About this question of adding to or taking from (whatever these processes may mean) there is no "if" in the case. Touching the use of names and words it is well to say "if" he really means so from the fact that God, in giving us a revelation did not bind himself down to absolute literality of meaning, and avoid all figures of speech, and the fine and lively embellishments of rhetoric. The Bible being an Asiatic or Eastern Book, and in harmony with the literary genius of Eastern peoples, to whom it was primarily given, would abound in tropical language; indeed, in this respect there is a profusion—a wealth so to speak, exceeding anything in the whole compass of our Western literature. God might have employed a more prosaic style; but, he did not see fit to do so. The use of figures of speech in the Bible and in any other book or literary composition is to adorn, embellish with a view to heightening the meaning, and to express the thought more vividly than could be done without their use. A book written in an absolutely literal style, if such a thing were possible, would be the dullest and most prosaic book imaginable. The reader would grow tired of its sameness, and would lay it down and take up another abounding with the flowers of rhetoric, with figures of speech and of thought, diversified as the landscape on which he gazes with so much delight. The Bible not only states the truth but states it in such a way as to most forcibly impress the reader and arouse his thoughts. And to this end, every class of figures known to rhetoric abounds here in profusion, but not beyond the measure of good taste in style of language.

God in giving us a revelation, gave it through the medium of human speech, and this means agreeable to the laws of language, the laws of grammar and rhetoric, and according to the meaning of words as in use among men. Jerusalem does not always mean the literal city, but sometimes the people, the Jews in dispersion, their punishment just accomplished. Isa. xl. 2. Zion in Zech. ii. 7 by figure of speech is used to denote the Jews in captivity at Babylon. Jacob in the prophecies frequently applies to the tribes, descendants of the man who primarily bore this name. Ephraim, the son of Joseph, is a name that after the death of the patriarch, came to denote the tribe that sprang from him and was finally applied to ten tribes that seceded from the house of David and formed a separate kingdom under Jeroboam and his successors. There are several examples of this use of the name in the prophets. Many common terms by figure of speech are used to denote that to which they bear a resemblance in some point or points. Sleep is employed to signify death in Dan. xii. 2, John xi. 11, 1 Thes. iv. 14, 15. Some expositors draw the inference from these passages that the dead are alive. This destroys the figure and is a perversion of the language. This is sufficient on figures of speech.

Turn to symbols. The use of symbols in the Bible is confined principally to Daniel's and John's prophecies. It is in this field that a controversy is carried on between two classes of prophetic expositors known respectively as futurist and historical. The former asks: When God says years months and days, if he really means what these words literally denote like an honest business man, then what becomes of the historic system of prophetic interpretation? Well, if there is no exception to the literal use of terms, then the historical school is in the wrong and must abandon the position assumed. Let me here counterjurt the question with another. When God says lion, bear, ram, goat, etc., if he really means what he says like any honest business man, then what becomes of the historic view of prophetic exposition? Yes, sure enough, what becomes of it? But the fact is, God does not use all these names in the literal sense. Daniel and John, under the direction of the Holy Spirit, and in ecstatic vision, used them to denote somethings that belong entirely to a different class or denomination. This, as a matter of course, is not the common usage. When David, the shepherd boy, slew a bear and a lion, he slew two animals bearing these names; but Daniel and John see these animals in vision as symbols of kingdoms or governments.

The object in view was not to teach us natural history, but to give us a revelation of future events, the rise and progress and destiny of the great world-kingdoms. We get at the meaning through the medium of the symbols, their nature, action and attributes. If the objector to the historic view of prophetic fulfilment had asked the second question instead of the one I quoted at the head of this paper, it would have brought him face to face with a fact that can not be denied, that God did not always use words in a literal sense. And yet, God is as honest as any business man. The view of historic and consecutive fulfilment is not to be refuted by asking a question, the answer to which must be, without any chance of debate, on the side or in favor of the theory it was designed to overthrow. Days and weeks and months may be used to denote longer periods when they occur in symbolic language.

JOHN L. WINCE.

Hold Fast.

"He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot his name out of the book of life." Rev. iii. 5.

This beautiful promise of raiment and life is embraced in the closing Epistle of Christ to the seven churches, and no doubt is a perfect picture of the destiny of the few faithful ones in the time just preceding the blessed advent who are found holding fast to the faith, while the churches to which they have been in fellowship are apostatizing from the truth, and subject to the scathing rebuke of our Lord. Notice how he first credits them with doing and believing some things that are commendable, yet the things they have omitted together with their misdeeds brings the threatening of judgment and rejection if they do not repent. To the overcomer all is well. A glorious destiny surely awaits him. "If God be for us who can be against us." And we are assured that it is the faith that overcomes the world. "Hold fast therefore your confidence which hath great recompense of reward." "No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly." Wait on the Lord and keep his way and he will exalt thee to inherit the earth." "Trust in the Lord and do good and verily thou shalt be fed." The Scriptures are replete with the offers of blessing to those who keep the way of life. The motive God holds out in his message to man cannot be made stronger. It is the product of the highest love of him whose name is love. The wonder of wonders is that any one would resist its power or slight its offers of mercy. Tell the glad story. Repeat it one and all and trust the Lord of the harvest for the sheaves.

A. B. WINCE.

Little Lessons.

"The work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever." Isa. xxxii. 17.

The works of righteousness shall be peace." We say, "the work of Mr. —— was the crystal palace." We mean that he was the man who designed the building, and had its beautiful rooms and towers and turrets constructed. The righteous men of earth are working toward the construction of a far grander building than that wonderful palace of glass, at London, for it is through these, that the work of righteousness, or right laws goes on.

Love of their neighbor and love of God spurs them to intensest effort. They talk, they read the Bible, they preach, they write, they scatter tracts, they give money, they send out missionaries, they found schools, they publish papers and books, they distribute Bibles, they translate Bibles, that "Peace on earth and good will to men," may come at last.

The Bible is their sword. It takes the evil out of men: it makes them clean and white. When the bad beasts are gone, who will make war? So you see our text shows us just what will happen when the work of righteousness is completed; the end of its work will be peace, because there will be no one left who will want to make war, Jesus the Prince of Peace will be the King of the kingdom of peace. For the kingdom of peace is what all the righteous people of earth, are helping to build. "The effect of righteousness is quietness." When all the people of earth mind the dear Bible, there will be no riots; no drunkards to quarrel; no thieves to fear. There will be no strikers to strike for higher wages; no strife between white and black laborers; no rebellion of Filipinos against oppressive rulers, no uprisings nor disturbances anywhere.

"The effect of righteousness is assurance." Assurance is confidence, certainty, a fixed and permanent state of affairs. Only right doing in the fear of the Lord can bring about the realization of such a kingdom, one that will never be overthrown. O grand effect of long and tireless work! Peace, quietness and assurance forever! "Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times, and strength of salvation; the fear of the Lord is his strength." "The fear of the Lord that is thy wisdom," fear to break his law, and by breaking it to commit sin. Yield obedience to God's holy law, for by obedience, loving obedience, do we help to build the kingdom that shall have no end.

S. ROXANA WINCE.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, Jan'y 17, 1900.

Please Take Notice.

Examine the label on your paper, and see that it reads right. If it has "Sept. 8" following your name you will understand that you are back in payment from September, 1898, and to get right you should at once remit the amount required, at the rate of $1.50 per year, to bring it up to the first of Jan., 1900, and enough more to pay through this year. Then it will be marked "Jan. 1," meaning that you have paid to January, 1901. If your label says "June 9," it is back since June, 1899, and you should follow the example set above to get it as it should be. If it is "Jan. 0" it means you are paid to the first of this year, and you should at once send us $1.50 that it may be changed to "Jan. 1."

Brothers and Sisters, we need the money you owe us, and we hope and trust you will each one take the necessary steps to make your label read right. We thank those who have sent in their payments for the kind favor, and assure you we greatly appreciate the same.

The "Free Will" Fund.

We have hesitated about pressing this matter very much, but every day there are calls by the poor, for papers. They do not like to give it up—indeed the home of plenty that has daily papers, magazines and countless books always at hand, can but dimly conceive of that poor brother or sister to whom The Restitution is the only visitor. "My Bible and The Restitution" they write, "are all we have." Isolated, never hear a sermon, no one to talk over the precious truths of our faith with, not able to work to earn money as once they could, and so must give up the one treasure and pleasure of life. Brother, sister, ask yourself the question—will the reading of the next popular book give more pleasure than sending the same amount to have The Restitution sent to some poor brother? Many of you could have all needed books and papers, and not miss $5.00 or $10.00 for this purpose, and more could be done if we were minded to "sacrifice" something on this altar.

Brethren and sisters, take this cause home to your hearts—think it over—consider it well—even pray over it—then act as your own conscience dictates.

To those who have ordered Bibles, and have not received them, we say we will send just so soon as we can get a supply from the publishers. They are behind with their work, and we must wait on them. We hope they will soon be ready.

The man who has nothing to do is unfortunate. We were made to work. For that reason there is a Joy in achieving. Our reward is not measured by the pay we recieve. Our satisfaction is in the success we have in beholding the results of our endeavor.

We do not lose our individuality when we enter into God's plan for us. It makes us workers together with him. He made us, not we ourselves, and not unto us, but to him be all the honor and Glory. He has a plan for us, and if we let him work his plan, it will be for his glory and our good. We need to be in touch with him. We must not urge him to alter his plans to suit our ways; but his will must be our will, and our prayer must be from the heart, "Thy will be done."

"The difficulties in our path are not intended to stop us, to make us give up, or faint or turn back. They were meant solely for us to overcome, and the power to do it waits only upon our will. When we overcome them, we acquire their strength. If we allow them to overcome us, they take away ours. Therefore our mission,—our destiny is to overcome all difficulties. If we regard them in this way, the obstacle which seemed formidable yesterday possesses no terrors today."

The more we glory in the liberty of adoption, the more should we rejoice in the liberty of obedience."

If we read the providences of God aright, the greater your troubles the more we will see of the love of God. His probe never goes deeper than the plague.

Emerson was not far astray in words when he said, "Immortality will come to him who is fit for it, and he who would be a great soul in future must be a great soul now."

Sir Walter Scott said, "The man deserving the name, is one whose thoughts and exertions are for others rather than himself,—whose high purpose is adopted on high principles, and never abandoned while heaven or earth affords the means of accomplishing it, he is one who will neither seek an indirect advantage by a specious word, nor take an evil path to secure a real good purpose."

Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy.

Under the head of "The War in South Africa" the editor of Glad Tidings of England, says;—"It is now beyond doubt that for years the Boers had been making enormous preparations to throw off the British suzerainity and become an independent state, and, indeed, form a Great South African Dutch Republic. It is, therefore, a struggle between the Briton and the Boer—between a nation willing to put all white races upon an equality and give the natives justice, and a corrupt oligarchy, who in days gone by held the natives in slavery, and but for Britain's strength of armor and love of freedom would continue to do so.

The gravity of the situation, arising from the determined and well-planned resistance of the Boers, is evidenced by the measure which the British Government had decided upon. They have appointed Field Marshall Roberts to be commander-in-chief of the forces in Cape Colony, with Lord Kitchener of Kartoum, Chief of his staff, leaving Gen. Buller to give undivided attention to Natal. More Reserves have been called out, and mobilized, another division of the army (the seventh) and increased the number of transports by the addition of several of the fastest steamships afloat. They have further decided to allow several battalions of natives to volunteer for service abroad; to raise for service in South Africa a mounted infantry force to be named 'The Imperial Yeomanry,' to be recruited from the yeomanry, and also from volunteers and civilians who may possess the requisite qualifications, and to form a contingent of carefully selected volunteers to serve along with the regular troops. These measures not only show the gravity of the crisis, which is admitted to be the most serious since the Indian Mutiny or the Crimean War, but the new departure in regard to what were formerly considered purely defensive home forces may be far-reaching in its results.

The war spirit of the British people which arose when the Boers issued their insolent ultimatum has been intensified by the checks which their forces have received. The action of the government, which shows their determination to spare no effort to carry the war to a successful issue, has aroused the most extraordinary enthusiasm. From every quarter of the United Kingdom offers for service abroad have poured in, and there have also been renewals of the offer of further contingents from the Colonies, which have been accepted.

According to an estimate of the Daily Telegraph the number of British troops in South Africa is about 78,500. Reinforcements arriving on the way thither, and under orders, 58,200, making a total of 136,700. After deducting causalties of 7,000, there remain 129,900. This does not include the Colonial and Irregular troops in Cape Colony and Natal, who probably number from 25,000 to 30,000. "The Telegraph further says:—"An unusal military embarassment a grim warlike task, suddenly grown gigantic and exacting a fierce combat, has devolved upon this country, and undoubtedly darkens it at present with a brooding cloud.....Victory will come, and must come to the just cause upheld by her Majesty's arms; but the beginning of the stern task has taxed in an unexpected manner even such resources as no other country could have displayed.

The crisis is drawing out the strength of the British nation, and is uniting the Colonies more closely to the Mother country. The Colonies believe she is fighting the battle of freedom and of justice. The struggle may be severe, but when it is over it will be found the road for civilization into the 'Dark Continent,' has had one of its chief impediments removed, and that the British Empire is more closely welded together. Britain will thereby be better fitted for her great latter-day work."

Under the head of "A Cluster of Significant Events" the editor of Glad Tidings says:—

"We would like to deal with the openly expressed satisfaction of the French and Russian Press at the British reverses,—the granting of the Sultan to Germany of important railway concessions in Asia Minor and the Euphrates Valley and Russian dissatisfaction therewith; rumors of Russian overtures to Persia for the construction of railways in Persia, and ultimately one to the Persian Gulf; the decision of the German Government to double their fleet: the unanimous approval of the Naval Committee of the French Chamber of M. Lockroy's proposal to vote a new credit of 500,000,000 Francs for the defense of French coasts and of French Naval Stations, and for new warships; the state trial in France and continued unrest; and the prospect of "Europe without Austria," and the consequent aggrandizement of the Russian Colossus, but want of space forbids. Troublous times are ahead of us. The world in general takes a gloomy view of it; but the servants of God see in these premonitions of the storm that must precede the day of blessing for the whole world."

On the 30th of November, the Zionist District Committee's for Austria held a solemn Maccabean festival in Sofeinsaalle, the largest hall in Vienna. It was the greatest Zionist gathering that has ever taken place in Vienna, and the vast hall was filled to overflowing. It was an imposing festival, which made the deepest impression even on the opponents of Zionism who were present, but numerous as were the Jews who assembled, the official heads of the community were conspicuous by their absence; but their abstention, and that of our wealthiest Jews did not do any injury to the fete. It was a colossal manifestation of the Jewish national idea, which gained from the fact that the fete was opened with a religious ceremony—viz; the "Kindling of the Lights," after the address of welcome by the Chairman, Dr. Franz Weist, the chief Cantor of the Sephardim congregation, assisted by a choir, performed the religious ceremony. This was followed by the festival address delivered by Herr York-Steiner, who ably treated of the national idea. Then came a Maccabean address by Herr Daiser, and a much-acclaimed address of Dr. Herzl. A storm of applause greeted the recitation of Herr Loewe, the actor of the Holburg Theatre, of the "Psalm" of Leo Raphael.

The Conference of the Union of Rabbis of Bohemia, held last month has demonstrated that the Union is disposed to join the Zionist organization; Rabbiner Dr. Kuresim (Teplitz) and Rabbiner Dr. Zeigler (Carlsbad) mainly contributed to this result. The well-known Jewish writer, Leo. Herzberg-Frankel, has also publicly advocated adhesion to the Zionist organization. Even the Central Verein of the Jews in Prague has approached Dr. Herzl with the request that he should deliver a lecture to the Society. Dr. Herzl has expressed his willingness to do so, providing that he has carte blanche to speak his mind on the Zionist movement and the National Jewish Idea.

Mr. Joseph Prag, vice chief of the Chovevi Zion Association delivered a lantern lecture to the Junior Zionist Association of London. The slides represented views of the Jewish Colonies and colonists in Palestine. There were upwards of 50, and they placed before the audience a highly gratifying view of the new life that has grown up in the Holy Land. The lecturer before exhibiting the views said that no arguments could be more potent as to the value of the colonization of Palestine by the Jews, than those which the lantern would reveal. They were photographs of the Jewish Colonies, of the kind of life there, of the beautiful homes and fields they possessed, and of the change all this had worked upon the people themselves.

The Calcutta correspondent of the Daily Mail, London, England, Jan. 11th, says:—

"While the official statement that no alarm is felt concerning Afghanistan is quite true, I have good reason to believe that the Indian Government has received disquieting information regarding Russian movements in the direction of the Persian frontier, with a view of ultimate annexation, a design in which Germany would probably acquiesce, in consideration of receiving railway concessions."

Scarcely a week passes without something to confirm the views we have held for forty-five years, regarding the destiny of the Man of the North, and his antagonist, England. A divine hand, unseen by the powers of earth, is surely marshalling them into position for the mighty conflict in which Jehovah's King shall take a hand. By heeding the sure Word of prophecy and increased watchfulness as we see the day approaching, we are ensured against surprises.

The digest of opinions of the principal Chinese-Japanese papers received at Vancouver, B. C. Jan. 11th, on the steamer "Empress of Japan" thirteen days from Yokohama, indicate that Russia is unmistakably revealing her intentions in the far east.

The China Gazette says that taking advantage of England's pressing engagements in South Africa, the Russian government, through its consul at Hankow, has revived its claim to the Jardine-Matheson land, making a demand for the property in the most peremptory fashion.

The Russian consul claims that the question of the disputed ownership of the land has been absolutely decided in favor of his government and he has announced his intention to take forcible possession of the property without further negotiations. His actions are said to have been extremely high-handed. Relations between the British and Russian residents are strained to the breaking point.

China's troubles, foreign and domestic service, are said to be more complicated now than ever before. Hong Kong late native reports say that the French are still holding the Chinese taiota at Kang Chow Wan as hostage until their demand for the handing over of the Lulchi magistrate has been complied with. The French consul at Haibow has left for Haiphong and serious outbreaks are daily expected.

The rebellion in central China has become formidable and advices from Chang Sha, dated Dec. 20, state that the insurrection in Hengshand district is spreading rapidly and a large body of insurgents have already entered Pingshiangsh on the frontier, touching the Honan borders and the center of some new and valuable mines.

God is Love. No. 2.

In resuming our meditations on the properties of infinite love, we remark that God is eternal Love! Whatever is essential to any being is co-existent with that being. If God is eternal, his love is eternal. Like himself, it knew no beginning. There never was a period when God was not love.

God is INFINITE love. What is essential to any being must be co-extensive with that being. In every point of the immensity of space, God is,—and he is there in the fullness of his love. It has no bounds or dimensions. It is a vast, bottomless, shoreless, illimitable,—unconfined by friendships, relationships or partialities,—knowing nothing of geographical boundaries; forgetting none, passing by none. We cannot go where his love does not smile. "Do not I fill heaven and earth, saith the Lord."

UNFATHOMABLE SEA,

God is DISINTERESTED love. In God love is spontaneous. He is under no obligation to love. Indebted to none, dependent on none. He is self-sufficient and all sufficient. In one sense the love of a creature is voluntary, but the love of no creature can be said to be ABSOLUTELY SPONTANEOUS.

Motives from without move him,—the attractiveness of objects, or benefits received or expected, for instance. But the love of God soars above all such considerations. He is a law unto himself and cannot be referred to any higher authority than his own. If you ask the source of divine love, you must rise above all heights to God, and you will find that it owns no reason but himself,—no motive but himself. He loves because he is love.

God is UNCHANGEABLE love. It cannot admit of no interruption, transition, diminution, exhaustion, or cessation. Love, like himself is the same yesterday, today, and forever. It must not be inferred from this that once in God's favor we are always in his favor. He has promulgated a law of adoption. We read: "Ye are all the children of God, by faith in Christ Jesus." So long, therefore, as one lives by faith, and hearkens to the dictates, yields to the influences and cultivates the

FRUITS OF THE SPIRIT,

all the rights and immunities of children will be prospectively his; but if the spirit be grieved, and a shipwreck of faith he made, all former rights are forfeited. "If any man has not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his." It is moral character, and not mere flesh and blood, that God loves. It is unchangeably thus with God,—he cannot love a holy character today and an unholy one tomorrow. Those who continue in his love to the end; and it is the privilege of such to take up the triumphant language of Paul,—"I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

WILL BE LOVED BY HIM

God is PRE-EMINENT love! Men often speak of the attributes of God as if they were distinct from himself, forgetting that they are perfections inhering in one infinite, undivided spiritual essence: They also speak of the harmony of the Divine attributes—a mere theological technicality. If they mean that all the essential attributes of an infinite being are infinite, they are correct. Or, if they mean that one attribute of God is never displayed at the expense of others, this is also true. But if they affirm that all his attributes are equally displayed at all times, in all places, in every action or manifestation, we think they are in error. From the words, love is most conspicuous. It shines with a lustre peculiarly its own. With reverence we are compelled to say of the perfections of the Creator, as of the graces or virtues of the creature, "the greatest of these is love," because, although God is wise, powerful and just, he is never represented as wisdom, in the abstract. Love appears to be the combination of his perfections, and to stand in equal relation to them all. It adorns, connects, regulates, pervades, sustains, and perfects all the rest. Wisdom never devises a plan, but in love; power is never put forth, but in love; and justice is never displayed but in love. These are all essential to love—diversifications or modifications of the same excellency.

"GOD IS LOVE,"

POWER OR JUSTICE

LOVE INCLUDES THEM ALL.

According to the character of those on whom it is set, and the manner in which it is displayed various terms are employed to represent it. If the objects are holy, love is then complacency; if poor and wretched, love is compassion; when it showers down its gifts, it is goodness; when it grants pardon, it is mercy. But in all these respects love is transcendental. He takes pleasure in his saints, is full of compassion, abundant in goodness, delighteth in mercy,—is the Father of mercy, is mercy rejoiceth against judgment. When Moses prayed, "Show me thy glory," what did he say? He said, "Come up into the holy mount, and I will cause all my goodness to pass before thee;" thus showing that goodness is his glory and highest honor; that love is the brightest, richest gem in his diadem, the crowning attribute of his character, and the perfectness of his perfections. Oh, beloved, we may easily lose ourselves in his ineffable light. His love enhances its splendor as we contemplate it, and increases its riches as we attempt to calculate them. Its height we cannot reach, its breadth we cannot span, its depths we cannot fathom. God only knows the love of God.

RICH IN MERCY,

THE SUM OF HIS EXCELLENCIES,

The Lord willing we will conclude this subject next week by tracing some of the manifestations of God's love.

Correction.

In issue of January 10, in report of meeting at Burr Oak, it should read two were baptized, where it reads five were baptized.

Good interest here at Argos, and Sunday night three requested baptism.

F. L. Austin.

Good reading for the new year predominates in the January issue of "The Cosmopolitan." Among the sixteen well-known writers who have contributed to its pages are A. T. Quiller-Couch ("Q"), with a stirring bit of fiction entitled "The Lady of the Ship;" John Luther Long, who has furnished a story in a new field, which he entitles "Dizzy Dave;" Kirk La. Shelle, who tells of the tricks of "The Theatrical Advance Agent," and Seumas MacManus, who brings forth another of his clever Irish stories under the title of "Pathrick's Proxy."

Titles of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Savior. 2 Sam. xxii. 3.
Seed of the Woman. Gen. iii. 15.
Shiloh. Gen. xl. 10.
Prophet. Deut. xviii. 15.
King. Psa. ii. 6-8.
Immanuel, Child Born and Son given, Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. Isa. ix. 6.
The Branch. Zech. iii. 8; vi. 12.
Alpha and Omega. Rev. i. 8.
The Amen. Rev. iii. 14.
Faithful and True Witness. Beginning of Creation of God. Rev. iii. 14.
Bridegroom. Matt. xxv. 1.
Shepherd. Bishop. 1 Peter ii 25.
Bread of Life. John vi. 25.
Chief Corner Stone. Eph. ii. 20; 1 Pet. ii. 6.
Captain. Heb. ii. 10.
Day Star. 2 Pet. i. 19.
Deliverer. Rom. xi. 26.
Door. John x. 7, 9.
Faithful and True. Rev. xix. 11.
God Over All. High Priest. Heb. vii. 26.
Lamb of God. John i. 29.
Lion of the Tribe of Judah. Root of David. Rev. v. 5.
Nazarene. Matt. ii. 23.
Passover. 1 Cor. xv. 45.
Refuge. Jer. 16, 19.
Rock, Shield. Psalm xxxiii. 20.
Unspeakable Gift. 2 Cor. ix. 15.
Vine. xv. 1.
Example. 1 Peter ii. 21.
Quickening Spirit. 1 Cor. xv. 45.

J. S. Hatch.

Married.

Miss Ina Snorer, of Kalamazoo, Mich., to Mr. Norman Harper, of Brady, Mich., Jan. 1, 1900. It was our pleasant duty to officiate at this wedding at the home of the bride's parents in Kalamazoo. As the different courses were being served at the pretty 6 o'clock dinner, we thought, another two starting out and their lives will be served out to them in courses. What will it be? The all wise Father has wisely hidden our future from us, but we pray God deal no more of the hard things of life to these than seems to be necessary to bring out the best traits of their characters. They begin their new life with the best wishes of their many friends. Miss Snorer was a successful teacher, a pure true woman. Mr. Harper was a young man highly esteemed by all his many friends. He is the only son of our much loved Brother and Sister Harper. May God's blessing rest upon them.

B. W. Woodward.

OBITUARY.

Francis M. Greenlee, was born in Green County, Tennesee, Nov. 9, 1828, died at Belle Plaine, Jan. 7, 1900. He was married to Miss Alpha M. Gunn, Jan. 31, 1848. Seven years later they moved to Benton County, Ia., locating on a farm, and in 1893 moved into the city of Belle Plaine. When twenty-nine years of age he was converted and united with the Protestant Methodists until, July 2, 1890, when having heard the gospel of the kingdom as preached by Jesus, he gladly received the Word and was baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. Since then he has rejoiced in hope of the promises made to the fathers, and eternal life at the appearing of the great Life-giver. He died in the triumphs of faith, and although his sufferings were great, yet there was no murmuring; and having arranged his business matters with his sons, gathered the whole family and talked with them, blessed them and calmly fell asleep. He was widely known and respected and many assembled at his funeral, to whom the writer spoke words from the Book of God for their consideration, pointing to the resurrection and the Christ as the source of hope and consolation.

A. J. Eychaner.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Stephen Hogarth	3 50
Mrs D Hogarth	3 00
Mrs Thos Pasco	5 00

Subscribe for The Restitution now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance.

Poetry.

Gethsemane.

Yes, 'twas Jesus lafat and lonely,
With his eyes so full of pain
He who looked to God his Father
In the garden,—Gethsemane.

Oh, dear Father, hear my pleadings.
Is it I, who must be slain,
By the cruel, godless soldiers,
In the garden,—Gethsemane?

Oh, my Father, hear me, hear me!
Must I drink the cup of shame?
Not as I say, but if thou say'st
I will die in Gethsemane.

Then the Savior, meek and lowly,
Bowed his head so full of pain;
For he saw the traitor coming,
To the garden,—Gethsemane.

Sadly said he, unto Judas,
Dost betray with kiss of shame?
Oh poor Judas! my lost Judas,
I mourn for thee in Gethsemane.

Then the soldiers roughly took him,
Bore him to' re cruse of shame—
But he looked to God his Father,
As he left fair Gethsemane.

RENA QUACKENBUSH.

Communicated.

The X Ray Papers.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth Light."

Rev. B. I infer, Mr. Mack, from a remark I heard you make a few days ago, that you are being led off by some of the many heresies taught at the present time, claiming the Word of God as their foundation. Among which is denying the immortality of the soul. I would like to have a talk with you on the subject of the nature of man.

Mack. I am quite willing to investigate that subject with you, for I consider the doctrine of the inherent immortality of the soul, the great foundation error of all the errors, taught by the popular sects of the day.

Rev. B. My dear sir, it is not an error, but one of the most sublime doctrines that ever blessed mankind.

Mack. Do the Scriptures anywhere state that the soul of man is immortal, or that he is possessed of a never-dying spirit?

Rev. B. Well no, not in those terms, but we must infer from their teaching, that the soul is immortal, because we have circumstances related in the Scriptures as transpiring, that would be impossible if the soul did not live on in a conscious state after the death of the body; for instance, the answer of Christ to the thief on the cross, of course the thief's body could not go to Paradise that day with Christ, so it must have been his soul that Christ referred to. Then the account of the rich man and Lazarus, and in Revelations John saw the "souls of them that were slain for the Word of God under the altar." They were conscious, for they cried with a loud voice. Then the old Prophet that talked with the Revelator, and the scene of transfiguration, and many more passages of Scripture, that go to prove that man is possessed of an immortal soul.

Mack. Are there not a great many passages of Scripture that sustain the opposite doctrine and teach that man is wholly mortal?

Rev. B. There are some texts taken literally that would appear to favor the soul sleeping idea, but a great part of the Scriptures are not to be taken literally, but must be spiritualized.

Mack. Pray, Bro. B., who is to do the spiritualizing for us? You spiritualize the Scriptures to suit your creed. The Baptists spiritualize to suit their creed, the Presbyterians to suit their creed, and so on with all the different sects, and when they all get it spiritualized to suit each different creed, they have a conglomerated mass of contradictions that no sane man can believe.

Rev. B. Paul tells us in 1 Cor. ii. 14, that "the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them for they are spiritually discerned, therefore a person not born of the Spirit cannot comprehend the teachings of the Word of God.

Mack. Bro. B., have you been born of the Spirit?

Rev. B. Most assuredly I have.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., there is a very plain Scriptural test for a person r being born of the Spirit, you will find it recorded in Christ's conversation with Nicodemus in the iii. 8 of John, "the wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest thy sound thereof, but canst not tell whither it cometh, and whither it goeth, so is every one that is born of the Spirit." Can you come and go as the wind, that we can't tell where you came from, or where you go to?

Rev. B. Oh, my dear sir, that refers to the action of the Spirit and not to the person acted on.

Mack. Let us transpose that text and see how it will appear, "Every one that is born of the Spirit can come and go as the wind, you can't tell where they come from or where they go to." Now Christ illustrated that statement, after he was born of the Spirit, or quickened by the Spirit, or born from the dead. These terms are all synonymous. He came into the room while the door was shut, where the disciples were, and after talking with them he vanished from their sight, they did not know from whence he came or whither he went.

Rev. B. I think you are in error in respect to that matter, but I have never seen it in just that light before. But I am anxious to get back to our subject—the nature of man, where shall we begin?

Mack. Let us begin at the beginning, let us investigate the first man's building up and tearing down, and see if we can find where he got this immortal soul which you claim. In the first place tell me what part of man this immortal soul is.

Rev. B. The soul is the intelligent part of man, the part that does the reasoning thinking, guiding the actions of the body, in fact it is the actual man, the body is nothing more than a tenement of clay, which the soul occupies while here on earth. To begin at the beginning, we will turn to Gen. i. 26, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them." We have here an account of the creation of man in the image of God. Now that image must have been a moral image, for God is a spirit, an immaterial being, without body, parts or passions, and of course man could not have been a personal image, and being a moral image, and God being immortal it would necessarily follow, that man was created immortal, that is the actual man, not the body.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., I am afraid your line of argument when carried out will prove too much. Let us see, God is immortal, therefore, man created in the image of God is also immortal. God is omnipotent, man created in the image of God is therefore omnipotent. God is omnipresent, man created in his image is therefore omnipresent, and so on with all the attributes of God. If man created in the image of God makes him immortal, the same line of reasoning will give him all the other attributes of God. I think Bro. B., you have started out on a false premise in reference to the image in which man was created, therefore your reasoning is all faulty. You claim that God is an immortal, immaterial being, without body, parts or passions. Can you conceive, or imagine anything of such a being, in fact could anything be said to have a being that was composed of nothing, he could be nothing more than a principle. Now, as to the Scriptural statements in reference to God's person. Turn to Ex. xxxiii. 20-23, and read. Here we find that God placed his hand over Moses, while he passed by and he showed Moses his back. Now an immaterial being, if such a being could be conceived of, without body, parts or passions, could not have back parts and hands, yet here we have a God with back parts and hands. In the same passage God speaks of his face. In Ex. xxiv. 9-11, Moses, Aaron and others saw the God of Israel," and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of a sapphire stone." God then has feet, he has eyes for he can see, a mouth for he can speak, ears for he can hear, God has passions, for he can love. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believed on him should not perish, but have everlasting life." In Heb. i. 1-3, our Lord Jesus is said to be the express image of his person. This is an inspired statement that God has a personal form. Therefore, I conclude that the image man was created in was a personal image. Please turn now, Bro. B., to Gen. ii. 7, and read. We have here a more explicit statement in reference to the creation of man.

Rev. B. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Here we have a very specific account of the creation of man and what he is composed of, that is the dust of the ground and the breath of life, or breath of lives as the Hebrew reads. Now breath of lives shows the man received more than one kind of life. God breathed into his nostrils animal life and also a higher life, which constituted him a soul, something that he was not before he received the breath of life or lives. We are shown in a most distinct manner that man is a dual being, having a body and soul, the body formed of the dust, the soul breathed directly from God himself, this soul being the intelligent, accountable part of man, in fact the actual man, for the body before it received the breath of life was inanimate.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., we will examine your argument and see where it will lead us to. In the first place, because the Hebrew reads, the breath of lives in the plural, you assume that God breathed into man two distinct kinds of life, animal life and immortal life. Now, Bro. B., there is nothing in the dust of the ground that would confer immortality. Therefore, whatever of immortality man had after receiving the breath of life, must have existed in that breath. Now, the same breath of life would confer immortality upon any creature receiving it. Now, we find the same expression applied to all the lower order of animal creation. In Gen. vii. 17, we read, "And they went in unto Noah into the ark two and two of all flesh wherein is the health of life (Heb. lives) all flesh certainly includes the whole animal creation including man. Ver. 21 and 22 contain a strong expression still, "and all flesh died that moved upon the earth both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beasts, and every creeping thing, that creepeth upon the face of the earth, and every man. All in whose nostrils was the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land died. Here the whole animal creation are included, and man expressly mentioned with them and all are said to have had in their nostrils the breath of life (Heb. lives). Now, if the breath of life conferred immortality on man, that same breath of life, must confer immortality on all birds, beasts, bugs, beetles, and every creeping thing. I think Bro. B., your argument carried out to its logical conclusion proves a little more than you would be willing to accept of.

But we will go back now, Bro. B., to our text and examine the matter a little further. You say that this immortal part that was breathed into man with the breath of life, is the actual man, the body being merely a tenement for the soul or actual man to occupy while here. Now the text says, "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground." Here then we have the man before he received the breath of life, and nothing said in the text about any other man. Did God form another man and put him inside of the man he had already formed of the dust. We have a very specific account of the formation of the man of dust, but none whatever of the formation of this second man, and I conclude that God did not create a second man and put him inside of the dust made man. And I think it does not become us poor erring mortals to undertake to improve on God's work, and claim to make a better man than he made, and use his man as a tenement for ours. It is said in our text that man, this dust made man became a living soul. Now, Bro. B., let us follow this living soul a little way, and see what became of him. God prepared a garden in the eastern part of Eden, and placed this living soul therein, and gave him a command to obey to test him, to see if he would prove himself worthy of life, the test given him is thus expressed in Gen. ii. 16-17, "And the Lord God commanded the man, saying of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat, but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it, for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Now, Bro. B., we have a penalty here attached to the eating of that forbidden fruit, and as Adam did disobey God and partook of that fruit, what part of him committed the sin, and what part paid the penalty? Was it the body or the soul?

J. H. McCLARY.

(To be continued.)

The Nature of Man.

Being a firm believer in the Word of the living God; believing his Word to be the only true and perfect guide to the Christian, and being very desirous to tell the people what I believe on this subject, and the reason why I believe it, I have therefore taken this plan to let my light shine that others might glorify their Father which is in heaven, of whom Paul says, "Without faith it is impossible to please." I cannot have faith in any one when I doubt their words. If they tell me anything and I guess at the truth of the subject and believe it to be just opposite from what was said, I certainly would have no faith in that person, no matter how much I might claim to have. If I have perfect confidence in any one I always believe their words.

The prophet says, that "God is not a man that he should lie." Solomon says, "A faithful witness will not lie." Our Savior says, "It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." David says, "Thy Word is true from the beginning."

(I). I believe man to be wholly mortal, subject to death.

(II.) That there is no conscious existence between death and the resurrection.

These are my reasons, Gen. ii. 7: "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul.

I cannot believe that it was an immortal soul that God breathed into man when the Word says nothing of this kind but it says plainly, "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul."

Neither can I think that man became an immortal soul, or a never dying soul, because Gen. ii. 16-17 says "the Lord God commanded man, saying of every tree of the garden thou mayest eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat of it, for in the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." The margin says, dying thou shalt die. Gen. iii. 3, "Of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden" God hath said, "Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it lest ye die." 11-12 verses, hast thou eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat? And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave of the tree and I did eat.

The words "and I did eat" show plainly that death would follow, because, "God hath said, ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it lest ye die." The sentence is plain showing what man is, and where he goes at death, see Gen. iii. 17-18-19. And unto Adam he said, because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it; cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herbs of the field; in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return.

Paul says, Rom. v. 12, "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men." Gen. v. 5, "And all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years, and he died. He surely was then a dead soul. For if by adding the breath of life he became a living soul, to take away the breath of life he would then become a dead soul. Job xxxiv. 14-15, "If he set his heart upon man, if he gather unto himself his spirit and his breath; all flesh shall perish together and man shall turn again unto dust." Is not this in harmony with the plain sentence that says, "dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return?" Psa. x 3. 14, "He knoweth our frame, he remembereth that we are dust." Psa. "Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled, thou takest away their breath, they die; and return to their dust." Eccl. xii. 7, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it."

I have learned by the plain Word of the Lord, that man was formed of the dust of the ground. That the Lord says, "dust thou art and unto shalt thou return." That "man shall turn again unto dust." Therefore, when I read Eccl. xii. 7, it is plain that man returns to dust as he was, and the spirit returns unto God who gave it. I cannot see that it ever hints that the spirit is the man.

God breathed into man's nostrils the breath of life. And when man dies the breath of life or the spirit of life returns unto God who gave it. Job xii. 10, "In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind." He is, Num. xvi. 22; xxvii. 16, "The God of the spirit of all flesh." Acts xvii. 28, "For in him we live and move and have our being."

In him Adam lived and moved nine hundred and thirty years and he died (or ceased to live.) Psa. civ. 29. "Thou takest away their breath, they die." Job xiv. 14. "If a man die shall he live again? all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change comes." He here expresses his willingness to wait till his change comes. He says, xvii. 13, xiv. 15, 16, "If I wait the grave is my house: I have made my bed in the darkness. I have said to corruption, Thou art my father; to the worm, Thou art my mother, and my sister. And where is now my hope? as for my hope who shall see it? They shall go down to the bars of the pit when our rest together is in the dust. Psa. xxx. 9, "What profit is there in my blood when I go down to my pit? Shall the dust praise thee? Shall it declare thy truth?"

I believe there is no conscious existence between death and resurrection; because the dead know not anything. Eccl. ix. 5, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. "For in death there is no remembrance of thee; in the grave who shall give thee thanks?" Psa. vi. 5, "Shall thy loving kindness be declared in the grave? or thy faithfulness in destruction? Shall thy wonders be known in the dark? and thy righteousness in the land of forgetfulness. Psa. lxxxviii. 11,12 The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence. Psa. cxv. 17. "For the grave cannot praise thee, death cannot declare thee; they that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth." Isa. xxxviii. 18. "Whatsoever thy hand find to do; do it with thy might: for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave whither thou goest." Eccl. ix. 10.

In the face of all this, it is impossible for me to believe that man—at death—goes to heaven, or to Paradise as some say, or to the lake that burns with fire and brimstone. He, according to the Word of the Lord, "shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt." Dan. xii. 2. The hour is coming, in which all that are in the grave shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation. John v. 18, 29; v. 28-29.

The creation of man, and the sentence God passed, is the A, B, C, of his Book, and when we learn this, if life we desire, we must to Jesus Christ look.

For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead; for as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the first fruits: afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming. 1 Cor. xv. 21-22-23. It is he who says, "I am the resurrection and the life." John xi. 25. "I am he that liveth and was dead. And behold, I am alive for evermore, and have the keys of hell and of death." Rev. i. 18. Good news: to hear that we have a Savior who has the keys of hell (or the grave) and of death; or in other words, who has the power to unlock the grave and give life.

I can say with Paul, that "I am not ashamed of the gospel (or good news) of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. Rom. i. 16.

EMMA FUGATE.

Our Love Feast.

Dear ones of like faith:

The day of glory, the age to come will soon dawn upon this dark and fallen world. The signs in the natural, and political, the scientific, the mechanical, the moral, and religious world, among Jews, Christians, Pagans and Mohammedans proclaim in trumpet tones that the day of the Lord is nigh at hand. The moralists, the socialists and Christian Scientists are combing together to sweep the world as a monarch, while the political element and imperialism has all over the nations of earth brought forth the element of lust for gain and the spirit of war for gold and for fame. While these things exist only as omens of the final struggle with Christ and his saints with the elements of the nations of the earth who will be combined together for the destruction of the Jews, who are peaceably living in the City of Jerusalem. See Zech. xiv. 1, 2; Rev. xvi. We see the kings of the earth and the whole organized world are represented as being gathered to the battle of that great day of God Almighty, soon to appear under the auspices of the beast, the dragon and the false prophet. In Rev. xix. the issues of this great battle are graphically described by the prophet. Christ is represented as riding forth upon a white horse, conquering and to conquer, and in righteousness judging and making war. His eyes are as a flame of fire while his vesture is crimsoned with the heart's blood of the conquered kings whose many crowns adorn his princely head. The armies from heaven follow in his victorious march while from his vesture shall flash forth the significant title "King of kings and Lord of lords, and according to Isaiah lx. 15-2 the Lord is represented as coming with fire and sword to plead with judgment against an ungodly world. All flesh represented in opposing forces of the world are utterly destroyed. As the whole body of Christ was broken, so the whole body politic of the world shall be broken. Also, while we see the northern beast and the dragons of earth with the false prophet crying for peace and safety while at the same time they are making great preparation for war to meet the coming crisis with God's ancient people and the supremacy of the world. As Potentate and King, God is now manifesting to the nations of the earth the fulfillment of his promise to Israel, through the Zionist movement, his favors with Jerusalem and the Holy Land with refreshing showers of rain, with fruitful seasons and green foliage of grasses with fragrant flowers, with railroad facilities for transportation and commerce with the outer world, all go to show that he is setting his hand the second time to gather his people, Israel, out from the nations where they have been sent, to plant them in Jerusalem and the land of their fathers forevermore. When Israel is brought back they constitute the kingdom of God again, while Christ as the seed of Abraham and the Son of David will obtain the kingdom and its territory by right of heir-ship. He will obtain the dominion by right of conquest, hence, his kingdom must break in pieces all interposing kingdoms before it becomes a great mountain and fills the whole earth. When this great time shall have been reached, then will ring through heaven and earth the closing doxology of our Lord's Prayer, "Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, forever. Amen." As we see the times of restitution are about to begin, I will say to the brethren whose high calling is in Christ Jesus, who is elected by the gospel and obedience of faith, who has been made heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ to the throne and kingdom of David, let me exhort you in love to hold fast to the faith, to be patient in tribulation, to be qualified to enter the sacred duties that will be involved upon you as kings and priests unto our God in the ages to come.

Submitted in love to all the brethren in Christ.

H. METHENY.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

Some three weeks ago I started for a winter tour among some of my religious friends and I have learned of an incident worth relating. My native home is in the vicinity of Browntown, Va., yet in my husband's lifetime I traveled with him all through the states of Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. Consequently I have a great many acquaintances, and often have the opportunity to collect little items which are useful in their place, and I write this one so we may all the more appreciate the dear old RESTITUTION, which makes its regular weekly visits to cheer the little flock, and feed them with its choicest food, and it is not only appreciated by the brotherhood at large, but by many other intelligent people. Now the case to which I refer is this. Among my acquaintances I know a very worthy young man whose moral character and intellectual ability is unsurpassed in a worldly point of view, and of late he has concluded to examine the sentiments of all the religious bodies now extant, and he called on them all for a copy of their faiths and their religious papers that he might compare them with each other and sum up the whole testimony, and then be able if possible to see which was the nearest right, or the most comprehensible, and he decided that THE RESTITUTION was the best religious paper that he had found among them all. So far he has never united with any religious body and we sincerely hope he will be successful in being made wise unto salvation, as was Timothy of old, and reap the reward of eternal life in the kingdom of God. O, how I do hope and trust that the good Lord may put it in the hearts of all his dear children to help in due time to hold up the hands of our dear Brethren who are striving so hard under any and all circumstances to publish the paper and that it may still go forth bearing the precious truths to enlighten the minds of the people till the Master comes to reward his servants with eternal life in his kingdom.

Yours in hope of life when Jesus comes.

S. F. MORGAN

[illegible] THE RESTITUTION to some poor [illegible] as present for 1900. The cost [illegible] only 60 cents a week.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Pike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 917 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Cheebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Rennert Wines, Peterton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hom, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sedroville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind
J. J. Cody, Holbrook, Neb.
J. F. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 323 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4007, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidel, Ill.
R. P. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Ozawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Alton, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Rome, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 Sonth Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stoffo, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Posey, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 3711 0th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Baxter Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
H. T. Baker, Box 357 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Gain, Jefferson, Ore.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 30 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God, —Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 50 for $3 00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Subscribe for THE RESTITUTION now. We will send all the papers to the end of this year and all of 1900 to new subscribers who pay one year in advance.

Homeseekers Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to points in the west, northwest and southwest on Jan. 10th and Feb. 6th, 1900. Tickets are available on above dates good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for the round trip. For full information and particulars inquire of agents Nickel Plate Road.—feb 6

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

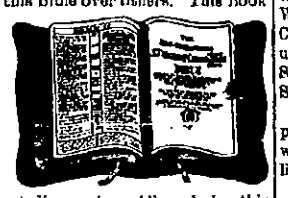
WILL YOU TRY IT?

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.



The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible,	$3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900,	1.50.
Total,	$5.00

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

They that sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH, X. The points of the covenant.

gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works. B.C. 446.

36 Behold, d we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it: d Deut. 28. 48. Ezra 9. 8.

37 And e it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have f dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress. e Deut. 28. 33, 51. f Deut. 28. 44. 2 Chr. 12. 8. Ezra 9. 9. Neh. 9. 36.

38 And because of all this we g make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Lē'vites, and priests, h seal unto it. g Neh. 9. 38. 2 Kings 11. 17. 2 Chr. 23. 16. 29. 10. 34. 31. Ezra 10. 3. h 1 Kings 21. 8. Jer. 32. 10, 44. Neh. 9. 38.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 30 The points of the covenant.

NOW a those that sealed were, b Nĕ-he-mī'ah, c the Tĭr-shā'thă, b the son of Hăch-a-lī'ah, and Zĭd-kī'jah, a Neh. 9. 38. b Ezra 2. 63. Neh. 7. 65. c See ch. 12. 1-26.

2 d Sĕr-a-ī'ah, Az-a-rī'ah, Jĕr-e-mī'ah, d Jer. 29. 1.

3 Pāsh'ŭr, Am-a-rī'ah, Mĭl-chī'jah,

4 Hăt'tŭsh, Shĕb-a-nī'ah, Măl'lŭch,

5 Hā'rim, Mĕr'e-mŏth, O-ba-dī'ah,

6 Dăn'jel, Gĭn'nē-thon, Bā'ruch,

7 Mĕ-shūl'lam, A-bī'jah, Mĭj'a-mĭn,

8 Mā-a-zī'ah, Bĭl'ga-ī, Shĕm-a-ī'ah: these were the priests.

9 And the Lē'vites: both Jē'shu-a the son of Az-a-nī-ah, Bĭn'nu-ī of the sons of Hĕn'a-dăd, Kăd'mĭ-el;

10 And their brethren, Shĕb-a-nī'ah, Hō-dī'jah, Kĕl'i-tă, Pĕl-a-ī'ah, Hă'nan,

11 Mī'chă, Rē'hŏb, Hash-a-bī'ah,

12 Zăc'cur, Shĕr-e-bī'ah, Shăb-a-nī'ah,

13 Hō-dī'jah, Bā'nī, Bĕn'i-nū.

14 The chief of the people; i Pā'rŏsh, Pā'hath-mō'ab, Ē'lăm, Zăt'tŭ, Bā'nī,

15 Bŭn'nī, Az'gad, Bĕb'a-ī,

16 Ăd-o-nī'jah, Big'va-ī, A'dĭn,

17 A'tēr, Hĭz-kī'jah, Az'ur,

18 Hō-dī'jah, Hā'shum, Bĕ'zăi,

19 Hā'rĭph, An'a-thŏth, Nē-bā'ī,

20 Măg-pī'ăh, Mĕ-shūl'lam, Hē'zĭr,

21 Mĕ-shĕz'a-bē-el, Zā'dŏk, Jad-dū'ă,

22 Pĕ-a-tī'ah, Hā'nan, An-a-ī'ah,

23 Hō-shē'a, Hăn-a-nī'ah, Hĭ'shub,

24 Hăl-lō'hesh, Pĭl'ha, Shō'bek,

25 Rē'hŭm, Hā-shăb'nah, Mā-a-sē'jah,

26 And A-hī'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan, e Mĭl'lŭch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah. e Ezra 2. 4.

27 Mĭl'lŭch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.

28 ¶ f And the rest of the people, the priests, the Lē'vites, the porters, the singers, the Nĕth'i-nim, g and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding; f Ezra 2. 43. g Ezra 6. 21.

29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, h and entered into a curse, and into an oath, i to walk in God's law, which was given k by Mō'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our LORD, and his judgments and his statutes; h Neh. 6. 18. i Deut. 29. 12, 14. k Ezra 9. 11. 2 Kings 21. 8. Dan. 9. 10.

30 And that we would not give l our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons: l Ezra 9. 12. Neh. 13. 25.

31 m And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the n seventh year, and the o exaction of p every debt. m Ex. 20. 10. Neh. 13. 15. Jer. 17. 21. Amos 8. 5. n Ex. 23. 11. Deut. 15. 1. o Deut. 15. 2. p Or, debt.

32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;

33 For q the shewbread, and for the r continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God. q Ex. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. Num. 4. 7. 1 Chr. 9. 32. 23. 29. 2 Chr. 2. 4. 13. 11. r Ex. 29. 38. Num. 28. 3. 1 Chr. 16. 40. 2 Chr. 2. 4. 31. 3. Ezra 3. 3. Dan. 8. 11. 12. 13. 11. 31. 12. 11. Hos. 12. 10. Amos 4. 4. Mal. 1. 7, 8. 12. 13. 14. 1 Chr. 23. 31. 2 Chr. 2. 4. 8. 13. Ezra 3. 5. Neh. 10. 33. Ps. 81. 3. Isa. 1. 13. Ezek. 45. 17. 46. 3. Hos. 2. 11. Amos 8. 5. Col. 2. 16.

34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Lē'vites, and the people, s for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law: s Neh. 13. 31. Isa. 43. 24. Ezek. 39. 10. Mal. 3. 10.

35 And t to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD: t Ex. 23. 19. 34. 26. Lev. 19. 23. Num. 18. 12. Deut. 26. 2.

36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

[Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.]

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Lifeupon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:36pm
No. 8, " " " 10:08pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:01a m
No. 3, " " " .....12.35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:30pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Bowen, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Eastward. | 6 | 18 | 20 | 8 | 22 | | Pullman Sleeping Cars on No. 18, Pullman Vestibuled Dining and Sleeping Cars on Nos. 6, 8 and 9.
Pittsburgh, lv | 7 00 | | 12 | 7 | 30 | | Dark Green Type denotes P.M.
Alliance, ar | 8 50 | | 1 | 8 | 55 | |
Union, lv | 10 | | | | | |
Hazelton, " | | | | | | |
Wooster, " | | | | | | |
Mansfield, " | | | | | | |
Crestline, ar | | | | | | |
Bucyrus, lv | | | | | | |
Lima, " | | | | | | |
Van Wert, " | | | | | | |
Ft Wayne, " | 1 15 | 3 45 | 5 15 | 12 30 | 7 30 | |
Argos, " | | | | | | |
Culver, " | | | | | | |
Logansport, " | | | | | | |
Peru, " | | | | | | |
Warsaw, " | 5 25 | 6 | | | | |
Pine Grove, " | | | | | | |
Bourbon, " | | | | | | |
Plymouth, " | 6 17 | 6 | | | | |
Cleveremont, " | | | | | | |
Hobart, " | | | | | | |
Lake, " | | | | | | |
Hanna, " | | | | | | |
West Oak, " | | | | | | |
Valparaiso, " | 7 15 | 8 35 | | | | |
Wanatah, " | | | | | | |
Hanna, " | | | | | | |
Liverpool, " | | | | | | |
Chicago, ar | 8 35 | 7 45 | 8 05 | 3 15 | 9 45 | |

Eastward. | 20 | 8 | 0 | 50 | 22 | 14
Chicago, lv | 7 30 | 1 00 | 11 20 | 12 35 | 4 50 | 6 20
Tinley, " | 8 25 | | 12 00 | 1 25 | 5 40 | 7 10
Liverpool, " | 8 55 | | 12 30 | 1 55 | 6 10 | 7 40
Hanna, " | 9 55 | | 1 30 | | | |
Wanatah, " | 10 05 | | 1 40 | | | |
Hanna, " | 10 15 | | 1 50 | | | |
Valparaiso, " | 10 30 | 3 45 | 2 05 | 3 10 | 7 15 | 8 45
Wanatah, " | 10 45 | | 2 20 | | | |
Hanna, " | 10 55 | | 2 30 | | | |
Bourbon, " | 11 05 | | 2 40 | | | |
Plymouth, " | 11 20 | 4 30 | 2 55 | 3 45 | 7 50 | 9 20
Warsaw, " | 11 40 | | 3 15 | | | |
Peru, " | 11 55 | | 3 30 | | | |
Cleveremont, " | 12 10 | | 3 45 | | | |
Logansport, " | 12 30 | 5 15 | 4 05 | 4 30 | 8 35 | 10 05
Culver, " | | | | | | |
Argos, " | | | | | | |
Columbia City, " | 1 05 | 5 45 | 4 40 | 5 05 | 9 05 | 10 35
Arcola, " | | | | | | |
Ft Wayne, " | 1 45 | 6 25 | 5 20 | 5 45 | 9 45 | 11 15
Van Wert, " | | | | | | |
Lima, " | | | | | | |
Bucyrus, " | | | | | | |
Crestline, ar | 3 10 | 7 50 | 6 45 | 7 10 | 11 00 | AM
Mansfield, lv | 3 25 | 8 05 | 7 00 | 7 25 | 11 15 |
Wooster, " | | | | | | |
Hazelton, " | | | | | | |
Canton, " | | | | | | |
Alliance, ar | 4 40 | 9 15 | 8 15 | 8 40 | 12 30 | |
Pittsb'gh, ar | 6 50 | 11 20 | 10 30 | 10 50 | 2 40 | |
| AM | AM | PM | | | |

L. F. LORNE, General Manager,
E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
11-19-99-F PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

NICKEL PLATE

10—15—1899

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on thru trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastward. | All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily. | Westward.

Lv.						Ar.
12.55	1	2	3	Chicago	4	11.45
1.40	2	3	4	Valparaiso	3	10.55
2.25	3	4	5	Kouts	2	10.05
2.40	4	5	6	Hebron	1	9.50
3.25	5	6	7	Walkerton		9.05
3.40	6	7	8	Bremen		8.50
4.00	7	8	9	Plymouth		8.30
4.15	8	9	10	Maxinkuckee		8.15
4.30	9	10	11	Culver		8.00
4.45	10	11	12	Monterey		7.45
5.00	11	12	13	Burr Oak Junction		7.30
5.15	12	13	14	Bippus		7.15
5.30	13	14	15	Huntington		7.00
5.45	14	15	16	Roanoke		6.45
6.00	15	16	17	Warren		6.30
6.15	16	17	18	Urbana		6.15
6.30	17	18	19	Mechanicsburg		6.00
6.45	18	19	20	Kenton		5.45
7.00	19	20	21	Forest		5.30
7.15	20	21	22	Leipsic		5.15
7.30	21	22	23	Ottawa		5.00
7.45	22	23	24	Delphos		4.45
8.00	23	24	25	Spencerville		4.30
8.15	24	25	26	Elida		4.15
8.30	25	26	27	Lima		4.00
8.45	26	27	28	Shawnee		3.45
9.00	27	28	29	Bluffton		3.30
9.15	28	29	30	Harrod		3.15
9.30	29	30	31	Lafayette Junction		3.00
9.45	30	31	32	Ada		2.45
10.00	31	32	33	Kenton		2.30
10.15	32	33	34	Upper Sandusky		2.15
10.30	33	34	35	Carey		2.00
10.45	34	35	36	Fostoria		1.45
11.00	35	36	37	Bascom		1.30
11.15	36	37	38	Tiffin		1.15
11.30	37	38	39	Republic		1.00
11.45	38	39	40	New Riegel		12.45
12.00	39	40	41	Bettsville		12.30
12.15	40	41	42	Fremont		12.15
12.30	41	42	43	Clyde		12.00
12.45	42	43	44	Green Springs		11.45
1.00	43	44	45	Tiffin		11.30
1.15	44	45	46	Republic		11.15
1.30	45	46	47	New Riegel		11.00
1.45	46	47	48	Bettsville		10.45
2.00	47	48	49	Fremont		10.30
2.15	48	49	50	Clyde		10.15
2.30	49	50	51	Green Springs		10.00
2.45	50	51	52	Tiffin		9.45
3.00	51	52	53	Republic		9.30
3.15	52	53	54	New Riegel		9.15
3.30	53	54	55	Bettsville		9.00
3.45	54	55	56	Fremont		8.45
4.00	55	56	57	Clyde		8.30
4.15	56	57	58	Green Springs		8.15
4.30	57	58	59	Tiffin		8.00
4.45	58	59	60	Republic		7.45
5.00	59	60	61	New Riegel		7.30
5.15	60	61	62	Bettsville		7.15
5.30	61	62	63	Fremont		7.00
5.45	62	63	64	Clyde		6.45
6.00	63	64	65	Green Springs		6.30
6.15	64	65	66	Tiffin		6.15
6.30	65	66	67	Republic		6.00
6.45	66	67	68	New Riegel		5.45
7.00	67	68	69	Bettsville		5.30
7.15	68	69	70	Fremont		5.15
7.30	69	70	71	Clyde		5.00
7.45	70	71	72	Green Springs		4.45
8.00	71	72	73	Tiffin		4.30
8.15	72	73	74	Republic		4.15
8.30	73	74	75	New Riegel		4.00
8.45	74	75	76	Bettsville		3.45
9.00	75	76	77	Fremont		3.30
9.15	76	77	78	Clyde		3.15
9.30	77	78	79	Green Springs		3.00
9.45	78	79	80	Tiffin		2.45
10.00	79	80	81	Republic		2.30
10.15	80	81	82	New Riegel		2.15
10.30	81	82	83	Bettsville		2.00
10.45	82	83	84	Fremont		1.45
11.00	83	84	85	Clyde		1.30
11.15	84	85	86	Green Springs		1.15
11.30	85	86	87	Tiffin		1.00
11.45	86	87	88	Republic		12.45
12.00	87	88	89	New Riegel		12.30
12.15	88	89	90	Bettsville		12.15
12.30	89	90	91	Fremont		12.00
12.45	90	91	92	Clyde		11.45
1.00	91	92	93	Green Springs		11.30
1.15	92	93	94	Tiffin		11.15
1.30	93	94	95	Republic		11.00
1.45	94	95	96	New Riegel		10.45
2.00	95	96	97	Bettsville		10.30
2.15	96	97	98	Fremont		10.15
2.30	97	98	99	Clyde		10.00
2.45	98	99	100	Green Springs		9.45
3.00	99	100	101	Tiffin		9.30
3.15	100	101	102	Republic		9.15
3.30	101	102	103	New Riegel		9.00
3.45	102	103	104	Bettsville		8.45
4.00	103	104	105	Fremont		8.30
4.15	104	105	106	Clyde		8.15
4.30	105	106	107	Green Springs		8.00
4.45	106	107	108	Tiffin		7.45
5.00	107	108	109	Republic		7.30
5.15	108	109	110	New Riegel		7.15
5.30	109	110	111	Bettsville		7.00
5.45	110	111	112	Fremont		6.45
6.00	111	112	113	Clyde		6.30
6.15	112	113	114	Green Springs		6.15
6.30	113	114	115	Tiffin		6.00
6.45	114	115	116	Republic		5.45
7.00	115	116	117	New Riegel		5.30
7.15	116	117	118	Bettsville		5.15
7.30	117	118	119	Fremont		5.00
7.45	118	119	120	Clyde		4.45
8.00	119	120	121	Green Springs		4.30
8.15	120	121	122	Tiffin		4.15
8.30	121	122	123	Republic		4.00
8.45	122	123	124	New Riegel		3.45
9.00	123	124	125	Bettsville		3.30
9.15	124	125	126	Fremont		3.15
9.30	125	126	127	Clyde		3.00
9.45	126	127	128	Green Springs		2.45
10.00	127	128	129	Tiffin		2.30
10.15	128	129	130	Republic		2.15
10.30	129	130	131	New Riegel		2.00
10.45	130	131	132	Bettsville		1.45
11.00	131	132	133	Fremont		1.30
11.15	132	133	134	Clyde		1.15
11.30	133	134	135	Green Springs		1.00
11.45	134	135	136	Tiffin		12.45
12.00	135	136	137	Republic		12.30
12.15	136	137	138	New Riegel		12.15
12.30	137	138	139	Bettsville		12.00
12.45	138	139	140	Fremont		11.45
1.00	139	140	141	Clyde		11.30
1.15	140	141	142	Green Springs		11.15
1.30	141	142	143	Tiffin		11.00
1.45	142	143	144	Republic		10.45
2.00	143	144	145	New Riegel		10.30
2.15	144	145	146	Bettsville		10.15
2.30	145	146	147	Fremont		10.00
2.45	146	147	148	Clyde		9.45
3.00	147	148	149	Green Springs		9.30
3.15	148	149	150	Tiffin		9.15
3.30	149	150	151	Republic		9.00
3.45	150	151	152	New Riegel		8.45
4.00	151	152	153	Bettsville		8.30
4.15	152	153	154	Fremont		8.15
4.30	153	154	155	Clyde		8.00
4.45	154	155	156	Green Springs		7.45
5.00	155	156	157	Tiffin		7.30
5.15	156	157	158	Republic		7.15
5.30	157	158	159	New Riegel		7.00
5.45	158	159	160	Bettsville		6.45
6.00	159	160	161	Fremont		6.30
6.15	160	161	162	Clyde		6.15
6.30	161	162	163	Green Springs		6.00
6.45	162	163	164	Tiffin		5.45
7.00	163	164	165	Republic		5.30
7.15	164	165	166	New Riegel		5.15
7.30	165	166	167	Bettsville		5.00
7.45	166	167	168	Fremont		4.45
8.00	167	168	169	Clyde		4.30
8.15	168	169	170	Green Springs		4.15
8.30	169	170	171	Tiffin		4.00
8.45	170	171	172	Republic		3.45
9.00	171	172	173	New Riegel		3.30
9.15	172	173	174	Bettsville		3.15
9.30	173	174	175	Fremont		3.00
9.45	174	175	176	Clyde		2.45
10.00	175	176	177	Green Springs		2.30
10.15	176	177	178	Tiffin		2.15
10.30	177	178	179	Republic		2.00
10.45	178	179	180	New Riegel		1.45
11.00	179	180	181	Bettsville		1.30
11.15	180	181	182	Fremont		1.15
11.30	181	182	183	Clyde		1.00
11.45	182	183	184	Green Springs		12.45
12.00	183	184	185	Tiffin		12.30
12.15	184	185	186	Republic		12.15
12.30	185	186	187	New Riegel		12.00
12.45	186	187	188	Bettsville		11.45
1.00	187	188	189	Fremont		11.30
1.15	188	189	190	Clyde		11.15
1.30	189	190	191	Green Springs		11.00
1.45	190	191	192	Tiffin		10.45
2.00	191	192	193	Republic		10.30
2.15	192	193	194	New Riegel		10.15
2.30	193	194	195	Bettsville		10.00
2.45	194	195	196	Fremont		9.45
3.00	195	196	197	Clyde		9.30
3.15	196	197	198	Green Springs		9.15
3.30	197	198	199	Tiffin		9.00
3.45	198	199	200	Republic		8.45
4.00	199	200	201	New Riegel		8.30
4.15	200	201	202	Bettsville		8.15
4

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JANUARY 24, 1900. NUMBER 4.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Oregon State College
Oregon, State

Poetry.

As Thy Day.

As this my day! O promise blest!
Sweet words of comfort, words of rest,
No more with longing fear I wait
To read tomorrow's mystic fate.
Whate'er its toils, with me 'tis peace.
Whate'er its perils, gains, and fears,
While sun and stars and worlds endure,
The old, sweet promise stands as sure.

The hand that holds the world up bears
My weary heart with all its cares.
The eye that slumbers not has seen
My grass-covered mounds with grasses green.
My Father's pitying love has read
The pain behind the tears I shed.
How comforting his words to me:
"Child, as thy day, thy strength shall be."

Long, long ago, when life was new,
I learned that love divinely true,
That watchful care, which cares for all,
The stars' grand march, the sparrow's fall.
Long, long ago, I learned to trust
That calm, wise will and purpose just.
Worn, weary, wounded, now at length
I lean upon the matchless strength.

As this my day, my little day,—
My broken, troubled, thwarted day,—
The day when roseate morning bloom
Was quenched and darkened into gloom,—
The morn of gifts! the noon of loss!
The length'ning shadow of the cross!
Once more, my Father, say to me,
"Child, as thy day, thy strength shall be."

—Mrs. Mary H. Fair.

Communicated.

Baptism

In our [illegible] of baptism as taught in the Scriptures, as believed in and practiced by all professed Christians, we are compelled to believe it to be one of the most important doctrines taught by Christ and his inspired Apostles not only a subject taught, but a command to be obeyed by all believers of the glad tidings of the kingdom in order to become an heir of God and a joint heir with Jesus the Christ, and a partaker of the great salvation. Heb. ii. 3. Christ tells us as testified by Mark, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark xvi. 16. Christ himself setting the example; receiving the witness from heaven that he pleased God who acknowledged him to be his Son. Mark i. 11.

Seeing that baptism is indispensable, we should not only be baptized, but should be sure our baptism is Scriptural, lest we may fail to partake of his Divine nature. I am well aware that there are differences of opinion as to the mode, and not all agreed as to the formula to be used in administering the holy ordinance. Some, in fact nearly all believe in trine baptism, holding that the words of Father, Son and Holy Ghost as recorded in Matt. xxviii. 19, was given by Christ to be ever after used as a formula, but such could not have been the case, for it conflicts with all the teachings of the other Apostles. Mark the only other one of the witnesses that testifies to the commission given by Christ, says nothing about what name they were to be baptized in. Mark xvi. 15, 16, but agrees with Matthew in respect to going and preaching. Well, then, seeing that the only two witnesses do not agree as to the words in the commission, we must look to the teachings of the Apostles. After Christ rose from the dead he commanded them to tarry at Jerusalem until they were endowed with power from on high, Luke xxiv. 49, for he had promised that he would send them another Comforter, the Holy Ghost, which would bring to their memory the things he had said to them and teach them all things, and guide them into all truth, and show them things to come. John xiv. 16, 17, 26; xv. 13; xvi. 7. And on the notable day of Pentecost while they were all in one place with one accord, agreeable to the promise the power came, "and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance." Acts ii. 4. And after Peter had explained to the amazed multitude that it was the fulfillment of the promise, and convinced them of their wickedness, they were pricked in their hearts and said unto Peter and to the rest of the Apostles, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Acts ii. 37.

The answer was, not to be baptized in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost; if not, why not? No one who believes the Scriptures will doubt Peter's being filled with the Holy Ghost, and no one who believes the Scriptures will doubt the Holy Ghost guiding him into all truth, and no one believing the Scriptures will doubt Luke's testimony that he spoke as the Spirit gave him utterance, then if it be true that the Holy Ghost caused him to speak the words he uttered, and they were not in harmony with the words given by Matthew, it is certain that the words given by Matthew were not intended to be a formula to call over the subject being baptized.

Peter's answer was, "Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Acts ii. 38. He tells them for what purpose they were to be baptized, "for the remission of sins," in harmony with Mark xvi. 16, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." The name of Jesus Christ, the Lord, the Lord Jesus, or one of the titles by which he was known, was the name the Apostles were instructed to do all their work in. When Peter and John went to the temple and saw the lame man that lay at the beautiful gate desiring alms, Peter said to him, "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk." Acts iii. 6. [illegible] baptized in.

When the [illegible] Peter and John to explain how the lame man was healed. Peter said to them, "Be it known unto you all..... that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand before you whole." Neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Acts iv. 7-12.

Think of it, friends, the inspired Peter speaking as he was moved by the Holy Ghost, the power given to remind him of all that the great Teacher had said to him, and guide him into all truth, says there is no other name whereby we must be saved but the name of Jesus Christ. It seems strange that in view of such positive declarations from inspired servants of the Most High, that teachers will add other names, thereby incurring the curse Rev. xxii. 18. The next instance recorded is where Philip preached to and baptized the Samaritans. The record says, "Only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus." Acts viii. 16. The same name Peter commanded the enquiring multitude at Jerusalem to be baptized in.

Again, when Peter by special command went and told Cornelius words whereby he might be saved, about eight years after his first sermon at Jerusalem, he still continues in the same mind, guided by the same Spirit, and after they heard his sermon and believed, "He commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord." Acts x. 33, 34. We further find that Paul preached the same gospel as Peter, for Acts xix. 5, we read that at Ephesus he found disciples who had been baptized into John's baptism, and after he gave them instructions they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. Paul, though not so early in the ministry as the other Apostles, claims to have received his instructions direct from Christ. Gal. i. 11, 12, and the last that saw him, as one born out of due time. 1 Cor. xv. 8. Paul in his letter to the Church at Colossia, about thirty-one years after the commission was given, says to them, "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him." Col. iii. 17. I fail to find any record that the Church at Colossia had ever been preached to by Matthew, prior to Paul's letter, and it is reasonable to conclude that they administered the ordinance of baptism, and baptizing being ordered, they had to do it in the name of the Lord Jesus, for Paul's instructions were, "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed do all in the name of the Lord Jesus."

Paul's instructions to the Colossians is in harmony with Peter when he said, "There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts iv. 12. From the foregoing testimony it is clear that Matthew xxviii. 19, was not given as a formula, for it is not corroborated by any of the inspired writers. The name of the Lord, Lord Jesus, or Jesus Christ is the proper name or words (if any are) to be used in baptizing.

Again, Paul says, Col. i. 19, "That it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell." And again, Col. ii. 9, "For in him (Christ) dwelleth all the fulness of the godhead bodily." It is claimed that the Father, Son and Holy Ghost constitute the God-head, if so to use the name Lord Jesus would represent the entire God-head, which agrees with Peter and Paul, and to use the other two names in connection with Christ's would be as absurd as to use the names of Abraham and David, for the covenants made with Abraham and David both culminate in him, besides the form as is given by Paul, Rom. vi. forbids: we are to be buried with him, by baptism into death, and as Christ was raised from the dead, so in form we must be raised from the watery grave, the form symbolizing his death and resurrection. being baptized for the dead. 1 Cor. xv. 29. And if we are baptized for the dead, we certainly do not want to be [illegible]

[illegible] and Holy Ghost did not die, were not buried, were not resurrected, but the Lord Jesus was.

If we are to cling to the words of Matt. xxviii. 19, we would be at sea without a chart or compass, it reads, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations (make disciples [illegible] all nations, margin), baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." It will be observed that the command is "all nations." The command is imperative on the Apostles, they must make Christians of all nations, whether the nations are willing or not, quite different from the commission Mark xvi. 15-16, which reads, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." The command to go and preach is imperative the same as in Matthew, but the believing and being baptized is discretionary with the other party, a part over which the preacher has no control. We have no evidence, either sacred or secular, that they ever baptized one nation, much less all nations, but we have the evidence that they complied with the commission given by Mark; the same words "all nations," given by Matthew in his commission are the same as given in Matt. xxv. 32, "And before him shall be gathered all nations." If it is national in one instance, it surely is in both; but while all nations shall be judged in the last day, it is not in God's plan of redemption to compel individuals or nations to be saved. The Apostles were qualified to preach to all nations when they were given the use of other tongues; but they only presented the glad tidings of the kingdom, giving the people an opportunity to be saved.

Brethren and friends, if I am wrong in my views on baptism, I will be thankful if some one would set me right. "Let him know, he which converteth the sinner from the error of way, shall save a soul from death and shall hide a multitude of sins." Jas. v. 20.

C. P. GRAHAM.

Church Unity.

"That ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind, striving together for the faith of the gospel." Phil. i. 27.

The above was Paul's excellent advise to the Philippians, which if carried into practical effect, would produce harmony of feeling, action and purpose; and would also crown with abundant success every effort made to proclaim the Word of Life to sinners. It could not be otherwise.

1. "Stand fast." It would eliminate all fickleness, hobby riding, or any desire to compromise the gospel with apostacy. False, last day liberalism could find no congenial home with a congregation acting consistently with the above apostolic injunction.

2. "One spirit," and "one mind," signifies unity of mind, while to "stand fast," shows the permanency of that "one spirit" or "one mind." In a congregation of "one mind," there could be no division, schism, or lack of harmony.

3. "Striving together for the faith of the gospel." This signifies a unity of mind as to what constitutes "the faith of the gospel." That being the case, there could be no difficulty in "striving together for the faith of the gospel." No organization could "strive together" in "one mind," unless they were a unit in "the faith of the gospel." A congregation entertaining in their midst those who are adverse to proclaiming the gospel as preached by Jesus and his disciples, must ever be a source of trouble, and a professor of discord when they come in contact with those who "stand fast in one spirit, and one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel."

The Apostle further adds: "Let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing." A church who (under a plea, that we be liberal) [illegible]

Why should he with "much contention," be "bold" in the ministry of the gospel? For the reason that the gospel is a message freighted with results of the most momentous importance. Why, upon its acceptance or rejection hangs either eternal life, or unending death, and he had an earnest interest in his auditors that the benefits arising from its belief and obedience may accrue to his hearers. See 2 Tim. i. 10. "But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who hath ABOLISHED DEATH, and hath brought LIFE and IMMORTALITY to light THROUGH THE GOSPEL." What could be more important than the abolition of the great enemy—death, and the way made clear how to obtain life and immortality? This is all "striving together for the faith of the gospel." Is it not worth advocating, even with "much contention," if necessary? Says Jude: "Ye should earnestly CONTEND for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints."

It may be interesting to enquire, how did Christ bring life and immortality to light through the gospel? Was it not known in the long ago? Daniel said: "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to EVERLASTING LIFE, and some to shame and everlasting contempt." And yet Jesus Christ brought to light the immortality promised in the [illegible] to Abraham, in a sense [illegible]

[illegible] that in the person of Jesus death hath been "abolished." "I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive forevermore."

As the Seed of David, Jesus was heir to the royalty of David; as the Seed of [illegible] the second Adam he is entitled to the dominion forfeited by Adam. To fulfil his manifest destiny, then it was needful that death in his person should be "abolished," and it has been "abolish i." It was equally needful that it should also be abolished also in his co-heirs. "When this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory THROUGH OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST."

"Jesus Christ of the Seed of David, hath been raised from the dead according to my gospel." All his co-heirs also, if raised from the dead, must be raised according to the gospel. Now, any piece of human fiction that men may please to call gospel, will never produce the desired result. Hence, love for the welfare of our fellows should lead us, like the fearless Apostle Paul to be "bold," even to "much contention," if needful to preserve the purity of the ancient faith of the gospel.

W. H. WILSON.

Tea, Not Sermons.

What is conceded to be the most unique departure from established church customs that has yet been inaugurated by All Souls' church is that just put into effect. It is no less than the abolishing of the Sunday night services altogether, and the entertaining instead of the church members and congregation in the home of the pastor, Rev. Leslie W. Sprague, 147 Lake avenue. The new plan was announced after due conference with the governing boards of the church, and bids fair to work admirably. Mr. and Mrs. Sprague are to entertain from 5 o'clock until 8 Sunday evenings.

Last Sunday their residence was crowded with church members and others, curious to see the working of the new idea, and the minister and his wife had their hands full in making every one at home. Tea was served and a most enjoyable time spent. It is announced that the idea will be carried out as a regular thing.

Mr. Sprague says it was suggested to him by pictures and a sketch in one of the comic papers, which depicted a church with a placard on the front door announcing special features at its services the next day. During the night some one changed the sign so as to make it read that pretzels and beer would be served, and the church was fairly jammed. Mr. Sprague has merely put the crude idea thus humorously suggested into practical form, with temperate alterations.—Grand Rapids Evening Press.

"Lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God." We have been quoting that text for many years, brethren; I believe we have never known its significance. The above picture of a reality "fills the bill," add to this what a lady said to me on the train one day, and what more do we need to complete the picture? She said, "We have a church nearly completed in Kalamazoo, that has a billiard hall, with card tables and room for any amusement desired." Where is the Christianity of Christ? How many in the professing church today are looking for the coming of the King? How long will it take to convert the world, when sinners are increasing far more rapidly than saints? There may be "many a dear good servant of God standing in the pulpit with his mouth muzzled," but they have no business to be. "Dear good servant of God" in that condition, it is every one's duty now to pull the muzzle off at once, throw them in some ditch, and be ready to hear the Lord say 'well done, [illegible] been faithful [illegible] [illegible] watch the [illegible] and victory ours to enjoy.

M. A. WOODWARD

In The Field.

Oregon, in December, and now, Jan. 12th, will close the meetings at this new place, Preston, Wash., which is 30 miles east of Seattle, and the home of Brother and Sister Dowle. We can only hope to sow the seed and await future results, in places where the gospel of the kingdom has never been proclaimed. I have a meeting in West Seattle with the brethren next Sunday, and farther on will be my meetings in the flourishing city of Ballard the home of 6,000 souls and a suburb of Seattle; also a trip up the Sound, nearly 100 miles north, to Guemas Island, where a sister is calling for immersion, and she and her husband for a series of meetings. Usually we have to call to immersion but here it is happily reversed.

The Brethren in Southern Oregon and East Washington must themselves decide which will have the winter meetings, and which will wait till after their spring seeding, in case I cannot reach all this winter.

I write especially to thank the brethren of the Northwest Conference for the generous manner in which they are responding to the call for an Evangelist Fund. A brother writes from Eugene, Oregon, "You shall be kept in the field if it takes all my income, I know no such thing as fail!" This brother is prime mover in raising a fund. A prosperous brother, a farmer, writes from Tekoa, Wash. "I have decided to give one-tenth to the Lord."

From Nebraska, a sister, a stranger, but not to "the covenants of promise," has sent to Almira Brooks, Sec'y, Scholls, Oregon, the liberal sum of ten dollars, to be turned into the treasury. Surely she regards souls worth something, and as valuable in Washington and Oregon, as in Nebraska. May it be a jewelled soul in her crown "in the crowning day that is coming." It's encouraging! The brethren see that the burden cannot be carried by the evangelist without more help than heretofore. Brethren, it will do no harm if you can carry a surplus in the treasury for next year. It would place the work on a surer foundation. Much gratitude and many thanks!

Yours for the cause, and for life.

W. L. SKEELS.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for the salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.
J. H. WILLEY,
S. D. THOMPSON.
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, Jan'y 24, 1900.

Please Take Notice.

Examine the label on your paper, and see that it reads right. If it has "Sept. 8" following your name you will understand that you are back in payment from September, 1898, and to get right you should at once remit the amount required, at the rate of $1.50 per year, to bring it up to the first of Jan., 1900, and enough more to pay through this year. Then it will be marked "Jan. 1," meaning that you have paid to January, 1901. If your label says "June 9," it is back since June, 1899, and you should follow the example set above to get it up it should be. If it is "Jan 0" it means you are paid to the first of this year, and you should at once send us $1.50 that it may be changed to "Jan. 1."

Brothers and Sisters, we need the money you owe us, and we hope and trust you will each one take the necessary steps to make your label read right. We thank those who have sent in their payments for the kind favor, and assure you we greatly appreciate the same.

As there are five Wednesdays in this month our next issue will be Feb. 7th.

We live in an age when the impossible is every day losing ground.

It is a happy assurance that "All fulness" can never be emptied by finite wants.

No one who walks closely with God will make a parade of it, but he will not be able to conceal it.

Isn't it strange that we sometime hear it said of one and another that "they have no mind," and yet pains are taken to prove the contrary?

Those who undertake the government of a country with avowed purpose of regenerating it, seem to us like women who marry men in the hope of converting them.

It is a sorry phase of human nature that it is often not enough to love our friend,—to satisfy them we are required to hate whom they do not love; so that many attachments subsist on the hatred of a third person.

Osman Digna, the last of Khalifa Abdullah's generals, and the man who has given the British more trouble in North Africa than all others combined, has at last been hunted down and taken prisoner. The British nation is too much engrossed in the Boer war to take notice of this, but it removes a very strong enemy from near Egypt.

The Anglo-Boer war is taking a more active turn now. General Buller with his force in Natal is fighting every inch of the ground as he goes to the relief of Ladysmith. He seems to be making progress, and to speak confidently of success. However, the British have been trapped so many times by the Boers, that it is not safe to predict in this case. The English are going more cautiously about their work, and that may be in their favor. At other points advances are in progress, and it is possible that the Boers may be pushed back somewhat this week.

In reference to the question of "Enquirer," who wants to make out A gospel, without THE GOSPEL of the kingdom which Christ said should be preached in all the world," Matt. xxiv. 14, we would say, no; we cannot see any gospel at all in the three historic facts you speak of, except as part of the Divine scheme comprised in the gospel of the kingdom of God. The exceeding great and precious promises made by God out of pure love to man, together with all the offices and work of Christ at his first coming, including your three facts-Death, Burial and Resurrection of Christ when believed and obeyed with the heart, BEGETS A HOPE of what is promised. But what hope built in your three facts can have begotten within you, we cannot imagine. If you have any hope, pray tell us what it is. We dismiss the matter at this point, and recommend "Enquirer" to watch closely the discussion of this question now in progress in this paper.

Dreaming about repentance, or theorizing about it will do us no good unless we let go of sin.

A severe earthquake is reported in Mexico, January 21, buildings being wrecked in many towns, and a number of people killed.

Richard D. Blackmore, the noted Author died at Teddington, England, on Jan. 20, 1900, aged 75 years. His known work was "Lorna Doone."

Reader, just a word with you; we see you are in a hurry,—will detain you but a moment; we want to say to you that "A trifling spirit lives next door to a hardened spirit."

To see all the blessings covenanted of God, vested in him whose blood brought the covenant into force,—and to be His, and therefore Abraham's Seed, and an heir according to the promise, is an amazing privilege.

We have in hand a letter from a Brother in Nebraska who has a family to support, and has lost his crops by drouth, and has had sickness to contend with. On Jan. 18th he mailed the letter, and used his last money to send it. He is sound in the faith, and wants The Restitution. He owes to the end of this year just $5.50. Is there any brother or sister, who has money, who will spare us something to aid this worthy poor one? If we had the money we would gladly supply him, but must give the opportunity to others. Friends, here is a branch of the Lord's work. Who will get the blessing that will be stored up for aiding this dear one?

Regarding the distress in India the Chicago Tribune has the following under date of Jan. 22:

"The famine in India is assuming appalling proportions, and the government has on its hands a task of magnitude. In times past Great Britain generally has rendered material assistance in the way of contributions for relief of the Queen's starving subjects, but this year England is too busy expending money, and blood as well in South Africa to be able to furnish any aid, and so there will be no Mansion House fund, despite the fact that it never before was so badly needed.

Fortunately, the Indian government, having had to deal with their terrible famines so often, has their machinery of relief thoroughly organized, and thus is enabled to make a minimum of food go much further than was the case before system took the place of haphazard assistance. Nevertheless, the natives, who at best are poorly nurtured, will die by thousands.

An idea of the extent of the famine can be gained from the statement made in Calcutta the other day by the Viceroy of India. Lord Curzon said that, while the greatest number of persons to whom relief had been granted in any previous famine was 1,250,000, there were already on the relief list this year over 3,000,000. When it is realized that this number must be largely increased before fresh crops can be raised, and that there are nearly 50,000,000 people in the districts affected, it becomes apparent that a calamity of a colossal nature is impending.

Reflect as You Read.

Ruskin remarks that it is almost impossible to get anything understood, that requires patience to understand. Says he:—

"I observe always, in case of my own writing, that if ever I state any thing which has cost me any trouble to ascertain, and, which, therefore, will probably require a minute or two of reflection from the reader before it can be accepted—that statement will not only be misunderstood, but in all probability taken to mean something very nearly the reverse of what it does mean. Now, whatever faults there may be in my modes of expression, I know the words I use will always be found, by Johnson's dictionary, to bear, first of all, the sense I use them in; and that the sentences, whether awkwardly turned or not, will by the ordinary rules of grammar, bear no other interpretation than that I mean them to bear; so that the misunderstanding of them must result, ultimately, from the mere fact that their matter sometimes requires a little patience. And I see the same misinterpretation put on the words of other writers, whenever they require the same kind of thought. I was at first a little despondent about this; but on the whole, I believe it will have a good effect upon our literature. It is certainly excellent discipline for an author to feel that he must say all he has to say in the fewest possible words, or his readers will certainly misunderstand him."

John Ruskin, the great artist, poet and essayist died in London, Jan. 20, aged 81 years. He is recognized as the foremost of Modern Art Critics, and was perhaps the most brilliant contributor to English literature.

The troubles of this world are so many that one is lost in the attempt to grasp an idea of the real situation, and it will require skillful engineering to carry it far ahead, and not strike the rocks of disaster. One page of a daily paper tells of several prominent cities of the United States having made improvements and now the banks refuse to advance them money, and endless court litigations will result. Of the famine in India where thousands will die for want of the commonest food. Of more trouble between England and France because the French are giving aid to the Boers. Of endless entanglement among the nations, because the United States is determined to hold out against all existing treaties, and force the building of the Panama Canal a work of our own, controlled by this nation entirely. This is likely to become a very grave matter before it is settled. Of further wrangling of the English and French over the settlement of the Dahomey-Togo frontier. Of mine strikes in Europe, leaving thousands of men idle, and forcing a coal famine that even affects the war ships of France. Of the Austrian Cabinet troubles, the ministry being out, and a new one to be formed. Of the Bubonic plague in the Orient, and fears that it will spread over Asia and into Europe. Of the claim of the Dowager Empress of China, as she sees "the various powers casting upon us looks of tiger-like voracity, hustling each other in their endeavors to be the first to seize on our innermost territory." Poor China! she is indeed in trouble. Of the operations of the Americans in the Philipines. Of the meeting between 1200 pilgrims from Genoese districts and the Pope at Rome, where services were held in honor of "holy year" as this is called. So much on one page of a city daily newspaper. Can we look for any better times, with the world in such turmoil as this? Verily the times are troublous.

Brother Woodruff writes:—

"It is the triumph of the gospel of Christ that it throws a bow of hope across this dark valley and shadow of death—this cloud that darkens our earth. This comforting truth reflects itself through our tears; for though our dead are dead, their life is hid with Christ in God. The sting is gone from grief as the heart rests on the Savior's words, "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth into me, though he were dead yet shall he live; and he that liveth and believeth into me shall not die to the age."

"By the remembrance that the grave is only the temporary resting place of the sleeper, bitter weeping is stayed, so that death, even though our enemy, may do us this useful service. It may drive this truth of resurrection inward upon our hearts. It should help us also, to feel that we are standing on the confines of the eternal future, and should lead us to cast ourselves more utterly upon the support of God. It should admonish us of our own mortality, and cause us earnestly desire our house which is from heaven.

"Only to them who have sown to the flesh and had their portion in this life is there no hope in death. Of such it is testified "they shall see corruption;" "they shall remain in the congregation of the dead;" "They are dead,—they shall not rise;" "Like sheep they are laid in the grave,—death shall feed upon them,—the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning;"....."Like the beasts that perish."

From Coverdale's Bible.

The first Bible printed in English in 1535.

"And God said, Let the earth bring forth living souls, every one after his kind; cattle, worms, and what as hath life upon earth, every one after his kind." Gen. i. 24.

"And the Lord shaped man even of the mould of the earth, and breathed into his face the breath of life. And so was man made a living soul." Gen. ii. 7.

"And when God the Lord had made of the earth all manner of beasts of the field, and all manner of fowls under the heaven, he brought them unto man to see what he would call them; for as man called all living souls, so are their names." Gen. ii. 19.

"In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou be turned again unto earth, whence thou art taken; for earth thou art, and unto earth shalt thou be turned again." Gen. iii. 19.

"Eve bare Cain, and said, I have obtained the man of the Lord." Gen. iv. 1.

Which is the Gloomy Doctrine?

The sleep of the dead is often designated a gloomy doctrine,—and many refuse to listen to the testimony of the Bible on this subject, choosing rather to remain "ignorant concerning them which are asleep," than to consider the stern realities of death and the grave. "Your doctrine," say they, "is chilling, repulsive, forbidding. The sleep of the dead! Why the very idea is enough to freeze one. But the immortality of the soul, and the reward of the saints at death, this is the very marrow and fatness of the gospel; this is indeed that blessed hope."

But stop friends! It may be that you are blinded by prejudice. Don't be hasty. If you are not willing to devote time enough to this subject to ascertain what the Scriptures teach, we ask you to let us reason with you for a moment or two. You say that the doctrine is full of gloom, and that the departed saints have experienced a bitter disappointment in being consigned to the cold grave for long ages, instead of being received into glory. You think the idea full of gloom to the living, and dreadful to the dead. But you forget that, if the doctrine be true, there is no chill, no gloom, no darkness, no disappointment, no lapse of time, no waiting through long ages to the dead. The interval between their decease and their resurrection, will be to them no time at all. The twinkling of an eye, in which the righteous will be changed to immortality will be as long to them as the whole period during which righteous Abel has slept in death will be to him. And to him as far as his own knowledge of the case is concerned, it will be precisely as though he had entered heaven at the very moment he was slain.

You say this helps the matter a little; but that for all this, the sleep of the dead will no more compare in consolation with the soul's immortality and the reward at death than the desert of Sahara will compare in beauty with the garden of Eden. Do not be hasty, readers; you may discover facts that will change this opinion. You find great consolation in the thought that the soul is immortal, and that men are rewarded as they die.

Come, now; answer a few questions: "How large a part of mankind lead lives of holiness, and die with good evidence of their acceptance with God? Truth compels you to answer that a minority are all that can be said to do this. What becomes, then of the great majority of men who died out of Christ and entered their reward? Oh, they have gone into a furnace of fire, where there is wailing and gnashing of teeth. What is the condition, then, at this moment, of the greater part of the dead, according to this cheering doctrine of yours? You have to answer in unspeakable torment. You admit that this dreadful fact somewhat abates the consolation you have hitherto found in this doctrine. But we want you to answer one question more: If the soul is immortal, as you affirm, how long are these impenitent people to suffer? You answer again, and this time with a shudder—they must suffer to all eternity.

Before we part company, will you not own that yours is the gloomy doctrine? Is it not a relief to your mind to think that men are to be judged before they are rewarded or punished? And is not that doctrine best which teaches that immortality is the gift of God, and that it is given only to the righteous?

The Happy Man.

Brother H. B., of Edinburgh, writes as follows:

The happy man was born in the city of Regeneration. "Begotten again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible through the Word of God, which liveth; and abideth," 1 Peter i. 23.

In the Parish of Repentance unto Life. "To the Gentiles also hath God granted repentance unto life," Acts xi. 18.

He was educated at the School of Obedience. "Tho Son learned obedience by the things which he suffered," Heb. v. 18.

He lives now on Perseverance. "Praying at all seasons in the spirit, and watching thereunto in all perseverance," Eph. vi. 18.

He works at the trade of diligence. Notwithstanding he has a large estate in the county of contentment. "I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content." Phil. iv. 11.

Many a time he does jobs of self-denial. "These hands ministered to the necessities of them that were with me," Acts xx. 34.

He wears the plain garment of humility. "All of you gird yourselves with humility to serve one another," 1 Peter v. 5.

But has a better suit to put on when he goes to court. "The fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints," Rev. xix. 8.

Called the robe of Christ's Righteousness. "They washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb," Rev. vii. 14.

He often walks in the valley of self-abasement. "Now mine eye seeth thee, wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes," Job xlii. 5.

He sometimes climbs mountains of heavenly mindedness. "Seek the things that are above where Christ is seated," Col. iii. 1.

He breakfasts every morning on Spiritual Prayer. "My voice shalt thou hear in the morning—Jehovah," Psalm v. 3.

He sups every evening on the same. "Evening, morning and at noon will I pray," Psa. lv. 17.

He has meat to eat that the world knows not of. "My meat is to do the will of him that sent me," John iv. 34.

And his drink is the sincere milk of the Word. "As new-born babes long for the reasonable milk of the Word, that ye may grow thereby unto salvation," 1 Peter ii. 2.

Believe firmly, Mark i. 15; ix. 23.

Pray fervently, 1 John v. 14; Luke xi. 1-13.

Wait patiently, Jas. v. 7-11.

Work abundantly, Jas. ii. 14-26; Acts x. 35.

Live holily, Rom. xii. 1; 1 Pet. i. 15.

Die daily, Gal. vi. 14.

Watch your heart, Prov. iv. 23.

Guide your senses, Heb. v. 14.

Redeem your time, Eph. v. 15.

Love Christ, John xv. 9.

And long for his righteousness, Matt. v. 6.

Dear Restitution:

It is with pleasure that I have of late had repeated evidences of an awakening among the people of the Abrahamic faith. It is a certainty that there is a greater desire, upon the part of believers, to have the truth proclaimed unto a dying world than has heretofore existed for some time. Personally, I am busy trying to spread the truth, and though busy since the first of September I have been obliged to reject three calls for every one call I have been able to accept. What we need just now (and we hope the need will continue) is a greater ministerial force, and I confidently believe that said force could be doubled quite easily were the finances for sustenance forthcoming. It is quite common for a minister to receive an invitation to speak with the understanding, (sometimes without the understanding, but with the result) that he is to sacrifice somewhat. This is not altogether objectionable, but let each remember that we are solemnly to give our "bodies a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable unto God which is our reasonable service." As Christ our head gave a sacrifice so must we, his body do likewise. As the world was benefitted through his offering so is it to receive through the offering of the church, composed, we hope, in part by you and me—which offering we covenanted to give when we were "buried with him." Brethren let us keep our part of the covenant and the Father will respond with a seat for us in his kingdom. It is to be hoped that the anxiety for the spread of the gospel will continue until it shall have ripened and brought forth an abundant harvest, and when the "jewels"—"special treasure," shall be gathered possibly there will be some one crowned as the result of your sacrifice, Brother! as a result of your offering, Sister! which will be an increase of "the joy set before" you.

Your Brother in Christ,
F. L. Austin.

Married.

At the home of the bride's brother, Thomas McDonald, on January 18, 1900, Samuel Osborne, of Bure Oak, Ind., and Rebecca Alleman of Plymouth, Ind. The marriage was on the sixtieth anniversary of the groom's birth, the bride being in her sixtieth year. Brother and Sister Osborne have for a long time been believers in God's power unto salvation. It is to be hoped that each will be of assistance, as it has been their respective pleasure to be unto former companions, unto the other in perfecting characters to meet the Master's approval when he shall come.

F. L. Austin.

To those who have ordered Bibles, and have not received them, we say we will send just so soon as we can get a supply from the publishers. They are behind with their work, and we must wait on them. We hope they will soon be ready.

The "Free Will" Fund.

We have hesitated about pressing this matter very much, but every day there are calls by the poor, for papers. They do not like to give it up—indeed the home of plenty that has daily papers, magazines and countless books always at hand, can but dimly conceive of that poor brother or sister to whom The Restitution is the only visitor. "My life and The Restitution" they write, "are all we have." Isolated, never hear a sermon, no one to talk over the precious truths of our faith with, not able to work to earn money as once they could and so must give up the one treasure and pleasure of life. Brother, sister, ask yourself the question—will the reading of the next pound of tea give more pleasure than sending the same amount to have The Restitution sent to some poor brother? Many of you could have all needed books and papers, and not miss $5.00 or $10.00 for this purpose, and more could be done if we were minded to "sacrifice" something on this altar.

Brethren and sisters, take this matter home to your hearts—think it over—consider it well—even pray over it—then act as your own conscience dictates.

Report.

Dear Restitution:

Thinking it would interest your readers I send the report of the Annual Meeting of the Church of God, at Millbrook, Mich.

The ending of the year 1899 finds us still in the narrow way. None of our members have fallen out by the wayside. None have died, and by Brother and Sister Woodward's labor in the Allen District thirty-eight have been added to our number. For this we have great reason to rejoice. We have meeting three times a week, Sunday morning and evening. Sunday School after Sunday morning meeting, also preaching once in four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Communion service when we have preaching.

The officers that were elected at our Annual Business Meeting are as follows:—

Lorenzo Decker, Elder.
John Hill, Assistant Elder.
Addie West, Treasurer.
Addie Lake, Secretary.

My prayer is that we may all be kept in the narrow way, and be ready to hear that welcome applaudit, "Well done," when the Master comes.

Addie Lake, Sec'y.

Notice.

The Executive Board of the Indiana Conference has issued to Bro. D. T. Halstead, of Rensselaer, Ind. a ministerial certificate, good until our next annual Conference. Bro. Halstead has for several years been a resident of South Dakota, but has lately moved to this State. Any who may wish his services will correspond with him at Rensselaer, Ind.

F. L. Austin, Pres.
A. C. Rogers, Sec.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for The Restitution for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $2.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Blessed is he that cometh to the help of the Lord against the mighty. No wounds, no blows, that he can receive while he is fighting on that side can harm him. To fight there is itself to conquer, even though the victory comes through pain and death, as it came to him under whom we fight, the Captain of our salvation, Jesus Christ.—Bishop Brooks.

If we wish to die comfortably we must live piously.

Poetry.

God's Promises.

If our faith were ne'er stronger,
We would always rest secure,
In the promises of Jesus,
That forever shall endure.

He will keep our feet from falling,
Lead us lest we go astray,
Feed us with the bread from heaven,
As we hunger by the way.

Quench our thirst with living water,
Guide us through the darkest night,
Never leave us nor forsake us,
Make us victors in the fight.

And amid the raging tempests,
We can hear his—"Peace, be still!"
For our Father up in heaven
Shall preserve us from all ill.

When temptation's darts assail us
And in agony we cry,
Strength sufficient for our weakness,
Will be given in large supply.

So we'll hide beneath his shadow,
For a mighty rock is he,
A strong tower to which in trouble,
Weary doubting we may flee.

—Lizzie DeArmond.

Communicated.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

We are alone and isolated, but hope and try to be faithful, so that we may meet some day with all God's children. May God bless his children, and let his kingdom come as promised, is our prayer.

Yours in love.

MR. & MRS. L. VONESCHEN.

Dear Christian Friends:

I wish to remain with you a little longer and relate a little personal experience. Some time ago I visited what is called an inquiry, or after meeting, here in Baltimore. I had the blues or thought I had, which is just as bad. Yes, we should guard against thinking too meanly of ourselves, as well as thinking too highly. Sure!

Well, I approached a man that I knew, and at the same time confessed that I was in a fog. I had hoped that he would at least give me a little blarney, but did he? No sir! Instead, he pointed out a man who appeared trying to get out of sight of everybody. As I made for him my friend whispered "Cheer him up, he looks sad." I thought to myself, he don't look any worse than I feel, but I let myself drop out, and went to work on him. I will never tell how much good he received, I can only mention the effect on myself.

I had hardly begun talking to the poor man, when, as if by magic, the fog was gone and the weight on my heart was rolled away also. I then and there realized the truth of Proverbs xi 25. "He that watereth shall be watered also himself." Brother, Sister, do you feel that your lamp has almost gone out, and that many who are journeying with you are in very much the same fix as yourself?

Did it ever occur to you that the best way to have your own lamp fixed up, is just to help some poor traveler trim his lamp? Don't send him to "them that sell" but divide with him. "There is that waiteth and yet increaseth." I read now and then of brethren and sisters being isolated. I hope they are not isolating themselves. If you have no human kind to show your pity to, feed the birds, it will help dispel the fog if you have any. In love.

ISAAC MCCURRY.

"Thou shalt hide them in the secret of thy presence from the pride of man; thou shalt keep them secretly in a pavilion from the strife of tongues." Psalm xxxi. 20.

Dear Household of Faith:

I am a perfect stranger to all of you except what you know of me—as you heard from me through the Love Feast letters as published in number 48, Dec. 27, 1899, and while I do not stand connected with the Church of God (known as that) it is because I have never lived where there was an Organization—or Ecclesia of that kind of faith and doctrine. Though I have for a number of years been a convert to the principles and teachings which THE RESTITUTION advocates, and have talked them in both private and public, I have the first time to enter a church house, or congregation similar in doctrine. I have been among the "Millennial Dawn" people—and also among the "Larger Hope" people—and to their credit they teach many good things, but salt most of their doctrine with Seventh Day Adventism, and while I stand alone, and not connected with the Church of God—I also stand aloof of Sectarianism. I live in the notable village of Three Oaks, Mich., the "Peavey Cannon" town, and the "Featherbone" Manufactory, which has seven churches and one thousand population. I am the only person here that believes that the kingdom of God is yet to come and be established upon the earth during the millennium. My experience for the last twelve years is in keeping with the text already quoted; for the father of lies and enemy of all truth will assuredly bring lying acquisitions against the Church of God, and the truths they believe and teach. As sure as you live a watchful and holy life you will have proud, self-wise contemptuous foes; who will speak proudly against your faith, and snarl and sneer at your unshaken confidence in the revealed mysteries of the living God, which are being unfolded to those who are Abraham's seed by faith, and heirs to all the promises made by God. Their lying lips will be opened against you because you reject the traditions of papal Rome. It has been so since the Christian Era, and that which was in the beginning is now intensified and enlarged, and ever shall be until he comes whose right it is, to reign Supreme Ruler in the earth. The pride of selfish, lustful men lies at the bottom of every corruption of God's Word, and its seat is the human unregenerated heart. Matt. vii. 12-23. Some of the legitimate offerings of religious pride and self-conceit, contempt and disdain of men who do not endorse creeds and human opinions, 1 Sam. xvii. 38. Calumny may spread her monster-figured mantel over the Christian, and reproach spread a decay of gloom over his mind; but when the sweet reflection visits the intellect, that his Redeemer cares for him, it is again sunshine to his consciousness; his wounded spirit drinks in the heavenly balm. When in the assurance of faith he exclaims, "Thou shalt hide me in the secret of thy presence from the pride of men." God reserves his grace for his saints. Psa. lxviii. 19, and preserves his faithful for his goodness. 1 Peter i. 5. The pride, the strife, the tongues of men who do not understand may endanger the liberty and even the life of God's anointed ones, but God shall hide them and keep them in a pavilion from the destroying pestilence. Neither will he hide them far from him; but in the "Secret of his presence." Yea, and after he has hid them, he will not forget them. Let him that readeth understand, but keep them in his pavillion, where they shall have constant communion with him. What more can we desire, brethren, than the constant presence of God? What can hurt God's select ones while he is your hiding place? Reproach is cruel, and the slanderer's tongue more to be dreaded than the dagger of the assassin: but, brethren, let it concern you more to know what God thinks of you than what the "strife of tongues" may say of you, and of your faith. You may always keep a good conscience though men may give you a bad name. Reputation is not character. The servant is not greater than his Lord. God reads the heart and believes no false report. If men are determined to speak evil of your faith and doctrine, and of your Christian character, be sure that you strive to live so that no one will believe them. Upon their part God is evil spoken against, but upon your part he is glorified. Come Lord Jesus.

CHANCEY POTTS.

Dear Restitution:

Another year has just finished its course and we are brought one year nearer the coming of our Blessed Savior for whose appearing some of us have waited and watched these many years. And though we have so long waited we are not discouraged, for his promise stands and it cannot fail. So, while he tarries we will continue to watch and wait, and strive to keep ourselves unspotted from the world, that we may have an abundant entrance into his everlasting kingdom when he comes.

A loving greeting to all his dear ones.

A. S. MILLER.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Again we join in the annual Love feast, and I want to put in my note of praise to the loving heavenly Father for his goodness and his wonderful works to the children of men. O from the heart I thank God for the gift of his Son who carries all our burdens, if we will let him, takes away our sorrows and makes us "rejoice in the midst of temptation." 1 Peter v. 7; Matt. vi. 34; Phil iv. 6-7.

Yours for the coming King.

EMILY E. BARNUM.

Married.

On January 10th, 1900, the writer united in marriage, Mr. A. N. Cooley, of Moonshine, Ill., and Miss Cora A. Tharp of Bellaire, Ill.

May God bless them, may they trust and obey him. May we all meet in the kingdom of God, is my prayer.

Z. E. BRANT.

Park Hill Pulpit Echoes.—No. 3.

That there is a relation between disobedience to God and disease is often referred to in the Bible. Even life is cut short for sinning against God or man. Notice as I read, "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." Disobedience to parents is punished by a shortening of life.

In the 47 chapter of Leviticus there is a statement which plainly intimates that certain diseases spread in a garment. If one portion of the garment has come in contact with the germs of disease they may spread themselves over the whole garment For example, a consumptive may pass along the street and spit upon the walk. A lady passes that way with a long dress and sweeps it up, the germs multiply in the fabric of the dress and in time spread over the whole of it—especially if it be hung in a dark closet, favorable to their development—in a week or two she puts on the dress again. Her toddling baby clings to her skirts, buries his face in them, breathes through them and the microbes enter the lungs and in time the disease is developed. Who is to blame? 1st, The spitter. 2nd, The long skirts. So too with spittoons, handkerchiefs or garments of the sick, by them disease is carried or communicated and too much care cannot be exercised.

The Safeguard by H. L. Hastings in a notice of a new society for the prevention of disease, says, "There is a grain of sense in this movement.....In the case of consumptives, those who wait upon them and watch over them are liable to contract the disease by inhaling their breath or catching dust from the expectorated matter of consumptives. This should always be put into vessels of water with some disinfectant. Clothes used by consumptives should be burned. But the most important direction of all is "Keep your mouth shut," breathe through the nose and wash it out often with pure water.

The hygiene of the bed is the next topic referred to by the Bible. When we consider that about one-third of our lives are spent in bed, the importance of having a clean bed and that bed in a clean place should occupy our earliest attention. Water, sun shine and fresh air are best agents in cleansing the bed and the bed-room. Specific directions are given in the book of Leviticus.

A quiet, peaceful mind at bed time filled with good cheer and seasoned with love, will smooth the wrinkled face and give good sleep and pleasant dreams. Hence it is said, "Let not the sun go down upon thy wrath." The effect of anger upon the health is terrible—Eliphaz went so far as to say "wrath killeth the foolish man and envy slayeth the silly one."

Sun-light is another specific remedy in the healing of disease. Light is a symbol of righteousness, health and peace. Darkness is everywhere associated with sin and evil. The works of sin are the works of darkness. The sunlight of our world is the foundation of all the figures relating to the light of God and righteousness. Jesus is called the Sun (not son) of righteousness that was to arise with healing in his beams. Jesus was the great healer—he is the Sun of the moral world and he brought healing as no one ever did by his beams of light and truth, even as the sun of this world is the great healer of the maladies of life. Live in the sun, walk in the sun, work in the sun, play in the sun, open the house to the sun for there is healing in its radiant beams. So too, live in Christ, the Sun of righteousness, walk in him, work in him, open the door of your heart and let him in, and peace, health and life are yours—even eternal life.

If there is one subject above another in which the hygiene of the Bible is more prominently set forth it is in the wise use of water. We all know that the free use of water is one of the quickest and most thorough ways of cleansing. It is simply marvelous how often the application of water is used for cleansing. Water is the most powerful solvent in nature and its hygienic power in the bath internally and externally is duly recognized and repeatedly mentioned in the Bible.

The Old Testament refers to divers washings for purification, and is applied to fabrics, vessels and persons; and when we come to the New Testament we have the living water of life—the washing of regeneration—being made free from sin by baptism in water, the washing away of sin, and Ezekiel and John agree that the river of Life heals everything whither the water cometh. The healing power of water is truly wonderful in fevers and where there is inflamation, both externally and as a drink. Water, oh beautiful water for me! God's great remedies are fresh air, sunlight and water. These are better than all the "medicines" (falsely so called) in existence.

The condition or state of the thoughts or mind is not omitted in the Bible. Sorrow, jealousy, hatred and anger are each represented as fruitful sources of disease.

Sorrow affects the eye-sight. Job xvii. 7. Sorrow is mentioned in Psa. cvii. 39, as one of the elements which diminish families and bring them low. "By sorrow of heart is the spirit broken." Prov. xv. 13. If sorrow is removed from the heart, evil consequences are avoided. Ecc. xi. 10. Paul declares that "Sorrow worketh death." In Psa. cxxvii. 2, we are told that food eaten under the conditions of sorrow does no good to the system. Jealousy is represented in the Bible as being cruel as the grave. Also as a fire that burns out of life all that is valuable or noble, but love is stronger than all things even stronger than death. Love is the great conqueror and is unconquerable. "He that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast." Prov. xv. 15. Sorrow eats away the life. Happiness has hygienic value that may not be overlooked. Better is a dinner of herbs where love is than a stalled ox and hatred therewith." Prov. xv. 17. A few herbs or a simple meal eaten under conditions of happiness, love and peaceful quiet is better than a big dinner amid strife or sorrow of heart. Solomon tells this thought in this way: "Better is a dry morsel and quietness therewith, than an house full of good cheer with strife." If you want good health "keep sweet." A cheerful, happy, sunny disposition imprints itself upon the features and speaks through the face, the voice and even the eyes. The poet says,

"There's a language that's mute,
There's a silence that speaks,
There are thoughts that cannot be told,
The heart's true emotions are read on the cheeks,
Or the eye's the revealer, it may unfold."

This language, these thoughts, this life reads upon the secret springs of happiness, contentment and love.

Blessed Bible! what a fund of information it brings to us. Its study makes the student wise and its obedience gives a pleasant, cheerful, sunny disposition, free from many of life's ills and in the world to come gives life everlasting in a land where they never say, "I am sick."

A. J. EYCHANER.

(Concluded.)

Timely Words.

Editor Restitution:

If you will allow me a little space in your paper I should like to submit a few thoughts on a subject that is of much interest to me, and I believe it had ought to interest every true disciple of Jesus Christ. The words that I wish to call attention to are found in Psa. cviii. 12. They read like this, "Give us help from trouble, for vain is the help of man." In these words David sets forth the goodness and love of God toward his people, if they will turn to him in earnest prayer and supplication in time of trouble. The Psalmist in all his songs and prayers, set forth the example to others that they might follow in his footsteps and carry all their troubles to God in prayer, for he says, "Praise ye the Lord, his work is honorable and glorious: and his righteousness endureth forever, the work of his hands verity and judgment; all his commandments are sure, they stand fast forever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness, the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, a good understanding have all they that do his commandments." Psa. cxi. For he says the one that does these things. "Shall not be afraid of evil tidings: his heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord." Psa. cxii. 7.

Oh, how often I wonder do we, in time of trouble turn to the Lord, and in prayer ask him to "Give us help from trouble." Although I do not believe that God is answering prayers under the present dispensation by visible manifestations in the flesh, I do believe the prayers of a righteous person will give them strength mentally and spiritually. We read in Prov. xv. 8, "The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination unto the Lord, but the prayer of the upright is the delight of the Lord." Oh, let us be upright in all our works, that the Lord may have delight in us, and if we should have any trouble come upon us, let us remember the language of David when he was complaining of his enemies, he says, "Hold not thy peace, O God of my praise; for the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful are opened against me: they have spoken against me with a lying tongue; they compassed me about also with words of hatred; and fought against me without a cause, for my love they are my adversaries, but I give myself unto prayer, and they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love." Psa. cix. 1-5.

Oh, dear brothers and sisters in Christ, have we got the faith in God that David shows forth in these words, or is it weak and tottering in time of trouble. If so, remember the lesson Peter received when he started to walk on the water to meet Jesus. "But when he saw the wind boisterous; and beginning to sink he cried, saying Lord save me, and immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?" Matt. xiv. Now, dear brother and sister in Christ, we learn from this that if we turn to the Lord in time of trouble, we may receive strength to carry us over the stormy places in this life, for we read that, "We have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the Righteous." He is our Mediator, and we can receive nothing except through him.

Now, let us for a moment glance at the latter clause of my text, it says, "For vain is the help of man." I do not wonder that David should use in reference to man, after the way he was driven from place to place to keep from being killed, he had come to realize how little mortal man was to be trusted, for he says, "Put not your trust in princes, nor in the son of man, in whom there is no help." Psa. cxlvi. 3. And again, "It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man, it is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in princes." cxviii. 5-9. "Blessed is the man that maketh the Lord his trust, and respecteth not the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies." Psa. xl. 4. And also we read that, "Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord: but they that deal truly are his delight." Prov. xii. 22. The righteous man hateth lying." xiii. 5. What can be more low and despicable than a person who will wilfully lie for the purpose of causing trouble for some one who has befriended them in the past. Now by turning to Prov. vi. I find the wise man has said, "These six things doth the Lord hate; yea, seven are an abomination unto him: 1st, A proud look; 2nd, a lying tongue; 3rd, hands that shed innocent blood; 4th, an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations; 5th, feet that be swift in running to mischief; 6th, a false witness that speaketh lies; 7th, and he that soweth discord among brethren." Now, dear brothers and sisters in the faith, are we guilty of any of these faults, if so, I pray we may be able to overcome them before it is too late, for I read that all who do the abominable things of life, will be cast into outer darkness. And again, the Revelator in giving a description of the Holy City says, "And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination or maketh a lie." Rev. xxi. 27. Oh, it makes me shudder, when I think what an awful thing it would be to awake to the fact, that the Bridegroom had come and selected his bride, and I had been outside the door, because I had failed to overcome the weak things of this life sufficiently to be counted worthy to obtain a part in that royal priesthood.

Yes, kind friends, I believe we are being judged according to the deeds done in the body, and if we do not strive and strive earnestly to overcome the abominable things flesh is heir to, we will not be fit to become an heir with Christ. For he has said, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne." And again, "He that overcometh shall inherit all things: and I will be his God, and he shall be my Son." Oh, why will people neglect so great salvation, when they know this life is but a fleeting shadow that soon vanishes away. Jesus has said "Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching." He says, "Be ye therefore ready also, for the Son of Man cometh at an hour when ye think not." Brothers and sisters in Christ, it will be a fearful thing not to be ready when the Son of Man cometh. Submitted in love of the truth.

JOS. WILLIAMS.

The Nickel plate Road is the peoples' route and the road that gives best service at the lowest rates. A Peerless Trio of Through express trains daily, palace sleeping cars, unexcelled dining car service, elegant equipment, these are the synonyms of the Nickel Plate's success.—feb 5

OBITUARY.

Isabel Walker was born in Montgomery County N. Y., September 27th 1810—died January 8th 1900, aged 89 years, 3 months and 13 days.

When she was about 12 years old she moved with her parents to Steuben County N. Y. Was married Nov. 22nd 1827 to Calvin Beagle. To this union were born three sons and one daughter—the latter dying in her 17th year; the three sons and aged father together with grand-children and great-grand children remain to mourn the loss of one who filled so well the place that God in his providence assigned her. She with her husband were among the early settlers of Kosciusko Co., Ind., and shared the labors and privations which fell to the lot of the pioneers who reared the rude log cabin and cleared away the primeval forest and laid the foundation for the marvelous prosperity of which the present generation boasts.

Women and men alike shared the hardships of those early times. But a very small remnant of these hardy sons and daughters of toil remain to be honored for their sterling worth.

Sister Beagle united with the Church of God about the year 1846 and may be counted one of the number that formed the body of believers denominated the Bone-Prairie Church back in the 40s, and to whom our beloved and lamented Father Chaplin preached. Sermon by the writer.

JOHN L. WISER.

Our Brother John J. Roach, of like precious faith, died in the 65th year of his age. His hand and heart were ever open to relieve the sick, the poor, and needy. He delighted so much in reading the good letters in THE RESTITUTION. He bore his sufferings with Christian fortitude. He leaves a sister, a niece and a host of friends.

Brother S. R. Clinkenbeard gave us a very appropriate funeral sermon at the grave. Brother Roach died in the triumphs of living faith, expecting to receive the reward.

T. C. BLAKEY, M. D.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

G T Wilsie	8.50
"A Lover of Truth"	9.20
Jacob Elton	.50
Miss Selma Samuels	.75
E F Gesin	2.00
Gertrude Carpenter	1.00
A K Kinney	.50
A Seitz	.50
Alice J Kerr	.50
R A Daniels	.25

The prime factor in the success of any Railroad consists simply in catering fully and generously to the public demands. This is what has brought the Nickel Plate Road to the front in railway matters despite formidable competition. As a through route between the West and East it is the favorite with the traveling public. Fine trains, unexcelled service and low rates; a peerless trio of advantages. —feb 5

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway, in connection with the D. S. S. & A. R'y, put in a new schedule to "The Copper Country" of Northern Michigan, January 21st, whereby the service between Chicago and Calumet and Marquette, Mich., will be greatly improved.

The through drawing-room sleeping car to Calumet, which has been leaving Chicago at 10:30 p. m., arriving Calumet, 2:00 the next afternoon, will leave Chicago at 8:00 p. m., daily, arriving at Calumet 10:50 the next forenoon, with dining car, serving breakfast "a la carte."

Marquette will be reached at 8:00 o'clock, instead of 10:40 a. m. The south-bound schedule will be correspondingly shortened. It will be noted that this arrangement affords the earliest arrival in "The Copper Country" and Marquette via any line.

The 1900 Calendar issued by the Nickel Plate Road will be mailed to any one sending address to the General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O. 2t

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Clinkenbard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Harvard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Gobsbrough, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. L. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Schultz, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Princeton, Ind
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Henn, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine Sr, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Bradbrook, Ia
W. L. Wilson, [illegible] Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keay, 4507, S. [illegible] Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hall, Beaver, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Slidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan
D. M. Butler, Mc[illegible] Iowa
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prunner, Scamp, Ia.
Mollie Bulwark, W. B. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Buck, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Anaheim, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Ogden, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Angeles Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steele, Fresno, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 11, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1205 G St, Sacramento, Cal.
John Pope, 2042 West Pershing Ave, Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crosby, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2711 G St, Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackson, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave, Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave, Grand Rapids, Mich
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbeley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 337 Oswego, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jeffers, Ill.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that waiting any of the unrighteous? A 156-page pamphlet by Wm. Adam Montcrief. Post paid. 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death. by W. H. Wilson. 2 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Homeseekers Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to points in the west, northwest and southwest on Feb. 6th, 1900. Tickets are available on above dates good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for the round trip. For full information and particulars inquire of agents Nickel Plate Road.—feb 6

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

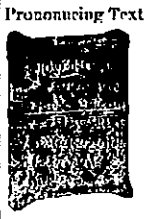
The people know and appreciate a good thing when they see it. This is why the Nickel Plate Road is so popular with the traveling public. A Peerless Trio of elegantly appointed through express trains daily in each direction; uniformed colored porter in attendance on all day coaches; and unexcelled dining car service. Rates lower than other lines.—feb 5

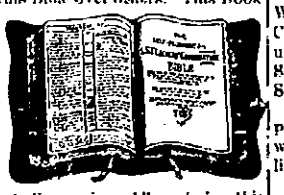
OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.





The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit" Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

The ark sealed the covenant. NEHEMIAH. X. The points of the covenant.

parent before them, neither turned it back, they from their wicked works.

36 Behold, we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it:

37 And it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have dominion over our bodies, and over our cattle, at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

38 And because of all this we make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Le'vites, and priests, seal unto it.

CHAPTER X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant. 29 The points of the covenant.

NOW those that sealed were, Ne-he-mi'ah, the Tir'sha-tha, the son of Hach-a-li'ah, and Zid-ki'jah,

2 Se-ra-i'ah, Az-a-ri'ah, Jer-e-mi'ah,

3 Pash'ur, Am-a-ri'ah, Mal-chi'jah,

4 Hat'tush, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Mal'luch,

5 Ha'rim, Mer'e-moth, O-ba-di'ah,

6 Dan'iel, Gin'ne-thon, Ba'ruch,

7 Me-shul'lam, A-bi'jah, Mij'a-min,

8 Ma-a-zi'ah, Bil'gai, Shem-a-i'ah: these were the priests.

9 And the Le'vites: both Jesh'u-a the son of Az-a-ni-ah, Bin'nui of the sons of Hen'a-dad, Kad'mi-el;

10 And their brethren, Sheb-a-ni'ah, Ho-di'jah, Kel'i-ta, Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan,

11 Mi'cha, Re'hob, Hash-a-bi'ah,

12 Zac'cur, Sher-e-bi'ah, Sheb-a-ni'ah,

13 Ho-di'jah, Ba'ni, Be-ni'nu.

14 The chief of the people; Pa'rosh, Pa'hath-mo'ab, E'lam, Zat'tu, Ba'ni,

15 Bun'ni, Az'gad, Beb'a-i,

16 Ad-o-ni'jah, Big'va-i, A'din,

17 A'ter, Hiz-ki'jah, Az'ur,

18 Ho-di'jah, Ha'shum, Be'zai,

19 Ha'riph, Ana-thoth, Neb'a-i,

20 Mag'pi-ash, Me-shul'lam, He'zir,

21 Me-shez'a-be-el, Za'dok, Jad-du'a,

22 Pel-a-i'ah, Ha'nan, An-a-i'ah,

23 Ho-she'a, Han-a-ni'ah, Ha'shub,

24 Hal-lo'hesh, Pil'e-ha, Sho'bek,

25 Re'hum, Ha-shab'nah, Ma-a-se'jah,

26 And A-hi'jah, Ha'nan, A'nan,

27 Mal'luch, Ha'rim, Ba'a-nah.

28 ¶ And the rest of the people, the priests, the Le'vites, the porters, the singers, the Neth'i-nims, and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;

29 They clave to their brethren, their nobles, and entered into a curse, and into an oath, to walk in God's law, which was given by Mo'ses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the LORD our LORD, and his judgments and his statutes;

30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our sons:

31 And if the people of the land bring ware or any victuals on the sabbath day to sell, that we would not buy it of them on the sabbath, or on the holy day: and that we would leave the seventh year, and the exaction of every debt.

32 Also we made ordinances for us, to charge ourselves yearly with the third part of a shekel for the service of the house of our God;

33 For the shewbread, and for the continual meat offering, and for the continual burnt offering, of the sabbaths, of the new moons, for the set feasts, and for the holy things, and for the sin offerings to make an atonement for Is'ra-el, and for all the work of the house of our God.

34 And we cast the lots among the priests, the Le'vites, and the people, for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, after the houses of our fathers, at times appointed year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law:

35 And to bring the firstfruits of our ground, and the firstfruits of all fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the house of the LORD:

36 Also the firstborn of our sons,

(Sample Showing Style of Type and Size of Page of our great Offer.)

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 10 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 20 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex Sun. For South Bend.....8:31am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 6, " " " 10:08pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 8, " " " " .....12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:36pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Ry.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule in Effect Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.

	6 AM	10 PM	56 AM	8 PM	58 PM	4 PM
Pittsburgh	7 00
Allegheny	9 02
Canton	10 10
Massillon	10 32
Wooster	11 01
Mansfield	11 36
Crestline	12 01
Bucyrus	12 25
Galion	12 35
Van Wert	1 29
Ft Wayne	4 15
Arcola
Columbia City	4 48
Lowell
Ft Wayne
Wolcott
Monon	5 55
Rensselaer
Kankakee
Momence
Crete	6 12
Chicago	6 55

Eastward.	2 AM	6 AM	50 AM	14 PM
Chicago	7 35	11 00	12 45	6 00
Crete	8 08
Momence	8 37
Kankakee	9 05
Rensselaer	9 37
Monon	10 01
Wolcott	10 14
Monticello	10 31
Brookston	10 46
Burnettsville	11 01
Idaville	11 16
Francesville	11 30
Winamac	11 48
Kewanna	12 05
Logansport	12 28
Peru	1 05
Converse	1 23
Marion	1 34
Alliance	2 10
Pittsburgh	4 30

	1 AM	5 AM	49 AM	13 PM
Ft Wayne	1 30
Van Wert	2 50
Lima	3 30
Mansfield	4 55
Crestline	5 20
Wooster	6 05
Massillon	6 34
Canton	6 55
Alliance	7 20
Pittsburgh	9 30

L. P. LOREE, General Manager. B. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent. PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

Local time cards, interchange, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

NICKEL PLATE

10-12-99

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class sleeping cars on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastbound.			All Nickel Plate Patronage Pretty Pretty.		Westbound.
No. 2	No. 4	No. 6			No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
Lv.	Lv.	Lv.			Ar.	Ar.	Ar.
10 00 AM	4 00 PM	11 59 PM	Chicago		5 15 PM	10 00 AM	4 00 AM
10 45	4 45	12 44 AM	Valparaiso		4 30	9 15	3 15
11 10	5 10	1 09	Ex. Wanatah		4 05	8 50	2 50
11 30	5 30	1 29	Kouts		3 45	8 30	2 30
11 45	5 45	1 44	Hanna		3 30	8 15	2 15
12 00 M	6 00	2 00	Wellard		3 15	8 00	2 00
12 15 PM	6 15	2 15	Lowell		3 00	7 45	1 45
12 30	6 30	2 30	Ex. Cedar Lake		2 45	7 30	1 30
12 45	6 45	2 45	Creston		2 30	7 15	1 15
1 00	7 00	3 00	Ex. Dyer		2 15	7 00	1 00
1 15	7 15	3 15	Hessville		2 00	6 45	12 45
1 30	7 30	3 30	New York		1 45	6 30	12 30
1 45	7 45	3 45	Buffalo		1 30	6 15	12 15

Limited trains, each way Every Hour (Central Time) 8 AM, only on Monday, Tuesday and Friday; westbound only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Light type, L. H. Dark type, P. M. Daily except Sunday. † Stop on signal.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 1, 3 and 5 to Chicago. Meals are served in "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. Quick, safe, comfortable. Our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. Heinz, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN
(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ A YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A gem; beautiful colored plates; latest fashions; entertaining reading; fancy work; household hints; notions, etc. Subscribe to-day, or send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ and 15¢

(No Scale—Allowance Patterns.)
Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from

THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and R. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Weeds, Sec'y.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 11 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 620 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., each alternoon—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Nelson, Ohio, meets every 1st day of the week for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by calling on Elbi V. Baker's, 209 West Bey St., Nelson, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, N. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Wells Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Toney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 A. M. Sunday, and at 8 Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:30 P. M., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scipioville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Erickson.

The Church of God at Lenox, Ill. meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in School House, corner of First and Osborn Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kaufe, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chace.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trusdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grout of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock A. M. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren A. D. Allen in charge.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, FEBRUARY 7, 1909. NUMBER 5.

Walter Tomlinson
St Kilmarnock

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, prerequisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential after salvation.

Poetry.

The Old Year and the New.

It is gone! with its record of sorrow and gladness;
With its throbbings of hope and its tremblings of fear;
With its accents of joy and its wailings of sadness—
The inaudible silence alone holds the Old Year.

It is gone with its changes, its pleas, its resolving,
Its brightness and darkness, its sunshine and showers;
With its seasons—some quick—some slowly decaying,
It is gone! and their memory now only endures.

It is gone! and recorded in annals unfading
Are the tales that it told as it winged on its flight:
The good and the evil, the brightness and shading,
Are photographed all by Eternity's light.

It is gone! and with resolve and high aspirations,
With hope radiating, futurity's sphere
With renewed heartiness and fresh consecrations
We enter again on another New Year.

Who can tell what great changes, what mighty revolving
May route its progression as onward they speed?
Events seem to loom to the glorious resolving
Of problems unsolved long have been trying to read.

We know not the future, its joy and its sadness,
Its shadows and sunshine alike unrevealed;
But we fear not, with Christ as our strength and our gladness,
No darkness can come who his light is revealed.

Fresh page of our life! shall thy lines be unblotted?
Shall thy records be one of humanity's power?
Shall it tell how he keeps us with garments unspotted?
Or triumph through him in temptation's dark hour?

Shall words be inscribed there as gladly spoken—
The story of Calvary lovingly told?
Shall the record be there of hearts healed that were broken—
Of wandering and weary ones led to the fold?

Dear Master! we long to be joint-heirs victorious;
To live and thy service ourselves now we give;
For us each in thy work, then this year shall be glorious,
And abiding in thee, 'twill be heaven to live.

Selected.

Rome's Great Crisis at Hand.

[That our readers who are interested in the rise or fall of the power of the papacy may get a clear conception of the situation in Italy, we give a correspondence by "Ex-Attache" in the Chicago Tribune Jan. 24. We chose to give this entire, as the outcome of this contest between state and church will settle the question of "temporal power." Let us watch the movements carefully.—ED.]

Of all the complicated situations that are to be found on the face of the globe, there is none more utterly confusing to the average intelligence and to the ordinary newspaper-reading citizen than the condition of affairs which now prevails at Rome. It is the more difficult to understand, owing to the fact that it is well nigh impossible to obtain an impartial and unprejudiced exposition of the problems involved.

To begin with, no two Italians seem to be of the same mind about the matter, for paradoxical though it may appear at first sight, there are many inmates of the Vatican who are imbued with the friendliest feeling towards King Humbert and his government, while in the same way there are many adherents of the latter who are pious Catholics and entertain sentiments of the most profound veneration and devotion to the Pontiff.

One Italian statesman will solemnly assure you that there is no such thing as the Roman question, which exists, so he asserts, solely in the imagination of foreigners; while another, such as, for instance, Marquis Visconti Venosta, the veteran Minister of Foreign Affairs of Italy, and one of the most eminent diplomats in Europe, does not hesitate to assert that "the Roman question is always with us, and, though short-sighted politicians think that it is an easy one to compromise or ignore, it is at the bottom of all Italy's difficulties. We shall never have peace until it is settled. Today an amicable arrangement between the government and the Vatican is a question of life and death for the nation."

Equally different is it to obtain any impartial explanation abroad. Some are of the opinion that temporal power should be restored to the Papacy, and conform their arguments to fit these views. Others insist that the restoration of temporal power would weaken rather than strengthen the Papacy, the spiritual influence of which has been enhanced instead of diminished by its loss. Yet others are opposed to any modus vivendi between the Vatican and the Quirinal, fearing lest the Papacy should become subordinated to the Italian government and rendered a powerful instrument of the national policy of the kingdom.

The fact that during one and the same week the Supreme Court of the kingdom should have issued a final decree denying the claims to extraterritorial rights put forward by the Vatican, and that Prince Prosper Colonna should have been appointed Mayor of the Eternal City in succession to the late Don Emanuel Rospoli, Prince of Poggio Suasa, merely serves to intensify the confusion. While the decree of the Supreme Court would seem to indicate a state of war between the Vatican and the Quirinal, Don Prosper Colonna's installation as Chief Magistrate of the Eternal City would lead to the inference that there is some understanding between church and state in Italy. For, whereas Don Marc Antonio Colonna, the head of the illustrious house of Colonna, is the principal lay dignitary of the Papal Court and attends the Pontiff on all state occassions, his younger brother Prosper, with whom he is on the most intimate and affectionate terms, has until now been Chief Gentleman-in-Waiting to Queen Marguerite, and becomes Mayor of Rome as an adherent, not of the Pope but of the King.

Yet some sort of an explanation is needed. For the so-called Roman question—that is to say, the respective positions of the Vatican and the Quirinal and their relations towards one another—is far from being a mere Italian affair, of no concern or importance save to the people of the peninsula. The matter is one which demands the attention of every foreign government that has any large Roman Catholic population subject to its rule. While these governments can view without apprehension the influence exercised over Roman Catholic citizens by a foreign Pontiff, who exercises his wonderfully powerful spiritual sway with purely religious objects in view, the situation would be entirely different were there to be any suspicion that the Papacy had been transformed from an international into a purely Italian institution, and were the Pontiff to be rendered dependent and subordinate of the Italian government, and, as such, a more or less passive instrument for the furtherance of the secular interests of Italy in foreign countries.

The interests of the Papacy and of the Roman Catholic Church throughout the world demand that the Pontiff should enjoy absolute independence of any individual government, and that he should be relieved of even the most remote imputation of exercising his spiritual sovereignty in the political interests of a monarchy such as the kingdom of Italy. The vital interests of the latter, on the other hand, require in an equally imperative manner that the church should be subordinated to the state—that is to say, that the Pontiff should become a mere stipendiary of the Italian government.

From this it will be seen that the decree of the Supreme Court of Italy denying extraterritorial rights to the Pope is a matter of grave international concern. Until now it has been generally supposed that the Pope was absolute master within the precincts of the Vatican, and that the authority of the Italian government stopped short at the doors of the pontifical palace. This idea was confirmed by the fact that the Pope was permitted to maintain his own armed body-guards, and that no royal police officer, revenue officers, magistrate, or military dignitary in the service of King Humbert had ever crossed the threshold of the Vatican save by special invitation since the abolition of the temporal sovereignty of the Papacy in 1870.

In fact, article VII. of the law of papal guarantees, enacted in May, 1871, expressly declares that no official of the government can in the exercise of his peculiar office enter the palace or residence of the sovereign Pontiff unless authorized by the latter. Moreover, the foreign embassies and missions accredited to the Papacy are conceded by the Italian government the same extraterritorial rights as the representative of the foreign powers at the court of the Quirinal.

It was, therefore, natural to assume that the Pontiff possessed the same extraterritorial rights as the foreign Ambassadors who form part of his court, and with the object of dispelling any doubts upon the subject Leo XIII. created an entire system of secular tribunals for the express purpose of administering justice within the precincts of the Vatican. Every civil or criminal suit that has been brought since 1870 against any inmate of the Vatican, however, has been instituted before the Italian courts, whose decisions were invariably appealed against by the counsel of the defendants on the ground that owing to the extraterritorial prerogatives of the Papacy both the Vatican and all its inmates were exempt from the jurisdiction of Italian tribunals.

The matter was carried from one Italian court to another. Justice moves slowly in Italy, and it is only now that the Supreme Court of Appeal of the kingdom has given a final decision denying the extraterritorial rights of the Papacy, as well as immunity of the inmates of the Vatican from Italian jurisdiction.

The first effect of this decision is that a large number of suits which have been pending for years—including one brought against the Papal household in 1880 by the architect who made all the arrangements for the conclave at which Leo XIII. was elected and who is still clamoring for his money—will now be decided against the inmates and dignitaries of the Vatican, against whom they were instituted.

The second result of this decree and the one which more immediately concerns all foreign governments is the fact that it virtually renders not only the dignitaries and inmates of the Vatican but even the Pope himself amenable to the jurisdiction of the Italian tribunals. Not merely as an Italian citizen but as the resident of an Italian city the Holy Father becomes subordinate to the Italian courts and ipso facto to the Italian government. For in Italy the Judges are not, as in this country and in England, independent of the control and authority of the executive, but are entirely subject to the orders of the Minister of Justice for the time being, the Minister in question being a member of an administration that holds office by virtue of the good will of an ephemeral parliamentary majority, to the whims and caprices of which it is compelled to pander.

The fact of the matter is that, thanks to this decree, the so-called Roman question has now reached a climax, and that a great crisis is imminent in the history of the church as well as in the fortunes of Italy. The settlement of the question one way or another can no longer be delayed, and it is now proposed to call an international congress for the purpose of devising some project with a view of neutralizing the Papacy—that is, in the sense of assuring its entire independence and neutrality as an international institution under the collective guarantee of all the Christian powers. Were this scheme to be put into execution the Vatican would be able to abandon much political and purely secular activity, which is not altogether in consonance with its spiritual mission, but which is rendered necessary and inevitable by the abnormal condition by which it is now environed and menaced.

It may be argued that the Italian government would regard the meeting of such a congress and the neutralization of the Papacy as an intolerable trespass upon its sovereign rights and as an unwarrantable interference in questions that are purely national. But in the first place the Papacy is in every sense of the word an international institution, and secondly, the Italian government has everything to gain by the settlement of the Roman question in such a manner that will enable the Quirinal to live on terms of open friendship with the Papacy without exposing the latter to any foreign suspicion of being an instrument of Italy's secular policy.

One of the first results of the settlement of this Roman question would be the removal of the Papal prohibition which since 1870 has prevented all devout Catholics from taking part in the parliamentary elections of the kingdom. At the present moment at least 60 per cent of the adult male population of Italy legally qualified to vote keeps away from the ballot box in deference to Papal behests. The absentees comprise the most respectable, well-to-do, and conservative classes—just the people, in fact, who would prove the bulwarks of law and order against socialism and anarchy.

It needs but a word from the Pope to send the so-called Catholic vote to the polls in favor of King and throne against revolution and anarchy. But this word the Pope, in deference to foreign susceptibilities and apprehensions, cannot speak until the independence of the Holy See and its complete freedom from any possibility of subjection to the Italian government have been assured by some international agreement.

Leo XIII. yearns for a reconciliation with Italy, and never showed it more plainly than when on Dec. 24 last he for the first time imparted the pontifical blessing from the high altar of St. Peter's, "Urbi et Orbi," all the great doors of the basilica being left wide open by his orders during the benediction so that his blessing might extend to the royal troops stationed on the great square outside.

The King and his most trusted advisers—eminent statesmen, such as the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Marquis Visconti Venosta—are equally desirous for an honorable settlement of the present intolerable situation.

Communicated.

Our Love Feast

Dear Restitution:

It is time to renew my subscription, which I gladly do. I have been reading THE RESTITUTION for about three years and am so pleased with it that I am a firm believer in the doctrine which it advocates because I believe it the true teaching of the Bible, and not only that, with the false teaching of popular Christianity falsely so called, it is a necessity and should be as widely distributed as possible. I say it is a necessity, not only to the true believer, in way of encouraging and stimulating us in the way of righteousness and perseverance in the duties of life, but especially to those who hold the Bible to be the Word of Truth, and teach for doctrine the commandments of men which is contrary to the truth.

With the best of wishes for the success of the RESTITUTION, and a happy New Year to all.

E. FAIRCHILD.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

As it has been a long time since I have written for the dear old paper, I will now try to do so. It is not because I do not want to write but because I do not know how. I am now so that I can read the dear old paper, and Bible and I study night and day when I am not busy. I thank the Lord for his help and mercy that he has bestowed upon me. Brothers and sisters, it makes my heart rejoice to see that some of you have preaching, and good meetings to go to. I am like a good many others that I read of in the paper, that are isolated and hear no preaching. I have heard none since Brother Hadley was here last August. We know that our Savior said "Will I find faith on the earth" when he come again. I tell you Brother, and Sister, it looks like there would be none for when we talk Bible truths to our neighbors they laugh us to scorn, and say it is an old whim of ours. I'll give you some of God's Word, and if we would be governed by those words and obey them we would have a better time in this life and in the life to come. Ps. xxxvii 1–12 says: "Fret not thyself because of evil doers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. For they shall soon be cut down like the grass, and wither as the green herb. Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass. And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noonday. Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him; fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass. Cease from anger, and forsake wrath; fret not thyself in any wise to do evil. For evil doers shall be cut off; but they that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth. For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be; yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place and it shall not be. But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. The wicked plotteth against the just, and gnasheth upon him with his teeth." The 24th and 25th verses of the same chapter say, "Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down; for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand. I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." I now say farewell. I hope it won't be long till we can meet where sickness and sorrow is not known. I hope we will all meet and shake glad hands in that glorious kingdom when Christ shall appear.

Your Sister in the Abrahamic faith.

MRS. R. C. ELLIOTT.

Dear Household of Faith:

I feel it my duty to write a few lines to our love feast. I love to read the letters of so many different ones of the one faith but thank God I am not isolated as some of our brothers and sisters are. There are several members here at Brush Creek. We have Sunday School and Social Meeting every Sunday. We had preaching by Brother F. L. Austin, and all that have heard him know that he is an excellent minister. No one came out and obeyed the truth, but I hope it did us all good. Dear brothers and sisters, let us trust in the Lord and he will never leave or forsake us. Let us come out from among the world by living more sober and in so doing we may become overcomers, and unless we become overcomers we can never enter into the kingdom of God. Pray for me that I may be faithful to the end. I read in one of the letters of a brother in Ohio who would like to hear from any of the faith near the centre of the state. We are about three and one half miles east of West Milton, and two miles south of Kessler Station. We expect Brother D. E. VanVactor over the first Saturday and Sunday in February.

Your Sister in the one faith.

MRS. DEBORAH PEARSON.

Dear Restitution:

I send greeting to your many readers, and especially to those of the household of faith, of the love-feast family, those who really love the Lord and his people, and his words more than all else, and have time and disposition of heart to manifest their love by their actions. I love the brethren who love the Lord, who are isolated, sad and lonely, whose hearts are made glad to meet one another here and tell of our hopes, trials and joys, and try to encourage and cheer each other on to faithfulness, love and good works, and so much the more as we see the great day of accounts and rewards drawing nigh at hand. Anciently those who feared the Lord spake often to each other, evidently to strengthen and encourage each other in the battles of life to be faithful and stand firm in the faith of the gospel of our salvation. And the Lord was well pleased with them, and said—"They shall be mine in the day when I make up my jewels, and I will spare them as a father spareth his son that serveth him." Servants of the Most High God, stand fast in the faith of the gospel, quit you like men, be strong. Let your conversation be pure and chaste as becometh the gospel of Jesus Christ. And whatsoever you do in word or deed do all to the glory of God. Study and strive hard to bring every thought into harmony and obedience to Christ, and our bodies into subjection, and when we are tempted to do wrong let us ask ourselves—Would Jesus do it?

Your brother in Christ.

T. E. ADAMS.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

I enjoy reading the letters from the brothers and sisters so much that I desire to write a few lines for the love feast. I have not heard a gospel sermon for some time, but I am still striving to overcome the trials and temptations of this life, striving to gain an inheritance in the kingdom soon to be established on earth, and hope to meet all of the household of faith there. I would like to ask the brothers and sisters of the one faith of south-west Louisiana to come together and have conference work, if it was not for the reason that we are all so poor that the thought of it discourages me, but if we all have the same faith and put our shoulders to the wheel the car certainly will move. Of course there will be some time and means required to have a conference and get preachers in the field but the earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof. I with my family just moved here to Calcasieu, La. We are isolated from those of like precious faith, as far as we are acquainted.

SARAH E. OFFERMAN.

Dear ones of like faith:

I must have a part with you in your yearly greeting, while the Lord in his mercy sees fit to spare my unprofitable life. Away from all of like faith, but my husband, I feel very lonely many times, but do not feel like giving up my faith or hope but desire to have it increased many fold. The letters from old and young comfort and encourage my heart. God bless and keep you all, especially the young, and all those who have recently come into the faith of the pure gospel. May you be blessed and strengthened daily and hourly. Pray much. Secret prayer is the place to get strength, to combat the enemy of all righteousness. God help us all to pray more this year than in all the past. Great and mighty events are increasing, and we know not what is before us this year if permitted to live. Lord help us to watch and pray.

Will Sister Sarah Morgan please write to her old friend and sister, Abbie A. Howard, at Scotland, Conn.

May grace, mercy and peace be with you all.

ABBIE A. HOWARD.

Editor Restitution:

While reading so many letters from the brotherhood it fills my soul with joy, so much so that I thought I would write a few words, thinking perhaps some one would like to hear from me. I am strong in the faith once delivered to the Saints. We are isolated from the brethren in this part of the world but when the dear old paper comes to us we are refreshed in mind and soul. We haven't heard a Bible discourse for two years so we feel our dependence on the Bible and the dear old paper for instruction in righteousness, that we may be ready to meet the Lord when he comes to gather his faithful ones home. We long to see the day when we shall be separated from the proud and haughty ones. David said, "Our soul is exceedingly filled with the scorning of those that are at ease and with the contempt of the proud." We ask an interest in the prayers of all God's people that we may press forward against all opposition, and at last meet all God's chosen ones.

JOHN M. HERRON.

Oregon Bible College
Oregon, Illinois

The Restitution.

A. B. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, Feby 7, 1900.

Please Take Notice.

Examine the label on your paper, and see that it reads right. If it has "Sept. 99" following your name you will understand that you are back in payment from September, 1899, and to get right you should at once remit the amount required, at the rate of $1.50 per year, to bring it up to the first of Jan., 1900, and enough more to pay through this year. Then it will be marked "Jan. 1," meaning that you have paid to January, 1901. If your label says "June 9," it is back since June, 1899, and you should follow the example set above to get it as it should be. If it is "Jan. 0" it means you are paid to the first of this year, and you should at once send you $1.50 that it may be changed to "Jan. 1."

Brothers and Sisters, we need the money you owe us, and we hope and trust you will each one take the necessary steps to make your label read right. We thank those who have sent in their payments for the kind favor, and assure you we greatly appreciate the same.

He who denies his guilt doubles his guilt.

Beautiful are the admonitions of him whose life accords with his teachings.

When in the presence of others neither our own time nor that of the company should be wasted upon trifles.

A letter from Brother L. E. Conner tells of him being with the church at Roll, Ind., two weeks ago, and that arrangements are made for him to go there regularly the 2nd Sunday in each month. We trust that much good will be done for the Master through his labors at this place.

A Brother sorrowfully writes:—

"It makes me sad to find such apathy existing in the household of faith. It is truly appalling. They who ought to manifest thanksgiving for deliverance seem to grudge expressions of practical gratitude for the gift of light and truth. So many subjects before the mind, even when ordinarily strong, create a bewildering which develops coolness, and often a falling away altogether." Such words as these should stir us all up to our Lord's injunction to watch and pray. Prevention is better than a cure.

The many friends of Sister Babcock will be interested in knowing of her condition as given by the following letter written Jan. 25th. She is at the Woman's Relief Corp Home, at Madison, Ohio.—Ed.

Brother Underwood,

My eyes are again troubling me so much so, that I am kept in a darkened room all the time. They are very painful, and are considered serious, because of being so near the brain, and the optic nerve being involved.

My spinal trouble is better than usual. Love to all the friends.

Mary W. Babcock.

Sentimental Religion.

"I'll praise my Maker while I've breath,
And when my soul is lost in death,
Praise shall my nobler tongue employ."

Again,

"There is no death! What seems so is transition.
This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of the life Elysian
Whose portals we call death."

This verse is also brought to mind—

"A charge to keep I have,
A God to glorify,
A never dying soul to save
And fit it for the sky."

There is admirable sentiment in these lines; but under the guise of praise there is a direct denial of the very essence of Scripture teaching. We are told that death is not death; that the dead are enabled to employ nobler powers than when living; and consciously exist in mansions in the skies.

If death is not death why are our friends whose loved ones are visited by death so full of sorrow? It looks to an unbiased mind, as though they do not believe what they sing, or else they begrudge their friends their celestial joys and life Elysian.

The Future Reward.

We do not obtain immortality before birth, or at birth, but at the resurrection, in the world to come, see Luke xx. 35, 36; John v. 29; vi. 40, 54; Luke xviii. 29, 30; Mark x. 28, 30; Dan. xii. 2; 1 John ii 25; Psa. xvii. 35. This point being proved beyond a shadow of a doubt, it is impossible we can have it in the shape of an immortal soul or spirit in this life. If the serpent, who told the first lie said, "Ye shall not surely die," that is no reason why we should believe we are immortal, and therefore make God a liar.

Immortality has been brought to light by the Lord Jesus Christ through the gospel.—1 Tim. i. 10, "For this corruptible (body) must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." 1 Cor. xv. 53, 54. The first of these passages shows that life and immortality were brought to light by Jesus Christ through the gospel. But the gospel nowhere shows that any of mankind possess immortality now. How could it do that, when immortality in the kingdom of God is the very thing the gospel offers men by faith and obedience? The second passage (in its connections shows that "mortal man" (Job iv. 17) may put on immortality at the resurrection,—that it is something mortal that is clothed with immortality. The word immortal occurs but once in all the Bible and is applied to God.—see 1 Tim. i. 17.

God is Love. No. 3.

The manifestations of God's love are innumerable and overwhelming. Creation is proof of God's love. He formed the earth to be inhabited. And when we look into the bowels of the earth and see the vast stores of iron, and tin, and copper, and lead, and oil, and coal, and gas, and silver, and gold, and precious stones, and all the clays suitable for the creature he was intending to form as an inhabitant of this world we can hardly help agreeing with the Psalmist that he is a fool who says in his heart that there is no God. Every want of the creature man was anticipated. No matter what needs are developed thousands of years later the God of the Bible and the God of nature anticipated them. Having formed what he wanted he the creature not yet formed and as he wanted it, and then established it and pronounced it a fixture, we know it will travel on while eternal ages roll; it abideth ever. Although it was subsequently cursed for man's sake, it was only for a season, for the great God swore to Moses by his own existence, that the earth shall be filled with his glory. God manifested his love by determining that man should be capable of developing a character that should fit him for the possession of divine nature and attributes. This takes us back to the eternity of the past,—it was Jehovah's Eternal Purpose to do this.

God manifested his love by determining that only the pure in heart should see him. This transcendant privilege is proof of Divine nature, because no mortal can see his face and live; and is proof that all hearts won't not be pure and heart purity proves man's personal accountability. He must, to be eligible to the divine nature of existence, CHOOSE PURITY and REJECT IMPURITY. It was Jehovah's prerogative to decide on what conditions man could live forever,—he was under no obligation to offer any terms, the fact that he did, is another proof of his love. All animate creation glorifies God mechanically and intellectually; but only man can glorify him morally or religiously, because he alone is religiously organized. He stands alone,—the only morally accountable creature, capable of believing, loving and obeying God.

Many practically blame God for endowing man with these ennobling faculties, instead of praising him for making them superior to the brute creation. They do not realize that if there were no wrong there would be no right; and there being neither right nor wrong there could be neither rewards for the one nor punishments for the other. There could be no purity of heart without the test already referred to; and if men choose the way of sin which entails suffering and sorrow and death, to gratify their love of sinful pleasure they are unfit for Jehovah's purpose.

God's love is then manifested by utterly extinguishing sinners, instead of consigning them to an eternity of torments. This is exactly in harmony with the penalty he was fairly warned of—death; a return to the dust he was made of. Oh, how God's love shone forth when he drove man from the tree of life lest he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat [of that, too] and live for ever as rebels against God.

(To be continued.)

The Second Coming of Christ.

The objects of Christ's Second Coming were not made known in the Scriptures for the purpose of gratifying our curiosity, but as constituting the very essence of the gospel, and the subject matter of that great salvation towards which we were required to exercise enlightened and patient hope. The belief has been pretty general for a long time that Christ was coming to reduce the earth to a state of annihilation. Poets had fostered this conviction by their graphic description of the earth's flame. The mountains were to melt, and the solid ground was to dissolve in liquid air. It would be difficult, to say the least, to ascribe wisdom to the author of such a catastrophe. The expenditure of power and skill of which the earth is such a magnificent illustration, would culminate miserably, were the prevailing idea an accurate one. God himself has said that he created not the earth in vain, but formed it to be inhabited, see Isa. xlv. 18. But he formed it for proud aristocrats or ambitious princes, or avaricious merchants, or the degraded portion of the race, whose highest gratification were little more respectable than those of the beasts that perish, then, assuredly, he had created it in vain. But it was his revealed purpose to people it with a race of immortals, every one of whom should respect his authority, and have an indissoluble inheritance in its soil, and be permanently and unspeakably blessed. This wonderful and amazing destiny for mankind, this Eternal Purpose of beneficence in association with his own glory was an issue that justified his determination to call the earth into existence. Reader, we beg of you not to commit the stupendous blunder of charging the Almighty with folly in creating the earth and then destroying it, because man became a rebel. Take the divine statement in Isa. xlv. 18 and the Revelation by Jesus Christ that he will "make all things new," Rev. xxi. 5, and the announcement of the same spirit in Rev. iii. 14 that the REVEALER of the things God had made known to him was the Beginning of the (New) creation of God;" and the fact that Jesus has promised to come to earth again, John xiv. 3 and the fact that God has promised to send him again, when the time comes to inaugurate the stupendous work of restoring all the prophets have predicted, Acts iii. 19, 20; and the great truth that he exalts himself upon the throne of glory promised him when he comes; Matt. xxv. 31; and becomes King over all the earth. Zech. xiv. 9; and will reign till everything that has breath shall praise Jehovah, and then you will see that man has not thwarted his Eternal Purpose—it abideth Ever, does the earth, and to crown all, it will be filled with his glory. Amen and Amen.

The World's Doings.

To give all that is going on in the world would require a paper much larger than ours, printed every day, so we can only give a brief line or two that will but hint at the volume of news.

Since our last issue the English made an advance to relieve Ladysmith, and after much hard fighting, and gaining considerable apparent advantage, they abandoned the position taken and retired. This caused the most profound anxiety in England, and fears were entertained that General Buller had suffered worse than the reports told of. Very little concerning the reason for this moves is known, but at this time he is again pushing his forces to the front, but by a different route, and the nations are watching the outcome with anxiety.

The Boer agents are actively engaged in the courts of the leading nations, endeavoring to induce them to intervene and stop the war. This they dare not do until the English signify their approval, unless of course the nation so interfering wishes to fight England. From the appearance it looks as if Russia, France and Germany would enjoy seeing the English nation broken up even if it was for the effect such disaster would have on the money markets of these countries. It is safe to say that no one will interfere just now.

However, there is another way to annoy the British lion. Russia continues her work in China, and the Empress Dowager having deposed the Emperor and appointed his successor, a great wave of indignation sweeps over the Empire, and many are taking sides with the one deposed, with likelihood of revolution in many places. Of course this is just what Russia and France want, as they can have an excuse for stepping in and settling affairs, and so gain advantage to themselves. England engaged elsewhere can have but little to say in it. Then in Persia the Russians have taken the lead and made a loan whereby she is to be guaranteed certain rights regarding railroads and a port on the Persian Gulf. It is so arranged that Persia cannot ask a loan from any other nation for the space of 75 years without first asking Russia. So the Bear appears to have a decided hold in this place.

Adding to her other troubles England must count as a serious matter the mutiny among some of the Egyptian troops that she has relied on as being loyal. This may be, till proves to be much, the excuse that France will take to seize Morocco.

The trouble between Greece and state in Italy engages the attention of diplomats, and the decision of the courts on the status of the Vatican may call for an international conference to settle it.

With our own country still fighting the Filipinos with very little show that that they are through, we now have to face what may be a serious affair in the shooting down in the streets of Frankfort, Ky., Wm. Goebel one of the contestants for the Governor's chair. Both sides claim to be in office and are backed by armed men who make no show of giving way. The National Government declines to interfere, and there may be blood shed at any hour.

The labor troubles in Europe causing distress that the charity societies are powerless before, and a counterpart may occur in this country any day.

The places in the Orient is still unabated, and in some quarters horses have been burned in order to stamp out the disease.

With the famine in India, and three earthquakes in various parts of the world in the last week, the trials of this world of ours count up to an enormous aggregate, with nothing yet in sight that will remove them. We think it useless to look for a betterment through the agency of any thing devised by man. Nothing but the overthrow of existing powers and the establishment of the kingdom of God will give lasting peace. May this change soon take place, is our prayer.

Death's Doings.

The Church of the Blessed Hope in Cleveland were called upon Jan. 18th, 1900, to perform the last sad offices for one very dear to all, Brother James Parker, of 133 Adamson St, who departed this life Jan. 15, 1900, aged seventy-two years, four months and twenty-eight days.

At the time our Church edifice was opened for the worship of God's children and the proclamation of the gospel of the kingdom, over eleven years ago, the organization to which our brother belonged was so rent by the partizans of two bishops so that he wandered about from one place to another to find, if possible, a congenial religious community, and by the favor of God, dropped in where he, for the first time in his life, heard the Glad Tidings of life in the Kingdom of God by a resurrection from the dead. Earnest and devout as he had been for some years, he was conscious of an aching void that nothing had hitherto been able to fill. The Gospel of the Kingdom Jesus preached seemed to show him what he was, and what he needed and how he could obtain it; and by frequent visits at night, after the day's toil he would earnestly enquire what he must do to secure God's great salvation. And as one beam of divine light after another would illumine his mind, he would say, "Oh, I used to ask the Father for more light, and now I am getting it in answer to my prayer—thank and praise his holy name."

After putting on the sin-covering name of Jesus in the adopting ordinance of baptism, it is testified by all who came in contact with him, that he was an untiring worker in God's vineyard. In the intervals of business he was always alert for an opportunity to speak a word for the glorious gospel of the grace of God, and to distribute literature calculated to lead his fellow mortals to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world.

Several years ago his health began to fail him, and after a time through an operation for cataract he became quite blind, then internal troubles, causing intense suffering ensued, and continued till death relieved him. Throughout his long illness his patience, fortitude and unwavering trust in God, spoke volumes of the transforming power of truth when believed and obeyed. It could be said truly of him that he rejoiced in the Lord always, so that his simple utterances, as death was feeling for his heart-strings, were like benedictions to brethren and sisters who visited him. It was not surprising that so faithful an example of the religion of the Bible should have pressed its claims upon the dear wife of his youth, until she, too, became a member of the Body of Christ, and joyfully traveled the narrow way with him till parted by death; and now sorrows, but hopefully sorrows, and labors to water the precious seed sown by him in the hearts of others, dear by the ties of nature.

Sleep on, dear one, we pledge to meet you in the morning. Soon may it dawn!

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is again at the head of the list in a new arrangement whereby old employees who are by age incapacitated for service, are given pensions, amounting to about 50 per cent of the wages earned by them previous to their retirement. This was put in operation on the eastern division on Jan. 1, and 950 names were on the list to start with. The same will be introduced on the western lines soon, and cannot fail to prove beneficial to the employed men. When we take into account the uniform superiority of every branch of the service of this road, and know that to operate it requires an army of 100,000 men, and that its managers are leaders in every improvement for the safety and dispatch of its patrons, we can realize what a great and perfectly harmonious organization it must be, working under one master hand. This can only be brought about by a complete unity between the employer and the employed, and this new system of supplying for those who have served faithfully till their age debars them from continuing in active service, is the crowning step in the perfect corporation, and cannot fail to inspire confidence in a company so solicitous for the men who have been loyal to it.

The "Free Will" Fund.

We have hesitated about pressing this matter very much, but every day these are calls by the poor, for papers. They do not like to give it up—indeed the home of plenty that has daily papers, magazines and countless books always at hand, can but dimly conceive of that poor brother or sister to whom The Restitution is the only visitor. "My Bible and The Restitution" they write, "are all we have." Isolated, never hear a sermon, no one to talk over the precious truths of our faith with, not able to work to earn money as once they could, and so must give up the one treasure and pleasure of life. Brother, sister, ask yourself the question—will the reading of the next popular book give more pleasure than sending the same amount to have The Restitution sent to some poor brother? Many of you could have all needed books and papers, and not miss $5.00 or $10.00 for this purpose, and more could be done if we were minded to "sacrifice" something on this altar.

Brethren and sisters, take this cause home to your hearts—think it over—consider it well—even pray over it—then act as your own conscience dictates.

Notice.

Editor Restitution:

The Quarterly Meeting of the Beloit District will convene with the Church at Prairie Point, nine miles north-east of Osseo, Cloud Co. Kan., on Feb. 9, 1900. Come one and all, and let us have a good meeting

T. H. Owens, Chair.
Wm. Bamer, Sec'y.

The Christian life is having convictions and not talking about them; having them and not knowing that we have them. Not calling Christ our Master, but making him our Master in fact. "Believest thou this?" Ask the question on your knees, and pray that God will help you to give an honest answer.—Greenough.

If you hold a Central Passenger Association Mileage ticket use it on trains of the Nickel Plate Road, on and after Feb. 10th.

Unit Faith.

"There is one body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all." Eph. iv. 4-6.

Among the religionists of our day, we find many bodies, hopes, lords, faiths, baptisms and gods. With these facts before us, how are we to regard the conflict with the above inspired declaration of Holy Scriptures.

This does not in the least militate against the fact that the Divine unity still remains intact: their multiplicity is alone of human origin, and bears the curse of heaven.

The same apostle who affirmed the above unity of the faith and hope, etc., also said: "The Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the (evil) faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils, (immortal souls and sky kingdom), speaking (these) lies in hypocrisy." Which said lies undermine the foundation truths of the one true faith and hope of the gospel, and renders null and void any baptism received while believing those lies to be truths.

Because people believe a "strong delusion" to be truth, does not relieve them from the consequences arising from the belief of that "delusion." The only remedy is in "the love of the truth." I do not make these assertions of my own volition, but on the authority of God's Word, as follows: they "that perish; (why?) because they received not the love of truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie: that they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness." This language may seem to modern liberalists, to be severe, nevertheless it is the message Paul received as indited by God's Holy Spirit, and therefore cannot be ignored as the fleshly mind may desire to do.

Take for example, the case of "Hymenus and Philetus; who concerning truth truth have erred, saying the resurrection is past already, and overthrow the faith of some. Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure."

The doctrine of the resurrection is fundamental, inasmuch as the good things promised in the faith and hope of the gospel will fail to be realized if there be no resurrection. The doctrine of the devil, or devils (adversaries)—"Thou shalt not surely die"—is subversive of the doctrine of the resurrection, and such a faith is not only fiction, but a "lie," and the belief of a lie, though honestly believed to be truth, will not change its nature, it still remains a lie, with all the direful results which always follow lies. These lies may "overthrow the faith of some," "nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure." The religious lies of blind guides, and their dupes who give heed to such false teaching will never in the least affect "the foundation of God," that "standeth sure."

Love to our fellows demands a faithful and uncompromising proclamation of the "foundation of God," that they may be blessed thereby. Compromise is always hurtful. Paul says, "Quit yourselves like men."

W. H. Wilson.

The Bishop of Peterborough has sent to his clergy the following letter: "I must guard you against the practice of insisting upon confession to be made by the candidate to a priest as part of the system of preparation for receiving confirmation. Such an enforcement of what is only regarded by our church as a voluntary and exceptional act is entirely contrary to the spirit and direction of our Prayer Book, and in any cases where the enforced confession has been practiced I shall decline to hold a confirmation in that church."

The number of the Catholics in the Transvaal are roughly estimated to reach from 15,000, to 20,000, for the most part engaged in mining business or mechanical pursuits. They are centered around Johannesburg.

The depopulation of Peru is illustrated by the fact that the Valley of Santa, which in the days of the Incas had a population of 700,000, now has only 5,000.

Of course you will understand that the print in the paper is not to be compared with the clearness as it appears in the book. Common paper and ink cannot bring out the fineness like book ink and paper. You will be able only to get the size and general appearance of the page of this Bible.

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets are good on the Nickel Plate Road between Buffalo and Chicago or intermediate stations on and after Feb. 10th.

Poetry.

Waiting.

"The patient waiting for Christ." 2 Thes. iii. 5.

Waiting amid the shadows
For the blushing of the dawn;
Waiting amid the darkness
For the sunlight of the morn.
Waiting, because the appointed age
Has not told out its years;
Waiting because a groaning earth
Has not wept all its tears.

Toil-worn and very weary,
For the waiting time is long—
Leaning upon the promise,
For the Promiser is strong.
Waiting because some straying sheep
Are on the mountain cliff:
They must be sought, and found, and saved;
It is the Father's will.

Waiting 'mid cruel taunting
From many a scornful foe,
As chilled by bitter night winds,
The lamp of faith burns low.
Waiting because a patient God
Is pitiful and kind;
The seeking Shepherd may not leave
One halting lamb behind.

Waiting 'mid angry billows
For the breaking of the light—
Heart-sick, and sad and fretful,
With toiling all the night.
Waiting, because the Master stands
To watch the rising tide,
And he would have us meet Him not
Upon the other side.

Waiting, with hand still busy,
Chilling the tears that fall;
Stopping sometimes to listen,
If haply he should call.
Waiting, because the mighty stream
Flows on with ceaseless tide,
That bears comfortless souls
To the palace halls;
The open door stands wide.

Waiting, the hours beguiling
With rapturous thoughts of home;
Breathing a yearning whisper,
"When will the Master come?"

* * * * * *

Hark! get thee to the mountains,
There is a sound of distant song—
The Bridegroom King is coming,
For his bride has waited long.

Communicated.

The X Ray Papers. No. 2.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light.

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, you asked me what part of man committed the sin, and what part paid the penalty when Adam disobeyed God. Of course the intelligence of man going contrary to the command of God is what constituted the sin, but the whole man was included in the penalty, but the death that each component part died was different. The soul being immortal of course could not die the same death that the mortal body died. We therefore, have spiritual death. That is being alienated from God, being in a state of sin. That is the death Adam died the day he eat of the forbidden fruit. Then we have temporal death, that is the separation of soul and body. The penalty expressed was "The day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." And as we are informed in the Scriptures Adam did not die a temporal death that day, he must have died a spiritual death.

Mack. Bro. B., I don't think the context will sustain your idea of two deaths being included in that penalty. Now, as God was speaking to the man that he formed of the dust, and told him that the day he eat of a certain tree he should surely die, and as you say he did not die that day, there appears to be a misunderstanding some where, which I think we will find if we examine the text a little closer. If you will refer to the margin you will find that the Hebrew reads, "Dying thou shalt die," instead of, "Thou shalt surely die," as in Common Version. Our Common Version does not express the idea of the Hebrew "dying thou shalt die." When Adam disobeyed God he came under the dominion of death, and it was only a question of time when death would have full control over him. But let us go with him a little further, and we will find what the penalty actually was for, if we will interpret Scripture by Scripture, we will have no trouble in coming at the facts.

We will turn to Gen. iii. 17-19, here we find the sentence passed on man for his disobedience. God in passing sentence on Adam said, "Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee saying, Thou shalt not eat of it. Cursed is the ground for thy sake, in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life, thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to thee and thou shalt eat of the herb of the field. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground, for out of it wast thou taken, for dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return." Now, Bro. B., why was all this trouble brought on Adam, and why was he to return to dust?

Rev. B. The text says, "Because he had hearkened to the voice of his wife and partook of the forbidden tree."

Mack. We have here the penalty for Adam's disobedience plainly stated, and that is returning to dust. This then is God's definition of death. Not a word said about spiritual death and I conclude if there is such a death, that it was not included in that penalty, and as you say the whole man was included in that penalty of death, and as we have found that death is a returning to dust, and we find no part of man exempted by the Creator, we conclude that at death the whole man, all there is of him returns to dust, there to await the resurrection from the dead.

Rev. B. My dear sir, that sentence passed upon Adam of returning to the dust does not refer to the immortal soul of Adam, but only to the body.

Mack. Bro. B., I have a very pertinent question I would like to ask, that is, how do you know these things? Have you a "thus saith the Lord," for such statements? But Bro. B., we will follow Adam on a little further and see what becomes of him. We find that after God had passed the sentence, he said, "He has become as one of us to know good and evil. Now, lest he (this immortal man) put forth his hand and partake of the tree of life and live forever, we will drive him out of the garden and place a guard to guard the way to the tree of life. And in Gen. v. 5. we read that all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years and he died. This is the final execution of the threat made, when man was first placed in the garden of Eden, "dying thou shalt die."

Rev. B. I should like to turn now to 1 Sam. xxviii., commencing at the 3 verse, we have a narrative of the return of the Prophet Samuel and conversation between him and Saul, at that time king of Israel. I think this account proves conclusively that the soul or spirit of man lives on as a conscious personality after the death of the body.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., let us examine this narrative and see what facts are connected with and what conclusions are to be drawn after considering those facts. In the first place we will consider the narrative. Samuel was a prophet of God who had anointed Saul as king of Israel, and had instructed him in the will of God and acted as his counsellor and adviser, but now Samuel was dead and the Philistines had come up against the Israelites with a mighty host, and Saul was sore afraid when he saw their overwhelming army, in his anxiety he looked about him for help. He sought the Lord, but he had gone contrary so often to the commands of the Lord that he refused to make any answer, either by dream or by Urim or by prophet, the Lord's appointed way to communicate at that time. He thought of his old friend, the prophet Samuel, who had instructed him so often, but Samuel was dead. Now at that time there were those who claimed to communicate with the dead through familiar spirits, and we find that this work of dealing with familiar spirits God had declared to be an abomination to him and had sentenced to death all who practiced it. Now, Saul inquired for one having a familiar spirit and was told of a woman at Endor. So Saul disguised himself and went to this woman, when asked what he wanted, told her to call up Samuel, and when the apparition appeared Saul asked her what she saw and she told him an old man covered with a mantle. Now, Bro. B., do you believe that that apparition, which appeared there was actually Samuel, or the immortal soul of Samuel?

Rev. B. Of course it was Samuel or rather his spirit that came up and communicated with Saul. Does not the narrative say that Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and would not Saul know Samuel when he saw him?

Mack. It is said that Saul perceived that it was Samuel, but how did he perceive, not by seeing the apparition, but by the description given by the woman, for Saul did not see what claimed to be Samuel, but from the woman's description he supposed it to be Samuel, and then the narrative goes on on that supposition. But let us notice the character of the actors in this scene and see if it would be consistent of either God or Samuel to answer Saul through this medium of communication. God had declared that this dealing with familiar spirits to be an abomination to him, and ordered all who practiced it in Israel to be put to death. Now, would he when he had refused to answer Saul through any legitimate mode, have recourse to a mode which he had so severely condemned; and further if the popular theory of the immortality of the soul be true and the righteous ascend to heaven at death, there to enjoy all that heaven is, then the prophet Samuel must have been in that blissful abode, for he was certainly a righteous man and one approved of God. Now, Samuel certainly knew that the Lord had forbidden the practice of pretending to communicate with the dead through familiar spirits, would be at the bidding of this abandoned woman of Endor, leave the ports of heaven and come back to earth to communicate with Saul whom God had refused to answer in any legitimate way. Now, Bro. B. Are we going to charge God and Samuel with such inconsistencies?

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, if that was not Samuel or his spirit, I would like to know what it was?

Mack. If we will take all the facts bearing on the transaction in consideration I don't think it will be hard to decide the matter. We are taught by the Scripture that these familiar spirits were the spirits of devils, and as Satan, the Prince of devils, was a liar from the beginning, we may look for deception wherever he is! treated. He practiced his deception at that day and age of the world and has extended his schemes all down through the course of time to the present. We have now the same dealing with familiar spirits that were carried on by the woman of Endor, she was nothing more nor less than what we call a spiritual medium. Now, the familiar spirit with whom this woman communicated, personated Samuel and appeared as an old man covered with a mantle. No immortal souls go about in the form of an old man covered with mantles. Besides, this supposed Samuel said to Saul, "Tomorrow thou and thy sons shall be with me." Now, if the popular theory of the consciousness of the dead be true, and the righteous are enjoying the bliss of heaven, then Saul and his sons with all their sins, which they had heaped up by disobedience to the commands of God, are to be in that blissful abode with Samuel, the next day after the interview with his familiar spirit.

J. H. McCLARY.

(To be continued.)

God's Hand in History.

It is admitted by all believers in the inspiration of the Bible, that in ancient times God interfered with the affairs of nations; that they were in some sense subject to his control, and under his direction for specific ends; that he employed them as agents to execute his designs, to minister blessings on the one hand, and on the other to inflict punishments for national sins when these had gone so far as to outrage every principle of right, and threaten to destroy the moral fabric of human society. All believers in God's Word base this notion of supernatural intervention on statements of the Scriptures. The king of Babylon was punished until "he learned that the Most High ruled in the kingdoms of men and gave it to whomsoever he would," Dan. iv. 25. That "he doeth according to his will in the army of heaven and among the inhabitants of earth," v. 35. "He removeth kings and setteth up kings." Dan. ii. 21. When the Israelites by their national sins had provoked Jehovah's anger he executed his judgment upon them by the hand of the Assyrian king. He said:—"O Assyrian the rod of mine anger * * I will send him against a hypocritical nation, against the people of my wrath will I give him a charge to take the spoils." Isa. x. 5, 6. Assyria in turn was punished as predicted in this same chapter, says the prophet:—"Wherefore it shall come to pass, that when the Lord hath performed his whole work upon Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, I will punish the fruit of the stout heart of the king of Assyria and the glory of his high looks." v. 12. "The king boasted that it was by the strength of his hand that he had done it, and by his wisdom. This was as if the axe should boast against the hewer, or the saw magnify itself against him who handles it. This shows that the Assyrian king was under the direction of God in the matter of punishing Israel. Touching Babylon it is written:—"Behold I will punish the king of Babylon and his land as I punished Assyria." Jer. l. 18.

The sword of Media humbled the pride of these great nations and brought them to desolation.

It is recorded of Babylon that "the wild beasts of the desert with the wild beasts of the islands shall dwell there." Cyrus, one hundred and fifty years before his birth was chosen of God to lead the Medo-Persian hosts against this strongly fortified city, styled the glory of kingdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees excellency. That [illegible] destruction should be as complete as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, Isa. xiii. 19. God's hand is as clearly seen in the overthrow of Babylon as in that of the "Cities of the plain," in the days of Abraham and Lot. Inspired history tells us that he overthrew these. Inspired prophecy tells us the same of Babylon. The agency in the one case was "brimstone and fire;" in the other the army of Cyrus. God says of Cyrus. "He is my shepherd and shall perform all my pleasure." He speaks to him as his anointed whose right hand he had hold to subdue kings; to loose their loins; to open before him the two leaved gates: and all this with a view to blessing Judah from captivity and restoring her to her own land.

Hundreds of years after this restoration God determined to punish his people [illegible] for their sins which had culminated in their rejection and crucifixion of the Messiah. This time the rod of his anger is Rome. Moses and Daniel, Jeremiah and Jesus had predicted the downfall of Jerusalem and the Jewish commonwealth. Moses says:—"The Lord shall bring a nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose tongue thou shalt not understand;" (Deut. xxviii. 49,) a nation that should "besiege them in all their gates." Verse 64 reads:—"And the Lord shall scatter thee among all people from the one end of the earth even unto the other."

Jeremiah describes this invading power as an "evil that appeareth out of the north and great destruction." Jer. vi. 2.

In the days of Christ the Jews were fearful that something might precipitate this predicted calamity, but they assigned the wrong cause. The decision of the council was that if they let Jesus alone all men would believe on him; and the Romans would come and take away their place and nation. John xi. 48. They themselves were pursuing a course that would involve them in ruin they feared. In all the foretold calamities that should come upon the two houses of Israel in punishment for their national sins God's name stands connected with the infliction of that which was decreed, as truly as was the names of the subordinate agencies directly concerned. God controlled and directed these agencies. As we view his agency in the prophecy so must we in history, which is a transcript in fact or fulfilment of the former. Whatever is true in this respect of Israel is true of other nations. If the prophet affirms that God will bless or curse a nation we may rest assured he will do it.

It is easy for the believer in the Divine authority of the Bible to admit what is here claimed that God interfered in affairs of his own people in the ages of miracle and revelation; and had much to do with the movements, the good and bad fortunes of other nations, but that since the death of the last prophet he has left the nations to themselves, to shape their own destiny, to rise by their own inherent genius and prowess, or to sink beneath the all-controling force of circumstances: that the best among these is bad like the Sodomites and ante-diluvians "exceedingly wicked;" that the nearest perfect form of human government is corrupt; therefore, he is not operating through any of these toward his ultimate purpose, the founding of a kingdom in which righteousness and justice shall be triumphant over all the earth. Is it reasonable and Scriptural to think that in this dispensation God is coldly unconcerned about how the conflict between nations goes, whether right or might shall be victor? whether this nation conquers and breaks the chains of slavery and opens the way for the march of civilization? or that one conquers only to make the yoke of bondage more galling and that ignorance and superstition may become more dense, and human wretchedness be augmented? Surely not. Such is not his attitude.

Though the prophets lived and wrote in the old dispensation many of their prophecies were to await their accomplishment in this. The same fact confronts us here. God's hand is in the prophecies which were to find their fulfillment in the "latter times." Jerusalem fell in the year 70 of this dispensation. If it be objected that this occurred within the period of miracles, I reply, there is nothing in all this history of Jerusalem's fall that can be singled out as a miracle, and yet God's agency in the overthrow is declared by Moses in the passage quoted from Deut. xxviii. It is further declared that the Lord would scatter the Jews among all nations from one end of the earth to the other; a work that would require time. The action of the ten horns or governments in relation to the harlot church is in this dispensation. It is written of these that "they shall hate her, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire; for God hath put it in their hearts to fulfill his will, and to agree and give their kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God shall be fulfilled." Rev. xvii. 16, 17.

If God employs human governments to strip a worldly and wicked church of its wealth and power it is surely in harmony with his character and in accord with the fitness of things that he should employ the wisest and best and most humane nation or nations to minister blessings to other nations that have been kept in ignorance and thralldom by despotic rulers, both civil and ecclesiastical. Look back over the past hundred years and see what has been done by two great nations. England and [illegible] in giving light and liberty to ignorant, down-trodden races, unable to rise of their own exertions. The hand of God is surely in what tends to better the condition of any portion of Adam's race.

JOHN L. WISER.

Dear Household of Faith:

We come again with a little report of labor done in the name of Jesus. No Pentecostal feast this time, but a hard fight for God's truths. On Jan. 11th, we left home at midnight to work for a little time for the faithful brethren in Fulton Co., Ohio, held meetings from 18th to 25th. Bros. Wagoner, Joblin and Zilmer, do we say wrong when we declare this to be a hard place to work in? Why? There are so few to work on who will reason together with God. They have had and are still having, almost anything but gospel preached at "Old Raker Union Church," and although the congregations were good all the time, except Sunday mornings and two stormy evenings, and some acknowledged the preaching was all Bible, and sounded very plain to them while listening, still they were very easily led away by a class who persuaded them we were not Christians, blessed of God, unless we could jump about so high and scream about so loud, (my witty husband adds, they may be first class jumpers, and find to their chagrin and amazement by and by, they were very poor Christians) others who listened were almost persuaded to accept. I think they will see the great necessity of coming into Christ e'er long. God grant it, he has a noble little band of believers at this place who are sound in the faith and in spite of much opposition are standing fast with their faces toward the foe, ready always to give a reason of their hope with Christian meekness and love. God bless and keep them, now our hearts became knit together with theirs in love, as we worked and talked with them, so thoughtful of all our needs, making us in every way feel at home, and happy. We only regretted on leaving them when we had not been able to do more toward adding good helpful workers to their numbers, but God is our witness that we did what we could and still had no additions. Oh, why do people have to be urged for days and weeks to accept that which alone can give them eternal life. God pity them and help them to see their need of him, is our prayer.

B. W. & M. A. WOODWARD.

Report.

Editor Restitution:

Brother D. M. Hudler arrived here at Wenatchee, Wash., on December 31st, and preached the same evening. On the 3rd of January he commenced a series of discourses and continued them until the 21st. His wonderful understanding of the prophecies and their fulfilment or un-fulfillment enables him to rightly divide the Word, making it so plain that all that were seeking after the truth, could understand God's wonderful plan of salvation, also the kingdom and the things concerning it. Many believed, but one obeyed, yet we hope the good seed sown will spring forth and bring fruit unto eternal life.

C. G. COOPER.

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets.

The Nickel Plate Road has become a member of the Mileage Ticket Bureau of the Central Passenger Association and mileage tickets properly issued by any line, a member of that bureau, are valid for use on that road on and after Feb. 10th, in the same manner as on other roads, members of that bureau.

Dear Restitution:

Since our last communication to you sorrow hath filled our heart. The hardest trial of my life is the death of my dear Samuel, who after an illness, and calling upon the Lord in the most pitiful terms for mercy and forgiveness for two weeks, died Oct. 23rd, 1898. His monument bears this inscription: "Samuel I. Humphrey, born Feb. 22, 1858, died Oct. 23rd. 1898." "Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Luke xxiii. 42. The next hard trial for us was the death of our dear Eunice, who in the bloom of youth and health, who while assisting her aunt with the children while moving slipped and fell and died Jan. 10, 1899. Her monument bears this inscription: "Eunice, 2nd daughter of G. M. & B. Humphreys, born March 28, 1880, died Jan. 10, 1899." "Refrain thy voice from weeping and thine eyes from tears; for thy children shall come again from the land of the enemy." Jer. xxxi. 16.

We ask an interest in the prayers of all those who have turned to serve the Lord and wait for his coming.

Your Brother in Christ,
R. A. HUMPHREYS.

A curious suit has been started by a Stockholder of the Panhandle Railroad, which is operated by the Pennsylvania Company. It is based on an alleged contract whereby a certain percentage of the net earnings of the road are to be paid to the stockholders. The managers were using this money for needed improvements in the road, and the complainant claims that certain preferred stocks should be used for this purpose. If the complaint is sustained it will compel the holders of this stock to submit to an issue of securities to pay for permanent improvements, and to meanwhile pay from net earnings a stated amount to the stockholders. It is the most far-reaching suit ever brought in a court and the decision will be looked for anxiously.

All that I have caught of art, everything that I have written, every greatness that there has been in any thought of mine, whatever I have done in my life, has simply been due to the fact that when I was a child my mother daily read with me a part of the Bible, and daily made us learn a part of it by heart.—Ruskin.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Albert Bolch,	.50
Mrs. T. H. Lindsay,	1.50
David Elton,	2.00
Dr. J. T. Smith,	3.50
Chester Woodworth,	2.00
Wm. Mills,	2.00
Mrs. Mary L. Bailie,	.25
Geo. W. Haynes,	8.50
Mrs. David B. Wilson,	5.00
Mrs. J. R. Stevens,	4.00
Mrs. A. McFarland,	.50
Mrs. Eva M. Norris,	1.50
Mrs. R. A. Neff,	.50
Mrs. Jas. Skinner,	.50
Mrs. Mary E. Knowles,	.50
Mrs. Mary I. Riggs,	3.50
A Friend,	1.50
J. N. Hardy,	2.00
Rose Starbuck,	.50

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Central Passenger Association Mileage tickets will be accepted for passage on trains of the Nickel Plate Road on and after Feb. 10th.

For Our Children.

Receipt for Cheerfulness.

Come children and listen a while to my song
On the brewing of cheerfulness, pure and strong;
For not every method is sure to succeed,
And this one, you'll find, will yield just what you need.

RECEIPT.

First look at your heart, and be sure you take care
To wash all the selfishness out that is there;
An ounce of indulgence then take in your hand,
And of patience, well-tried, what amount you command
(For with these, sore ills well, you cannot dispense),
And stir them well round with an ounce of good sense.
A drop, too, of hope now add to the three.
For it sets you from pain and old grievances free.
A dash of good humor the mixing in the bowl,
And a touch of fine wit to give taste to the whole.
Add a touch of self-confidence now, and be sure
To remember a little real blood to procure.
An ounce of quiet courage, and patience (would be best),
To add a good handful of hope to the rest.
Mix well, so smoothness and sweetness you gain,
And then with a pure heart the cup you must drain.
And should it still throb while for peace you still sigh,
Glance upward to heaven then with pleading eye,
Soon, soon your will find that your sorrows will rise
And the world will be changed to your bright'ning eyes.
Your fears will be dead and your ills will smile,
And others will see it and wonder the while.
—Translated from the German.

The Eastern Sheep Fold.

Rugged are the mountains of Judea, yet grand is the view from which-ever point the pilgrim looks. The mountains of Moab stand out in majestic grandeur. The dead sea and Jordan are seen lower down in the valley. Now and then we come upon a few mud hovels, the inmates of which are poor and ignorant. Simple, gentle, and kind, they soon become friends, and will delight in telling stories such as they have heard in their childhood. The magnificent sunset flames the mountains with a golden tint, and the beholder is inspired with admiration.

A group of humble shepherds meet together and squat on the ground and chat merrily after the work of the day. Ibrahim is the elder of the group of shepherds, and is merelively in conversation. He tells his experiences of the day. The little items of interest are such that we cannot but listen to them with respect and pleasure. The fields where the shepherd led the sheep during the day, how the sheep enjoyed the green pastures, how they fed and gambolled, all form the topic of conversation.

"Ibrahim, where are your sheep now?"

"Mustapha, where is your flock?"

"On yon mountain is my fold, yaa-sidi" (my lord,)" is the reply.

We then ascend the mountain to the spot where the "fold" is and where the sheep are enclosed. It is a building huge and rugged. The walls are thick and moderately high. We walk round this building and find a door, and only one door. The shepherds of the neighborhood during the day feed the flocks in pastures green, and beside the still waters. In the evening, each shepherd takes his little flock to the large "fold," there to be enclosed for the night to be protected from the robbers, and to be sheltered in case of storm. It is an interesting sight to see the shepherd bring his sheep to the place of security. The sheep one by one enter, and the owner, will wend his way to his humble home, and rest for the night.

When the sheep belonging to the different shepherds are within the fold, one of the helpers will enter the building and shut the door, and spend the night as porter. This man will be armed with a club and such weapons as he can secure, and thus he will not sleep nor slumber during the night, but attend to the requirements of the flocks in his charge. Should, during the night, any climb over the wall, the porter knows it must be a thief and a robber. With the weapons he carries he will protect the sheep against robbers. Early in the morning each shepherd will come to the fold; standing at the door he will "knock." The porter enquires, "Who is there?" The shepherd answers. The porter recognizes the voice of the shepherd. "To him the porter openeth." The door open, the shepherd will then call his sheep. "His sheep know his voice." One by one they will approach him. With the rod he will playfully touch each one as they pass under it. When all belonging to him have passed through, the shepherd with his club and crook, or rather with his "rod and staff," goeth before them, "and the sheep follow him."

"A stranger will they not follow, for they know not the voice of strangers."

We open the Bible. We turn to the Gospel of St. John, chapter x. The page speaks to us as it never did before. We seem to hear the voice of Jesus saying, "I am the door; by me if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find pasture."

My dear young friends, with such a Shepherd and such a door open for you all, why should any of you remain like a lost sheep upon the rugged mountains, unprotected, uncared for, and unsaved? Oh, may you all, while reading these words, listen to the loving voice of Jesus, "I am the good Shepherd, the good Shepherd giveth his life for the sheep," and stray not, but follow him; enter into the company of the saved "within the door." There you will be divinely protected. He will "guide you by his counsel." He will feed you with the best, the purest, and holiest. You shall find life worth living, and the company of the redeemed helpful and comforting and full of blessing.

Happiness in this life, and a blissful eternity will be yours also!—Irene Levinson.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS.—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man. and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts. 100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God. —Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 288 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1026 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. McDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1203½ Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes for the purpose of breaking bread and social views. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible leaving at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Wade, Secy.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Parce, an Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12.00 m. p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 526 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through thereby, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have an regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Secy.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's home at 1:30 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fick's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and Sunday a. m. and p. m. All are welcoming. All are welcome. J. R. Fick, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend a Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1215 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Sidneyville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Eshelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Communion at 11:30 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All lovers of Truth, address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Mitten, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Steele and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or Elmon A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 2:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters. Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ," "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles mail is until another can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts, put the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

Pennsylvania Lines

Schedule of Passenger Train Time

Westward.

	9	15	29	7	59	1
Pittsburgh	3 45	7	30	11	55	5
Allentown	5 40	8	55	1	20	6
Conway	5 51	9	06	1	31	6
Rochester	6 15	9	30	1	55	7
Beaver Falls	6 30	9	45	2	10	7
Youngstown	7 15	10	30	2	55	8
Ravenna	8 15	11	30	3	55	9
Orrville	8 55	12	10	4	35	10
Crestline	9 40	12	55	5	20	11
Galion	10 05	1	20	5	45	11
Mansfield	10 25	1	40	6	05	12
Shelby Junction	10 45	2	00	6	25	12
Crestline	9 40	12	55	5	20	11
Fort Wayne	1 15	4	30	7	55	2
Van Wert	2 15	5	30	8	55	3
Lima	3 05	6	20	9	45	4
Bluffton	3 45	7	00	10	25	4
Crestline	9 40	12	55	5	20	11
Mansfield	10 25	1	40	6	05	12
Wooster	11 20	2	30	7	00	1
Massillon	11 45	2	55	7	25	1
Canton	12 05	3	15	7	45	2
Alliance	12 25	3	35	8	05	2
Pittsburgh	3 45	7	00	11	55	5

Eastward.

	20	8	6	10	38	14
Chicago	7 30	10	30	2	40	9
Valparaiso	9 45	12	30	4	55	11
Wanatah	9 53			5	03
Hanna	10 05			5	15
Lacks	10 13			5	23
Hamlet	10 20			5	30
Grovertown	10 32			5	42
Pinnville	10 37	5	15	5	47	6
Dassel	10 47			5	57
Bourbon	10 55			6	05
Deer Grove	11 07			6	17
Winona	11 12	5	50	6	22	6
Wash Ho	11 20			6	30
Percelon	11 32			6	42
Tetrault	11 38			6	48
Columbia City	11 46	6	05	6	56	6
Acola	12 07			7	17
Ft Wayne	1
Van Wert
Lima
Bluffton
Crestline
Mansfield
Wooster
Massillon
Canton
Alliance
Pittsburgh

L. F. LOREE, General Manager.

E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

For time cards, rates, folders, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31 am
No. 14, " " " 12:35pm
No. 8, " " " 10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:01 a m
No. 3, " " " " .....*12:55 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:36pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Dowd, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

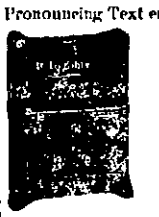
E. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

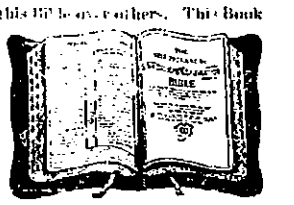
OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables indented, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.





The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $3.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you will take one "Combination" Bible we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, saving $1.25 on this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cent's Extra.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Filer, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. P. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Cooper, Blair, Neb.
I. H. Stevens, 617 W 11th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Gilchrist, Goodrich, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
W. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Gaylordsville, Mich.
Norton Gould, 1810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kans.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Steele, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hunt, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sidneyville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 254, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Hollbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince Sr, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 533 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keun, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Mount Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Onawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hadley, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fick, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Boise, Idaho.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Pettimer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. 6, Home Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Ogleby, North Branch, Kansas.
O. W. Smith, Culver, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Baldwin, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steele, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 14, Vida, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1903 J St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Peers, 2012 West Cowley Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dechaine, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
O. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 307 Inwood, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

NICKEL PLATE

(9-15-99)

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class coaches on Nos. 1 and 2 trains, handling scrupulously clean cars exclusively.

Eastbound.				Westbound.
No. 2	No. 4	No. 6		No. 1	No. 3	No. 5
1 00 pm	11 30 pm	8 00 am	Lv Chicago	10 00 am	4 00 pm	10 30 pm
4 00 pm	2 30 am	11 00 am	Kouts	7 00 am	1 00 pm	7 30 pm
4 30 pm	3 00 am	11 30 am	Wanatah	6 30 am	12 30 pm	7 00 pm
5 00 pm	3 30 am	12 00 m	Hanna	6 00 am	12 00 m	6 30 pm
5 10 pm	3 40 am	12 10 pm	Lacks	5 50 am	11 50 am	6 20 pm
5 15 pm	3 45 am	12 15 pm	Hamlet	5 45 am	11 45 am	6 15 pm
5 25 pm	3 55 am	12 25 pm	Grovertown	5 35 am	11 35 am	6 05 pm
5 30 pm	4 00 am	12 30 pm	Pinnville	5 30 am	11 30 am	6 00 pm
5 40 pm	4 10 am	12 40 pm	Dassel	5 20 am	11 20 am	5 50 pm
5 45 pm	4 15 am	12 45 pm	Bourbon	5 15 am	11 15 am	5 45 pm
5 55 pm	4 25 am	12 55 pm	Deer Grove	5 05 am	11 05 am	5 35 pm
6 00 pm	4 30 am	1 00 pm	Winona	5 00 am	11 00 am	5 30 pm
6 10 pm	4 40 am	1 10 pm	Wash Ho	4 50 am	10 50 am	5 20 pm
6 20 pm	4 50 am	1 20 pm	Percelon	4 40 am	10 40 am	5 10 pm
6 25 pm	4 55 am	1 25 pm	Tetrault	4 35 am	10 35 am	5 05 pm
6 35 pm	5 05 am	1 35 pm	Columbia City	4 25 am	10 25 am	4 55 pm
7 00 pm	5 30 am	2 00 pm	Arrive Ft Wayne	4 00 am	10 00 am	4 30 pm

Eastbound Nos. 2, 4 and 6 run to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; Nos. 1 and 3 to Ft Wayne, Marion and Crestline. Dining Stations and Meals are served at "Spread-Eagle" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at popular meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address O. W. Rumme, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agents.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN

of your own selection to every subscriber. Only 10 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50TH YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A new, beautiful colored plate, latest fashions, interesting stories, fine cook, household and fancy work; in fact, something for every member of the family. Send for free sample copy and 1,825 agents wanted.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ and 15¢

(No-Seam-Allowance Patterns.)

Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city in the world, or by mail from

THE McCALL CO., 138 146 West 14th St., New York.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

The Master's Question.

Have ye looked for the sheep in the desert,
For the souls who have missed their way?
Have ye been on the wild waste places,
Where the lost and wanderers stray?
Have ye trodden the lonely highways,
The foul and darksome street?
It may be ye'll see in the gloaming
The print of my wounded feet.

Have ye lobbed home to your bosom
The trembling, neglected lamb?
And tangled in the cloth the tear-drops
The sorrow of the Shepherd's mother?
Have ye searched for the poor and the needy,
With no clothing, no home, no bread?
The Son of Man was among them—
He had nowhere to lay his head.

Have ye carried the living water
To the parched and thirsty soul?
Have ye said to the sick and wounded,
"Christ Jesus maketh thy whole?"
Have ye told my waiting children
Of the strength of the Father's hand?
Have ye guided the faltering footsteps
To the shore of the "golden land?"

Communicated.

The X Ray Papers. No. 3.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light."

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, I am getting very much interested in our investigation of this subject. We closed our last interview with the narrative of Saul and the woman of Endor. Let us turn to Eccl. xii 7. There we have a plain statement of the Scriptures, in reference to the spirit of man returning to God. I should like to know what you will do with that passage.

Mack. Well, Bro. B. I see nothing in that passage of Scripture to sustain your theory of an immortal soul. The word soul is not in the passage at all.

Rev. B. Well, but the spirit is spoken of returning to God who gave it, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was and the spirit shall return to God who gave it." Now this spirit is a conscious personality or how could it be said to return to God?

Mack. Well. Bro. B., it is but a short time since you claimed that the soul was the conscious part of man. Now you claim that the spirit returns to God as a conscious personality. Has man two immortal elements in his nature, and if so, do these two immortal parts exist as two independent and separate beings?

Rev. B. No, no. Mr. Mack, I consider the soul and spirit as one and the same, both terms being applied to the immortal conscious entity existing in man.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., I think your idea of the soul and spirit being the same, is not sustained by the Scriptures. Paul in writing to the Thessalonians applies both terms to man at the same time. In the 5th chapter and 23 verse we read, "And I pray God, your whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." Does Paul, who was brought up at the feet of that eminent scholar Gamaliel, and also, who was inspired by the Holy Spirit, use tautology by applying to man two terms meaning the same thing? This would be a serious charge against his scholarship and also his inspiration.

Rev. B. Of course man has but one immortal part. I think Paul uses that form of expression to make his statement more emphatic.

Mack. There is one momentous fact in connection with the use of the words soul and spirit in the Scriptures, which we would do well to consider, that is that though they occur, or the original Hebrew and Greek words from which they are translated, about seventeen hundred times in the Scriptures, yet not once is the soul said to be immortal or the spirit deathless. If immortality is the soul's high prerogative, God in his revelation to man could surely have stated that fact, at least once in so many hundreds of times, but not once does he intimate that the soul or spirit continues as a conscious being after the death of the body.

Rev. B. The immortality of the soul like that of God is taken for granted. We can draw no other inference from the teaching of the Scriptures, but that the soul is destined to live on through the ages of eternity as a conscious entity, either in a state of happiness or misery.

Mack. We are not required to take the immortality of God for granted. Turn to 1 Tim. vi. 16, and we find that God is declared to possess immortality, and he is the only being who does possess it. Also, in the 1st chapter, 17 verse, God is declared to be immortal. Now, Bro. B., one such plain statement of the Scripture in reference to be immortality of the soul of man, will settle the question. As for drawing inferences from the teachings of the Scriptures, if we will take the plain statements of facts, leaving out parables, symbols and figurative language, we will have a sure foundation to build on without having to draw inferences from dark sayings, covered up in figurative language. Well, Bro. B., we have drifted some distance from our text, and perhaps better return. We were investigating Eccl. xii. 7. "The spirit returns to God who gave it." Bro. B., you claim that this spirit is the immortal part of man, in fact the actual man. This statement includes all, both righteous and wicked. We are taught by popular theology that the righteous go to God at death, but for what purpose do the wicked go there? The text makes no distinction. The dust returns to the earth—the spirit to God who gave it.

Rev. B. The Scriptures teach us that we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ.

Mack. The Scriptures no where affirm that a person is judged when he dies, but on the contrary the judgment is invariably placed in the future, and it is stated in the most explicit terms, that God has appointed a day for that purpose as you will find by referring to Acts xvii. 31. If this spirit is a conscious being when it returns to God, it must have been a conscious being when it came from God, for it is the same thing when it returns, as it was when he gave it, the dust returns to its original condition, the spirit to its original condition. Now, Bro. B., are you prepared to accept the logical conclusion which your theory leads to, that is, that we have all had a conscious pre-existence? Bro. B., if you will accept this spirit as the breath of life which God gave to man, it will lead you out of the entanglement in which your theory involves you.

Rev. B. I cannot accept the idea that the spirit here spoken of is the breath of life, neither can I accept of the theory of pre-existence which you try to fasten on my theory.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., I don't see how you can avoid it and still hold to your theory. But let us compare Scripture with Scripture and perhaps we can find what spirit in this passage actually means.

> "Blind unbelief is sure to err,
> And scan his works in vain,
> God is his own interpreter,
> And he will make it plain."

And he will make it plain if we will accept of his interpretation. We will turn to the Ps. cxlvi. 4, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish." Also we find in Ps. civ. 29, "Thou hidest thy face, they are troubled; thou takest away their breath, they die and return to their dust." Now, Bro. B., take that Hebrew lexicon and turn to the word rendered spirit in Eccl. xii. 7, and see what the original word is.

Rev. B. I find that the word spirit in the text is from the Hebrew word Ruah.

Mack. Now turn to Psa. civ. 29 and Psa. cxlvi. 4, and see what this original word for breath is in those two passages.

Rev. B. I find that the Hebrew word rendered breath is Ruah in both instances.

Mack. Now, Bro. B., we find when the spirit (Ruah) returns to God, the dust returns to dust. When God takes away their breath (Ruah), they die and return to their dust. Also when his breath (Ruah) goeth forth, he returns to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish. Now, Bro. B., you can certainly see what is meant by spirit in the text under consideration. Spirit is the one passage and breath in the others, are from the same Hebrew word. The same cause produces the same effect when the spirit leaves the man he returns to dust, when the breath leaves the man he returns to dust, in that very day his thoughts perish. Now, Bro. B., it will be a hard matter, I fear, for you to harmonize your theory with these plain positive statements of Scripture. That don't look much like the conscious, thinking part of man, starting off to heaven, and knowing more in five minutes after death, than he would have known here in five years. As a certain eminent divine stated in a published sermon, not long since. Besides, we read in Eccl ix. 10. that "There is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest," and in the 5th verse we find that the "dead know not any thing." Now, Bro. B., I hope you will consider this matter and not try to harmonize these Scriptures with your theory, but try and harmonize your theory with the Scriptures.

J. H. McCLARY.

(To be continued.)

The Teaching of the Twelve Apostles.

Our faith in and hope of eternal life, or the regenerate new life taught all through the Scriptures of the Old and New Covenant, and which Jesus the Christ came to illuminate not to reveal because already revealed, and to demonstrate as the First-Born and First-Fruits of the Great Resurrectional Harvest to follow in due time, rests upon the covenant promise that we are to be like him and to awake in his likeness, and that when he shall appear we shall appear with him in glory, and that this glory consists in perfected sonship, or a complete organic individual participation in the Father's divine Spiritual life—that this mortal must put on immortality, and that if there is a mortal or soul-body, there is an immortal, spiritual body also. Moreover that the deceptive spiritual manifestations of the nations of all ages, known as "phantoms," "ghosts," "spooks," "godsso-called," etc., are wrought by the Diabolos (Devil) and his deceivers through human beings and other physical agents and agencies and, therefore, that in their causation are supernatural. The Christ's teaching, which is God's teaching, through all his prophets before him and our teaching is the most solemn warning to the saints lest they be deceived and led away by these things, and even become personally "possessed" by these lying daemons who, we are told and forewarned, will counterfeit and manifest in this way not only false teaching in regard to the new life and the new world to come, but even the true signs and prodigies given us of God to strengthen our faith, and as a part of his covenant promise, here and now. And we are also warned that a part of their teaching will be that "the resurrection is already past," that the soul is immortal and that the personal soul, as an entity, goes immediately at death to bliss or woe, and that therefore judgment is going on all the time, instead of being an event in some future fixed time, following the first and second resurrections and both following the return of Christ, who is appointed of God to judge all mankind, because he is a Son of Man as well as a Son of God. All payment of wages and retribution we are taught follow judgment, both for work well done and demerit for sin and disobedience. So in what the evil spirits teach and inspire about these things, they are making void the Word of God and his Christ. This we teach.

We also teach that the faith and finished work of the Christ, including his offering without blemish and perfect sacrifice of himself, are the great factors in God's redemption of the lost human race, alienated and sold into the bondage of sin and death; and that the gospel or good news we are commissioned to herald, is in one word pardon to this same lost world and life again from the death, past, present, or future under the old sentence of disobedience in Adam, making Jesus, the Christ, a new Adam of the whole race or "a last Adam," as thus related to the "First Adam." We also teach that this pardon is conditioned upon an intelligent acceptance of the fact, and a renewed fealty to God and his vice-gerent on earth, anointed to rule over us here as" the Son of his love" and who has received (not all power) but all this official power in heaven and upon the earth to judge and execute judgment or pardon, or in a word the official power of life and death. For no one cometh or can come unto the Father except through him. And as the First Adam entailed upon the whole human race death, the last Adam is empowered to restore and impart life and in such more abundantly as God's grace hath much more abounded than his law of condemnation. For God did originally will life, and death entered in through the wiles of the Diabolos who is the Liar and the Father of lies. We teach that the truth is greater than any lie and that, because energized with the Spirit of God, it will ultimately prevail over any and all lies, and as our Lord Jesous Christ has taught us that he is the way, the truth and the life, we are ultimately to share with him as prevaders in glory to the glory of God the Father. Therefore we expect to judge angels and under the Kingdom to come, for which we are praying, we expect to have a judicial and executive function to perform in conjunction with the Christ our Lord and King in asserting God's righteousness on the earth; and we do not understand that the new heavens and the new earth imply the passing away of the earth itself and the canopy above it, but the cosmos of the heavens and the earth, a change analogous to the passing away of the heavens and the earth of Noah's time. That was a change wrought by water and this we are told will be wrought by fire. The cosmos of a thing is the cosmic form or arrangement of that thing. And we understand that this change ushers in a new dispensation of moral law with new conditions and more ernstic penalties. No one will then be able to plead "our fathers ate sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge." In other words hereditary sin and punishment will be done away. The natural life period will be restored to its original one thousand years and the individual probation period to one hundred years. And the sinner who is still obdurate at the end of the hundred years will be executed.

We teach that the church or ekklesia is not a hierarchy but the most democratic organization for the purpose of heralding and teaching the coming kingdom and composed of co-ordinate assemblages of those who hear and accept the gospel of the kingdom wherever it goes, its members all being called out as witnesses for his name; and that therefore they should be known as Christians and glory in no other name. The sincere confession of God and his Christ are the only conditions of membership. We are not to judge one another. For we are Christ's, and to him we stand or fall, and as Christ owns or disowns us is our relation to the Father.

This withholding of final judgment from us as Christians now in our imperfect state, does not prevent our judging ourselves and one another, in the ordinary conduct of life to the extent of corrective reproof and even separation, if agreement cannot be effected. The commission of the Anathema, Maranatha like the gift of tongues and other extraordinary inducements were for the apostolic age alone until renewed with the new and coming dispensation, which will be a restoration or re-institution of all things as spoken by the mouth of all the prophets.

CHAS. GARDNER.

James I. 4.

"Let patience have her perfect work."

Job, when the hand of affliction bore heavily upon him, earnestly longed for the return of the days when God preserved him. "Then his candle shone upon his head." When by his light he said, "I walked through darkness. When he ordered my steps with butter and rocks poured out rivers of oil." Can we not trust him when his hand is guiding us in smooth paths and affliction's rod is kindly withheld? And though dangers lurk in the darkness, and destruction leaves his ghastly foot prints outside our threshhold; yet we remain untouched. Just how far the Lord has interceded to turn aside the ignominy's merry wing; or checked the mad career of the terrific cyclone, we may never know. Yet we do know that our lives are in his hand, and he cares for us. To the true worshiper of God that that prayer is answered, goes without saying. And he who trusts him most is oftenest answered, because God has promised to manifest himself to all those who trust him. Job's trust in the Lord could not be shaken. He says, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." It was not the things that he had, and saw that called forth this beautiful declaration of trust, but it sprang from the sweet foretaste of the fruits of the Spirit, and grasped and held fast to the unseen things of faith which are eternal. His mind was lifted from the calamities and afflictions that were pressing so grievously upon him, and in his lively hope he found sweet consolation. Not many of us have passed through such trials, nor perfected such sublime patience as did the old man of Uz. "Curse God and die!" Said his bosom companion. How his words must have rebuked her infamous blasphemy, when he nobly vindicated his Maker, and accepted the conditions of suffering for righteousness sake. No higher example of trust is recorded of the sons of men and only one personage has manifested greater submission to the will of our heavenly Father. When we essay to speak of his match'-less character we dare not measure him by our poor human standard. We are willing to sit humbly at his feet and learn the alphabet of a new language of love; unfolding the divine attributes as manifested through him in our behalf. Again is brought to view the same great proof of perfect trust. "He was made perfect through sufferings." Unlike Job he makes no complaint. "As a sheep, before his shearers is dumb so he opened not his mouth." We are all unable to divorce our affections from the world and its allurements, and to yield our entire being to God and his cause. This is what our Redeemer did when he gave his life for us. Not regarding the "cross nor the shame, he obtained the glory and eternal redemption for us." His delight was to do the will of his Father, and upon his law did he meditate day and night." While Job furnishes us with perhaps the highest example of human integrity, Jesus Christ manifests the sum total of all the matchless love of God. May we be able to copy his divine likeness in our lives, and accept with resignation whatever discipline our heavenly Father in his mercy puts upon us for our good. And remember that he wounds to heal.

A. B. WINCE.

Questions.

Brother Underwood:

With your permission I would like to ask a few questions, to RESTITUTION writers or readers, and if you do not approve of them, please place them in the receptacle for waste matter.

Jer. i. 1 to 10 commencing at verse 4. "Then the words of the Lord came unto me saying, Before I formed thee in the belly I knew thee; and before thou comest forth out of the womb I sanctified thee, and I ordained thee a prophet unto the nations. Then said I, Oh, Lord God! behold, I cannot speak, for I am a child. But the Lord said unto me, say not, I am a child; for thou shalt go to all that I shall send thee and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak. Be not afraid of their faces: for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith the Lord. Then the Lord put forth his hand, and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms, to root out, and pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant."

In this we have Jeremiah's mission, and I do not suppose that in the understanding of Bible believers any doubt exist but that the forepart of this mission was fulfilled; the question I ask is this, When and where did the prophet Jeremiah do the building and planting he was ordained to do?

Again in Ezekiel xxi. 25 to 27, we will quote the 27th verse, "I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; and it shall be no more, until he comes whose right it is; and I will give it him." Expositors and ministers in general, say that the God of heaven, emphasized his language to the kingdom Judah. I for one dissent from this exposition, savoring as it does too much of human judgment, and belittles the authority of Jehovah. In Isaiah lv. 10-11, read context, verse 11 as follows, "So shall my Word be that goeth forth out of my mouth; it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing where-to I send it."

In view of this the writer believes in the literal use of the language, which implies those overturnings of the throne and scepter (but not of the kingdom of Judah). I will omit remarks, and ask a question, Does not the building and planting of the latter part of the prophet Jeremiah's mission have some connection with the true latter overturnings of Ezek. xxi. 27.

Submitted in love of the truth.

J. OGILVY.

Trust in the Lord.

"Trust ye in the Lord forever, for in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength, thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusted in thee. Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, for he shall be as a tree planted by the waters. Trust in the Lord with all thy heart in all thy ways, acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths. They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion that cannot be moved, but abideth for ever."

The promises of the Lord are many to those that put their trust in him. "Trust in the Lord and do good, so shalt thou dwell in the land and verily shalt thou be fed, commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in him. The Lord knoweth the days of the upright and their inheritance shall be forever, they shall not be ashamed in evil times and in days of famine they shall be satisfied, for such as be blessed of him shall inherit the earth, for the Lord loveth judgment and forsaketh not his saints; wait on the Lord and keep his way, for the salvation of the righteous is of the Lord, he is their strength in times of trouble and he shall help them and deliver them, he shall deliver them from the wicked, and save them because they trusted in him. Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous, for the Word of the Lord is right, and all his works are done in truth. Be of good courage and he shall strengthen your hearts, all ye that hope in the Lord, the Word of the Lord is sure." Let all that love the Lord put their trust in him, not only in times of trouble, but at all times, every day, every hour. Let not the pleasures of this world take our thoughts from him, "for in him is life and joy and peace. Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee, and in trusting him we can say, the Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want. In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths."

> We are waiting, Father, waiting,
> Through the long and dreary night;
> Watching mid the gathering shadows,
> For the morning's promised light.
>
> We are trusting, Father, trusting,
> Though no ray of light appears,
> And no sunbeam falls upon us,
> Through the blackness deep and drear.
>
> Even our Father's face is hidden,
> But we know his loving smile,
> Lights the heaven beyond the darkness,
> And will dawn on us ere while.

E. T. KNOWLES.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, FEBRUARY 21, 1900. NUMBER 7

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for the salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, FEBY 21, 1900.

"I SAT not in the assembly of the mockers, nor rejoiced: I sat alone because of thy hand, for thou hast filled me with indignation." Jer. xv. 17.

"Thy words were found, and I did eat them; and thy Word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of my heart: for I am called by thy name, O Lord God of hosts." Jer. xv. 16.

SOME one has given the good advice to wear your watch in a private pocket, and don't pull it out to show you have one; but if you are asked the time of day, tell it."

A MEMBER of a church some time ago is said to have remarked to another, "I can give five dollars for the object and not feel it," when his companion replied: "Give ten and FEEL it: did your Savior feel what he did for you?"

OUR convictions should always be the result of evidence if they are to stand the test of time and experience. Our wishes in the matter have no right to influence us. In proportion as our wishes give direction to thought, they actually step on conviction.

IT is said that Socrates taught his disciple Alibiades to "beseech the Supreme God to give him what was good for him though he should not ask it, and to withhold from him whatever would be hurtful, though he should be so foolish as to ask for it." We think this prayer deserves a place in the daily devotions of every Christian.

"THIS is a beautiful world once we learn how to live. There is beauty in every menial duty,—there is inspiration in hardship and sacrifice if only we learn that each hardship and sacrifice form but one more stepping-stone that raises us above the level of the commonplace, and nearer the heights of divine endurance that makes life a glorification of the Spirit."

HOW much our lives might gain in symmetry and beauty, and comfort and fruitfulness, if we would only consent to be guided by the counsel of God. How much gladness would enter into our hearts if we would open them to the teachings of the meek and lowly Savior, and accept the guidance of his counsel which would afterward bring us to glory.

BEFORE honor is humility. The Lord is nigh to them that are of contrite heart; and the high and lofty one who inhabiteth eternity dwells with the humble and revives the spirit of the contrite. Let us learn that our sufficiency is Christ,—that without him we can do nothing; and that if we are to prosper and be blessed we must yield ourselves to the Lord's requirements.

"BOWMAN'S Small Package Truths," says:—

"Hunger is not a critic.
God plans his own work
Charity is always modest.
Desire is love with wings.
Goodness is true greatness.
An ox is more useful than a lion.
Greed is the incubator of monopoly.
Hope is an oasis in the desert of despair.
Misers have wrinkles on their hearts before they appear on their faces.
Cripple a lie and it will take religion for a crutch."

THE Madras Mail sets forth the views of Hindu astrologists concerning impending events, chief among which is the declaration that "Vishnu will abandon the world in April 1900." And so implicitly do the Hindus believe that serious disasters are about to befall the world, that they are planning special acts of worship in view of it. We are wondering if these astrologists regard the awful famine in that country at the present time is in fulfillment of their prediction published in 1898. We are informed that the Theosophists, who are allied in belief to the Hindus, are also putting forth the prediction that the present state of the world will close within a few years.

WE met with a couple of paragraphs today which we thought worth transcribing for our readers,—they said:—

"There was but one crack in the lantern, and the wind has found it out and blown out the candle. How great a mischief one unguarded point of character may cause us! One spark blew up the magazine and shook the whole country for miles around: one leak sank the vessel and drown all on board. One sin may destroy the soul.

It matters little how carefully the rest of the lantern is protected, the one point which is damaged is sufficient to put the light out. So it matters not how zealous one is in a thousand things if he tolerates one sin. The adversary will find out the flaw and destroy all his hopes. The strength of a chain is measured by the weakest link,—if that sums what is the use of the rest? We have need of much watchfulness and prayer, and also thankfulness that our blessed Lord has prayed for us that our faith fail not.

IF there be one thing more than another which we would teach it would be a love for truth. All things would be worthless without that crowning excellence in human character. Without this the noblest structure is but a whited sepulchre. With all other qualifications a man is to be shunned when deficient in this. There are few things more painful experienced in our intercourse with men, than to feel that they are unworthy of our confidence—that they are not what they seem: that they will betray while they smile; that we tread upon a crater's mouth where all is hollow beneath. Teach the child to tell the truth,—to venerate and love it. Teach him so that whatever wrong he may do, he will frankly and promptly admit it all. Encourage honest speech.

W. D. THOMPSON, one of the members of the Executive Board of the Christian Publishing Association, and his wife Amanda, on Feb. 11, 1900, completed 50 years of married life. They were among the earliest of the pioneers who came to Marshall County, from Rush and Fayette Counties in 1836, and of the 175 who came here in that year, but 35 are now living. This couple have lived all this time in this county and have seen the wilderness where the Indians were almost the only inhabitants, transformed into fruitful farms and dotted by towns and villages, as civilization has wended her way along. Of the 80 guests who were in attendance at the wedding 50 years ago but 11 are now living, most of them in distant states. It is not often that two people live together so long, and their many friends of the household of faith who have tasted of their hospitality while attending meetings at old Antioch and at Plymouth, will join with us of the nearer family in the hope they may live yet many more years, and as they pass on that their future may be full of brightness and comfort in each other's society, and that when the summons comes, and the day of parting is here, may their hope be in the resurrection at the glad morning, when they will be united never more to part.

Dwight L. Moody.

In the Homiletic Review for February are found addresses by a number of prominent clergymen, at the funeral of that far-famed Evangelist. One of these gentlemen said he had neither special endorsements, or training, or education, or magnetic personality, and then asks what was the secret of his power over men? What had he? To this last question he answers: "He had life." I do not mean the manner of living, but what the Bible means by this word—what Christ means when he declares the purpose of his coming: "I am come that they might have life, and might have it abundantly." He then goes on to say God gave Mr. Moody life and made him a partner of the divine nature; and from the moment he received it, the development, growth and manifestation of that life became the whole object of his existence. To it he devoted every power of his being, and that devotion kindled into intensest activity every latent energy of his nature, and made him the complete, many-sided, all-around man that he was, of instinctive judgment and tact, and gave him his wonderful mastery of men."

How truly has the poet said:—

"Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan his work in vain"

The dogma of the soul's immortality blinds the leaders of the people to the fact that man's foundation is the dust, and that through disobedience he was sentenced back to his original element; and Christ came, and by means of death acquired power to raise up at the last day all who believe in him;—blinds them to the explicit statement that they shall hear the Lord's voice and come forth to life (John v. 28, 29); blinds them to the Spirit's statement in Col. iii. 4, that when Christ who is our life shall appear, the saints shall appear with him in glory.

How would the eminent Doctor of Divinity reconcile his statement, that the life Christ came to procure for men was given to Mr. Moody while living in mortal flesh, when Paul said the life of the saints at Colosse was hid with Christ in God, and would only be really possessed when Christ came the second time? It was theirs: but it was laid up for them: they wait for it.

Nothing could be more clearly taught than that this eminent preacher believes that Jesus came to induce men to live pious, religious lives. If that were all, what inducement was there for Mr. Moody to live a life of self-denial? Besides, it was said that God gave to Mr. Moody this life, and from the moment he received it the sole object of his existence was the development, growth and manifestation of that life. Think of it! In Rev. ii. 10 death's conqueror says, "Be thou faithful unto death [as he had been] and I will give a CROWN OF LIFE:" but Mr. Moody is said to have been crowned with it before proving by faithfulness that he was worthy of it. Again in Rev. iii. 11 the Lord says to his brethren left behind, "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown." WHAT crown? The CROWN OF LIFE promised in Rev. ii. 10. What, then, were they to hold fast to, in the mean time? Their faith, and the hope growing out of it. What was their hope? Let Paul tell us: "In Hope of Eternal Life which God that cannot lie, promised before the world began." And inasmuch as this same Paul says, Eph. iv. 4, that there is only ONE HOPE, we know exactly what crown it was that was laid up for him. See 2 Tim. iv. 8. True it is called a crown of righteousness, but the crown of life was the crown of righteousness. He was reckoned righteous, through faith in the promise of life.

News Notes.

Regarding the South African War the tide seems to have really turned in favor of the English. Kimberly, where Cecil Rhodes has been shut up since last October is relieved, and the Boer forces in that locality are on the retreat toward the capital of the Free State. The British are hot in pursuit, and a running fight is kept all the time. Meanwhile General Bueller with his forces is again active on the region between the Tugela River and Ladysmith. It is not given out what the next movements of Lord Roberts will be, but judging from the rapidity of the blows struck in the last few days, the English are in position to force the fighting, and we may look for some very decisive work in that field. It may not be out of place here to give a word of warning. It has become very much "the thing" of late for meetings to be held in this country, and resolutions of "sympathy" passed for the Boers, as they are fighting for "liberty" and against unjust oppression of the British. We would not presume to place our opinion forward and ask our brethren to do as we should say, and would not wish to stifle any feeling of sympathy for an oppressed people, but rather would advise that before expressing sentiments for this people, or for the British on the other side, that you inform yourselves as to the merits of the case. Investigate and see if they deserve your sympathy.

The Czar is urged by the Press of Russia to take this opportunity to ignore the Paris treaty, and take his Black Sea war vessels through the Bosphorus to the Mediterranean.

Austria is in the worst condition she can possibly be in. Race war is likely to result in the breaking up of the empire.

Paris has another case on hand. This time a naval officer has sold the military secrets of the nation to the other powers, and has fled the country. It is said to be worse than the Dreyfus case.

The Tribuna of Rome sees danger to not only England, but all Europe, in the aggressions of Russia toward the Indian frontier. It says "the most critical moment in the history of India has arrived, and other nations besides England are jeopardized, because in this tragic hour the entire human family is likely to be involved in a world wide quarrel." It concludes by predicting that present events are preparing the world for great political turmoils, and ends by asking the question "What is Italy doing?"

On Feb. 17, 300 years ago Giordano Bruno, was burned at the stake by the inquisition at Rome, and a great celebration and demonstration was to have been held by the Liberals. At the last moment an order was given the police to stop all proceedings for carrying out the programme. This calls forth bitter denunciation of the clerical party by the liberal press. It indicates this much—that the clergy still have some power in Italy. In Berlin where a like demonstration was held thousands of people gathered and the hall would not hold a tenth of them, so it is to be repeated in various parts of the city next Sunday.

It is rumored that Germany is negotiating for the annexation of Holland.

A special from Hongkong tells of a German gun boat being engaged in Mariti Bay taking soundings of the inner harbor. This is an important point, having two harbors, right in the region where ships suffer from typhoons. It is only 30 miles from Hong Kong, and has been a Portuguese port for more than 300 years.

The governors of several provinces in Russia where the Jews are oppressed most are asking the government to remove the restrictions, and give them more liberties, urging that the districts suffer because the Jews being the best are not allowed in the most important trades. They ask that all restrictions be removed and the Jews be given entire freedom in the empire.

A movement is on foot to largely increase the English army, making it reach about 500,000 men.

Japan has shown her friendship for England by turning over four new quick fire guns now about completed for them at Armstrong's, saying they will wait for their order to be filled later.

It was supposed that Cardinal Satolli had a good prospect of succeeding the late Vicar General Jacobini, but it now appears that no one but a Roman born is entitled to be Pope.

The Finns are again in rebellion against Russia on account of the Czar's manifesto compelling all branches of education to be in the Russian language, and compelling service in the Russian Army, in addition to service in the Finnish regiments.

God is Love. No. 5.

In resuming our study of the God of love where we left off, namely, where he drove man from the tree of life, we deem it necessary to say that we do not think it possible to have a proper conception of God's love for man unless we realize what he has done for man; and that it is impossible to realize what he has done for man unless we know just what the man was, and what he needed, and what he was capable of. With the hope of begetting love to God in some fellow mortal by holding up to view

WHAT GOD HAS DONE

for him, we remark that the words, "Thou shalt surely die," were certainly said to deter the person addressed from eating; and they prove, too, that that person had full power to decide his own course. As there was but one man at that time, the pronoun "THOU" represented the man formed of dust and caused to live by breath, —proving conclusively that this dust-formed man, and not a superadded entity, was the responsible person. We press upon the reader's attention the fact that the Lord God describes and he was formed of dust. This man was fearfully and wonderfully made; and was organized capable of being and doing all we see him be and do. And we think it safe to leave it to the class of people who will read these lines, whether they think God would have put the man on probation for immortality if he were not every way competent to choose for himself? Would it have been just on the part of God to place man where life and death depended upon obedience or disobedience, if he were not every way competent to decide for himself? Does some one think that man's conduct seems to say he was incompetent, seeing he took the wrong road at the start? Ah, but that was not through incompetence, but want of confidence, of obedience, and from inordinate desire. And lest this explanation be excepted to, we would ask why it is that people now read the terms on which to man, and yet tenaciously hold that he is by nature immortal? Is it incompetence, or it is unbelief, and preconceived notions, and popular opinion, and a love to have it their own way? We stoutly affirm that the Record treats only of the man formed of dust as the responsible person; and on the hypothesis of a superadded entity doing man's thinking for him, we do not see how any responsibility could attach to the dust-formed-man, and if not responsible why was the

ONLY ONE MAN,

IMMORTALITY IS OFFERED

PENALTY FOR DISOBEDIENCE

passed upon him? Why was he sentenced to a death that returned him to his dust? If the superadded entity was the accountable man, why was the irresponsible dust-man punished, and the other part acquitted? As the Creator mentions no such superadded entity, is it not good evidence there is no such thing, or that, if there be, it is in no way related to man's accountability? Those who want proof that the man formed of dust sinned, can find it in Gen. iii. 17, where it says to Adam, "because THOU hast hearkened unto the voice of THY wife and hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded THEE, saying THOU shalt not eat of it, cursed is the ground for THY sake: in sorrow shalt THOU eat of it all the days of THY life.....In the sweat of THY face shalt THOU eat bread, until THOU return unto the ground, for out of it wast THOU taken, for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt THOU return." Here God treats the man formed of dust as and punishes him for sinning; and deals out no punishment to any immaterial soul or entity. There is no eternal torment in the sentence; to death man was sentenced, and the sentence of death was executed. Man was annihilated. As there was no man before his formation from dust, there is no man after he has returned to dust. And we wish the reader to consider well at this point, and lay a firm foundation for faith in Jehovah's beneficent scheme for saving men. Let him see man doomed to die and become dust as he was before formed. As an accountable, morally organized creature he was tried, convicted, sentenced; but before he was executed, out of pure love,

A SINNER

GOD MADE AN OFFERING to the condemned one. It was not with a view to the evasion of the law of sin and death. Oh, no; man sinned, and the law claimed all there was of him. He must die; but the God of love devised a scheme of REDEMPTION FROM DEATH. Life after death was offered him on conditions of faith and obedience. This proposition from God was gospel to man. It was the power of God unto salvation to every one who believed it. For this purpose it was announced in the garden,—and for this purpose it is proclaimed today. It was the gospel of

THE GRACE OF GOD

then, it is the gospel of GOD'S GRACE still. "By grace are ye saved, through faith." The confusion in the religious world respecting man's nature and destiny grows out of the fact that men do not believe they are what God says they are; and this obliges them to read a meaning into the Bible, the words do not warrant. They lose sight of the fact that the only means we have of getting God-ideas is from the words he employs to inform us. As he speaks to men in the language of men and according to usage of language by men,—(yes; actually employs figures of speech employed by men in their intercourse, when it furthers his purpose, or makes it more certain it will be understood)—it is a most to modify the language of the Spirit to make it comport with human conceptions. We tremble for those who treat lightly the words of the Master, who said:—"He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not MY WORDS, hath one that judgeth him; the WORD that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day."

SERIOUS MATTER

No one need be mistaken about such language. The spoken word is to judge the rejector of it. Could it be more plainly stated that to reject the word spoken is to reject the speaker? And when we reach that point who can resist the conclusion that the Lord intends that his words mean to us exactly what they say, and not something else. Would make his words the judge of men if his ideas were not conveyed by the words employed? Surely no one of honest purpose would differ with us here; and therefore, when the glorious Lord says respecting his mission, "I am come that they might have life," it should show that God sent him to procure for man just what he needs in order to live after death—LIFE,—RESURRECTION LIFE. We hold that no one can accept the gift of God's love through Christ-Eternal Life, who does not know that he only has life, who has the Son.

THE RIGHTEOUS LORD

(To be continued.)

Communicated.

Found!

BY STUDYING GOD'S WORD:—

I have found, that man is not immortal, or deathless by nature, but mortal, corruptible and dying. Job iv. 17; 2 Chron. xiv. 11; (margin) Rom. vi. 12; 2 Cor. iv. 11, 12.

I have found, that man by transgression forfeited his right to the tree of life, and was turned out of the garden of Eden, lest he should eat and live forever. Gen. iii. 23, 24; Gen. iii. 17-19.

I have found, that the soul of man dies. Ex. xii 15, 19; Ex. xxxi. 14, 15; Lev. vii 18-27; Lev. xxiii. 30; Num. xv. 30, 31; Josh. x. 35. 37, 39; Josh. xi. 11; Ezek. xviii. 4, 20; Psa. lxxviii. 50; Psa. lxxxix. 48; Isa. liii. 10, 12; Acts ii. 27, 31; Rev. xvi 3.

I have found that man is wholly unconscious in death and knows nothing in death. Psa. vi. 5; Psa. cxv. 17; Psa. cxlvi. 4; Eccl. iii. 18-20; Eccl. ix. 5-10.

I have found that eternal life is offered to man on condition of faith in, and obedience to, the gospel. Mark xvi. 15, 16 Matt. xxiv. 14. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel; for it is the power of God unto life, to all who believe in it." (Syriac.) Rom. i. 16.

I have found, that a resurrection of the righteous dead to eternal life is promised. Isa. xxvi. 19-21; Job xix. 25; Dan. xii. 2; Hos. xiii. 14; 1 Thes. iv. 13-17; Luke xx. 35, 36; John vi. 40.

I have found, that eternal life is a gift to be bestowed upon the righteous through Jesus and the resurrection. Rom. vi. 22, 23; 1 Cor. xv. 52-54.

I have found, that the Lord only has immortality. 1 Tim. vi. 14-16.

I have found that in order to get eternal life, or immortality, we must seek for it. Rom. ii. 7.

I have found, that good people do not go to heaven when they die. Jno. vii. 32-36; Jno. xiii. 33; Acts ii. 34; Jno. iii. 13.

I have found, that the kingdom of God, spoken of in the Bible, is not to be above the skies in heaven, but on earth, and under the whole heaven. Dan. ii. 44; Dan. vii. 27; Rev. xi. 15.

I have found, that Jesus will be King when he comes again, and that his people will be kings too, and reign with him on the earth, over the nations. Rev. iii. 21; Rev. ii. 26, 27; Rev. v. 9, 10; Dan. vii. 13-14.

I have found, that Jesus will receive the throne of his father David when he comes again, and reign in Jerusalem. Lu. i. 32. 33; Matt. xxv. 31-34; Psa. cxxxii. 11, 17; Psa. ii. 6-12; Isa. xxiv. 23; Zech. xiv. 16, 17; Jer. iii. 17, 18; Joel iii. 17-21; Mic. iv. 1-8.

I have found, that the twelve tribes of Israel will be restored as a nation, and that the apostles and Jesus will reign over them. Matt. xix. 28; Luke 8: 13. Ezek. xxxvii. 21-28.

A. J. EICHANER.

OBITUARY.

Thomas M. Walker died at Plymouth, Ind., Feb. 11, 1900, of pneumonia. He was the son of Frank and Isabella Walker, and was born and has always lived in Marshall County, being 36 years old.

He was married thirteen years ago to Sister Amy Mosher, who is a member of the Plymouth church, who with five children survive him. Mr. Walker was at the time of his death Recorder of Marshall County, having been twice elected to that office. The funeral was held at the residence on Feb. 13, and the religious service was conducted by Bros. W. Tuttle and F. E. Van-Vactor, after which the Odd Fellows took charge of the burial at Oak Hill cemetery. He was a kind husband and indulgent father, and the lonely wife and fatherless children have the sympathy of all who know them. May the kind Father above watch over and protect the bereaved ones as they alone take up the duties before them.

The Dewey Calendar for 1900 issued by the Nickel Plate Road will be mailed anyone sending address with 10 cents in stamps to the General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—mar 1

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets.

The Nickel Plate Road has become a member of the Mileage Ticket Bureau of the Central Passenger Association and mileage tickets properly issued by any line, a member of that bureau, are valid for use on that road on and after Feb. 10th, in the same manner as on other roads, members of that bureau.—mar 2

Central Passenger Association Mileage tickets will be accepted for passage on trains of the Nickel Plate Road on and after Feb. 10th.—mar 2.

Poetry.

He Cometh.

Behold, He cometh! Lo, the mountains
Are glowing with his light;
It flashes from the living fountains,
And leaps from height to height,
Behold he cometh; yet in blindness
Earth's millions still reject his kindness,
Nor see the glory bright.

Behold he comes! all creation
Feels an impending doom.
Behold he comes! every nation
Surges in restless gloom.
Behold he comes! thrashing, raging,
All evil powers 'gainst him engaging
Disdain to yield him room.

Behold he comes! naught can stay him
Naught can his hour delay;
All kings and rulers shall obey him,
Submit to his just sway.
Behold he cometh! brave resistance
Shall fade as night before the distance
Before triumphant day.

Behold he comes! ye who love him,
Break forth in jubilant song
He cometh! see in earth, above him,
A wondrous, radiant throng.
Behold he cometh! grand and glorious,
Majestic Lord and King Victorious!
All hail the short prolong.

Communicated.

A Lecture.

Last Sunday evening I showed you that the records of creation were not only scientifically correct, but that they contained elements that our most advanced scientific men are only beginning to understand their meaning. This evening I intend to deal with the creation of man in the first and second chapters of Genesis. It is contended by the so-called higher critics that the two accounts contained in the first and second chapters do not agree, but I will show you that this idea of theirs is largely due to a misconception of what the first chapter teaches concerning man's creation. It is a very common idea that man was made like to Jehovah. It is generally claimed that he has not a body but is a spirit. Therefore, man must also have been made a spirit, and consequently when the second chapter tells us that man was made of the dust of the ground, and when he sinned, was condemned to return to the ground from whence he was taken. Then exclaim the critics, those two chapters were never written by Moses, but were compiled from two different heathen sources, hence their conflict with each other. But both chapters are in perfect harmony, the second simply giving details.

I will show you also that the word Elohim translated in the first chapter God, is a plural word and there refers to the angels, and the same word is frequently used in other places referring to the angels. But let us first take Gen. ii. 7, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Douay Version. "And the Lord God formed man of the slime of the earth, and breathed into his face the breath of life; and man became a living soul." The words translated here "living soul," are the Hebrew words en-phesh chayah. These two words occur four times in the first chapter. Verse 20, "And God said, let the earth bring forth abundantly the moving creatures that hath life (Hebrew en-phesh chay-ah). Verse 21, "And God created great whales and every living thing (en-phesh chay-ah)." Verse 24, "And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature (en-phesh chay-ah) after his kind, cattle and creeping thing and beasts of the earth after his kind; and it was so." Verse 30, "And to every beast of the earth and every fowl of the air and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth wherein there is life." Marginal reading a living soul (en-phesh chay-ah). I have given every green herb for meat." Dr. Kitto in his cyclopedia of Biblical Literature Vol. I. p. 59, renders Gen. ii. 7, "And Jehovah God (Hebrew Yahowe Elohim) formed man (Adam) dust from the ground.....and blew into his nostrils the breath of life; and the man became a living animal." He says, "We should be acting unfaithfully, if we were to affirm 'that an immaterial and immortal spirit' is contained or implied in this passage."

Dr. I. J. Conant, one of the foremost linguists in the U. S. says, "The Hebrew word nephesh, Gen. ii. 7, here rendered soul, includes all beings that have animal life, and hence it is applied to all the animals of the land and sea."

Dr. Parkhurst says, nephesh "a living animal, a creature that lives by breathing." As a noun, nephesh hath been supposed to signify the spiritual part of man or what we commonly call his soul. I must confess that I can find no passage where it undoubtedly hath this meaning. The Croal Lectures given 1898, in the book is called Recent Archaeology the Bible by the Rev. Thos. Nicol, D. D., minister of Talbooth Parish Edinburgh.

Note at p. 324, he says, "One note of Egyptia city conspicuously lacking from the history and legislation of books of Moses is any direct reference to the immortality of the soul or the future life. When we observe to what an extent the idea of a life beyond death, of the resurrection of the body and of judgment pervaded the thought and conduct of the ancient Egyptians, it is remarkable that no direct reference to that circle of subjects should be found in the Pentateuch. The following is a brief summary of what the Egyptians believed.

Among the Egyptians the natural body was called Khat and it could be changed into a spiritual body, Sahu by prayers and ceremonies on the day of burial. In close connection with it was the heart or Ab. The lunge or double, called Ka, which could move freely from place to place, apart from the body, after death it could dwell in the man's statue and offerings were made to it. The soul was called Ba and could go to heaven and enjoy bliss. It was represented as a human headed hawk, and it came back to reanimate the body at resurrection. Man had also a shadow called Khabit. It could separate itself from the body when alive. Another part called the shining one or Khu, it is frequently represented as a mummy.

In a work on the New Testament, Edmond Sapier, Prof. in the faculty of Protestant Theology of the University at Paris at page 209 says, "Let us study more closely this testimony of Paul. Like all the Jews, he believed in the possibility of a resurrection. The Jews did not clearly hold the doctrine of the immortality of the soul, according to which death is deliverance from the body which fetters the spiritual part of ones being, without which the spirit can live and indeed, without which it is more haply circumstanced. The Jews understood little or nothing of this doctrine, according to which man is composed of two or more or less inimical substances. In their view the world was to be transformed, the death of the body done away with and the kingdom of God set up. Paul had been brought up in these ideas. He not only admitted a future resurrection, but believed that partial or individual resurrection took place now and again. He found it in no sense incredible that God should raise the dead. This belief in the resurrection of a dead man met in his mind and for that matter in the mind of any one of his times no such objection as it would every where meet at the present day."

Edward H. Hall at p. 119, in a work on the Scriptures, says, "Philosophers might believe in the natural immortality of the soul, but not so the Christian." page 116, "The question of the body and its spiritual relation to the actual body long remained a grave one. For more than a century we discover as we read the discussions of the future life, resurrection always means the resurrection of the flesh. The controversy of that period was never with those who denied the future or questioned immortality, it was with those who doubted bodily resurrection. Apart from that the future had no meaning for the Christian."

Renan says in Life of Christ, p. 43, "Belief in the immortality of the soul, which under the influence of Greek philosophy has become a Christian dogma allows us very easily to deprive death of its meaning since the desolation of the body is thus the deliverance of the soul, set free henceforth from the burden that weighed upon its true life. But this view making of man a compound of two substances was not intelligible to the Jew. The kingdom of God or the kingdom of the spirit was to the Jewish mind a complete transformation of the world and an annihilation of death."

Gibbons' History of Decline and Fall of Roman Empire, p. 276, v. 1, "We might naturally expect, that a principle so essential to religion would have been revealed in the clearest terms to the chosen people of Palestine, and that it might safely have been entrusted to the hereditary priesthood of Aaron. It is incumbent on us to adore the mysterious dispensations of Providence when we discover, that the doctrine of the immortality of the soul is omitted in the law of Moses."

Bishop Fillotson's Sermons, p. 74, v. 2, "The immortality of the soul is rather supposed or taken for granted than especially revealed in the Bible."

Luther's Works, Vol. II., folio 107, Wittemberg, 1502, "Pope Leo made a decree about the immortality. 'I permit the Pope to make articles of faith for himself and his faithful, such as the soul is the substantial form of the human body—the soul is immortal with all other monstrous opinions."

Wm. Tyndale said, "In putting souls in heaven, hell and purgatory you destroy the arguments wherewith Christ and Paul prove the resurrection..... The true faith putteth the resurrection which we be warned to look for every hour. The heathen philosopher denying that did put that the souls did ever live. And the Pope joineth the spiritual doctrine of Christ and the fleshly doctrine of philosophers together."

Justin Martan says, "If you have fallen in with any who are called Christians, who yet say that there is no resurrection of the dead, but that their souls are taken up into heaven immediately upon death, do not suppose that they are Christians."

Justin says to Trypho, "But I and all entirely right-minded Christians know well that there is to be a resurrection of the flesh and that for a thousand years Jerusalem will be built up and adorned and enlarged as the prophet Ezekiel and Isaiah and the others declare." Justin was put to death about the middle of the second century.

Neshamah Hayh is translated Gen. ii. 7, breath of life, the word Ruah generally translated spirit does not occur here. Neshamah is only twice translated spirit in the Old Testament, Job xxvi. 4, "To whom hast thou uttered words? And whose spirit came from thee?" The other example is Prov. xx. 27, "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord searching all the inward parts of the belly." In both these places neshamah should have been translated breath. Some other instances of the use of this Hebrew word are Deut. xx. 16, 17, "But the cities of these people which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, thou shalt save alive nothing that breatheth (neshamah) literally no living being." Joshua x. 40, utterly destroyed all that breathed (neshamah) as the Lord God of Israel commanded." Isa. ii. 22, "Cease ye from man whose breath is in his nostrils." So that there is nothing in this word to imply any entity being put into man at creation, that can exist apart from the body after death, which as we have seen the Egyptians taught, but which the Word of God knows nothing of. The first chapter of Genesis teaches that man was made in the likeness of the angels, for this idea there is an abundance of testimony, a few of which I will give you. Being made in the image of does not mean made of the same material. Angels when they appeared looked like men. Gen. xviii. 1, 2, "Elon Yahova applied unto Abraham in the plains of Mamre and he sat in the tent door, he lifted up his eyes, and lo, three men stood by him. V. 13, "And Yhova El said to Abraham wherefore did Sarah laugh." Ver. 16, "And the men rose up from thence and looked toward Sodom." Ver. 17, "And Yehovah said shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do?" Ver. 20, "And Yehova said, Because the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great."

Gen. i. 27, "So God (Elohem) created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them."

When the angel appeared to Moses it read, Exodus iii. 2, "Malak Yahowa Eloi, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of the bush." Ver. 4, "And Yahoa El saw that he turned aside." v. 7, "Yehova said, I have surely seen the affliction of my people." Acts vii. 35. "This Moses whom they refused, saying, who made thee ruler and a judge, the same did God send to be a ruler and a deliverer by the hand of the angel, which appeared to him in the bush. Ver. 38, "This is he that was in the church in the wilderness with the angel which spake to him." Josh. v. 13, "And it came to pass when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and behold there stood a man over against him with his sword drawn in his hand and he said to Joshua, as a prince of the host of Yahova am I now come, and the prince Yehova El host said unto Joshua, Loose thy shoe from off thy foot, for the place where on thou standest is holy, and Joshua did so."

Ver. 2, "And Yehova El said unto Joshua, See I have given unto thine hand Jericho and the king thereof and the mighty men of valor." Judges vi. 11, "And there came an angel of the Lord (Malak Yahova) and sat under the oak which was in Ophra that pertained unto Joash, the Abi-ezrite, and his son Gideon. And the angel of the Lord (Malak Yahov) appeared unto him and said, The Lord (Elon Yahova) is with thee." Ver. 14, "And the Lord (El Yohava) looked upon him and said, Go in this thy might and thou shalt save Israel." Ver. 16, "And the Lord (Elon Yahova) said unto him, "Surely Yahova will be with thee, and in the case of Manoah, the mother of Samson." Judge xiii. 3, "And the angels of the Lord appeared unto the woman (Malek Yohova El)." Ver. 6, "Then the woman came and told her husband saying, A man of God came unto me and his countenance was like the countenance of an angel of God very terrible, but I asked him not whence he came, neither told me his name. He came again Ver. 16. "For Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the Lord."

So that man in his creation was made in the likeness of the angels, but because of Adam's transgression he is at present only a creature of the dust, but thanks be to God who has opened up a way through Christ whereby we may attain to immortality at the resurrection of the dead, for Christ tells us that he is the way, the truth and the life, and if we come to him accepting his words, becoming obedient to his commands, and then walking in newness of life, we will become deathless like the angels. I will conclude by giving one more quotation, this time from a scientific source, to show that man at present is wholly mortal. Many quotations of this kind could be given.

Prof. David Star Jordan, President of the Leland Stanford University says, "The study of the development of mind of men and animals gives no support to the medieval idea of the mind as an entity apart from the organ through which it operates. The 'Clavier Theory' of the mind that the ego resides in the brain, playing upon the cells as a musician upon the cords of a piano, finds no warrant in fact. There is no ego except that which arises from the co-ordination of the nerve cells."

A. Wallace Mason.

Report.

Editor Restitution:

It has often come to my mind, how little we would know of what is going on in the world if there were no papers published, and again, are we doing our part to let the publishers know what we are doing to encourage others, if we are using the talent entrusted to us. In looking over The Restitution we see that Brother and Sister Woodward are holding meetings in Michigan, then in Indiana, and next in Ohio. Well, we have had them here at Baker, Ohio. They came the 13th of January and held meetings almost two weeks. The attendance was good throughout the whole meeting. There were no additions to the church, but judging from the looks on the faces of the congregation we could see there was deep thinking. The first sermon was by Brother Woodward from the text, "God is love," and to see the earnestness in which he spoke and the spirit in which it was delivered, we can but think the walls of prejudice will surely fall. The following are some of the subjects spoken of:—What did Jesus preach,—Restitution,—Resurrection,—Opportunities that slip away,—Let us reason together,—Prayer. They preached alternately, and if any one should ask which sermon was the best we could not tell as they were all so good, and as we felt the church all felt that it was good to be there. The church has been strengthened by their being here and all felt sorry to see them leave, but they had calls from other places and thought it best to go. May God's choicest blessings ever attend them.

Yours, in the blessed hope.

S. J. Elton, Sec.

Editor Restitution:

I have just closed a meeting at Oronoque, Kansas, where I spoke seventeen times to large and attentive audiences. Brother Utter, of Long Island, Kansas, was with me most of the time and spoke twice with good effect. Brother Utter is well qualified to preach the Word, also of good report of them who know him best, and with little practice will make a workman that we will be proud of.

Yours for the truth.

J. T. Prime, Sr.

Our Love Feast.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

Again I join the annual love feast with a heart full of praise to our dear Savior, who has done so much for us, and I thank our heavenly Father for the gift of his dear Son, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him, should not perish, but have everlasting life." John iii. 16. Just think of the sacrifice, and how hard it is for us to sacrifice even a little for him. Let us all think of this and see if we can not do more this year than ever before for his dear cause, for the time may soon come when no man can work.

A loving greeting to all.

E. L. Cronk.

Dear Restitution:

In reading the many soul-cheering letters in your columns, I have been made to rejoice that notwithstanding we are absent from each other, yet we can enjoy sweet communion, and be brought near by the eye of faith, which binds us close in the bonds of Christian union and fellowship, and while we are journeying to and fro in all the meanderings of life, mingling and co-mingling with our fellow-creatures we are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ being the Chief Corner Stone, or King of the Jews, as our Sister Sallie Black says in The Restitution of January 17th. I was so glad to see her name appear again among the faithful. Had not heard from her for so long. Her letter was quite a feast to me. 1st, because the truth was so ably set forth by her, and 2nd, because it awakened so many fond recollections of the past. I am enjoying my winter tour very much with the friends of my youth. I have many talks with them about the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, and have many pleasant seasons in its defense. Dear Brothers and Sisters let us all work in the Vineyard of the Lord till he come, whose right it is to sit on the throne of his Father David, and rule over the house of Jacob forever, then faith will end in sight and hope will end in sweet fruition.

Your Sister, striving for the kingdom.

S. F. Morgan.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

My husband and myself are all of the one faith living here in Pittsburgh Kansas. We have all kinds of societies and churches here. They will not let us preach in their churches. I do wish some of our ministers like Bro. Wilson, or Bro. Foore, or Bro. T. E. Adams could come here and hold meetings for about ten days. I think it would result in good. We would care for the speakers. We have one son living here who is in the faith and would help defray the expenses for hall rent, and a little help from others will help, I am sure much good will be done. You all know of my husband's former labors in Missouri and Arkansas years ago. He baptized over 200 in Arkansas and 50 in Missouri. He labored night and day, using his own means, and for this cause we are now poor in this world's goods, but thanks be to God we are still rich in faith and heirs to that kingdom which is soon to be set up, at Jesus' second coming, when we hope to be made immortal. We are growing stronger, and as the apostle Paul said, "We are pressing forward to the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus." Let us all dear ones be more faithful than ever.

Your Brother and Sister,

C. W. & A. J. Hennos.

Dear Household of Faith:

I greet you in the name of the dear, Anointed Jesus. He, who alone is worthy of all praise, who by the grace of God tasted death in the behalf of every man, he who is our life. He says; "Abide in me for the branch cannot bear fruit of itself." When you and I were immersed we confessed that we were transferred from the old Adam into the new, and we became a new creation. Does our fruit manifest it as we read in Col. iii. 1–15 and Eph. v. 9. An incident comes to my mind just now of one who professed faith in the Lord. He asked another what it meant to be dead?" The answer given was this: "Go to the cemetery." There was a man named Jones buried there. "Stand over his grave and abuse him, call him all sorts of names." He did so and came back. He was asked if Jones answered him back. He answered him, no. He was then told to go and praise and flatter him. He came back with the same result. The one who wanted to know what it meant to be dead saw the lesson. Dear ones in Christ, it is a homely story but illustrates the truth of the 6th chapter of Romans. Dear ones in Christ, may you and I be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

M. T. Aslaksen.

Editor Restitution:

Please find enclosed my subscription to your much loved paper. My wife and self are getting old—past sixty—and may not need your paper much longer. We are in harmony with its teachings and being much isolated we look impatiently for its weekly visits. Thanks to the Lord and the dear brothers and sisters, for the much loved Restitution.

Thos. F. Rich.

Dear Restitution:

I see that Brother D. M. Hudler contemplates filling the call of Sister Anne Cook, at Wolf, Cal. Now there are three of us at Wheatland, Brother Stagner, myself and another Brother who has been a Baptist for years, but now sees the light in the one faith. Wolf is about 20 or 25 miles from Wheatland, and if Brother Hudler or any other Brother should come this way we will try and take him up there. I long to hear the gospel preached as it is in The Restitution. I never heard it that way. After my eyes were first opened I got to reading The Restitution and you see my name as a new subscriber on your list. May God bless you all in your work, and send us some one to preach the truth to us, and we will do all we can to help support him. We are poor, but can help a little. We are looking for the Master, and long for his glorious day to come. I gave a paper to one of my neighbors the other day, who has been a professed Christian for years. I marked some articles on the second coming of our blessed Lord, and he said that he did not want to read anything on that subject, that he did not want that day to come. Oh, what blindness. I ask an interest in your prayers.

Your brother in Christ.

J. M. Tindell.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I thought I would write a few lines, that you may know that my husband and myself are yet among the living, and trying in our weak way to do what we can in spreading the gospel. We are trusting in the Lord, and waiting for his return. It seems as though the time had come when we can lift up our heads and rejoice for our redemption draweth nigh. It seems that the world is in unrest, strife and hurrying to get rich, laying up treasures to be burned. When has there been such a time, wars, earthquakes, famines, pestilences and crimes of every hue? It makes one strong in the faith, and our prayer is that we may overcome the evils of this present world, and be saved at last in the kingdom. Amen.

Your Brother and Sister.

Mr. & Mrs. S. A. Guild.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for The Restitution for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

W O Steffa	1.00
Emma L Cronk	1.50
Mrs. A J Weatherwax	1.00

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets are good on the Nickel Plate Road between Buffalo and Chicago or intermediate stations on and after Feb. 10th.—mar 2

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.]

For Our Children.

If and Perhaps.

If everyone were wise and sweet,
And every one were jolly;
If every heart with gladness beat,
And none were melancholy;
If none should grumble or complain,
And nobody should labor
In evil work, but each were fain
To love and help his neighbor,
Oh what a happy world it would be
For you and me—for you and me!

And if, perhaps, we both should try
That glorious time to hurry,
If you and I—just you and I—
Should laugh instead of worry;
If we should grow—just you and I—
Kinder and sweet-hearted—
Perhaps in some near by and by
That good time might get started.
Then what a happy world it would be
For you and me—for you and me.

Grace's Example.

"You are a real mean, horrid girl," cried Alice Evans at recess time; "you saw me stumbling by my desk and you knew I would fail. I think you might have whispered the answer to me just as you always do."

Grace replied, "I should have liked to help you, but"—

"But what? Surely you are not getting so good that you cannot do it. Only last week, I noticed you copied my example. It seems to me if I received help I would give it also, and what's the harm anyway?"

"I am not going to take it any more nor give it either," was Grace's reply, "I think Miss Gray, our teacher, is right when she says we are doing wrong."

"O, pshaw," exclaimed Alice, and she joined a party of girls and began to tell about Grace's goodness as she called it.

Miss Gray was a new teacher, and had been in this school only a few weeks. She liked the girls—all about twelve, thirteen, or fourteen years of of age—but she disliked the constant "helping," or, as she called it, "cheating."

At the beginning of the second week, Miss Gray said, "Girls, you are not helping each other when you copy another's example, or when you whisper the answer to one who is reciting. Perhaps you think it is honorable to give the help as you call it, even if you do not receive; but it is not so. The girl who is reciting acts an untruth. She has not studied her lesson, perhaps, but some one whispers the answer to her, and she appears to be perfect. I will say no more, but I hope to see an improvement."

Grace thought Miss Gray was right, but her first trial was not pleasant, as we have seen. Her second attempt seemed still harder.

In the afternoon Miss Gray had a visitor. It came to Grace to recite in History, but she could not think of the date, which was a very important question.

One of the girls whispered it to her, and, without thinking, Grace nearly answered. Then she blushed and said, "I don't know."

After school, she told Miss Gray that she could not try any more to do right; that all of the girls were provoked with her, and that she was very unhappy.

My dear," answered Miss Gray, perhaps you will not be alone in doing right after this. You know that all good things have been begun by one person. I know it was and is hard for you, but take courage, and remember that you are not alone really; Christ is with you."

After school some of the girls were disputing. "Why do you suppose Grace did not answer when I told her?" asked Eleanor, the one who had whispered the answer.

"Well," answered Alice, "I guess I will try to-morrow to see if I can learn my lesson well enough not to need any help. Why, if Grace can do it, let's all try it."

Three or four agreed to this plan, and in a week or two quite a number more. Of course each one had her temptation to slip back to the old way, but by the end of the term, Miss Gray felt that her words had not been in vain. Grace felt that although she had had much trouble at first that it paid to do what was right. When she was asked to choose an opening hymn one morning, it was:

"Dare to do right,
Dare to be true.
You have a work
That no other can do."

Irene M. Morse.

Home Seekers' Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to points in West, Northwest and Southwest, on March 6th, 1900. One fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Tickets available on above date good returning within 21 days. See Agents—mar 6

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short consise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150 page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

If you hold a Central Passenger Association Mileage ticket use it on trains of the Nickel Plate Road, on and after Feb. 10th.—mar 2

Fast Trains.

Via Chicago & North-Western R'y—Chicago to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Sioux City, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland. The best of everything. No change of cars. Call on any Ticket Agent for information, or address W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, Ill. A. H. Waggener, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—mar 2

Mardi Gras Rates.

Reduced rate tickets for Annual Mardi Gras Festivities will be sold this year to New Orleans and Mobile, February 19th to 25th, inclusive, good returning leaving those points not later than March 15th. Anybody may take advantage of the low rates, and any Pennsylvania Lines Passenger or Ticket Agent will furnish full particulars upon application.—feb 25

Home Seekers' Excursions via the Nickel Plate Road to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, on Feb. 20th, 1900. Tickets are available on above date good returning within 21 days. One fare plus $2.00 for round trip. See Agents.—feb 20

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on S.d. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Whiterlode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 a. m., for Bible class and social worship and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through thecity, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Evans Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder: Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at H. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. H. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave. San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Esbelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knifa, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthou, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trasdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Great of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 8 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All loving Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Secy and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical study by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays o each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.

	6	15	20	5	21
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsburg, lv.	10 00	10
Allanson, "	2 03	3
Canton, "	10 19	12
Louisville, "	11 03	1
Wooster, "	11 [illegible]	[illegible]
Mansfield, "	12 [illegible]	[illegible]
Crestline, arr.	1 [illegible]	[illegible]
Crestline, lv.	1 [illegible]	[illegible]
Upper Sandusky, "	2 [illegible]	[illegible]
Leipsic, "	2 [illegible]	[illegible]
Van Wert, "	3 [illegible]	[illegible]
Ft Wayne, "	4 [illegible]	[illegible]
Arcadia, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Columbia City, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Larwill, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wooster, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wayneset, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wolcott, "	5 [illegible]	[illegible]
Kent Green, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Smith, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wilson, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Valparaiso, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wanatah, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Hanna, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Kouts, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Daniels, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Porterdale, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Plymouth, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Burr Oak, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bremen, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Tiosa, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Walkerton, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Hamlet, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Knox, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wanatah, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Valparaiso, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wheeler, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bedford, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Liverpool, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Clarke, "	[illegible]	[illegible]
Chicago, arr.	6 55	7 10	8 05	12 30	3 25
	20	8	6	30	16
	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.

Chicago, lv.	7 30	7 00	12 35	4 15	5 40	6 55
Hanna, "	8 57		1 26	5 [illegible]
Liverpool, "	9 03		1 32	5 [illegible]
Bedford, "	9 08		1 38	5 [illegible]
Porterdale, "	9 19		1 49	5 [illegible]
Plymouth, "	10 07	8 45	2 37	6 [illegible]
Burr Oak, "	10 45		3 16	6 [illegible]
Bourbon, "	10 58			6 [illegible]
Kent Green, "	11 08			6 [illegible]
Wanatah, "	11 28	9 28	3 45	7 [illegible]
Wilson, "	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Porterdale, "	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Larwill, "	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Columbia City, "	12 [illegible]	10 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Arcola, "	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft Wayne, ar.	1 [illegible]	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Ft Wayne, lv.	1 [illegible]	11 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Van Wert, "	2 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Lima, "	3 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Bucyrus, "	4 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Crestline, ar.	5 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Mansfield, "	5 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Wooster, "	7 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Massillon, "	7 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Canton, "	8 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Alliance, ar.	8 [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Pittsburgh, ar.	11 05	2 55	6 [illegible]	[illegible]
	AM	PM	PM	PM

Parlor Cars on No. 15. Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Cars on Nos. 5 and 6. Dining Cars on Nos. 5, 6, 15 and 16.

L. F. LORRE, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

12-19-99.—F. PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend.....8:31 am
No. 14, " " " .....12:35 pm
No. 8, " " " .....10:08 pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:04 a m
No. 5, " " " " ..... 12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport.....7:36 pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Flair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City, Ia.
S. B. Clinkenbeard, Denham, Texas.
P. B. Stauffer, Rayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Gladesburg, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wisco, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime Sr, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 623 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, 7 E Fairchild st, Danville, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Onawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hadler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Portland, Ore
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Fitzgerald, Ga.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 527 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jnokman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 897 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.
H. F. Tyler, Portland, Ore.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All proper names are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete Series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.

The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding and Print.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible, - - - - - - - - - - $3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900, - - - - - - - - - - 1.50.

Total, - - $5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible, we will send that for Twenty-five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

NICKEL PLATE

10—114-99

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Buffet and Colonist Parlors attend first and second class day coaches on fast trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

[illegible]

Local Trains between Fort Wayne and Kendallville, Mixed, Wednesday and Friday; Passenger only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Light face P. M. Dark face P. M.
Daily except Sunday. Stop on signal.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 Run to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 1, 3 and 15 to Chicago. Meals are served at "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at uniformly moderate prices. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address H. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN

Your own selection to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50c A YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A [illegible] handsomely colored pictures [illegible] illustrating seasonable fancy work; household hints; fashion [illegible] portfolio of dress, [illegible] &c. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10c 15c

(No Extra—All Sizes in Each Pattern.)

Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from

THE McCALL CO.,
138-146 West 14th St., New York.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. BAILEY BACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

'Tis Midnight on the Waters.

'Tis midnight on the waters,
The storm-swept ocean's wave;
Now is the time to labor,
To suffer and be brave.
There's sunlight on the harbor,
And soft as holiday air
I hear the song of angels
Float from Eden's bowers fair.

'Tis midnight on the waters,
The snowy crests of foam,
And roaring of the breakers
Tell where the sea-wolf's home;
But, though unseen by mortals,
A strong hand holds the helm,
And safe our golden anchor
Is dropped within the veil.

'Tis midnight on the waters,
But o'er the brightest pearl
Is cast a veil of darkness,
To fit for the ordeal.
I would not feel unready,
Upon... Everguard,
But 'mid the rocks and dangers,
I'd gather up the best.

—Victor N. Codworth.

Communicated.

Christianity.

Christianity or the religion of Christ is a divine system. God is its author. As he is the author of the revelation on the truths of which the system is founded. While it would not be strictly true to say that the Christian religion existed in patriarchal and prophetical times, yet it is true that its germs are to be found laid there; its beginning dating, in fact, with the fall of man and the promise of a deliverer, the Seed of the woman that should bruise the serpent's head. With this promise as the ground of faith and hope in primitive man, and the sacrifices enjoined, no doubt, by God himself, they began the gradual unfolding of the marvelous plan. This went on until "the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us (and we beheld his glory as of the only begotten of the Father) full of grace and truth." John i. 14. Jesus stood among men as a revelation in himself for in him was "God manifest in the flesh." 1 Tim. iii. 16. He was so in harmony with the Father that those who knew him were expected by him to be acquainted with the Father. Addressing his disciples he said, "If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also." John xiv. 7. He was so assured of this conclusion that he added: "From henceforth ye know him and have seen him." Several expressions of equal force and meaning are found in the verses immediately following. These statements of his cannot be construed in support of the orthodox trinitarian dogma of three co-equal Gods, yet only one in person and substance.

A Being so completely in accord with the Father in word and works, and humbly acknowledging that these and all else was derived from him is well worthy to be ranked as "head over all things to the church;" and be set forth as the only "name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved." Acts iv. 12. "He is the truth, the way and the life." So the Christian religion must embrace him, and the truth in him the promises to the fathers, the hope of life, the law of love, the promise of an eternal kingdom, together with all the moral precepts by which our course of conduct must be regulated. It takes in him as the crucified and risen one in whom we find "wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption." 1 Cor. i. 30. This religion must embrace his personal coming (pre-millennial of course) the resurrection of the righteous dead at that solemn epoch; the change of the living remnant of the expectant church; the establishment of his kingdom; the subjugation of opposing powers, and the blessing of the nations under his beneficent reign. This in brief is the Christian system; reaching far back into the past and sweeping forward into the ages yet to come; pronouncing a benediction upon the obedient, and death as the doom of the wilfully disobedient.

AN ERROR.

It is a grave error to suppose that

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, FEBRUARY 28, 1900. NUMBER 8.

what is commonly called the New Testament Scriptures contains all that is necessary to a justifying and saving faith in Christ. The many examples of Apostolic preaching in which appeals were made to the then only extant Scriptures in proof of things alleged concerning the kingdom of God, shows that these inspired preachers thought it essential to a valid faith that things should be brought forward from the Old Scriptures, from Moses and the prophets. It is not safe to set aside these examples of inspired teachers. Whoever does, regards his own opinions as of greater importance than the Word of God. How often have I been reminded that we ought to preach the things that are essential to a saving faith; when, upon a little cross examination it turned out that the essentials were non-essentials because not found in the Bible—were purely human opinions.

Before the birth of Christ the faith and hope of patriarch and prophet were kept alive by the same promises which inspire the hearts of believers today; and the law served as a school master to bring Israel to Christ. The lamb without blemish shadowed forth the Lamb of God that was to take away the sin of the world. To close our eyes to the earlier revelation is to shut out the light designed to illuminate the pages of the later revelation and cannot but result in leaving us in darkness and doubt. The Bible is one book, not two. It is true that the Hebrew Scriptures contain a system of law that ceased to be of binding force when "the faith came," (Gal. iii. 25) "the Dispensation of the Spirit." 2 Cor. iii. 8. The legal system, in Paul's allegory, is fitly represented by Hagar the bond woman and her son: while we the children by faith in Christ are declared by the Apostle to be children of the free woman and therefore not under "the yoke of bondage."

JOHN L. WIXOM.

The X Ray Papers. No. 4.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light."

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, in our former interviews we have been investigating some of the Old Testament Scriptures. I think we should be governed entirely by the teaching of Christ and the Apostles, as recorded in the New Testament. The Old Testament was given to the children of Israel and I do not think it concerns us, to any great extent. It is very convenient as a book of reference, I think that is about all the use we have for it. Therefore in this interview I would like to take up some of the statements of Christ while here on earth, showing the conscious existence of the soul, or spirit, after it leaves the body at death.

Mark. Well, Bro. B., it would appear that Christ and the Apostles viewed the Old Testament Scriptures in a different light from what you do, as they very often referred their hearers to the Old Testament Scriptures in proof of the truth of their statements. Christ says, "Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." John v. 39. The Old Testament Scriptures is what Christ referred to, for the New Testament Scriptures were not then in existence. Again he says, "All things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning me." Luke xxiv. 44. Now, Bro. B., if we will go to the law of Moses, and to the prophets, and the Psalms, and learn what is there written, concerning Christ, and then go to the New Testament, and find what has been fulfilled concerning him, then we may know what is yet to be fulfilled, and we will find that a large part of the predictions, concerning him, are yet in the future. If we ignore the Old Testament Scriptures, we cannot comprehend God's plan of salvation, for therein we have the very foundation of that plan. I think therefore we should be very much concerned in reference to their teaching. Well, Bro. B., to return to our subject, what text do you wish to take up in the New Testament?

Rev. B. We will turn to Luke xiv., and from the 19th verse to the end of the chapter, we have the narrative of the rich man and Lazarus. Now, Abraham and the rich man must certainly have had a conscious existence after death, (for they were both dead) or they could not have conversed with each other. This certainly proves that the conscious personality of man does not cease at the death of the body.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., shall we view this narrative as a parable, or as a literal occurrence.

Rev. B. I take it to be a statement of an actual occurrence. Luke does not say that it is a parable. I think therefore we will have to accept it as literal. It reads, 'There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day." The whole narrative appears to me to be a statement of literal facts.

Mack. Well, Bro. B., let us view this in connection with what immediately precedes it in chapter 5. We have three parables—the parable of the lost sheep, and of the ten pieces of silver, and of the prodigal son; and in vi. 1, begins the parable of the unjust steward. Now, Bro. B., you accept all these as parables, the last two beginning with the same statement, as the rich man and beggar, "There was a certain rich man which was clothed in purple and fine linen." Of the prodigal son, "A certain man had two sons." And of the unjust steward, "There was a certain rich man, which had a steward."

Now, Bro. B., why do you accept the first four of these as parables, and claim the fifth in the series as a statement of literal facts? Besides we find in Matt. xiii. 34 35, "All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables, and without a parable spake he not unto them. That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables. I will utter things which have been kept secret, from the foundation of the world." And in Mark 34 we read "But without a parable spake he not unto them." Now, Bro. B., taking this statement concerning the rich man and the beggar in connection with the series of parables preceding it, and the statements of the prophet that he would speak in parables, and the statements of Matthew and Mark that he did speak in parables, and without parables he spake not unto them. I conclude therefore that the statement concerning the rich man and beggar was a parable.

J. H. McCLAIN.

(To be continued.)

Our Hope.

Eph. iv. 4, reads: "There is one body and one spirit, even as you are called in one hope of your calling." How many hopes does the Bible present? Just one. How many baptisms? One. How many faiths? One. How many lords? One. We often hear of a larger hope and a smaller hope, just as though we had an unquestionable right to apply the law of expansion or contraction to God's Word, as we have to our national affairs. But when God speaks, himself, or through his inspired agents, we have no right to dictate, it is said. God knew just what he meant when he spoke; and whether it just meets our ideas or not, it is there and we must abide by it. We often hear that wonderful saying of modern times, "The world's hope." I do not like it, why? Because it gives the worlding, or sinner, a wrong impression. They have not yet learned the first principles of Christ's plan of salvation, and hearing discussed from professed Christians an easier and quicker way out of the way "to work out their own salvation," they wisely (to them) accept the easiest way, which to them will be death, and upon whose head will their sins fall at last? The world has no hope while out of Christ. Is that a narrow view of Christ's saving power? What has the Word revealed on this to all important subject? The Apostle speaking to the Gentiles before accepting Christ, says: "At that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world." And Peter says, 1 Pet. iv. 18, "If the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and sinner appear."

O my brethren, where is the hope for the world or sinners here, where is there ever so small or narrow a margin to build a hope upon? Webster says, "Hope is a desire of good joined with expectancy." What may be the hope or expectancy of the Miner, believing Peter's words to be true? A weary, heart-broken cry, as they look into the face of the merciful Judge, who kindly made the conditions for them, "where shall the ungodly and sinner appear?" most lamentable condition. The same thought is expressed in 1 Thess. iv. 13....."that ye sorrow not even as others, which have no hope." These Thessalonians were worshiping idols; when they laid their dead away they had no hope of future life. Christ being our Life-giver there is no hope for any out of him. Paul says, "I am not ashamed of the gospel." Why? "For it is the power of God unto salvation." O wondrous power, that brings the one hope of life, the one safe rock to build upon, the only window that throws a flood of light into our life, that keeps our hearts from breaking when our sacred dead are torn from us. No wonder Peter, with ecstatic joy, breaks out with, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." Because if he arose and was the first fruits from the dead, those who are his followers, truly come in for a share of the harvest they reaping a kind of first fruits, verily there is a reward for the righteous. Psa. lviii. 11. But, O sinner, where will you stand in that day of rewards? Hope is now within reach of all who will accept the conditions, but as surely as Christ's words of long ago were true, so surely will they ever stand as a truth. "Ye will not come to me that ye might have life." May God help us all to be careful to hold out no false hopes for the world, but warn them, for our time is short and we want to deliver our souls, for Ezek. says, "Nevertheless, if thou warn the wicked of his way to turn from it; if he does not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soul." "If thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but his blood will I require at thine hand." Somebody will be deceived, somebody will cry, Mountains, rocks, fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: for the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand? Only those can stand, "who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us: which hope we have as an anchor to the soul, both sure and steadfast." Yours looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and of our Savior Jesus Christ.

B. W. WOODWARD.

The Teaching of the Twelve Apostles.

We have absolute faith in the teaching and Messianic claim of Jeesous of Nazareth to be the Christ preheralded and attested by "the Law and the Prophets," and also attested to us by signs and prodigies accompanying and following his teaching and assertion of himself during his three years of public ministration in the land of Palestine. The kingdom he heralded we understand to be the fulfilment of the covenant promise to Eve—renewed and amplied to Noce—renewed, amplified, and made more specific to Habraam and to which the law was added because of evasions and because of the meditation of Moouses: and made still more specific as a Messianic kingdom in David and the later prophets, of which kingdom the Christ was to be the King here on the earth.

We had hoped for the prophesied kingdom to come when he came and was with us: but he told us and unfolded the Scriptures of the Law, the Psalms and the Prophets, so that we understood and now understand that the prophetic periods and specific times are known only to the Father, and, were not known to the angels, nor even the Son in the days of his heralding and ministration here; but that when raised from the dead, Jeesous was to go to the Father to receive the kingdom and return with it, and that we were to be looking expectantly for it till it comes in due time, whether in the first, second or third watch, and moreover that it will come unexpectedly to any and all who are not so watching and expecting. To them it will not come as to the rest, like a thief in the night, but like the spring or the summer in due season, and which herald their coming with unmistakable signs; even so those who want it enough to familiarize themselves with what has been revealed through the oracular, prophetic Word and symbol and sign, or in short can read the heavenly imports, as we all do the physical signs of the natural world we live in, will see this kingdom coming before it comes, but the day and the hour we do not know and make no pretense of knowing; but we do know that it cannot come very soon, because a great apostasy of our church must first come, which we understand to be a standing away from the truth as it is in Christ, and a persistent adherence to and following after myths and fables which belong to the lie of Satan, as opposed to the truths of God. The Church is not the kingdom; but we understand it to be the herald of the kingdom, individually on its membership, and collectively as a church, consisting as it does of witnesses for his name and to the truth of God as summed up in the Son of his love. To this end we were inspired to call ourselves Christians and in this name to give our testimony and in this name to suffer obloquy and reproach, and if required death even. In this name moreover, and this name only, we have been taught to hope and do hope for the coming of the kingdom and its accompanying glory, which will include our own exaltation and glory, our translation to this glorified state, if still alive, or our resurrection and the redemption of our body, if already dead.

We do not hope to see the world as a whole grow constantly better before the coming of the kingdom, and him whose right it is to rule, but constantly worse, and we have been taught that the last times will be very wicked and trying times for faithful Christians and that it is doubtful whether the Christ will find "the faith" on the earth when he returns.

CHAS. GARDNER.

Hygiene.

"Cleanliness is akin to godliness." It is also a potent factor for maintaining health. It embraces more than a clean face and hands, if it would be worthy of the relationship to godliness. Science reveals filth, uncleanliness, where we did not expect to find it. And we are confronted with conditions as the cause of our utter physical worthlessness, that we have set on foot, ignorantly, if not wilfully, habits that were once thought harmless have been shown to be the bane of our usefulness. And to them may be attributed our bodily pain, and our mental incapacity and spiritual death. Godliness affords no grounds for the growth and nurture of unclean habits. And the filthy, lazy body is never the temple of a pure heart. Whatever things are unclean to the body, tends to destroy the vigor and health of the mind and spirit. Apologies are not sufficient to cancel penalties. All laws regulating man are from God. And violation means sin, and results in estrangement from him; whether it relates to one part or all. Man is a unit creature with God, and accountable to him as a unit being. Thou shalt not kill, includes suicide as well as homicide. I may not destroy myself, nor injure my body lest I fail in the work he has given me to do. The glutton is as useless to God as the drunkard; and his appetite as destructive to spiritual life. God will destroy both.

The law given from Sinai contains the best system of hygiene ever written. And science is fast corroborating the divinity of its teachings. When God pronounced an animal unclean, unfit for us he was not speculating. Neither was he experimenting to reach his conclusion. The wise will beware. The foolish may vainly expect to sanctify by the giving of thanks, yet swine will remain an abomination to the Lord, and a source of disease to man. Paul's language 1 Tim. iv. 3, 4, no more includes the filthy scavenger than it does the loathsome reptile. It embraces only the clean beasts and fowls that were set apart in the law. These man is permitted to eat. The others he is commanded not to touch, because unclean.

Why should we imperil our lives to do something God has forbidden. It was thus sin entered into the world. A disregard of physical law may not discover the penalty immediately, but the rod is laid up for us, and is only seasoning to be more effectual. Sometimes as in the use of narcotics we may feel as though we were being lifted up into the atmosphere of the gods, but the flight is very short, and unsatisfactory, and ends up in a wretched depression, to remind us that a day of reckoning is just ahead. A moderate use of things God has appointed for us, and a touch not, taste not, handle not, of the evil, are the grounds of our acceptance with him.

I shall hope to be pardoned if I have been too explicit in regard to the frailties of our poor humanity. I beg to notice that we often need some one to show us our faults. One venerable brother said to me, "Tobacco chewing is a dirty, filthy habit, without a single redeeming quality." Yet the old man kept right on chewing. Is it enough that we condemn a habit and still practice it? To confess our sins and not forsake them is not turning to the Lord. Reformation is the need. Profane man cease your swearing. Thief stop your stealing. Liar speak the truth. Glutton control your appetite. Drunkard touch not the cup. Sensualist cultivate virtue. "If you would enter into life keep the commandments." None but the pure in heart shall see the Lord.

Submitted in love,
A. B. WIXOM.

Epheseus.

History tells us that Ephesus was a most magnificent city. It rose to a degree of splendor surpassed by few if any of the oriental cities. It was a gay and luxurious city, the central seat of a great and populous idolatry which not only enriched the city through the masses of foreign worshippers, but was also associated with some of the most lucrative industries of the city itself. This was the manufacture of silver shrines of the great goddess Diana. This idolatry was practiced in connection with that magnificent temple for which Ephesus was most famous,—The Temple of Diana. It was indeed a most splendid building, and ranked among the seven wonders of the world,—the length 425 feet, the breadth 220 feet, —encompassed with 127 pillars, each 60 feet high, each of which was presented by a king. This magnificent building which was built by the contributions of all the provinces of Asia Minor, and which took 200 years to complete..... .....Time has brought it to complete and utter ruin,—thus showing us the fact that all human glory passes away.

"And the voice said cry, and the prophet said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass and all the goodliness thereof as the flower of the field, the grass withereth, the flower thereof fadeth because the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it, surely the people is grass. The grass withereth and the flower fadeth, but the Word of our God shall stand forever."

J. O. WOODMORE.

The man who opens his heart to truth will soon find truth opening a door of usefulness for him.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the first restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortalized as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, Feb'y 28, 1900.

The Blessed God often teaches lessons in the shade which we would never have learned in the sunshine.

Who so fit to preserve us from falling, as he who knows us altogether, and knows all things, and whose are all things?

A heart sprinkled from an evil conscience; full assurance of faith; a lively hope, and a subdued will, are evidences of soul-prosperity.

It is one thing to go to God in a happy frame of mind, and another thing to go to him when a load is crushing one to the ground, almost, or is beset behind and before, and no apparent way of escape, except by counting him faithful who hath promised.

"Let the thought of a crucified Christ never out of your mind; this gives a realizing sense of the past, while it brings the future age of glory near to us. We should let these things be our sweet consolation, our honey, our desire, our reading, our meditation, our life, our assurance, our joy."

Faith is a wonderful thing. It will give courage to a coward, tameness, drew a man from his strongest attachments, enables him to see sin where he had no idea of its existence; and when it deals with the covenants of promise and the blood that confirmed them, and the love of God lying back of all these things, it quickens moral perceptions and enables him to see beams where he could not see motes.

Last week John Alexander Dowie took about 1000 of his followers to see the site of his new "Zion" 42 miles north of Chicago, and made an address exhorting them to invest in the lots. The result was discouraging, as very few were willing to put money in the scheme. The "Dr." will have to use force likely and compell them to buy. He announces that he expects to lay the first foundation stone on July 4.

Is England's Power Declining?

Many times has this question arisen in the minds of people of various classes since the war with the Boers has been in progress, a majority having the idea that the British Empire will now go down and become a third or fourth rate nation. In view of this the answer given herewith cannot fail of being of interest to the Bible student. It is copied from the Chicago Tribune and is a reply to the question at the head of this article.

The Tribune does not see any evidences that the power of England is on the decline. It is certainly making progress in the whole eastern part of the dark continent, and if successful in the present conflict in south Africa, as it inevitably must be, barring any foreign intervention, its authority will be supreme from Cairo to the Cape. It is extending its commerce over the world so rapidly that continental nations are growing jealous. It is rapidly extending its dominion. Its navy is the strongest in the world, and stronger than the combined navies of the leading continental powers. If our correspondent desires to know what such a naval strength means let him read Captain Mahan's recent work, and if he desires to know how England stands relatively to other powers let him consult the statistics of the Statesman's Year Book or Whittaker's Almanack and his curiosity will be satisfied. The Tribune can not see any signs of declining power in England.

News Notes.

The Russian government desires to establish a consulate at Bombay, setting forward the claim that she should be allowed to do so because other foreign powers have been permitted to do so. England replies by granting the privilege provided she may place a like representative at Tchardjui, a town in central Turkestan, north of Cabool. Russia refuses to allow this to be done. Another case when the "door is shut."

The Vatican is bidding for the favor of German Catholics by favoring the proposal to create a theological faculty at the University of Strasburg.

The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says: "The United States government purposes to send some warships into Chinese waters shortly, as the Tsung-li-Yamen does not heed the collective note sent by the United States Minister and the other power's Ministers a fortnight ago, in which they demanded that measures be taken to insure the safety of missionaries. Germany designs to send ships for the same reason."

A Daily Mail dispatch from Bombay, dated Feb. 23, says: "Considerable excitement is caused here by the news of the arrival of a Russian cruiser at Bunder-Abbas, in the Persian Gulf. The cruiser is understood to be a large vessel carrying fighting tops, but its name is as yet unknown. The British warship Comorne has gone to Bunder-Abbas with the gunboat Sphinx.

Uneasiness prevails owing to the repeated statements regarding Russia's activity on the Afghan frontier. All British officers have had their leave cancelled except in cases of sickness, and last week some officers who were proceeding to England were actually stopped when embarking on the mail steamer."

"The Times of India doubts the probability of a Russian advance to Herat until such a time as the Ameer dies, but it welcomes Lord George Hamilton's assurance that Great Britain adheres to her pledges to the Ameer. The paper, however, urges the necessity of a clear declaration of British policy in the Persian Gulf."

In order to more rapidly mobilize the fleet the Admiralty has directed all naval officers to board their ships, and all senior officers not serving afloat have been told the name of the ships to which they have been allotted. This step has been taken in order that the mobilization may proceed with all dispatch should the situation render it expedient. All ships are practically ready, not only the home squadrons, but the fleets abroad.

The Admiralty is evidently preparing for emergencies. Spare mountings for barbette guns on the battleships Canopus and Ocean, on the Mediterranean station, are being dispatched from Portsmouth to Malta. These are intended to replace any mountings that may be disabled in action so that the vessels may be got ready for service again at the shortest possible time.

The Tageblatt, of Leipzig, representing the Nationalists, and the Pan-Germanist, Anti-Semites, and Saxon exporters, which, taken together, form a considerable proportion of the country's population, foresees a war with England in the not too distant future. It says, "England understands the situation thoroughly, and thoughtful politicians are familiarizing themselves with the idea that war alone can restore the equilibrium in the Anglo-Saxon relations.

England has always followed Germany's evolution with envious eyes, and dislike changed to bitter hate when we entered the field of world politics which England had hitherto monopolized. England laid many stumbling blocks in our path, so that gradually a mighty hatred of England has accumulated in the hearts of our people.

Earnest conciliatory efforts have not been wanting on either side, but the flame cannot now long be choked and we simply must anticipate war some day.

"Germany could play with her European role until France had been defeated, and similarly our world politics cannot prosper until we settle with Great Britain. Treaties and agreements may defer but they cannot prevent the crisis."

The Tageblatt, in summing the international situation, finds that Germany cannot expect outside support, and that consequently diplomacy must undertake to isolate England and likewise particularly secure American neutrality. To do this it will be necessary, while guarding home economic interests, to cultivate good relations with the United States. In the meanwhile the navy must be begun while England's hands are tied.

Special telegrams to the Milan Secolo assert that war between Servia and Bulgaria is unavoidable and that they will soon sever all diplomatic relations definitely.

Salvador Cisneros, first president of the Cuban provisional republic, presided at a meeting called on Feb. 21st, at Havana, to protest against the appointment of Mgr. Sbarretti to the Bishopric of Havana. The meeting decided to send dispatches to Rome and Washington, protesting against the appointment, and a special committee was chosen to wait upon General Wood in connection with the matter. It was decided that in case all these methods should fail an independent national church should be founded. General Maximo Gomes sent a letter expressing his sympathy with the movement.

Contrary to the opinion of the best informed circles in Berlin, which believe that Russia has neither the money nor the inclination to build the Asia Minor railways immediately, the Tageblatt's Constantinople correspondent states that Russian engineers are already at work in surveying a line between Erzeroum and Trebizond, and that the Russian Ambassador, Zinoview, is pressing the Porte for permission to begin work.

A rather remarkable and at the same time practical scheme for promoting an Anglo-American alliance has just been organized in London. It is known as the Atlantic union. The object is to accord American and other English-speaking visitors to England more hospitable treatment than has been received by them in the past. Branches of the union are to be established in the principle American cities and in the colonies.

Russia's demands that Turkey grant no concessions for any railway leading to the Russian border without first obtaining permission from St. Petersburg are regarded by the councillors of the Sultan as excessive. The council replied that the Porte would promise that it would grant no such concessions to any other foreign company, but reserved the right to build such roads itself if it so wished. This reply, as well as the Sultan's verbal assurance that Russia's wishes would be complied with, has not satisfied the Russian Ambassador, Zinoview, as one that assures a full compliance with Russia's terms.

A summary of the Boer-British war news is that Lord Roberts has surrounded Cronje with his army, which lies in a river-bed, like a deep ditch, two miles long, 150 feet wide and 50 feet deep. The Boers make trenches in the sides and thus are sheltered. The British are busy pouring a fire from 100 guns into them, and keeping back reinforcements that endeavor to get to the besieged Boers. General Buller meanwhile has advanced to within two miles of Ladysmith, and has some hard fighting to do yet before he gets there.

The French are sending 5000 more troops to Madagascar, and there is a quiet drawing together of the French army and navy resources, ready for contingencies. Quoting one dispatch will give an idea of the situation. "Waldeck-Rousseau is now the Army Champion, and the French are getting ready for a war with England in earnest, and are also preparing against eventualities, if in case of a war with England, Germany should attempt to help England."

Appeal to the Lovers of Truth.

The writer having severed his connection with all organized associations, and wishing to put into active operation a long-cherished desire to enter a much neglected field of labor for which there seems to be but few applicants, takes this method to make known his purpose. The Macedonian cry goes up from the highways and hedges, the poor are famishing, while organized associations have money to hire ministers to preach each Sunday in the month, and the preaching seems in some instances at least to act as an opiate instead of a stimulant, and for this and other causes the writer desires to bear the sweet message of life to the perishing, and if possessed of the necessary means to accomplish this without taking the living from my family would not appeal to the generosity of the brotherhood, but this I cannot afford to do, hence this appeal to all who desire this much needed work performed.

Then to all who may be interested in this matter will you kindly address me by postal card Box 261, Rochester, Ind., stating the amount you will cheerfully donate for this purpose, but send no money until you hear from me. My proposition is to engage in this labor at a reasonable charge, say one dollar a day and necessary expenses, such as car fare, meals and incidental expenses. Should any have doubt as to the status of my faith send nothing. I will say, however, that I have not advanced beyond the ancient faith once delivered to the saints. I yet recognize the gospel and accompanying obligations as the power of God unto salvation to every one believing and practicing the same, but will cheerfully answer all questions touching my faith that may be submitted. Awaiting your reply I remain as ever in the blessed hope.

J. F. Wagoner.

COMMENTS.

We trust that enough of our brethren who have means will make note of Bro. Wagoner's appeal, and supply him with the means to prosecute the work he wishes to undertake. However, it seems strange to us that Bro. Wagoner should, just at this time, when the wickedness of these last days is so great that there is grave danger of the faith of some being overthrown, "sever his connection with all organized associations." It seems to us that this is the time of all times when it is most necessary for the strong men of the Church of God to stand shoulder to shoulder. It is true in the church as in the state that "In unity there is strength"—"United we stand, divided we fall." The fact of the existence of the organized churches in the State of Indiana, where the 50 or 100 brethren and sisters are banded together, and they further joined in "State Conference" is what has made it possible for some one to be sent to the "highways and hedges"—to the places where no organization existed, and in turn create new supporters to keep the car rolling on. To our mind this matter of church organization has taken too much of the sentimental idea—or rather not too much of that, but too little of the business idea. As we regard it the religion of Jesus Christ is a Business,—with a big "B"—of the most important sort. Men and women who are believers in the gospel of the Kingdom of God and the things concerning the name of Jesus Christ, and who have been united to the family of God and are heirs to the promised kingdom, can have no aim above the one of living in such a manner as to bring no reproach upon their cause, and of spreading the good news abroad. This constitutes the "work" they have to do—the business they have engaged solemnly to prosecute.

It resolves itself then into a question of "ways and means." It is too large a work to be done single-handed—hence we have the Macedonian cry "Come over and help us." We cannot do the work alone. Come over and "unite" with us, and together we become a power. If we take a survey of our forces throughout the land, we will discover that where most efficient work has been done—where the results have been most satisfactory, are in the regions that have been reached by the best organized bodies. Simply this—where the best organization is, the work is best. The live organization is what makes it possible to give help when the "cry" comes for it. The followers of Jesus Christ are an army of soldiers, and should fight together against evil and to advance his banner among the people.

We again say, we hope the brotherhood will aid Bro. Wagoner to do all his heart desires, and we wish to hear from him that he does not want to be understood as withdrawing from the Church organization of which he has so long been a member. He needs the aid and prayers of the Church—and the Church needs him.

God is Love. No. 6.

In closing our fifth article we reminded our readers that only those who have the Son have life. Here, again, the love of God stands out in bold relief. Man was expelled from Eden, and his access to the tree of life after sinning was prevented. The law of sin and death had to be honored, and the Word of God vindicated, and the murderous lie of the serpent condemned on the spot. And we call upon fathers and mothers, and brothers, and sisters and friends to give God the glory, the wayward will not writhe in anguish and blow the flames of fire and sulphur through endless ages. If not fit to live always they will cease to be,—will be blotted out,—the world will be rid of its scum, and Jehovah will yet have everything having life will praise him; for still again his love shines forth. The guilty pair was scarcely sentenced before a beneficent scheme was disclosed for their redemption. They were informed that THE WOMAN'S SEED would crush the serpent's head. This promise contained the germ of all subsequent gospel promises made to man, viz., of life, and glory, and honor, and power in the kingdom of God, under the whole heavens; together with the law of pardon, reconciliation and adoption into the family of God, on the principle of faith and obedience,—with all the rights and immunities of the only begotten Son of God, who was predestined to be death's conqueror, and the demonstrator of an endless life beyond the grave. Having hastily traced the Seed of the woman till the

A CLEAN UNIVERSE,

POWER OF AN ENDLESS LIFE

took possession of him; we will go back to the point where God further unrolls his purpose by selecting and creating one to be the Father of the race through whom the woman's Seed should come. Abram was his name,—and we learn from Gen. 12th, 18th, 14th, and 15th chapters and other chapters, that after being tested and tried severely, his faith is imputed to him for righteousness; and promises exceeding great are made to him—promises which couple his name with the world's Redeemer, saying, "In thee and thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed," and in addition to this was made a covenant of all the land of Canaan for an everlasting possession. Subsequent revelations explain what the land-grant was made for,—it was to be the territory proper of a kingdom of his own the God of heaven would set up on earth. It should be the first

KINGDOM OF RIGHTEOUSNESS

and peace earth ever had: its extent world-wide, and its duration everlasting, its capital Jerusalem, from whence the law to the world should go forth: its immediate subjects twelve tribes descended from Abraham: its rulers the immortalized and glorified saints of all ages: the King, Jehovah, that will sit upon its throne will be the long-promised Seed of the woman, the Seed of Abraham and David,—the All-powerful and

GLORIOUS SON OF GOD.

Inspired penmen have drawn wonderful pictures of that era of peace and good will toward men, and of glory to God in the highest, when according to the prediction of David, all the people will praise him, and the earth shall yield her increase; and the inhabitants shall not say they are sick, and will live to the age of trees, and long enjoy the work of their hands. But we must not forget that we were once carried away with the idea that heaven was to be our home if we but sincerely desired it,—the old earth only answering the purpose of raising inhabitants for world's on high. And it may be that those may read these lines who hold the same notion. If that be so, it would be natural for them to wonder, if what we teach be true, what benefit on earth will be to the vast company of faithful ones who have passed off the stage of action before the good time arrives? Hitherto they have supposed that all such received their reward at death; and this new idea would disconcert them. In reply to this we would kindly say that truth and error cannot be made to mix; and given, that the Great Creator has given us a truthful account of man's origin, nature and destiny, then it follows that the dead are not alive and conscious anywhere; that it is absolutely true that "the dead know not anything," and that the once living one goes to the grave where there is neither work, device, knowledge or wisdom, Eccl. ix. 5, 10; and that when his breath goes forth his thoughts perish, Psa. cxlvi. 4, and that is that he is in no condition to receive or enjoy a reward. This should prepare the perplexed for divine testimony respecting the time of reward. There can be no better authority on this subject than the Christ of God, and he tells us in Luke xiv. 14, that those who do good shall be recompensed at the resurrection of the just;" and the 11th of Hebrews distinctly teaches that the great cloud of witnesses enumerated there will not be made perfect till we are,—and furthermore that their patient endurance of the sorest afflictions flesh and blood were susceptible of was with a view to a better resurrection—

THE GOOD TIME COMING

CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE

THE RESURRECTION

of the justified ones, to be recompensed. Out of the abundance of testimony we cite the reader to only one more Scripture,—the 11th of Rev. and verses 15-18 wherein it may be seen that it is when the seventh angel sounds, and the Lord God Almighty takes to himself his great power and reigns, and when the nations are angry and God's wrath comes, and the dead are judged, that rewards are given to PROPHETS, SAINTS and them that fear his name, GREAT and SMALL, and the destruction of them which corrupt the earth takes place. The honest and intelligent will not attempt to get over or under, or around

THIS DIVINE TESTIMONY;

and therefore we see the absolute necessity of a resurrection from the dead or no reward can be received. Reader, do you want to triumph over death and shout, "O death, where is thy sting, O grave, where is thy victory?" If so, you are ready to consider another amazing evidence that GOD IS LOVE. We repeat here, that God has made no provision for the existence of his law. The wages of sin is still death,—but the GIFT OF GOD is through Jesus Christ our Lord; and we are in an agonizing effort to show perishing mortals what infinite pains the God of love has taken TO BE JUST to the requirements of his own law, and at the same time THE JUSTIFIER OF HIM WHO BELIEVES IN JESUS. Reader, do not forget whom God justifies,—those who believe in Jesus; and when we say that we do not mean merely belief there was a person of that name in Palestine over 1900 years ago, but belief in him as the one of whom Moses and the prophets did write the Seed of the Woman, Seed of Abraham, Seed of David, and the

ETERNAL LIFE

ONLY BEGOTTEN

of the Father, full of grace and truth, belief in all his offices of prophet, priest, sacrifice Mediator, and King de jure, and who will be King de facto as sure as God has spoken it. Besides this, to believe in Jesus is to believe that repentance unto life and remission of sin can only be obtained in his dear name, and that that name can only be contained in the adopting ordinance of baptism, when, and where, he who from the heart obeys his faith in the things concerning

THE KINGDOM OF GOD

and the name of Jesus Christ, and becomes an heir of God, and a joint heir with Jesus the Anointed who is heir of all things; and then nothing remains but to observe all things whatsoever Jesus commands, and salvation is sure. But THE WHY AND WHEREFORE of all this may be met in the way of some, and therefore a few evident reasons for the divine procedure may be helpful. In the divine economy there is no remission of sin without the shedding of blood. The blood must be from one of our race who could have sinned, but did not. This blood was necessary to bring into force the

COVENANT MADE OF GOD

to Abraham, which included life after death in an endless degree, as evidenced by the re-living of Jesus himself under that instrument, (Heb. xiii. 20) and thus prepare the way out of death's dominion for his brethren—the seed of Abraham faithless. Be it remembered that Jesus was brought again from the dead through the blood of the everlasting covenant, which was his own blood,—so that he positively EARNED his release from death by perfect obedience; he was not justified by faith as all others may be, or fail of

THE GREAT SALVATION.

He was raised again for our justification by being held up to us as the object for justifying faith on our part to take hold of; he being the way, the truth, and the life, and all the promises of God centering in him. So we see, that although "God so loved the world of mankind that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him might not perish, but have everlasting life," he died as no one's substitute. He died to procure life age-lasting for all who comply with the conditions.

(To be concluded next week.)

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for The Restitution for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

The Dewey Calendar for 1900 issued by the Nickel Plate Road will be mailed anyone sending address with 10 cents in stamps to the General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—mar 1

It is easy in the world to live after the world's opinion; it is easy in solitude to live after your own: but the great man is he who, in the midst of the crowd, keeps with perfect sweetness the independence of solitude.

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets are accepted for passage on all trains of the Nickel Plate Road.—mar 16

Poetry.

I Wonder What I Would Do?

Out in the street there a beggar waits
In the driving storm so cold;
A homeless child with a famished look,
And garments thin and old.
I gave from my hoarded meagre tale,
And pennies I gave her a few;
But I knew that my Savior was standing there,
I wonder what I would do?

In a cellar at the end of the land
There's a woman who sits in tears
For her children's sake she and family must
Till the weary midnight goes
She's stitching here at the coarse garments for
And trying her best to do right
But I know that my Savior was looking on me
I wonder what I would do?

There are little ones children that cry for bread.
They are wide as cold and poor,
And there is the sick and helpless,
That look beside my door
Shall I turn off the luxuries,
While others must do without?
Or I thought that I was like Christ would,
I wonder what I would do?

[illegible] and gold
[illegible]
And I [illegible]
While [illegible]
My [illegible]
[illegible]
I know that [illegible]
[illegible]

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

There [illegible]
When [illegible]
In the [illegible]
My [illegible]
In [illegible]
I wonder what I would do?

Then the Savior, with his angels fair
Will sit on the great white throne,
And out from the millions and dead there
He will know and claim his own.
In the earth to me these words "Servant
[illegible]
[illegible]
I wonder what I shall do?

Communicated.

Winters-Wagoner Discussion.

Thinking the readers of THE RESTITUTION take a deep interest in the efforts to defend the ancient faith, I herewith submit a brief report of a week's discussion of two propositions.

1st, Resolved, That the kingdom of heaven (Dan. ii. 44) was set up on the day of Pentecost and is now in existence. W. H. Winters affirms, J. F. Wagoner denies.

2nd, Resolved, That the Holy Scriptures teach that at death man becomes unconscious and remains so until the resurrection. J. F. Wagoner affirms, W. H. Winters denies.

The discussion was held in the new church building near Hillsboro, Clinton Co., Ind. Bro J. S. Hatch acting as my moderator, a Mr Hedgecock acting for Mr. Winters, a Methodist minister was chosen as chairman.

The attendance throughout was good, the attention deep and earnest. A large number could be seen during each session noting the Scriptures referred to by the contestants. That Mr. Winters failed to sustain his affirmation goes without saying to the readers of THE RESTITUTION, for all know that no unscriptural statement can be sustained by the Scriptures, but I will give Mr. Winters credit for trying his best to sustain it. After being repeatedly called upon to show even one proof to sustain his affirmation Mr. Winters announced that he had "one passage that had a BEARING in that direction," but the "bearing" was so light that I have forgotten the passage. The rebuttal argument was based upon the statement that the kingdom could not be set up until each element composing the kingdom should be in its proper position. The King upon the throne, the subjects controlled, the territory under the King's jurisdiction, the executive officers in position, the law officially issued by the King, the capital occupied by the King. Mr. Winters utterly failed to show that even one of these elements was now in its organic position.

Upon the second proposition the affirmation was sustained by three classes of testimony. 1st, Man's relation as shown in his creation. 2nd, As shown in the state of death. 3rd, As shown in the resurrection as the chief factor to secure future life. Each of these were supported by numerous proofs, some of which were utterly ignored, some misrepresented, in short the usual attempts were made to neutralize the truth. The most daring attempt of Mr. Winters was to set aside the Scriptures that Christ most solemnly enjoined upon the Jews to search. This seemed the more unreasonable as Mr. Winters is identified with the class of religionists who once boasted that they could prove "Bible doctrine by Bible language." But when men leave the pure Word of God and advocate pure Platonism we cannot expect anything better than heathenism. Mr. Winter's characterized the faith of God's ancient worthies as atheism.

As to whether good will result from this discussion time only can determine, the candid opinion of the writer is that the same effort to establish the truth that is required in discussion would if put forth in the ordinary method of patiently teaching the truth result in greater good. Let the beautiful truths of God's Word be faithfully drawn upon canvas without being blurred and blackened by ecclesiastical blacking brushes and the picture will certainly be more attractive. It is to be feared too that some look upon a discussion in the same light that they would view a pugilistic contest, that it ought to result in a complete "knock out," not realizing the fact that a discussion no more silences the attacks against the truth than does its ordinary teaching pull down the strongholds of infidelity, but here and there a heart is touched by the truth now and then one is convinced, and the same results follow all efforts to plant the truth now, that attend the efforts by the primitive teachers. "Some believed and some believed not." The writer has not sought, nor does now seek discussion, and only accepts it when a refusal would be construed to mean cowardice.

A little work yet remains, a little grubbing to do, the highways and hedges are to be visited and the earnest persuasion given, a few more vacant seats at the beautiful Supper table must be filled. Shall we have that honor, or will we be put aside that others may do the work? Let us remember that what is to be done, ought, yes, must be done quickly.

As ever awaiting the order to "march" I remain hopeful.

J. F. WAGONER.

In the Field.

December was spent visiting the established churches around Portland, and giving series of meetings. From Portland to Tacoma, in company with my wife, where we spent a week with Brother Jaeger, and esteemed family, and in looking up the few brethren there, with hope of future work and organization. From thence to Seattle, where I met with and talked to the West Seattle brethren at their regular meeting, and arranged for future meetings. We hope for good results in the future, especially at Ballard, where the Christian church is freely offered for our labor. At Seattle, our distance from home, and Portland field of labor was two hundred miles. Here I parted with wife and babe for a time, that she might visit her parents at Waterville, while I went 50 miles east of Seattle to Preston, a frontier place, where the gospel of the kingdom had never been heard, and gave 3 discourses. Result: none obedient but some reading, and Bro. and Sister Dowle encouraged.

Back to Seattle and a trip north on the Sound 85 miles; scenery grand and weather delightful. These meetings were held on Guemes Island; a beautiful location, among surrounding islands, separated from other islands by channels and bays; and within sight of the Gulf of George, and the Strait Juan De Fuca, almost a Robinson Cruso life of 8 or 10 days. About a dozen families located here, dimension of island four by five miles. The people hungry for the bread of life. They had never heard the plan of the ages, with the exception of one family, Bro. Perry's. Sister Perry had called me to come nearly 300 miles to immerse her. Fearing that the Sound might prove treacherous, and not being accustomed to salt water, a boat was secured and filled with water, and while a number of interested people stood around, with an interest that almost got down into the heart, I stood on the bench beside the boat and buried Sister Perry and her daughter in this strange grave, as typical of death as though it had been an open grave. I must go back to that island and urge those to obey that have not become interested enough to urge others to come to their rescue. Now I am working in Ellensburg, one of the thriving little cities of Eastern Washington, a hundred and fifty miles east of Seattle. I have given seventeen discourses. We have been aided from 7 to 7:30 P. M. with the devout prayer circle of a little company of zealous believers. Yesterday, Feb. 11th, we organized a little flock, numbering nine, into working order. This meeting is conducted under heavy expenses, supported by Bros. Platt Corbaley and Harry Patterson, aided by Bro. Cox, and may continue if the interest continues. While these meetings are in session Pro. Hudler has been engaged at Waterville, and was to close yesterday and start for his Nebraska home. I expect to follow his work up there with some meetings. Although it is but seventy-five miles to Waterville across the mountain range by railway I will have to return west to Seattle, and east on the G. N. R. R., and travel three hundred miles to reach the place. We look to God for the increase. The gospel of the kingdom was never proclaimed in Ellensburg before these meetings.

W. L. SKEELS.

OBITUARY.

ANNA THOMPSON was born in Fayette Co., Ind., June 26, 1830, and died Feb. 14, 1900, at the home of her son near Hibbard, Marshall Co., Ind.

She came to this County in 1837, and was among the early pioneers who settled near Maxenkuckee Lake. She was married to Wm. Shaw Aug. 13, 1854, and was the mother of five children. The husband and one daughter, Mrs. Della Wiseman preceded her to the grave, leaving one daughter, Mrs. C. H. Stabl, and three sons S. A., J. C. and A. B. Shaw, with eleven grand children to mourn her departure.

Her sickness was of but two days duration, but her suffering was intense. She had been for many years a member of the Church of God, and was a true woman in every sense of the word. Sister Shaw had reached the age of 69 years, 7 months and 18 days, and fell peacefully asleep to await the resurrection of the just.

Funeral services were held at the home of her son S. A. Shaw on Feb. 16, Mr. Fraley of the Methodist Church officiating, after which she was interred in the Bucklew cemetery.

It is with much regret I announce the death of our kind and loving mother, Mrs. Mary C. Warren, died Dec. 16, 1899. She had been an invalid for two years, and took great comfort in the sermons in your papers. She has been a reader of THE RESTITUTION for several years.

B. M. WARREN.

ELIZABETH CASEY was born in Virginia, March 2, 1817, and died Feb. 16, 1900, aged 82 years, 11 months and 14 days. She was taken from the place of her birth to Scric Co., North Carolina when about a year old, and lived there twenty years. She then emigrated to Henry Co., Ind., living there thirteen years, and from there removed to Howard Co., Ind., where she lived twelve years. From thence she came to Marshall Co., Ind., in March, 1864, where she has since resided.

She was united in marriage to Richmond Casey, Sept. 10, 1843. To this union were born six children, four sons and two daughters, of whom four survive her, three sons and one daughter, to mourn her loss. Her husband died Nov. 4, 1881.

She united with the Church of God, in Howard Co., in 1860, being baptized on Easter Sunday. She has ever since endeavored to live a consistent Christian life, although isolated from any church organization. She was a worthy and respected neighbor, and a devoted wife and mother.

The funeral services conducted by the writer, took place at 11 o'clock, Sunday, Feb. 18, 1900, from the Richland Center, Methodist Church, in Fulton Co., and Grandma Casey was laid away to rest in the cemetery near by, to await the morning of the resurrection.

D. E. VANVACTOR.

California Quickly and Comfortably

Via Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line. "The Overland Limited" leaves Chicago daily 6:30 P. M., arrives at San Francisco the afternoon of third day, and Los Angeles next morning. No change of cars. All meals in dining cars. Buffet, smoking and library cars, with barber. "The best of everything." "The Pacific Express leaves Chicago daily 10:30 P. M., with first-class and through tourist sleepers to California. Personally conducted excursions every Thursday. All agents sell tickets via Chicago & North-Western Ry. For full information and illustrated pamphlet apply to A. H. Waggoner, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—mar. 17.

Virtue is a penance to those to whom home is a prison.

Report.

The meeting held at Oronoque, Norton Co., Kansas, by Eld. J. T. Prime, assisted by the writer bids fair to result in future accessions to the four brethren and sisters who formerly embraced the Abrahamic faith. Meeting commenced on the 19th of January and continued until the 4th of February. While there were no public confessions of faith, the people seemed anxious to hear the gospel and very attentive listeners. We trust that the good seed of the kingdom has been sown on good ground, and that it may bring forth fruit to the glory and honor of God. While some are searching for the treasure of great price, it is our earnest prayer that many may see light shining in the darkness and be brought into the fold which has one Shepherd, even Jesus the Christ.

Fraternally,

F. E. UTTER.

Dear Brethren and Sisters.

We are happy to say that the people once more of Antioch, Ill., have been permitted to enjoy a week's meetings conducted by Bro. L. E. Conner of Danville, Ill. Bro. Conner is a very able speaker and left a good impression upon all those who were present during the meeting, and we trust the seed sown may in time produce rich harvest. Much interest was manifested all through the meetings, having good weather until the last night. We regret very much we could not have had another week or two, but urgent business called him home. Nevertheless (the Lord willing) he will return again the third Saturday in March to remain over Sunday. We hope to retain him the coming year. We truly feel much strengthened by Bro. Conner's good lessons and trust we may all grow in grace and the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Should there be any traveling brothers or sisters come through this part of the country you will find a welcome.

ALICE WILLIAMS.

Our Love Feast.

Editor Restitution:

We like the paper very much, and wish many of our dear friends would read it. We have sent some of them to brothers in the flesh. I want them to see the precious truth as I do, but they have not even answered the letters we have written them about the truth. With love to all who believe the precious promises, we close, hoping soon to meet the Lord.

Your Brother and Sister.

MR. & MRS. H. ROBINSON.

Dear Restitution:

As the old year has closed, it is time for another Love Feast Greeting. We are one year nearer the kingdom, one year nearer the coming of our King. So it behooves us to work harder and live nearer to Jesus than ever before; for he who is to come, will come and bring the reward with him, to all those who are looking for him. May we each live so that we may be ready to hear the shout, the trump of God, is my prayer.

Your Sister in Christ Jesus, looking for his soon coming glory.

MRS. ANNA LEHMAN.

Dear Restitution:

I wish to say to the brothers and sisters of the one faith, that I am still clinging to the promises of God, and believe by the help of our Lord Jesus Christ, and perseverance in keeping his commandments and trying to obey his will, that I will in the end find a home in his coming kingdom, and my prayer is that the time will soon come when we will be done with the trials of this life, and enter into his glorious rest. Submitted in Christian love.

Your Sister in the one faith.

MRS. F. W. CHAPIN.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Though a little late, I write a few lines to let the dear brothers and sisters in Christ know that I am not strong physically, but I think I am strong spiritually; believing as I do that there are many deceivers to contend with, and that self is the most dangerous one of all, I try to watch every word, thought or action to see if I am strong in the faith or not. We are told by Paul in 1 Thess. v. 21, to "prove all things, hold fast to that which is good." When I get a RESTITUTION full of letters from the brothers and sisters, I think well, I will make about three good square meals of those letters, but when I commence reading it is hard to keep from taking them all at one meal, and if I do I feel no bad effects from it, like some do from eating a big meal of temporal food. I believe that large doses, at short intervals, of spiritual food will cure most any case of stomach trouble or dyspepsia, it is worth trying, I know it will do lots of good, even if it dont cure. Jude said in the 3rd verse of his epistle, "Ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered to the saints." He don't say "angrily contend for a faith," but "earnestly for the faith." We are told in Jas. ii. 17, that "faith without works is dead." Dear brothers and sisters, have we all a live faith? From what I can see and learn of the finances of the country, people have been prospered much more the last year than for several years past, consequently money is more plentiful. I wonder if the Editor of THE RESTITUTION feels the effect of our prosperity as much as the rest of the family, (we are all one in Christ Jesus) or is it still necessary for him to say (what I believe he really hates to say) "We need the money that you owe us, your subscription to the paper expired some time ago. Please send what you owe us, we need the money." "Render therefore to all their dues, owe no man anything," (even love). Rom. xiii. 7, 8. Will any of us break those plain commands in the year 1900, and have a dead faith? I hope no. When we are prospered financially, shall we build new and larger houses and barns, and repair the old ones, or spend all of our surplus for pleasure trips, or for fine clothes, carriages and fast driving horses, and let the gospel of the kingdom suffer violence, by letting the seed that the devil sows, grow undisturbed until the harvest, or as we have quite a number of brethren that have skillful dest-royers of that seed, should we not keep them all busy by assisting them thus showing by our works that we have a live faith. Paul tells us in Gal. v. 14, that all of the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." He also says in Rom. xiii. 10, that "Love is the fulfilling of the law." If we love our neighbor as ourselves, we will surely give of our means to try to save them from eternal death. I feel that I have only one talent, but I am trying to gain another, so that the one that I now have will not be taken and given to the one that has four or ten talents, and I be called a slothful servant. I fear I am making my letter too long, so will close, hoping to meet all the faithful in the kingdom of God, under the whole heavens.

Your brother in Christ.

G. W. CALDER.

Dear Restitution:

I thought I would write to the Love Feast. I hope it is not too late for the Savior says, "They that are last shall be first." Dear brothers and sisters of the one faith, it makes my heart rejoice, and I have been much edified and encouraged in reading the many letters from those scattered abroad. Many of them are strangers to me; but, since we are made nigh by the blood of Christ, recognize and rejoice. How thankful we should be to our Heavenly Father for enlightening our minds with his glorious truths so that we may see eye to eye, and speak the same thing that the world may believe that he sent his son to all that will believe on his holy name. O how we desire that all those who are near and dear to us by the ties of love and friendship and who are out of the Ark of Safety, would come in. We realize that there is no other name under heaven whereby they can be saved, but by the name of the Lord Jesus Christ; for the remission of sins. He will appear as a thief in the night, "For lo, I come and dwell in the midst of thee," saith the Lord. May we all share in the time when there will be no more sickness, sorrow, death nor pain. I ask an interest in your prayers, that I may be found worthy in that great and glorious day.

ALICE UPDIKE.

Editor Restitution:

I will send a few lines for our grand Love Feast. Dear ones, how cheering it is to us isolated ones to read the glorious testimonies from so many that are scattered abroad over this land. May we continue in his love, and not one be left out when the gathering time comes, when Christ shall come in his Beauty. Yes: the only hope I have is in the veritable and personal coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. My prayer is, come quickly.

Yours, waiting for the kingdom.

MRS. SARAH BOWMAN.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

As we start out on the threshhold of another year, we ask ourselves the question, Have we advanced in the cause of Christ, and are we better prepared to meet our Lord than we were one year ago? Let us take both a retrospective and a prospective glance at that which has concerned our lives in the past, and will concern them in the future, viz., eternal life. Eternal life or an unending existence in the kingdom of God is a blessed boon, and is not attained without a sacrifice. "No sacrifice, no reward." "But to do good and to communicate forget not, for with such sacrifices, God is well pleased." Heb. xiii. 16. Wealth, friendship or high social standing in a community, is nothing compared with the enjoyment received in being a meek and lowly follower of the humble Nazarine. Many times I have thought during the past year, how little has been accomplished for the cause of truth. How little I have done for the Master. How great is the field for usefulness, and how few are the laborers. The cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches has drowned out the love for God, and those who really love him, and who delight to serve him daily, are few indeed. Jesus said it would be so. "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." Where there are two or three families in a neighborhood of the one faith, they ought to meet together, exhort one another, pray with and for each other. This is necessary for a spiritual growth, besides it is so commanded by Paul. Brethren, let us think candidly on these things. Think how much God has done for us: what he has given us; what he has promised us if faithful, and how we ought to sacrifice more of our time, our talent, and our means to his service.

J. J. CADY.

Editor Restitution.

All the preaching that is gospel that we get is through THE RESTITUTION. I hope and pray for the time to come when all may know the Lord from the least to the greatest. I am willing to follow on, to know the Lord through evil and good report. I am willing to forsake all, to follow as he may lead me by his Word. "Godliness with contentment is great gain; for we brought nothing into this world and it is certain we can carry nothing out." Pray for me, that I fail not.

Your Sister, waiting for the King.

MARTHA HARSE.

God Does Not Forget.

"For God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labor of love, which ye have showed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints and do minister." Take heart again, dear toilers! God does not forget! Your work is before him; his eye is upon it. He knows that it has been a labor of love, showed toward his name.

All the while you were "baking and brewing" for the comfort of the dear saints of God, he was watching over and caring for you. He saw you making your house clean and beautiful for the reception of his guests. He noted the glad welcome that you gave them, the joy that you showed when listening to their converse of him. He counted the gifts that you put into their hands; the very words of cheer with which you bade them "God speed."

God does not forget. He remembers you now, and he will not forget you in the end. Through faith and patience you will inherit the promises. He has shown you by oath the immutability of his counsel. You have two immutable things—the oath and the promise—to be to you strong consolation. Do not sink into slothfulness. Do not tire of the work. "Show the same diligence to the full assurance of hope unto the end."

S. ROXANA WISER.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

A B Haupt	3.50
Mary A Patchell	5.00
Sarah L Lasho	8.25
Mrs B H Cobb	3.50
J H McClary	.50
J W & M E Good	8.00

Mileage Tickets of the Central Passenger Association are good on the Nickel Plate Road between Buffalo, Chicago or intermediate stations.—mar 16

For Our Children.

For the Children.

David was a little boy,
And keeping sheep was his employ,
And God approved him for his own,
And raised him on to Israel's throne.

Goliah was a giant great and high,
The armies of our God he did defy,
But this great giant David slew
With a single stone he threw.

Our God is good, and he is great,
His power is wondrous to relate,
He'll save his people from their sin
And to his kingdom let them in.

A Letter from one of Our "Little Ones."

Dear Restitution:

I am a little boy, nine years old. My mamma takes THE RESTITUTION and I like to read it. I read the boy's story of the "Little Boy Blue," and I read the story of the "Kingdom of God" and I like to read the story of the kingdom, and of Jesus. I think THE RESTITUTION is a good thing to read, so I read it every night. This is the first letter I ever wrote.

RUSSELL ANTHONY.

[WE are very glad to hear from our little friend, and would enjoy hearing from others. How good to think that his first effort in letter-writing was to THE RESTITUTION. We appreciate it, and pray that God will so direct his way that when older he will be a "good workman," for his Master.—ED.]

What Mary Gave.

She gave an hour of patient care to her little baby sister, who was cutting teeth.

She gave a string and a crooked pin and a great deal of good advice to the three-year-old brother who wanted to play at bathing.

She gave Ellen, the maid, a precious hour to go and visit her sick baby at home; for Ellen was a widow, and left her child to its grandmother while she worked to get bread for both. She could not have seen them very often if Mary had not offered to attend the door while she was away.

But this is not all that Mary gave. She dressed herself so neatly and looked so bright and kind, and obliging, that she gave her mother a thrill of pleasure when she caught sight of the young, pleasant face.

She wrote a letter to her father who was absent on business, and gave patient attention to a long story by her grandmother, and when it was ended made the old lady happy by a good night kiss.

Thus she had given valuable presents to six people in one day, and yet she had not a cent.

The Way to Live.

A little boy saw his father using a spirit level to see if the board he was planing was "true" and straight.

"What's the use of being so careful, papa?" he asked. "It's pretty good, I guess. It looks so."

"Guessing won't do in carpenter work!" said his father, "sighting" along the edge of the board, and shaving it the least little bit in the world. "You have to be just right. Folks guess at too many things. God does not like that way of living."

"Guess there aren't any spirit levels for living by!" laughed the little boy, watching him.

"Yes, there are!" said his father earnestly. "You find them in the Bible. Try all your actions by that. Make 'em true and straight and no guess work about 'em!"

Would Keep What He Had.

This amusing yet pathetic incident is an instance of the fact that those poor in intellect, may yet have pretty fair moral natures

There was a half-witted boy in one of the southern countries of Scotland, who was known as an "innocent" or "natural." Upon one occasion he was enticed into a public house where a company of young men were drinking. Some of them offered spirits to this supposed simpleton, whereupon he instantly and absolutely refused them, saying:—"If the Lord Almighty has few wits to Date Davie, he has at least given him sense enough to keep the little he has!"

For the Boys.

The best side of a saloon is the outside.

Never tease any one. Teasers never like to be teased.

A distinguished teacher says he can pick out a boy who uses tobacco, by his inability to draw a straight line.

Don't take the cooks' chair, put it in front of the fire, and forget to obey it to mother, or some other lady, or to some aged, or sickly or lame person.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man is Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for old and young, 30 pieces, sold formerly for 10 cents a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

The Nickel Plate Road has become a member of the Central Passenger Association Mileage Ticket Bureau, and all mileage tickets properly issued by any line, a member of that Bureau, are valid for use on that road in the same manner as on other roads, members of that Bureau.—mar 16

Fast Trains.

Via Chicago & North-Western Ry—Chicago to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Sioux City, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland. The best of everything. No change of cars. Call on any Ticket Agent for information, or address W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, Ill. A. H. Waggoner, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—mar 2

Do not keep in a fret about things that may be annoying, or worry about things you cannot help. Troubles are not lightened by fretting. The true remedy is to keep cool and try to master the difficulties, and not let them master you.

Home Seekers' Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to points in West, Northwest and Southwest, on March 6th, 1900. One fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Tickets good for ten days. See Agents.—mar 6

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1038 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothrock and E. F. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 12315 Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Weaver, Sec'y

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 a. m. for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Pen., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. V. O. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Service every Saturday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, of Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Selma, Ohio, meet every day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith pass through there, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dey St., Selma, Ohio.

The Church of God in Freedom, Neb., meet every Sunday at the Union Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Shick, Sec'y.

Gosnell, Ark. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheek's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the First School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, 1½ J. R. Fisk's residence, four miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:30 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scottsville, Ind, meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

The Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service on new Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Eskelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. m. in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Jackson Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or B. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthem, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Shellrock, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will not a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The Church at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Bowne and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Bowne Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Cheney.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trendell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elder W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meeting at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The church of God of Waterville, Douglas county, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday a 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gower, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Furey Jr., Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by Brother Geo. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church of God of Wenona, Mich., meet every four weeks by Brother L. C. Cheney. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise," "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 15 pages $1 per 100 post free or in assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, O

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, post-office, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall Co., Ind."

Publication should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, unregistered letters is at the risk of the sender. It is safest to think that you can hold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

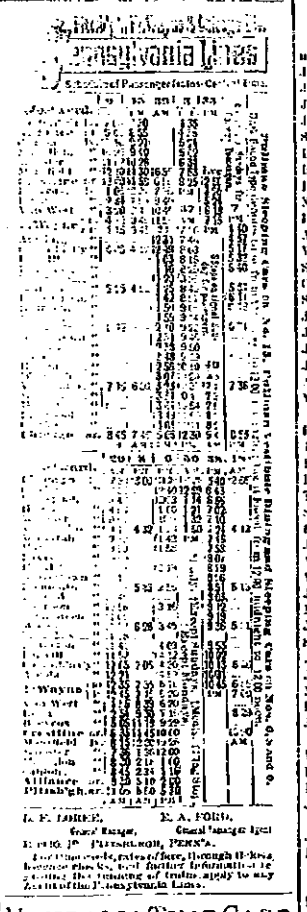
All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot in all cases pay postals for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in them.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By supplying yourself with the above you will save us much misnomer, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.



J. F. LARKE, Gen'l Pass. Agt. E. A. FORD, Gen'l Passenger Agent

PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through Buffet Parlor Cars, and further information as to routing, the traveler of India should apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend		8:31 am
No. 14, " "		12:35 pm
No. 8, " "		10:35 p m

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute		6:04 a m
No. 3, " " "		12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport,		7:30 pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth Indiana or

E. A. Ford
Gen. Pass. Agt.
St. Louis, Mo

OUR PREMIUM BIBLE OFFER.

We have made arrangements to supply our patrons with

A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS' REFERENCE BIBLE.

The text conforms exactly to the Oxford Teachers' Edition. The Self-Pronouncing Text enables the reader to pronounce all Proper Names at a glance. This Bible is printed from Beautiful and Clear New Type. All words are divided into syllables and every vowel is marked and the syllables inflected, showing the sounds and accents as they are given in a Dictionary, thus enabling the reader to properly pronounce every word. This feature is a great improvement, and a strong recommendation for this Bible over others. This Book contains all of the celebrated Oxford Teachers' Helps, together with a complete series of New Maps, illustrating the Geography of Palestine and the surrounding Countries from the earliest times, and embodying the most recent discoveries. All rendering this Bible especially desirable to Teachers and Students of the Holy Scriptures.

The Binding is Imperial Seal, Tuck Edges, known as "Divinity Circuit," Linen Lined, Round Corners, Carmine under Gold Edges.

Publishers Price - - - $3.50.

Another Edition known as the "Combination" Bible, giving the King James and Revised Versions on every page, similar to the above described book in Binding at Price.

Publishers Price - - - $5.00.

OUR GREAT COMBINATION OFFER.

Teachers' Reference Bible,	$3.50.
The "Restitution" for 1900,	1.50.
Total,	$5.00.

We will send you both Book and Paper, Postpaid for only $3.00.

Or, if you would rather have the "Combination" Bible as will send that for Twenty five Cents additional, making $3.25 for this Book and The Restitution for the year 1900.

DENISON'S PATENT CONDENSED INDEX.

Either of the above Bibles furnished with Denison's Patent Condensed Index for only Twenty-five Cents Extra.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons changing their address published may have their names re-entered here.

J. M. Pike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Elsie, Neb.
J. H. Sawyer, 617 W 11th St, Sioux City, Ia.
S. R. Hinkeldard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Raymond, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Gladstone, Mich.
Norton Gossel, 1810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Steele, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Wince, Plewston, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona
Silas Heath, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scottsville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Hedbrook, Neb.
J. T. Price Sr, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 524 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keen, 1505, S. 7, St. Tacoma, Wash.
Jesse W. Hull, Bowen, Ill.
L. J. Conner, 7 J. Fairchild st, Taylorville, Ill.
R. F. Bayer, Staunton, Augusta Co., Virginia, Va.
T. E. Adams, Vancouver, B. C.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
H. M. Quiller, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Portland, Ore.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. H. Priemer, Fitzgerald, Ga.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hoak, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Austin, Ind.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Rosales Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steele, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Kuntz, Box 44, Vida, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1507 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
John Faure, 201½ West Corning Ave, Pomona, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jenkinson, Treasurer "Treating Society" Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave, Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Mrs. Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 597 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.
H. F. Tyler, Portland, Ore.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

NICKEL PLATE

10-15-1899

All trains arrive at and depart from New Dearborn Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago. Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on these trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastbound. | Westbound.

All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily.

Stations: Chicago, Englewood, Hammond, Whiting, Gary, Miller, Valparaiso, Wanamaker, Kouts, Hanna, Wellsboro Junction, Wellsboro, Kendallville, Ligonier, Rochester, Cromwell, Bremen, Tiosa, Walkerton, Plymouth, Bourbon, Nappanee, Wakarusa, Goshen, Millersburg, Benton, Elkhart, Bristol, Wakeman, Clarence, Ft. Wayne, Leo, Waterloo, Auburn, Garrett, Butler, Waterloo, Auburn, Kendallville, Wolcottville

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MARCH 14, 1900. NUMBER 10.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

The Time is Short.

The time is short!
If thou wouldst work for God, it must be now;
If thou wouldst win the garland for thy brow,
Redeem the time.

Shake off earth's cloth?
Go forth with staff in hand while yet 'tis day;
Set out with girded loins upon the way,
Up! linger not!

Fold up thy hands!
What has the pilgrim of the cross and crown
To do with luxury or couch or down?
On, pilgrim, on!

—Horatio Bonar.

Communicated.

An Open Letter.

Miss Edith L. Chamberlin:

Your letter to Mrs. Howard is before me. You speak of the third Angel's Message that sounded in your ears, and you accepted it. Now how do you know exactly what the third Angel's Message is? I can read what he says, but how do you or I know certainly how to apply it in these days? Who is the beast and who his image? And what is his mark? Evidently you get a solution of this by studying the visions of Mrs. White. I cannot endorse her visions for any thing. I read in Rev. xxii. 18, "If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are writ ein this book." Ver. 19, "And if any man (or woman) shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life," etc. Now if Mrs. White has not added to, and taken away from the prophecy of the book of revelations I cannot understand language. I have in my possession a tract which was sent me by a Seventh Day Adventist that was published at the "Signs" office entitled "The return of the Jews." The thoughts I find in this tract evidently eminated from the Prophetess Mrs. White. She says the saints are to be taken to heaven and remain there until the end of the day of the Lord, at the close of the thousand years. This is both adding to and taking from the words of the book of Revelation. There is no proof any where except in your Prophetess' visions to teach any thing of the kind. It is entirely without foundation in Scripture. Rev. v. 10, says—"And hast made us unto our God kings and priests and we shall reign on the earth." Not in heaven.

I was once talking with a Seventh Day Adventist, and he said that the Bible said—"shall reign over the earth," I said the Bible said reign on the earth, he said no; it said "reign over the earth." Rev. v. 10. Evidently he had read and got his stubbornness from the visions.

Now my friend allow me to advise you to throw your book of "visions" into the fire, and take your Bible and follow its teachings, regardless of the contradictions of Mrs. White's visions. Show me any thing in the book of Revelations or any where else, that intimates that the earth shall be desolate for a thousand years. This is anti-gospel and so far as it goes, is anti-Christ. Get out of it my friend or it will lead you to be among the left when Matt. xxiv. 40, 41 are fulfilled. You say you believe the gospel; but what gospel? We answer, the gospel of Mrs. White. But that is not the gospel Jesus preached, nor the promise of the Angel Gabriel to Mary the mother of Jesus. "The Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David and he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever." See Lu. i. 32, 33.

You say you "cannot see from a Bible standpoint how the Jews are going to be saved as a nation, whether good or bad any more than we," for God says "He is no respecter of persons, but in every nation, he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is accepted with him." There is a salvation to eternal life: there is also a salvation from one's enemies. The Prophets all speak of the salvation of Israel from their enemies Jer. xxxi. 7 "save thy people the remnant of Israel." See also 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 verses, read the whole chapter. Tell me, will this be accomplished upon your spiritual Israel. Will they come blind and lame, etc. Will "spiritual Israel come with weeping and with supplication?" Evidently Israel will come in a straight way (evidently a rail road.) 10 v. "He that scattered Israel will gather him and keep him as a shepherd doth his flock." This is a salvation of Israel from their enemies. I might quote hundreds of promises that Israel shall be brought back from their dispersion. Notwithstanding Mrs. White makes all these promises culminate in spiritual Israel. She may well be considered the image of the beast for she has no use for many of the promises of Scripture for she can make Scripture to suit herself. See also what is said of Thyatira Rev. ii. 18, 20. "I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess to teach and seduce my servants." See Rev. iii. 9 "Behold I will make them of the synagogue of Satan, say they are Jews, (spiritual Israel.) and are not, but do lie: behold I will make them to come and worship before thy feet and to know that I have loved thee."

See also Isa. ix. 6, 7, read, Here the same promise is given that the angel gave to Mary. Notice the promised One shall occupy the throne of David as the Angel promised to Mary. Now turn to Acts xv. 15, 16, 17. Here James refers to the writings of the Prophets. He says—"After this (that is, after the taking out time) I will return and build again the tabernacle of David that is fallen down, etc." Who will build again the tabernacle or throne of David? Ans. Christ, according to the promise of the Angel to Mary. Here is plain proof in abundance that Christ will re-establish the throne of David and occupy it as David did on Mount Zion in Jerusalem. See also Ezek. xxxiv. 11 to end of chapter. But why should I quote by chapter and verses. The Bible is teeming with promises of the salvation of Israel. See also Ezek. xxxvii, the vision of dry bones. The main body of Israel are infidel in sentiment. They have looked so long for the fulfilment of the promises of Moses and the Prophets that God would raise them up a Messiah to restore the kingdom of Israel, and he has not done it. Therefore Moses and the Prophets are impostors. But there is a great noise now about Zionism and the return of Israel to their land. God is causing the nations where they dwell to drive them out, and they are returning as fast as they can. There are several prosperous colonies there now. I visited one while I was there. The Jews will go back infidel as they are now and will not be converted to Christ until they shall see him and realize that this is he whom their fathers crucified, "and they shall mourn (Zech. xii. 10) for him as one mourneth for his only son." See Zech. i. 6, In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness. This is where and when the Jews will be converted.

They will then say: Only to think; we cursed Moses and the Prophets because God did not raise us up a Messiah according to promise, to restore the kingdom to Israel. But he did raise up the promised Messiah and we killed him and then we cursed those Prophets because God did not raise up another for us. See also Isa. ix. 6, 7, also Jer. xxiii 3 to 8.

You have much to say about keeping the law, and ask what law? And answer, James says it is the ten commandment-law. Pardon me, James says no such thing. He says—to kill is a transgression of the law. If Sabbath keeping is of such great importance, why did he not say—polluting the Sabbath is a transgression of the law instead of killing? I see very plainly that you have been inducted into Mrs. White's visions by misrepresentations. In regard to keeping the law, Paul says—Rom. vi. 14, "For sin shall not have dominion you: for ye are not under the law but under grace."

Gal. v. 18, "But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law." Rom. iii. 28, 30. "Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law." 3 v. "Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith and the circumcision through faith." Rom. iii. 20. "Therefore by the deeds of the law, there shall no flesh be justified in his sight." Gal. ii. 21. "I do not frustrate the grace of God; for if righteousness come by the law then Christ is dead in vain." Read Gal. iii. These Scriptures prove clearly that we are not under the law. Paul says, Gal. iii. 24. "The law was our school master to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith." ii. 5. "But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a school master."

I have no objection to keeping Sabbath or Sunday if one esteemeth his duty to do so: for Paul says, Rom. xiv. 5, in regard to esteeming one day above another. "Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind." Here Paul gives full privilege to regard one day above another and also to so regard no day. And also, Acts xx. 20, how "I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you." 27 v. "For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God." If it had been in the counsel of God or profitable for the Ephesians to keep the Sabbath, Paul would have told them so; but as he did not so tell them we conclude that it was not profitable for them. To say it is profitable is to charge Paul with falsehood.

Christ said Matt. v. 17, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the Prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." Christ did fulfill every jot and tittle of the law. Then when he was on the cross he said —"IT IS FINISHED." What was finished? It is said, "His work was finished," but this cannot be, for he was with his disciples forty days after his resurrection and speaking of the things concerning the kingdom of God. Evidently he designed to teach that the law was finished. We now come under the New Covenant dispensation. See Matt. xxvi. 28; Mark xiv. 24; Lu. xxii. 20. Covenant and testament are both translated from diathike in the Greek. See Dio.

Yours for the Truth,

D. HOWARD.

The X Ray Papers. No. 5.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light."

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, in our last interview, we were investigating the rich man and the beggar. If we admit as you claim that, that is a parable, might it not represent the actual condition of the righteous and wicked after death?

Mack. I think not friend B., in parables the thing said is not the thing meant. The parables interpreted by Jesus illustrate the truth of this. In the parable of the wheat and tares, when he said, wheat he meant the righteous, when he said tares he meant the wicked, when he said field he meant the world, when he said reapers, he meant angels; and so with the other parables, the thing said is not the thing meant. Inanimate things are often personified, as we will find by reference to some of the Old Testament Scriptures, as well as the New. You will find some notable instances of this manner of illustrating truths by referring to Judges ix. 7-15; 2 Kings xiv. 9; Isa. xiv. 5 20; and Ezek. xxxi. 15-18 and xxxii. 17-32. These texts will show the use of parables to illustrate certain truths. Friend B., we should never take any Scripture of doubtful interpretation as a foundation for our faith. Dr. Adam Clark, (whom I think you will accept as good authority) in his notes on Matt. v. 26 says, "Let it be remembered that by the consent of all (except the basely interested) no metaphor is ever to be produced in proof of a doctrine. In the things that concern our eternal salvation, we need the most pointed and express evidence on which to establish the faith of our souls. But to return to our text, let us view this as a literal statement of facts, and see where it will lead to. As a literal statement, all the narrative must be taken literally. Then the wicked in their place of torment are in plain view and hearing of the saved in heaven, for it is claimed that the righteous go to heaven at death, and if that be true, Abraham and Lazarus must have been there. But, friend B, I will have to take exceptions to that theory, for some eighteen hundred years after the death of Abraham Christ said, "No man hath ascended up into heaven." John iii. 13. That includes Abraham and from that plain positive statement of Christ, I conclude that to find Abraham we will have to go to the cave of Machpelah, his burial place. "The beggar died and was carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom, and the rich man died and was buried." Notice friend B, not a word said about the beggar being buried, but he was carried bodily, rags, sores and all, to the cave of Machpelah and laid in Abraham's bosom, if this is statement of literal facts, for there is where Abraham was.

Rev. B. Oh my dear sir, that does not mean he went bodily to Abraham's bosom, but that his soul was taken to that blissful abode, accorded to Abraham and all the righteous.

Mack. But friend B, we are considering this as a literal statement and we cannot accept any figurative language. The rich man also died and was buried. Notice friend B, the persons themselves as a whole are spoken of, and none of their essential elements. Not a word is said of the souls of either the rich man or the beggar. It was that which died in one instance, that was carried to Abraham's bosom, and it was that which died and was buried, that lifted up his eyes, being in torment, and saw Abraham afar off; it was that which died and was buried, that was clothed in purple and fine linen. Fine linen was a sign of righteousness. They fared sumptuously every day, because of God's bounty extended to them.

We read in Rom. iii. 3-5, where Paul says, "I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen, according to the flesh, who are Israelites, to whom pertained the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises, whose are the fathers, and of whom as concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is over all, God blessed forever. Amen." And in Rom. iii. 1-2, we read, "What advantage then hath the Jew, or what profit is there of circumcision?" Much every way, chiefly because, that unto them were committed the oracles of God. Thus they fared sumptuously every day, but their tables spread so bountifully with the favors of God, proved a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling block unto them. Rom. xi. 9.

The rich man died, the Jews as a nation, on account of their sins, were cut off from all special favors of God, their city was destroyed, and their nation was scattered through all the nations of the earth, and they entered into that condition represented in the parable by the flames of torment, which have been burning against them ever since. They have been reviled and persecuted by all nations from that day to the present time. The beggar, I think, represented the Gentiles, who were considered by the Jews as only fit company for dogs, "The dogs came and licked his sores." The beggar died and was carried to Abraham's bosom." The Gentiles changed condition in reference to God's favor. After the Jews were cast off, the gospel was sent to the Gentiles, and they were received into his favor, and by faith could become the children of Abraham, and thus were figuratively carried to Abraham's bosom. I think, friend B, that in the light of subsequent events, that this would be a reasonable interpretation of the parable.

J. H. MCCLARY.

(To be continued.)

Profession.

When a man believes and obeys the gospel he professes himself a Christian before the world and the world recognizes the fact of his profession. It is not necessary that he should announce this by word of mouth in trumpet tones. To do so would lessen his chances of being regarded a real one. The constant effort that some people put forth to persuade the world that they are wholly sanctified only rouses the world's suspicion that there are hypocrites cloaked under this profession.

Every professor is obliged to face the fact that "a tree is known by its fruit." Luke xii. 33. There is no possibility of setting aside this rule; yet many who wear the Christian name are practically ignoring it. Men wish to be thought Christians when their whole course of life gives the lie to their claims.

When the great Teacher entered on his mission he encountered just such characters. The severe and solemn rebukes he administered should serve as an awful warning to all who seek to palm off a spurious profession for the genuine. Christ's language was aimed directly at false teachers. "Beware," he says, "of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves." Matt. vii. 15. These teachers or prophets made a loud profession, but failed to do the will of God. They had prophesied in the name of the Lord, cast out devils and done many wonderful works; yet, notwithstanding all this the Judge professes that he never knew them; and this on the ground they had been workers of iniquity. Their conduct had been such as to bar them out of the kingdom of God (v. 21) and from entering into life. What is left for these pretenders? But one thing remains—death, destruction. Rom. vi. 21; Phil. iii. 19. Having sowed to the flesh they reap corruption. Gal. vi. 7, 8. Many will be barred out of the kingdom. Many go along the broad way and through the wide gate.

Many in our day might see their prototype in the scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites and blind guides so soundly and deservedly denounced by the Savior. Only good works will pass current in the day of reckoning. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." Matt. vii. 21. The will of the Father is found in the Scriptures. The Christian's duties in his relationship to fellow Christians to his neighbors, to his Savior and to his God are laid down here in plain terms. No amount of what is usually called piety and religious fervor can be substituted for strict obedience to God's commands. Piety is godliness or godlikeness and this means that our characters have been fashioned after the divine pattern as reflected in the face or person of God's Son. Says Paul: "We all, beholding the glory of the Lord in a face unveiled are transformed into the same likeness, from glory to glory, as from the Lord, the spirit." 2 Cor. ii. 18. Disglott. Such a character is only unfolded by doing what God would have us do and being what he would have us be. It is not alone in outward conformity to precept. The emotions, the affections of the heart must raise our obedience above a cold legalism. We must contemplate the loving Christ as set before us by his evangelists. His humility, gentleness, tenderness, forbearance, mercy, forgiving disposition, and unselfishness, must be ours to the extent of our ability to imitate a divine model. We must grow into his likeness day by day. There must be a striving after higher attainments. No hypocrite does this. He would cease to be a hypocrite if he did. His religion is summed up in the phrase, The art of deception; and yet his game is so poorly played that he is known by his fruits. The ravenous character or nature of the wolf crops out through his sheep's clothing. What the world expects and demands is that he who professes to be a Christian ought to be Christian and not asham. When Jesus said, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven," he emphasized the truth that a truly godly life would win souls into the way of righteousness. The believer realizing this fact will endeavor to so deport himself that his influence for good shall have the widest possible range. He lives for others as well as for himself. The conscientious and earnest Christian is grieved, if by a sudden lurch of passion he is betrayed into doing or saying some little thing that might by the world be construed into wrong. He does not want to be reflected in a bad light, but is anxious that every thing shall tell in his favor and for the good of the cause so dear to him. If he suffers it must be for righteousness' sake and not for evil doing. Those who govern themselves will be exalted to rulership over the nations.

JOHN L. WINCH.

Oregon Bible College
Chico, California

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

"We'll drive the battle on," but our weapons are not carnal. Love is to be the propelling power all the way through. Any other spirit than love will drive the battle back instead of on. Love never faileth.—The Firebrand.

"Love not in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth," is a good rule; and the same principle will equally apply to every other duty.

As plants grow fastest by night, so men make their most rapid growth in knowledge and in faith when times are dark and troubled.

"Hope is life. Doubt is death. In the most literal and absolute sense this is true; and it is the truth of truths."

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAR. 14, 1900

READER, you might as well take consuming fire into your bosom, and expect not to be destroyed by it, as to approach God OUT OF CHRIST.

THE simplicity of the gospel is one of its glories. If there is but one hewn stone,—if there be but a single tool lifted up upon it, it is polluted.

GOD chides because he desires the affection of his child, because he loves, because it is not for his pleasure, but for our profit, so that we may partake of his holiness.

THE World's Crisis of Boston, Mass., has changed its name, and is now "The Advent Christian Messenger." It was first established as the Crisis in 1851, and to many of the old friends of this journal the change will be rather sudden, but the managers believe it will be for the best, and the appearance of the paper is certainly improved.

JOHN ALEXANDER DOWIE has a $75,000 libel suit on his hands. It appears that the wife of Edward A. Flanders, a follower of Dowie died, and he not being a believer denounced the system that would not admit a physician in case of sickness. Dowie printed in his paper some statements about Mr. Flanders, and the libel suit is the result.

"DAILY examination is an antidote against the temptations of the next day; and constant examination of ourselves after duty is a preservative against vain encroachments in following duties; and upon finding them out, let us apply to the God of all grace for forgiveness, and strength to conquer them through Jesus' name, and let us be humble. God lift up the humble; when we are humbled for fleshly frames of mind in one direction, we shall find ourselves by the favor of God more elevated in another."

CHAMPNEYS says a slave once carried a message written in punctures on the skin of his head which had been previously shaved bare to receive the writing. When the hair was grown so as to hide the letter, he went unsuspected; and the person to whom the message was sent, having shaved the letter carrier's head, read the message. The slave in old times often carried in his body the marks of his master, just as the sailor in our own times loves to have printed on his arm the initials of his own name and ship, the figure of the crucified One or the anchor or cable. Paul carried in his body the marks of the master to whom he belonged. The wounds made by the Roman lictor's rods, with which he was thrice beaten; the red lines of those two hundred stripes which had been laid on him in the Jewish synagogues; the scars left by the stones which had bruised and beaten him down, and left him for dead; these marks of the Lord Jesus he carried with him, the proofs as to whose he was, and whom he served."

THE last general convention of a certain denomination, thinking their creed too indefinite, put an interpretation on it, which raises considerable opposition. One writer in the west hits it off in this fashion:—"The question is, what does the interpretation mean? Wherein does it differ from the text of the confession, or agree with it? All admit the interpretation needs interpreting more than the confession, which has stood sixty-four years, and did all the good that was expected of it, and less harm than was feared at the time of its adoption .....I am glad to learn that with few exceptions the western brethren have but one opinion of the declaration; that for "interpretation" it is no meaning; for a test it is impotent, but for mischief it is full of all manner of subtlety. As such it will be disregarded, or be treated with silent contempt."

And so it goes. Yet creed advocates perpetually assume that human creeds are necessary to explain the Bible, and furnish a definite basis of union.

"The Light of the World."

With his disciples around him, on a mountain our Lord opened his mouth and taught them; the multitude, however, seem to have been within hearing distance. On reading [illegible] is wonderful sermon from the mountain pulpit we were struck with the words which were applicable only to disciples:—"Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid." Reared on an island with rocky coasts we were familiar with the light houses here and there on the lofty headlands to warn mariners of breakers near by. This set us to musing. We bethought us that the keepers had something to do besides lighting the great lantern as evening came on. He has to keep the great, thick, over-lapping panes of glass clear and bright, and this on frosty nights is a difficult task. And on sultry evenings, the powerful light from fifteen argand lamps attracts swarms of moths, which obscure the light. Sometimes numbers of birds will dash against the glass and kill themselves by the force of the blow, and are found dead upon the rocks below in the morning. So that the matter must ever be because, far out on the ocean, for twenty miles or more, these "stars" of light are seen, and hundreds of sleepless eyes are turned toward them, all through the long night watches. They tell the sailors that this way the danger lies,—that yonder is the only safe path to their desired haven.

ON THE WATCH,—

Such a light house should every believer be; "like a city set upon a hill, which cannot be hid." His lamp must be lighted and fed with pure beaten oil; and besides this his daily example should be as spotless as the pones of the light house lamp. Oh, how little it takes to dim the brightness! A careless word, a jest about some sacred subject, a single visit to the theatre or circus or any place of giddy or sinful amusement, a single act of deception,—these may all seem but trifles at the moment, yet their influences may be as baleful as if the light on the headland should go out when the waves were lashed by the tempest.

We lately read of a young girl who went to enquire earnestly the way to life, of one whose special duty it was to instruct her. And after earnest and what appeared to have been a profitable conversation and prayer she prepared to go home. She was urged to stay all night by the family, including her spiritual guide. She declined, however, and when supposed to be quite out of hearing she heard the latter say he was exceedingly glad she did not stay as he had merely asked her out of politeness. The girl hastened home, too much shocked, and too indignant to communicate her feelings even to her mother. The specimen of religion she had witnessed was so far below her ideal that she became doubtful, then utterly indifferent, and in that condition at her door, leaving her time only to tell the sad tale, that she had suffered herself to look at the dim panes of the light house instead of the Sun of Righteousness; and so her own day set in utter darkness. To say one thing, and to mean another, is deception—a practical lie, and eternity only may chronicle its result. Would to God that we all, who are entrusted with the light of life could realize as we should the tremendouus responsibilities we have assumed.

DEATH SOON KNOCKED

News Notes.

A special to the London Standard from Odessa says: "Among the officers of the volunteer fleet of cruisers which recently returned from the far East there is a strong belief that enormous garrisons are being formed at Port Arthur, Dalni, and Vladivostok shortly to be utilized as a coercive lever for compelling the Japanese to a modification their pretensions to acquisitions in Corea.

The commander of one of the cruisers expresses a conviction that before or by the end of the current year Russian influence in the far eastern peninsula will have become so absolutely dominant that the Japanese will feel themselves morally constrained to give up the struggle and retire from many important enterprises which they now are prosecuting in Corea, and will open the way to a gradual assumption of a Russian protectorate."

Paul Deschanel, President of the French Chambers, made a speech at a banquet in which he boasted of the superiority of the French guns, claiming they were the best in Europe, and denounced certain German acts, declaring that France was in the disposition to fight Germany and England combined. The situation may be materially changed when it is known that President Loubet is to personally preside at the next war council to be held soon in France. This is the first time the French President has taken part in these deliberations.

The recent discovery of Russian and Polish Nihilist plots has led to renewed police precautions. On all the Russian frontiers the police are exercising extreme vigilance and are guarding the Czar's movements. The entire routes of the Czar's visits to barracks, theaters, and public functions are doubly patrolled by secret police, while the guards about the Winter Palace and along the Neva quay are particularly numerous.

The Paris Journal prints an interview with Sir Henry M. Stanley, in which he expresses an opinion the war in South Africa will end about July 1.

"France is in the wrong," he said, "in regarding this war as unjust. She does not know the true facts of the case. The Transvaal, as was seen long ago from her preparations, was determined to fight. President Kruger wished to imitate George Washington, but he has not the necessary faculties for sustaining the role.

Regarding Anglo-French relations and the rumors of possible war between the two powers, Sir Henry said:

"France for many reasons is an indispensable element in Europe. Her force acts as a counterpoise to other forces. British public opinion would not follow a politician who premeditated a war against France, and unless England were attacked only a conflict would be well nigh impossible.'

Answering a question in the House of Commons today the Parliamentary Secretary for the Foreign office, Mr. Broderick, promised that papers would shortly be presented to the House dealing with the subject of Great Britain co-operating with the United States in endeavoring to arrive at an agreement with the powers to secure equal opportunities for the trade of all nations throughout the whole of China.

Lord Roberts and his army are advancing their lines and are in the vicinity of the Free State Capital. The Boers are doing all they can to hinder their movements, but do not make any very decided stand, running away before coming to close quarters. Apparently they are playing for time, as Presidents Kruger and Steyn have sent a message to Salisbury asking terms for peace, but stipulating that the independence of the two states be assured. The English are not disposed to leave the case so, and will not likely stop till the dependence of these states is assured. England does not want to leave the Boers in a position to repeat this war at some future day.

A dispatch to the London Chronicle of Mar. 12, says, A ukase by the Czar orders rapid mobilization of the Russian army and navy reserves. This movement appears to have for its objective India and North Asia Minor. The sailors of Russian merchant ships in the Black Sea have been called up for reserve. The Russian cruiser Schermomoretz stationed at Constantinople, has received orders to hold itself in readiness for immediate service.

"The Gospel."

The gospel is good news of a glorious time yet to obtain on the earth, when its whole population shall be made happy under one universal government, all powerful, firm and just, having for its supreme ruler the Lord Jesus Christ in person.

The gospel call is to an association with him in this government,—to be a member of that exalted community having him for its head; to be blessers of all nations, ruling them with a strong hand, feeding them with knowledge and understanding, to the bringing out of the best qualities of men's nature, resulting in universal peace, happiness and contentment. In the Scriptures there are many allusions to the grand feature of the earth which we will quote for fear all our readers may not turn to the references:

"And the Lord said, shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do, seeing that Abraham shall surely become great and a mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him." Gen. xviii. 17, 18.

Again, "And in thy Seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Gen. xxii. 18. Notice Paul's comment on this:—"Now to Abraham and his Seed were his promises made; he saith not and to the seeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy Seed, which is Christ." Gal. iii. 16.

"But as truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord." Num. xiv. 21.

"Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of Hosts, the whole earth is full of his glory." Isa. vi. 3. That this refers to the Lord Jesus in his glorious reign on the earth see the following:—

"These things saith Esaias, when he saw his glory and spake of him." John xii. 41.

"All the ends of the world shall remember and turn unto the Lord, and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before thee; for the kingdom is the Lord's; and he is governor among the nations." Psa. xxii. 27, 28.

"All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord, and shall glorify thy name." Psa. lxxxvi. 9.

"And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Isa. ii. 4.

"The Lord will cause righteousness and peace to spring forth before all the nations." Isa. lxi. 11.

"From the rising of the sun even to the going down of the same, my name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place shall incense be offered unto my name, and a pure offering; for my name shall be great among the heathen, saith the Lord of Hosts." Mal. i. 11.

The New Testament also, contrary to the popular idea, has many allusions to the same, although mostly connected with the aspect of the kingdom,—we quote only one or two passages:—

"Because he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead." Acts xvii. 31.

"God.....hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son whom he hath appointed heir of all things." Heb. i. 2.

"For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak." Heb. ii. 5.

"Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet, for in that he put all things in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now, we see not yet, all things put under him." Heb. ii. 8.

"And the seventh angel sounded, and there were great voices in heaven, saying, 'The kingdoms of the world are become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever." Rev. xi. 15.

The gospel, then, is a political theme, and speaks of the joy and gladness of the population of the whole earth under this exalted rule. To what a state of intellectual height and moral excellence shall the nations attain. To every rightly constituted mind it is a pleasure to contemplate such a state of things. A state in which pure justice impartially, holds the reins. A state in which man's true nobility will be openly manifested; not so much in his form, nor his station, clothing, or wealth, as in his moral and intellectual nature,—towering high above all fleshly instincts,—re-instated in the image of God.

It is good news of the redemption of man from this present state in which sin and death reign. Promises made by God to Abraham are stated by Paul to be the gospel. Gal. iii. 8.

The important matter for us is, how can we become related to the gospel blessings of that happy period?

Paul sets it before us under the aspect of God making a will. A will is a promise. In the Scriptures it is called a covenant, but not in the sense in which that term is commonly received—that of an agreement between parties to whom the words of the covenant is made known,—submitting to them. The promise of God is to bless all nations in or through Abrahnm, Isaac, Jacob, and their Seed, the Christ, who is to be King over all the earth.

Seeing that these four are surely mentioned in the will, the question arises; how can others not named therein, become heirs? And it is evident there must be such, for Paul speaks of the saints being "heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ." Rom. viii. 17. It is by a provision God has instituted, and illustrated by the nation of Israel,—the whole nation being inducted into Moses, the mediator of the Sinaitic covenant, the words of which Israel had heard and promised to obey.

Moses was a type of Christ. Christ is declared to be the prophet like unto Moses. He is the Mediator of the better covenant, of which the Mosaic was but a pattern. To be introduced into him is to be constituted an heir of the covenant or promise which he confirmed with his blood. And as that covenant relates to an everlasting state—a state on the other side of death—to be an heir of it is to be an heir of eternal life. He is the resurrection and the life; and he has said to those in him: "Because I live, ye shall live also." Such are heirs in or through him. Believing the words of his testimony,—the good news of the day of his glory; with the understanding of his death, they require to do what Paul said of the Galatians,—"As many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ; and if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed and heirs according to the promise."

The process which ends with a perfect believer in Christ, begins with God, as Jesus said. "All that come unto me are taught of the Father,—the Father has been teaching from the beginning. The Apostle James speaking of himself and those of like precious faith says: "The Father of Lights begat us by the Word of truth." And Paul says "faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." Thus men are begotten of God as his children in Christ Jesus. And this family of God, consisting of a very great number, are spoken of as one. Jesus says, "that they all may be one, as thou Father in me, and in thee, that they also may be one in us."

Such is the One Seed to whom the promise has been made. The promise is conditional to all except the four mentioned in the will.

We must submit to the conditions if we desire inheritance therein. And those who are compassing sea and land, so to speak, to teach that others besides those who believe what is promised, will inherit what is promised, and that there are other ways of getting into Christ besides being baptized into him, must be in a God dishonoring, and soul destroying business. The Book of God reveals no such gospel,—and for mortal men to be frittering away time and talent and energy to suggest the like to others is we think most presumptuous, —and altogether cruel to their credulous listeners or readers. This is catering to the flesh, and is sure to be believed by some, and it is our conviction that its natural effect is to discredit God's published law of pardon and reconciliation, and that an awful surprise is in store for those who do it. We would remind all such that Jesus' words will judge them. Not for a moment would we question that its God's prerogative to pardon whom he will, and on what condition he please. But we stoutly maintain that the only conditions WE CAN OFFER, are those in the great commission.

OBITUARY.

Died at Woods, Tillamook County, Oregon, on Feb. 17, 1900, Ora Brooks Lawrence, aged twenty-four years and three months.

Our sister was baptized when she was seventeen years old, at one of our Conference meetings at Scholls, by our loved brother Geo. W. Young, of Seattle. Words of comfort were read at the funeral from 1 Cor. xv. The funeral sermon was based on Job xiv. 14. Those who were acquainted with our departed sister will sorrow that one with so many lovable qualities of mind, and with an influence for good in her sphere of life should have lived so briefly.

It is natural and right that we should mourn for our loved ones from whom we are parted by death, as we realize that nothing we can now do can restore them to life; that our opportunities for making them happy are gone forever. But in our grief let us not forget or neglect our duty to those who are yet living. It is our duty to learn the lessons of the past, and to press courageously onward along the pathway of life, freely giving to other sorrowing ones of whom there are many around us, the sympathy that we have so appreciated in our hours of grief.

To the friends, and especially the bereaved companion, heartiest sympathy is extended. During the darkest hours that may come upon any of us the government of heaven still stands and God still continues to reign. As sure as this is true, so sure it is that those who patiently and faithfully perform the duties of life nearest to them each day in accordance with the will of our Father, will receive the gift of eternal life, and with opportunities for happiness that will make up for the bitterest sorrow of this present life.

W. W. JAQUITH.

Elvira Webster was born in the State of New York, Jan. 29, 1809. Was married to James Reeve, Feb. 14, 1829. There was born to them 11 children, eight sons and three daughters. Of whom six survive her, one son, Gaylord Wallace, now living in Kenwood, N. Y., one in South Elliot, Maine, (Samuel Haukins), one, Asaph C., in Holdridge, Nebraska, and two, Nathaniel Willis and William Webster, in Rensselaer, Ind., also one daughter, Mrs. Evaline Talbot, living in Syracuse, Nebraska. She furnished three sons to serve their country in the civil war, the younger of whom died in the service.

About the year 1870, she became obedient to the gospel call to the inheritance of God's kingdom, and the life eternal, uniting with the Church of God at Rensselaer. She never wavered in faith, or devoted service, always abounding in the fullness of hope. She always manifested that kindness of spirit and patience in trial to a degree seldom attained, even by the most earnest followers of the meek and lowly One. She quietly, peacefully and in the most gentle manner passed into the sleep of death on the 3rd of March, 1900, after an illness of four days with pneumonia, at the age of 91 years, 1 month and 4 days. Much lamented not alone by family and relatives, but by all acquaintances, she now sleeps awaiting the summons to a "part in the first resurrection, on whom the second death will have no power."

Funeral services were conducted from the Church of God at Rensselaer, March 5, 1900 by the writer.

A. H. ZOLMER.

Report of Work.

Dear Restitution:

Thinking it will interest the brothers and sisters to learn of work done in Christ's name we will try and tell something of the work done here, in Ellensburg, Wash., during the past month. Bro. W. G. Skeels came to us Jan. 25. Bro. H. W. Patterson and Sister Philips from Wenatchee, and Bro. Platt Corbaley from Waterville, came to help carry on the meetings. As there was no Church of God at this place we secured the Congregational Church for the meetings, and Bro. Skeels preached his first sermon on Jan. 27. He continued to proclaim the gospel to the people for four weeks, preaching thirty-two discourses in all. There were twelve who responded to the call to ally themselves with God's people. Five of them were obedient in baptism.

A church was organized Feb. 11, with a membership of nine, which was increased to eighteen before the meetings closed. Bro. McNeely was elected elder and Sisters Cox and Patterson deaconesses. The first few nights there was only a small number attended but the brethren worked on resting confidently in the promise that God's Word will not return unto him void. Later the attendance increased and a deep interest was manifested throughout the meetings.

Bro. Skeels is a man who is earnest and zealous in the Master's work. He delivers the Word very impressively, yet he does it in all kindness and in a spirit of Christian love. He is indeed one of God's faithful watchmen, proclaiming God's message in all of its purity. He brought the light to many minds here and left a great many warm friends, who are anxious that he should return some time in the near future.

There are several of those who attended the meetings who strongly believe in the one faith, yet did not respond to the call. We trust they will unite with us before very long. The meetings closed Sunday night, Feb. 25, and Bro. Skeels left us Monday morning for Waterville, where he expects to hold a short series of meetings.

This church is without a minister, and the brothers and sisters are very desirous of having a minister come who could make his home here. If at any time a brother with proper recommendation should be passing through Ellensburg, we would be pleased to have him stop and speak to us and thus help along with the work.

Yours in the blessed hope,
MYRTLE PATTERSON.

If you are a wise man you treat the world very much as the moon treats it—show it only one side of yourself, seldom show too much of yourself at a time, and be calm, cool and polished; but look at every side of the world.

"Hope is life. Doubt is death. In the most literal and absolute sense this is true; and it is the truth of truths."

The Nickel Plate Road will run a Homeseekers' Excursion to points in the west, northwest and southwest on April 3rd, 1900. Tickets available on above date good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—apr 3

Poetry.

The House By the Side of the Road.

"He was a friend to man, and he lived in a house by the side of the road."—Homer.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self-content;
There are souls like stars, that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by;
The men who are good and men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road
By the side of the busy way of life,
The men who press with the zest of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife;
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

—Sam Walter Foss.

Communicated.

What Would a Government be Run as Jesus Would Run it?

Charles Sheldon is to run The Topeka Capital for one week, as Jesus would do it.

Would it not be grand if some human government were run as Jesus would run it? Let us see what it would be like.

The very first announcement by the angel of Jesus is, "He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto them the throne of his father David. And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end."

The Prophets tell of this time in the most thrilling and beautiful language, even sublime. "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulders: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it and establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth, even forever. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will perform this." Isa. ix. 6, 7.

Imagine a human government run even for one week with justice, justice in every court; even in all business transactions, equity and justice stamped everywhere, and peace reigning throughout.

The Psalms glow with the government of Jesus, yes, abound with "how Jesus will do it." "Give the King thy judgments, O God, and thy righteousness unto the King's Son. He shall judge thy people with righteousness, and thy poor with judgment. * * * He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy, and shall break in pieces the oppressor. * * * He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth."

What blessings and how widely extended. "Yea, all kings shall fall down before him; all nations shall serve him. He shall spare the needy, and shall save the souls of the needy. Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things. And blessed be his glorious name for ever, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory." Psa. lxxii. "The Lord shall be King over all the earth." Zech. xiv. 9.

Listen to the Prophet describing the reign of Jesus. "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. It shall blossom abundantly, and rejoice even with joy and singing, the glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it, the excellency of Carmel and Sharon, they shall see the glory of the Lord and the excellency of our God. * * * Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing. For in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert, and the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water: in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes. * * * And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads. They shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." Isa. xxxv.

Listen to another beautiful description by the same Prophet, "It shall come to pass in the last days that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountain, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it. And many people shall go and say, Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob, and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

No human government has, or can do this, notwithstanding The Hague Peace Conference. Recently in the House of Commons, Mr. George J. Goschen, the first lord of the admiralty, dealing with the construction of fresh ironclads, said:—"The Hague convention already seems a thing of the past. When the peace conference was called, he suggested that possibly the beginning of further building of battleships might be suspended with the view of ascertaining the sentiments of the conference. Great Britain alone, he added, suggested a reduction of armaments, but nothing was done and in the six months since the convention more extensive programs, stretching forward eight, sixteen and eighteen years, had been put forward, than ever before had entered the minds of the powers. Great Britain proposed to spend in 1900 1901, £8,460,000, Russia, £4,300,000, and France, £4,154,000; the two latter together spending £8,454,000, or £6,000 less than Great Britain."

Nothing in all this to suggest a government as Jesus would run it. "Prince of peace." Peace from sea to sea, from the river unto the ends of the earth. Peace, equity and justice, has earth ever had a ruler like this? It certainly will have, when he who is now fulfilling the office of High Priest in the Holy of holies; when he comes with the breast plate of judgment. Yes, the moon will be confounded and the sun ashamed, "When the Lord of Hosts shall reign in Mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously." Isa. xxiv. 23. Glorious because the curse will be rolled back. "The desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay desolate in the sight of all that passed by. And they shall say, this land that was desolate is become like the garden of Eden. * * * Then the heathen that are left round about you shall know that I the Lord builded the ruined places, and planted that that was desolate: I the Lord have spoken it, I will do it."

Glorious because the "Nations of the earth shall learn war no more." Glorious because the "Kings of the earth do bring their glory and honor into this beautiful city." Rev. xxi. 24.

This is only a few of the many and wonderful things said of how Jesus would do it.

NANCY BARBER.

The Teaching of the Twelve Apostles.

We teach that there are only a few things to know whereby a man or a woman may become a Christian, legally acceptable to God, or a justified person, or a pardoned sinner; and the making these few things known to the sinner we call in one word "going through the testimony." Our first duty is to herald the gospel or good news that God is ready to pardon or remit the sins of the whole world or the entire animate creation involved in the primal sin of Adam its lord, both individually and collectively; our second duty is to point to the way of escape or the way of life, to show the sinner that he or she is now under condemnation and on the way to execution and death. Therefore we account all unrepentant sinners dead and speak of them as dead in trespasses and sins though really alive in the flesh. And we teach that though God's mercy endureth forever, now is the accepted time and now the day of salvation. For we do not know "the times and the seasons" of God's mercy in each case, nor do we know even what the morrow may bring forth; moreover we are instructed to shake off the dust from our feet for testimony against the place or individual after "going through the testimony" to them, if still unrepentant and go on to the next with the same message and to be looking for the return of our Lord Jesous before we have reached all the cities of Israel.

We teach that there is a vast difference between forming a good purpose and maintaining it unto the end, that is the end of one's natural life—between getting grace in one's heart and mind, and growing in grace—"Therefore let the past time of your lives suffice doing the will of the flesh," and be renewed with the renewing of your mind, putting off the old man which is dead because of sin and putting on the new man which is alive because of righteousness and remembering that your new man is no longer a soul-man in Adam, but a spirit man in Christ Jeesous or a new creation, not completed but begun with your begetting from above as your soul-life was begun with a begetting from below, and as this was a growth from a germinal seed unto full adult, soul-organism so your new spiritual man or self, created or begotten in Christ Jeesous must have its period of growth until it also reaches adult age and perfection in the last Adam, and as Christ was the first born into this organic perfection and the only soul-man who has died and appeared again to men here through a resurrection from the death state as a new spirit man, and as we are to be like him if renewed we must expect to go through the same growth and organic change. So we do not teach, as some of our apostates are doing, that the resurrection is already past, and so make void the Word of God or become anti-christs. They went out from us, but were not of us. We do not teach that dead people can appear to the living as "ghosts," but that all such "appearances" which we do not doubt or question are wrought by the supernatural power and deceptive practices of the Devil and his demons, to mislead and entrap the unwary. On the contrary we teach that we Christians have a life that is hid with Christ in God to be made manifest with him in glory when he shall again appear or return with all his holy angels to pay our wages and execute requital on the unrepentant sinners.

CHAS. GARDNER.

To the Indiana Brethren.

Did you know that South Bend, Ind., was the home of several families of "like precious faith," who ought to have the gospel preached to them? I have been there several times during last summer where we met for worship in Sister Kipfer's parlors, where a company of 16 or 18, perhaps more, gathered each time to listen to the gospel. Some faithful ones of other days whom we have often met at Argos and Plymouth were there. We met with them on the evenings of Feb. 26th and 27th, going there from our Southern Michigan appointment. We had good meetings, especially the last, left them happy and strong in the faith, believing that if they could have a few meetings, some that have listened would acknowledge the truth and be obedient to it. Who will attend to this work? Hasten to tell them the good news of a returning Savior.

B. W. WOODWARD.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Another year has passed and is numbered with the things that were. As we ponder over it, we wonder whether we have indeed, been faithful workers in the Master's vineyard, and have sown seed that will bring forth plenteous fruit, and yield us crowns of rejoicing when our Lord shall come to reward us; for we read that "They that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever." We are living in trying times, trying for our faith as well as our works. Men are full of skepticism and unbelief, "headstrong and high-minded" and their attention is hard to attract from their many worldly cares and avaricious pursuit of wealth and they will not listen to sound doctrine. Still we must work—sowing in the highways and hedges—compelling some to come and by the beauteous plan of salvation, yield themselves obedient believers, to him who spake as never man spake. One may plant, another water, but God must give the increase. We trust alone in him. May he go with us through all the journey of life, directing us in all our work for him, and finally crown us with everlasting life at his appearing and kingdom.

MRS. C. W. RUSSELL.

Editor Restitution:

Permit me to say through THE RESTITUTION to my many friends that I am still engaged in my Master's work doing what little good I can. Have been holding meetings in Oklahoma, near Caldwell, Kansas, in Brother J. R. Fisk's neighborhood once a month for about two years, with good interest. At our meeting on the third Sunday in August, Bro. J. R. Fisk's two daughters, Mrs. Nora Shoap, and Hattie Fisk, Brother Fisk's youngest daughter, came forward and requested baptism. On Monday morning, after showing them that in the act of baptism they were buried with Christ, and that constituted a planting as in the law of nature that the seed though ever so perfect unless it be buried, planted, being in this act brought in contact with the law of nature, it could never grow and bring forth fruit and that we, though ever so morally good we could not grow spiritually unless we were buried, planted, and in this act brought in contact with the spirit law, and by proper cultivation of the mind we will grow in the things of the spirit of the Word of God unto the divine nature which will be put on at the resurrection of the just. We then buried them in the watery grave from which we trust they rose to walk in the new life. On the 17th of Dec., we commenced a weeks meeting at the same place with good interest. On Thursday night after meeting two came forward, Mrs. G. H. Niccolls of Los Angeles, Cal., and Miss Frieda Trunk, of Manhattan, Kan., and requested baptism. On Saturday afternoon we went to the water and buried them with Christ in baptism. It was an impressive sight to see these two women, the ground being covered with snow, and the water with ice, go down into the cold water, and without a sigh, be buried beneath the cold wave. What a glorious hope. On Sunday night, after showing the hope of the resurrection of the dead, as taught in the Bible, to a crowded house, there was an invitation given and four more came forward, T. J. Fisk and wife, and George Wagoner and wife, son and soninlaw of Brother J. R. Fisk, to make a start for the kingdom of God. On Monday, after partaking of a bountiful Christmas dinner, such as Brother and Sister Fisk know how to prepare, to which their children and neighbors were invited, we again repaired to the water and buried them in baptism, planted in the likeness of Christ's death. We commend them to the care and tender mercies of an All-wise and merciful God. May they run with patience the race set before them, looking unto Jesus the Author and Finisher of their faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. There are others that are almost persuaded. Several expressed a desire to be baptized in the near future. We hope and trust that they may see the importance, and not delay too long. Last winter I visited a place in Eastern Oklahoma, and held a weeks meeting, at which one came forward and expressed a desire to start for the kingdom of God, but baptism was deferred to some future time. Since then one has written me stating that he desired to be baptized, but on account of my wife's sickness and other cares and want of means to pay expenses, I have not had an opportunity to go, but think I shall some time in the near future. In looking over my work for the last fourteen months, I find I have spent 78 days besides preaching twice a month for the Attica Church, and have paid out twelve dollars in money more than I have received, have baptized nine intelligent souls into the Christ. What I have done is freely given for the good of the cause. I am satisfied that what we do must be done soon. It is my desire that I may do more in 1900, but the future is in God's hands. I fully realize that the King of Peace will soon come and put a stop to these bloody wars. Brethren, let us all make an extra effort during this present year to bring souls to the truth. Let us lay aside all contentions, and put our shoulders to the wheel of truth, and push with all our might, and see what a grand and glorious work we can accomplish, that when Jesus comes he will say, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

S. C. OLIVER.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

As I opened our dear paper,—THE RESTITUTION of Dec. 27, I found it full of Love Feasts which I so much enjoyed the reading of every word. The isolated dear ones in Christ, of which I am one, I deeply sympathize with and ask a special blessing upon each in our lonely struggle to keep near, O so near the loving Father's door that we may not wander beyond his merciful arms for safe keeping, and restful assurance of his constant favor and smiles. Oh! the world is in mourning, hearts are breaking, tears are flowing full and fast, as the overwhelming scenes are being constantly enacted. Dear Father, comfort the anguished hearts of this blood-stained earth! Surely it all portrays the perilous times of this closing dispensation, which seems to call loudly to every mortal to climb quickly the watch-tower and watch, watch; for the Star of the East is rising and sending forth ominous flashes, pointing directly to the coming again of the Babe of Bethlehem—this time to bless the mortal nations and reign in righteousness over the new earth. May each dear child of God look up, and in joy behold the King in his Beauty, at that glad hour is my earnest plea.

Yours for the truth.

MRS. R. W. COOPER.

Dear Restitution:

I am glad the table THE RESTITUTION spreads for all, even the late-comers can enjoy the feast of fat things it so generously furnishes. Are our hearts toned in love for the Master and his cause, at the beginning of this, a new century? I feel a deep love for the cause of Christ, and for those who are trying to serve him in the way he has provided by his death and resurrection, for us to follow. I have tried to live, the past year, very close, and resolved to live nearer if possible to the narrow way. I thank God for friends in the truth, and other blessings. In the Expositor of 1855-6 I find the names of P. H. Bouk, L. H. Chase and O. R. L. C. which are the only ones I see in THE RESTITUTION of today. Nearly if not all the churches in this part and Eastern N. Y. have passed away or have changed to Christadelphian, or have given their fellowship with those who deny the millennium, of a church which once flourished here at Port Byron, N. Y., not one remains so far as I know. With Christian Greeting to the household of faith.

Yours, in the blessed hope.

MRS. A. L. WEATHERWAX.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

As I unfolded THE RESTITUTION of Dec. 27, 1899, what should greet my eyes but sweet refreshing testimonials from loved ones in the faith, striving to serve the Lord, all of them strangers to me in the flesh, but I hope and pray that not one of them will strive in vain. Oh how encouraging it is to read the epistles from brothers and sisters that can stand up for Jesus in these last days. We must redeem the time, for it must be the last days of Gentile rule, and we dare not turn to the right nor to the left, but keep in the straight and narrow path that leads to life, and few there be that find it. This letter is from a sister that wants to tell of her hopes and joys of enjoying a better life in the age to come, under the rulership of the King in his Beauty, whose kingdom will cover the whole earth with righteousness as the waters cover the great deep. I want to be one of that number that will help rule the world in that kingdom for it will be set up on earth, just as sure as there is a God in heaven. Brothers and sisters, do come out and say a few words through the dear paper, for the blessed Savior that died on the cruel cross, in order that we might live. Come, "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." I am trying to live a life that will entitle me to a home in the kingdom when it is set up. Did you ever try to enumerate the good things that God has promised to them that love and obey him? to heal all our infirmities, abolish death, have a home in the kingdom and help rule the world in righteoneness, during the millennial reign of Christ? Is not that enough? But half has not been spoken of in this short, imperfect letter, that has been promised to the true child of God. For fear of wearying some one I will close. One thing I ask of the brothers and sisters, and that is this, when they enter into their secret closets to pray, dont forget to pray for this sister, that she will pass through all the trials of this life and be among the overcomers at last; for it is to them that every good thing is promised.

Your Sister in the one faith.

MARY NICHOLS.

Editor Restitution:

I will endeavor to write a few lines, so that the beloved ones abroad will know that I am still among the living ones, and appreciate their letters of encouragement. They are a solace to those of like faith who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last times, that the trial of your faith being much more precious than of gold that perishes, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ, our Elder Brother. How I love to read those letters from the dear ones who have obtained like precious faith. It is encouraging indeed. Well may it be called a "Love Feast." I can say to those, I am absent in body but present in mind. Oh how I would like to see them and talk face to face with them, but the time is short until we shall see and know as we are known. Glorious consummation, to the children of God. Not only by those words, "Wherein God is willing more abundantly to show unto the heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel confirmed it by an oath. That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us. It does seem to me that those words are consoling to the weary child of God. "Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly, above all that we ask or think according to the power that worketh in us. Unto him be glory throughout all ages, world without end."

Your Brother, looking for the King in all his Beauty.

J. R. FISK.

Editor Restitution:

The paper is truly a welcome visitor each week. The many words of comfort from the brethren and sisters, help us along in these days of peril and unbelief! but the reward is sure to the overcomer. May we all stand firm, and finally receive the welcome applaudit, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Yours in faith.

J. P. PIERSON.

Dr. Chalmers beautifully said: "The little I have seen in the world, and know of the history of mankind, teaches me to look at their errors in sorrow, and not in anger. When I take the history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it has passed through—the brief pulsations of joy, the tears of regret, the feebleness of purpose, the scorn of the world that has little charity, the desolation of the soul's sanctuary, and threatening voices within; health gone; happiness gone—I would feign leave my fellow-man with him from whose hands he came."

Have you ever considered the Christian duty of being pleasant? Whether you feel happy or worried, whether things are going well or ill with you, you have no right, by words or even by doleful countenance, to cast a gloom on others. As a Christian you have a light in your heart, and you are commanded to let it shine. You are not only to rejoice, but to impart joy evermore. Have you ever tried through the duties and trials of one day, "to be a blessing," making your very presence a light and joy to all you meet? Try it.—Cumberland Presbyterian.

Our Bible Offer.

Have you read our premium offer page on 4 of this paper? It is simply this:

You pay your subscription for 1900 at the regular price, and send $1.50 more and get a Bible worth $3.50.

If you have already paid for THE RESTITUTION for 1900 you may have the Bible by sending us $1.50.

If you want an extra Bible to give to some one add $1.50 to the $3.00 for paper and Bible, and we will send an additional book to you.

If you will send us four new subscribers for 1900 we will send you this Bible free of any charge.

This is not a cheaply gotten up work, but a book exactly as described, and all who have seen it speak in highest praise of this Bible. We are so confident you will be pleased that if you are not satisfied when you get the book, return it to us and we will return the money to you.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Wm D Root	6.50
G W Smith	.50
Lannie Lovelace	.50

Central Passenger Association Mileage Tickets are accepted for passage on all trains of the Nickel Plate Road.
—mar 16

Selections.

Saying and Doing.

In the Cathedral of Lubeck, in Germany, there is an old slab with the following inscription:

"Thus speaketh Christ, our Lord to us:

Ye call me Master, and obey me not;
Ye call me Light, and see me not;
Ye call me Way, and walk me not;
Ye call me Life, and desire me not;
Ye call me Wise, and follow me not;
Ye call me fair, and love me not;
Ye call me Rich, and ask me not;
Ye call me Eternal, and seek me not;
Ye call me Gracious, and trust me not;
Ye call me Noble, and serve me not;
Ye call me Mighty, and honor me not;
Ye call me Just, and fear me not;
If I condemn you, blame me not.

Rejoice Always.

He that hath so many causes of joy, and so great, is very much in love with sorrow and peevishness, who loses all these pleasures and chooses to sit upon his little handful of thorns. Enjoy the blessings of this day, if God sends them; and the evils of it bear patiently and sweetly; for this day is only ours, we are dead to yesterday, and we are not born to the morrow. Guide me, O Lord, in all the changes and varieties of the world; that in all things that shall happen, I may have an evenness and tranquility of spirit; that my soul may be wholly resigned to thy divinest will and pleasure, never murmuring at thy gentle chastisements and fatherly corrections.

Alone With Jesus.

It is human to stand with the crowd; it is divine to stand alone.

It is man-like to follow the people, to drift with the tide; it is God-like to follow a principle, to stem the tide.

It is natural to compromise conscience and follow the social and religious fashions for the sake of gain or pleasure; it is divine to sacrifice both on the altar of truth and duty.

"No man stood with me, but all men forsook me," wrote the battle-scarred apostle in describing his first appearance before Nero to answer for his life, for believing and teaching contrary to the accepted views of the Roman world.

Truth has been out of fashion since man changed his robe of fadeless light for a garment of faded leaves.

Noah built and voyaged alone. His neighbors laughed at his strangeness and perished in style.

Abraham wandered and worshipped alone. The Sodomites smiled at the simple shepherd, followed the fashion, and fed the flames.

Daniel dined and prayed alone. Elijah sacrificed and witnessed alone. Jeremiah prophesied and wept alone. Jesus lived and died alone. And of the lonely way his disciples should walk, he said: "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it."

Of their treatment by the many who walk in the broad way, he said; "If ye were of the world, the world would love his own; but because ye are not of the world, but because I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."

The church in the wilderness praised Abraham and persecuted Moses. The church of the kings praised Moses and persecuted the prophets. The church of Caiaphas praised the prophets and persecuted Jesus. The church and the popes praised the Savior and persecuted the saints. And multitudes now, both in the church and the world, applaud the courage and fortitude of the patriarchs and prophets, the apostles and martyrs; but condemn as stubborness or foolishness like faithfulness to truth today.

Wanted! Today! Men and women, young and old, who will obey their convictions of truth and duty at the cost of fortune and friends and life itself.

A millionaire said to me not long ago: "There is no greater humbug than that money can make a man solidly happy; mine never did until I began to serve God and do good with it." The more that your religion costs you, my friends, the richer returns it will bring you.—Cuyler.

Homeseekers' Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to western, northwestern and southwestern points on March 20th, 1900. Tickets available on above date good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for the round trip. See agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Ft. Wayne, Ind. —mar 20

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 10 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God. —Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Address, THE RESTITUTION. Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

The Nickel Plate Road has become a member of the Central Passenger Association Mileage Ticket Bureau, and all mileage tickets properly issued by any line, a member of that Bureau, are valid for use on that road in the same manner as on other roads, members of that Bureau.—mar 16

California Quickly and Comfortably

Via Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line. "The Overland Limited" leaves Chicago daily 6:30 P. M., arrives at San Francisco the afternoon of third day, and Los Angeles next morning. No change of cars. All meals in dining cars. Buffet, smoking and library cars, with barber. "The best of everything." "The Pacific Express leaves Chicago daily 10:30 P. M., with first-class and through tourist sleepers to California. Personally conducted excursions every Thursday. All agents sell tickets via Chicago & North-Western R'y. For full information and illustrated pamphlet apply to A. H. Waggoner, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—mar. 17.

Mileage Tickets of the Central Passenger Association are good on the Nickel Plate Road between Buffalo, Chicago or intermediate stations.—mar 16

Dying men's words should make deep impressions, and be long remembered.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and R. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching, occasionally. T. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. Young people's meeting. W. P. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 628 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Serves every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their home on Michigan St., as follows—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional service, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 269 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00 All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1215 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—A. Mews A. D. Caledonia.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia. every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Robin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Greer.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trusdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Steele and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or in his on A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 2:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Bower, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsyth, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa. p. c. for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays o each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

Pennsylvania Lines

Schedules of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Eastward.

Chicago	7 50	3 00	10 30	10 30	10 45	4 30	7 30	7 55	8 00	8 00	10 30
Garlo	3 35		12 40	12 40	12 55	6 30	9 30	9 55	10 00	10 00	12 30
Logansport	5 45		2 50	2 50	3 05	8 40	11 40	12 05	12 10	12 10	2 40
Peru	6 30		3 35	3 35	3 50	9 25	12 25	12 50	12 55	12 55	3 25
Wabash	7 05		4 10	4 10	4 25	10 00	1 00	1 25	1 30	1 30	4 00
Huntington	7 45		4 50	4 50	5 05	10 40	1 40	2 05	2 10	2 10	4 40
Warsaw	8 01		5 06	5 06	5 21	10 56	1 56	2 21	2 26	2 26	4 56
Valparaiso	9 11	4 47	6 20	6 20	6 35	12 10	3 10	3 35	3 40	3 40	6 10
Wanatah	9 35		6 44	6 44	7 00	12 34	3 34
Hanna	9 50		6 59	6 59	7 15	12 49	3 49
Hanle	9 57
Hamlet	10 05		7 15	7 15	7 30	1 05	4 05
Grovertown	10 15
Plymouth	10 30	5 45	7 50	7 50	8 05	1 40	4 40	5 05	5 10	5 10	7 40
Inwood	10 49
Bourbon	10 58		8 16	8 16	8 31	2 06	5 06
Osco	11 07
Elkhart	11 25		8 45	8 45	9 00	2 35	5 35	5 55	6 00	6 00	8 30
Wakarusa	11 35
Nappanee	11 47		9 07	9 07	9 22	2 57	5 57
Wolcottville	11 57
Kendallville	12 10		9 30	9 30	9 45	3 20	6 20
Waterloo	12 20
Auburn	12 30		9 50	9 50	10 05	3 40	6 40
Garrett	12 45
Butler	1 05		10 25	10 25	10 40	4 15	7 15
Waterloo	1 15
Pleasant Lake	1 25
Orland	1 35
Hamilton	1 45
Angola	1 55		11 15	11 15	11 30	5 05	8 05	8 25	8 30	8 30	11 00
Fremont	2 05
Orland Junction	2 15
Millgrove	2 25
Metz	2 35
Hudson	2 45
Waterfall	2 55
Pokagon	3 05
Crooked Lake	3 15
Fremont	3 25
Clear Lake	3 35
Metz	3 45
Millgrove	3 55
Orland Junction	4 05
Orland	4 15
Pleasant Lake	4 25
Waterloo	4 35
Hamilton	4 45
Angola	4 55		12 15	12 15	12 30	6 05	9 05	9 25	9 30	9 30	12 00
Fremont	5 05
Orland Junction	5 15
Millgrove	5 25
Metz	5 35
Hudson	5 45
Waterfall	5 55
Pokagon	6 05
Crooked Lake	6 15
Fremont	6 25
Clear Lake	6 35
Metz	6 45
Millgrove	6 55
Orland Junction	7 05
Orland	7 15
Pleasant Lake	7 25
Waterloo	7 35
Hamilton	7 45
Angola	7 55		1 15	1 15	1 30	7 05	10 05	10 25	10 30	10 30	1 00
Fremont	8 05
Orland Junction	8 15
Millgrove	8 25
Metz	8 35
Hudson	8 45
Waterfall	8 55
Pokagon	9 05
Crooked Lake	9 15
Fremont	9 25
Clear Lake	9 35
Metz	9 45
Millgrove	9 55
Orland Junction	10 05
Orland	10 15
Pleasant Lake	10 25
Waterloo	10 35
Hamilton	10 45
Angola	10 55		2 15	2 15	2 30	8 05	11 05	11 25	11 30	11 30	2 00
Fremont	11 05
Orland Junction	11 15
Millgrove	11 25
Metz	11 35
Hudson	11 45
Waterfall	11 55
Pokagon	12 05
Crooked Lake	12 15
Fremont	12 25
Clear Lake	12 35
Metz	12 45
Millgrove	12 55
Orland Junction	1 05
Orland	1 15
Pleasant Lake	1 25
Waterloo	1 35
Hamilton	1 45
Angola	1 55		3 15	3 15	3 30	9 05	12 05	12 25	12 30	12 30	3 00
Fremont	2 05
Orland Junction	2 15
Millgrove	2 25
Metz	2 35
Hudson	2 45
Waterfall	2 55
Pokagon	3 05
Crooked Lake	3 15
Fremont	3 25
Clear Lake	3 35
Metz	3 45
Millgrove	3 55
Orland Junction	4 05
Orland	4 15
Pleasant Lake	4 25
Waterloo	4 35
Hamilton	4 45
Angola	4 55		4 15	4 15	4 30	10 05	1 05	1 25	1 30	1 30	4 00
Fremont	5 05
Orland Junction	5 15
Millgrove	5 25
Metz	5 35
Hudson	5 45
Waterfall	5 55
Pokagon	6 05
Crooked Lake	6 15
Fremont	6 25
Clear Lake	6 35
Metz	6 45
Millgrove	6 55
Orland Junction	7 05
Orland	7 15
Pleasant Lake	7 25
Waterloo	7 35
Hamilton	7 45
Angola	7 55		5 15	5 15	5 30	11 05	2 05	2 25	2 30	2 30	5 00
Fremont	8 05
Orland Junction	8 15
Millgrove	8 25
Metz	8 35
Hudson	8 45
Waterfall	8 55
Pokagon	9 05
Crooked Lake	9 15
Fremont	9 25
Clear Lake	9 35
Metz	9 45
Millgrove	9 55
Orland Junction	10 05
Orland	10 15
Pleasant Lake	10 25
Waterloo	10 35
Hamilton	10 45
Angola	10 55		6 15	6 15	6 30	12 05	3 05	3 25	3 30	3 30	6 00
Fremont	11 05
Orland Junction	11 15
Millgrove	11 25
Metz	11 35
Hudson	11 45
Waterfall	11 55
Pokagon	12 05
Crooked Lake	12 15
Fremont	12 25
Clear Lake	12 35
Metz	12 45
Millgrove	12 55
Orland Junction	1 05
Orland	1 15
Pleasant Lake	1 25
Waterloo	1 35
Hamilton	1 45
Angola	1 55		7 15	7 15	7 30	1 05	4 05	4 25	4 30	4 30	7 00
Fremont	2 05
Orland Junction	2 15
Millgrove	2 25
Metz	2 35
Hudson	2 45
Waterfall	2 55
Pokagon	3 05
Crooked Lake	3 15
Fremont	3 25
Clear Lake	3 35
Metz	3 45
Millgrove	3 55
Orland Junction	4 05
Orland	4 15
Pleasant Lake	4 25
Waterloo	4 35
Hamilton	4 45
Angola	4 55		8 15	8 15	8 30	2 05	5 05	5 25	5 30	5 30	8 00
Fremont	5 05
Orland Junction	5 15
Millgrove	5 25
Metz	5 35
Hudson	5 45
Waterfall	5 55
Pokagon	6 05
Crooked Lake	6 15
Fremont	6 25
Clear Lake	6 35
Metz	6 45
Millgrove	6 55
Orland Junction	7 05
Orland	7 15
Pleasant Lake	7 25
Waterloo	7 35
Hamilton	7 45
Angola	7 55		9 15	9 15	9 30	3 05	6 05	6 25	6 30	6 30	9 00
Fremont	8 05
Orland Junction	8 15
Millgrove	8 25
Metz	8 35
Hudson	8 45
Waterfall	8 55
Pokagon	9 05
Crooked Lake	9 15
Fremont	9 25
Clear Lake	9 35
Metz	9 45
Millgrove	9 55
Orland Junction	10 05
Orland	10 15
Pleasant Lake	10 25
Waterloo	10 35
Hamilton	10 45
Angola	10 55		10 15	10 15	10 30	4 05	7 05	7 25	7 30	7 30	10 00
Fremont	11 05
Orland Junction	11 15
Millgrove	11 25
Metz	11 35
Hudson	11 45
Waterfall	11 55
Pokagon	12 05
Crooked Lake	12 15
Fremont	12 25
Clear Lake	12 35
Metz	12 45
Millgrove	12 55
Orland Junction	1 05
Orland	1 15
Pleasant Lake	1 25
Waterloo	1 35
Hamilton	1 45
Angola	1 55		11 15	11 15	11 30	5 05	8 05	8 25	8 30	8 30	11 00
Fremont	2 05
Orland Junction	2 15
Millgrove	2 25
Metz	2 35
Hudson	2 45
Waterfall	2 55
Pokagon	3 05
Crooked Lake	3 15
Fremont	3 25
Clear Lake	3 35
Metz	3 45
Millgrove	3 55
Orland Junction	4 05
Orland	4 15
Pleasant Lake	4 25
Waterloo	4 35
Hamilton	4 45
Angola	4 55		12 15	12 15	12 30	6 05	9 05	9 25	9 30	9 30	12 00
Fremont	5 05
Orland Junction	5 15
Millgrove	5 25
Metz	5 35
Hudson	5 45
Waterfall	5 55
Pokagon	6 05
Crooked Lake	6 15
Fremont	6 25
Clear Lake	6 35
Metz	6 45
Millgrove	6 55
Orland Junction	7 05
Orland	7 15
Pleasant Lake	7 25
Waterloo	7 35
Hamilton	7 45
Angola	7 55		1 15	1 15	1 30	7 05	10 05	10 25	10 30	10 30	1 00
Fremont	8 05
Orland Junction	8 15
Millgrove	8 25
Metz	8 35
Hudson	8 45
Waterfall	8 55
Pokagon	9 05
Crooked Lake	9 15
Fremont	9 25
Clear Lake	9 35
Metz	9 45
Millgrove	9 55
Orland Junction	10 05
Orland	10 15
Pleasant Lake	10 25
Waterloo	10 35
Hamilton	10 45
Angola	10 55		2 15	2 15	2 30	8 05	11 05	11 25	11 30	11 30	2 00
Fremont	11 05
Orland Junction	11 15
Millgrove	11 25
Metz	11 35
Hudson	11 45
Waterfall	11 55
Pokagon	12 05
Crooked Lake	12 15
Fremont	12 25
Clear Lake	12 35
Metz	12 45
Millgrove	12 55
Orland Junction	1 05
Orland	1 15
Pleasant Lake	1 25
Waterloo	1 35
Hamilton	1 45
Angola	1 55		3 15	3 15	3 30	9 05	12 05	12 25	12 30	12 30	3 00
Fremont	2 05
Orland Junction	2 15
Millgrove	2 25
Metz	2 35
Hudson	2 45
Waterfall	2 55
Pokagon	3 05
Crooked Lake	3 15
Fremont	3 25
Clear Lake	3 35
Metz	3 45
Millgrove	3 55
Orland Junction	4 05
Orland	4 15
Pleasant Lake	4 25
Waterloo	4 35
Hamilton	4 45

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 10 Cents.

Poetry.

The Shared Yoke.

"Take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden light." Matt. xi. 29, 30.

Along the quiet village street
Two oxen came with weary tread,
And, as their driver paused to greet
A friend, one, weary, sank upon the road.
The other, patient, stood and bore the yoke,
Now doubly weighted with the prostrate fall.
Wondering I saw, and light upon me broke,
"O Lord, it is thy yoke I bear.
The strength to hold it comes from thee,
If thou will stoop to draw with me
Earth's heavy loads, and all my burdens share.
O grant that I may ne'er again despair,
And by my faltering, inkliest look be led."

—Anna Gregoire.

Selections.

Russia Again.

In view of the recent developments in the plans of Russia toward Persia, the following from S. G. W. Benjamin, formerly U. S. minister to Persia will be of interest., It appeared in the N. Y. Tribune:—

The announcement, which has not been contradicted, that Russia has loaned eleven million rubles to Persia, and secured herself by a mortgage on the customs and a concession to lay railways over that country, seems innocent enough to one who is not familiar with the policy and intrigues that have led up to this startling measure. Turkey and other countries have hypothecated their customs revenue before this without jeopardizing their political integrity. But the conditions in the present case are altogether different. Russia has been nibbling into the northern and eastern frontiers of Persia for ages, as much by craft, intrigue, and steady pressure as by open war. Nothing has prevented her from making a complete conquest of that country except the jealous watchfulness of England, which was so relaxed when Mr. Gladstone was in power—indifferent as he was to England's foreign interests—that Russia at that time nearly accomplished her design of changing Persia from a buffer into a frontier state. That Russia has disclosed her hand so unmistakably at this crisis, when England is seriously embarrassed, shows the unsleeping persistence of Muscovite ambition, in spite of her frequent reiterations to the contrary.

It is not likely that the six million dollars and the concession involved in this far-reaching transaction correctly represent the facts. The late Nasr-ed-Deen Shah accumulated large treasures for an Oriental country, and it is unaccountable that they have been squandered in so short a period, and the revenues so reduced by his successor, Muzafar-ed-Deen Shah, who had been for many years accustomed to rule as governor of the great province of Azerbaijan, as to require such sacrifices now. It is more likely that when, as crown prince, he was resident near the Russian frontier, he made a deal with the Czar whereby the latter guaranteed the prince possession of the throne against the ambition of the older brother, the Zelee sultan. In return, the prince would agree to hold the sceptre as vassal to Russia, and vassalage to be gradually broken to the world as convenient opportunity might occur.

That opportunity appears to have come now during England's supposed powerlessness to oppose decisive objections and resistance, and the miserable loan of eleven million rubles is thrown out as a blind to Europe. It is probable, also, that when the occasion arrived, some pressure was necessary, and the Shah's pride and chagrin were mollified by a quasi loan. The pressure was doubtless aided by such of his counselors and courtiers as were willing to accept Russia's douceurs [sweetmeats]. It would not be the first time such corruption has occurred in Asia, and possibly in Europe, unless history always lies.

Eleven million rubles for Persia, the oldest of existing empires after China,—the land of Cyrus, Darius, Ardasher, Anoushirvan, Abbass Shah, and Nasr-ed-Deen Shah,—the land of Moses, Firdusi, Omar Khayyam, and Hafiz,—the land that conceived Saracenic architecture, that style which gave birth to the Christian architecture of Europe,—a land which, even in its decadence, includes an area nearly equal to that of Germany and France together,—a land whose possession gives Russia the long-sought key to India! Nor this six million-dollar loan is only a pretext: there is something behind what appears, which is definitely known to the chief actors in this tremendous national tragi-comedy.

As for Russia, what will she gain in Persia when her dominion becomes fully developed over that country? An acquisition of nearly half a million square miles is of importance even to an empire already holding more territory than any nation since the foundation of the world. But this is no mere, ordinary Naboth's vineyard on which she now lays her hands. On the contrary, it is one of the choicest spots of Asia, in the right hands; and, furthermore, it borders on the ocean, where winds and climate are favorable; and that coast has ports, and those ports are almost in hail of India! Verily, the chops of the Russian bear must actually water at the prospect of the morsel which destiny has thrown within his reach while the British lion is fighting for dear life on the African sands.

Of course Russia will cover Persia with a network of railways. They will be good, like most Russian railways. Perhaps American engineers may be employed to lay them, as has already been done in Russia; and such roads will be the making of Persia.....As Xenophon's men shouted, "The sea! the sea!" when they reached the long-sought shores of the Euxine, so when at last Russia reaches Mohammerah and Bushire and Bender-Abbasi and Bahrein, her legions will shout, "The sea!" and her sailors will give back the glad cry, and Moscow and St. Petersburg will hear and re-echo the song of victory; and it will ring through the halls of Germany and France and Italy, and chiefly England, and even to America across the ocean, and the nations will stop to listen and consider what it means to them, to their arts and trades, to their revenues, their armies, their fleets, their glory, and their future. Well may they pause and consider, for it will mark an era in the records of time.

Yes, so intertwined are the interests and destinies of nations in these days that the triumphal march of such a power as the United States, Great Britain, or Russia attracts universal attention; and the hour when Russia builds fleets and gathers armies on the shores of the Indian Ocean must arouse the apprehension of every power in Christendom.

Of course, these presumed results of the present turn of affairs in Persia may not follow at once. Naturally, they may take time. If England should soon gain the upper hand in South Africa, Russia might temporize, might defer her ultimate triumph. But she would not recede. Russia never does that. She thinks long and carefully; but when she puts her foot down, it only rises to go farther, and the wonder is that the world, and especially the Anglo-Saxons of England and America, have not yet learned to understand these methods of Russia's policy. The Briton and the Yankee have never yet understood the character of the Russian government; have never yet learned that with her, profession and practice rarely go together; that no nation occupies a more isolated position as to Europe, because she is able to do so on account of her geographical position, and since the Crimean War has preferred to do so, and thus, like a man who is unmarried, she can keep all her designs to herself. It is not likely that she takes the French alliance very seriously. It tickles France, and does not hurt Russia.

With the Persian Gulf in her hands, and a littoral reaching almost to India, Russia would bisect the passage between Suez and India. Under altered modern conditions, England has become obliged to depend chiefly on the canal for quick transit to her Eastern possessions, and the real reason why England has seized Egypt—for it amounts to that—is to control Suez, and to have ports south and independently of it, such as Suakim, in order to communicate with India: this reason has also made it of the last importance to her that Russian fleets should not be able to come down from the Black Sea to threaten the Suez. She was justified in this policy under the higher law that self-preservation is the right of nations as well as of individuals.

But what comes of this effort to protect Suez if Russia can blaze the road from Suez to Bombay, and send out fleet cruisers to destroy English merchant ships after they have passed Suez safely? To prevent this, England would have to maintain vast fleets along the Russo-Persian coasts, and still would not feel safe; while the railways would bring down armies that could co-operate with the fleets of Russia by approaching India, where the mountain passes are less severe than in the north: and England, between the two, would find herself drawing chronically on her utmost resources. I say chronically because, if occasionally obliged to pause, Russia would busily employ the interval of peace to intrigue with the restless East Indians on her border.

These results, I repeat, will not come at once. Doubtless Russia is busy making the usual explanations to England now. But the greatest step has already been taken, if the statements are correct that Russia is to gridiron Persia with railways, and otherwise control the eternal affairs of that country. The rest will follow in due course. England does well to seek the dominion of Africa. On that continent the world's greatest colonizing and civilizing power will make her final stand, and develop there her last colonial efforts for the amelioration of humanity. Then old England can rest from her labors, content that she has accomplished her mighty mission well.

But in proportion as Russia gains in the East Indies, the Christian powers besides England will be forced to look sharply after their own commercial and territorial interests in Asiatic quarters. Nor will the United States, so confiding in the oft-reiterated friendship of Russia, find that friendship of any avail then. It holds good on the part of Russia only so long as American interests do not clash with hers, or so long as we are alert and powerful enough to maintain our rights and demands. That, in a nutshell, is the position of our relations with Russia; and the sooner our exporters and our statesmen in or out of Congress understand it, the less of money, prestige, and blood will it cost us in the end.

Communicated.

The Apostolic Faith. No. 1.

"At that time they left off speaking of the millennial kingdom, and arranged to remain in the world." These lines are from the German text book on Church History prescribed for study in the course for young ministers in the Evangelical Association, of which the present writer was formerly a member. Little did we then realize the import of the above cited words, but since studying the Scriptures independent of tradition and theology, my mind reverted to this statement. It cannot be said for the author of the work from which above lines were taken, that he was pre-occupied in favor of what in our day is known as "chiliasm" or "millenarianism." The above quotation has reference to the time of Emperor Constantine, when the church had become popular and her wealth was increased by large donations, and the "clergy" was relieved of State duties.

If "they left off speaking of the millennium," there must have been a time when they began to speak of such a kingdom. But this text book is silent as to when they began to express such hopes and anticipations. Further evidence on this subject is supplied by Mosheim's Ecclesiastical History (p. 68): "The most famous controversies that divided the Christians during this (3rd) century were those concerning the millennium, or reign of the thousand years, the baptism of heretics, and the doctrine of Origen. Long before this period an opinion had prevailed, that Christ was to come and reign a thousand years among men. This opinion, WHICH HAD HITHERTO MET WITH NO OPPOSITION, was variously interpreted by different persons.....But in this century ITS CREDIT BEGAN TO DECLINE, principally through the influence and authority of Origen, who opposed it with the greatest warmth, because it was incompatible with some of his favorite sentiments." We are naturally led to inquire as to who this man was, and what were his "favorite sentiments." In this century "the Christian doctors who had applied themselves to the study of letters and philosophy, soon abandoned the frequented paths, and wandered in the devious wilds of fancy. The Egyptians distinguished themselves in this new method of explaining the truth. They looked upon it as a noble and glorious task to bring the doctrines of celestial wisdom into a certain subjection to the precepts of their philosophy..... "Origen was at the head of this speculative tribe. This great man, enchanted by the Platonic philosophy, set it up as a test of all religion, and imagined that the reasons of each doctrine were to be found in that favorite philosophy, and their nature and extent to be determined by it ....He, by an unhappy method, opened a secure retreat for all sorts of errors that a wild and irregular imagination could bring forth. Having entertained a notion that it was extremely difficult, if not impossible, to defend everything contained in the sacred writings from the cavils of heretics and infidels, so long as they were explained literally, according to the real import of the terms, he had recourse to the fecundity of a lively imagination, and maintained that they were to be interpreted in the same allegorical manner in which the Platonists explained the history of their gods. In consequence of this pernicious rule of interpretation, he alleged that the words of Scripture were in many places absolutely void of sense; and though in others there were indeed, certain notions conveyed under the outward terms according to their literal force and import, yet it was not in these that the true meanings of the sacred writers were to be sought, but in a mysterious and hidden sense.....He divided this hidden sense which he pursued with such eagerness, into moral and mystical, or spiritual.....As this learned man reduced it into a system, and founded it on fixed and determined rules, he is, on that account, commonly considered its principal author." In his work entitled "Origin de Principiis" he says: "Certain persons refusing the labor of thinking, and adopting a superficial view of the letter of the law, and yielding rather in some measure to the indulgence of their own desires,.....being disciples of the letter alone, are of the opinion that the promises of the future are to be looked for in bodily pleasure, and therefore they desire to have again after the resurrection, such bodily structures, as may never be without the power of eating and drinking,..... imagining that the earthly city of Jerusalem is to be rebuilt.....They think that the nations of other countries are to be given them as the ministers of their pleasures, whom they are to employ either as tillers of the field or as builders of the walls, and by whom their ruined and fallen city is again to be raised up; and they think that they are to receive the wealth of the nations to live on.....These views they think to establish on the authority of the prophets by those promises which are written regarding Jerusalem..... And from the New Testament they also quote the saying of the Savior, in which he makes a promise to his disciples concerning the joy of wine saying: 'Henceforth I shall not drink of this cup, until I drink it with you new in my Father's kingdom.' They add, moreover, that declaration in which the Savior calls those blessed who now hunger and thirst, promising them that they shall be satisfied; and many other Scriptural illustrations are adduced by them, the meaning of which they do not perceive to be taken figuratively. Then again, agreeably to the form of things in this life, and according to the gradations of the dignities or ranks in this world, or the greatness of their powers, they think they are to be kings and princes; like those earthly monarchs which now exist: chiefly, as it appears, on account of that expression in the gospel: "Have thou power over five cities." And to speak shortly, according to the manner of things in this life in all similar matters, do they desire the fulfilment of all things looked for in the promises.....Such are the views of those who, while believing in Christ, understand the Scriptures in a sort of Jewish sense, drawing from them nothing worthy of the divine promise." (Ante-Nicene Fathers iv. 297).

The above is a fair sample of the "favorite sentiments" of this man Origen, the principal author of this pernicious rule of allegorizing, spiritualizing rule of interpretation of the Scriptures. No wonder that with such teaching from a man of recognized high standing in the church, the latter should have become infected with "philosophy and vain deceit and falsely-named knowledge, and shipwrecked concerning the faith."

Prof. A. Harnack, in Britannica xvi. 315, 316 says that the belief in the establishment of the millennium through Jesus Christ "appears so early that it might be questioned whether it ought to be regarded as an essential part of the Christian religion.....It must be admitted that this expectation was a prominent feature in the earliest proclamation of the gospel and materially contributed to its success. If the primitive churches had been under the necessity of framing a confession of faith it would certainly have embraced these pictures by means of which the near future was distinctly realized. But then these pictures and dreams and hopes were just the thing that made systematic doctrine impossible.....After the middle of the second century those expectations were gradually thrust into the background. They would never have died out, however, had not circumstances altered and a new mental attitude been taken up. The spirit of philosophical and theological speculation, and of ethical reflection, which began to spread through the churches, did not know what to make of the old hopes of the future.....After the Montanistic controversy (A. D. 160-220) these views were more and more discredited in the Greek churches; they were, in fact, stigmatized as 'Jewish' and consequently 'heretical.' It was the Alexandrian theology that superceded them: that is to say, Neo-Platonic mysticism triumphed over the early Christian hope of the future. The allegorical interpretation of the prophets was asserted as the only legitimate exegesis." Thus, my gentle reader, we have seen how the Apostolic faith was set aside for the products of human fancy. In our next we shall show what "the early Christian hope" of some of the fathers was, as opposed to the spiritual "kingdom within you" of modern times.

A. H. ZILMER.

Thoughts for the Household of Faith.

At this trying moment in the history of the "Church of God," through the clemency of our editor I would like to call the attention of the faithful laborers in Christ Jesus to the all important subject of church organization and united effort. Nothing can be accomplished that will prove useful or permanent in church or state without organization. The lowest form of government in central Africa is better than no government with anarchy. The Apostles recognized this fact, hence the early church was a well organized institution and Paul tells us for this very reason he left Titus in Crete, "that thou shouldst set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city." Titus i. 5. For instance, an evangelist goes out into the "highways and hedges," sows seed in making some one under stand and accept the truth, what will he do with them? Only one thing he can do, just leave them to the tender mercies of wolves. Would it not have been much better to have the safe shelter of a praying working church for them, where they would grow spiritually, perfecting the way of life more perfectly; having the sympathy and care which were all need. Oh, this poor filthy warfare amounts to but little, a strong united effort is what tells on the enemy. The fathers of our country once said, "United we stand, divided we fall." A principle as true in church as state. Nearly all the good ever accomplished has been through the means of organization. A large number of our most useful and faithful members learned and became obedient to the truth through the medium of our Sunday schools. How came Argos and Plymouth, and many other places with such a place of gospel training? Because the Church of God was there. How are so many blessed with the privilege of partaking of the blessed communion service? Because of the organized churches and conferences. How has it been possible for evangelist work to be done in Michigan and other places, and many have seen and accepted the glorious gospel and are today rejoicing in the hope of salvation? It is through the united effort of churches, a fund was raised, the work was done. God blessed and will continue to bless the united heart and hand effort of his people. We once had a good start in a national conference; it might have been vastly useful, by that means the needs of all the churches in the states and territories, could have been made known, and their wants supplied, but by some misarrangement it was permitted to die. How lamentable; we can see the need of just that way now to reach the growing needs and calls of many who are ready to go out to proclaim the glad tidings, if they could receive, not a large annuity, but a meagre support for two, themselves and wife. We have young man in Michigan today, whose home is in Vicksburg, who embraced the faith about five years ago. He has been a diligent student of the Word ever since, has been preaching some this winter in and about Union City with fair success. I understand he is ready to go out in the work at any time, all he asks is enough to support himself and wife. Who will engage him and thus encourage the workers and push the cause of truth along? Dear brethren, we are in the perils of the last days, when Satan is working with all signs and lying wonders, an age of greed, with lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God, when it is almost impossible to keep the old sheep safe within the prayer circle and Sunday school, and our children with almost everything to draw their minds from the truth. If ever there was a time when God's children should stand shoulder to shoulder it is now. Do not desert the ranks, dear tried heart, nor look for a chance to fall out of step, if things get wrong; an extra effort must be put forth to right it, striving together for the hope of the gospel. Remember all permanent success depends on organization. Even we poor preachers could not get a railroad permit without it, and the necessary endorsing from the conference officers. Let us be faithful brethren, a little longer, standing together, fighting the good fight of faith that we may lay hold of eternal life.

Yours working for the truth,

B. W. WOODWARD.

"The exercise of patience involves a continual practice of the presence of God; for we may be come upon at any moment for an almost heroic display of good temper, and it is a short road to unselfishness, for nothing is left to self; all that seems to belong most intimately to self, to be self's private property, such as time, home, and rest, are invaded by those continual trials of patience."—Frederick W. Faber.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MARCH 21, 1900. NUMBER 11.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortalized saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life essential for its salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAR. 21, 1900

CAN any one supply us with the present address of Catherine Williams, lately of Stock Yards, Mo.?

"A STONE is heavy, and the sand weighty; but a fool's wrath is heavier than both."—Solomon.

"How bravely a man can walk the earth, bear the heaviest burdens, perform the severest duties, and look all men boldly in the face, if he only bears in his breast a clear conscience, void of offense towards God or man."

OLSHAUSEN, in his comments on 1 Cor. xv. 19, "If in this life only we have hope of Christ," etc., says, "The doctrine of the immortality of the soul and the name, are alike unknown to the entire Bible."

IT is a sad and serious fact that in the religious world a nondescript dictionary is in use. The following definitions will serve to illustrate it:—"To be dead, means to be more conscious than ever before. To die is to live on in woe. To lose life, is to preserve a miserable existence. Life means happiness. To burn up, is to make a living salamander. To destroy, is to preserve whole. To devour, perish, consume, etc., mean to make indestructible, and immortal. Not to be, means to be without end."

"A Little Boy's Opinion."

The doctrine of eternal woe has a pernicious effect upon children. This is well illustrated by the following authentic fact:—Said a devout preacher of the truth, "The first I ever heard of a God was by my mother telling me when two years old, that there was a God, and if I was bad he would burn me for ever in such a fire as I saw on the hearth. My reply was, "If God does so, he is a bad man!" I grew up an infidel, and remained so till I was converted by those who preached destruction!"

Religion in Daily Life.

"Religion is not a perpetual moping over good books. Religion is not even prayer, praise, holy ordinances; these are necessary to religion,—no man can be godly without them. But religion is mainly and chiefly the glorifying God in performing the duties and bearing the trials of life,—the guiding of our course amidst adverse winds and currents of temptation, by the starlight of duty and the compass of divine truth,—the bearing up manfully, wisely, courageously, for the honor of the Christ, our great Leader, in the conflict of life."

According to his Folly.

"Ah," said a sceptical collegian to an old Quaker, "I suppose you are one of those fanatics who believe the Bible?" Said the old man, "I do believe the Bible. Do you believe it?" "No, I have no proof of its truth!" "Thee," enquired the old man, "Does thee believe in France?" "Yes; for although I have not seen it, I have seen others who have. Besides, there is plenty of corroborative proof that such a country does exist." "Then thee will not believe anything thee or others have not seen?" "No." "Did thee ever see thy own brains?" "No." "Ever see a man who did see them?" "No." "Does thee believe thee has any?" This last question put an end to the discussion.

"Essays on the Jews."

On page 668 of that work by Lord Macauley the talented author says:—"The Christian believes, as well as the Jews, that at some future period the present order of things will come to an end. Nay, many Christians believe that the Messiah will shortly establish a kingdom on the earth and reign visibly over all its inhabitants. Whether this doctrine be orthodox or not we shall not enquire. The number of people who hold it, is much greater than the number of Jews residing in England. Many of those who hold it are distinguished by rank, wealth and ability. It is preached from the pulpits, both of the Scottish and of the English Church. Noblemen and members of parliament have written in defense of it,—who expect, that before that generation shall pass away, all the kingdoms of the earth will be swallowed up in one divine empire."

Excellent Advice.

"If you are tempted to reveal
A tale someone to you has told
About another, make it pass,
Before you speak, three gates of gold.

Three narrow gates—first, 'Is it true?'
Then, 'Is it needful?' In your mind
Give truthful answer, and the next
Is last and narrowest, 'Is it kind?'

And if to reach your lips at last
It passes through these gateways three,
Then you may tell the tale, nor fear
What the result of speech may be."

"It is All My Own."

A wealthy man out walking was saying to himself, "What a happy man I am! I have an ample fortune, an affectionate wife, and everything to make me comfortable; and what is more, I am indebted to no one for it. I have made it myself; I am independent of every one; it is my own. Many persons are under obligations here and there, but I am not. It is all my own." At that instant a sudden shower drove him into a church for shelter. Just as he entered the minister arose and read his text: "Ye are not your own: ye are bought with a price." "What!" said he to himself, "this is a strange doctrine. But it does not apply to me; I am my own." But the course of the sermon exposed his obligations to God, and issued in totally revolutionizing his views and feelings.

Genesis xlix. 10.

Is variously rendered as follows:—"A prince shall not fail from Judah, nor a captain out of his loins, until the things come that are laid up for him." In some copies another reading is found: "For whom it is laid up."—Septuagint.

"One having the principality shall not be taken from the house of Judah, nor a scribe from his children's children, until the Messiah shall come."—Onkelos Pargem.

"Things shall not fail from the house of Judah, nor skilful doctors of the law from their children's children, till the time when the King's Messiah shall come."—Jerusalem Sargum.

"The sceptre shall not fail from Judah, nor an expounder from between his feet, until he come whose it is."—Syrine.

"The sceptre shall not be taken from Judah, nor a law-giver from under his rule, until he comes whose it is."—Arabic.

"The sceptre shall not be taken away from Judah, nor a leader from his banners, until the Pacifier shall come."—Samaritan Pent.

"The sceptre shall not be taken away from Judah, nor a leader from his thigh, until he shall come who is sent."

New Heaven and New Earth.

M. A. K. asks:—"Will you please explain how a new heaven and a new earth can be created without doing away with the present ones?"

Our inquiring friend has no doubt heard that God is his own interpreter, and will make it plain to us if we but diligently search for it, as for hidden treasure. It is a good general rule to remember, that when things are called by their proper names, they mean what they say. But God has often seen fit to reveal his plans and purposes to his servants in figurative language, as well as literal language; and this is the case in point. Of course you know that heaven is said to be God's throne, and the earth is said to be his footstool,—and also that the atmospheric expanse above us is styled the heavens,—as when, for instance, it is said the heavens gathered blackness just before a storm. But besides these two uses of the word heavens we will show you still another use of it. In Isaiah's 34th chapter Jehovah calls upon all nations to listen to the judgments which are to be executed upon nations. The 5th verse says: "For my sword shall be bathed in heaven;" this certainly does not mean God's throne, nor the atmospheric heavens, for the latter clause of the verse explains what heaven is meant, as follows: "Behold it [my sword] shall come down upon Idumea, and upon the people of my curse to judgment." This proves that the rulers or governments are styled the heavens, and the people under them are the earth and include the armies which support the high Ones. And when you turn to the 8th verse and see that we have been considering the day of God's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion; and see from the 12th verse that after the nobles and the princes styled the heaven in which Jehovah's sword is to be bathed shall have come to nothing, and ransomed Israel returns to Zion with songs and everlasting joy (chap. xxxv. 10) and the land shall be divided to them by line, and they shall possess it for ever (chap. 34, 17) we think you will realize that it is the great Battle of God Almighty we are reading about in the 34th chapter, and that the 4th verse must be read in the light of the context. Having done that it will only remain for you to turn to the passage that puzzled you, Isa. lxv. 17, 18 and apply the same rule,—and you will be out of your difficulty. You will find the key to unlock the 17th verse in the 18th verse. The new heavens, as we understand it, are Jesus and his immortal associates,—while Israel in the flesh will be the earth, that is the subjects, figuratively so-called. If you wonder that the good God and Father should employ figurative language—the key of which has to be searched for diligently, let it encourage you to know that this information is for his adopted children.

This matter is gradely illustrated in Revelation xxi. 1, 2, 3 and on, where the Bride, the Lamb's wife is exhibited to us in advance, as the divine community which the glorious Lord has promised shall have power over the nations, (see Rev. ii. 26:) or, as in other words expressed in the 20th chapter, live and reign with Christ a thousand years. This is the manifestation of the sons of God which the whole creation groans and waits for. That writer and reader may be of that glorified company we fervently pray.

"That Day."

The frequent occurrence of this remarkable phrase in the Scriptures brings us at once to the conclusion that it must be a day of great importance, especially when we read of so many things having their fulfillment at that time. And that it is still in the future, is proved conclusively by such prophecies as the following:—"And his (the Lord's) feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east; and the Mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west; and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south." Zech. xiv. 4. "And the Lord shall be King over all the earth; in that day there shall be one Lord, and his name one." Zech. xiv. 9.

The most ignorant may have no difficulty in ascertaining that the Mount of Olives is in the same condition as it was when Christ ascended from it in the presence of his Apostles. Acts i. 9-12. We are aware that some sneer at the idea of the literal fulfillment of prophecy. But to such we would put the questions, Can you show any fulfilled prophecy that has not been fulfilled literally? If they can do this, then we will admit we may be mistaken; but until then, we will believe God means what he says, and that in due time will be fulfilled that which has been declared through his prophets. That the second prophecy is still future, is self-evident, seeing that there are at the present times kings many and lords many God declared through his servant Moses, that the whole earth should be filled with his glory, Numbers xiv. 2, and in association with his revealed purpose, he established a kingdom in the land of Israel, and to one of its kings (David) he made a promise and confirmed it with an oath that he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne. Acts ii. 30. On account of iniquity he overturned that kingdom and destroyed its chief city, Jerusalem, and scattered its people amongst all the nations of the earth, where they have remained to the present day; but God having promised it unto David's Son, yet David's Lord, has also declared that he will re-establish it by him at his return to this earth. Acts xv. 16. Then will be fulfilled that promise made by Christ to his Apostles, that they should sit on twelve thrones judging (ruling) the twelve tribes of Israel. Matt. xix. 28. And when we consult the prophecies concerning this restoration, we discover to what period the phrase "that day" applies. We read "in that day" "the lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the Lord alone shall be exalted," Isa. ii. 11; the day when the law shall go forth from Zion, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem; when the nations shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks. We read also that "in that day" there shall be a root of Jesse which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek. Isa. xi. 10. And Paul speaking of the same time says that "the root of Jesse was to rise to reign over the Gentiles. Rom. xv. 12. Undoubtedly that is the time to which the prophet Jeremiah refers when he says, "The Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth, and shall say, in view of the wonderful revolution brought about, Surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity, and things wherein there is no profit." Our paper being full we leave our readers to fill out with the glad tidings contained in Isa. ii. 3 and on to Isa. lii. 7-9 respecting the time when the Lord shall have comforted his people and redeemed Jerusalem.

News Notes.

The British-Boer war is still the uppermost subject today. The English army is busy clearing out all the scattered bands of Boers in the Orange Free State territory. They have occupied their capital Bloemfontein, and many of the burgers are laying down their arms and returning to their farms. An appeal was made to the powers to interfere, but no country can be found that will take any decided steps. The Boers ask to be let alone now and have their independence fully guaranteed. England still refuses any thing but absolute surrender. It is impossible to say yet what will be done, but it is to be hoped the matter will be arranged without more bloodshed.

A London Standard dispatch from Constantinople says it is reported that the Sultan has appealed to the Czar, the German Emperor, and the British government protesting against the ceaseless pressure brought to bear by the Russian Embassy to obtain concessions Russia has demanded. But it is understood the appeal was without result. It is becoming daily more evident that Germany and Russia have agreed upon the question of the Asia Minor railways. The only notice likely to be taken of the Russian projects in that quarter is that France may also demand a concession for herself.

After prolonged deliberation upon the Russian demands for exclusive railroad rights in Asia Minor, the Sublime Porte has proposed a compromise whereby the railways would be constructed by Turkey and Russia in partnership. The Russian Embassy insists upon the original demands, which the Turkish Military commission strenuously opposes.

Hongkong advices agree that every day brings further evidence that China is on the eve of disastrous civil strife, the leaders of the reform party being in close communication with Kang Yu Wei, still at Singapore. He assures them that outside aid is available as soon as the time is ripe for striking the first blow for the restoration of the Emperor.

In at least five of the southern provinces reformist forces have been organized and are drilling with modern arms and under European instructors. Recently a new phase of the question has presented itself, which is of serious import to China's continued existence as a free power.

In this Germany is taking the initiative and arranging for a practical military occupation of the Province of Shantung, where quite a number of Germans reside and where there are extensive German concessions.

The excuse is made that China in her present disorganized and demoralized condition cannot properly protect foreigners.

According to advices by the Adzu Maru the report that Germany is to essay what is everywhere recognized as a practical occupation of the Province of Shantung is generally credited as being in line with the newly accepted plan of foreign encroachment in China. The steps of the process are outlined as follows:

First, a railway concession, troops to protect the works, military occupation, and, finally, complete alienation of the territory. This has been Russia's course in Manchuria and it is pointed out that Germany will follow it. In the meantime, it is said, the signs are that the great empire will soon be torn by civil strife.

Chinese papers contain the sensational declaration that Japan is making preparations for a naval review off the Corean coast, which conceal in reality a plan to strike a sudden blow at Russia and thus inaugurate the war that has been brewing during six months because of Russia's policy in Corea.

Shanghai advices say that the plan is to seize at least four important points in Corea while the fleet is off that coast; and that it is in view of this that neither foreign nor Japanese correspondents are to be permitted to accompany the parading fleet.

Naturally Japanese officials disclaim knowledge of any probability of immediate war, but the nation is none the less a hot-bed of excitement and military and naval preparations, the war spirit being in no way cooled by the knowledge that Russia, too, is rapidly strengthening her sea fighting forces at Masanpo and at Vladivostock, while hurriedly perfecting the strong fortifications at Port Arthur.

From Yokohama, Japan, comes the following dispatch. The persistency with which the Western press clings to the imminence of war between Russia and Japan is attracting much attention here. Thus far there has seemed to be no foundation whatsoever for the rumor. The fact which now impresses the public is the arrival of representatives of some of the New York papers, they having been sent for the express purpose of being on the spot when the outbreak comes.

This, together with the activity prevailing in the Russian squadron in Eastern waters, assembling in force, as it is, in the Corean Straits, and the reports constantly coming in of extraordinary doings at Port Arthur, have at least forced the conviction that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire, and the people and press are correspondingly on the qui vive.

In official circles, however, the utmost calm is manifest, while everybody else is wondering what it all means. In the meantime one of the Chinese papers actually propounds the theory that Japan will be likely to take the opportunity furnished by the approaching naval maneuvers in the Corean straits to strike a sudden blow at Russia.

Death's Doings.

The household of faith in Cleveland mourn the loss of a beloved brother who has been connected with it since its organization, Oct. 7th, 1863, Robert Mitchell, who died March 6, 1900, aged 73. The doctrine of the second coming of Christ, and the restoration of all things predicted by the prophets struck a responsive chord in his heart when he heard it from Eld. J. B. Cook and others several years before; and when he visited other places he was pretty sure to find out the peculiar believers of it if there were any within reach. About the year 1861 or 1862 he visited the scenes of his boyhood in New York state, and took the opportunity to stop at Seneca Falls, where Eld. T. G. Newman was then publishing the Millennial Harbinger. Early in 1863 we came to Cleveland and commenced the proclamation of the glorious gospel in Garret's Hall, and our brother, seeing the notice in the paper, and remembering that he had met us at Seneca Falls, became a constant listener, till he became anxious to know what there was to hinder him from being baptized? He was one of the twelve who came into church order several months later, by the assistance of Eld. Mark Allen, of Massachusetts. From that time to the day of his death he was a firm adherent to the truth, and amid all the bustle and buss of a business that expanded with the growth of the city, he steadily maintained the meek and quiet spirit becoming one claiming a joint-heirship with Jesus, to the world's dominion, while part of his patrimony was, —suffering. Bro. Mitchell's business relations with men of the world about him was of a character to give weight to doctrines anything but popular; and his quiet demeanor and earnestness of purpose to impart the good news he had heard secured him many an audience where one of a different temperament would not be listened to. Like thousands before him, he had fondly hoped to see the King in his beauty without dying,—and as news from afar would reach him every now and then, that showed the ripening of God's purpose and indicating that the night was far spent and the day at hand, his face would flush with excitement and tears of joyful anticipation would fill his eyes. But for some time he has given signs that his system was breaking down. For six months past he had been growing more and more helpless, until at last he became entirely so, and slept himself away, without a struggle; a death his life was an emblem of.

The funeral services were held at the family home on Miles Park Av. and was attended by brethren and sisters and many of the oldest settlers in this vicinity, some of them ninety,—besides a great number of business men, —who listened attentively to a brief outline of the faith that sustained our dear brother through life, and supported him as he felt the hour of death approaching. We laid him away in confidence that he would have a resurrection to a better life; and therefore sorrow not as those who have no hope.

Our dear Sister Mitchell survives the partner of her youth, also two sons and one daughter. That all may insure their lives with Jesus and share the great salvation, we humbly pray.

Report of Work.

Editor Restitution:

We love to report to our family paper occasionally, especially if that report is a good report. Bro. W. L. Skeels, evangelist for the States of Oregon and Washington, came around from Ellensburg, where he has been holding a series of meetings, with very good success. Our good Sister Phillips and Bro. Patterson of this place and Bro. Platt Corbuley of Waterville, were co-workers with him, but to God be all the glory for the increase is his.

He began services here Saturday evening, Feb. 3rd, and continued over the next week Sunday, preaching in all eleven discourses. The result was six were baptized into the name of Jesus Christ, and three others were added to the church, making nine additions altogether. Others were deeply interested and almost persuaded, but are waiting for a more convenient season.

Bro. Skeels is a workman, surely, that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of truth. His manner of presenting the truth by means of a chart, showing the creative and redemptive work as it progressed along the ages, until the final consummation, six successive periods of creation to the rest of God, followed by six successive periods of redemptive work to the final rest, the new heavens and new earth state, seemed so convincing and conclusive, that it would seem that the blind might almost see. He leaves the best of feeling in the church. With our earnest prayers that God would bless his labors at Waterville, whither he has gone to labor.

WALKER PERRINE.

Report.

Report of the Church of God of the Faith of Abraham, Oregon, Illinois, for the year ending, March 1, 1900.

Receipts: from Oregon, $406.19; Adeline, $92.16; Antioch, $77.00; Lanark, $47.00; Chicago, $25.00; miscellaneous $55.00; total $702.35.

Expenditures: paid for Church $146.45; repairs, $143.87; furniture, $202.83; janitor, $19.05; preaching, $65.05; incidentals, $62.55; total $700.40. Balance on hand, March 1, 1900, $1.95.

Bible class each Sunday at 10:30, Sunday school at 11:45, preaching each Sunday evening at 7:30.

To our brethren and friends, we owe $470 on the church property which we bought last spring, with interest at 5 per cent, from Oct. 15, 1899. We have been able, with God's help, to pay our debts as we go. It is our desire to pay off as much of the principal debt this year as we can. We send out this account of our work with the belief that you are sufficiently interested in us to assist us with your means. Any amount, however small, will be thankfully received and placed to your credit on our books. If you are so situated that you cannot aid us financially, please write us a letter to be read to our Bible Class for our encouragement.

Since the organization of our little flock last spring there have been four baptisms and besides this there is a deep interest shown by many. This is a good field for work and any assistance you may give will be placed where it will do good work for the Master.

S. J. LINDSAY, Sec.

Our prayers should be frequently examined to see whether we are asking for what we really want, or only for the things we have an idea we ought to want. There is too much of this unreality and practical dishonesty current, both in the closet and in the public prayer-room. People get into quite a glow of pleasurable devotional excitement as they pray: their imagination works finely, they have a good flow of language, and become somewhat heated in their own rhetoric, and as the fine phrases roll trippingly off the tongue they ask for things which they would not only be much astonished to receive, but actually sorry, in their cooler moments, to get. What we sincerely desire, we shall be willing to pay the price for, and there is always a price attached —that is, a condition. If we want to sit on the right hand of Jesus, we must be willing to drink of his cup There is much more of poetry than of piety in some prayers. They sound well, but the Lord, who knows the heart, does not find satisfaction in them. "Lip prayers are lost prayers." Don't pray cream, and live skim-milk."—Zion's Herald.

Poetry.

Song.—Tune, "When the Waiting Time"

Dearest brother, dearest sister,
May we ever faithful be,
Unto Jesus Christ, our Savior,
Who has said, "Come, follow me."
For we know what he has suffered;
Even death that we might live;
And he's promised to the faithful,
That a crown of life he'll give.

When the Lord shall come in glory
As the prophets said he'd come,
Then he'll gather all the faithful
Into that blest Eden home.
And we have his precious promise,
That all they who overcome
May have power over nations,
And may sit upon his throne.

If we suffer with the Savior
We may al-o with him reign,
May we suffer then with patience,
That the kingdom we might gain.
Then our trials will be over,
And we shall immortal be.
Then we all may shout in glory,
"Grave, where is thy victory."

When the Lord shall dwell in Zion,
Then all nation-he'll subdue.
Then all sin he will destroy.
Even death will vanish too.
God himself will then be with us
And will wipe all tears away.
In that kingdom under heaven
We shall dwell through endless day.

Praise the Lord for his dear promise
Of that everlasting home.
May we ever, ever prove faithful,
Then we'll ever more sit down

MRS. EMMA FLOATE.

Communicated.

"Hell," "Sheol," "Hades," "Gehenna"

The word "hell" is so rendered from the Hebrew word sheol: also from the Greek word hades, and from Gehenna, (Valley of Hinnom outside of Jerusalem). It had better been left untranslated and merely transferred to the English, the ordinary mind would then have better grasped the idea it was intended to convey. The theological definition given to it at the present time by no means expresses it.

The word hades occurs eleven times in the New Testament, and ten times it is improperly rendered hell. It denotes the abode or world of the dead, and means literally that which is in darkness, hidden, invisible, obscure. Sheol in the Hebrew and hades in the Greek are synonomous terms; and in order to define their meaning reference must be had to the various passages where they are found in the Scriptures. The Hebrew word sheol is translated by hades in the Septuagint 60 times out of 63 time and has the general meaning of the grave, the common receptacle of the dead. see Gen. xxxv. 35: and xlii. 38; 1 Sam. ii 7; 1 Kings ii. 6; Job xiv. 13; xvii. 13, 16. But it has a still more general meaning of death,—a state of death; and dominion of death.

To translate hades by the word "hell" as it is done ten times out of eleven in the New Testament is very improper, unless it has the Saxon meaning, "Helan," to cover, attached to it. The primitive meaning of hell, only denoted what was secret or concealed, and perfectly corresponds with the Greek term hades, and its Hebrew equivalent, "sheol." Taking the general teaching of the Bible on these words, they by no means convey to the commonsense mind that there is at present existing, somewhere in God's universe, a place of conscious torment or torture for all the dead who die out of Christ. It is a perfect paradox to believe that the dead are alive in the orthodox sense of heaven or hell, or are in the Roman Catholic purgatory.

The death state is a state of unconsciousness. "The dead know not any thing." But there is still another word—Gehenna, that is translated hell. In the common version it occurs 12 times. It is the Grecian mode of spelling the Hebrew words which are rendered, "The Valley of Hinnom." This valley was also called "Tophet," a devastation, an abomination. Into this place were cast all kinds of filth, with the carcasses of beasts, and the unburied bodies of criminals who had been executed, continual fires being kept up to consume these.

Here Sennacherib's army of 185,000 men were slain in one night. Here children were also burnt to death in sacrifice to Moloch. "Gehenna," then, as occurring in the New Testament, symbolizes death and utter destruction; but in no place signifies a place of eternal torment. The word (with one exception) was used by Jesus Christ himself, and with no other meaning but utter destruction. "How can ye escape the damnation of hell?—condemnation of Gehenna, to the self-righteous Pharisees.

It is a suggestive fact that Paul, in all his writings, never mentioned the word "hell." Why is this? He tells us that he "kept back nothing that was profitable;" that he "abunned not to declare the whole counsel of God." If the reader will turn to the 1st chapter of Paul's letter to the Romans, he will find a description of certain characters of the vilest kind .....And that the judgment of God concerning such is that they are "worthy of death."

J. O. WOODRUFF.

The Gospel.

The gospel preached before unto Abraham was the news of salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ. The gospel by the mouth of the prophets was the same. The gospel by the Forerunner was in substance the message of him who followed after. Those Christ sent out declared his Word to all people. The sum of the whole matter is, it is God's Word to Adam's children, concerning the offer of salvation to them. The salvation meant freedom from sin and its consequences, and an eternal life, and an eternal home in an eternal kingdom. Salvation implies loss, or danger of loss to those to whom it is sent. It implies power vested in the one making the offer, and weakness in the one to whom it is addressed. It implies willingness on the part of its Author, else the offer would not have been made. It argues love as the motive with God, and offers to satisfy the highest conception of our minds, the noblest desire of our hearts, the strongest emotions of our inmost nature, as the motive for our acceptance of it. It finds us exposed, and sentenced to death (destruction), and anticipates our ignorance of our condition, and offers instruction by citing us to the record of our creation and nature, and declares us mortal when it reads to us the sentence of death on account of sin, and explains with the greatest clearness what is involved in that Word. We dare not refuse to believe him though another dispute the sentence; or seek to turn aside and offer us it. lien something he had no power to bestow. Give heed is the first note of the message. I am God alone is the second. You are lost is the third. "Come unto me all ye ends of the earth and be ye saved," echoes forth in the grand unfoldings of this precious message to us. Then the heavens are opened and the crowning scene is on Jesus as the chief actor, and with the most sublime pathos of love his voice pours forth in one continued strain, echoing and rebounding down the ages. Audible to the remotest corners of the earth. "Come unto me." "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and you shall find rest for your souls." "Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth, good will to men." The important call is "Come unto me." It contains the life germ of the message. It embraces faith, hope and charity. It ushers us into his divine presence when we obey his voice. The way is shown you as you proceed. It is made plain, and smooth, and straight, and pleasant, and peaceful. The wayfaring man though simple, need not go wrong. Who will give heed to his voice? He is earnest, he is pitiful. He says none will he turn away, who will confide in him. He is full of life, and plenteous in mercy, and strong to deliver.

A. B. WINCE.

Peace Conference—Armaments.

Dealing with the construction of fresh ironclads, Mr. Goschen remarked that The Hague convention already seemed a thing of the dim past. When the peace conference was called he suggested that possibly the beginning of further building of battleships might be suspended with the view of ascertaining the sentiments of the conference. Great Britain alone, he added, suggested a reduction of armaments, but nothing was done, and in the six months since the conference more gigantic programmes, stretching forward eight, sixteen and eighteen years, had been put forward than ever before had entered the minds of the powers. Great Britain proposed to spend in 1900-1901 £8,460,000, Russia £4,800,000 and France £4,154,000, the two latter together spending £8,454,000, or £6,000 less than Great Britain. The reporter of the French naval committee had asserted that material was 40 per cent and labor 10 per cent higher in France than in England, and Mr. Goschen therefore judged that the cost of shipbuilding in France and Russia averaged 20 per cent dearer than in Great Britain.

"Therefore," he explained, "our expenditure of £8,460,000 gives Great Britain an advantage of £1,700,000, or enough to build an additional ironclad and a cruiser. These large foreign programmes must not alarm the country, but we must keep abreast in these great developments of naval power which have occurred not only in Europe but in the United States and Japan."

The above cut from the Chicago Daily Record, is suggestive. It was a vain dream of peace. There can be no peace, until the Great Son of David shall assume the sceptre of universal empire. These great powers assembled and talked peace and then went to their various countries, and began to prepare for war on a scale that is simply tremendous. The war waged since then in South Afica is simply fearful. The above is the storm that presages peace.

W. H. WILSON.

Report.

Dear Restitution:

Feeling that the brethren at various points would be interested to hear something of Brother Hudler's splendid work on the coast, we send you this letter, hoping it may cheer you as his visit cheered us. He came direct to us from Seattle, arriving at Lake Shore, Tuesday evening, Feb. 20. We had read so much of Bro. Hudler's work in THE RESTITUTION that all the brethren were more than anxious to hear him, and anticipated much pleasure and profit from the discourses they were to hear. In this case the realization fully justified the anticipation. We found Bro. Hudler to be a man of strong personality, who fearlessly defends what he believes to be the truth.

From Wednesday until Sunday evening we were treated to six very able sermons. The meetings were well attended, and we feel sure that the truth concerning the gospel of the kingdom was made apparent to many unbelievers present. Though no one came out openly on the Lord's side, yet we feel sure that in many cases the seed was sown in good ground, and in due time will bring forth fruit meet for repentance.

Bro. Hudler threw a bomb or two into our midst in the way of the position he takes on certain points of doctrine. It perhaps did us good for I fear our littleness has been dozing too contentedly of late, and have not been eager enough to "search the Scriptures," for new grains of truth. "He is a free man whom the truth makes free; all else are slaves beside." He who does not realize this more and more as he grows older, is adeep morally, mentally, and spiritually, and needs some one just like Bro. Hudler to wake him up. I said Bro. Hudler stirred up our little class. I should not have said little class, for we have over eighty members, about half of whom are active members; while some live at a distance and can attend but few of our meetings.

Some of the brethren are quite opposed to Bro. Hudler's views on certain points of doctrine, and it may be well that it is so, for each party will only seek more diligently for the "truth the whole truth and nothing but the truth." We may be sure that if we read the Word of God prayerfully and carefully, we shall find the solution of the problems. "Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life."

Two of our number, Bro. G. P. Hall and Bro. Wm. Rundle, had previously heard of, and heard Bro. Hudler. Bro. Hall sixteen years ago, sent for him to preach in Tudall, Missouri, but owing to the sickness of his father, Bro. Hall did not hear him. Bro. Rundle heard him sixteen years ago in Brighton, Iowa. It seemed quite a coincidence that he should meet these two, now brethren here in the west.

Bro. Hudler's short stay with us was due to his having previously arranged to hold a debate in Audubon, Iowa, March 5. It was reported to us after his departure that the different ministers of Vancouver wished to have him debate, they choosing one of their number to oppose him. We regret exceedingly that he could not have remained and debated, and trust that at some future time he may be able to do so.

The brothers and sisters at Lake Shore send greeting to all of like precious faith near or far. Most of you we cannot hope to see until the Christ comes and gathers to himself those who have proven themselves worthy to reign with him. It is my hope that we shall know each other there.

Yours in hope,
EDDA MILLS.

You do not have to persuade sunshine to come into your house. Open your shutter and it streams in. So it is with God's love. Open your hearts, open your life, and he will enter.—Rev. Herbert Johnson.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I greet you one and all in the name of Jesus Christ, our Blessed Lord and Savior, who redeemed us by his precious blood that through his sufferings and death we may attain unto a resurrection from the dead, and an everlasting inheritance in that beautiful Eden home, soon to be established under the whole heavens. Glorious thought for those that are not afraid of judgment. The time is at hand and no mistake. We are living in the last act of this age. I firmly believe there are those living at present whose names are written in the Lamb's Book of Life, that will be here waiting and watching for their Lord's return. Oh, faithful brethren, let us all keep an eye single for that great event which the world is in total ignorance of. How few there are that will talk about those blessed promises outside of the faith. Wife, babe, and I are spending the winter in the genial climate of Southern Florida, and time is the weather here. We attended church last Sunday and listened to one of Barton's leading preachers, but we failed to notice any saving qualities in his sermon, and one enquiring the way to eternal life would have to go away disappointed. The citizens of this part, with few exceptions, live easy, without much labor, and that is as far as they care about. Sad, indeed, to see things thus, when the time of preparation is so short. Nothing but the return of our glorious Captain to rule on David's throne, can put a stop to the present wickedness. May we all pray for the time to hasten to bring about that peaceful reign. Submitted in love for the truth to all the brethren.

Yours waiting for the kingdom.
JNO. C. VENABLE.

Dear Restitution:

We that are isolated and hear no preaching of the true faith do not know how to get along without the weekly visits of THE RESTITUTION, and on this account if for no other we like to see it sustained. I am all alone in the faith here in Dover, Minn., but feel as determined as ever to fight the good fight of faith, and lay hold of eternal life.

Your brother in Christ.
G. T. WILBE.

Dear Restitution:

Through your columns I would like to drop a few lines to the household of our Fathers, and especially the isolated ones, for I love to read the letters, for they cheer me on my lonely journey.

"I walk a lonely pilgrim here,
Over life's uneven way,
My aching heart keeps hoping for
That bright and better day.
I walk alone, and oft am sad,
Down falls the briny tear,
My heart is grieved with trials sore
And pressed with many a care.
I walk alone and yet am glad,
That blessed promised rest,
For well I know that land is near,
The home of all that's blessed."

Yes, dear ones, only a few more days or years at most, and we shall reach fair Canaan's coast.

"When in that holy, happy land,
We'll take no more the parting hand."

What a glorious thought, what a blessed hope it is to us poor isolated ones, that if we live faithful to the end we will then meet in one great company and sing together the grand anthems of salvation. When we read of the many good meetings and can not have the opportunity of meeting with you, we feel more lonely and discouraged. Tears will unbidden start, but that still small voice speaks to me, "Peace be still, I will never leave or forsake thee." Yes, dear, lonely ones, let us press onward for the prize that is in Christ. Let us try to gain the crown and the robe and the palm of victory. How I watch with intense interest the signs of the times, the dark war clouds are gathering thick and fast, but it is a token of that glorious day, when the Sun of Righteousness shall arise and roll the gloom away. When I view the great Orb of day arise over the hilltops and disappear in the mist that covers the earth, my heart responds, "Lord, hasten thine appearing," for I long to see the earth dressed in her Edenic beauty. I have grown weary of the troubles and trials of this life, but am trying in my weak way to do all I can for the Master. We must work if we expect to receive a crown. Pray for me that I may ever be faithful, and that we will all receive the "Well done, good and faithful servant," is my prayer.

Yours, in the blessed hope.
MRS. DR. L. HICKLIN.

Editor Restitution:

I am very thankful that my life is spared and that I am blessed with health, and that I can once more testify to the goodness and mercies of our dear Father in heaven. I am just as strong in the faith as ever, and by the grace of our risen Lord, I will continue so until the end of these troublous times, which I believe is but the dark hour before the dawn, for all who trust him and watch for his coming. I see, as I read the letters from the dear ones in the faith, that a goodly number of them are written by those, who, like myself, have no guide but the Bible and THE RESTITUTION. It is no wonder that we hail its coming with pleasure. I not only hear no preaching from any of our good brethren, but I never hear a word of our faith except in our family. In South Dakota, on the Indian Reservation, where my lot is cast, there is no preaching only such as the Catholics and Episcopals give, and that is all in the Indian language, and for the Indians. I would enjoy very much to hear some good, soul-stirring preaching, and to meet with the children of like precious faith, but if it is not my lot to be so blessed, as long as I have my Bible and the good paper to explain some of the harder passages of Scripture, I do not feel that I need to lose heart or faith. I can trust my dear Lord and my God just as much, and hold fast to my faith here as well as I were in a city full of believers. It may not be as pleasant, but the reward will come to me just as quickly as to others. I are afraid I have written too lengthy, but as this will be all for maybe a whole year I hope I will be excused for this time. I ask to be remembered by the followers of our Christ

Your Sister in the one faith.
MRS. H. E. PADDOCK.

Editor Restitution:

I commenced taking your paper 30 years ago, when in its infancy, printed by Elder Marsh, in Rochester, N. Y. THE RESTITUTION views were then just beginning to be discussed. I have taken it in its long journey through Canada, Michigan, Wisconsin, Chicago and Plymouth, Ind., until four years ago. My wife died in 1893. I soon broke up housekeeping, divided my farm of 280 acres between my three boys, and gave up all business entirely, being very lame, but have good health. I have lived in this immediate neighborhood 76 years, on this farm, in the town of Darien, N. Y., 30 miles East of Buffalo, 46 years. There is a Baptist and Advent church on my farm, and a large cemetery. I get my mail at a Post Office called Lehigh. We have a nice church building, parsonage and sheds, for which I gave the land and one-third they cost. It has used my spare money. Please send THE RESTITUTION, I am hungry for restitution news.

R. C. SIMMONS.

Dear Christian Friends:

I see so many good letters in the paper that I feel like mingling my voice with the others. I am still watching and waiting for our Savior, longing for the time to come when he will take the throne and reign and bring all things into subjection unto his righteous rule. May we all be found worthy to see this earth in its beauty and reign with Christ. I ask the prayers of all. May we so live that we can enter into the joy of our Lord.

Yours for the truth.
MARTHA A. WAYMIRE.

Editor Restitution:

I am late in coming to the Love Feast, but hope to get some of the crumbs that fall from the Master's table. It is over 40 years since I began to hope for life through Christ, at his coming, and am still looking for his return. When I read of the stirring up of the Jews, and the manifestation of a hope in Zion, it gives me courage to press on to the goal. Paul says, "If the casting away of the Jews be the riches of the Gentiles, what will the gathering of them be but life from the dead." Who knows when the gathering of the faithful will be: when they are taken from the field, the housetop and from their beds to be gathered to where the carcass is, leaving their comrades to wonder where they are gone. The Wise Men of Old, when inquired of when Christ should appear, said that about this time he should be born, so we, when we see the Jews returning we may hope for his return; but I am inclined to think there are trials for the elect saints to pass through before we are gathered home. Can any of the brethren tell of a certainty when Rev. xiii. 11–18, was fulfilled? was it fulfilled in the Papal form of the Roman church, or are we to look for it to be fulfilled in the United States, as Seventh Day Adventists do? There is a trial for the whole world which we know is in the future, spoken of by Peter, when the elements shall melt with fervent heat. Isaiah says, "The light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the sun shall be seven-fold, as the light of seven days." Isa. xxx. 26. There will be no need of the orthodox hell to scorch men.

Yours, in hope.
G. MITCHELL.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

Let us all come together by writing a few words of consolation to the dear old RESTITUTION, to encourage and cheer each other on to faithfulness, love and good works. My general health has been bad for the past four years. I almost feel discouraged at times, but do not feel like giving up my faith or hope, but desire to have it increased many fold. I am still striving to overcome the trials and temptations of this dark and sinful age, striving to gain an inheritance in the kingdom soon to be established on earth. We have had no preaching lately. Brother B. F. Boyer preached several times for us in the fall, which we are very thankful for, but owing to his age and quite a distance, and changeable weather, wont permit of him being with us at this season of the year, we truly hope if the Lord wills he may be with us in the first of. The little flock here are doing all the good they can in their feeble way. We meet and read our Bibles as often as we can. We are commanded to speak often to each other, evidently to encourage and strengthen each other. So we must ever be ready to give a reason for the hope that is within us. Farewell, dear brothers and sisters. If we never meet on this earth I hope we will all meet in the kingdom. This is my prayer.

ALICE UPDIKE.

Brother Underwood;

I would like to speak a few words for the dear, old RESTITUTION. I have taken it over fifty years, and I love its weekly visits. It is all the preaching we have. I am 72 years old, and can not do much manual labor, and am not blessed with this world's goods, but having food and raiment we are content. Submitted in love.

D. A.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

THE RESTITUTION is very precious to me. It is all the preacher I have. I love to read the letters from the household of faith, and can join one and all in those precious longings, Come, Lord Jesus, quickly come.

Yours in hope of a glorious resurrection.

MRS. MARY C. SMITH.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Lucy Brown, whose maiden name was Conner, was born in Wicklow County, near Dublin, Ireland, May 14, 1808; died at Argos, Indiana, March 16, 1900, aged 91 years, 10 months and 2 days. When three years of age her father's family emigrated to America and settled in New York. Her mother died within two weeks after landing in New York, leaving her father with five small children of whom she was the fourth. She was married to Charles Brown, Jan. 20, 1829, with whom she lived until his death, Sept. 4th, 1872. They were the parents of ten children. About the year 1834, she united with the Church of the Latter Day Saints and was a firm believer in that faith at the time of her death. She was a resident of Marshall County, Indiana, since 1837. She leaves to mourn her loss five children, twenty-five grandchildren, twenty-seven great grandchildren, and one great, great grand child. Grandma Brown was a woman admired by all who knew her. She was true to her convictions in every way, a person whose life might well be imitated by many. Funeral at Argos, Ind., subject of discourse, "If a man die, shall he live again," what is truth upon this question.

F. L. AUSTIN.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs C M Odell	1.00
Herbie Hill	.50
Arthur & Lucy Zesch	.60
Mrs W Wetherbee	1.75

OBITUARY.

Death, "our cruel enemy" still holds sway, and has just laid low a loved believer in the one hope of our calling, Lucy Bickoff of San Francisco, California: for more than twenty-five years an earnest student of God's Word, looking for and loving the glorious appearing of the great King. I do not believe in eulogizing the dead, but just want to say of this dear sister, that all that could be said in praise of wife, mother and friend, could be said of her, and then fall far short of all she was to those who stood in those relations to her.

A. J. Eschauer immersed her and her husband more than twenty-five years ago in the "great father of waters." All these years they have been much to me. They sent for me to come to them from Minnesota last June. I came, found the dear sufferer beyond human means to cure. I said then and always, none but the "Great Physician," the Lord Jesus, can arrest permanently the ravaging progress of a malignant internal cancer. She had every care and tender attention that love could bestow, a husband, faithful, untiring in every thought of his wife, and her daughters the same.

The last conversation, save one, I had with her, or ever shall till the great gathering time, she spoke of these blessings, then said, "Sister, I want to speak again in particular of 'Arthur Reed,' that you named for me, no son could be more affectionate, loving or do more than he has for a sick mother. She thought much of having him come home often during her sickness, which he did, his kindly disposed Jewess wife also. Luther, her other son is absent from the city.

As a brother impressively remarked at the sad interment, "Our deceased sister has left a character, a spirit influence, for us to profit by." Yes, I thought, even that one last talk, or last but one, and the spirit she manifested I shall cherish till we meet again. It comes to me now more precious than gold. Oh, to meet her and all the faithful in Christ, the chief among ten thousand, the One altogether lovely. No more sorrow, no more sighing, no more sickness, no more death, for Christ comes to destroy death.

NETTIE H. SHATTUCK.

Trans-Atlantic Travelers.

The bureau of attendants for trans-Atlantic travelers established in Jersey City and New York City for twenty years by the Pennsylvania System, has proven a great convenience to persons making European trips and to tourists arriving in America at that port. It will be particularly convenient for visitors to the Paris Exposition because the departure docks of most of the Atlantic Steamship Lines are convenient to the new Jersey City Passenger Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

This bureau consists of experienced agents whose duties are to meet passengers arriving in Jersey City and New York over the Pennsylvania Lines and assist them in arranging for trans-Atlantic trips via any of the steamship lines by conducting them to steamships and aiding in preparations for a trip abroad.

These agents will provide cabs operated by the Pennsylvania System and aid passengers with their baggage. They are fully posted on matters pertaining to steamships leaving New York, and arrangements can be made through them for procuring steamship tickets in advance.

They also meet incoming steamships to aid travelers in shaping details for continuing journeys from New York over the Pennsylvania Lines by furnishing tickets, arranging for the transfer of baggage from the steamship docks after it has been passed by customs inspectors, and having the same checked through to destination. They will reserve sleeping car accommodations and relieve persons of the foregoing details, making themselves useful as attendants and guides free of charge.

Further information on the subject may be obtained by addressing the nearest Pennsylvania Lines Ticket Agent, or C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent Cleveland, Ohio.—apr 1

The Nickel Plate Road will run a Homeseekers' Excursion to points in the west, northwest and southwest on April 3rd, 1900. Tickets available on above date good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—apr 3

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12, if the Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work with the "Gospel of the Kingdom," as our cry. Let us support the work with our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Oatman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. DARBY, Sec.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts, Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20 000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the buried sons? A 150 page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for young or old, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large cuts of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at its low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Have you any spare time?—pray.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and H. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbode, Ill., for Bible Study at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods Sec'y.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 a. m. for Bible class and social worship, and preaching each 4th Sunday. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12 m. p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. To those coming a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Sister A. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Church of God, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and Civic train Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by A. F. Wm. once on the 1st Sunday. In the a.m. Sab. Sch. at 9:30 a.m. Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God in Akron, Ohio, meets every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren or friends passing through the city, to meet with us, or if they will be cared for by addressing a card at 1414 V. Baker's, 209 Third Ave. S., Akron, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Friends Church, to study God's Word. 1 p.m. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no elder presiding. Jason Welton, Freedom Sunday School, Sec'y.

Alton, Ill. Sunday School every Sunday at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 1:30 p. m. followed by prayer and social meeting. All welcome.

The Church of God holding meetings every 2nd Sunday in the 10th School House in Grant Co., Ind., one and a half miles N. E. 7th Kokomo. Lord's supper at 2 p. m. and four miles east of Converse, Ind. Meetings Saturday night, and Sunday morning and Sunday evening. All are welcome. A. J. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You your family and friends are cordially invited to attend the Bible Readings every Sunday at 4:00 p. m., 521 Logan Ave., San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God at Saint Vincent, Ind. meet in Odd Fellows Hall on 1st—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by A. F. Wagoner of Bruceville, Ind.

Church of God at Hope of Wenatchee, Wash. The church regularly meets for public and social services every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.— Isaac A. Dickerson.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in a hall on Galena Ave., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible Class and Sunday school. Preaching at 11:00 o'clock where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visiting saints, Brother George Keib, Kessler, or H. L. Jones, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Antlon, Sec'y.

Prayer Line or Park Hill church in Shallbrook, Ind., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eschauer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

The Church of God in Wawaka, Ind., meet every Sunday at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren or friends passing through the city, to meet with us, or if they will be cared for by addressing a card at Lida V. Baker's, 209 Third Ave. S., Akron, Ohio.

The Church of God in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Friends Church, to study God's Word. 1 p.m. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no elder presiding. Jason Welton, Freedom Sunday School, Sec'y.

Alton, Ill. Sunday School every Sunday at 9:45 a. m. Preaching at 1:30 p. m. followed by prayer and social meeting. All are welcome.

The Church of God holding meetings every 2nd Sunday in the 10th School House in Grant Co., Ind., one and a half miles N. E. 7th Kokomo. Lord's supper at 2 p. m. and four miles east of Converse, Ind. Meetings Saturday night, and Sunday morning and Sunday evening. All are welcome. A. J. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You your family and friends are cordially invited to attend the Bible Readings every Sunday at 4:00 p. m., 521 Logan Ave., San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God at Saint Vincent, Ind. meet in Odd Fellows Hall on 1st—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by A. F. Wagoner of Bruceville, Ind.

Church of God at Hope of Wenatchee, Wash. The church regularly meets for public and social services every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.— Isaac A. Dickerson.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in a hall on Galena Ave., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible Class and Sunday school. Preaching at 11:00 o'clock where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visiting saints, Brother George Keib, Kessler, or H. L. Jones, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Antlon, Sec'y.

Prayer Line or Park Hill church in Shallbrook, Ind., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eschauer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

The Church of God in Wawaka, Ind.,

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Thy Rod and Staff.

Perplexed I walk my weary way,
In doubt and darkness, day by day;
I see no earthly light to cheer,
I feel no earthly comfort near;
But weak and fainting though I be,
"Thy rod and staff they comfort me!"

I seek some friendly arm to aid,
The help I need is long delayed,
I look for love to hold me fast,
No human love will always last;
But though all earthly helpers flee,
"Thy rod and staff they comfort me!"

My burdens yet more heavy grow,
As on the weary way I go;
And faint and hungered, weak and worn,
The while for losses great I mourn,
In longing sore I turn to thee,—
Thy rod and staff they comfort me!"

Beneath thy smitings oft I shrink:
Thy bitter cup I would not drink;
I turn aside some path to find,
That through a better land shall wind,
Yet looking back, thy love I see,—
"Thy rod and staff they comfort me!"

And so I walk the weary way
Wherever thou hast set, day by day;
Though smitten sore, I'll onward press
Till I the Promised Land possess;
For faint and hardened though I be,
"Thy rod and staff they comfort me!"

Communicated.

Some Strictures.

Editor Restitution:

I have received a book called Millennial Dawn from a dear sister, and she requests me to say what I think of it, and with your permission I will answer through THE RESTITUTION, so that if there is any benefit to be gained, others may profit by it, and I pray God to guide my mind in what I may write.

In the first place I must say that I find a very great deal of very good things in it, and I also find a good many very false theories in it. I am not going to notice every thing that I think is false, only some of the more important. I read along until I come to chapter 7, page 126, he says, "True, God has power to force man into either sin or righteousness, but his Word declares that he has no such purpose. He could not consistently deny himself." Such a course would be inconsistent with his righteous character and therefore an impossibility. If that is not contradicting himself, I do not know what is. First, to say that he has power to force man to sin, and then in the same sentence to say that it would be an impossibility. Further comment on that is unnecessary.

Next I notice on page 141, he says, "And that full penalty has been paid by the Redeemer or substitute whom God provided." I must say that I am ignorant of how he was a substitute. As I understand the word substitute is to take another's place. I understand that he bought us with his blood, which to my mind is altogether different from being a substitute.

I will now notice what he says on page 172. He says the Son of God became a man. I do not find as he informs us in what way he became a man. This is something of great importance, as on the understanding of it depends our eternal life. I will quote Christ's own words found in John xvi. 8, "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." Now, if he was an individual called the Son of God before he was born of the Virgin, then I confess that I don't know him, and if he was not the Son of God before he was born, then I don't know him. I would like to ask how it would be possible to be in existence as an individual of any kind before he was born, and yet be the Seed of the woman. I find that he thinks because an angel that was called Lord appeared to Abraham and others, that it must have been Christ. We notice that the same person that is called angel is also called Lord and God. I refer to Exodus iii. 2, 4, 6, 13, 14, 15; also iv. 5; Ex. xxiii. 20, 21. God says he will put his name in the angel and they must not provoke him for he would not pardon their transgressions. We find that the angel is called Lord and God all the way through, but no intimation that he was Christ. 1 Cor. x. 4. says, "And did all drink the same spiritual drink: for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and the Rock was Christ." Does that imply that this Rock was the real Christ, or was it a type of Christ. True there are some passages that can be brought to prove that he existed with the Father before the creation of our world, but they can be all harmonized with the other view, that he only existed through the promise, that the Seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head, but the view that he was the Seed of the woman cannot be harmonized with the notion that he existed before his birth.

In chapter 10, he says that Adam was perfect. All I need to say on that is that any thing that is perfect can not be improved on, and the fact that Adam fell proves that he was not perfect, only very good. We find that Christ was not perfect, but had to stand a trial that he might attain to perfection. Heb. v. 8, 9. Though he was a Son, yet learned he obedience by things which he suffered; and being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him.

From all that I can gather from what he says about spirit or spiritual bodies, he doesn't seem to know what a spirit body is, for he says on page 182, "But what a spirit body is, we know not. Christ says in speaking of the children of the resurrection in Lu. xx. 36, "Neither can they die any more: for they are equal to the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection." 1 John iii. 2, "Behold, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. We know that our Savior had flesh and bones after his resurrection, for he says, Luke xxiv. 39, "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see: for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have." He did not say that a spirit or a spiritual body hath not flesh and bones, but a spirit or phantom or ghost as the idea was. And we know that he had a tangible body because he could eat and drink. And we know that the angels had tangible bodies, because they could eat and drink." Gen. xviii. 8. "And he took butter and milk and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat."

On page 186, he says, "Nowhere in the Scriptures is it stated that angels are immortal, granted that the word immortal is not used with reference to them, what does Christ mean when he says in speaking of the children of the resurrection? That they cannot die any more but are equal to the angels? Certainly if the children of the resurrection are immortal, so must the angels be. He quotes where some of the angels are to be destroyed to prove that they are immortal. That is all right, those that are destroyed are not immortal, but that does not prove that those that did keep their first estate are not immortal. It is altogether likely that the angels were once on probation, but as there is nothing said about it, we have no right to try to pry into it. What is revealed is for us and for our children. Deut. xxix. 29.

On page 190, he says, "It is not because the chosen ones were better than others, that God gave them the invitation to the divine nature, for he passed by the angels who had not sinned and called some of the redeemed sinners to divine honors. I would like to know if they are sinners after they are redeemed. I would also like to know for what reason he chose some in preference to others, if they were not better than others. God selects according to fitness or ability.

On page 265, in speaking of the increase of knowledge he says, "This increase of knowledge among men, which is of God's appointment, and comes to pass in his own due time, is one of the mighty influences which are now at work binding Satan, curtailing his influence and circumscribing his power in this "day of operation" for the settling up of God's kingdom in the earth. It would seem according to this that Satan has not as much power now as he formerly had. But we find that the reverse is the case. From our observation of the state of the world, we see that it is getting worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived. And this agrees with the teaching of Holy Writ. We find according to John's revelations that the devil is bound until the inauguration of the day of the Lord. In fact all that John saw and heard takes place in that day, for he says in the first chapter and 10th v., "I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, heard behind me a great noise as of a trumpet." The time, the Lord's day, shows when it is to take place, I am aware that most Bible students try to make out that John's Lord's day was or is the first day of the week or Sunday, but I fail to find any place in God's Word where it says so. We find day of the Lord, and judgment day, but that is the only place in the Book where the expression Lord's day is used, and it refers to the day that God has given him to remove the curse and bring everything into subjection to his rule.

The last place that I shall notice is found on page 290, he says, "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God." It should be noticed also, that the Master does not mention that he or the Apostles will be visible with Abraham. He goes on to show that the saints will be of a higher order than the old worthies. It seems to me that this sounds very much like what our Lord says of some when they are bidden to a feast and they take the highest seat, but they get set back.

Now, dear sister and readers, take the Word of God for your guide and don't be led astray by the sophistry of the evil one, but press on to the mark of our high calling in Christ Jesus. Amen.

J. B. LENT.

The X Ray Papers. No. 6.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light."

Rev. B. In our last interview, Mr. Mack, we were investigating the narrative of the rich man and Lazarus. There are a few more passages of Scripture I would like to take up and examine. One is Christ's answer to the thief on the cross.

Mack. I am willing, friend B, to take up and investigate any text which you think sustains the popular theory of the immortality of the soul. It is truth that we should search for, the truth alone will sustain us in the great day of God's judgment, and we should lay aside all prejudice, and preconceived ideas, and search for it, as we would search for a hidden treasure.

Rev. B. In Luke xxiii. 42-43, it reads, "And he said unto Jesus, Lord remember me, when thou comest into thy kingdom, and Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise." I consider the answer of Jesus recorded here as an impregnable bulwark against the soul sleeping theory. If the thief went to Paradise that day with Christ, as this answer declares he should, then this statement must ever stand as a clear announcement of the uninterpreted immortality of the soul.

Mack. Friend B, you did well to put that if in your statement, "If the thief went to Paradise that day." Unfortunately for your theory, we have good circumstantial evidence that the thief did not go to Paradise that day, and we have the most positive evidence that Jesus did not go there on that day. As to the thief he was taken down from the cross at the close of the day, "that he should not remain on the cross on the Sabbath day, and his legs were broken." For what purpose would they break his legs, only to keep him from escaping. When they came to Jesus they found him already dead. Therefore they did not break his legs. This shows that the thief was not dead. See John xix. 32-33. The Jews counted their day from sunset, and the thief was taken down at the close of the day, that is at sunset. Now, friend B, if the thief's condition was such as to require the breaking of his legs to keep him from escaping, it is not likely that he died in the few remaining minutes of that day. I consider this good circumstantial evidence that the thief did not go to Paradise that day.

Rev. B. But, Mr. Mack, how will you reconcile that statement with Jesus's answer to the thief? Was he mistaken when he made that reply?

Mack. O no, friend B, Jesus was not mistaken. The mistake lies elsewhere, but we will come to that point further on. As to Jesus going to Paradise that day, I think we have the most positive evidence that he died and went into the grave or sepulchre that day. The prophets foretold that he would die, or be cut off, but not for himself, as stated in Isa. liii. 8, and Dan. ix. 26. Christ himself declared that he should be put to death. Matt. xx. 19, "And they shall scourge him and put him to death, and the third day he shall rise again." And the Apostles declare, time and again, that he was put to death. In Rom. v. 6, we read, "In due time Christ died for the ungodly." In 1 Cor. iii. 4, Paul tells us, that "Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the Scriptures."

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, all those texts of course refer only to the body, the tabernacle of clay which he occupied while here on earth. They could not crucify the immortal soul of Christ, the actual Christ, for he was the eternal Son of God, the second person of the glorious holy trinity, and of course could not die.

Mack. Well, friend B, if that be true, that the actual Christ did not die, and it was only the clay tenement that died, what condition are we in? We have only a clay sacrifice for our sins, and if the actual Christ did not die, he could not be raised from the dead, "and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain, ye are yet in your sins, then they which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." 1 Cor. xv. 17, 18. Friend B, this leaves us in a bad condition. In Acts ii. 25-27, we read, "For David speaketh concerning him, I foresaw the Lord always before my face for he is on my right hand, that he should not be moved, therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad, moreover also, my flesh shall rest in hope, because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, (hades, the grave); neither wilt thou suffer thine holy one to see corruption." Ver. 31, he seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ that his soul was not left in hell (hades, the grave) neither his flesh did see corruption." Here, friend B, Peter quotes from a prophecy of David, and goes on to show that it could not apply to David, for he was both dead and buried, and refers them to his sepulchre, for the resting place of David, therefore David's soul was left in hades (the grave), and his flesh did see corruption, and that "David had not ascended to heaven." Ver. 34. This does not look like the righteous going to heaven at death, friend B, for this was said near a thousand years after the death of David, and he was said to be a man after God's own heart. Acts xiii. 22. And if popular theory be true, he ought to have been in heaven all that long space of time. Now Peter applying this prophecy of David's directly to Christ, "that his soul was not left in hell (hades, the grave) neither did his flesh see corruption, shows conclusively that Christ's soul and body, all there was of him, went into the grave, but did not remain there, for he arose again the third day according to the Scriptures. Now, friend B, if the Immaculate of God had not immortality until he was raised from the dead, is it not presumptuous of us, to claim to already possess it in this life. Besides we read in 1 Tim. vi. 15, that "God only hath immortality." Paul in Rom. ii. 7, that we must "seek for glory, honor and immortality, and our reward will be eternal life." Why seek for that we already have? And in John v. 26, Christ says, "As the Father hath life in himself, so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself." This is Christ's definition of immortal life, have we this life at present? Notice, friend B, we are to seek for this life, and we must seek for it in the way God has directed, and not try to fix up a plan of our own.

Rev. B. I cannot accept the idea that Christ's soul went into the grave. It sounds to me almost like blasphemy to make such a statement.

Mack. That may be, friend B. The chief priests and scribes accused Christ of blasphemy, when he told them the truth. But I will give you a little caution in reference to what we believe, and what we reject. You will find it recorded in 1 John v. 10, "He that believeth on the Son of God, hath the witness in himself, he that believeth not God hath made him a liar, because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son." You can see, friend B, it is quite a serious matter to disbelieve any of the record. Now, these statements of Peter, which we have been examining, are part of the record God has left of his Son, and it behooves us to accept of them as the truth. In the 30 verse Peter says to the Jews, "Therefore, let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus whom ye crucified both Lord and Christ." Now, friend B, it was the same person that was crucified that was made both Lord and Christ, and as you say the immortal soul, the actual Christ of whom you speak, could not be crucified, could not die, then that is a Christ of whom the Scriptures give no account of, for the Christ of the Scriptures is the same Jesus that was crucified; the same Christ that "died according to the Scriptures who was buried, and rose again the third day according to the Scriptures." In Matt. xxviii. 5, 6, we read, "Ye seek Jesus who was crucified, he is not here, for he is risen." As he said, "Come see the place where the Lord lay." This is the testimony of the angel. The explicit reason given why the Lord was not in the tomb, was that he was risen. In Eph. iv. 8-10, we read, "When he ascended up on high he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. Now that he ascended, what is it that he also descended, first into the lower parts of the earth. He that ascended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might fill all things." Paul is here speaking of that same Jesus, who was made both Lord and Christ. He says, Christ first descended into the lower parts of the earth (the grave) before he ascended.

We will find some more positive proof in reference to this matter by turning to Rev. i. 18, where Christ says, "I am he that liveth and was dead, and behold I am alive and for evermore. Amen. And have the keys of hell (hades, the grave), and of death." Now friend B, this is the Christ of God, the Christ of the Scriptures, that is here speaking. He says he was dead, but as you claim that the Christ of whom you speak did not die, did not go into the grave, then he does not hold the keys of the grave and of death, and therefore he will have no power to open the graves, the day of the resurrection.

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, with all your argument, the answer of Christ to the thief stands unshaken, unless you can make it appear that he was mistaken.

Mack. I stated that the mistake lay elsewhere. We will now see if we can find it. The answer of Christ reads, "Verily, I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise." Now, friend B, all we have to do to harmonize this passage with the other Scriptures, is to place the comma after today, instead of after thee, making today an adverb qualifying the word say. The answer would then read, "Verily, I say unto thee today, shalt thou be with me in Paradise." Thus all difficulties of the text are cleared away and it is made to harmonize with the rest of the Scripture.

Rev. B. But we must not add to nor take from the Scriptures, or change their meaning in any manner.

Mack. This is not adding to or taking from. Punctuation is not inspiration; the Scriptures in the original Greek had neither punctuation, nor spacing of words. Punctuation is a modern invention, the comma as now used, has only been in use a little over four hundred years, and there have been changes in punctuation of our common version, since it was first printed. Therefore, when we find a punctuation mark that causes a clash with other portions of the Scripture, we have the right, yea, it is our duty, to make the change so as to make it harmonize with the plain teaching of the Word. that form of expression is not uncommon in the Scriptures. In Zech. ix. 12, we have a similar expression, "Turn you to the stronghold, ye prisoners of hope, even today, do I declare that I will render double unto you." When we consider all the circumstances surrounding this case we can see the propriety of Jesus using the word today to make his statement more emphatic, "Verily, I say unto thee today, that dark day, when he was suffering the untold agonies of the cross, forsaken apparently by God and man, when apparently all his claims to the Messiahship, and the setting up of his kingdom were false and he was proven to be an imposter. Yet in that hour of his greatest humility he could assure the penitent thief that when he came into his kingdom, and re-established Paradise on earth, his request should be granted. Thus there is a force and beauty in this answer of Jesus, which if the import had been understood, it would have lifted a load of sorrow and gloom from the sad hearts of his disciples. Thus placing the comma after today, all difficulty is removed and this passage is made to harmonize with the statement that "the dead know not any thing, there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in the grave whither thou goest."

J. B. MCCLAIN.

(To be continued.)

Report.

Dear Restitution:

Brother D. T. Halstead, of Rensselaer, Ind., began preaching at Morinh, Ill., March 7th, and preached 13 discourses to a good audience most all the time. While there was no additions to the church, yet there was good seed sown, and we trust to God for the increase. Brother Halstead is a good reasoner and one that has done much work for the Master.

Yours, in the blessed hope.

Z. E. BRANT.

In a Minute.

If you asked Dora to do anything she would reply, "In a minute." It was a bad habit she had. "Dora, please bring me a drink of water." "In a minute." "Dora, go up stairs and bring me down my comb." "Yes, mother, in a minute." "Dora, come to your dinner." "In a minute."

One day the bird was hopping about on the floor. Somebody went out leaving the door open, just as "somebody" is always doing. Dora's mother said, "Dora, shut the door, or the cat will be after your bird."

"Yes, mother, in a minute," said Dora. "I just want to finish this line in my drawing." But the cat did not wait till this was done. In he popped, and with one dart he had the bird in his mouth.

Down went the slate on the floor, and away went the cat, bird and Dora. There was a wild chase on the lawn. "In a minute" Dora came back weeping, with the poor bird in her hand, but, oh! the life had all been shaken out of him.

How Dora cried! Mamma was sorry for her, but said: "A great many things may happen 'in a minute,' Dora. I hope the next time you are told to do a thing, you will do it at once."—Mary Addison.

"What a difference have we often seen betwixt our afflictions at our first meeting with, and at our parting from them! We have entertained them with sighs and tears, but parted from them with joy, blessing God for them as the happy instruments of our own good."—Flavel.

The Restitution.

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MARCH 28, 1900. NUMBER 12.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

Elkhart, Ind. 11 St.

Oregon

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAR. 28, 1900

IN self-righteousness there are two elements—ignorance of God, and pride of heart.

As our minds are little thimble minds it would be well to fill them with the very best.

IT is one of the most important businesses of the life of every true believer, to die daily.

IF we knew as much of God as Asaph did we would have to say as he did, "So foolish was I."

IN coming to God in prayer, we are in little danger of asking too much, if we but ask in harmony with his will.

IF we want to realize how sinful sin is, in the sight of God, we cannot do better than to frequently visit Calvary.

IF we approach God with the confidence of those who know him, and the diffidence of those who know themselves, we will approach him in vain.

IT is not an uncommon thing to hear people speak against the infallibility of the Pope, when there is at the time another Pope in their own hearts.

HE who is taught of God realizes what prayerless prayer, means,—what praiseless praise means,—what it is to feel, that in things in which others commend us, we have to take the lowest place before God!

READER, we want to ascertain if you are really fighting the good fight of faith? If you are, how have the battles gone so far? Have you been successful enough to enable you to rejoice in the victory that stands connected with a subdued will?

WHILE all the commandments of Jesus must be obeyed, they do not always furnish the motives to obedience. The great motives to obedience are furnished by the promises. The vast love they disclose appeal to our affection, and we love him because he loves us.

"IN English, two negatives are equivalent to an affirmative; they destroy each other. In Greek it is different,—they strengthen the negation; and a third negative makes it stronger still and so does a fourth and a fifth. In Hebrews xiii. 5, occur these words, "For he hath said, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." Only two of the five negatives here employed are translated into English; but they are all there; and thank God, they are there to emphasize a precious promise, and make it more than doubly sure, so that we have no room to doubt him. The Greek is equivalent to the following:—"I will not, I will not leave thee; I will never, never, never forsake thee."

AN old writer has said: "We have too much gunpowder about us to go in the way of sparks." Experience teaches that this is true, and the Scriptures also sanction the sentiment. Solomon says "Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil-doers, avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away," doubtless because evil communications corrupt good manners; the tendency of the flesh is to respond to such an appeals, and assert itself as Master of the situation; it only needs the merest touch to rouse it to activity. Under these circumstances it is always timely to pray in the words of our Lord, "Lead us not into temptation;" or as in the Diaglot, "Abandon us not to trial."

The Kingdom of God.

Daniel the prophet informs us in 2nd chapter and 44th verse that in the days of certain kings, the God of heaven shall set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed, but which shall break in pieces and consume all other kingdoms. The context shows that this kingdom is one which will be established on the earth,—that it will be a political organization embracing the population of the whole earth. The same truth is taught in Daniel's 7th chapter where the Son of Man is seen in vision to have given him dominion, and a glory, and a kingdom that all peoples, nations and languages shall serve him. This is doubtless what Jesus refers to in the 19th of Luke where he compares himself to a Nobleman going to a far country to receive a kingdom and to return. 2 Tim. iv. 1.

Many ridicule the idea that Jesus is to come to earth as a real King,—but the idea is thoroughly Scriptural, as can be easily proven; and moreover the rule of such a monarch,—omnipotent, righteous and just is what earth's inhabitants need. Just take a look at the close of the 19th century, which boasts so much of its progress and reforms? Do not the few luxuriate at the expense of the many? Are not the faces of the poor in many cases ground day by day? Is. iii. 15. Does not iniquity abound in every street of the teeming cities? Ah, yes; no one can dispute this. Men are civilized, forsooth, but here and there in times of great plenty, even there are hungry ones crying for bread, and the poor die in the streets. But this state of things will not always obtain. The gospel inspires the hope of a better day. It tells us of GOD'S KINGDOM coming. Listen a moment to the Spirit in Isaiah. He says, "Behold a King shall reign in righteousness, and princes shall rule in judgment, and a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land; and with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth; and shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked; and righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins. Isa. xxxii. 42 and xi. 4, 5.

Nothing could be more clear than the fact that Jesus Christ who left the earth near 1900 years ago will come again as literally and really as he went away. See Acts i. 11. He will not come again as the despised Galilean, but will come to take to himself his great power and reign, for he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet." 1 Cor. xv. 25.

It was promised to Abraham that in HIS SEED all nations should be blessed. Gen. xxii. 18; Gal. iii. 16. And the Psalmist records the promise that the uttermost parts of the earth shall be his possession. Man has long been ruled by man, and with what ill success we know. But under his rule the battle bow shall be cut off and he shall speak peace to the people, Zech. ix. 10, and wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of his times, Isa. xxxiii. 6; and the promise realized, "As truly as I live saith the Lord, the whole earth shall be filled with my glory.' Num. xiv. 21.

Does some one ask how this can be of any benefit to me,—it may not come in my time? It is good news certainly, but not for ME. Yes,—friend; it is good news for you. Jesus said to his disciples, "Fear not little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." Luke xii. 32. Men are called by God to his kingdom and glory, 1 Thes. ii. 12, and it is written that the kingdom and greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven shall be given to the saints of the Most High."

The above Scriptures make it very evident then that those who are Christ's at his appearing shall have a part in the kingdom of God. Matt. xxv. 34.

But friend, flesh and blood cannot enter the kingdom of God. It is necessary to obtain eternal life,—and this can only be had by believing in the Christ of God, John iii. 15, and becoming united with him in the likeness of his death, that we may be in the likeness of his resurrection,—and then, as he is our life, when he appears we shall be made like him, ALIVE FOR EVERMORE. Rev. i. 8.

A Week of Prayer.

One of the most important signs of the times is the genuine alarm manifested by the Methodist church over the condition of their membership. The bishops have discovered that for some years past their gains have been decreasing and finally in 1898 came to a standstill, while in 1899 there was a visible failure to keep up numbers. It is so serious that they have announced to the Church in general that a call is made for a week, March 25 to April 1, as a special reason for prayer for a revival of revivals. Following is the call, and shows the plight they are in. It is but an index of the condition of other churches. What will the end be?

Dear brothers and sisters in the church, we ask you to set apart the days from March 25, to April 1, inclusive, as a season of fasting or abstinence and prayer. We ask you to assemble yourselves in your accustomed places of worship at least once each day, humble yourselves before God, worship him, personally lay aside every weight and the easily besetting sin, and make earnest supplication to him.

Brothers in the ministry, the situation presses us to our closets and down on our knees. The people are what we inspire and lead them to be. Today our Methodism confronts a serious situation. Our statistics for the last year show a decrease in the number of our members. Year before last our advance was checked. Last year our advance column was forced back a little. The lost ground is paved with the dead. We are surrounded by powerful enemies. The attack is on every side.

We, the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, after careful review of the work and prayerful self-examination, ask the church to unite with us in a week of fasting or abstinence and prayer that the unsaved members of our families and our unsaved neighbors may be converted and brought into the church, and that all our ministers may have such a baptism of power that God's Word, spoken by their mouths, may have such success that it may never be spoken in vain, but be followed by results bringing glory to God's name and spiritual power to his church.

News Notes.

The Sultan's irade, published verbatim in the Frankfort Zeitung, of March 25th, decrees that henceforth all railway concessions for the Black Sea basin—roads already authorized alone exempted—shall be granted to Russian subjects alone and that the conditions shall be the same as those granted for the Bagdad railway. The Sultan, according to the irade, confidently expects that both the capital and technical skill of the friendly neighboring country will be at the disposal of Turkey. The irade does not define the Black Sea basin. If Russia succeeds in preventing Turkey's granting a sufficient guarantee to enable the Bagdad line to be built it will probably be found that that Asia Minor is in the Black Sea basin.

The German Foreign office, however, apparently thinks the Russian sphere is the Armenian triangle and the narrow district along the coast to Samsun.

Contradictory reports of pending trouble between the Sultan and his Albanian subjects have been abundant of late, one version declaring that war is imminent, the other assuring the world that no disagreement worth mentioning existed.

The truth is, that a decided disagreement does exist, and, although the Albanians possibly desire to give the matter undue importance, Turkey is undeniably anxious to belittle it. The Albanians have long clamored for greater autonomy, and recently their dislike of the Turkish Governor, Hafuz Pasha, whom the Porte placed over them, resulted in the clamor growing more pronounced. Hafuz Pasha has been recalled although no fault could be found with his administration of affairs, and the Sultan seem determined to reinstate him.

The Albanians refuse to let him return, and it is reported that a number of their warriors, well armed, are assembled near Prizrend and Pristina ready to fight if the attempt be made.

The Porte has sent troops to the Macedonian borders, and thus matters stand at present.

The Servian portion of the inhabitants of Albania sides with Turkey and Hafuz Pasha, but the Bulgarian element is in opposition. That the disagreement, should it not be settled soon, could draw Bulgaria and Servia into the conflict is evident.

The Sultan ignores the powers in the matter of increasing customs dues. The "Sick Man" is creating a good deal of stir just now.

The British-Boer war drags on with no very great changes. The forces marching for the relief of Mafeking are having trouble, and Lord Roberts will be obliged to send more men and guns before the place is free.

Selected.

Religious Outlook in Japan.

Religious questions are among the most discussed topics in Japan. An exact diagnosis of the situation is difficult, but it is known that the present conditions are satisfactory to no one. The Buddhists and Shintoist priests complain that the Christian missionaries have made the people atheists, driving many of them from the old religion and giving them nothing new. Travellers are agreed that the higher classes in Japan have lost their faith, and many of them are actual infidels. Aside from the wars of Christian sects which confuse the Japanese investigators of Christianity, the missionaries labor under disadvantages. Matsumura Kaiseki, in a Japanese magazine, declares that the failure to make converts is due to the discrepancy between practice and preaching. The modern missionaries are, he declares, unlike Paul and Barnabas, who underwent untold hardships in the propagation of their faith and whose devotion and self-denial forced belief. Paul and Barnabas had no men-of-war at their beck and call and would not have used them if they had," he says. The missionary is too often the forerunner of the land grabber, and he reiterates the well-denied charge that the Oriental missionaries lead luxurious lives of ease.

Meanwhile, there are many signs that some of the Japanese statesmen regard it as politic to make Christianity the state religion. Others plan a union of Buddhism, Confucianism, and Christianity. Count Okuma, one of the leading men in the government, is an advocate of such a blending of the religions. "The fundamental idea of Confucianism is benevolence, that of Buddhism compassion or mercy, and that of Christianity love," he said in a recent interview. These feelings form the basis of all religion, and he believes they would afford a common ground for union. "The founders of the different religions knew their own people and their own part of the world only, and they could not devise any religion suited for all." Count Okuma says that the superstructure should be removed and the foundations laid bare. "Benevolence, compassion and love; cannot Buddhists, Christians and Confucianists come together on these principles and work in harmony?" he asks, and adds that the union is inevitable. Such a religion may be developed in Japan. For it to spread to the West seems absurd.—Chicago Tribune.

Japan Builds Its Own Ships.

The decision of the Japanese to build all their own mail steamers from this time on invites more than passing attention to their big, modern shipyard at Nagasaki.

Until well into the present century the smiling bay had sheltered no more sea-worthy craft than the old-time junks, whose bulky, unpainted hulls and awkward square sails, floating lazily by, are still familiar along the Japanese coasts.

Within more recent years the bay's expansive waters have been crowded with swiftly moving steamers, "ships with fire wheels," as they were called upon their first arrival. But down to the last half decade all these were foreign built.

But within the last two years Nagasaki's ancient haven has become the birthplace of no less than seven typical modern ocean-going steamers of the most recent patterns, and which are Japanese from stem to stern.

The Hitachi Maru was the first-born. It is a steel steamship launched nearly two years ago, and is now in government employ for carrying the mail. It has three decks and measures 462 feet in length by 49 feet in breadth and 33½ in depth. It has a tonnage of 6,360 tons, twin screws, triple-expansion engines and four boilers.

The interesting yard at which these and four other modern steamships have been constructed is the property of the Mitsubishi company, at whose head is Baron Iwasaki, Japan's Croesus, a multi-millionaire, worth the equivalent of more than $70,000,000.

The company takes its name from his family crest, three scarlet stones, which appear on the pennants waving above many great warehouses of Yokohama, Tokio, Nagasaki, and other commercial cities of the land of the rising sun. The Baron, a Samurai by inheritance, received his title to nobility upon the conclusion of the Chinese-Japanese war as a token of appreciation of his many generous gifts for the successful prosecution of that conflict.

Within the yard nothing is wanting in the way of modern equipments to lead one to suppose he is outside the heart of an American city.—Boston Globe.

Bible and Science Accord.

Among the wonders of mathematics, nothing appeals more to the average mind than the computation of eclipses. Not only is it possible to predict them for thousands of years in advance, but there is no mention of a dimming of the sun's light by unusal means set forth in human history which cannot be verified, however ancient the reference. In a recently published work by George P. Chambers, a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, called "The Story of Eclipses," there is a discussion of the going back of the shadow on the sun dial of Ahaz, a Biblical incident of the life of King Hezekiah which has fairly staggered the commentators for many ages. This may be taken to attest in a remarkable degree the accuracy in minute detail of astronomical figures.

The instrument on which this seeming wonder was shown appears to have been a sun dial of a kind not unknown elsewhere in the ancient world, both Jewish and Gentile. By means of an upright style or gnomon, or an orifice in some structure of similar intent, a shadow was cast along a given line, indicating the annual journey of the sun from east to west, and making it bear its own testimony to the solstices and equinoxes, upon which the sacred festivals of antiquity were largely based. There is today a meridian line marked in the floor of the cathedral of Milan, an aperature in the southern wall enabling the sunlight to travel along this at different heights according to the season of the year.

To those unfamiliar with astronomical possibilities the mere statement that the shadow cast by the sun could be moved ten steps, or degrees, backward sounds absurd. Mr. Chambers points out that it must have taken place at noon in order to be effective, since it would have been unnoticed in case the dial referred to was similar to that in Milan cathedral under other circumstances, and would have been less noticeable at any time other than that of the sun approaching the meridian. That ascertained and Hezekiah's reign being approximately known by computation, it is permissible to go back through the annals of astronomy and discover, if possible, whether there was any unusual phenomenon to which this extraordinary exhibition of a backward-going shadow could be referred.

That an eclipse of the upper limb of the sun a little before noon—that is, the cutting off of the light from the upper half of the sun's disk by the interposition of the moon—would have the effect of causing the sun's slight, instead of climbing steadily to the meridian, to sink backward, must be evident. With this in mind the late J. W. Bosanquet undertook the necessary computations. On Jan. 11, B. C. 689, in one of the years accredited to Hezekiah's reign, there was a partial eclipse of the sun at 11:30 o'clock in the morning, visible in Jerusalem. This brings out, in a remarkable manner, the truth of the Biblical statement, since the sacred writers of the day do not seem to have understood the cause.

Other eclipses are mentioned in the Bible, one of which can be positively identified. It is set forth in Amos viii. 9, in the following language: "I will cause the sun to go down at noon and I will darken the earth in the clear day." This language, it is evident can be explained by nothing short of a total eclipse. Archbishop Usher, the sacred chronologist, was the first to seek identification of this eclipse, more than 200 years ago. He failed to hit upon the one now accepted. The German Biblical scholar, Hitzig, also missed the mark. Later Dr. Pusey engaged the attention of the Oxford astronomers for a certain eclipse which was thought to cover the case, but it was not verified.

Somewhat before this, however, Sir H. Rawlinson, the distinguished Assyriologist, found a tablet at Nineveh recording an eclipse which must have taken place on June 15, B. C. 763. The working out of the details of this particular obscuration of the sun was found to fit the facts respecting time and place as predicted by the prophet Amos, the shadow passing over Nineveh and over Samaria as well. This was eighteen years before the beginning of the reign of Tiglath-Pileser and the prominence given it by the historians, both sacred and profane, marks it as total. Its historical importance, since it is a fixed date, and its fixation lowers by fully twenty-five years the reign previously alloted to the Jewish monarchy.

The above cut from the Chicago Daily News, will doubtless be of great interest to THE RESTITUTION readers.

The cry in years that are past, has been that science and the Bible did not accord, but as time advances and learning increases, and matters of science approach nearer perfection, it is clearly shown that the declarations of Holy Writ were far in advance of science falsely socalled. We can see from the above, even what people loved to call the "Impossible stories of the Bible," are now being demonstrated as scientific truths.

Praise God for the confirmation of his Holy Word.

W. H. WILSON.

Disposal of the Transvaal.

The settlement of affairs in the Transvaal at the conclusion of the war is an engrossing subject of discussion in England at present. The Pall Mall Gazette prints a lengthy editorial attempting to show why annexation is inevitable. After discussing the alternatives of the situation the Gazette concludes as follows:

"To restore internal independence to the Transvaal would, in fact, be a piece of insanity, and one which we do not for one moment believe the ministry contemplates. But it is as well to recognize that the pressure which will be brought upon Ministers to give back the Transvaal its republican form of government will be great. Those who urge such action are apparently blind to the inevitable. Suppose for the moment, that Great Britain decided to give again to the Boers their independence, it could only be on the express condition of absolutely equal treatment of all white inhabitants. All outlanders who had settled in the Transvaal up to 1895 would get the franchise. The result would be the immediate swamping of the Boer vote—and not improbably the lot of the Boers would be worse than if the country had been made a British colony.

"There seems, in truth, but one possible ending to the question, and in view of that fact it may be pointed out how unlikely to happen are the evils predicted as bound to follow annexation by England. In the first place it is said that the Transvaal would become a second Ireland. This is grotesquely untrue. Conceivably the Orange Free State might; but the Transvaal could not, if only because three-fourths of the population would represent the loyal Uitlenders and but one-fourth the self-styled Nationalists. And it is improbable that (once convinced that their country will be British as long as our empire lasts) the Boers will cherish the lively sentiments of hate which the Celtic race delights to indulge in.

The Boer is an even greater fatalist than the Mohammedan; as Mr. Selous has pointed out, he regarded the result of the 1880–'81 war as the work of God, and he is as likely as not to look upon the result of this war from the same standpoint. Then as to the question of race hatred, this is much less likely to be felt by either party after the lessons of the war—which has already shown the Boer that the British soldier is his equal in the field, and has revealed to the English many sterling qualities which they did not suspect the Boers to possess. Again, as a British subject, the Boer will not find his personal liberty in any way interfered with, or his taxation appreciably the heavier. In years to come, if he continues to be fruitful and multiply, he will obtain an increasing share of political power; and by a frank and constitutional union with the Dutch colonists in the other States may even become the dominant factor in home politics. But as he will find the British colonist as well armed, equally intelligent, more wealthy, and more energetic, he will neither have the power nor the ability to re-enact oppressive laws."

Report.

Dear Restitution:

By request of the Elder of the church at Scholls, and several other brethren, I write to tell you of the series of meetings just closed, held here by H. F. Tyler, of Portland.

Some six years ago this brother withdrew from the Methodist ministry on account of pre-millennial views held by him, and since then he has preached the coming of Christ, the restoration of Israel, and kindred views held by us as a people, much of which he has dug for himself from the Bible. He has prepared and sells a pamphlet, "Present Truth," containing an outline chart of the five covenants, and also of the three cosmos, and their divisions. This chart enlarged hung upon the wall during the meeting and through the eye assisted the mind to understand better our Father's plan of salvation.

In addition to this, the fundamental doctrines of repentance, conversion, heart purity and holiness were presented so earnestly that all who heard were benefitted, and we think helped to resolve to live better lives.

The brother goes from here to Lake Shore, to talk to the church there.

The last evening of the meeting at Scholls the church was filled and nearly all went forward to take the speaker by the hand, and wish him God speed, and thus showed their appreciation of his labors among us, and desire for a further acquaintance.

Yours in hope,

W. W. JAQUITH.

Poetry.

Consecrating Self.

You have feet—then run God's errands
Here and there, and everywhere—
Feet that should be ready, eager,
Every day to go—and dare.
Consecrate them now to Jesus
He will show just where to go;
Place true guide-boards 'long your life-path,
Tho' you wander to and fro.

You have hands—then do his bidding—
(Hands so strong that folded lie,)
Strength and youth to be his servant,
As the moments quickly fly.
Consecrate them now to Jesus
He will give you work to do,
Lay it just within your grasping
Work which you will never rue.

You have lips—then tell his goodness,
So that all the world may hear;
Loudly, gladly sing his praises,
How he daily grows more dear.
Consecrate them now to Jesus
Guard and keep them ever pure,
Saying naught to give him sorrow—
Thus unto the end endure.

You have eyes—then see his miracles
Crowding round us every hand—
Health, home, friends, and all possessions.
And this great, free, happy land
Consecrate them now to Jesus!
They were given you to see
All his works so grand and wondrous,
Wisely planned for you and me.

You have ears—then hear his teaching;
They are whispered clear and low,
Morning, noon, and in the night-time,
As you still in wisdom grow.
Consecrate them now to Jesus
Hear his pleading, tender voice;
Read his oft-repeated warnings,
For his friendship now rejoice.

You've a heart—give that to Jesus;
Lay it humbly at his feet,
Saying, "As I am, oh, take me,
Make me for thy service meet."
Give it gladly, don't withhold it,
He has bought it with his death;
Just for you, on dark Golgotha,
Did he die a yield up his breath.

Consecrate them now to Jesus—
Feet, hands, lips, and eyes, and ears!
He will give you strength to serve him;
Scatter, too, your many fears.
All for Jesus—all our talents,
All our labor, all we have;
Then when Jesus comes in glory
He'll come for us, he comes to save.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

I am all alone here in West Branch, Wash. I have no preaching except THE RESTITUTION and my Bible to guide me, but I think they will do. I am still trusting in God, and waiting for Christ to come.

Yours in hope.

HIRAM CORDLL.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

You who are struggling for endless life, you who are trying to overcome this present evil world, you who are diligent in adding to the precious faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, charity. Let me, as we are members of the same family, ask you, are these things in us? Surely, they must be, or we shall be unfruitful. Are they abounding in us, always abounding in the work of the Lord, yes, that is what the Word says, fullness, running over, not barren. Stop, beloved, let us examine ourselves closely, does Christ dwell in our hearts, (or minds,) by faith? Does the Words of Christ dwell in you richly, or poorly? If Christ is not in us, Paul says we are reprobates. 2 Cor. xiii. 5. I trust we are not reprobates. No, rather, would I believe that we are diligent in every good word and work, still increasing in the knowledge of God. I am now in the field, trying in much weakness to hold up the Lamp of Life to poor dying mortals. I find that confidence with the people, in God, and in his Word is almost gone, and I must tell it. Confidence among the household of faith is not what it should be, and I am reminded of the Scripture that says, "Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath greater recompense of reward." Confidence in God's promises. Being like our Father Abraham, fully persuaded that what God has promised he is able to perform. Confident that he who has said he will come, will surely come. Confident that if faithful we will be among the number that will say, when the Life Giver comes, "Lo, this is our God, we have waited for him and he will save us. This is the Lord, we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation." This is the time and day that the good old apostle to the Gentiles expected to realize his hope, his joy, his crown of great rejoicing. Even his brethren that he had known in this life, and had begotten them by the gospel to meet them again at the coming of our Lord, Jesus Christ, and to realize that he had not labored in vain. Then will have come the morning without clouds, the morning of rejoicing, the morning when the upright shall have dominion. Now is the night of weeping. Let us remember that it is written, "Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh in the morning." Glad, happy morning! A morning that will know no night. A life that will know no end. A home where there will be no more curse, sin, sickness, sorrow nor death. "Seeing we look for such things, what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness."

Your Brother, in Christ.

J. T. PRIME.

Editor Restitution:

I look to THE RESTITUTION as to a watchman upon a tower, and my thought as I look it through is "What of the hour" and if it brings me no signs of a soon coming Savior my heart sinks. I do not read the discussions, but everything that shows that the truth is being preached from the pulpits as in a January number, is indeed welcome, and the words of sound doctrine are strengthening and dear, for one minister here seems to think they have given all the doctrine necessary when they read the lesson, for they turn to some minor point for their text. Yet, they are good, whole-souled men, sincere, unselfish and Christlike in their homes and among men. Of them it cannot be said that they fail of their duty to wife or children or are their dealings with men anything but honest and open. God is the Judge between them and us. Let us look to our own armor—be sure that we have it all on, and let none of us pass as leaders in truth and righteousness while we fail in common duties. I like so much Bro. Railsback's closing words in his letter from Hot Springs. With him I say, "Let us be faithful so that when the Master comes we may receive a crown of glory" and may he come soon, lest we faint by the way.

Yours in hope of peace and joy when Jesus comes.

A. B. HAUPT.

Dear Restitution:

We wish to contribute a few lines to the Love Feast column. We are certainly living in the time of the end, the time spoken of by Daniel. We read of troubles in foreign countries, perplexities of nations. Now there is trouble at home, right at our door. The Capital of Kentucky was last week declared in a state of insurrection caused by the assassination of one of the contestants for the office of Governor. We are not in politics and dont care to write too much on this subject, only another evidence that we are living in perilous times. Violence is risen up into a rod of wickedness. The time is come, the day draweth near, neither shall any strengthen himself in the iniquity of his life. Dear ones, let us be careful how we live. "Remember, therefore, how thou hast received and heard and hold fast and repent. If thou, therefore shalt not watch I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee."

Yours in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes.

LEE & EMMA SOUTHERLAND.

Dear Restitution:

I am a little late in sending in my greeting, but I remember that he that came in the eleventh hour received as much as the others. I have been reading the letters for the past few weeks, and I am so glad that so many are trying to serve the Lord, but it seems to me that we ought to hear from others, all have not sent in their letters yet. I want to say to the brothers and sisters, that Jesus is very dear to me, and with his help I expect to hold out faithful to the end. Why should we not, when we have so much to hold out for? Yes, we should be ever ready to give an answer for our hope too. We all have our trials and tribulations in the world, so did our Savior, and the servant is not greater than his Lord. By and by all our tears shall be wiped away.

"If we enter into glory
At the resurrection light,
And in triumph sing the story
Of the love that banished night,
Shall we murmur at the sleeping
Till that great resplendent day,
Will it be a cause for weeping,
When our tears are wiped away?"

Yours in hope.

ALSINA BROOKS.

Editor Restitution:

When we see the names of many of our brothers and sisters it gives us much delight. It is a comfort to know that they are still among the living, and a joy to us to hear them express themselves, that they were desiring the return of the Lord. Be patient, loved ones, the signs of the times denote that it will not be long until we will be ushered into another age and there meet him, who gave his life a ransom for the sins of the world. Oh glorious thought, may we be among those called upon, that we may be an heir, (or sharer) in the glorious work of redemption. You read that after the return of Christ to build the tabernacle of David, that the residue (or left) of men, might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom his name is called. If I understand the language of the apostle, those whom his name is called upon are to be sought after, by whom? would naturally be the next question. He says, that the residue, which the prophet Amos calls remnants, the remainder.—Webster. We find, if I mistake not, that those on whom his name is not called in this age, will seek after those whom his name is called upon in the next age. This is the glory to be revealed in us. Glorious thought. Study to show thyself approved of the Master, rightly dividing the Word. Pray for us in secret that we may be rewarded openly, and shine forth as the stars in the day that God [illegible] his jewels.

Your Brother and Sister.

J. R. & JULIA FISK.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, of the One Faith:

It makes my heart glad to read the many encouraging letters from different places. I have been connected with the church only a few months. I am a strong believer in the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ. I feel impressed with the thought that according to the Word of God, we are in the eve of the harvest, and can not make ready too fast for our world's Redeemer. Of how little consequence is all else, compared to a home in that future kingdom where sorrow is unknown. I feel sometimes as though I was all alone in the world with the exception of two dear ones of the one faith that live in the city of Winchester, Va. The nearest church of my faith is twenty-five miles away, so we deem it a privilege to contribute to the love feast, as we are so widely separated from those of like precious faith, and so many of us do not have the happy privilege of listening to a true gospel sermon delivered by any of our ministers. Let me consider the years and ask myself if there is anything in my life that is particularly pleasing in the sight of God. May we all make a greater effort to fill up the time with good works, and also may we live nearer to God, ever remembering that each passing year brings us nearer to that joyful reunion when time shall be no more. May we keep our lamps trimmed and burning, is my humble prayer.

Yours in hope.

C. V. DUNLAP.

Dear Household of Faith:

I thought I would write a few lines to-night as I love so well to read the letters in our dear old paper, from the brothers and sisters whose faces I have never seen in this world, but I truly believe if we are all faithful to God and his written Word, I shall see them in the kingdom soon to come. Paul says, "Speak often one to another," and there are so many loved ones whom we cannot see and talk with that I think it will mean just the same if we write often to one another through the paper. Dear brothers and sisters, let us make the one great aim be, to cheer and encourage each other by the way and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations that we may have to endure. We are told to let our light shine, and how can we do this in any better way than to help others to the knowledge of God, and the beautiful plan of salvation. Can we do this by drawing ourselves into a nut-shell, as it were, and say we are to come out from among them? Oh no, no. That is not what is meant by coming out from among them. We are not to partake of their sins. Touch not, taste not, handle not; for all such perisheth. It with the common people that Jesus was with most, and they heard him gladly, and he eat with publicans and sinners also. Let us follow his plan, go where we will find work to do, go where people need our help, work in their Sunday Schools and prayer-meetings. They will let you, and ere long you will reap if you faint not. May each and every one of us earnestly contend for the holy faith a little longer. Don't get weary in well-doing; for if we prove faithful we shall receive that great reward that has been promised—eternal life. I have not been a member of the church but a few months, and I ask an interest in the prayers of all God's people, that I may be among the faithful ones who hear the "well done, good [illegible] servant, enter thou into [illegible] my Lord." May the good [illegible] and at last admit-ter [illegible] an abundant entrance into h[illegible] lasting kingdom.

Thi[illegible] prayer of your Sister in Christ.

CARRIE E. UPDIKE.

Editor Restitution:

It is [illegible] much pleasure and great satisfaction that I read the many good things presented in your valuable paper, which makes its weekly visits to our place. Its plain teaching, if [illegible] the Bible aright, should be appreciated by every Bible Reader in our land, at least those who are not afraid of what man may say, or do unto them. I am willing to admit, that an earnest contention for the faith [illegible] was once delivered to the saints will bring similar results, as it did in that day, with this difference, that [illegible] we live in a land where [illegible] allows every man to [illegible] according to his own conscience. Therefore, we have a protection by law, so long as we do not interfere in other people's rights. It is written, "The gospel of Christ is the power of God to salvation to every one that believes it. May we, not only prayerfully but with diligence search of the blessed Word of God, ascertain by his assisting grace just what that gospel is, with a full assurance of faith in those exceeding great and precious promises which God hath made known unto the fathers and confirmed the same in Christ Jesus to all them that believe. Now we believe the ground-work of that which should draw our undivided attention in a certain Seed which has (as we believe) a halo of glory around it, from the promise made to the woman in the Garden of Eden, to the end of the Revelations. So we see that Seed connected with the promise made to Abram, (Gen. xii. 7, the name afterward changed to Abraham. Any one with a good reference Bible will be wonderfully surprised if they will begin at the verse referred to, and follow it through without prejudice, or trying to connect it with the theories of the present day. Let the Almighty decide the matter by the eternal Word of Truth. What a beautiful chain of thought will present itself, without any of the comments of Spiritualizers, who have drawn many a person into [illegible]. May God let the light so shine that it will help each and every one who is honest in their intentions see the beauties of his purpose, is my prayer.

Your brother in Christ.

WM. D. ROOT.

Communicated.

The Apostolic Faith. No. 2.

The doctrine of the second coming of Christ and the establishment of his reign of righteousness upon earth, as taught by the Church of God, is not a new doctrine, but, as seen from the extracts already cited, was taught in the early church, and for several centuries met with no appreciable opposition in the church. In further proof of this I append citations from the works of Justin the Martyr (A. D. 110-165) and Irenæus (A. D. 120-202).

In his "Dialogue with Trypho" Justin says, "But I and others who are right-minded Christians on all points, are assured that there will be a resurrection of the dead, and a thousand years in Jerusalem which will then be built, adorned and enlarged, as the prophets Ezekiel and Isaiah and others.....For Isaiah spake concerning this space of a thousand years: For there shall be a new heaven and a new earth, and the former shall not be remembered or come into their heart; but they shall find joy and gladness in it, which things I create. For behold I make Jerusalem a rejoicing and her people a joy; and I shall rejoice over Jerusalem and be glad over my people," etc. [Isa. lxv. 17 end]. He cites verse 22 as follows: "For according to the days of the tree of life, shall be the days of my people, and the works of their toil shall abound," and adds, "Now we have understood that the expression used among these words: According to the days of the tree of life, shall be the days of my people, obscurely predicts a thousand years. For, as Adam was told that in the day he ate of the tree [knowledge of good and evil] he would die, we know that he did not complete a thousand years. We have perceived, moreover, that the expression, The day of the Lord is as a thousand years, is connected with this subject. And further there was a certain man with us, whose name was John, one of the Apostles of Christ, who prophecied, by a revelation that was made to him, that those who believed in our Christ, would dwell a thousand years in Jerusalem, and that thereafter the general, and in short, eternal resurrection shall take place. Just as our Lord also said, They shall neither marry nor be given in marriage, but shall be equal to the angels, the children of the God of the resurrection." Ante-n, Fathers. I. p. 239, 240.

Irenæus, in speaking of the blessings pronounced upon Isaac (Gen. xxvii.), says: "The predicted blessing belongs unquestionably to the times of the kingdom, when the righteous shall bear rule upon their rising from the dead; when also the creation, having been renovated and set free, shall fructify with an abundance of all kinds of food, from the fertility of the earth.....Then again, speaking of Jerusalem, and of him (Christ) reigning there, Isaiah declares, Thus saith the Lord, Happy is he who hath seed in Zion, and servants in Jerusalem. Behold a righteous King shall reign, and princes shall rule with judgment." Citing Isa. lxv. 17-22, he adds, "If however, any shall endeavor to allegorize prophecies of this kind, they shall not be found consistent with themselves in all points.....For all these and other words were unquestionably spoken in reference to the resurrection of the just, which takes place after the coming of anti-christ, ...Now all these things being as they are, cannot be understood in reference to supercelestial matters, for God, it is said, will show to the whole earth that is under heaven, thy glory. But in the times of the kingdom the earth has been called again by Christ (to its pristine condition) and Jerusalem rebuilt after the pattern of the Jerusalem above, of which the prophet Isaiah says, Behold, I have depicted thy walls upon thy hands, and thou art always in my sight.....Of this Jerusalem the former is an image..... Nothing is capable of being allegorized, but all things are steadfast, and true, and substantial.....For as it is God who truly raises up man, so also does man truly rise from the dead, and not allegorically as I have shown repeatedly." (Ante-n. Fathers I. 565, 566.)

"Jerome, the pupil of the Greeks, feels himself already emancipated from 'Jewish opinion,' and he ridicules the old anticipations.....It was reserved for Augustine to give a direction to Western theology which carried it clear of millennarianism. He himself had at one time believed in it; he too had looked forward to the holy Sabbath which was to be celebrated by Christ and his people on earth. But the signs of the times pointed to a different prospect. The church had attained a position of supremacy..... Under these circumstances Augustine was led to grasp and elaborate the idea that the church is the kingdom of Christ;.....he was the first who ventured to teach that the Catholic church in its empirical form was the kingdom of Christ, that the millennial kingdom had commenced with the appearing of Christ and was therefore an accomplished fact. By this doctrine of Augustine's, the old millennarianism, though not completely extirpated, was at least banished from the realm of dogmatic. For the official theology of the church it became a thing of the past."

When attempts are made to find room for millennarianism in a dogmatic system, it must always assume a form in which it would be utterly unrecognizable to the millennarians of the early church, who, just because they were millennarians, despised dogmatic, in the sense of philosophical theology.....It can only exist along with the unsophisticated faith of the early Christians." Prof. A. Harnack, in Enc. Brit.

These statements, coming as they do from a theologian of high standing, and professor of Church History in a German University, carry weight, especially in view of their impartiality and absolute truthfulness.

In our next we shall speak of the nature of man, and how the Bible doctrine was displaced by the products of unenlightened human thought.

A. H. ZILMER.

(To be continued.)

Letter to a Methodist Minister.

I had the pleasure of hearing your sermon last Sunday. I found pleasure in following you until you made the remark, "If there is no hell, there ought to be one made, and a good sized one." After this remark your sermon was all lost to me. I thought you seemed angry with your people and on the outs with mankind in general, felt somewhat like Moses when he said, "Hear now, ye rebels; must we fetch you water out of this rock?" Num. xx. 10. In Psa. cvi. 33, David charges Moses with speaking unadvisedly with his lips on this occasion. When you remarked that there ought to be a hell and a good sized one, my thoughts went back to Moses and the rock Horeb, and I wondered what your people had done to put you in such a temper.

When England wants recruits for the army she employs men who look and talk cheerful, (I mean in the recruiting service) and it seems to me that one who is seeking recruits for the salvation army should look cheerful and talk cheerful if he would succeed in getting re-enforcement. I was pained to notice the number of empty seats in your church, but it is not strange, numbers of people prefer to keep away from an execution, or the recital of things horrible. People are not falling over each other now to hear bad news.

St. Paul in his preaching had much to say about resurrection and what it means to the true believer. St. James preached and wrote about good works, and St. John wrote, "Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed on us," etc. Love was his theme. From which of the Apostles did you get the idea of prospecting through the caverns of the lost? Would you allow a suggestion from one who is interested in the dissemination of Christian knowledge, viz., to just drop all discussion of lost souls, until you have gotten through with the texts bearing on God's purpose in sending the Christ to our world, what we gain by receiving him, what is meant by being a joint-heir with Christ, the nature of the inheritance promised the followers of Jesus and kindred topics, dealing only with the positive. Doctors do not have much, if any thing, to say as to what will follow if the patient fails to take what he prescribes. And the preacher who gives out God's prescription will not be responsible for any who refuse to avail themselves of it. Rome has found the purgatory industry to yield a very substantial revenue. Are you aware that in preaching the eternal torment horror you are endorsing as true, all the intimidation and "cunger" business, the brave martyrs unmasked, at the cost of their life?

At the suggestion of some of our eminent divines our merciful Creator may conclude to build a place to keep all the bad ghosts to themselves where they can be tortured day and night forever. But when he does he will cease to be the God Jesus described as being very pitiful, numbering even the hairs of our head, and having no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, etc. I use the word cunger because I heard of a minister in Ireland who used to use conjuration when he had a bad member. He told the incorrigible member that if he got drunk again, he would turn him into a rat. When the man drank a glass too much after this, he made his wife promise to keep her eye on the cat while he slept.

The gospel is intended to lift us out of childhood, but I sometimes think many of the churches are quite satisfied that we laymen, imagine ourselves only rats. I trust this letter will be received by you in the same spirit the writer sends it. Namely in love of the truth,

ISAAC MCCURRY, Sr.

Many people want the unction and blessing of divine power, who are not quite willing to make the entire consecration necessary to bring it. It is no use to beat around the bush. We must stop pleading, and commence minding God. "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice." We know a little boy who went to campmeeting. While his mother was putting him to bed one night, he heard a great noise in the next tent. "What is that, mother?" "It is a man praying, my son, and I should judge by the way he prays that he wanted to be wholly the Lord's." "Why don't he, then?" Sure enough! We hear people say they want to be wholly the Lord's. Well, why not? They can if they will. People do what they want to do. There is no one who is determined at all hazards to be wholly for God, who can miss the way. Settle it at once that you will go in, and the Holy Spirit will lead you in.

A few Reasons why we should not believe man goes to heaven at death.

Good Reasons why we should not believe man has an immortal soul.

What must I do to be saved?

Where are the dead?

The above are titles to some small 4-page tracts suitable to place in an envelope. Short and to the point. Price 8 copies for 5 cents—or 100 for 25 cents.

Poetry.

Birds in Church.

God's happy children of the air
On leafy boughs are swaying,
While beings fair with forms divine
Are in the churches praying.

Cathedral grand with vaulted skies
The songs of birds are filling;
The wide-extended plains of heaven
Are with their rapture thrilling.

They chant the anthems of their God
And worship him with singing;
Who listens to their songs may hear
The chimes of heaven a-ringing.

In divers notes of sweetest tone
Their lays to us come stealing.
They seem to draw us to the sky,
While in our pews we're kneeling.

We bow before the Lord in prayer,
Our love to him expressing;
The prayer is said; we rise, and lo,
We see a sight distressing.

From bough to bough, from tree to tree,
The bird no longer flitting,
All bruised and crushed and cold and dead,
On ladies' hats are sitting.

Their songs without now never heard,
The minstrels dead or dying;
Within the sinners, vain with pride,
Their God to praise are trying.

They sing aloud their hymns of praise,
And think that God is hearing
While on their shameless hats in truth
Five million birds they're wearing.

And now no chirping inside wild
On airy wings is swelling;
The voiceless birds to church have gone
To find an alien dwelling.

Methinks could all these lifeless birds
Our hearts with song be filling,
A plaintive voice to us would say,
"Why don't you stop this killing?"

An answer bold in haste is made,
"What cares a bird for living?"
Just this, dear friend, to live the life
That God to it is giving.

No tearful voice, no whispered song,
Can end without his knowing;
Spare, then, the birds whose songs do set
The world to music going.

—E. S. Dreher.

Communicated.

Editor Restitution:

I see in THE RESTITUTION of Feb. 21, where the governors of several provinces of Russia are asking the government to remove the restrictions and give the Jews more liberties. This carries our mind back to Exodus xii. 35, 36, "And the children of Israel did according to the words of Moses and they borrowed of the Egyptians jewels of silver and of gold and raiment; and the Lord gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians so that they lent unto them and they spoiled the Egyptians." Now it looks as though they are beginning to find favor in the eyes of their oppressors; it looks as though the iron heel of the Gentiles will soon be removed from their land. In Amos ix. 14, 15, we read, "And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel, and they shall build the waste cities and inhabit them, and they shall plant vineyards and drink the wine thereof, and eat the fruit of them; and I will plant them upon their land and they shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the Lord thy God. The Lord also shall roar out of Zion and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and earth shall shake, but the Lord will be the hope of his people and the strength of the children of Israel, so shall ye know that I am the Lord your God dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain: then shall Jerusalem be holy and no strangers pass through her any more." Joel iii. 16, 17. "In that day saith the Lord will I assemble her that halteth (the Gentiles), and I will gather her that is driven out (the Jews), and her that I have afflicted and I will make her that halted (the Gentiles) a remnant, and her that was cast far off (the Jews), a strong nation, and the Lord shall reign over them in Mount Zion from henceforth, even for ever. And thou O tower of the flock, the strong hold of the daughters of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion, the kingdom shall come to the daughters of Jerusalem." Micah iv. 6, 7, 8. In Jer. xxxi. 8 to 11, we read, "Behold, I will bring them from the north country and gather them from the coasts of the earth and with them the blind and the lame, the woman with child and her that travaileth with child, together a great company shall return thither. They shall come with weeping and with supplication, I will lead them, I will cause them to walk by the rivers of waters in a straight way wherein they shall stumble, for I am a father to Israel and Ephraim is my first-born. Hear the Word of the Lord, O ye nations, and declare it in an isle afar off, and say, he that scattered Israel will gather him and keep him as a shepherd doth his flock, and their seed shall be known among the Gentiles. All that see them shall acknowledge that they are the seed which the Lord hath blessed." Isa. lxi. 9. When the Jews return they will take gold and silver with them in great abundance. May God soon bring it to pass; then joy and peace will come, when wars will cease; there will be no more farewells to father, brother, nor son, as it is now when they start to war. God will wipe their tears from their eyes. O may that happy day soon come is my prayer. Yours in hope of the soon coming of our King.

JESSE HARROLD.

"Some people are prodigiously penitent over other people's sins, and seem to think they have a special call to confess them before the world. They will gouge their brother's eyes out rather than have a single mote in them. At the same time they are singularly blind respecting their own failings."

As plants grow fastest by night so men make their most rapid growth in knowledge and in faith when times are dark and troubled.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell excursion tickets to students account the Easter Vacation at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets available the day before school closes, the closing day and the day after, the return limit to cover period of vacation. Inquire Agents—apr 15

Excursion Rates via Vandalia Lines.

To Logansport, March 28th and 29th, account of Teacher's Association. One fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, April 23rd and 24th, account State Prohibition Convention. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Knightstown, Ind., April 27th, and 28th, account Christian Endeavor yearly meeting. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, May 14th, 15th, and 16th, account State G. A. R. Encampment. One fare for round trip.

The Nickel Plate Road offers to the traveling public a great convenience by the sale of the Central Passenger Association Mileage Ticket, which, besides the Nickel Plate is honored for passage on thirty-six other roads. Apply to any agent.—apr. 7.

Trans-Atlantic Travelers.

The bureau of attendants for trans-Atlantic travelers established in Jersey City and New York City for twenty years by the Pennsylvania System, has proven a great convenience to persons making European trips and to tourists arriving in America at that port. It will be particularly convenient for visitors to the Paris Exposition because the departure docks of most of the Atlantic Steamship Lines are convenient to the new Jersey City Passenger Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

This bureau consists of experienced agents whose duties are to meet passengers arriving in Jersey City and New York over the Pennsylvania Lines and assist them in arranging for trans-Atlantic trips via any of the steamship lines by conducting them to steamships and aiding in preparations for a trip abroad.

These agents will provide cabs operated by the Pennsylvania System and aid passengers with their baggage. They are fully posted on matters pertaining to steamships leaving New York, and arrangements can be made through them for procuring steamship tickets in advance.

They also meet incoming steamships to aid travelers in shaping details for continuing journeys from New York over the Pennsylvania Lines by furnishing tickets, arranging for the transfer of baggage from the steamship docks after it has been passed by customs inspectors, and having the same checked through to destination. They will reserve sleeping car accommodations and relieve persons of the foregoing details, making themselves useful as attendants and guides free of charge.

Further information on the subject may be obtained by addressing the nearest Pennsylvania Lines Ticket Agent, or C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.—apr 1

The Nickel Plate Road will run a Homeseekers' Excursion to points in the west, northwest and southwest on April 3rd, 1900. Tickets available on above date good returning within 21 days at one fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—apr 3

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line, south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12, if the Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work with the "Gospel of the Kingdom" for our cry. Let us support the work in our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Ortman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. DARBY, Sec.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1650. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short consise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for young or old, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 50 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10:30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbrook, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

"The Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. B. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through Salem, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's home at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:30 P. M., 4245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Esselman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Bruch Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ia., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Rubein Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Schoills, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin S. Grant of Schoills, Oregon. Also accommodations by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Schoills, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:30 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study. Also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Pittsb'g, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedules of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Eastward.

Pittsburgh
Allanmore
Crafton
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Fe Wayne
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HAMSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Walter Tomlinson
35 Kinsman St

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 4, 1900. NUMBER 14.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations: the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

Knocking at the Door.

Knocking to-day at your heart's door
The blessed Redeemer stands,
Patiently, pleadingly knocking
Knocking with nail-pierced hands.

He's all-to-[illegible] and then you
And abide with you evermore;
Will you open and let him enter,
Or fasten tighter the door?

Night's coming on; he'll be going;
The shadows are gathering fast;
Will you open while still he stands knocking,
Or keep the door closed till the last?

How sad it would be, my brother,
Should he leave you to your fate;
When you call to receive no answer—
Too late! Too late! Too late!

Communicated.

The Apostolic Faith. No. 3.

The immortality of the soul is almost universally taught in the churches of the present, as a "fundamental doctrine," and he who does not believe in or teach this doctrine is regarded and sometimes treated as an "heretic." Great is the surprise of many, even Bible students, when they are confronted with the statement that this is not a doctrine of the Scriptures. An elderly man, and apparently a student of the Word of God, once told the writer that because he said that man is not an immortal being, he would no more go to hear him speak. Said he, "It was only last week that I read in several places about the immortality of the soul." We as a people are not "liked" because we say that immortality is not a present possession, but is to be diligently sought by a patient continuance in well-doing. "If the immortality of the soul is not a Bible doctrine, why is it so generally taught?" is a question often asked. The only reply is that of the facts. There was a time in the history of the church when they did not teach this doctrine, as we shall now show. Dr. Mosheim observes that the "venerable simplicity was not of long duration; its beauty was gradually effaced by the laborious efforts of human learning, and the dark subtleties of imaginary science. .....This disadvantageous change, this unhappy alteration of the primitive simplicity of the Christian religion, arose partly from pride, partly from a sort of necessity. The former cause was the eagerness of certain learned men to bring about a union between the doctrines of Christianity and the opinions of the philosophers; for they thought it a very fine accomplishment, to be able to express the "precepts of Christ in the language of philosophers, civilians, and rabbies.....These philosophical arms.....when they are handled by every ignorant and self-sufficient meddler, as was afterwards the case, they produced nothing but perplexity and confusion, under which genuine Christianity almost disappeared. Many example might be alleged, which verify the observations we have now been making; and if the reader is desirous of a striking one, he has only to take a view of the doctrines which began to be taught in this century, concerning the state of the soul after the dissolution of the body." Hist. p. 43.

Justin Martyr, from whose writings we cited in a previous paper, neither believed nor taught the doctrine of immortal soul "going to heaven when you die." He says in his "Dialogue with Trypho," "For I choose to follow not men or men's doctrines, but God and the doctrines delivered by him. For if you have fallen in with some who are called Christians, but do not admit this truth, and venture to blaspheme the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; who say there is no resurrection for the dead, and that their souls when they die, are taken to heaven; do not imagine that they are Christians.....But I and others who are right-minded Christians on all points, are assured that there will be a resurrection of the dead, and a thousand years in Jerusalem."

Irenæus, also previously cited, says, "Since again some who are reckoned among t[illegible] go in[illegible] and the pre-arrang[illegible] the exaltation of the just. [illegible]nt of the methods by [illegible]iplined beforehand i[illegible] they thus entertain he[illegible] or the heretics, despi[illegible]rk of God, and not admi[illegible]-dom of their flesh, while [illegible] also treat the promise of God contemptuously, and pass beyond God altogether in the sentiments they form, affirm that immediately upon their death they shall pass above the heavens, etc.....Those persons, therefore, who disallow a resurrection affecting the whole man, and as far as in them lies remove it from the Christian scheme, how can they be wondered at, if again they know nothing as to the plan of the resurrection? For they do not choose to understand, that if these things are as they say the Lord himself, in whom they profess to believe, did not rise again the third day; but immediately upon his expiring upon the cross, undoubtedly departed on high, leaving his body to the earth. But the case was, that for three days she dwelt in the place where the dead were .....the Lord himself says, 'As Jonas remained three days and three nights in the fish's belly, so shall the Son of Man be in the heart of the earth.' Then also the Apostle says, "But when he ascended what is it but that he also descended into the lower parts of the earth?" On his rising again the third day he said to Mary, who was the first to see and to worship him, "Touch me not, for I have not yet ascended to the Father; but go to the disciples, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father. If then the Lord observed the law of the dead, that he might become the first begotten from the dead, and tarried until the third day "in the lower parts of the earth;" then afterwards rising in the flesh, so that he showed the print of the nails to his disciples, he thus ascended to the Father:—(if all these "things occurred, I say), how must these men not be out to confusion, who allege that the lower parts refer to this world of ours, but that their inner man leaving the body here, ascends into the supercelestial place? .....As our Master, therefore, did not at once depart, taking his flight to heaven, but awaited the time of his resurrection prescribed by his Father, ...so ought we also await the time of our resurrection prescribed by God and foretold by the prophets."

More examples of this kind might be introduced which show that we are not saying "some new things" when we say that man, as at present constituted, is not an immortal being. Spiritualism and other modern systems, are not a new thing, but simply the outcroppings of the old error, which was dragged into the Church under the guise of "Philosophy." The "Apostasy" (2 Thes. ii.) came when men forsook the simple "faith once delivered to the saints" and accepted the products of human fancy.

In our next we shall give examples of the teaching of the philosophers and those who followed them.

A. H. ZILMER.

What is Death?

This is a great question and one worthy of our most serious consideration. We all know that death carries fear and terror to the hearts of many, and yet how often do we hear it spoken of in such a manner as to lead us to suppose it to be our best friend. But who for one moment can seriously believe this? We all have our instinctive dread of death. None of us wish to exchange life for it. It is only when life is rendered so miserable that it seems intolerable that some are led to seek death, and then not generally because they believe it to be a state of woe or happiness, but as a state of unconscious repose. Nothing is dearer than our life, for our very existence depends upon it. Death robs us of this, and hence we can look upon it in reality only as an enemy. Death is a penalty for sin; it is the result of sin, for if sin had not entered into the world, then death would never have entered into the world. Thus it appears quite unreasonable to look upon death as a friend. The Bible declares it to be an enemy. Paul says: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." 1 Cor. xv. 20. Why should God threaten its destruction if it is so good a friend as some declare it to be? Even those who regard [illegible] such, and tell us that,

"Death is the gate of endless joy,
Its but the voice that Jesus sends,
To call us to his arms,"

often act in such a manner as to virtually deny their faith. Did they earnestly believe the poet's words, then did they long and pray for death to come, and the sooner the better. Let sickness take hold of them, and death threaten them, and what then? They send for a physician, not, as you might have just reason to suppose to hasten the hour of death, but to prevent death if possible. If the time has not arrived for death to knock, or "the voice that Jesus sends" to come, then there can be no need of sending for the patient is sure to recover without his aid; and the same is true in case the time has arrived; for then the patient is sure to die, in spite of all the physician can do. If death is the bright angel that some depict, why is it that we dread him so; and shun his company as long as we possibly can? Surely if "death is the gate of endless joy," then we should not dread to enter there; nor should we think that God would determine to destroy this gate

All these poetical fancies about death are the result of the wonderful discovery made by the theologians that death does not mean death, but life evermore, the most absurd notion and the boldest perversion of language that has ever obtained credence among men. Death is the opposite of life, the loss of life, the cessation of life, the extinction of life. And when applied to all animated creatures in the world, excepting man, this meaning is freely admitted by all. But why this exception in reference to man? Death is the same the world over, and ever has been, and means the same to whatever it properly applies. There is not a particle of evidence or authority for saying that death means anything different when applied to man than to any other living creature. It is no less than a gross perversion of language to contend that when it is applied to man it does not mean extinction of life, the same as when applied to beast, but a new lease of life. The Bible does not make this distinction between man and beast in death; extinction of life in both cases. The Scriptures plainly declare that in death man hath no pre-eminence above a beast. "For that which befalleth the sons of men, befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them; as the one dieth so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that man hath no pre-eminence above a beast. All go unto one place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again." Eccl. iii. 19, 20. The pre-eminence of man above a beast, as you can readily see from the above, does not consist in death, for both die alike; nor even in the former being immortal and the latter mortal; for "God only hath [illegible] immortality" (1 Tim. vi. 16), but in man being made in the image of God, endowed with a higher degree of reason and intelligence, and the promise of life from the dead, and immortality upon the condition of the development of a proper character. The Scriptures do not leave us in doubt as to the true meaning of death; it plainly defines it. In God's message to King Hezekiah, through the prophet Isaiah, he said: "Set thy house in order, for thou shalt die and not live." Isa. xxxviii. 1. Hezekiah was not in doubt as to what this language meant; for the prophet made it so plain that he could not mistake its meaning. "To die," he defined to mean, "not to live." That Hezekiah so understood it, is evident from the language he uses after the Lord had promised to add fifteen more years to his life. He said, "Thou hast in love to my soul delivered it from the pit of corruption." Isa. xxxviii. 17. He did not believe that his soul would go to heaven at death, but that it would go down to the pit of corruption. Death is not a state of happiness or misery, but a state of unconsciousness, silence and repose, where there is no knowledge nor wisdom, no thought nor memory, nor love nor hatred. Eccl. ix. 5, 6; Psa. vi. 5; cxv. 17. [illegible] is not a work of creation, but [illegible] In [illegible] work of [illegible] returned back to his original elements, and passes out of existence till Christ, the life-giver comes and calls him into existence again, by a resurrection from the dead. Hence we read: "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. 4. Thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust." Psa. civ. 29. "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." John xi. 25. "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." Phil. iv. 8.

G. H. ANTONIDES.

Hygiene.

Our brethren are usually quite well informed in regard to what constitutes the true spiritual nourishment of the gospel, the bread of life that we must partake of that insures both strength and growth in Christ. In these our knowledge is far in advance of our practice, as it always must be in every thing we engage. Why should we neglect to become enlightened as well with those principles which underlie our physical well-being? Why should we perish before our time on account of ignorance that is in us? Why do we risk our lives, our recovery from disease in the hands of quacks, who neither understand our infirmity, nor the cause of it, and who betray the grossest ignorance of natural law by offering to cure us without a hint of reformation on our part. This failure we seize upon with avidity, and hope to regain health while following the pernicious habits that made us sick. We suffer on, and ought to suffer. Not a few who might by a little attention to this matter acquaint themselves with the real cause of their sickness, and prevent its recurrences by a little wholesome self-denial of some pet indulgence, that is enslaving them, and often crippling their moral energies as well as their physical abilities. How often they solace themselves with the remark that somebody's patent nostrum that they have been taking, will bring them around all right. The time is not far ahead when the physician's proper place will be to teach instead of administer drugs, and it is not far from the truth perhaps to assert that science will reveal the fact that poisons are neither food nor medicine. More than eighty per cent of the cure-alls rest upon alcoholic basis, without which they would never raise a ripple. The remaining twenty per cent receive their supposed merit by [illegible]ding them with a mysterious, [illegible]away origin, and a profound combination of exotic ingredients, that may be found in every drugstore in the land. Whenever our physicians are paid for teaching the hygiene of health and given proper authority to enforce their teaching consistent with sanitary conditions, we shall witness a change for the better, a decrease of human misery and suffering, and a triumph of righteousness and purity, and increased longevity and happiness.

A. B. WINCE.

A Parable.

Is a comparing of things together, —a similitude taken from natural things to instruct in things spiritual. It was the common language of the Eastern sages and learned men. "The legs of the lame are not equal; so is a parable in the mouth of fools." The prophets made use of parables to give a strong impression of truth. Nathan reproved David under the parable of a rich man that had taken away and killed the lamb of a poor man." Jotham, the son of Gideon proposed to the men of Shecham the parable of the bramble whom the trees had a mind to choose for their king. The prophets often reproved Jerusalem under the parable of an adulterous wife. So our Savior in the gospel often speaks to the people in parables, and by so doing verified the prophecy of Isaiah, who foretold that the people should see without knowing, and hear without understanding, and should continue in their blindness and hardness of heart in the midst of the instruction they should receive. Our Lord under the parable of the sower sowing his seed on different ground, with the consequent effects,—has a plain and obvious sense. But what he designed to teach by this agricultural illustration was,—the various effects produced upon different hearts, under the instruction of the gospel. The parable from the beautiful and striking turns of which it is susceptible, has always a favorite mode of communicating truth. Our Lord frequently adopted it for two purposes, apparently opposite, and yet perfectly consistent:—First to give striking effect to truth where he knew that truth would be received; and second, to veil and disguise it, where he knew it would be perverted and abused. A good general rule for the interpretation of our Lord's parables, is not to overstrain them by hunting for fanciful resemblances and parallels, as if every circumstance mentioned had its corresponding resemblance. The object should be to elicit the particular lesson of instruction. Thus, the parable of the ten virgins is not intended to teach that just half of the nominal believers have grace and half are destitute of it—but that it is the duty of all to be prepared for the Lord's coming. Parables are well adapted to arrest attention and awaken curiosity, and by these means truth has been insinuated into the mind which perhaps would have been prejudiced against another mode of instruction. The parables recorded in the New Testament are various, beautifully constructed and filled with lessons of wisdom.

J. O. WOODRUFF.

A Memory and an Exhortation.

Dear Roxana:

"Your father's picture hangs in a gilt frame on the wall, as he was taken for the dear saints of God. As I looked at it just now, a gush of tears filled my eyes, and my chest heaved with emotion.

None but God knows the cross he took up to preach the gospel. None but he knows the tears and prayers that he sent up from those woods for strength to take up this cross. How often as I look upon his face do similar thoughts come into my mind and words of praise flow from my heart and lips. What a blessing crowned his submission to God's will! He was a fruitful ministry in that eventful crisis. I look in vain for an example quite similar. Yet this I fully believe, as did your father, that as the preaching of John the Baptist was a precursor of the first advent, so was the midnight cry, "Behold he cometh!" a precursor of the second advent. How my heart rejoices, that now in my 86th year, I am still with joy and hope, looking for "that blessed hope," and the glorious appearing of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

How your mother would rejoice were she alive now! For she talked these things in the church before your father preached on them. I remember well the night that she arose in the Oswego church, and owned her faith in the soon coming of her Lord and Master, and how her frame shook while her gestures gave evidence of her sincerity. I was by her side in a moment when the meeting closed, for my own heart was brimful of it. O Roxana, in all your writings, let this be prominent, that you love his appearing. Bro. Wince, sound it out, let who will bear or forbear. It is a glorious present truth. Your father cleared his skirts by preaching it and we saved our souls by believing it.

O Brother and Sister Wince, do tell the dear saints that Bro. Willard believed it to the end and that my faith survives all disappointments and keeps on the topmost wave of Hope. Indeed, it is my hope. Stir up the saints on this point lest they get drowsy and their lamps go out, "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt." Is it not an unspeakable blessing to be at peace with God at this period of the world? I cannot express the gratitude of my poor heart in view of it. Let us share an interest in your prayers at your precious family altar.

E. S. WILLARD.

An Earnest Appeal to all the Brotherhood of the Church of God.

Seeing the great need of better order and a more thorough knowledge of the work being done for the cause of truth most certainly believed and accepted by the Church of God in the United States and the Territories; at the Annual Conferences in Michigan and Indiana last June, measures were taken to meet this end, viz:—A committee was appointed, consisting of B. W. Woodward, of the Michigan Conference, and A. H. Zilmer of the Indiana Conference, to issue a call to each and every Conference Board in said States and Territories, and to all churches where there are no organized conferences, to report immediately to Bro. A. H. Zilmer, the number of recognized ministers in each conference, also the number and value of church buildings; also let the secretaries of the different churches report the number of members in each church or isolated members they may have a knowledge of, also that any isolated member who may see this call, report their names or any others they may know of, to Bro. Zilmer.

At the last census taken the Census Department wrote me to know the strength of our church body, and I was not able to give them much light on the subject. Now, brethren, by an earnest effort on the part of all, we will approximate the facts very closely. The census will soon be taken again—they will again ask for the facts, and we will want a correct statement. The government demands it, and is justly entitled to it. Do not lay this paper aside and forget all about it. It is a duty; do it at once—TODAY. Address all communications to A. H. Zilmer, Rensselaer, Indiana.

B. W. WOODWARD,
A. H. ZILMER,
Committee.

Editor Restitution:

The following little article from Glad Tidings of this month is so excellent I take the liberty of sending it to THE RESTITUTION for publication.

"THE MISTAKES OF GOOD MEN."

If people, especially the young, would widen their range of reading and listening, they would learn a very wholesome lesson. They would see how many good men there are that make mistakes of judgment; and thus they would be slow to commit themselves. But, chiefly through the accident of circumstances, they come in contact with some sincere man, often enough a man of ability, if not also, in their eyes, virtually a man of infallibility, and forming a natural liking for him, they narrow down their thoughts to his words or writings, and so weave around themselves a net of prejudice, that keeps the mind from getting rid of error and from finding out the truth as proclaimed by other good and able men. "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image," might well be changed in Christian times to: "Thou shalt not make unto thee any infallible teacher, any pope of mortal man."

None but the Christian who has a deep experience in the things of God knows the deeper meaning of these words, "Bearing the cross." When our hearts are filled with love and gratitude to him who has done so much for us, then we think we will bear the cross: but when the cross is presented, how we shrink from it. It looks so heavy that we start back, saying, I cannot take it up. We find ourselves unwilling to be crucified with Christ, to suffer with him.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, April 4, 1900.

"Nothing was too minute for David to mention, because he knew there was nothing too minute for his Father's notice."

"The true use of time is to promote, elevate, and enrich life, and that is the only criterion by which to decide whether we are saving or wasting it."

"Sympathy is one of the greatest secrets of life. It overcomes evil and strengthens good. It disarms resistance, melts the burdened heart, and develops the better part of human nature."

"The Bible," said Toplady, "is God's epistle to mankind; and what greater affront can be shown, even to an earthly friend, than to throw his letters aside unopened and unread? May we not address the generality of those calling themselves Christians in the words of Mr. Boston? "The dust on one hand, or the finery on the other about your Bibles, is a witness now, and will at the last day be a witness of the enmity of your hearts against Christ."

Philip Henry said some people do not like to hear much about repentance,—but if I were to die in the pulpit, I should wish to die preaching repentance; and, if out of the pulpit, practicing it. The best uninspired definition of repentance we remember to have seen, was the following:—

"Repentance is to leave
The sin we loved before,
And show that we in earnest grieve
By doing so no more."

While on a preaching tour very late in life, Rowland Hill met a friend who reminded him that he heard him preach 65 years ago; and said, "You told us that some people were very squeamish about the delivery of different preachers. You said, 'Suppose you were intending to hear a will read from which you expected a handsome legacy, would your attention be given to the manner in which the lawyer read the instrument? No! You would give all ear to hear if anything was left to you, and how much it was. That is the way I would advise you to hear the gospel."

Our brethren will notice that we give considerable space to the news of the day. Some have complained of this, saying they did not want "politics" in the paper. To our mind the movements of the nations as they form and reform alliances and compacts, all the time becoming more and more entangled, so that it is puzzling to know how they will be able to make further headway, is the great sign that our Lord will soon come. You all know he is coming to straighten out the affairs of this world, but not until they get as bad as can be, and no one else can bring order but him. So we like to give an idea of what is going on, not taking sides with any, only watching and waiting—looking for the appearing of our Lord.

Many of the Presbyterian ministers on last Sunday discussed the recent attack by Dr. Hillis on the Westminster confession of faith. He spoke in forcible language denouncing the doctrine of predestination, etc. From reports of sermons it appears that a large proportion of the ministers are favorable to a revision of the creed eliminating this theory and others, and asking to be let alone till they can make the change without disaster to their organization. One man states that "Calvinism is an essential part of the Presbyterian Creed," and asks the question "What is Calvinism but this doctrine of election and reprobation? Take that out of the creed and you take away its Calvinism." He then accuses those ministers who have failed to teach the doctrine with "tearing in shreds with one hand what they have signed with the other." Truly this church is in danger of serious rupture. They see they have a crumbling foundation, a building erected on a man, in place of God's Word. It is sure to fall.

"The Ancient of Days."

Dear Brother Joblin:

Who or what is the Ancient of Days mentioned in Daniel vii. 9-14? And when is this prophecy fulfilled? Please give us the result of your investigation on this subject through The Restitution, and very much oblige many of us who want more light. Kindly as ever, T. E. Adams.

We are glad our brother put it in that way. We will give what we understand to be truth in the premises, and if any one has something better to offer we shall be glad to see it.

We understand that when the eternal Spirit gave to Moses "I will be, who I will be," as his memorial name, it was an intimation that some time in the future he would manifest himself to the human family in, by, or through another, or others. Who, as yet, were not.

We understand that this purpose was in part carried but when the vastness of his love, and the richness of his grace, and the beneficence of his purpose were manifested in flesh by Jesus; but which in its fulness will be executed when he is manifested to the world IN SPIRIT, by that same Jesus, and his perfected brethren,—they being like him,—spirit, because God will be all in all. 1 Cor. xv. 28; or, as more explicitly stated in Eph. iv. 6. There will be still, "One God and Father of all, who is upon all, through all, and in you all." We take this as the exposition of the memorial name; the revelation of the purpose to elevate to the divine nature of existence, and power and authority all who through faith and obedience become fit recipients of these inestimable blessings; and thenceforth be spirit manifestations of God. Evidently it was in allusion to this marvelous state of things the Apostle said, "The earnest expectation of the creation longs for the revelation of the sons of God." Rom. viii. 18-22? It might be helpful in this connection to remember that Isaiah predicted that the Son to be born to Israel, upon whose "shoulders the government should rest, should be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, the everlasting Father.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE."

This is easy to understand in the light of the fact that the angel that was to keep Israel in the way while marching through the wilderness, had to be implicitly obeyed because God's name was in him; this word name stands for the authority and power to guide and direct that people, vested in him by God. This principle also applies to the child heralded by John as Immanuel—or God—with us; his proclamation was to "Prepare the way of YAHWEH; the Father's Name being in the Son; and there is salvation in no other name. And it is for the taking out a people for that SAME NAME, and its accompanying attributes that the gospel of the kingdom is now preached.

Trusting that the above may be of some assistance in elucidating the subject proper, we now turn to it. We have not the slightest doubt but what the "Ancient of Days" of the 13th verse of Daniel vii. is the eternal Father. The Son of Man had been preaching the gospel of the kingdom of the Father; and had taught his disciples to pray for the Father's kingdom to come, and before leaving the earth to go to the Father he promised to return to them, and receive them to himself; and more than that, he in the glory of the Father, and of the holy angels, and announced the seating of himself upon the throne of glory promised him by the Father ages before, and which promise was renewed before his birth. In addition to this, he informed them that he would invite those blessed of the Father to seats upon his throne.

DESCRIBED HIS COMING

We see no room to doubt that the "Ancient of Days" of the 13th verse was the eternal Father, out of whom are all things, inasmuch as squatter sovereignties exist still in the dominion belonging of right to the Son, it is safe to say that the fulfillment of the prophecy is still future.

We see no room to doubt that the holy ones of the most High, in the 18th verse who take the kingdom and possess it for ever, even for ever and ever, are the blessed of the Father to be installed in office by the Lord Jesus at his assumption of his authority and power on the throne of David.

We see no room to doubt that the Judge referred to in verse 9, is the Lord Jesus Christ. First, because he has told us that all judgment has been committed to him,—and secondly because it is his words that decide for or against one. And thirdly because the description given of him corresponds with the description given by John of the angel who personified the Lord Jesus, and signified to the Apostle things shortly to come to pass, his head and hair were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace, and his voice as to the sound of many waters," and so forth,—of the same character, but much more elaborate than Dan. vii. 9. Fourthly, we have the angel's interpretation of the visions from the 17th verse to the 27th which and makes it absolutely certain that the Lord Jesus is the Judge, and that the saints possess the kingdom, and judgment is handed over to the saints, verse 22, or that they share it with the Lord, when, rewarding to promise from heaven he gives them power over the nations, Rev. ii. 10, that is, exercise authority or rule over their own domain.

LOCATES THE JUDGMENT

But we may be asked to stop here, and explain how this can be, when in both verse 9 and 22 the one who comes and sits in judgment is called the Ancient of Days? As the overcomer, or conqueror, (see Rev. iii. 21) the [illegible] ness of the Deity BODILY [illegible] in him. Col. ii. 9. He is [illegible] he lives by God, (Rom. vi. 10,) and at the appointed time he comes for the purpose set forth, in both the NAME and NATURE of the Ancient of Days; so that when we read that the tabernacle of God shall be with men, we do not understand that this tiny globe becomes the local habitation of the eternal Father, but that this specimen of bearing the Father's name will preside here. And again when we read of the throne of God and of the Lamb; we know that all things are out of God. The kingdom is his, and of course the throne must be his; and the Lamb that was slain was God's Lamb; but he brought him again from the dead through the blood of the everlasting covenant, Heb. xiii. 20, and exalted him to his own right hand as a Prince and a Savior, till the time appointed to set him as his own King, upon the holy hill of Zion, in spite of all earthly Potentates. Psa. ii. 6.

GLORIFIED HUMANITY

The Jesuits.

"Bro. Joblin, will you be so kind as to tell me a few things about the Jesuits? I would like to know when that order was established, and by whom, and what special vows the members had to take, and what was the object of the society?"—N. N.

In looking this matter up we found that the order of the Jesuits was founded by a Spaniard, whose name was Don Inigo Lopezde Locolde, generally called Ignatius Loyola, who was by profession a soldier. Associated with him at the first were Le Feore, Francis Xavier, Lainez, Salmeron, Bobadilla and Rodrignez. They vowed implicit, blind, and unlimited submission and obedience to the Pope, and he established them by a bull, dated Sept. 27, 1540. It limited the number to sixty. But the same Pope, (Paul III.) gave to the society unlimited extension all over the world, March 14, 1548. This disposes of two of the four questions.

Those admitted to the order had to take the following vow:—"I, N. make profession, and promise Almighty God, before his virgin mother, and before all the heavenly host, and before all by-standers, and you, Rev. Father, general of the Society of Jesus, holding the place of God, and your successors, or you, reverend father vice general of the Society of Jesus and his successors, holding the place of God, perpetual poverty, chastity, and obedience, and therein peculiar care in the education of boys according to the form of living contained in the apostolic letters of the Society of Jesus, and in its constitutions. Moreover, I promise special obedience to the Pope in missions, as is contained in the same apostolic and constitutions, Rome, or elsewhere, on such a day, month and year, and in such a church."

We may add that the atrocious character of the constitutions is founded on the infamous principle that the end justifies the means. It was, we believe, not known what it contained till it was exposed before the assembly at Paris, 1701.

As to its object, it was doubtless, to counteract the effect of the Reformation under Luther and his co-laborers,—Rome having been shaken to its very base. Those who were allowed to enter the society and do the secret work assigned them had to have a comely presence, health, youth, energy, quick wits, no defect of judgment and at the same time no will of their own; and be perfectly obedient to his superior, as Christ the Lord.

The Practical.

"We have felt for some time that there is a deficiency of the practical and experimental in our literature. We do not say there is too much doctrinal, but too little experience and salvation set forth in our columns. The development of a symmetrical and robust physical nature requires an ample variety of nutriment. There must be blood food, nerve food, brain food, muscle food. Symmetrical Christian growth and robust Christian character can no more result from the contemplation of one class of revealed truth than proportional physical development can come from a single kind of nutriment. We need faith food, hope food, charity food, humility food, benevolence food, prayer food, song food, courage food, self-denial food, devotion food.

All doctrine would make spiritual skeletons. All practical would develop over activity and abnormal emotion. All experimental would tend to vagary.

Now the Holy Word is an affluent domain of revealed truth, infinite variety and perennial freshness, nicely adapted to healthy, harmonious and commanding development and luxuriant growth. The sheep and lambs of God must feed in all green fields and by all still waters if they would grow in strength and beauty.

Many of our contributors seem to feel that they have written nothing worthy of being read unless they point a doctrine, unravel a mystery, disprove an interpretation, correct the original, discover some hitherto unknown truth, or start some new theory. But we desire some good, fresh, spontaneous heart-bursts of practical salvation communications, suited to nourish and encourage the ordinary Christian heart, to quicken faith, strengthen hope, exalt confidence, intensify affection, inspire courage, assuage sorrow, promote union, purify fellowship, and edify the body in holiness and spiritual power. O! who will help us to feed the "flock of God," not with dispensational truth alone, necessary as that is, but with "every Word which proceedeth out of the mouth of God."—A. E. Stockman in Christian Messenger.

[We wish to say Amen, with a big "A" to the above. It is exactly our sentiments. Please go back and read the last paragraph again—it will bear two readings.—Ed.]

News Notes.

A dispatch from Bucharest dated March 28 says, "Yesterday the last of the 3,000 emigrants sailed from Galatz for Asia Minor. All were Israelites who are driven from this country by the laws which prevent them from entering trade and exclude their children from all schools. Although thousands of Jews who were better off emigrated to America during the fall and winter, this is the first time the current has turned to Asia Minor.

An idea of the cost of the India famine may be gained by these figures in a dispatch from Calcutta:—"The Viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, addressing the council on the budget March 28th, said that nearly 5,000,000 persons were in receipt of regular relief and that the cost for the ensuing year was estimated at 525 lacs of rupees ($10,500,000.) The loss on revenue for one year had been 121 lacs of rupees ($2,420,000.) The government, he said, hoped during the forthcoming year to spend 100 lacs of rupees ($2,000,000) in irrigation, but he could see no chance of cutting down the military estimate. "There are two duties of Indian statesmanship," said the Viceroy. "One is to make these millions happy and the other is to keep them safe. For the sake of the one we must not neglect the other."

General Joubert, Commander of the Boer army is dead. It was reported several times during the seige of Ladysmith, that he was wounded, etc., but it was not true. He died in Pretoria of acute inflamation of the bowels. It is said that President Kruger will take the field in command of his army.

A dispatch from Vienna of March 20th says the St. Petersburg Wedomosti, under the heading the "Triumph of Russia in Persia" says:—"It is beyond doubt that Persia has joined hands with Russia and placed itself under the empire's mighty protection. England's many endeavors to overcome Russian influence have proved in vain. England thinks now of only one thing, of how she can retain the southern part of Persia, where she has always had power, but this, too, must be at an end as soon as Russia succeeds in securing the port of Bender Abbas.

Another dispatch from Vienna tells of the open defiance of the Porte by the Albanians and Macedonians, and the entering to Russian agents. His satisfaction among the Albanians and their determination to have their own way where Turkey is concerned claims the editorial attention of the Pesther Lloyd, which sees in the existing condition the greatest danger of future trouble in the Orient. The Albanians have reached the point where they refused all obedience and indulge in violence of all kinds and make constant attacks upon other nationalities resident among them. This paper says, "If matters continue thus, further bloodshed will produce an uprising of the other nationalities. Twenty-five years ago Herzegovinian demands brought about a long [illegible] severe Oriental crisis. Today, [illegible]ly, we are not far from ser[illegible] turbances, which may be br[illegible] by Albanian and Mac[illegible]nds."

Local [illegible]s are keeping a cl[illegible]e progress of Ru[illegible]tation with Russ[illegible]g to be believed [illegible] not far distant when th[illegible] Petersburg government will "assist" Bulgaria in the same way as it has just assisted Persia. It is cited as significant of the intense Russophile sentiment growing in Bulgaria that the official journal of Sofia greets M. Kokeko, Russia's financial delegate in the friendliest terms, and declares that his mission is proof that the "Czar liberator" is interested in reorganizing Bulgaria.

Russia and Japan are having a lively battle with their wisest diplomats regarding the fate of Corea, the hermit kingdom of the Far East. From the following London dispatch of Mar. 30 it seems as if Japan was at present the leader. "Russia's attitude toward Corea grows more and more warlike, and a joint appeal to the powers by Japan and Corea is expected soon to bring matters to a crisis." The Daily Mail's correspondent at Kobe, in a dispatch just received, says that the Russian government has demanded a lease of land for a harbor and docks at Masampo and that the Corean government is anxious for outside assistance. The contest between Russia and Japan for the possession of the sea front at Masampo, which is a magnificent harbor on the south coast of Corea, has been in progress since last October. Russia wishes to obtain possession of the harbor in order to convert it into a naval station, but as the registered owners of the land are Japanese the coveted site was put up at auction. The bidding was spirited and valuable plots were secured by agents of both the Russian and the Japanese governments, but mostly by the latter. Failing to secure what she wanted by the power of her purse, Russia has now demanded a lease of the land, and the demand is almost certain to entail friction with Japan. In this connection the Evening News published a dispatch from its correspondent at Kobe stating that Russia has demanded permission to land troops near Masampo. If this news should be corroborated, it means that Russia is preparing to intimidate Corea by a display of force, which will compel Japan to bring the dispute to a crisis at once. The Japanese fleet, is only twelve hours' sailing distance from Masampo but as long as it remains at its station it is certain that Japan will conduct her opposition to Russian demands along diplomatic lines.

The following from Paris shows the activity of France in North Africa. "The extraordinary activity of French troops around Insalah is regarded as extremely significant. March 19 the Oasis of In Shar was occupied by French troops, and orders were sent to have additional columns of troops start for Akabli and Aoulet. These three important points in southern Algeria directly control the territory claimed by Morocco. France is apparently hastening to make fast her hold everywhere possible in northern Africa while England is engaged in the Transvaal war."

In place of quarreling over "spheres of influence" in Turkey the Russians and Germans come to an agreement. The following Berlin dispatch also shows the German attitude regarding her Chinese policy. "In official circles it is announced that the Russian, Turkish, and German negotiations regarding the Asia Minor railways are practically completed. The Russian sphere begins 200 kilometers from Constantinople, on the Black Sea, touches Sivas, thence runs eastward to Diabeker and Lake Van." The German Anatolian company receives the right of constructing a line from Sivas to Diabeker, as well as from Konieh to Diabeker, Bagdad, and the Persian Gulf. The latter line is likely to be built first.

The Berlin press utterly ignores the "open door" correspondence recently published by Secretary Hay, but a foreign office official said today: "As matter of course the Chinese door will not remain open to those nations which have treated Germany unfairly in other quarters of the world."

England is plunged in gloom again by the reported capture of a detachment of troops and six guns. It seems they had advanced to a position 36 miles north of Bloemfontein, but were met by a large body of Boers, and during the return trip were led into a trap and all captured. This will give the Boers new hope, and Lord Roberts will have to take prompt steps to counteract the effects of this new success.

France is in line for railway "concessions" in Asia Minor, and the Porte has decided to issue an irade granting the desired privilege for railroads in Syria.

Germany is giving all attention to Bulgaria, as Prince Ferdinand is ambitious to be made a King, which Russia apparently approves.

Selected.

World's Eyes on Russia.

Russian activity has been the international factor of the week, and diplomatic functionaries attached to the Court of St. James are asking themselves: "What does it all mean and where will it end?" The Russian Ambassador smiles blandly and assures his "dear friends" that it means "nothing, absolutely nothing."

There are many who are willing to say that war between Russia and Japan has now come within measurable distance. Of these Henry Norman, who has just returned from a trip to Russia, is one.

No such view, however, is taken by the British Foreign office, which, during the recent troublous times, has sized up the international situation with wonderful correctness. The fact is Japan is not ready for hostilities.

Corean matters have been arranged by treaty and Lord Salisbury does not believe that Russia intends to break the treaties, though her relations with Japan may become strained to a serious point. And, moreover, those having any intimate knowledge of Japan's far-reaching naval projects and her recent state of incompleteness do not hesitate to say that Japan is not going to risk anything until her plans are matured.

Japanese naval maneuvers in the coming fall are to be carried out on an unprecedented scale and will partake more of the nature of a demonstration than that of peaceful evolutions. Forty or more war vessels are expected to be present in Japanese waters. The moral effect of such an aggregation upon far Eastern questions is causing no little comment.

There seems no longer to be any doubt that Turkey, for her tardiness to meet the Russian demands regarding railway concession, is being menaced by her northern neighbor, and many signs point to the fact that Russia intends to settle herself in the northeast of Asia Minor, unless Turkey gives in. Already a quarter of a million of Russian troops are maintained on those borders, while the Black Sea squadron is ready for business at a moment's notice.

To what extent British moral assistance can be given to Turkey withstanding the Russian demands is a question which at the present moment is occupying Lord Salisbury's attention to an even greater extent than the south African war. In view of the troubles of Great Britain in south Africa, it is considered more than probable that Turkey will meet the demands and that the Russian troops will be withdrawn.

The scare anent Russian troops concentrating in Afghanistan apparently arose from this movement in the direction of Turkey in Asia Minor.

For the peace of the world, however it is reassuring to remember that the fixed policy of Russia has been to take matters almost to the point of hostilities and then to settle diplomatically, the only exception to this in modern times being in the Crimea, when the tone of the peace party in England led her to believe that the county would not interfere.

Dear Restitution:

My husband and myself are well and striving to make our calling and election sure, and desire to be remembered by all who love the Lord and are longing for the coming of his kingdom. We are far from any church privileges, but with The Restitution and God's own blessed Word, we two can make melody in our hearts and rejoice in hope of a best resurrection. Much love to all the dear ones.

Your Brother and Sister,
S. H. & S. Schieck.

Poetry.

Go Preach Ye the Gospel.

Go preach ye the gospel of peace and good will,
Go spread the glad tidings o'er mountain and hill
Disciple all nations, immersing the same
Into the Father's, Son's, and Spirit's pure name.

Go preach ye the gospel, at home and afar,
Go tell of Messiah the "Bright Morning Star."
E'er tell of his birth, life, love, labors and death,
Resurrection, ascension, with untrifled breath.

Go preach ye the gospel, take Calvary's road,
Reflect the Lord's image, bear daily thy load;
Go forth to the Master outside of the gate,
Marvel not dear children if you the world hate.

Go preach ye the gospel, go clothed with the love
Which seeks not her own, but the good things above;
Rejoice with the truth, suffer long and be kind,
Fill your flesh with afflictions remaining behind.

Go preach ye the gospel, and be of good cheer
Through much tribulation, derision and jeer;
Go spread the glad tidings, as witness of me
To the uttermost parts of earth and the sea.

Go preach ye the gospel, salvation proclaim
To hearts full of sorrow, and burdened with shame;
Go publish to sinners, redemption through Christ,
Who entered the holies, our great sacrifice.

Go preach ye the gospel, go tell how that faith
Was counted as righteousness (apostles thus saith)
Unto Abraham who God's promise believed,
Died in faith, the blessing not having received.

Go preach ye the gospel, and count it all joy
To suffer and serve in the Savior's employ;
The Lord has committed his truth to the meek,
Go forth with his message, go zealously seek

To glean for the kingdom, with Messiah and God,
For his name a people, from Gentiles abroad,
That the residue left may then seek the Lord,
And the earth shall rejoice in joyful accord.

Go preach ye the gospel, whatever the rest,
With naught but God's promise, go count all as lost;
You have received freely, go freely impart
The grace of the gospel to sin-laden hearts.

Lay your gift on the altar, take it not back
In equivalent tithes. God's shrine must not lack;
His endowments sell not for a gold recompense,
If gifted, God's gospel go freely dispense.

In truth, "Make the gospel of Christ without charge,"
"Be free from all men," your coward will be larger;
"Let none stop your glorying," ever prevail,
The prize of God's calling,—Christ'll bring without fail.

Go preach ye the gospel, God's kingdom is near,
On the Mount Olivet, Christ soon will appear;
Expecting the King in his beauty we come,
Who through a glass darkly, see visions to come.

The vision is nearing, its beauties unfold,
Soon Gentiles and Jews will the glories behold
Of God's restitution, the earth made anew,
Restored, and watered with heavenly dew.

Mrs. D. W. Poer.

Communicated.

Grace!

A mighty word,—what does it signify? Who can fathom the depths of its meaning? "The grace of God which bringeth salvation hath appeared unto all men," etc. It is one of the most comforting words to the believer. "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ,—that though he was rich (in promise as he was God's appointed heir of all things) yet for our sakes became poor (he lived a life of poverty) that he might through his poverty be enriched." "The Word became (a dweller in) flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory,—the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth." "And of his fullness have all we received, and grace for grace." "For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." Christ brought it to light, or made it manifest, because it existed before Christ came, as we read in the Psalms:—"The Lord our God is a sun and a shield. He will give grace and glory, and no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. Grace is a thread of gold appearing everywhere in the doctrine of the Old and New Testament. The whole system of redemption displays it; and every one truly enlightened by the gospel must see and admire it. Grace is used in the Scripture in relation to the whole and every part of the work of redemption from the foundation to the top stone, as in the language of the prophet, Zech. iv. 7:—"He shall bring forth the Head stone thereof with shoutings, crying GRACE, grace unto it." Especially is his grace displayed in the justification of the sinner. Here we see the free, unmerited love and favor of God in the gift of his Son, who is the embodiment of all that the word grace implies. "For when we were without strength and ungodly, in due time Christ died for us." Thus God recommended his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins." Thus we perceive the love of God, because he (the Son) laid down his life for us, that we might live through him." "For we love him because he first loved us.

Grace is used in relation to faith as the substance of things hoped for,—to express the gift of righteousness as bestowed upon us by the Father, and received through Christ as our trustee and surety. The work of redemption or GRACE, CARVED! "The manifold grace of God. The Father, of his good pleasure gave to us his Son, and with him he has given to us the kingdom. "He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also give us all things." So with the greater gift we will most surely get all the lesser. Christ's righteousness is the only ground upon which grace can be exercised towards us. "That grace reigneth through righteousness unto eternal life by Christ Jesus our Lord," is the leading sentiment of the kingdom. Rom. v. 21. In this way salvation is wholly of grace. "For by grace are ye saved through faith, and that not of yourselves,—it is the gift of God." "Therefore it is of faith that it might be by grace." Grace regards no good in us as the moving cause, therefore it is exactly what is needful and necessary for the children of Adam who by his one offense were constituted sinners, and hence are by nature children of wrath,—under condemnation to death. "God hath saved us and called us with an holy calling, not according to our work, but according to his own purpose and grace which was given us in Christ Jesus before the aionian times,—but is now made manifest by the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." Thus was grace and truth made manifest or brought to light by the birth, life, death and resurrection of Christ. Thus we see that the gospel of the grace of God is the good news of that kingdom in which the glory of God will be manifested on the earth as it is now manifested in heaven. This is one reason why it is called the kingdom of heaven (or heaven like) kingdom. A kingdom heaven-like in wisdom and knowledge, in righteousness and holiness,—in joy and blessedness. And in honor and glory as well as endless duration when the King has come Israel will say, "O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth, who hast set thy glory in our land above the (brightness) of the heavens." "I have put thy words in my mouth and have covered thee in the shadow of thine hand, that I may plant the heavens and lay the foundation of the earth, and say unto Zion, Thou art my people." Isa. li. 16. "Behold I create new heavens and a new earth, and the former shall not be remembered nor come into mind,—but be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create; for behold I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy; and I will rejoice in Jerusalem and joy in my people; and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying." In this glorious future, the exceeding riches of God's grace will be seen by the world in his kindness toward us, (the saints,—the called out ones) when they will be manifested in their resurrection nature,—a nature equal to the angels, and for which manifestation creation groans for deliverance from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God." Grace will then be realized by the world in its highest plane. "For the earth will be filled with the glory of God as the waters cover the sea." Then let us gird up the loins of our mind, be sober and hope to the end for the grace that will be brought to us at the revelation of Jesus Christ." Grace, "now to serve the Lord acceptably with reverence and godly fear." "Let us come boldly unto a throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in time of need." "Continuing in the grace of God,"—"Growing in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ." "That we may minister grace to the hearer," and that "they may not receive the grace of God in vain." "For unto every one is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ." "For unto me," says Paul, "who am less than the least of all saints is this grace given that I should preach the unsearchable riches of Christ." "And now brethren, I commend you to God, and the Word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified." "Grace be with you all. Amen"

J. O. Woodruff.

The Seventh Day.

Is the keeping of the seventh day binding on Christians now, and must it be kept to obtain eternal life? No. Christ said unto the eleven, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark xvi. 15, 16. He that believeth what? The gospel. What is the gospel? Good news. What was preached by Christ and his Apostles? Something we must believe in order to be saved. See what John the Baptist preached. Matt. iii. 2; Mark i. 4, 7; Luke iii. 3; John i. 15. "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand," and preached the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins. He did not preach the Sabbath. What did Christ preach? "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Matt. iv. 17, 23; ix. 35; x. 7. Preached the gospel of the kingdom. Mark i. 14, 15; Luke iv. 21. Here Christ was baptized with water into the gospel that John preached and John preached Christ, and not the Sabbath. What did Christ tell his disciples to preach? "Go preach, saying the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Matt. x. 7; Mark vi. 12; Luke ix. 2; x. 1-9. They were not told in a single instance to preach the seventh day Sabbath or any other Sabbath, and the seventy returned with joy that the devils were subject unto them through Christ's name. Luke x. 17.

Christ was asked, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life? Eternal life is what I want, so I listen to the answer, from the only one that can give eternal life. Please read it Matt. xix. 16-19; Luke x. 25, 28. Christ does not tell us to keep the fourth commandment to obtain eternal life. Again in Matt. xxii. 37, 40; Mark xii. 30, 31. Christ was asked to tempt him which was the greatest command and his answer showed it was not the Sabbath. Read also Lu. x. 27; Rom. xiii. 8, 10; Gal. v. 14; James ii. 8. You will say the law is mentioned, so it means the Sabbath. If that is the thing to be believed in order to obtain eternal life, why did not Christ and his Apostles say so in plain language?

Luke says the law and the prophets were until John. Luke xvi. 16; also Matt. xi. 13. Paul in Rom. iii. 19 to 31 has much to say about law, and xxvii. 28, says man is justified by the law of faith. Rom. iv. 13. The promise to Abraham was not through the law, but the righteousness of faith, and in Rom. vi. 14, Paul tells them they are not under the law but under grace. Rom. vi. 23, tells of the gift of God, which is through Christ, not Moses. Rom. vii. 46, brethren were dead to the law by the body of Christ. Rom. x. 4, Christ is the end of the law, and Paul in writing to the Galatians says the law was our school master to bring us to Christ, Gal. iii. 24, 25, just as plain language as any passage in the Bible. Read also Gal. ii. 18, 19, 21; iii. 2, 5, 23. We might just as well say that we in the United States are still under the law of King George, and George Washington was not the end of that law, but we know that George Washington did end that law. So Christ was the end of the Mosaic law, and Paul says if any one preaches a different gospel from the one he preached, he shall be accursed. Gal. i. 8. The Mosaic law was ended in Christ and is not the gospel that Christ, Paul and others taught, therefore I cannot accept it as such, or I shall be accursed as Paul says. Read John i. 17; viii. 31, 32; xiv. 6.

The sacrifices of the law were done away in Christ. Heb. ix. and x. Also the law of circumcision. Gal. vi. 12, 13; Eph. ii. 8-17. Christ did many things on the Sabbath day contrary to the Mosaic law, and was put to death for it. If the Mosaic law is still in force, the penalty attached to it is also. So no Sabbath keeper but should be stoned to death. Ex. xxxv. 2, 3; Num. xv. 32, 36. Read Rom. xiv. 5; Gal. iv. 10, 11; Col. ii. 16. Read Paul's charge to the elders. Acts xx. 25, 27. Also see that they did not keep Moses' law. Acts xxi. 21, 25, 28. Paul broke bread with the disciples on the first day. Acts xx. 7. Ordered them to lay by on the first day. 1 Cor. xvi. 2. These quotations refer to Rev. i. 10, where it is called the Lord's day. The disciples assembled on the first day. John xx. 19, 20. See what Peter preached, Acts ii. 38. 3000 baptized, xii. 41. Paul preached, Acts iii. 19 to end; iv. 1; xii. 5-17 to end; Philip, Acts viii. 12, 35; and others. Acts xiii. 5; xxxviii. 30, 42, margin; xiv. 7, 21, 36; xvi. 10, 30, 32. The Sabbath not preached by any one of them, and they were instructed what to preach that we might have eternal life. Read Gal. i. 8. The Sabbath is not the gospel. And the gospel must be believed and obeyed, if we would obtain eternal life.

Yours for the truth,

E. W. Knapp.

Our Love Feast.

Editor Restitution.

I write to thank you for sending me that good paper, The Restitution. It has been so much comfort to me. I am an aged cripple, 80 years old. My home is in the County House. My Bible and your good paper is all the comfort I have. I will be very glad if you will continue to send it to me if you can afford to. May the good Lord bless you in all you do, is my prayer.

Your Sister in the our faith.

Mrs. Mary Powers.

Brother Underwood:

The Restitution has been a welcome visitor in our house, in all its different forms. We cannot remember the time when it did not make its weekly visits, and may it keep on shedding its rays of light to cheer weary pilgrims on their journey till the kingdom comes, is my desire.

Yours, waiting for the kingdom.

L. M. Skeels.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

It becomes us to be watchful. If we watch our own footsteps, we will not have any time to see to those of others. Brethren, we must trim our own lamps and have a good supply of oil in them. If we do not want to be counted among the foolish virgins. We must be careful of how, when, and where we speak of any of the brethren. We should all be of one mind. Rom. xii. 16. "Be of the same mind, one towards another. Mind not high things, condescend to men of low estate, be not wise in your own conceits." The 17th verse says, "Recompense to no man evil for evil, provide things honest in the sight of all men." We should deal honestly with all men. It is not our place to try to harm any one who may try to treat us ill, for the Lord says, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay." He goes on to tell us what to do. "If thine enemy hunger, feed him, if thirsty give him drink, for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Do good and eschew evil, pray for those that despitefully use you." Jas. v. 16. "Confess your faults one to another that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Let us take to love, peace, and long-suffering. Luke vi. 38. "Give and it shall be given unto you, good measure, pressed down and running over, shall men give into your bosom, for with the same measure that ye mete withall it shall be measured to you again." Let us stop a moment and think ourselves over and ask the Lord to cleanse us from our own sins before we begin to chastise our brother. Luke vi. 41. "And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye." The 42nd verse reads, "How canst thou say, Let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye. Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye." If we see a brother or a sister in a fault, let us be charitable enough to not say anything to the worldlings about it, and if we chance to speak to those of the one faith, let us do it with a prayerful heart, so that when the Lord makes His appearance we will be ready to meet him with a pure heart and a clear conscience.

Sister waiting the return of our Lord.

Mrs. Thos. H. Lindsay.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

As I have written several sketches for publication since I left home, I desire to return thanks to our brother for giving them room in our good paper, and while this method has saved me much writing to friends, yet it has brought many encouraging letters from my old Christian friends and former associates, which has been a source of untold pleasure to me. To hear these true and faithful ones expressing their hope and steadfastness in the faith it shows that neither years of absence nor distance can make us strangers to each other, if our hope is built on the sure Word of promise we can easily know each other, and there is a love for the truth's sake, and an anxious yearning to draw nearer to each other in this cloudy and dark day, when the time of trouble seems to be gathering over all nations, and the end of all this, who can tell? Oh, "may the God of all peace, that brought again our Lord Jesus from the dead," keep and preserve all of his dear believing children unto his heavenly kingdom is the prayer of your Sister. This may be the last communication until I return to my church home at Browntown, Va. I feel very anxious to meet with the little flock again at that place. Hope the good Lord may spare us all to meet again and have a refreshing season from his presence, while we tabernacle or sojourn in this age.

Your Sister, waiting fo the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

S. F. Morgan.

Dear Restitution:

Notwithstanding I am a new subscriber yet the paper seems like a worthy old relic to the memory of my early childhood, for it was read and appreciated so highly in the family by whom I was raised that a renewal of its acquaintance seems to me like a long lost friend restored. I remember that there was one column called the "Youth's Column," this was of course interesting to we little folks. But the hand of time has made many changes since that day. Our family like others have been greatly scattered, and some have fallen asleep, and I of course am older. I still feel deeply interested in the religious paper of my early training. I am convinced that it is the most interesting and instructive paper that I have ever read. It enables me to see the gospel plainer than I ever did before, and I hope to gain much instruction by its perusal, and as I am acquainted with several of the writers, it is all the more appreciated by me. I ask an interest in your prayers.

D. K.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

In my weakness I will try to write a few lines for the paper. I am glad that we have such a messenger as The Restitution where the truth can be proclaimed in its purity, as the signs of the times indicate the soon coming of the Lord from heaven. "The Lord shall be King over all the earth." Zech. xiv. 9. Dear brothers and sisters, be of good cheer, Christ is soon coming again, then he will bring our reward with him. "Behold, I come quickly and my reward is with me to give to every man according as his works shall be. Blessed is he that hath part in the first resurrection, on such the second death hath no power, they shall live and reign with Christ a thousand years." I can say with Paul, I am not ashamed of the gospel for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth it." Peter says, "Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins. Ye are called in one hope of your calling, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, and we are assured that it is the faith that overcomes the world. No good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. John says, "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world, if any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him, and the world passeth away and the lust thereof, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." I believe the covenants of promise made to the fathers will be literally fulfilled at the coming and kingdom of Jesus Christ. Then Christ will say, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." Then we will see the King in his beauty, "For the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ and he shall reign forever and ever." Permit us here to thank the dear brothers and sisters for so many encouraging letters. They know not how much it helps the weary pilgrim along the rugged pathway of life. Dear brothers and sisters, pray for us, that we may all strive to hold out faithful to the end.

Yours in hope,

Mr. & Mrs. A. J. Mullen.

Dear Restitution:

I want to say to the household of faith that it is about 33 years since my eyes were opened to the truth after belonging with the Campbellites for several years, and oh, how thankful I am to our heavenly Father that he allowed me to live to see the glorious things in reserve for them that love him. After a few years studying I began preaching as opportunity offered. I feel thankful that I have been instrumental in getting a few to see the light, and as I grow older my faith is still unwavering. I am in my 72nd year. According to the signs of the times given the student of prophecy, and the condition of the nations, I see no Scripture necessary to be fulfilled before the coming of the King to take his people away from the time of trouble on the nations. I am strong and healthy, no old trouble that threatens. I shall be very disappointed if I do not live to see our King come in his beauty. I want to thank the many writers of The Restitution for the many letters from them. May God bless all the contributors and especially Bros. Gardner and Joblin, God bless them. How I long to take your hands and wish you God speed, but if not in this age may we in the next.

G. W. Smith.

Report of Organization.

March 22, 1900, Grant Co., Oklahoma, Ter., we the members of the Church of God, pursuant to call assembled on the above date, at the residence of Bro. J. R. Fisk, for the purpose of organizing. Bro. J. R. Fisk acted as moderator, Bro. G. W. Wogoman was chosen secretary. Bro. F. L. Fisk was selected as our elder, in which capacity he supercedes Bro. J. R. Fisk. Bro. J. C. Oliver, of Attica, Kan., who has been preaching for us, for some time past, with good results, was present at the meeting. Since Bro. Oliver's report to The Restitution of the accessions to the Church at this place another one, a Mrs. Garlinger, has been baptized, and made a start for the kingdom, may she with all of us remain true to the profession made. Bro. Oliver is considered by the members as being a capable and untiring worker in proclaiming the Word of truth, and was therefore retained as our minister for the present year. Bro. J. R. Fisk was selected to preach the gospel and received a certificate to that effect. The Restitution was recommended as a paper worthy of the support and patronage of the Church. We extend a cordial invitation to all the faithful to join with us in our endeavors to promulgate the true gospel. All the brethren are invited to meet with us and participate in our meetings. Bro. Oliver's appointment at this place is on the third Sunday of each month.

G. W. Wogoman.

OBITUARY.

Nancy Pugh Starkey was born in Chatham Co., N. C., Aug. 18, 1808; died March 25, 1900, aged 91 years, 7 months and 7 days. She with her parents emigrated to Marion Co., Ind., in 1824. The roads being almost impassible the family was mostly compelled to walk, and she the oldest child carried her youngest brother the greater part of the distance and assisted in caring for the rest of the family. In 1832, she was married to William D. Starkey. To this union were born 9 children. In 1850, she with her family moved to Marshall Co., Ind., and settled in the woods. One year later her husband died, leaving her to struggle hard to maintain her children until all were married. She then lived with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Jesse Moore, until the death of the latter in 1877, after which she lived with Mr. Moore and his children until her death. She leaves one son, Mr. Asa Starkey, one brother, one sister, sixteen grandchildren and many relatives and friends to mourn her death. She was a strong believer in the doctrines advocated by the Church of God, being a member of the same denominat. n at Argos, Ind. Funeral services at Argos, after which she was laid away with tender hands, in the hope that at the appearing of our Savior she may be among the heirs of God.

F. L. Austin.

As in the Days of Noah.

So Christ himself has declared the time of his coming to be. Where he has spoken, let every human voice be hushed. The days of Noah reflect the following likenesses of the days of Christ's return:

1. The people were forewarned of their impending doom.

2. They derided it and made no preparation.

3. They substituted pleasure for piety, as now, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.

4. Only a few prepared for the flood.

5. All were warned and might have escaped.

6. To the multitude the flood was sudden and unlooked for.

7. Their scepticism gave way to awful consternation and doom.—Way of Faith.

"The careful person in time of plenty will prepare for a famine."

Holy joy is the root and spring of thankful praise.

To be a follower of Christ is to live as Christ lived.

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

Communicated.

Editor Restitution:

I read with much interest the report of brethren laboring in the vineyard of the Master. These reports enlarge our hope and strengthen our faith and rejoiceth the heart of those that are truly in sympathy with God's plan of salvation through faith and obedience to the gospel. I will endeavor to give a report of my trip to Washington in answer to a call from the brethren through Bro. Corbaley. Leaving home Dec. 27 for Wenatchee, Wash., after three days and four nights I reached there Dec. 31. Here I met an earnest little band of brethren that spare no time and means in trying to spread the gospel of the coming kingdom. Here I found a number of persons that have united with our brethren that have not been baptized since they became believers of the gospel of the kingdom, having been previously put under the water before they knew or believed the gospel. Jesus taught he that believed and was baptized should be saved. Mark xvi. 16. In Matt. xiii. 19, Jesus here teaches that they that hear the Word of the kingdom and understands it not, is likened unto the seed sown on stony ground and by the wayside among thorns. The latter Jesus says is he that heareth the Word, and the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the Word, and he becometh unfruitful. But he that receiveth seed in good ground, is he that heareth the Word and understands it and bringeth forth fruit thirty to hundred fold. From Jesus we should learn the necessity of understanding the Word of the kingdom, which is the same as the gospel of the kingdom, before baptism. We should urge on those wishing to unite with us the necessity of baptism. After they have learned and believed the gospel, then if loyal to God such faith and obedience will prove to be the power of God in a special salvation. 1 Tim. iv. 10, better resurrection. Hebrews xi. 55, or first resurrection. Rev. xx. 6, or great salvation, Heb. ii. 3. That through the knowledge of this high calling, and by virtue of a spiritual birth at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ we may become partakers of the divine nature of the Head of the church, Jesus the Christ. This is the salvation offered through belief and obedience to the gospel in this age, by which the Bride, the Lamb's wife, makes herself ready for the coming marriage feast. I preached the need of baptism after belief in the things concerning the kingdom of God. I baptized one sister at Wenatchee and the day after I left Brother Prime, baptized or re-baptized as some call it, a sister that had previously been put under the water before she knew or believed the gospel. Preaching brethren that go out to teach should be careful in this matter, show the necessity of a knowledge and belief of the gospel before baptism, as it is by belief and obedience we become united with the Body of Christ, the Church, and are the children of Abraham by faith in the Anointed One. From Wenatchee I went to Waterville, remained there until Feb. 11, preaching six weeks at both places. 44 discourses in all. At Waterville an invitation was given to any that wished to become disciples of Christ or servants of God to stand up, two stood.

I see by THE RESTITUTION that Bro. Skeels has had a good meeting at Ellensburg, with him let all rejoice. Also he is to hold meeting at Waterville. There are some that will become obedient with a little more light. Leaving Waterville Feb. 13, I returned to Wenatchee and visited with brethren until 15, when I left for Seattle, reaching there 4 o'clock A. M., putting up at hotel until morning. After breakfast I went in search of Bro. Eshelman, found him in his office. After a few words of greeting we had a very agreeable talk. Bro. Eshelman is one more of those brethren I have learned to love by becoming acquainted with him, and I look upon him and the little company at West Seattle as a part of the coming Bride. At this point I preached twice, Sunday 25. The brethren here are few, but are appreciative, earnest and devoted brethren. Monday 26, I left for Portland, Oregon. Tuesday 27, I crossed the Columbia River for Vancouver. Here I was met by Bro. Miles. After transacting a little business we drove out to his house, four miles in the country. Commenced preaching, Feb. 28 to March 4. Here again I met brethren earnestly contending for the faith, attendance was good, much interest manifested, would have remained here longer, but for previous arrangements to hold debate at Audubon, Iowa. At Vancouver I met two brethren, one heard me preach at Britan, Iowa, 18 years ago, and one of them 17 years ago at Trenton, Mo. What a strange coincident to meet those we have met so long ago, but how glorious it will be to meet in the sweet by and by with the redeemed of all ages, in the everlasting age. Brethren, let us hold fast lest another take our crown. Leaving Portland Feb. 27, I reached Denver March 1, remained over until the 2nd. 6:30 P. M. boarding the train for Audubon, Iowa, arrived there Monday 5th, expecting to hold debate with an Evangelical minister, but he had backed out and had written for the Bishop of their church in Ill., but so far he has not heard from him. But as time is too precious to be idle, I commenced preaching Wednesday 27, brethren having secured the Baptist church, attendance fair, but the Methodist and Presbyterian ministers have warned their members against coming out to hear, a proof that their foundation is on sand, and will not stand investigation. I will close here Sunday 18, as the expenses cannot be met without money. And in conclusion, say my faith has been strengthened and my hope enlarged by becoming acquainted with brethren of like precious faith in my travels through Washington, witnessing their earnest striving to enter into the everlasting kingdom of God. Dear brethren, one and all, press forward toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Your Brother sincerely striving for eternal life through Christ,

D. M. HUDLER.

Jerusalem has 42,536 inhabitants, of whom 28,288 are Jews. Jaffa has 17,718 inhabitants, of whom 2,970 are Jews. Tiberias has a population of 6,050, among whom are 3,200 Jews. Among the 9,100 inhabitants of Safed, 7,140 are Jews. Haifa has a population of 8,365, among whom are 1,375 Jews. Among the 18,000 inhabitants of Hebron there are 1,100 Jews. The number of Jews in the other towns is very small.—Die Welt.

A skeptic, it is said, once asked Dr. Nettleton, "How came I by my wicked heart?" and his reply was, that is a question which does not concern you so much as another; namely, How shall I get rid of it? You have a wicked heart which renders you entirely unfit for the kingdom of God: and you must have a new heart or you can not be saved."

"Even as snow by its whiteness reflects a larger measure of sunlight, so spotlessness and purity of character heighten the emanations of light from that divine Luminary."

Duty does what it ought. Love, without stint, does all it can. To be impelled by love, is to drown the thunders of I ought in the music of I delight to.

Let us never do evil, and then we need never fear being told of it.

Let him rule man who said, Let us make man.

Excursion Rates via Vandalia Lines.

To Indianapolis, April 23rd and 24th, account State Prohibition Convention. One and one-third fare fo the round trip.

To Knightstown, Ind., April 27th, and 28th, account Christian Endeavor yearly meeting. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, May 14th, 15th, and 16th, account State G. A. R. Encampment. One fare for round trip.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell excursion tickets to students account the Easter Vacation at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets available the day before school closes, the closing day and the day after, the return limit to cover period of vacation. Inquire Agents—apr 15

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, post-office money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see mentioned in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line, south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12, i. The Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work of the "Gospel of the Kingdom," as one body. Let us support the work with our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Oatman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. DARBY, Sec.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

A few Reasons why we should not believe man goes to heaven at death.

Good Reasons why we should not believe man has an immortal soul.

What must I do to be saved?

Where are the dead?

The above are titles to some small 4-page tracts suitable to place in an envelope. Short and to the point. Price 8 copies for 5 cents—or 100 for 25 cents.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KI[illegible] page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for young or old, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 n. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through thecity, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Prairie Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sedick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scirceville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch. the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Eshelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schafer's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Bush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kreider, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trendell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin B. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meeting at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church home on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their home in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Sch. in Effect Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	39	3	35
	A M	P M	A M	P M	P M
Pittsburgh, Ar.	7 25	12 30	11 30	6 30	10 30
Allegheny	7 29	12 34	11 34	6 34	10 34
Rochester	8 45	1 50	12 50	7 50	11 50
Beaver Falls	9 03	2 08	1 08	8 08	12 08
New Castle Jc.	9 20	2 25	1 25	8 25	12 25
Youngstown	10 22	3 16	2 16	9 16	1 16
Warren	11 13	4 05	3 05	10 05	1 55
Niles	11 55	4 45	3 45	10 45	2 35
Newton Falls	12 08	4 58	3 58	10 58	2 48
Ravenna	12 25	5 15	4 15	11 15	3 05
Akron	12 55	5 45	4 45	11 45	3 35
Orrville	1 30	6 20	5 20	12 20	4 10
Mansfield	1 55	6 45	5 45	12 45	4 35
Crestline	2 30	7 20	6 20	1 20	5 10
Galion	2 45	7 35	6 35	1 35	5 25
Bucyrus	3 00	7 50	6 50	1 50	5 40
Forest	3 25	8 15	7 15	2 15	6 05
Lima	4 15	9 05	8 05	3 05	6 55
Van Wert	5 00	9 50	8 50	3 50	7 40
Delphos	5 20	10 10	9 10	4 10	8 00
Ft Wayne Ar.	6 15	11 05	10 05	5 05	8 55
Ft Wayne Lv.	6 30	12 01	10 10	5 10	9 00
Auburn	6 58	12 29	10 38	5 38	9 28
Garrett	7 20	12 51	11 00	6 00	9 50
Butler	7 45	1 16	11 25	6 25	10 15
Bluffton	8 12	1 43	11 52	6 52	10 42
Warren	8 25	1 56	12 05	7 05	10 55
Wabash	8 45	2 15	12 25	7 25	11 15
Peru	9 10	2 40	12 50	7 50	11 40
Logansport	9 30	3 00	1 10	8 10	12 00
Lafayette	10 30	4 00	2 10	9 10	1 00
Covington	11 15	4 45	2 55	9 55	1 45
Danville	11 40	5 10	3 20	10 20	2 10
Terre Haute	12 40	6 10	4 20	11 20	3 10
Effingham	2 45	8 15	6 25	1 25	5 15
Mattoon	3 30	9 00	7 10	2 10	6 00
Charleston	3 45	9 15	7 25	2 25	6 15
Mattoon	4 00	9 30	7 40	2 40	6 30
Effingham	4 45	10 15	8 25	3 25	7 15
Vincennes	6 45	12 15	10 25	5 25	9 15
Washington	7 15	12 45	10 55	5 55	9 45
Columbus	7 30	1 00	11 10	6 10	10 00
Louisville	8 45	2 15	12 25	7 25	11 15

Eastward.	20	2	6	40	34	14
	P M	P M	P M	A M	A M	P M
Chicago Ar.	7 25	3 00	12 05	6 50	7 25	4 00
Chicago Lv.	7 35	3 10	12 15	7 00	7 35	4 10
Garrett	8 55	4 30	1 35	8 20	8 55	5 30
Auburn	9 25	5 00	2 05	8 50	9 25	6 00
Fort Wayne	9 50	5 25	2 30	9 15	9 50	6 25
Ft Wayne Lv.	9 55	5 30	2 35	9 20	9 55	6 30
Pittsburgh Ar.	4 50	10 25	7 30	2 15	4 50	11 25
Liverpool	5 10	10 45	7 50	2 35	5 10	11 45
Berlin	5 45	11 20	8 25	3 10	5 45	12 20
Chicago Ar.	6 45	12 15	9 25	4 05	6 45	1 15

Eastward. Westward.

Daily. Daily except Sunday. Daily except Saturday.

Light type A M Dark type P M.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston on Nos. 6, 8 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served at "up-to-date" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address H. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

L. P. LOREE, General Manager. R. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A FREE PATTERN

(your own selection) to every subscriber. Only 50 cents a year.

McCALL'S MAGAZINE 50¢ A YEAR

A LADIES' MAGAZINE.

A most beautiful colored plate, latest fashions, dressmaking accessories, fancy work, Authentic Answers, etc. Subscribe today, or send 4c. for latest copy. Lady agents wanted. Send for terms.

Stylish, Reliable, Simple, Up-to-date, Economical and Absolutely Perfect-Fitting Paper Patterns.

McCALL BAZAR PATTERNS 10¢ and 15¢

(No Seams to Allow in These Patterns.)

Only 10 and 15 cts. each—none higher. Ask for them. Sold in nearly every city and town, or by mail from

THE McCALL CO., 138-146 West 14th St., New York.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address publishe may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City,
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Denham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Cheschrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
S. Roxana Winey, Pierceton, Ind
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heun, Dudley, Worcestershire, England
J. S. Hatch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime Sr, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 528 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keen, 4507, S. N. St Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, 7 G Fairchild st, Danville, Ill.
D. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Goewkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Portland, Ore
W. P. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Crimmer, Fitzgerald, Ga.
Mollie Bathbun, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
Mrs. Mollie Bathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa. Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1065 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
D. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Dwinglas, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 397 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.
H. F. Tyler, Portland, Ore.
M. F. Cordill, Plymouth, Ind.
G. W. Smith, Box 133, Hartford, Kan.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend	8:31am
No. 14, " "	12:16pm
No. 8, " " "	10:03pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	6:04 a m
No. 3, " " " "	12:35 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport	7:30pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. DOWNS, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. An Volume of 288 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother, Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

The Nickel Plate Road offers to the traveling public a great convenience by the sale of the Central Passenger Association Mileage Ticket, which, besides the Nickel Plate is honored for passage on thirty-six other roads. Apply to any agent.—apr. 7.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Entered at the Postoffice at Plymouth, Ind., as Second Class Matter.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 11, 1900. NUMBER 14.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

The Harvest.

Lo, in the field the yellow harvest drooping,
Like lilies after rain;
Where are the reapers, that they come not trooping
To gather in the grain?

Some in the festive hall disporting gaily;
On slothful pillow some;
Both with delay most blameful, and yet daily
Exclaiming, "Lo, I come!"

And some, infatuate, 'mid allens' swadling,
Quarrel about their toil;
As wreckers, when ships founder in the ooing,
Grow murderous over spoil.

Meanwhile the harvest waiteth for the reaping;
God's patience hath not tired;
Ye cannot say, extenuate of sleeping,
"We wait, for none hath hired."

Through the hushed noon-tide hour the Master calleth;
Ye cannot choose but hear:
Still sounding when the lengthening shadow falleth—
"Why stand ye idle here?"

Up! for a while the plying glory lingers;
Work, while it yet is day;
Then rest, the Sabbath rest, where blessed singers
Make melody for aye.

Communicated.

The Bible for the Jews.

A recent report from Marcus S. Bergmann, in The Banner of Israel, in reference to the translating and circulating of the Bible among the Jews, is so interesting and withal so cheering, that I cannot refrain from making a few extracts from it, for the benefit of the dear readers of THE RESTITUTION. He says:

"One of the sayings of the Jewish father is: 'Say little and do much.' This is certainly a wise maxim, and nowhere more applicable than in the work the Lord has so graciously permitted me to do in translating the Holy Scriptures for my Jewish brethren in the language they can understand. For many years prior to the commencement of this work, I have been praying alone, hidden away from human eyes and ears, pouring out my supplication into the ears of our loving Father. And when called and permitted of him to enter upon this work, I have, like a miner, been laboring, digging away, as it were, deep down in the bowels of the earth." (Bergmann, means 'a miner.)

"Another wise saying of the Jewish father is:—'Consider also in whose presence thou art laboring, in whose service thou art employed and who the Master is that will pay the reward of thy labor. The day is short, and the labor much. The reward is great, and the Master of the house presseth for dispatch.'"

"It is therefore incumbent upon us to be diligent and complete the work, and we are not at liberty to abstain from it. But the joy of being employed in the service of such a Master brings its own reward with it, even here, and one day he will give us a still richer reward, if we faint not.

"A Yiddish Bible for the Jews is now, as a result of this labor, a reality. A first edition of 10,000 copies of the complete Old Testament has already been printed and are being circulated in all parts of the world, and is hailed with delight by every missionary to the Jews, and by unconverted Jews too, amongst them not a few of the rabbis themselves. The acknowledgements that constantly reach us, as well as requests for these Scriptures, is most cheering. Shortly after having sent a copy of the Old Testament to a Jewish rabbi in a provincial town, I received the following from his son, who is a doctor in London, 'Whilst on a recent visit to my father, the Rev. J. B. at D, I greatly admired a rendering of the Hebrew Scriptures into Jargon of which you are the translator. My father told me you could possibly spare me a copy, especially as I am intensely interested in all works bearing on the Holy Book.'"

"There never has been a greater opportunity to scatter the seed of the Word of God, nor a more ready and eager reception of the life-giving Word among the Jews everywhere than at the present time. 'But the only way to reach the bulk of God's chosen people, the Jews, with the Scriptures of either Old or New Testaments, is by giving them away freely. And this I do as the Lord enables me through the kindness and liberality of his own dear children.

"To America alone more than 3,000 copies of the complete Old Testament, and tens of thousands of New Testaments either complete or in portions have been sent for free distribution. The following is from a friend in Philadelphia, Pa., U. S. A., who says:—

"'The two boxes of New Testaments (400 copies) were duly received, and in a few hours I had given away about 70 copies.....I did not think it possible in this age to see the Jews opening their eyes and their hearts for the Truth as we have now seen. The good news of your letter filled us with joy and thanksgiving for the generous list of good Scripture portions and tracts to be sent to us.' More than 34,000 copies of various portions of the New Testament and various tracts in Yiddish have already been sent to America. 'The good news has gone to many places, and many prayers ascending to the Giver of every good and perfect gift. May all those who had part in your generous gift, be abundantly blessed by our Father, and may the Jews be blessed by the truth that shall go forth as we trust.'

"In another letter the same friend says: 'The two boxes (of Scripture portions, etc.) arrived on Saturday and by night we had given away about a thousand copies to Jews, most of whom were eager to receive them.....We have many calls for Bibles, which we hope soon to receive, etc.

"Another friend in acknowledging the receipt of 500 copies of the Old Testament says:—'We have long been praying for such a translation and we praise the Lord that he has enabled you to accomplish this colossal work. .....We have been promising the Jews time after time these Bibles, and now, we can breathe freer, for we are able to fulfil our promises to those Jews who grew weary of waiting.'"

So much Mr. Bergmann says of the work in America. It astonishes us and we feel that our people themselves, ought to aid in the financial part of this glorious work. It would be a thousand fold better investment for Mr. Rockefeller's money than the endowment of colleges.

Then he turns to England and tells what Mrs. Crampton, who is laboring among the Jews of Southampton, says, she writes as follows:

"I don't know what you will think of my boldness, but I have been among the Jews again, I made several attempts to catch them on a Saturday morning going into a synagogue but failed each time.....so feeling burdened in the spirit I paid another visit to the clothing factory I have previously told you of. The Jews received me even more cordially than before. Seeing some small books in my hand, (some of the new tracts you sent me) a young Jew said, 'You gave them us before.' I told him they were new and that they had not seen them. He said, 'True, and we want more. Have you not one more Bible? I can read that and understand it.' I gave him one. Another, an elderly man beckoned to me from the center of the work room. I went to him and he said audibly, so that all present could hear, 'Why don't you give the Jews the gospel?' I said, would they read it if I did?' He said, 'Certainly they would!' I asked, 'Would you read it?' He said, 'Yes, if I had one.' I told him, I thought I could get him a copy and if not, I had some portions of that gospel which I could give him.' I hardly knew how I felt. The question so thoroughly took me aback, to hear a Jew say, 'Why don't you give the Jews the gospel?' And to know that I had a few portions of that gospel at home, and was afraid to take them till the opportunity presented itself, lest I should offend my Judean brethren! The time has now come. I must not be a coward any longer, can you help me with a few copies of the New Testament? I don't like to beg. If I had the means I would pay for them; but by and by I shall hope to do more if God wills. Two days later the same lady wrote to Mr. Bergmann again, and said:

'I thank you so much for the precious parcel at hand. It came before I had risen this morning, but I immediately got up and went into the town. On presenting myself again so soon after my visit on Monday, I should not have been surprised had I been coolly treated; but all the Jews met me with a kindly smile. I showed a copy of the New Testament to the one who asked that still ringing question, 'Why don't you give the gospel to the Jews?' and asked him if that was what he wanted?' If I never saw gratitude depicted on a man's face before, I am greatly mistaken, if I did not see it then. He looked at the book and at me and said, 'Yes.' He opened it, and again said, 'Yes, that is it, thank you,—Oh thank you!' I left it with him, with a 'God bless you and the reading of it.' Of course you will understand how every eye was arrested. I did not stay many minutes lest I should hinder. The young Jew to whom I had given the Bible the Monday before, asked, 'Is that something fresh?' I showed it to him and he asked 'If he might have it on loan?' I said, 'What! have you read that big book all through so soon?' He said, 'No, but this is so nice, if you will lend it to me for one week I will bring it back.' I told him if he came to see me on Saturday I would see what I could do.....well, I am just amazed, sometimes I think I have been and am dreaming.'

Mr. Wilkinson's son, says:—'Dear Mr. Bergmann, You remember that we had 2,500 (a ton and a half) of your New Testaments printed from the plates,.....and I think you had the same number printed at the same time for your own use. We at once sent two copies to Russia for it to be passed through the Censor's office, and I have now received a letter from our brother Levinsky, saying, that he has got a permit from the Censor, which must be printed on all the books sent into the country. It must appear on the fly leaf in Russian, as well as in Jargon,' etc.

Mr. Bergmann says, that "this has been done, and that he is now able to send a large supply into that vast Russian empire for the millions of Jews." And so the work goes on, Philadelphia has appealed for 5,000 more New Testaments and Bergmann is anxious to reprint 10,000 or 20,000 copies at once, for which £500 or $1,000 is needed."

Let all who are able take part in this work. Truly, the signs are multiplying that betoken the coming of Jesus near, and of them all, none is more significant than this miraculous budding of the barren fig-tree. It fills my heart with joy unspeakable.

S. ROXANA WINCE.

A Christian.

"A Christian is one who believes in the religion of Christ; one who professes the religion of Christ; a real disciple." So say the lexicons. This is but a verbal definition. To know what a Christian is we must study the Scriptures, especially what are styled the New Covenant Scriptures. It is necessary to do this in order to come into saving relationship to Christ and to continue in him "rooted and grounded in love."

The believers were called disciples—taught or trained ones, and these "were called Christians first at Antioch." Acts xi. 26. Some understand that they were so called in derision. Hardly: for in the two other occurrences of the name it is applied seriously. Peter says, "If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed." 1 Pet. iv. 16. Here it is applied by inspiration as a fitting name for the faithful and suffering followers of Christ. It denotes that they belong to him. Agrippa under the earnest preaching of Paul in bonds said, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." Acts xxvi. 28. Christians of apostolic times did not become such by mere excitement, or by animal magnetism, but through belief of and obedience to the truth as proclaimed by inspired Apostles. Nothing short of this will do. All pious (?) methods employed by modern teachers to make Christians are without precedent in the history of conversions under the ministry of the Apostles. Let one read the book of Acts, even carelessly, and he will be struck with the fact that the advocates of modern [illegible] into the body of Christ. But to do now, as the inspired evangelists did, is likely to incur criticism as being superficial, and lacking in spirituality and destitute of the odor of sanctity. If, what the Apostles did, was sanctioned by God himself, and it surely was, to pursue the same course today ought, in all fairness, to receive the approval of all honest men. The message today is the same as then and may be delivered in the same earnest and solemn style; and, as then, it may reach and goad the heart of the sinner, and call forth from him the all important question, What shall I do? The message today commands repentance as of old, requiring a change just as radical, a change of mind, purpose and practice; the putting off the old man and the putting on the new. The same cause produces the same effect though the points of time in which it operates may be far asunder. To deny this is to deny that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believes. The question of man's justification and salvation is just as urgent as ever; and, feeling his mortal sickness the remedy is at hand, and adequate to the case. The gospel believed and obeyed is the sovereign remedy for the leprosy of sin. But if the teachers are ignorant of the gospel how can any one believe it? "Faith comes by hearing and hearing by the Word of God." Rom. x. 17. How much of the gospel have these modern teachers? Very little in fact; for there is scarcely anything in the whole compass of revelation that they have not, either grossly perverted, or wholly supplanted by some human opinion. They profess to preach Christ but preach the monstrously absurd doctrine of a trinity of gods, yet one in person and substance and co-eternal. This in the face of the plainest kinds of statements to the contrary. The Bible plainly teaches the fact that Christ died. They teach that only his body died, the real Christ went to Paradise with the soul of the thief, or to some other place to preach to souls in prison. Some of these teachers while believing that Christ's body was raised from the dead deny that the righteous dead will be literally raised at his second coming, and have substituted for this the raising of the spirit out of the corruptible body at death. A few weeks ago I dined with a preacher who held this view of a resurrection. I quoted several passages in proof of a literal resurrection of the dead. When I got through citing the Scriptures he coolly said, "That is speculation;" as much as to say that Daniel and John, Jesus and Paul speculated! That is, they theorized on the subject, but did not prove it. He then gave me his unwarranted notion. In reply I said, with a good deal of emphasis, That is speculation. But I need not weary my readers with a long list of perversions and substitutions; for what have not these modern teachers laid sacrilegious hands on? Not having the gospel they cannot preach it. It is left to men not vainly puffed up with their own fleshly notions—humble men to declare the unsearchable riches of Christ and make known the true gospel for the obedience of faith. This must be done if it does cost time and labor and money, self-sacrifice and loss of friends. We must preach it as the Apostles preached it, in its fulness and completeness. Such a gospel obeyed from the heart makes one a Christian after the Apostolic style. This is to start right with sure footing; and by faithful running; the goal will as surely be reached. Who has any reason to object to this mode of making converts. The gospel as the Apostles preached it included the kingdom, together with the historical facts. The repentance commanded meant nothing less than reformation of life; and the baptism of the believer was a burial in water in the name of Jesus the Christ in order to the remission of sins, followed by obedience to all the commands; there to be observed faithfully unto the end of life. This course or way of getting into Christ may not in the estimation of many, seem very pious or religious, yet, it is both genuine piety and true religion. If this short paper shall fortunately fall into the hands of an honest unbeliever he is invited to carefully read the Acts of the Apostles in the light of the fact that this book is a history of conversions under the preaching of inspired Apostles and evangelists.

JOHN L. WINCE.

Reveries.

One look out of doors is enough. No meeting today, for wind and snow with thermometer below zero are doing their best to keep us in doors. We turn from the window to the warm fire and pleasant little room with a thank offering on our lips and an inward prayer for the one who thought it his duty to go in spite of storm, to tell the old, old story to the faithful few in Southern Michigan. Little Willard and I then are alone, and I sit down to enjoy some reading I have wished for a long time to finish; the silence is too much for him, and before my first page is finished a pleading voice is saying, "Grandma, will you read this little book to me, see! it was my mamma's book." Reluctantly I lay aside my reading, and with his elbow plowing into my side (for he must be very close to me to see all the pictures and know just where I am reading) I begin to read and explain and answer questions until the book is finished, and I am inwardly hoping he will be satisfied with this part of the programme and find pleasure in building with his blocks or looking at the pictures in another book, but alas, he spies his slate and pencil and nothing will do but to try my hand at drawing; another hour passes and no reading for myself yet. I hear some one say, "Well, you should teach the child to amuse himself;" an easy thing to say and a good thing for a child to learn, but every parent has a sacred duty resting upon them that they must not turn away from. Where is there another day in all the seven that your father or mother have as much time to spare to mould your child's mind as this day of rest; we do not want our children flying kites, playing ball, hunting, fishing, running the streets, or idling the hours away in silence, wishing Sunday never would come, hating the day without realizing our need of it. It is our duty then to lead the children's minds into pleasant remembrances of the day. These are the days to sow precious seed for future good; do not imagine your child too young to understand the story of Christ's love, his babyhood heralded by rejoicing angels, his boyhood, his life-work, his going away, his coming back again. Their little minds are brighter and keener than we give them credit for. Not long since, Willard, who is six years old, said to his papa, "We do not go over to that church (pointing over his shoulder) because they do not believe as we do." Papa said, "How do you know they do not believe as you do?" "Why, they think they go to heaven when they die." Well, says papa how do you know they don't. Why, grandma read this morning in the Bible, and Jesus said there, he would raise us from the dead when he came back." "Well," said papa, "all your grandma knows about it is what she reads out of the Bible." "Well," says the lad, "that is better than you do papa, you do not even read the Bible," and with this argument he left the room to go to his play. When was that thought of the resurrected life planted in that child's mind; I could not tell, ever since his lips could utter words, he was taught that God was love, and through that love gave us the beautiful birds and blossoming flowers, and when at two and a half years his mamma was laid to rest his one thought has been, "When Jesus comes mamma will come back." Not in a day or a year has this come to him; it is constant, patient work that accomplishes it. How else can we expect to save them from the fables and errors of theology, unless we studiously attend to moulding their minds now, yes now, today, this hour. Let them take part with you in the family worship, take time to explain the lesson read, make it plain to them, select often for the lesson something pleasing to their minds, let them hear your voice, father, mother, asking God to bless and care for them. Let them know that you are deeply interested in their salvation. I was really shocked while talking to a young girl friend, who had shown much interest and thought she ought to be baptized, but said she, "My father and mother never act as though they cared about it, and do you know I really know nothing of the gospel truths, and never hear it talked of at home." I thought, no wonder that large family of children never evince an interest in divine things. What are parents who pretend to love the truth thinking of? Where are the new recruits coming from to fill our churches and Sunday schools? Have you no time for these things, no desire for the salvation of your own loved ones? If your household was threatened with typhoid fever, could you take time to go for the doctor; would you have time to watch by their bed of suffering and finally death? Would you take time a little latter on to attend their funeral, and then go home with breaking hearts, with no hope of seeing them among the blessed first fruits, for you who should who have guided their thoughts aright failed to do your duty. O God, help us all to do our duty aright, that "Well done" may be said of our labors. Let us take time for these things and let the less important things be left undone.

Yours for the truth,

M. A. WOODWARD.

Pharisees, Their Character.

They were a religious sect of powerful influence in the time of our Savior. Josephus, the Jewish historian who was a member of the sect gives the fullest account of their belief, and it corresponds with the New Testament account. They prided themselves in the strictness of their notions, and in the exactness of their obedience to the law,—and to which law they added many unauthorized traditions. In a word, they were the Jesuits of their day.

From the notice of them in the Scriptures we learn they perverted the Scriptures, were zealous in making proselytes, obscured the light of the truth to the people, imposed burdens on others from which they shrank themselves, were great hypocrits and formalists, ostentatious in their religious observances, and great observers of useless traditions. No wonder our Lord was unsparing in his rebukes and exposures of their imperious and influential sect. They avenged themselves by a deadly hatred and persecution of him and his followers while such appears to have been their general character, there were some noble exceptions, such as Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea, etc. These were friends of Jesus and took his part in certain emergencies, as we read in John vii. 50. Joseph was also a member of the Jewish Sanhedrim, a man of high reputation and wealth. He resided in Jerusalem, and there became acquainted with Christ; he believed in him, notwithstanding that he had not made a public avowal of his discipleship; and showed the sincerity of his attachment by refusing his consent to his condemnation, and by his boldly asking for the body of Jesus; and he and Nicodemus embalmed it and placed it in his own new tomb.

J. O. WOODRUFF.

"As nothing truly valuable can be attained without industry, so there can be no persevering industry without a deep sense of the value of time."

"Melancholy sees the 'latter end' of things—things as they will be, and not as they are. It looks upon a beautiful face, and sees but a grinning skull."

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. HAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 11, 1900.

BRETHREN, nothing begets, and draws out spiritual affections like a sight of God in Christ. •

FRENCH troops have advanced to Igli, which gives them control of the Oasis Midikelt, practically the frontier of Morocco is in French hands.

LITTLE of importance has happened in South Africa the last week. Some skirmishing and changing of positions, with design of getting ready for more active work.

HE who lives for himself does not comprehend the possibilities slipping away from him. Selfishness is the greatest obstacle to human progress as well as to individual happiness. •

TRIALS and crosses are part of our daily portion; but God promises us strength according to our day,—let us then expect strength in every trying season, and we are certain to receive it. •

ASSISTANCE, to be what the word signifies, should be prompt. If one in need has had to lose in patience, and hope deferred, what he might have bestowed in love and gratitude, assistance loses half its value. •

THIS way if you please brother or sister,—you will be detained but a moment—just want to whisper, that those who are Christ's are striving to be Christ-like; "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his." •

OLSHAUSEN, in his comment on Matt. xxii. 20, 30, says:—

Now, in this passage we have chiefly an express confirmation of the resurrection, which, it is to be observed, we must distinguish from the immortality of the soul. Of the latter, the Scriptures never speak; on the contrary, God is called "he who alone hath immortality." 1 Tim. vi. 16. The Bible knows not either the expression, immortality of the soul, or the modern doctrine of immortality." •

FOR S. P. The Spirit in Paul seems to have anticipated just such a question as yours, for in his first letter to the Corinthians xv. 21, 22, 23, he says: "For since through a man, there is death, through a man, also, there is a resurrection of the dead; for as in Adam all die, so by the Anointed also, will all be restored to life; but each one in his own band; Christ a first-fruit; afterwards those who are Christ's at his appearing." We trust this will be satisfying. •

BELOVED in the Lord, it is decision of purpose, habitual earnestness, and promptness to ascertain the right or the wrong of things generally that are the chief constituents of that moral quality of a man which is called character. These are positive qualities that compel consideration,—that make themselves felt for good or evil, and cannot be avoided. We think it better to err somewhat in action at times, than to be habitually idle. God knows the spring of all our actions,—and if our hearts be right he is faithful and just to forgive our missteps. Even a storm is indicative of life; but stagnation is death, and more than that,—it is corruption. The standing order of the Captain of our salvation, is, "Occupy till I come,"—the signs of his coming accumulated fast,—let us be up and doing." •

THE Second Congregational Church of Rockford, Ill. has taken a step that has placed it on the most liberal ground of any society of this faith. It is not a small and insignificant movement, but is done with the knowledge and consent of many prominent members of the Congregational church in the United States. They have abandoned their old creed entirely, and have adopted a new "Confession of Faith" as follows:—"This church holds as the foundation of its faith that which is revealed in the Holy Scriptures concerning God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. It believes that the duties God requires of man are more clearly set forth in the divine teachings of Jesus than they can be by any other form of words. We therefore accept these truths as our confession of faith, and believe that the best evidence of Christian discipleship is a life conformed to those teachings and to the divine example set by the life and death of Jesus Christ."

JUSTICE is a great, but simple principle, and the secret of success in all government; it is as essential to the training of a child as to the control of a nation. Don't forget it. •

QUEEN Victoria has visited Ireland the last week, and most loyally did the people receive her. Many persons in this country seem disappointed that this should be, and rather expected a big row, and that she would be insulted. This comes from the fact that our idea of the Irish question is moulded too much by excitable orators who are prejudiced against the English. The reception accorded the Queen belies the general impression of the Irish state.

ON April 4, while the Prince of Wales and his wife were in a railway carriage in Brussels, a boy about 16 years of age made his way to the foot board of the car, and fired two shots with a revolver at the Prince. Neither took effect, and he was disarmed before he could shoot again. The reason for the act appears to have been an over-excited mind, caused by reading anarchistic literature, and listening to like talk. He seemed proud of his act, and said the Prince of Wales was to blame for the Boer war, and ought to be killed.

"THERE was one respect in which the first Ecclesia at Rome was of a kind that an earnest servant of the Master would have liked to belong to. Paul says of it, "I thank my God..... that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world." There are some modern Ecclesias which we fear have buried themselves under a bushel, or else we would be apt to hear something of their faith through their works of faith,—of encouragement, and for the emulation of others. Can it be that the brotherhood has forgotten that the knowledge of the truth is not private property, but something whereof they are put in trust and will have to render an account?" •

Imperfection.

Ruskin has this to say concerning imperfection. He says "it is in some sort essential to all that we know of life. It is the sign of life in a mortal body, that is to say, of a state of progress and change. Nothing that lives is or can be perfect: part of it is decaying, part nascent. The fox-glove blossom—a third part bud, a third part past, a third part in full bloom,—is a type of the life of this world. And in all things that live there are certain irregularities and deficiencies which are not only signs of life, but sources of beauty. No human face is exactly the same in its lines on each side,—no leaf perfect in its lobes, no branch in its symmetry. All admit irregularity as they imply change; and to banish imperfection is to banish expression, to check exertion, to paralyze vitality. All things are literally better, lovelier, and more beloved for the imperfections which have been divinely appointed, that the law of human life may be EFFORT, and the law of human judgment, MERCY." •

"Born of God."

For M. A. K. again. Your second question was as follows:—"Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God, and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.' How can this be true, if we are not born of the Spirit till Christ comes?"

We will first quote this passage as it reads in the Diaglott, thinking it may do considerable toward removing the difficulty in your mind. It says:—"Every one who believes that Jesus is the Anointed One, has been begotten by God; and every one who loves the Begetter, loves the one Begotten by him." You see from this that the word begotten in place of born, puts things in a different light; and as the revised version, and Henderson's, and Alford's, and the American Bible Union's, and Jamieson Fausset and Brown's, and Dr. Adam Clark's and the Interlinear and others agree with the Diaglott there can be no doubt but that the original Greek word rendered born in the common translation, is the same as that rendered begat begotten in the same verse.

You are aware doubtless, that both the words born and begotten are borrowed from the natural, to illustrate the spiritual; aware that begettal and birth are far apart, and that believers cannot be in the begotten state, if they are in the born state, or have come to the birth.

We know how difficult it is to unlearn what has been instilled into our minds in youth. On this subject we were taught that to be born of God was to be converted, or, that to be converted was to be born of God; and we suspect your experience has been very similar. But you see if that were truth in the premises, the parties to it would either be at the same time, or else the birth would take place without begettal. This unnatural procedure, should send us to the Word of truth to see what it has to say. The first passage that occurs to us is 1 Cor. iv. 14 where the Apostle says, "For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers, for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you, through the gospel"—or glad tidings. And James i. 18, teaches precisely the same. It says:—"Of his own will begat he us with the Word of truth that we should be a kind of first fruits of his creatures." There are many ways by which you could prove that believers in Apostolic times are only in

BEGOTTEN AND BORN

THE BEGOTTEN STATE.

If they had been born of God would they not have possessed the life of their father? Assuredly they would. The truth as stated by Paul in his day was that God only hath immortality,—1 Tim. vi. 16 that only seekers for it by patient continuance in well doing would attain to it, Rom. ii. 7; and that although it was awarded us when a union of ourselves with Christ took place, it was hid, laid up, with Christ in God, till the Life-giver shall appear. Col iii. 4.

Clearly, then, the gospel being the divine means of begetting or re-generating, or generating again,—it is a moral regeneration that is effected. It operates in this way:—The glad tidings or joyous news sent by God displays such infinite love and such boundless grace, that we are constrained to love him, and just as sure as we love him we obey him, so that we are mentally and morally changed,—mentally and morally

NEW CREATURES.

These new creatures have been begotten, but begotten to what? Let the Apostle Peter answer. "Blessed be that God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ who according to his great mercy has begotten us again to a hope of life through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." As Paul in Eph. iv. 4 says there is only one hope, and then tells us in Acts xxiii. 6 that that one hope was a hope of resurrection from the dead, and doubles up his testimony in Titus i. 2 by saying, that he is in which God who cannot lie, promised before the world began," it is not necessary to look further, in that direction, except to say that it leads up to the fact that the resurrection of Christ is CALLED A BIRTH.

HOPE OF ETERNAL LIFE

He is said to be the "First-born from the dead," the very beginning of the resurrection from the dead. This was the second time he was born. The birth which he alluded to when he told Nicodemus he must be born again or he would never enter

THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

And when we see from Rom. viii. 29 that the second, to which this First-born one is related, are his brethren, we know they are booked for the kingdom along with him. We see, too that Paul meant exactly what he said in his first letter to the Thessalonians, 4th chapter, That "the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first." Take notice that Jesus is the

HEAD OF THE BODY,

the church, the beginning, the first-born of all the brethren, that he might have the pre-eminence,—he constituted the Head. If you bear in mind that it is he who has the pre-eminence, who declares he will make all things new, Rev. xxi. 5; and that when he makes this announcement he is seated upon the throne, and besides repeating what we learned from Col. i. 8, viz., that he was the Beginning, he informs us that he is THE END, as well, of the new creation, and will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely, it will be helpful. He will be all in all then; it having been the Father's eternal purpose that he should be the Alpha and Omega,—the beginning and the end, the first and the last of redemption's scheme—the ultimate, being,—all things made new.

Your third question is quite too indefinite to enable us to answer intelligently. But will just say that Christ knew no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth, although he was made in the likeness of sinful flesh. This made him liable to do, what he did not do, although tempted in all points like as we are. You will see from this, that he could not cease to do, what he never commenced to do,—and therefore we understand, when told that "He that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin," 1 John v. 1, and "In that he died, he died unto sin once, but in that he liveth he liveth unto (by Diaglott) God, Rom. vi. 10, —yes, we understand that by dying he lost all liability to sin, because he was thus rid of the Adamic nature, with all its sinful proclivities. •

Opinions of Rabbis Opposed.

[The following selection is from the Boston Herald of April 2, 1900, and is sent by Sister M. J. Mansfield. It shows the status of the scribe and the limitations of the religious teachers of the Hebrews, and the difference in their relations and those of ministers of other denominations. It also shows that the promise of a future for Israel is still the uppermost thought in the minds of the average Jew. We are glad to give place to such articles. —ED.]

In behalf of the Jews at large, I desire to state definitely to those who take interest in the matter, and especially to the friendly Congregational Club, before whom the subject was discussed the other day, that they do not concur in the views and opinions advanced by Messrs. Hirsch, Hirschberg and Fleischer.

Having regard to the courtesy which permits space for this writing and the limitation of newspaper space, I shall explain briefly why the Jews do not and cannot add their consent to the representation of the gentlemen named above, nor accept the gentlemen themselves for their spokesmen.

The Jews have no institution as a church. In the days of the patriarchs the tabernacle was a form, and later the temple, of the sanctuary or church of God. The Jewish religion was the religion of the state. The state was ruled by the oriental, or what is known as the vikage type of government, with one head for the executive, and the Jewish church then simply reflected their secular form of government. In this manner God governed the Jews directly or through leaders appointed by himself.

The government existed until the final overthrow of the Jewish world, which was practically about the time of the destruction of the temple. Since the destruction the Jews possessed no acknowledged leaders claiming mission from their God. During the days of the Egyptian, Assyrian, Babylonian and Persian empires leaders arose among them, but the character of this mission changed from that of the earlier age. Note, also, the still greater distinction during and since the Alexandrine empire, and one can readily understand the transition from the mission of the first leaders to the status of a scribe, or rabbi, more euphemistically termed, among the modern Jews.

The scribe is engaged at so much per mensum or annum by a community, to hold his position during the good will and pleasure of that community, and when these cease, his duties are at an end, and he has no longer any mission to continue in his labors unless they are self-imposed. He is not trained in any school of preparation, and his knowledge is usually acquired from self-exertions. Recently such a school of preparation has been established in Cincinnati, but is unconnected with any church. He does not voice the sentiment of any one in the community, nor of a majority, and much less of the community.

A Jew thinks and acts for himself, according to his conscience, as it is written, since the days, and for that matter, before the days, of the judges. The practice of preaching in a synagogue is an innovation, and the greatest latitude ever permitted was confined to Exegesis.

Now contrast with this condition the Christian church, an organized body, the synod that rules the body, the convocation, election, the theological seminaries established for preparation to the ministry connected with the body, probation, ordination, all of which were in the earlier history a counterpart of the Latin type of secular government, and latterly, the Teutonic or western form of government, and one can see the striking dissimilarity between the office of a Christian minister and that of a modern rabbi, if you will, often confounded in the popular mind as one and the same office; only held by men of different faith; and it follows, when the distinction is observed, that a Christian minister, supported by the prestige of his church, to which the congregation looks for exemplary thoughts, may voice the sentiment of the community, but a rabbi, without these aids, never does or can. Therefore a rabbi becomes influential in a limited degree only, in so far as he confines himself to the doctrines of his religion and their practice.

The revelation of God, the freedom from Egyptian bondage, the inheritance of the land of Canaan, the institution of the kingdom, the disobedience, consequent punishment and dispersion, are historical facts, as the promised restoration is the article of faith of every member of the lost nation.

The hope of the nation is bound in the prophecies of restoration from the days of Isaiah, and it seems the height of arrogance for any one person—he may speak for himself, of course—to announce that the Jews as a body desist from continuing in this hope, indulged in only by those suffering persecution—an effective way of inviting divine prosecution.

Every Jew is familiar with the ode of Moses, the denunciations and blessings recorded in Deuteronomy, the lamentations, the wail of the captives by the rivers of Babylon, as well as the comforting promises of the prophecies, Isa. xxxiii. 20, xliv. 21, and how can they renounce as a body the mutual pledges affirmed and re-affirmed by the creator himself of the restoration and establishment on Zion, "the mount at Jerusalem?"

It is nothing new for some of the Jews to become enamored of the "fleshpots of Egypt" and abjure their allegiance to their God, and those who do may speak for themselves, but must not misrepresent the people who have read:

"Remember these, O Jacob and Israel; for thou art my servant; O Israel, thou shalt not be forgotten of me. I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and as a cloud, thy sins; return unto me, for I have redeemed thee."

It is the faith and hope of the Jews that some day they will be united in Zion, but in God's own way. I know of no country where the Jews enjoy greater political freedom than in British India, and this hope is the ruling passion of the Jews of India. It is false to say persecution breeds the hope or that it is the offspring of political discontent.—Moses I. F. Reuben.

Hebrew Manuscripts.

The oldest known manuscript of the Hebrew Bible is in the British museum. It has no date upon it, but the original portion of it is supposed to have been written about 820-850 A. D. It is written on vellum. The page measures sixteen and a half inches in length and thirteen and an eighth inches in breadth. As the MS. now is, it consists of 136 pages, of three columns each, and twenty-one lines in a column. Of the 136 pages, 129 exhibit the original portion. The remaining fifty-seven leaves are a later addition, written on paper and dated 1540 A. D. The entire MS. contains the first five books of the Old Testament. The original portion begins with Genesis xxxix. 20, and runs on continuously, with the exception of two pages, to Deuteronomy i. 33. The handwriting is the Sephardic, the Spanish-Portugese school. It is written in a large clear letter and presents a beautiful page. The consonantal line is about one-half inch in breadth and the space between the lines about the same width. The consonants are supplied with vowel points and accents. At the top and bottom and on the right margin are smaller lines, which are the critical notes of the scribes. In one of these notes there is evidence that this Massoretic annotation does not belong to the original MS., but was added about a century later, 900-940 A. D.

A brief consideration of the next oldest codex will help us to understand the similarities and minor references which Hebrew MSS. present. This MS. is in the Imperial public library at St. Petersburg. It bears the date 916 A. D., and is therefore the oldest dated portion of the Hebrew Scriptures which has come to light. The page is not so large as the earlier codex, and there are but two columns to the page. There are twenty-one lines in each column. The consonantal features are identical with those just considered. The peculiar forms of certain consonants are repeated here. There is less scribal annotation, and with the one column less the page looks freer and cleaner. This codex is also from the Sephardic school. Only one familiar with the Hebrew text would discover any noticeable difference. Such a difference there is, however, for in this codex the supralinear vowel punctuation is employed. There were rival systems of punctuation among the scribes, one school writing the vowel points below, the other above the consonantal text. The supralinear is the Babylonian style. It is the more complex, and although it maintained itself until the seventeenth century it was destined to give way to the simpler infralinear system, which the printed Bible employs. This codex contains the latter prophets, i. e., Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve minor prophets. It is for the critical study of the prophets what the earlier codex is for the study of the Pentateuch. A glance at a third MS. will show what artistic skill the copyist sometimes displayed in the lettering, and particularly in the arrangement of marginal notes. This MS. bears the date 1300 A. D. The marginal notes are artistically arranged in the form of conventional figures, of dragons and reptiles. The first word of each book is written in conspicuously large letters.

These three MSS. illustrate fairly well the form and character which the varying codices present. They are all reproductions of a single text. They have all proceeded from one and the same original type. In the seventh and eighth centuries A. D. Jewish scholars, by a complete system of vowel points and accents, perfected what they believed to be a definite and accurate edition of the text. Their additions to the consonantal text are called the Massorah, or tradition. The scribes themselves who made the text are called the Massorites and their text is known as the Massoretic text. All extant Hebrew MSS. are copies of this text. These reproductions have been collected from different countries and are in the handwriting of different schools of copyists—Arabian, Sephardic, Italian, Franco-Italian and German; and they present, naturally, many minor differences. But they are, one and all, simply reproductions of the original Massoretic text. Some MSS. have supralineor, others the infralinear system of vowel punctuation. Some MSS. have the Chaldee in alternate lines with the Hebrew text. There are peculiarities in the shape of one or more of the consonants that have their significance to the scholar. The marginal notes present a great variety of minor differences, but these variations afford but little help in the correction of errors and throw but little light upon the obscurities of the text. In the Massoretic text we have an exact reproduction of the Hebrew Scriptures as they were in the seventh and eighth centuries A. D. To get back of this text it is necessary to make use of the different versions, and especially the different editions of the Greek version. This Greek translation was completed about 150 B. C., and repeatedly gives evidence that it has underlying it a different text.

The great majority of Hebrew MSS. belong to a period between the twelfth and the sixteenth centuries. They are for the most part fragments. That they should be so late, so few and so fragmentary finds ready explanation. The revival of learning in Italy, that secured and preserved for us the classic texts, was a revival outside of the church, and at heart antagonistic to it. By its discovery and acquisition of the originals of the Greek and Roman classics it reveals what might have been done for the Jewish literature as well. Then, too, the blind hatred and persecution of the Jews by the Gentiles tended directly to the destruction of the Hebrew MSS.; the Jews were compelled to conceal them in order to keep them, and they preferred to burn them rather than see them in the hands of their deadly foes. —Charles Horswell, Ph. D.

The above was cut from the Chicago Daily Record, giving the researches of a learned man with regard to the early manuscripts of the Bible. The above proves its antiquity, and gives the history of some of these manuscripts, and shows how by hatred and blind persecution many valuable manuscripts were lost. But God's Word is eternal and survives all its foes.

W. L. WILSON.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs P Breckenridge	1.50
Mrs Nelson Brewer	1.00
Mi A Woodward	4.50

Poetry.

Home.

It comes to me often in fancy,
When the firelight spatters low—
When the black, uncertain shadows
Seem wraiths of long ago;
Then, with a throb of heartache,
That thrills each pulsing vein,
Comes the old, unquiet longing
For the peace of home again.

I'm sick of the roar of cities,
Of the faces cold and strange;
I know where there's warmth and welcome,
And my yearning fancies range
Back to the dear old homestead,
With an aching sense of pain;
But there'll be joy in the coming
When I go home again.

When I go home again! There's music
That never may die away,
And it seems the hands of angels
On a mystic harp at play
Have tangled with a yearning sadness
On a beautiful broken strain,
To which in my fond heart wording,
"When I go home again."

Outside of my darkened window,
In the great world's crash and din,
And slowly the autumn shadows
Come deeper, deeper in
Sobbing the night wind murmurs
To the splash of the autumn rain:
But I dream of the glorious greeting
When I go home again.

—Eugene Field.

Communicated.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, of the One Faith:

We have read with pleasure many of the testimonies of those of like precious faith, as recorded in THE RESTITUTION. We are closely watching the signs of the times which so plainly indicate the soon coming of the Lord from heaven to reward his watching ones, raise from their graves his sleeping ones and establish his kingdom on earth. The nations of earth are beating their plowshares into swords, and their pruning hooks into spears. They are assembling their hosts for the whirlwind which will involve all nations, and end in the destruction of the combined armies of the world on the mountains of Israel, when the "Lord will go forth and fight against those nations as he fought in the day of battle." Seeing the end is so near, let us "Earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints." Keep ourselves unspotted from the world. Come out from among those who have not the faith. Walk in brotherly love. Watch closely the signs of the times, and thus prepare ourselves to live and reign with our Redeemer, when the kingdoms of this world will have become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, or anointed ones. The "Peace and Safety Cry" has sounded from one end of the world to the other, and now remains the sudden destruction. 1 Thess. v. 1–3. O, Brethren, let us awake and warn those around us, that they may flee from the wrath to come. A mere profession will not save us, we must labor in the Master's vineyard and overcome the lusts, pleasures and temptations of this present evil world.

Yours in hope.

A. L. & ANNIE COBBALEY.

Dear Restitution:

I have just moved to this place and have not talked with any one here on the hope of eternal life, but I hear that some of the people say they would be sorry to think that they would have to sleep in the grave until the resurrection or judgment, yet David says, "I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness." Yes, he says, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness." David did not expect to see his Lord's face until he awaked at the resurrection. Paul says: "For this corruption must put on incorruption, and this mortal [put on immortality." We learn that when this corruption and this mortal shall have put on immortality then shall be brought to pass the saying that death is swallowed up in victory. "O death, where is thy sting, O grave where is thy victory." I say to the brothers and sisters, "God be with you, till we meet again."

Yours, in hope.

DR. J. A. THURMAN.

Editor Restitution:

We will send a few lines to our Love Feast. We are still clinging to the faith once delivered to the saints. We haven't had any preaching here for over a year. We study the Bible, and read the dear RESTITUTION. We feel lost without it.

Your Brother and Sister,

ARTHUR & LUCY ZESCH.

Dear Restitution:

It is four years since I was baptized by Brother Woodward, at Brady. I am still striving to hear the Master's "Well done," and am looking and longing for his return. I study my Bible, for I love to read the words of Jesus, whom I love. I am alone here, there being none of the same church here that I know. Most of my people belong to the one faith. I ask an interest in your prayers, that I may prove faithful. "Behold, I come quickly," to give to every man according as his work shall be. Even so Lord Jesus, quickly come, is my prayer.

BESSIE PECK.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

After reading so many good lessons in our blessed paper THE RESTITUTION we feel like adding our mite. We are isolated, but enjoy these lonely Sundays reading that precious Book, the Bible, and we love so well to search and learn all we can concerning the truth, and then, O how glad we would be if we only could get others to read and understand, and feel the same interest that we do. But God knoweth the hearts of all men, so let his will be done and not mine. Now what we want to say is this, we have purchased a home four miles northwest of Mt. Ayr, Iowa, and six miles southeast of Diagonal Station, on the Diagonal or Great Western Railroad, and if any of the preaching Brethren should be going north or south on either road, we would like if they could arrange and stop off with us a few days. By dropping us a card, directing it to Mt. Ayr Iowa, we can meet them any time at either place, and would be pleased to have them come. We often wish that Bro. Hadley, Foore or Eychaner could come this way and hold meetings for a week or two, as there are hundreds of people here that have never heard the truth and surely there are some that would understand and obey. It seems that the brethren have missed the south part of Iowa or rather we have been too negligent to have any preaching here, but hope the good Lord will forgive us and we will try to do better hereafter. We wish some one would notice this and arrange to come soon and we will try and make them a pleasant home and help them on their way as the Lord has prospered us.

Your Brother and Sister.

MR. & MRS. HENRY TILLMAN.

Dear Restitution:

I am afraid that my testimony will be a little behind time this year, on account of circumstances which I could not help, but I have been trusting in the promises of God that all things work together for good to them that love God. I have a great many things to bless and praise his Holy Name for, and I want to live closer to my blessed Savior every day of my life, and to feel and know that I am a child of God, and that we are accepted of him, and I want to let my light so shine that I may be able to bring some soul to the blessed Christ; for I feel that I can never do half enough for him to repay for what he has done for me and my dear ones. My husband and son have been brought from darkness unto the light of the gospel, and they believe the teachings of the Bible as Paul taught, that they must be rooted and grounded in the faith of the gospel. I want the prayers of all the brothers and sisters, that we may all be kept near the blessed Jesus, and that our lamps may be kept trimmed and brightly burning that when the Bridegroom comes we may be ready to go out to meet him and say, "Lo, this is our God, we have waited for him." I would rather do without anything else except my Bible than the dear RESTITUTION; I know it has been the means of enlightening my family as to the teachings of the Bible, for when I first began to take the paper, my husband was as strong a believer and advocate of the sky-kingdom and the immortality of soul doctrine as one would want to see, but it is not so now. He believes that we get our redemption through the blood of the dear Son of God, for to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord, both of the dead and living. Rom. xiii. 9.

Yours in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes.

MRS. SUSIE DOW.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

How I love to read your letters, for they strike the chord in close harmony with that of my own heart. How many say, "I am isolated." I too am one of the isolated ones, and I think it would be a great benefit to us all if we were united in little flocks here and there strong enough to support a minister, and thus be better able to work for the Master. How I wish we could be among the brethren with our families where we could have the privilege of hearing the gospel and satisfy our hunger. I have been a believer in the precious promises for over 30 years and had not heard but one gospel sermon for 25 years, until I went to the conference at Dutton, Mich., a year and a half ago. I tell you I was hungry and thirsty for righteousness, and thanks be to God I was filled. Had been living all these years praying day and night that God would spare me until I could have the opportunity to be baptized, and it has taken a great load from my mind, for my dreams were troubled at night, and my thoughts haunted me by day: I was not ready, I could almost hear the voice of Jesus saying "Come unto me, all ye that are weary and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest," and now that he has done so much for me, I am longing for an opportunity to do more for him. Perhaps some of the brethren have lands to work, and need a tenant, and some need a clerk, and perhaps others a servant, if so judging from statements in THE RESTITUTION from those who are too poor to pay their subscription, some of the isolated might be found to fill these places and thereby help them to get the money to supply their needs, "For as much as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me." It is hard for me (and I know there are others) to send the whole years subscription at one time, so I have adopted the plan of sending a dollar at a time, seventy-five cents to pay for six months subscription, and twenty-five cents to go in the helping fund, this is very small, but I would gladly give more than this if I could. I realize that the time is short in which to work for the Master, and as I can not preach I would like to be in a position to give more to those who can. I am willing to work and do not like to ask for favors, but simply wish to draw your attention to this point as it has been on my mind for some time. I submit this in love hoping it may help some who like myself would like to better their circumstances. May the good Lord bless you all with peace and plenty until his appearing.

Your brother in Christ.

R. A. DANIELS.

Sowing and Reaping.

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." Gal. vi. 7, 8.

Inasmuch as some good people, no doubt honest, claim that the real man, the inner man, the "immortal soul," is the Spirit of God, the Holy Spirit. If that were true, then we could read, "Holy Spirit soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption," for the one that does the "sowing" does also the "reaping." You see it will not do to substitute the Holy Spirit instead of "he" that soweth. This idea seems to be the last ditch our immortal soul friends can take a stand in, and when they are driven from this, seems to me they must give up "going to heaven when they die." For we find positively the one that does the "sowing," does also the "reaping," which would make the Holy Spirit liable to sow to the flesh." So you see that idea won't work. Now, we will give that false idea another shot from the same gun. Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, "except it die." 1 Cor. xv. 36. So you see the foregoing false theory would make the Holy Spirit subject to death, and that will not do. But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body. Ver. 38. Then the Holy Spirit would get his own body, if the theory were true that the Holy Spirit is the real man, the responsible man, the man that gets eternal life. The Master said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit." John xii. 24. So you see Christ himself gives the false theory a black eye. Surely the Holy Spirit will not die.

Then again, the Master teaches positively that the one that gets eternal life comes out of the grave. John v. 28, 29; John vi. 40, 44. Surely the Holy Spirit will not go to the grave, and be raised up at the last day. Then the Prophet Daniel gives that false idea a kick, when he says, "And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt." Dan. xii. 2. Surely the "Holy Spirit will not be sleeping in the dust of the earth."

Christ gives this false theory another slap in the face, when he says, "But they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage. Neither can they die any more: for they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection." Luke xx. 35, 36. "Neither can they die any more." Does the "they" mean the Holy Spirit? No sane man would say it did, or that Christ had any reference to the Holy Spirit, but rather than give up the last ditch of the Serpent's lie, Gen. iii. 4, they bring in the Holy Spirit and make it responsible for deeds done in the body. Christ said, "And behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be." Rev. xxii. 12. "Every man,".....as his work shall be," surely does not refer to the Holy Spirit, which it must do, if the Holy Spirit is the real inner man, and the one receiving the reward. But when this false doctrine is tested by the Word of truth, it is found to be wholly false and misleading. It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. 1 Cor. xv. 44. The spiritual body is Christ. See ver. 46. When he says, "There is a natural body and a spiritual body." Christ had been born from the dead, Col. i. 18; born of the Spirit. John v. 5-8; Rom. viii. 11. Hence, could come and go, and they could not tell how he came, or how he went. Luke xxiv. 31, 36.

Much more Scripture could be given to prove the Holy Spirit is not the real man to be rewarded. Mark x. 29, 30; Luke xviii. 30; 1 Cor. xv. 22-23; 1 Thes. iv. 13-16. If they would not believe the testimony, they would not believe though one rose from the dead. This false theory should be thoroughly exposed, for by it the preachers are deceiving many good people.

In hope,

M. L. ADAMS.

Hygiene.

Pain is a sentinel to warn us back to the road of health. Pain killers are enemies in disguise. Preventing important messages from reaching head quarters. "There is no law of cure aside from physiological obedience." Every transgression of the laws of our present life detracts from our stock of vitality, and brings death nearer. We can economize our vital expenditure, but can never increase its stock. Economy of vital force does not result from the use of patent medicines. But is the application of temperance in all that we partake of and do, and is limited to the good, and excludes the bad.

Perfect health can only be found in a perfect creature. And man only proximates toward that condition when he yields himself wholly to all God's laws respecting him. "The transgressor scarcely lives out half his days." This language applies in the church as well as outside of it. The law of the spirit of life does not make us free from the law of sin and death in fact, but in promise. And the means to the end embrace a physical reformation, as well as a spiritual regeneration. It is the body that we dare not defile lest we drive out the Holy Spirit. It is the body that must be held in subjection, lest we become outcasts from God. That man could indulge his body in excess and at the same time remain pure spiritually, had its origin in the theory of a compound nature in some mysterious way related yet independent in its causation and effect. Sin is not an abstract emotion, but is absolutely an evil action, and chargeable to the physical man. Righteousness is the opposite, and incurs no penalty here nor hereafter. It is simple obedience to divine law. Innocence affords no security against pain when natural law is violated. And ignorance is no plea for justification under similar conditions. Each may palliate the offense, but neither merit a reward. "By grace are ye saved through faith and that not of yourselves. It is the gift of God." The grace is free, but the faith recognizes obedience to law, and lives by it. Faith realizes only by works. Works are regulated by law. The law of faith, "Do and live," is as plainly written upon the temple of health, as it is upon the temple of divine worship. To recognize God's hand in our spiritual guidance, and disregard it in the temporal, is to cut away the bridge that is built to carry us from the natural into the spiritual life. God asks us for the work of our hands sanctified, and dedicated by the purity of our motives and our lives.

A. B. WINCE.

Zacharias.—Chapter 1.

1. In the eighth month of the second year of Darius there occurred a Word of the Lord unto Zacharias the son of Barachias, son of Addoo, the prophet, saying:

2. The Lord hath become wrathful at your fathers with a great wrath:

3. And thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the All-Controling Lord, Return unto me saith the Lord of Hosts and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts;

4. And become not even as were your fathers unto whom the prophets called formerly, saying, Thus saith the All-Controling Lord, Turn away from your wicked ways and from your wicked devices, and who did not hearken, and who did not heed to hearken unto me saith the Lord.

5. Your fathers where are they and the prophets? Will they live the animate age?

6. However accept my words and my laws all that I am enjoining in my spirit on my bond-servants the prophets who laid hold of your fathers, and who have answered and said, Even as the All-Controling Lord had prepared to do unto us according to our devices, in this wise did he unto us.

7. On the twenty-fourth of the eleventh month—this is the month Sabat, in the second year of Darius there occurred a word of the Lord unto Zacharias the son of Barachios, son of Addoo the prophet saying:

8. I saw in the night and lo a man of mark mounted upon a bay horse, and he stood between the over-shadowing mountains, and behind him were bay horses and gray and dappel-gray and white.

9. And I said, What are these, Lord? And the angel who was talking unto me said, I will show you what these things are.

10. And the man of mark who stood between the mountains made answer unto me, These are those whom the Lord hath sent forth to make their way around the earth.

11. And they answered the angel of the Lord who was standing between the mountains and said, We have made one way around all the earth, and lo all the earth is inhabited and keeping quiet.

12. And the angel of the Lord answered and said, O Lord, Until when wilt thou not show mercy to Hierousaleem and the cities of Joudas, which thou hast disregarded this seventieth year?

13. And the All-Controling Lord answered and said unto the angel who was talking unto me good oracles and comforting words.

14. And the angel who was talking unto me said, Raise a cry saying, Thus saith the All-Controling Lord, I have become zealous for Hierousalem and Sioon with a great zeal;

15. And I am becoming wrathful with great wrath against the nations who have conspired against them, because I became wrathful a little, and they have conspired against them for evil things.

16. Therefore thus saith the Lord, I shall return unto Hierousaleem with pity, and my house will have been rebuilt therein, saith the All-Controling Lord; and a measuring line will have been stretched over Hierousaleem yet again.

17. And the angel who was talking unto me said, Yet again raise a cry, saying, Thus saith the All-Controling Lord, Yet again will cities have been filled with good things and the Lord will yet again be merciful to Sioon and prefer Hierousaleem.

18. And I lifted up my eyes and saw and lo four horns.

19. And I said unto the angel that was talking to me; what are these; and he said unto me: These are the horns that have scattered Joudas and Israel and Hierousaleem.

20. And the Lord showed me four artisans.

21. And I said. What are these coming to do? And he said, They have broken off those horns that have scattered Joudas and Israel, and no one of them hath lifted a head; and they have come to goad these four horns, namely the nations that have lifted up their horn against the land of the Lord to devastate it—to goad them into their hands.

CHAPTER 2.

1. And I lifted up mine eyes and saw and lo a man of mark and in his hand a land-mensuring-line.

2. And I said unto him; where art thou going? And he said unto me, to measure Hierousaleem to see how great is the breadth of it and how great the length.

3. And lo the angel who was talking to me stopped, and another angel went his way out to meet him;

4. And spake unto him saying, Run and talk with that young man and say, Hierousaleem will have been builded in a manful way with a multitude of men and domestic animals in it.

5. And I shall be, saith the Lord, a wall of fire round about it, and I shall be in the midst of it for glory.

6. O, O flee from a land of the north saith the Lord, because from the four winds of the heavens shall I gather you together, saith the Lord.

7. In Sioon save yourselves, ye who are inhabiting a daughter of Babuloon.

8. Wherefore thus saith the All-Controling Lord; In the wake of glory hath he sent me unto the nations that have spoiled you because the one who toucheth you is as it were touching the pupil of his eye.

9. Because lo I am bringing my hand upon them, and they will be spoils for those who are serving them as bond-servants, and ye will comprehend that the All-Controling Lord hath sent me.

10. Delight thyself and rejoice, O Daughter of Sioon, because lo I am coming and am going to pitch my tabernacle down in thy midst, saith the Lord.

11. And many nations will flee for refuge unto the Lord in that day, and they will be unto him for a laity, and they will pitch their tabernacle down in thy midst, and thou wilt fully know that the All-Controling Lord hath sent me unto thee.

12. And the Lord will inherit Joudas, his portion upon the sacred land and he will yet again prefer Hierousaleem.

13. Let all flesh show reverence before the face of the Lord, because he hath arisen from out his sacred clouds.

COMMENT.

Zacharias the prophet whose name is the title of this book, we herein learn prophesied during the reign of Darelos of the Medes and Persians, whose vast empire included the province and city of Babuloon where in Noos's Day the tower of Babel was built, from which the province and city came to be so called, and this prophecy contained in these two chapters was evidently before the decree went forth from Darelos for the restoration and rebuilding of Hierousaleem.

The meaning of the name of the prophet as it appears in the three Semitic roots of which the name is composed is "Gracious—Healing—Life," and the name is as usual significant of the prophet's office or his official name like Petros (or Peter) in the New Covenant order of things or "Paulos" changed by inspiration from "Saulos." The latter was significant of Paul's official character before his conversion and the former of his apostolic official character after conversion.

Both Zacharias and Angaios ("Haggai C. V. & R. V.) were with the captivity in Babylon and wrote and uttered their prophecies these as well as several of the Psalms whose joint-ownership is attributed to them.

Daniel also, as his name signifies, was "a loan of mercy" to Babylon, (howling confusion).

We shall find much in this book of Zacharias difficult to interpret and difficult to understand; but the general thought of God's revealed mercy to his land and his people that was soon to come, and much more that has not yet come, is very clear in this minute and particular history uttered and written before the event. So far as fulfilled in the return and rebuilding of the temple and city we can look back and see clearly that it has been literally fulfilled, and this ought to ground and strengthen our faith in the unfulfilled portion. Any attempt to interpret the metaphors and symbols in which this prophecy is given except by comparing Scripture with Scripture and relying upon this esoteric help will be a dismal failure like most of the interpretations and comments that have thus far been made. This attempt therefore will be from the stand-point of what has been revealed in the Scriptures themselves and this alone. The only comment to make therefore on the vision given in these two chapters is that we see here revealed the great fact so clearly revealed throughout the Scriptures of both the Old and New Covenant, namely, that God in his providential care and rule of the nations of the earth operates through angels and angelic powers primarily however he may use human instrumentalities and the natural laws and forces, —in short we learn that the natural cosmos (world) including humanity is environed and subject to a higher spiritual or supernatural cosmos of intelligence and power and that they are both under God's infinite and beneficent rule.

The vision of the horses and horsemen and the dialogues between the two angels as herein given illustrate this great thought if nothing more.

CHAS. GARDNER.

Selected.

The Gentleness of Jesus.

It was gentleness, not weakness. It was that calm sweetness of disposition and manner which illustrates the kindly self-control of a strong, masterful spirit; not the shrinking timid uncertainty of temper and behavior which resembles gentleness, because it lacks something of the power of self-assertion. It was entirely consistent with sturdiness of conviction, positiveness of speech, and boldness of action. It was exhibited not only toward our Lord's friends, but also toward his opponents. It was specially noticeable in his treatment of all who came to him in fear or doubt or sorrow.

Let those who sometimes suppose gentleness to be a tame, insipid virtue, make careful study of it as seen in the character of Jesus. They will learn to admire it. They will be impelled to cultivate it. They will perceive it to be a fruitful source of true and mighty power. When we understand that one is gentle, as Jesus was, because he can afford to be; because, apart from the moral aspect of the matter, he realizes that he is strong enough in the highest sense to dispense with bluster, we feel that he has attained to a lofty and honorable level of character and life.

Then, when the time comes for righteous indignation of soul—as come it does now and then—and for vigorous, incisive speech in support of the right, or condemnation of the wrong, then the very contrast between one's customary gentleness and his temporary sternness adds immensely to the effect of the latter. If such a gentle spirit can be wrought up to such a pitch we say, "How grave the cause must be!" We never have known men or women more intense in their opinions, or more unfaltering and potential in their conduct and influence, than some of those who most closely have resembled Christ in gentleness of disposition and manner.

Gentleness is a characteristic excellence of the truly great. It is also one of the greatest excellencies. Perhaps no other is so commonly associated with Jesus in our thought. Nor is the endeavor to attain to any other more difficult or profitable. Happy is the home, the office, the factory, the school, where gentleness like that of Jesus reigns!—The Young Man.

For Christian Workers Take Heed

1. Unto thyself. "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine, continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." 1 Tim. iv. 16.

"They made me the keeper of the vineyards: but my own vineyard have I not kept." Cant. i. 6.

2. Unto thy doctrine. Till I come give attention to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

"Holding fast the faithful Word as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine to convince the gainsayers." Titus i. 9.

"For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." 2 Tim. iv. 3, 4.

3. Unto thy flock. "Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the Church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood." Acts xx. 28.

"Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind. Neither as being lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock. And when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away." Pet. v. 2-4.

L. V. T.

Personal Consecration.

The personal consecration of a Christian to the service of Christ should be understood to involve in every case personal service in some form. Here again we find a very confused notion in the minds of most persons concerning this subject. Perhaps in nine cases out of ten the person concerned, if questioned on the subject, would calmly reply that he is not qualified to do any Christian work, and that he trusts others who have more leisure or better gifts to do all that is required. Those who have means often are prepared to go a step further, and employ one or more substitutes to work for them. This is well enough, if the substitute in question is employed in addition to what the person himself does.

The chief point to remember is that there are certain forms of personal service from which no believer can be excused. These may not be the same in every case, but it will be found, if careful inquiry is made, that each individual stands related to certain tasks or to certain other individuals, in such a way that obligations rest upon him which cannot possibly be discharged by any one else. "Go ye also into my vineyard," is a command given to every one who receives a call from the Master to become his disciple. In no case does it appear that the suggestion was made to any one of those thus sent that his duty might be fully discharged by employing a substitute. —Evangelical Messenger.

An Earnest Appeal to all the Brotherhood of the Church of God.

Seeing the great need of better order and a more thorough knowledge of the work being done for the cause of truth most certainly believed and accepted by the Church of God in the United States and the Territories; at the Annual Conferences in Michigan and Indiana last June, measures were taken to meet this end, viz:—A committee was appointed, consisting of B. W. Woodward, of the Michigan Conference, and A. H. Zilmer of the Indiana Conference, to issue a call to each and every Conference Board in said States and Territories, and to all churches where there are no organized conferences, to report immediately to Bro. A. H. Zilmer, the number of recognized ministers in each conference, also the number and value of church buildings; also let the secretaries of the different churches report the number of members in each church or isolated members they may have a knowledge of, also that any isolated member who may see this call, report their names or any others they may know of, to Bro. Zilmer.

At the last census taken the Census Department wrote me to know the strength of our church body, and I was not able to give them much light on the subject. Now, brethren, by an earnest effort on the part of all, we will approximate the facts very closely. The census will soon be taken again—they will again ask for the facts, and we will want a correct statement. The government demands it, and is justly entitled to it. Do not lay this paper aside and forget all about it. It is a duty; do it at once—TODAY. Address all communications to A. H. Zilmer, Rensselaer, Indiana.

B. W. Woodward.
A. H. Zilmer.
Committee.

"There is nothing formidable about death except the consequences of it, and these we ourselves can regulate and control. The shortest life is long enough if it leads to a better, and the longest is too short if it does not."

Excursion Rates via Vandalia Lines.

To Indianapolis, April 23rd and 24th, account State Prohibition Convention. One and one-third fare to the round trip.

To Knightstown, Ind., April 27th, and 28th, account Christian Endeavor yearly meeting. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, May 14th, 15th, and 16th, account State G. A. R. Encampment. One fare for round trip.

Homeseekers' Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road to points in the West, North-west and South-west on April 27, 1900. Tickets are available on above date good returning within twenty-one days at one fare plus $2.00 for round trip. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—apr 17

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line, south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12. If the Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work with the "Gospel of the Kingdom," as our cry. Let us support the work with our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Oatman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. Darby, Sec.

Books and Tract List.

Bible Pearls—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts. or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

Four-Page Tracts.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God. —Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed. 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

A few Reasons why we should not believe man goes to heaven at death.

Good Reasons why we should not believe man has an immortal soul.

What must I do to be saved?

Where are the dead?

The above are titles to some small 4-page tracts suitable to place in an envelope. Short and to the point. Price 8 copies for 5 cents—or 100 for 25 cents.

Address, The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

Twelve Words, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

The Gospel of the Kingdom, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

Early Lessons, suitable for young or old, 80 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterrhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Secy.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 a. m., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12.00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 926 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the our faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 269 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder: Sarah Sollick, Secy.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:30 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Sterlville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch. the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Edelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 A. M., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Birch Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dalton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Orcutt of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 8:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays o each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Pittsb'g, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	33	39	3	135
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'g, lv.	7 05	3 30		11 35
Alliance, ar.	9 50	5 55		1 30
Canton, "	10 10	6 15		1 50
Massillon, "	10 22	6 28		2 02
Orrville, "	10 42	6 48		2 22
Wooster, "	11 02	7 08		2 42
Mansfield, "	12 10	8 16	8 25	3 50	Lv.
Crestline, ar.	12 55	9 01	9 05	4 35	7 00
Bucyrus, lv.	1 05	9 12	9 25	4 45	7 10
Upper, "	1 20	9 27	9 40	5 00	7 25
Van Wert, "	2 20	10 27	10 37	6 00	8 25
Ft. Wayne, ar.	4 10	12 15	AM	7 50	10 15
	4 15	12 20	11 30	PM	10 20
Arcola, "		12 31	11 46	8 06
Columbia City, "	4 43	12 47	12 03	8 23
Larwill, "		1 03	12 19	8 39
Pierceton, "		1 10	12 25	8 45
Winona Lake, "		1 20	12 36	8 55
Warsaw, "	5 25	1 42	12 58	9 17
Etna Green, "			1 08	9 27
Bourbon, "			1 17	9 36
Inwood, "			1 24	9 43
Plymouth, "	6 12	2 34	1 46	10 05	8 30
Grovertown, "			1 55	10 15
Hamlet, "			2 03	10 23
Davis, "			2 08	10 30
Hanna, "			2 14	10 36
Wheeler, "			2 20	10 42
Valparaiso, "	7 16	6 30	3 00	11 25	9 17
Wheeler, "			3 10	11 47	9 27
Hobart, "			3 19	11 56	9 36
Liverpool, "			3 43	12 20	9 59
Clarke, "			3 51	12 28	10 07
Chicago, ar.	8 45	7 45	5 00	2 35	11 15
	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.	20	8	6	50	38	18
	AM	PM	PM	AM	PM	AM
Chicago, lv.	7 50	3 00	11 10	11 40	4 00	8 00
Clarke, "	8 35		12 01	12 25	4 45
Liverpool, "	8 47		12 13		4 57
Hobart, "	8 54		1 00		5 04
Wheeler, "	9 03		1 06		5 13
Valparaiso, "	9 17	4 37	1 20	1 50	5 27	8 12
Wheeler, "	9 28		1 31	2 01	5 38
Hanna, "	9 33		1 36		5 43
Davis, "	9 39		1 42		5 49
Hamlet, "	9 45		1 48		5 55
Grovertown, "	9 49		1 52		5 59
Plymouth, "	10 07	5 48	2 08		6 17	8 53
Inwood, "	10 19		2 20		6 29
Bourbon, "	10 26		2 27		6 36
Etna Green, "	10 32		2 33		6 42
Warsaw, "	10 50	6 28	2 45		7 00	9 30
Winona Lake, "	10 58		2 53		7 08
Pierceton, "	11 08		3 03		7 18
Larwill, "	11 13		3 08		7 23
Columbia City, "	11 23		3 18		7 33
Arcola, "	11 32		3 27		7 42
Ft. Wayne, lv.	12 35	7 35	4 10	3 45	8 25	10 30
Van Wert, "	1 35	8 50	5 10	4 45	9 25	11 30
Upper, "	2 30	9 45	6 05	5 40	10 20	AM
Bucyrus, "	2 45	9 55	6 20	5 50	10 30
Crestline, ar.	2 55	10 05	6 30	6 00	10 40
	AM	AM	PM	PM	PM

Pullman Sleeping Cars on Nos. 9 and 10.

Pullman Sleeping Cars on Nos. 33, 3, 39 and 135.

Dining Cars on Nos. 9, 33 and 3.

L. F. LOREE, Grand Manager.
E. A. FORD, Grand Passenger Agent.
11-19-99-P Pittsburgh, Penn'a.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

12-12-1899

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend that no second class coaches or Class Cars run on this favorite scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastbound.				All Nickel Plate Service Dining Cars. Meals Ala Carte.		Westbound.
No. 17	No. 21	No. 5	No. 1			No. 2	No. 6	No. 22	No. 18
1 00 pm	10 15 pm	7 15 am	11 55 pm	Chicago	Lv.	9 35 am	7 25 pm	11 45 pm	1 15 pm
2 40 pm	11 55 pm	8 55 am	1 35 am	Valparaiso		7 55 am	5 45 pm	10 05 pm	11 35 am
3 10 pm	12 25 am	9 25 am	2 05 am	Wanatah		7 25 am	5 15 pm	9 35 pm	11 05 am
3 40 pm	12 55 am	9 55 am	2 35 am	La Porte		6 55 am	4 45 pm	9 05 pm	10 35 am
4 10 pm	1 25 am	10 25 am	3 05 am	Kingsbury		6 25 am	4 15 pm	8 35 pm	10 05 am
4 40 pm	1 55 am	10 55 am	3 35 am	Hamlet		5 55 am	3 45 pm	8 05 pm	9 35 am
5 10 pm	2 25 am	11 25 am	4 05 am	Knox		5 25 am	3 15 pm	7 35 pm	9 05 am
5 40 pm	2 55 am	11 55 am	4 35 am	Walkerton		4 55 am	2 45 pm	7 05 pm	8 35 am
6 10 pm	3 25 am	12 25 pm	5 05 am	Bremen		4 25 am	2 15 pm	6 35 pm	8 05 am
6 40 pm	3 55 am	12 55 pm	5 35 am	Roseland		3 55 am	1 45 pm	6 05 pm	7 35 am
7 10 pm	4 25 am	1 25 pm	6 05 am	Mishawaka		3 25 am	1 15 pm	5 35 pm	7 05 am
7 40 pm	4 55 am	1 55 pm	6 35 am	South Bend		2 55 am	12 45 pm	5 05 pm	6 35 am
8 10 pm	5 25 am	2 25 pm	7 05 am	Ft. Wayne		2 25 am	12 15 pm	4 35 pm	6 05 am
10 45 pm	8 00 am	5 00 pm	9 40 am	Chicago	Ar.	12 00 mid	9 50 am	2 10 pm	3 40 am
PM	AM	PM	AM			AM	AM	PM	AM

Eastbound, outbound trains as they leave Edgerton, Ohio, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, northbound only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Daily except Sunday. P. K. Dispatch. Daily except Sunday. C. Express Mail.

Through Pullman Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 thru to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 3 and 11 to Delaware, Meals are served at "Nickel Plate" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at reasonable rates. Baggage checked to destination. On Sunday you will find our cars run on Shortest Line via other Roads, service considered.

For full and detailed information, address H. F. Pierce, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O. J. Eastman, Agent.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Arizona.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, 617 W 14th St. Sioux City,
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
D. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. H. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
W. L. Skeels, Schulle, Ore.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hunt, Dudley, Worchesterehire, England
J. S. Hatch, Sterleville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine Sr., Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 328 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St Tacoma, Wash.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, 7 6 Fairchild st, Danville, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Portland, Ore
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Fitzgerald, Ga.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglesby, North Branch, Kansas.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
B. Wilson, 1935 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer "Tithing Society," Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. Hoyt, Rural Delivery, No. 1, Burton Ave. Grand Rapids, Mich.
R. S. Owingsing, Rensselaer, Ind.
H. M. Williams, Ashton, Kan.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
Elder Richard Corbaley, Waterville, Wash.
C. P. Graham, Box 11, Waynesville, Ill.
W. T. Baker, Box 397 Decorah, Iowa.
Wm. Goin, Jefferson, Ore.
H. F. Tyler, Portland, Ore.
H. F. Cordill, Plymouth, Ind.
G. W. Smith, Box 138, Hartford, Kan.

Vandalia Time Card

In effect Nov. 27, 1899.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 10, Ex. Sun. For South Bend	8:31 am
No. 14, " " "	12:35 pm
No. 8, " " "	10:03 pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	6:04 a m
No. 3, " " " "	12:55 noon
No. 9, " " " Logansport	7:36 pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 288 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell excursion tickets to students account the Easter Vacation at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets available the day before school closes, the closing day and the day after, the return limit to cover period of vacation. Inquire Agents—apr 16

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Trust.

I cannot understand
The "why and wherefore" of a thousand things
The crosses, the unhappiness, the daily stings;
I cannot understand;
But I can trust,
For perfect trusting perfect comfort brings.

I cannot clearly see
Why life to one brings joy, unlooked for gain,
While to another bitter heartaches come, and pain:
I cannot clearly see;
But I can trust,
And by and by my Father will explain.

I cannot see the end,
The hidden meaning of each trial sent,
The pattern into which each tangled thread is blent;
I cannot see the end;
But I can trust,
And in his changeless love I am content.

I cannot grasp the whole
Of life's great symphony, nor find the key
To these strange minor cadences perplexing me;
I cannot grasp the whole
But I will trust
In him whose ways are perfect harmony,

—Mary B. Nicolls.

Communicated.

The Gospel of the Kingdom Superceded. No. 6.

JAMES BROWNING AFFIRMS. W. H. WILSON DENIES.

Indeed, after Peter had been preaching the gospel of the kingdom, he was still unconverted, as is clear from Lu. xxii. 32, "When thou art converted strengthen thy brethren." After that faith is come," says Paul, "we are no longer under a school master (the law) but the fact that during our Lord's ministry they were under the law is ample proof that the faith had not yet come. Gal. iii. 25. "They were shut up unto the faith that should afterward be revealed." It is indeed difficult to see how any man with an open Bible can evade such plain preaching, lying as it does on the very surface of language.

But it is claimed that as Phillip preached the things concerning the kingdom to the Samaritans as a preliminary to faith we should do likewise. This at first sight looks plausible, but when we remember they worshiped the same God as Israel and claimed the same promises by virtue of their father Abraham, we see at once the need of such preaching in order to disabuse their minds of the falsity of such claims. They also had the Scriptures and looked for the Messiah on the testimony of the prophets, consequently Philip reasons accordingly. But to the Gentiles, Cornelius, the eunuch and the Philippian jailor there is no intimation that the kingdom was mentioned as essential to faith. See also Acts xxi. 22.

Paul in writing to a Greek, Timothy says the Scriptures are profitable to the man of God that he may be perfect, hence cannot be ignored after faith has come, or [illegible] preceded by faith in Christ, or after all the case may be, they will make us wise unto salvation by qualifying us for true service. They have Moses and the prophets, was not said of Abraham's seed alone and in this they had the advantage over the Gentiles. Your effort therefore to place Jew and Gentile on a like footing in relation to these things is shown to be misplaced and out of harmony with the inspired teachings.

But now I wish briefly to take up a point that is so pertinaciously insisted on, viz: That Paul was in chains for the hope of Israel. Granting that this hope was their coming King and Deliverer, the acknowledgement of this truth in nowise affects the issue between Paul and his accusers being one of identity. The Apostle recognizing in Jesus, the Son of God and King of Israel, and the Jews repudiating the proof, i. e., the resurrection. For preaching the resurrection, and for this alone the Apostle was accused of the Jews, Acts xxiv. 21, so that while he refers to the Hope of Israel for whose sake he was in chains, he doubtless refers to those chains as the bonds of the gospel, because for preaching the glad news of the resurrection he endured them. Additional proof is found in 2 Tim. ii. 8, 9. Remember that Jesus Christ of the Seed of David was raised from the dead according to my gospel wherein I suffer trouble as an evil-doer even unto bonds. That Jesus was of the seed of David they could not deny, but the fact that he rose from the dead was disputed and for proclaiming it he was persecuted. This simply proves that Paul was in bonds for preaching facts not promises, and serves to show that his gospel was one of facts.

And now we come to Eph. ii. 11, 12, strangers and foreigners, my brother did it never occur to you that had those Gentiles been familiar with those promises they would still be aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, not being of the stock of Abraham. This was their condition by nature, and continued to be so until they were made nigh not by the promises but the blood of Christ. A careful reading of this passage in its proper connection will do more to set you right than any comments one might make, as well as clear the mist that has been made to hover around Peter's testimony to Cornelius.

JAMES BROWNING.

ANSWER.

Mr. Browning would have you understand that the grand old gospel of the kingdom lacks the needed power to convert or change a sinner from the error of his way even when believed in from the heart. As a case in point, he cites its effect upon Peter, and says: "Indeed, after Peter had been preaching the gospel of the kingdom, he was still unconverted as is clear from Luke xxii. 32: "When thou art converted strengthen thy brethren."

Of course, my friend looses ground badly, when he quotes Peter as being an unconverted man, in the sense of being unsaved, at the time of the above occurrence; why even the simplest Sunday school child should perceive in what sense the word "converted" is used in the passage above cited, by only simply reading the context. It needs no argument. The word convert in the abstract, means purely to change or turn, and the context must determine the nature of the change. In this case, ambition and contention arose among the disciples as to which of them was going to be the greatest man in the kingdom, and along with this was a spirit of fleshly self-confidence, a trust in self. Luke says: "And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest." "And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat. But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren. And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death."

Peter, no doubt meant just what he said when he counted in his fleshly strength that he was really able to follow his Lord to prison, and even death. The echo of his words had but recently died away when, "A certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him. And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not." Can any one fail to perceive the nature of the conversion or change that Peter needed? My friend's use of the word "converted" as given above is totally unwarranted.

Chronology places the above event in A. D. 32, but a year before this in A. D. 32, the Lord asked Peter the following question: "But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven. And I say also thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Does this indicate that Peter as yet was not a servant of God, and a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ, although a year ahead of the conversion above quoted by Friend Browning?

Says Mr. Browning: "The fact that during our Lord's ministry, they were under the law that the faith had not come."

That is a very simple matter to answer. We have to but quote Heb. ii. 3: "How shall we escape if we neglect so GREAT SALVATION; which at the first began to be spoken BY OUR LORD, (during our Lord's ministry) and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him."

Mark as historian, records what our Lord first preached, (called the "GREAT SALVATION) as follows: "Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came unto Galilee, preaching THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD." The fact is, the faith was preached during our Lord's ministry.

Says Friend Browning: It is claimed that as Philip preached the things concerning the kingdom to the Samaritans as a preliminary to faith, we should do likewise."

"The things concerning the kingdom," was not a "preliminary to faith," but a part of "THE FAITH," which was a preliminary to baptism. Read Acts viii. 12, my friend, and you will find that you have misused the language by your interpretation.

Again, says Mr. Browning: "To the Gentiles, Cornelius, the eunich, and the Philippian jailor there is no intimation that the kingdom was mentioned as essential to faith."

It is certainly strange to what extent the gentleman will go in his blind opposition to the glorious gospel of the kingdom, being a part of the saving message. We can supply our friend with something stronger than an "intimation."

1. To the Gentiles. I will call the attention of my gospel opponent to the preaching of Paul (the Apostle to the Gentiles) at Rome, a Gentile city. He first called the Jews, but they turned from it, and at this, he turned to THE GENTILES, and preached what he called the "SALVATION OF GOD." Now did he say anything about the kingdom of God in preaching "the salvation of God?" Read the last chapter of Acts for something more than an "intimation." "There come many to him into his lodging to whom he expounded and testified THE KINGDOM OF GOD, persuading them concerning JESUS, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening."

"Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him, preaching THE KINGDOM OF GOD, and teaching those things which concern the LORD JESUS CHRIST."

There is no denying the fact that Paul denominated the preaching of the above message concerning the kingdom, etc., "THE SALVATION OF GOD, which he was about to preach to the Gentiles as a message of life. Language could not be plainer, or testimony more to the point. Yet, a person convinced against his will may ignore it.

2. To Cornelius, who was also a Gentile. He was told to call for Simon whose surname is Peter, "who shall tell thee WORDS, whereby thou and all thy house SHALL BE SAVED." "That word I say ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached." This record is found in Mark i. 14: "Now, after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching THE GOSPEL OF GOD." Hence, the saving words, to Cornelius, a GENTILE, is none other than "THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD." This also is more than an "intimation," friend Browning.

3. The eunuch and the jailor can be answered together. The jailor was told to "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ." To believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and to believe on the gospel, is exactly the same thing. No one can believe on the Lord Jesus Christ unless they first believe what he taught. When politicians say, I believe in McKinley, and another says, I don't, but I believe in Bryan, they have reference to the different political faiths these men preach. So to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, is to believe the message he came to deliver. When a person tells me that he believes on the Lord Jesus Christ, and at the same time believes in a sky kingdom for immortal souls, I say positively such person does not believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, because he (Jesus) never [illegible] anything of the kind. A [illegible] believing in that of which [illegible] nothing about, cannot be a believer in that of which he has no knowledge.

My friend is deceiving himself with the vain delusion that he was a believer in the Lord Jesus Christ, and also in the so-called three-fact gospel of the Lord's death, burial and resurrection. He did not believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, in truth because he was so densely ignorant of the gospel message he spent his time preaching. He did not in reality believe in his death, burial and resurrection, because he believed the Lord himself, was incapable of death. At his crucifixion he only "shuffled off his mortal coil."

Philip went down into Samaria to preach Christ unto them; in doing so, he preached "the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ." This is a Bible sample as to what it means "to preach Christ."

Paul says: "For the Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom. But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness." When Paul preached "Christ crucified," he preached exactly what Philip preached. "Christ crucified," and the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ," are exactly the same. I challenge any one to show the contrary.

The Jews understood the phrase, "the Christ," as meaning the same as the "King of Israel." Let Christ, the King of Israel, come down from the cross, (Christ crucified.) Says Nathaniel, "Thou art the Christ, the King of Israel." The wise men came to Herod, saying where is he that is born King of the Jews." Herod in turn asked the chief priests, etc., where "the Christ" should be born? My friend ought to see the difference between the words Christ and Jesus.

Mr. Browning further says: "For preaching the resurrection, and this alone, the Apostle was accused of the Jews."

Not that "alone" my friend. They objected to his preaching Jesus as being the Christ, the King of Israel; or in other words "Christ crucified," takes in the whole thing, that means more than Jesus crucified, which seems to be the sum and substance of my friend's gospel of facts. Facts are things present, while the hope of the gospel relates to things to come.

Mr. Browning next refers to Eph. ii. 12, with regard to the aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and says that they would "continue to be so until they were made nigh NOT BY THE PROMISES, but by the blood of Christ."

I would say, that neither "the promises" nor "the blood of Christ," can be [illegible] from this Scripture, without wresting the Word of God. Don't you see that "aliens from the commonwealth of Israel," are made up of those who are "strangers from the covenants of promise?" and that covenant is also a blood-sealed covenant, which gives it vital force; as we read in Hebrews of "the BLOOD OF THE EVERLASTING COVENANT." It is the seal of "the circumcision of Christ," buried with him (Christ) in baptism." A seal without a covenant, is PERFECTLY USELESS. My friend is trusting in the blood-seal, MINUS THE COVENANT. The blood of Christ will never make "aliens" "fellow citizens" in "the commonwealth of Israel," if they are "strangers (ignorant of) the covenants of promise."

I remember the case of a foreigner who came to this country. He could neither speak, read, or understand the English language. A relative knowing this, took advantage of his ignorance, and deceived him, he got him to enter into a covenant, by which he disposed of his property, not understanding the covenant he signed and sealed. The law held that the covenant was invalid and of no force, because the one entering into the covenant, was ignorant of the covenant he signed. This is likewise the case with regard to "the covenants of promise." A covenant is a transaction whereby two or more people enter into an agreement to do so and so, if the terms of the covenant are lived up to. The covenants here spoken of are "covenants of promise," and relate to the future. This covenant can never be entered into unless it is understood. The majority of people enter into a covenant whereby they expect their immortal souls to go to heaven when they die. (This was what my friend expected.) That kind of a covenant is altogether one-sided. The first party to the covenant, never entered into such an agreement. The blood of Christ will be of no effect whatever, as a seal to such a covenant. The blood of Christ was the "blood of the everlasting covenant," and "the everlasting covenant," was the covenant originally made with Abraham. For my friend to say: "They were made nigh not by the promises, but by the blood of Christ," is to betray a lamentable ignorance as to the relation the blood and the covenant sustain to each other.

My friend could not thus set aside "the promises" if he would only just allow the common legitimate use of language. Why were they "without Christ?" the answer comes, "being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise." What is the condition of such "aliens" and "strangers?" Note the answer, "Having no hope, and without God in the world." Be careful that you do not reject the counsel of God. God will never substitute "the covenants of promise," with a covenant born of Satan, shrouded in Egyptian darkness, and propagated by paganism.

W. H. WILSON.

The Cry of Peace and Safety.

"For when they shall say peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them as travail upon a woman with child, and they shall not escape." 1 Thes. v. 3.

In writing upon this Scripture we have this to say, we often sit and think, watch and pray, and glad that we are living today, and that our lot is cast in a land of Bibles, where we have the blessed privilege of taking the Word of life at any and all times, and learning what the Lord has therein revealed, and that we are able, by the blessings of God in Jesus' name, to watch the fulfilment of prophecy as they are being unfolded in the days in which we live, and even some of them right before our eyes, and that it assures us of the fact that the true child of God can shout for joy, for when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, lift up your heads for your redemption draweth nigh." Luke xxi. 28. Right here we pause with almost breathless suspense, and ask ourselves the question, can it be possible that we are living so near the dawn of an eternal day? Are we living so near the second advent of our Savior? Are we living so near his thief-like coming that it is rather to be expected than death? And to join in the company of all the redeemed, and to sing redemption's song. Rev. v. 9, 10. To share with Jesus in the rulership of the kingdom of God, or kingdom of Israel restored. Matt. xix. 28; Luke i. 32, 33; Acts i. 36; xv. 13, 14, 15, 16, 17; Rev. iii. 21.

Did we but know that this great cry of peace and safety is right in connection with our Savior's thief-like coming, and it is there we find it, and no where else. Please notice again that this great cry of peace and safety is an effect of which there must be a cause, and as cause always precedes an effect, we must invariably look in advance for the cause, and there may be two things which may precede this effect as follows. 1st, A peace conference of all the noted powers of earth. 2nd, A peace proclamation from all those noted powers as soon as the right kind of a peace conference is over.

It is a fact worthy of notice right here, that we are living in the days of peace conferences, that there has been one already held, but that they did not conclude agreeably. Hence the result was of no force, but it does seem to us that they must hold one that they can and must agree upon, but it may not be this year, nor next year, but certain is that they must hold one in the near future that they can conclude agreeably upon and thus arbitrate all differences that shall result in war, so they may obviate any further going to war, and the shedding of so much innocent blood by sacrifice of so many lives, and the expenditure of millions of money and labor. But we reason this way, that it will not be done right off, because each nation feels its own power, pride and position, so that they will not submit to such arbitration on so short a notice. But just wait a little while longer, let the nations get more and more tangled in war, so that they will get weaker and weaker, and more reduced, and things begin to look blue, and actually feel blue, they will then all want a peace conference. They will then be glad to help to make terms of peace, and be willing to arbitrate all difference that will result in war, for a while at least. If the Czar of Russia keeps calling for a peace conference every May and June, by and by the other nations will fall in with it, when they shall prefer it rather than war, they will know it.

The result of a peace conference will not be to disarm the army and navy. No, no, not at all, but that they will there after submit to arbitration and not go to war any more. When such a conference can be submitted to, then the right work will be done. Then those ministers can go home with a glad heart, and report a law of arbitration that will go into effect all the world over, and possibly a peace proclamation to follow by each and all of the different nationalities that will have been present there, when all those nations will have consolidated upon the firm basis of an arbitration law. It will not only be peace but also safety, that it will be perfectly safe to rest upon such a foundation. Then the cry of peace and safety will go forth. How long this cry will last it does not say, but certain it is that it will go into effect long enough to create a lull in hostilities. Then sudden destruction will overtake them as travail upon a woman with child, they shall not escape.

Now the question arises, how does this come? How will sudden destruction come upon them in time of peace and safety? Because it will not be long before something else will take place after there has been a duration of peace and safety for a little while at least. Then all at once the three unclean spirits will jump out frog like all at once out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of all the false prophets, for they are spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty. Then it says, Behold I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments, least he walk naked, and they see his shame. He gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon. Rev. xvi. 13-17. The thought that the three unclean spirits should jump out frog like all at once necessitates a time of peace and safety, for there would be no sense in their jumping out frog-like all at once, if the nations are warring like they are now, it must be a time of peace and safety. Hence we look for a lull in hostilities by a cry of peace and safety. Then comes the upheaval cry of three unclean spirits, they will ring out the clarion note of war to the kings of the earth, and it will be sent like a thrill the whole world over, hurrah for the great battle of God Almighty, and it will go into effect all at once, because no other battle cry will please the nations when ever they are settled upon the law of arbitration. Then all the saints can look for their Savior's thief-like coming to take place.

J. A. MOYER.

"If you would be well with a great mind, leave him with a favorable impression of you."

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 18, 1900. NUMBER 15.

Walter Tomlinson
35 Kinsman St

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, April 18, 1900.

Envy is fixed on merit; and like a sore eye, is offended with every thing that is bright.

"The shortest way to wealth is not by enlarging our estates, but by contradicting our desires."

"Friendship improves happiness and abates misery, by doubling our joy and dividing our grief."

"Abundance is a trouble, want a misery, honor a burden, advancement dangerous, but competency a happiness."

"When you have no observer, be afraid of yourself. That which you are afraid to do before men, be afraid to think before God."

If your worst estate hope; in the best, fear: but in all be circumspect. Man is a watch which must be looked to, and wound up every day."

"A goodly portion of the Lord's family live usually in the shade; they are like those sweet flowers which bloom in the thick glades of the forest."

Fenimore Cooper says, "Friendship which flows from the heart cannot be frozen by adversity, as the water that flows from the spring does not congeal in winter.

"Never trust a tale-bearer with your secrets,—his fondness for entertaining you with another's should put you on your guard. No wise man will put liquor into a leaky vessel."

"It is well to be the sheep of God's pasture, even if we have been wandering sheep. Straying sheep have an owner,—and they may stray far from the fold, and still belong to that owner."

Buffon said he would give nothing for a young man who did not begin life with an enthusiasm of some kind; it shows at least that he had faith in some thing good, lofty and generous from his own standpoint.

"Blessed be God, the green pastures and the still waters, the Shepherd's crook and pleasant company, are objects which are quite as familiar to the believer's mind as the howling wilderness and the brandished rod."

Elizabeth Browning gives good advice when she says:—

"Get leave to work;
In this world 'tis the best you get at all;
For God, in caring, gives us better gifts
Than man in benediction. God says 'Sweat.
For foreheads,' men say 'crowns,' and so we are crowned.
Ah, goaded by some tormenting circle of steel
Which snaps with a sweet spring. Get work, get work:
Be sure 'tis better than what you work to get."

Russia seems to have secured a footing in Persia, and flushed with its success, has turned her attention to Turkey, and is stoutly insisting that a Russian subject be granted the exclusive right to build railways throughout northern Asia Minor. Russian emissaries are also engaged in an active religious propaganda in Armenia and large numbers of Armenians have already been converted. This fact in connection with the Russian demand respecting railways, excites attention in Constantinople, and clearly shows the object which Russia has in view in the eastern provinces of Asia Minor.

Trouble is also apprehended in the Balkans. According to Reuter's correspondent, if Russia is unable to secure the concessions demanded in Asia Minor, events of great importance may be awaited in the Balkan Peninsula, says Glad Tidings.

Commands of Christ.

The commands of God are at a discount in the world today. People hate them,—refuse to obey; laugh at Jehovah's counsel, and will have none of his reproof. Followers of Christ must not copy after the fashions of the present evil world. They must dare to be singular in this age,—for the Master says to them, "marvel not if the world hate you." The world loves its own, and the followers of Christ are not of the world. They have renounced it and all its pride, and vanity, and pleasure, and lust, and it is all passing away. If they have not really done so, they will pass away with it.

"We must love God, if we would serve him acceptably, and win others to him."

Carlyle said:—"Beautiful is young enthusiasm; keep it to the end, and be more and more correct in fixing on the object of it. It is a terrible thing to be wrong in that—the source of all our miseries and confusions whatever."

"That which we foolishly call vastness is, rightly considered, not more wonderful, nor more impressive, than that which we insolently call littleness, and the infinity of God is not mysterious, it is only unfathomable, not concealed, but incomprehensible; it is a clear infinity, the darkness of the pure unsearchable sea."

Man's Glory Passeth Away.

United, man puts on the appearance of strength. He founds empires; he builds cities; he guards by his armies; he cements by his policy. But after all, we read: "All flesh is grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass." Trace the track of civilized and powerful man through the world and you will find it covered with the wreck of his hopes; and the very monuments of his power are converted into the mockery of his weakness. His eternal cities moulder into dust; the serpent hisses in the cabinet where he planned his empires. Echo itself is startled by the foot that breaks the silence that has reigned for ages in his hall of feat and song. Columns stand in the untrodden desert; and the hut of the shepherd, or the den of the robber shelters the only residue of his palaces, and the glory which now exists is crumbling everywhere. All human glory, all fleshly pride break in the blast, and nod to their fall; and man shall lie beneath the ruins of his grandeur."

"Inheriting the Promises."

W. O. writes:—"Followers of them who through faith and patience are inheriting the promises. If they are inheriting the promises, the thing must be settled."

The verb "inherit" is here used indefinitely, and may be past, present or future, or all together at the same time, according to the nature of the subject. Supposing, therefore, the allusion is to the promise of eternal life and the kingdom of God, it settles nothing as to the question when these are possessed: the scope of the sense would have to be governed by the facts of the case. But the context shows that the allusion was to a past occurrence. Paul immediately adds, "For when God made promise to Abraham, because he could sware by no greater, he sware by himself, saying, Surely blessing, I will bless thee, and so after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise." Heb. xiii. 15. The reference is therefore the promise of a multitudinous posterity, which Abraham began to realize before his death. When the promise was given Sarah was old and barren, and there was no human probability of his having seed; but after patient faith, the promise was fulfilled. But that Abraham is inheriting the promises, in so far as they involved eternal life and the kingdom of God, is contrary to Paul's declaration: "These all (Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, etc.) died in faith not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off."

"The Spirits of Just Men Made Perfect."

This is one of a number of things the author of Hebrews says had come. See Heb. xii. 22. They had not come [illegible] a literal sense surely. But they had come in the same sense in which [illegible] come unto the mount that might be touched and burned with fire," etc. v. 18, that is in a relative sense. The faith they embraced in Christ, had no relation to the literal Sinai, at which Moses received the law, but had relation to Mount Zion, and Jerusalem of the heavenly order of things on the earth, to come when shall reign in Mount Zion and Jerusalem, and before his ancients gloriously." Isa. xxiv. 23. Most of the things enumerated have their place in that time to which at present we are only related by faith. "The spirits of just men made perfect" is one of the things. To perceive the meaning of it, we must keep in mind that it is introduced with the others, in contrast to what obtained under the law of Moses. This helps us to a ready solution. In an earlier part of this epistle, (chap. vii. 19) it says, "The law made nothing perfect."

THE LORD OF HOSTS

IT ACCOMPLISHED NOTHING

effectually for those who served it. It did not procure the remission of sins unto life eternal. A righteousness capable of lifting the sinner above the law of sin and death was impossible under it. Righteousness could not come by the law. Gal. iii. 21. Paul says, "If righteousness comes by the law,

THEN CHRIST IS DEAD

in vain. Gal. ii. 21. Under it were offered both gifts and sacrifices that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience." Heb. ix. 9. If perfection could have come by law, we should have had no dispensation through Christ. "If the first covenat had been faultless, then should no place have been found for the second." Heb. viii. 7. But as a means of healing the breach between God and man the first was ENTIRELY FAULTY.

It was never intended to accomplish this object. It was an arrangement to pave the way for the redemption, (Gal. iii. 24), which is now in force. It contained no arrangement by which the law of God might be upheld in the death of Adam's race, and yet exhibit the goodness of God made effective in a resurrection to eternal life—nothing by which he could be just, and yet of those who were under condemnation. Rom. iii. 26. It pointed allegorically to the way in which this was to be done; and that was Christ, who is the end and substance of the whole matter. Under the New Covenant the spirits of just men are made perfect, whether they lived under the law of Moses, (in faith) or live now, or are yet to live. Christ's sacrificial and mediatorial work, which is the very basis of

THE JUSTIFIER

THE NEW COVENANT,

removes the weight of the law of sin and death, from which none of the just men of old could deliver themselves from by their justness. Rom. viii. 1-3. "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works, to serve and for this cause, he is the mediator of the New Testament (or covenant), that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, (or covenant), they who are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance." Heb. ix. 14, 15. To this glorious arrangement, the Hebrews who were formerly in a legal sense, under the "Mount that might be touched," "had come" by and the hope of realizing the substance of it, in the glory, honor, and immortality of the kingdom, was the anchor on which their minds rested.

THE LIVING GOD;

THE FAITH OF CHRIST;

If this be objected to, and it be claimed that the spirits of just men made perfect were the immortal souls of the righteous in heaven, those who claim it will get into a fog and an intricable difficulty. In what sense, were the Hebrews come to the glorified immortal souls of the righteous? And if in any sense, were not their just forefathers under the law not equally come to the same thing, seeing as their death

THEY WENT TO GLORY?

—and are now safe in the promised land? In that case would there be any contrast between the spiritual destiny of men under the law, and those under the gospel? And if just men were made perfect at that time, what is the meaning of Paul's statement, "They without us [illegible] as we are to-[illegible] is our present confession. [illegible] sounds [illegible] the time of thy wrath, and [illegible] the time of the dead, that [illegible] should be judged, and that thou [illegible] give reward to thy servants the prophets, and to them that fear thy name, both small and great," Rev. xi. 18?

News Notes.

The French war department is seriously crippled by the hopeless illness of the war minister Marquis de Gallifet. Many of the important changes in progress were dependent on his personal endeavors, and his plans are in such a condition that no one else can take his place.

The Paris exposition was opened last Saturday, though many of the exhibits are yet incomplete.

Italy is much disturbed over the fact that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria is to visit the German Emperor at Berlin. Italy not being invited to be at the conference of the Emperor is taken as a slight, and the Italian minister at Berlin is called home for instruction. The triple alliance may not be renewed.

In Persia the crops have failed throughout the entire northwest part, and famine prices are charged for everything. The famine in India is bad enough, but in Persia it will be worse.

John Kensit, who has caused so much trouble in the English church circles, has again stepped into prominence. He has taken a stand against ritualism and practices similar to the Catholics, and on last Sunday when at church where the communion services were in progress, he was offered a wafer in place of bread. He demanded bread, and on being refused, he left the church, and has entered a protest against the clergy. At one place a follower of Kensit, on last Friday during a procession of clergymen and choir boys, rushed into the parade and seizing a crucifix that was being carried, broke it across his knee. He was arrested and fined, but [illegible] a protest against the Romanizing practices of the English church.

The progress of the British-Boer war is slow, but it is stated in late dispatches that a big battle is likely to come soon, if not in progress. A British position is surrounded by the Boers, and they are in turn likely to be hemmed in by a larger force of British. Some hard fighting may be looked for before many days.

A dispatch from Simla of April 14, says: "In the general opinion here Viceroy Curzon struck the right note in his reply to the Quetta Municipality when he said India had not the slightest idea of allowing any natural advantage that may accrue to Baluchistan to be neutralized or stifled by fiscal policy or by political antagonism of independent parties. This was a double hit at trade restrictions imposed by the Ameer of Afghanistan and at the policy of Russia in central Asia. Baluchistan holds an undoubtedly strong geographical position, and the Indian government intends to make the most of it. The Viceroy also made the important announcement that the telegraph line to Mushki will be completed by the end of the present month."

Egyptologists are rejoicing over several new discoveries just reported from Cairo. In addition to the finding of the mummy of King Moncpoth, the Pharaoh of the exodus, Professor Leguani, while excavating at Karnak, came upon the city gate, the first yet found in Egypt. According to Professor Sayce, who reports the find, "The gateway is of great height, made of large blocks of squared limestone, and is double, having one gate within another. Two chariots could easily have passed through it abreast. It was erected by Amenhotep II. of the eighteenth dynasty." The find dates only two or three days back and Egyptologists are greatly excited over its importance.

Parkhurst Wants New Creed.

The above heading is given to a report of a sermon by Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, delivered in Madison Square Presbyterian church last Sunday. This whole body is in revolt throughout the country over the obnoxious sentiments of the Westminster confession of faith, and the demand is loud for a change to be made. Mr. Parkhurst voices the large part of the Presbyterian membership, and we give his words as showing the condition of affairs.

"We ought to have a new confession of faith. It is surprising that the Presbyterian [illegible] what it is than hack it to pieces and revamp it for what it is not.

And then, once more, if there were among us the distinct feeling, which the gospel so wonderfully guarantees, that everything in all this great Christian matter pivots on the absolute and unconditional love of God, we should be intolerant toward everything that states or even suggests anything like a partial or an arbitrary love on God's part, loving some because he chose to and damning the rest in order to show what he could do and how just he was.

Now that is our book, the Presbyterian confession of faith, in the third chapter. If we are thorough Presbyterians and believe what our doctrinal prospectus advertizes us as believing we believe it probable that some of the children in your homes, little children, perhaps the babe of your bosom, is damned, damned before it was born, damned from everlasting to everlasting, and then you are invited to come into church and say 'Our Father.'

Why [illegible] who should become a father for the sake of joy and 'glory' he would use in burning and racking his own offspring, deliberately creating a child with a view to the agony into which he was going to torture it, would be chased from the earth as a fiend and as an ebullition. It does not meet the case to say that it is only in 'the book' and that nobody preaches it. It is true that nobody preaches it, and equally true, I doubt not, that nobody believes it; nevertheless, it is printed on the flag beneath which the Presbyterian army is marching and it hurts us as a denomination. Men are staying out because it is there, and men are going out because it is there."

Overcoming Evil with Good.

We all have our faults and peculiarities. Every one of us finds himself crossed by such failings of others daily,—and if we were to resent them all, or even notice all, life would be a burden intolerable. If for every burst of hasty temper and for every rudeness that wounds us in our daily path we were to demand an apology and require an explanation, or resent it by retaliation, daily intercourse would be impossible. The very science of social life consists in that gliding tact which avoids contact with the sharp angularities of character which does not argue about such things,—which does not seek to adjust or cure them all, but covers them as if it did not see. So a Christian spirit throws a cloak of love over these things. It knows when it is wise not to see. The microscopic distinction in which faults appear to captious men, who are ever blaming, ever dissecting, ever complaining and finding fault, disappears in the calm gaze of love. And oh, it is this spirit which we need, and which we will never get till each one begins with his own heart. "Let all bitterness and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil-speaking, be put away from you with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." "Be ye followers of God as dear children, and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet smelling savor. We are not to avenge ourselves, but rather give place unto wrath, for it is written, vengeance is mine, I will repay saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him, if he thirst, give him drink, for in so doing [illegible]

Doing the Best We Know How.

How often we hear the expression, "If I do the best I know how, it is all I can do, God will certainly not condemn me." And yet those same confident persons who try so persistently to convince both themselves and others, that matters are all right between themselves and God, never make the least effort to come to a knowledge of the truth and to form thus, a saving acquaintance with God and with his dear Son, our Lord Jesus Christ.

To do the best we know how, we must seek to know the will and the purpose of our dear heavenly Father. We cannot remain in ignorance, with the Bible on our tables, and say with a clear conscience that "we are doing the best that we know," because the Bible, says we must grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth, and that means, that we must do better, be better tomorrow, than we have been today, and that we must also know more.

Yet many people say, "they are doing the best they know," who never open the Bible at all, and who are perfectly indifferent as to its teachings and requirements. Can we believe them? No, we cannot, we do not; for their statements are utterly false. They are wilfully ignorant. The Bible is theirs. They have heard that its words are the words of eternal life, that Jesus came into the world to save sinners, and that if we would have a part in the future kingdom we must believe that the kingdom is coming, and must obey God. Still the Book remains unopened. They make no move to search for life; they do not "do the best they know," for they do not obey even the first commandment of Jesus to "search the Scriptures." "It is not a sufficient excuse even before a human court, to claim that we were ignorant of the law, we ought to have known it, our duty of knowing is as real as our duty of doing." God has not given us the law of life to be treated with contempt. To "do the best we know," we must enter the school of Jesus and must sit our feet in his steps. No matter about the hard part of it. It takes hardships to toughen us into soldiers. Lazy folks will never learn the mathematics of the cross. Yet it becomes but simple "adding" to him who sits at the feet of Jesus. Do "the best you know how" by learning God's will, and then "do the best you know how" by doing that will. Go work in God's vineyard. Forget self, and save men. Let go of the little, worthless realm in which you have hitherto lived, and where you have contributed to make yourself and everybody else utterly miserable, and come buy citizenship in "a kingdom that cannot be moved," and then, set yourself to labor with all your powers, inside and outside, to get others to join you for God and his glory. Then will you have peace. Then can you say with truth, "I am doing the best I know how for I am doing the will of my heavenly Father."

S. Roxana Wince.

Notice.

The brethren and friends interested in the June meeting at the Antioch church, Marshall Co., Ind., are requested to meet at the church April 28, 1900 at 2:00 P. M. to decide whether it is advisable to hold a meeting this year, and to attend to the business pertaining thereto. The officers constituting the Conference Executive Board are specially requested to be at the meeting.

Conference Notice.

To the brethren greeting:

The quarterly conference of Beloit District will convene at the Pleasant Hill school house near Bro. Peter Hulls on May 11, 1900, and continue over Sunday in Jell Co., Kan., 9 miles southwest of Mancater and 5 miles northeast of Iona, 18 miles north of Glenelder. Come one and all and let us have a good meeting.

Yours in hope of eternal life,
T. H. Owens, Pres.
Wm. Babbit, Sec.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request (or the [illegible] worthy.

J N Beck	1.75
Mrs D T Seeley	3.00
M J Sipes	.50
Mrs H E Paddock	2.00

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Methodist General Conference at Chicago, May 2nd to 31st inclusive. Tickets are available from stations on the Nickel Plate Road May 1st, 2nd, 7th, 14th and 21st, good returning by deposit until June 1st inclusive at one and one-third fare for the round trip from points within a radius of 200 miles from Chicago. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A. Ft. Wayne, Ind.—may 21.

Poetry.

Something Strange.

How strange is the language, so often I hear,
That when I have parted with friends I love dear,
And laid them away in the dark tomb to rest,
'Tis said they are gone to the realm of the blest,

They tell me the form that I once loved so well,
Was not the real person; but only the shell,
The house, or the casket, the man dwells within;
And oft by temptation was led into sin.

Some call it the spirit, and others the soul,
Yet, cannot describe it, in part or in whole.
They say it's immortal, in God had its birth,
'Ere Adam was made of the dust of the earth.

Their eyes cannot see it, and yet they declare
Its number is legion, and throngs earth and air,
Their ears cannot hear it, although it has voice,
To join in the anthem, when angels rejoice.

It lives in the body, or out just as well,
In heaven with angels, or demons in hell;
But, stranger than all, at the great judgment day,
It takes up its home in these organs of clay.

They speak of its being not subject to death;
Yet, this is denied in the very next breath,
For the soul of the sinner, they tell us must die,
That does not on Christ for salvation rely.

'Tis wondrously strange how these things can be,
That man is a unit, and yet two or three,
But so they profess of course it is true
For the church and the world endorse the same view.

Though I frankly confess, I'm loath to revive
What so many divines in these last days believe,
That, though it is written of man, "Thou shalt die,"
In death he lives on Ele the guy butterfly:

Unhurt and unharmed by the enemy's sting,
In spirit he soars like the bird on the wing,
To that blessed abode where the righteous shall go,
And often revisit his friends here below.

They're very attentive, for so the folks say,
They visit the circles by night and by day,
They rap on the table and tip over chairs,
The d evil, I think, must be there unawares.

And if I think rightly, he often is there,
Deceiving the weak, and beguiling the fair,
Professing to bring up the friends from the dead,
And so at his pleasure, they captive are led.

Their converts are millions, at least so they claim,
But what have they done in humanity's name,
Or where their sublime the favor to receive,
The naked to clothe and the needy relieve

Ah, that kind of fruit does not grow on their tree,
By their fruits ye shall know of what spirit they be,
But to care for the homeless, to raise fallen man,
Is not of their promises, no part of their plan.

While all this is true, each his notion may have,
And though I believe man goes down to the grave,
Let others enjoy such a faith if they can,
That spirit or soul is the undying man.

We think that to Eden we trace the first lie,
The serpent declared "Ye shall not surely die."
From then until now hath the world been deceived;
The Word of Jehovah, they have not believed.

—Dr. C. Patterson.

Communicated.

The X Ray Papers. No. 7.

"The entrance of thy Word giveth light."

Mack. Well, friend B, in our investigation of this subject of the nature of man, we have found nothing so far but what has been easily made to harmonize with the plain teaching of the Scripture. That man is wholly mortal, and that immortality is conditional. It is the prize for which we should strive. It is the reward offered to those who will seek for it, but we must seek for it in God's appointed way, according to the precepts laid [illegible] We have found no Scripture when rightly understood, that contradicts the statement of the Psalmist, "That his breath goeth forth, he returneth to the dust, in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. 4.

Rev. B. But Mr. Mack, does not Christ say that "Whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die." John ix. 26. And in 1 John iii. 14, we read, "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren.

Mack. In Christ's conversation with Martha, which you quote a part of, he says, "He believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, (a future event). And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me shall never die," (a future event). Now, friend B, when will those who believed in Christ and are dead, live again? We will let Paul answer: "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first," ("Though they were dead yet shall they live.") Then we which are alive, and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air and so shall we ever be with the Lord." 1 Thes. iv. 16, 17. At that time, "Those that are alive and believe on him shall never die."

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, I think there are several passages in Paul's writing that sustains the idea of the uninterrupted conscious existence of the soul, which I don't think you can explain away.

Mack. I don't propose to try to explain away any of his statements. We will let Paul himself explain them. It is true as Peter says in his 2 epistle iii. 16, speaking of Paul's writings, "In which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable, wrest as they do also the other Scriptures unto their own destruction." Friend B, we must not take any Scriptures of doubtful interpretation, to build our theory on. We need the most plain, positive evidence, for the foundation of our faith. Therefore we should take as our foundation Scriptures of which there is no doubt of their meaning, and interpret those passages hard to be understood in accord with the plain statements. Paul tells us in Rom. vi. 23 that "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Christ our Lord." Here is a plain statement of Paul which is not hard to understand. He tells us, "The wages of sin is death." Now, God in pronouncing sentence on Adam for his disobedience tells us just what he means by death. "Returning to dust." Gen. iii. 19. Paul here contrasts the wages of sin, death with the gift of God, "eternal life." Now, friend B, if all men are possessed of eternal or immortal life, where do the wicked get it? Eternal life is only to be obtained through Christ, and as a reward for righteousness. Certainly the wicked do not get it through him. Friend B, I know of but one passage of Scripture, that sustains the theory of the inherent immortality of man.

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, you said a short time ago, that one, thus sayeth the Lord, was thus sufficient to establish any point.

Mack. And so it is friend B, but unfortunately for the immortal soul dogma, it is not a thus saith the Lord, but a thus saith the serpent in the garden of Eden, when he said to Eve, "Ye shall not surely die, but shall become as gods," (that is as angels or mighty ones as the Hebrew word signifies.) Angels have eternal life. This is the only passage of Scripture that I find that contradicts the plain statement that "the wages of sin is death," and that "The dead know not anything."

Rev. B. In 2 Cor. v. 8, Paul says, "We are confident, I say, and willing to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." Now, Mr. Mack, how could Paul be absent from the body, and present with the Lord? Only by his spirit, as a conscious personality.

Mack. Paul's statements in the first eight verses of this chapter are of those which are hard to be understood. In the verse 1 he speaks of an earthly house and a heavenly house. Verse 2, he desires to be clothed upon with his heavenly house. Verse 3, that he should not be found naked. And in verse 4, he sums up the substance of the first three verses, "For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened; not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life." And then in verse 8 he speaks of being "Absent from the body and present with the Lord." By being unclothed Paul evidently means the state of death. And being clothed upon with his house from heaven, the immortal state. He does not desire to be unclothed, that is to enter the state of death, but he does desire to be clothed upon with his heavenly house, that is to enter upon the immortal state, "That mortality might be swallowed up of life." Now, friend B, when does Paul expect mortality to be swallowed up of life? That is, when will this mortal state be changed for the immortal state? We will let Paul answer. In 1 Cor. xv. 44, in speaking of the resurrection he says, "It is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body." But the two bodies do not exist at the same time, for in verse 46, he tells us, "The natural body was first, and afterwards that which is spiritual." In verse 51, he tells us, We shall not all sleep, that is enter the state of death, or be unclothed, but we shall all be changed. Ver. 52, 53, at the resurrection, "This corruptible must put on incorruption, this mortal must put on immortality. When that takes place then death is swallowed up in victory (or life), "O death, where is thy sting; O grave, where is thy victory?" In 1 Thes. iv. 16, 17, we learn that when the Lord comes, "The dead in Christ shall be raised first, then those who are alive (in Christ) shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord." Friend B, notice that little word so, there is an important meaning attached to that little word, which forever destroys the popular theory of the immortal soul, which is claimed to be the actual man going to be with Christ at death, so means in that manner, and when explains the manner, and also the time of our going to be with the Lord, that precludes all other times or manners. Our only hope is in the resurrection of the dead, and change of the living when the Lord comes. No immortality for man this side of that event. I think, friend B, that Paul's explanation of that passage in 2 Cor. i. 8, makes his meaning very plain.

Rev. B. Well, Mr. Mack, I would like to hear your explanation of Phil. i. 20-23. Here Paul expresses a desire to depart and be with Christ.

Mack. I do not doubt Paul's desire to depart and be with Christ, for that is the ardent desire of every true follower of Christ. They are waiting and watching for him to come, that they may be changed if alive, and caught up with the dead in Christ to meet him in the air, and thus be ever with the Lord. But we will examine that passage, and try and find if there is any thing in it to sustain the theory that, "Ye shall not surely die." In verse 20, Paul says, "Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death." From Paul's language here he evidently expected to die a violent death for the cause of Christ, and if so that cause would be magnified, "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain; but if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labor, yet what I shall choose I wot not, for I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better." Now, friend B, what two things was Paul in a strait betwixt? Rev. B, I think it was between life and death. It appears that he did not know, whether it would be more beneficial to the cause of Christ for him to live and labor on in that cause, or to suffer death for the same cause. In either case the cause would be magnified.

Mack. I think you are correct, friend B, it was between life and death that he was in a strait, "Having a desire to depart, and be with Christ, which is far better." That is far better than either life or death. Paul was in no strait in reference to that matter, it was his ardent desire that Christ should come and raise the saints who were dead, and change the living, and receive them to himself in the air, and so should ever be with him, as we found in 1 Thes. iv. 16, 17. The explanation already given of 2 Cor. v. 8 applies also to this passage under consideration. Friend B, the popular theory of man possessing an immortal soul, and going to heaven or hell at death, does away with two of the most important points in the gospel as taught by Christ and the Apostles. That is the resurrection of the dead, and a future general judgment. If the righteous are in heaven, enjoying all that heaven is, what necessity is there for a resurrection and a second judgment, (for they have already been judged). And so with the wicked, why bring them all back and judge them again, and send them back to their respective places of happiness or misery. Is it possible that a mistake might have been made in the first judgment at death, and some have been basking in the bliss of heaven for hundreds of years, who should have been suffering the pangs of eternal torment; or have some been in hell suffering untold anguish for ages, who should have been enjoying the bliss of heaven? Friend B, I can see no necessity for a second judgment, only on that supposition. But away with such a theory, let it go back to the dark ages of heathenism from whence it sprung. And let us accept of the plain statements of the Scripture, that "The wages of sin is death," and that "The dead know not anything," but "There shall be a resurrection, both of the just and the unjust," and that "God hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteous by that man whom he hath ordained, whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead." Acts xvii. 31.

J. H. McCLARY.

(To be continued.)

"Whatever our place allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of honor and duty. God estimates us, not by the position we are in, but by the way in which we fill it."—T. Edwards.

Zacharias.—Chapter 3.

1. And the Lord showed me Jeesous the great priest standing before the face of the angel of the Lord, and the Diabolos stood at his right hand to oppose him.

2. And the Lord said unto the Diabolos, and may the Lord have rebuked thee, thou Diabolos, and may the Lord who chose out Hierousaleem have rebuked thee. Is not this as it were a brand snatched out of fire?

3. And Jeesous was clothed with filthy undergarments, and was standing before the face of the angel.

4. And he made answer and spake unto those standing before his face, saying, Take off his filthy garments. And he said, Lo I have taken away thy sins, and may ye have clothed him with a podera (a long-flowing under-garment.)

5. And may ye have put a clean turban on his head. And they put a clean turban on his head, and clothed him with outer-garments; and the angel of the Lord stood.

6. And the angel of the Lord went through the testimony to Jeesous saying,

7. Thus saith the All-Controling Lord, If thou walkest in my ways and art watchful to assert my commandments, and dost judge in behalf of my house; and dost thoroughly watch to guard my court, I will also give unto thee those who are being brought up in the midst of those who have a standing.

8. Hear forsooth, O Jeesous, thou great priest, thou and thy neighbor, who sit before the face, because men of mark are they who look four ways. Because to I am leading my bond-servant a shoot from the root (Branch C. V. & R. V.)

9. Because the stone which I have given before the face of Jeesous, upon that one stone are seven eyes; Lo I am digging a pit, saith the All-Controling Lord and I am going to feel for all the iniquity of that land in one day.

10. In that day, saith the All-Controling Lord, may ye have called together each one his neighbor beneath vine and beneath fig-tree.

Chapter 4.

1. And the angel who was talking to me turned and awakening me in the way a man is awakened out of his sleep.

2. And he said what art thou looking at? And I said, I have seen, And lo a lampstand all of gold and its standard upon it and its seven lamps thereupon, and seven conducting pipes for the lamps thereupon.

3. And the olive-trees over and above it one on the right-hand of the standard and one on the left-hand.

4. And I inquired and spake unto the angel who was talking to me, saying, What are these, Lord?

5. And the angel who was talking to me made answer and spake unto me, saying, Dost thou not know what these things are? And I said No, no Lord.

6. And he made answer and spake unto me saying: This is the Word of the Lord unto Zorobabel, saying: Not with great ability, nor with physical strength, but with my spirit, saith the All-Controling Lord.

7. Who art thou, thou great mountain before the face of Zorobabel In the way of his restoring things to uprightness? And I shall bring out the stone of the inheritance, its grace and equity of grace.

8. And a Word of the Lord occured unto me saying,

9. The hands of Zorobabel have founded this house and his hands will complete it, and thou wilt fully know why an All-Controling Lord sent me unto thee.

10. Wherefore who hath despised small ways? They will both rejoice and see the plummet line in the hand of Zorobabel; seven are these eyes that look upon all the earth;

11. And I answered and said unto him, What are these two olive-trees at the right hand and the left hand of the lamp-stand?

12. And I asked a second time and said unto him, What are the two branches of the olive-trees in the hands of the two golden nozzles that empty into and conduct unto the golden supply-pipes?

13. And he said unto me, Dost thou not know what these are? And I said No, no, Lord.

14. And he said, These are the two sons of the fatness, who stand beside the Lord of all the earth.

Chapter 5.

1. And I turned and lifted up mine eyes and saw, and lo a flying sickle.

2. And he said unto me, What art thou looking at? And I said I see a flying sickle with a length of twenty cubits and a breadth of ten cubits.

3. And he said unto me, This is the curse that goeth its way out over the face of all the earth. Wherefore every thief will have been requited unto death by this, and every one who adjureth oath to oath will have been requited by this.

4. And I shall bring it forth, saith the All-Controling Lord, and it will enter into the house of every one who sweareth to a lie in my name; and it will lodge in the midst of his house, and it will bring it to an end and its wood and its stones.

5. And the angel who was talking to me came out and said unto me, Look up with thine eyes and see this that is going its way out.

6. And I said, What is it? And he said, This is the measure that is going its way out. And he said, This is their injustice in all the earth.

7. And lo a talent of lead being lifted up; and lo a woman was seated in the midst of the measure.

8. And he said, She is the transgression. And he cast her into the midst of the measure, and cast the stone of the lead into her mouth.

9. And I lifted up mine eyes and saw, and lo two women going their way out; and spirit was in their wings, and they had wings of a hoopoe, and they took up the measure between the earth and the heavens.

10. And I said unto the angel who was talking to me, Where are they carrying the measure?

11. And he said unto me, To build a house for it in a land of Babuloon, and to make it ready there and they will place it there upon its place made ready.

Comment.

The imagery of this 3rd chapter ought to be very familiar to us who are under the fuller and clearer light of the New Covenant revelation, and its blessed import very manifest to us. "The angel of the Lord" Israel's advocate here in the first picture against the accusations of "The Diabolos."

The prevailing advocacy of the angel who pleads "the choice" and "Election" of Hierousaleem brought to the bar of justice here through her highest representative, Jeesous the Great Priest—her justification as the result of the angel's plea pictures to us by the decree that removes "the filthy garments" of sin and clothes Jeesous with "the clean fine linen of justification." The decree of the All-Controling Lord further recites the conditions of "the pardon"—namely that he and those who sit with him in high council rise to walk the way of righteousness "in newness of life"—how familiar this language to the Christian now—until "his Bond-servant a Shoot from the Root" (of David of course) shall have been led in, or in plain language until the Christ shall have come, "the Hope of Israel." Or using another figure made familiar in the prophets, he is called "the Stone," and upon "that One Stone" are "Seven Eyes" meaning the all-seeing watchfulness of the angelic spiritual host who represent and do the behests of the All-Controling Lord, and who as we are told elsewhere "will bring out the Stone, the Cap-Stone (of the spiritual house) with rejoicing."

"The pit" here in which sin is to be buried ultimately—the sin of God's people here referred to—is the pit of oblivion of course, not of torment.

The 10th verse gives the resultant blessing of "the call" heard and realized.

The 4th chapter opens with a statement which throws light upon "the way of vision." Read the first verse and see if it does not. Vision so-called is spoken of in the Scriptures as resembling sleep only "as it were," and is defined in Jeremiah as "a hypostasis" or "the hypostasis" of God. Now the word hypostasis means state, being or the condition in which a thing or person is, when used in a metaphysical sense. Jeremiah (Hieremias, his righteousness) as the prophet or true "mouthpiece" of God says of "the lying prophets," "If they (the lying prophets) had stood in my (God's) hypostasis (being or state) they would not have told lies." Why? Because they would have been seized by and under the control for the time being of God's spirit, that is they would have been taken out of the natural into the spiritual state, and would have been in, as the Scriptures say—or as we have anglicised the word—ecstacy, and would have seen, heard, thought and reasoned, as God does in the matters under consideration. So much for dream-visions and "the way of vision" as used in the Scriptures Old and New.

The thing seen here was "a sickle" and the balance of the chapter is a divine explanation by the angel of the signification of this sickle. This ought to be clear to the enlightened Christian now in view of all Christ's teachings in the New about "the reaper angels"—the reaping of the Darnel (Tares C. V. & R. V.) that are growing now with the wheat and that we are told to let grow until "the harvest." You see there are angel-reapers both of sin and transgression, and of righteousness. We have the picture here though of only the Darnel reaping.

The next picture is of "the measure" and "the woman" and we cannot do better than to follow the interpretation herein given. For the symbolism is difficult to interpret. The angel says that she "the woman" pictured here is "the transgression" and "the measure is their injustice in all the earth," which is equivalent to saying in plain language that the transgression is measured by the injustice which is the result of it. For the woman is cast into the measure "and the stone of the lead into her mouth." The measure here reminds us of "the measure" as used by Christ in one of his parables of an Eastern household, "Men do not light the lamp and put it under the measure, etc.," (same word for measure in both cases) which leads us to the conclusion that "the measure" here spoken of man's measure of righteousness as compared with God's measure. The woman associated with the measure and here put into the measure because she was first in the sin and transgression which resulted in man's measure becoming a false measure. Then the measure being uplifted and carried by "the two women with spirit in their wings and having wings of a hoopoe to Babuloon where a place had been made ready for it," is the measure of unrighteousness, and being placed in Babuloon is equivalent to saying "in the world of iniquity" or the unregenerate world, and the spirit in the wings representing the moving power is evidently unclean spirit as the hoopoe is an unclean bird and was accounted also a bird of ill-omen by the ancients.

The placing and the place prepared in Babuloon because Babuloon was "the great city" of that day and the representative head of the unregenerate nations and "world" of that day who were asserting this "measure of unrighteousness" with God's people whose duty and mission it was to lift up the true measure of righteousness, in bondage there, and doing bond-service to this unrighteous world power.

CHAS. GARDNER.

An Earnest Appeal to all the Brotherhood of the Church of God.

Seeing the great need of better order and a more thorough knowledge of the work being done for the cause of truth most certainly believed and accepted by the Church of God in the United States and the Territories; at the Annual Conferences in Michigan and Indiana last June, measures were taken to meet this end, viz:—A committee was appointed, consisting of B. W. Woodward, of the Michigan Conference, and A. H. Zilmer of the Indiana Conference, to issue a call to each and every Conference Board in said States and Territories, and to all churches where there are no organized conferences, to report immediately to Bro. A. H. Zilmer, the number of recognized ministers in each conference, also the number and value of church buildings; also let the secretaries of the different churches report the number of members in each church or isolated members they may have a knowledge of, also that any isolated member who may see this call, report their names or any others they may know of, to Bro. Zilmer.

At the last census taken the Census Department wrote me to know the strength of our church body, and I was not able to give them much light on the subject. Now, brethren, by an earnest effort on the part of all, we will approximate the facts very closely. The census will soon be taken again—they will again ask for the facts, and we will want a correct statement. The government demands it, and is justly entitled to it. Do not lay this paper aside and forget all about it. It is a duty; do it at once—TODAY. Address all communications to A. H. Zilmer, Rensselaer, Indiana.

B. W. WOODWARD,
A. H. ZILMER,
Committee.

Opportunities for Business

At towns on the new lines of the Chicago & North-Western Railway are summarized in a pamphlet that may be obtained upon application to W. B. Kniskern, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill.—may 5.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, of the One Faith:

I have enjoyed this Love Feast very much. Have read the testimonies of many whose names have become familiar, and without them our annual gathering would hardly be complete. But some have not yet spoken. I hope we will hear from them soon. Brother Dwiggins where are you? It seems to me that you should come to this feast as usual, to make it a success, as you made the first appointment, and there are others, let us have a love feast all the year round. Though personally unacquainted you have all ceased to be strangers, for you are my Father's children, and we are divinely related, heirs together with Christ, to an inheritance that can not fade away, nor can any mortal estimate. All silver and gold are his, and the cattle on a thousand hills. The uttermost parts of the earth are his possession. Boundless riches, an eternal inheritance is ours when the Lord returns and takes to himself his great power and reigns. Soon this earth will be fairer than now. Soon we shall greet those whom we love, though many of them we have never met. Then there will be no more good byes. We shall see the King in his beauty, and be like him. Our worst enemy will be destroyed and there will be no more pain, sorrow nor death, for the former things are all passed away.

Yours, waiting the return of our Lord.

SALLIE BLACK.

Dear brothers and sisters of the household of faith:

When I read the different letters from the isolated ones it fills my heart with joy to know that there are a few in this broad land that are striving to obtain that crown of righteousness which is promised to all the overcomers, those who resist all the temptations of this sinful life and come out victorious through Christ. May we all meet in the next age when Jesus rules supreme and all is perfection.

Yours in hope.

C. E. PEREGO.

Dear Restitution:

I wish to have a part in the Love Feast, and to acknowledge the goodness and loving kindness of our dear Redeemer. "The Lord is good; for his mercy endureth forever." I feel very unworthy, and am nothing of myself. I can only plead his promises. He has told us his grace is sufficient for us and "because I live, ye shall live also." These are precious promises, and if we miss them we miss everything. Our desire is to live near our blessed Jesus. At the beginning of the year I pledged with a dear sister that we would try to live more faithful the coming year than in the past, and I think it has been a help to me as she reminds me of it in her letters to me, saying, "Let us remember our vows." Husband and myself are of the isolated ones. We get very lonely and wish we could meet with God's dear children often. We have hoped and prayed that some here might be obedient to the truth, but there has been none as yet.

Will Sister W. H. Eidmiller of Ohio please send her address to me. My address is Huskins, Ohio.

Yours in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes.

MRS. JOHN ARMITAGE.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

I am so glad that God is a God of love, and that he "gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Dear brothers and sisters, it does seem to me that this is the greatest, grandest message that poor mortal man could receive. See him during his ministry, meek and holy, going about begging poor mortal and undone creatures to accept of the terms of eternal life. Then see him nailed to the cross, his life and blood poured out that you and I might have eternal life. Brethren, will we let him die in vain? Let us work while it is day, for the time is short. Our Savior will soon come and our probation end. Then all will be joy and peace, but if unworthy, shame, contempt, punishment and death. Then let us fight the good fight of faith and lay hold on eternal life.

Yours for the truth.

GEO. M. TOWNSEND.

Dear Household of Faith:

I wish to cast in my mite in the Love Feast. How it comforts my heart to read the letters from all the loved ones of like precious faith who are looking for our dear Lord's appearing and kingdom when here will be no more sickness, pain nor death. Then the blind will receive their sight and the ear of the deaf will be unstopped, then the lame will leap as an hart, and all the saints of God will shout for joy. Oh how I long for that happy time to come. I have not been able to get to meeting this winter so my Bible and papers are all the preaching that I have. When Bro. Zilmer was here last summer I had the extreme pleasure of hearing him preach five gospel sermons. How our hearts were led to rejoice as we listened to the words of life as they poured from his lips. He is a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Words of Truth. May he be the instrument in God's hands, of saving many souls, is my prayer. Oh, how sad I was when heard of dear Brother Hastings death. It seems strange that those who are doing so much good in the world are taken away. I fear I am taking up too much space. I beg an interest in all your prayers that I may be found faithful and meet you all in his kingdom.

This is the prayer of your Sister in Christ.

MRS. MAGGIE FAREWELL.

Fellow Restitution:

I send greeting to all of the Abrahamic faith. There are so many of the writers to the Love Feast that I can sympathize with, as I seldom hear any preaching except such as I know to be mixed with error. We are a scattered people and it must be for the best, and if we hold out faithful we will be gathered together before long.

Your Brother, in Christ.

A. J. PETTIGREW.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I love the Lord with all my heart and am looking for Jesus' soon coming, and preparing myself for his coming by studying his blessed Word every day, and striving to live more like him, and to walk in his ways all the time, and be an overcomer to the end. I want to be counted among the faithful ones.

Yours, waiting for the kingdom.

MISS NELLIE LANPHEAR.

Dear Restitution:

Once more we have the blessed privilege of writing and joining with the dear ones in the Love Feast. We are a little late with our exhortation but you know that always comes in last. We are still striving to serve the Lord. "We still press on toward the goal, unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Being away out here near the broad Pacific isolated from those of like precious faith as ourselves, it does our hearts good to read the cheerful and loving words of our brothers and sisters in the faith. We feel as if we were acquainted with them, and extend to them the right hand of fellowship. We were made to rejoice by the arrival of Brother and Sister Clay, about two weeks ago. We got them a place near us so we can meet together often, and it seems much more pleasant to meet and talk with those who believe God's Word just as we do. Yet I believe we have good Christian people all around us; but they insist on going to heaven when they die, that immortal soulism clings to them. Now as Brother Clay and wife are here we can muster five members, and I believe if we had some brother here who could wield the sword right well, he would gather in a little flock. If this should come to the eyes of some of our preachers that desire to come out to California, and can get here we will do our best to hold up their hands while here. We are not very rich in this world's goods if we were we would send for any preacher who wished to come. If their is any one that can come and desire further information, write to me at Lake Port, Lake Co., California. Hoping that some good brother will respond to our call, we kindly and lovingly greet you all. Not forgetting our dear, old RESTITUTION, we have been warm friends for over twenty years. May it continue until the time of restitution of all things. May the Lord bless us all, and may we all be faithful until death, and in that day receive a crown of everlasting life, is our prayer.

Yours in the one Lord, one faith, one baptism.

C. & D. T. SEELY.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line, south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12, if the Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work with the "Gospel of the Kingdom," as our cry. Let us support the work with our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Oatman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. DARBY, Sec.

Books and Tract List.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts. Suitable for wide distribution. 1 The Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1660. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution Age. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short consise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

A few Reasons why we should not believe man goes to heaven at death.

Good Reasons why we should not believe man has an immortal soul.

What must I do to be saved?

Where are the dead?

The above are titles to some small 4-page tracts suitable to place in an envelope. Short and to the point. Price 8 copies for 5 cents—or 100 for 25 cents.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for young or old, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at so low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

Excursion Rates via Vandalia Lines.

To Indianapolis, April 23rd and 24th, account State Prohibition Convention. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Knightstown, Ind., April 27th and 28th, account Christian Endeavor yearly meeting. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, May 14th, 15th, and 16th, account State G. A. R. Encampment. One fare for round trip.

List of Churches.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1024 Sixth Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and P. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 12315 Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, in private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbothom, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Words, Secy.

The Church of God at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 11 a. m. for Bible class and social worship and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Hymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, of Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by F. L. Austin four Sundays in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scirdsville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hutch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. P. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Eshelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m., in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and Brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Groat of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Steele and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Carver, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorano Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward. | 6 | 22 | 20 | 8 | 56 |
Pittsburg | 3 40 | 7 30 | 10 00 | 1 30 | 5 00 |
Allegheny | 3 50 | 7 40 | 10 10 | 1 40 | 5 10 |
Rochester | 5 05 | 8 55 | 11 25 | 2 55 | 6 25 |
Beaver Falls | | | | | |
New Castle Junction | | | | | |
Alliance | | | | | |
Orrville | | | | | |
Mansfield | | | | | |
Crestline | | | | | |
Galion | | | | | |
Upper Sandusky | | | | | |
Bucyrus | | | | | |
Crestline | | | | | |
Galion | | | | | |
Upper Sandusky | | | | | |
Bucyrus | | | | | |
Forest | | | | | |
Lima | | | | | |
Delphos | | | | | |
Van Wert | | | | | |
Convoy | | | | | |
Paulding | | | | | |
Defiance | | | | | |
Waterville | | | | | |
Swanton | | | | | |
Fulton | | | | | |
Wauseon | | | | | |
Pioneer | | | | | |
Edgerton | | | | | |
Montpelier | | | | | |
Bryan | | | | | |
Columbia City | | | | | |
Arcola | | | | | |
Ft Wayne | | | | | |
Van Wert | | | | | |
Lima | | | | | |
Kenton | | | | | |
Mt Victor | | | | | |
Marion | | | | | |
Alliance | | | | | |
Pittsburg | | | | | |

Eastward. | 20 | 8 | 6 | 56 | 18 |
Chicago | | | | | |
Garrett | | | | | |
Auburn | | | | | |
Waterloo | | | | | |
Butler | | | | | |
Ft Wayne | | | | | |
Van Wert | | | | | |
Lima | | | | | |
Kenton | | | | | |
Mt Victor | | | | | |
Marion | | | | | |
Alliance | | | | | |
Pittsburg | | | | | |

E. P. UHLER, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

PITTSBURG, PENN'A.

Don't use cards, pieces of Car, Bermuda Dot 16, Insurance Clerks, and further information as to rates, time, etc., apply to A. J. Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains stops at enlightened Restaurants. Fine Dining Cars. Elegant Vestibuled Coaches, Free Reclining Chair Cars. Uniformed Colored Porters attend to all wants. Solid trains, Chicago to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and New York, Boston and Pittsburg, Superb dining car service.

Eastward. | Mail & Express | Westward.

Depart Chicago | 12 01 | Arrive Chicago | 6 15

Dressing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 6 and 8 Run to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston on Nos. 2 and 6 and to Cleveland on Nos. 8 and 12. Sleeping Cars are open for inspection at Nickel Plate Depot, Chicago, one hour before departure of trains. Ticket Offices in Nickel Plate Depot, Chicago, and at 111 Adams St., Rooms 1, 2 and 3, Chamber of Commerce Building, Peoria, Ill. Depot foot of Lake St. Ticket Office,

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Walter Tomlinson
35 Kinsman St

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, IND., APRIL 25, 1900. NUMBER 16.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortalized saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

"Until the Day Break and the Shadows Flee Away."

I walked along a weary way;
All day it rougher grew:
The clouds hung low, the raindrops fell,
The winds in fierceness blew;
And when a night's somber curtain dropped,
And blacker was the storm,
I sank beside the thorny road,
And waited for the morn.

I prayed that God would shed his light,
His hand would guard my way,
And keep me safely through the night,
And bless the coming day.

I arose in the name of faith,
God's birds with music rang
The clouds aglow with morning's light,
While birds of promise sang.

I saw the hard and stony way
My feet had pressed so long;
Was behind, before me lay
The land of light and song;
For God is love, and God is wise,
He binds in sake of sorrow.
Until shall come the glad surprise—
The golden, bright to-morrow.

—O. D. Sherman.

Communicated.

"What Manner of Persons Ough Ye to be?" 2 Pet. iii. 11.

Peter asks this question in view of a day that still impends; a day full of great and terrible things. In this chapter it is styled "the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men" and "day of God." Peter's manner of looking at the present in view of the future is not peculiar to him. All the prophets and the great Prophet like unto Moses, speak of a day of judgment in which all cases will be properly and equitably adjusted. All exhortations to faithful performance of duty; and all threatenings of punishment of the persistently disobedient are pronounced as things as closely related as cause and effect. The one is bound to follow the other. It is written. "What fruit had you in those things whereof you are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death." Rom. vi. 21. On the other hand it is also written, "But now being made free from sin and become servants of God, you have your fruit unto holiness and the end everlasting life." ver. 22. Every exhortation receives its power by coupling with it an appeal to the Lord's coming to reward his servants; and so the warnings and threatenings are rendered weighty by allusions to the penalty to be inflicted on the incorrigible transgressor, whose impending doom is death. Paul in the 2nd chapter of his Roman letter uses language that puts the question of salvation in the light of a personal or individual matter. Here it is "every man; every soul." "Who will render to every man according to his deeds. To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory, honor and immortality," he will render "eternal life." "But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness" he will render, "indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jew first, and also of the Gentile." As the rendering of eternal life to the obedient is to be in the future, and at the coming of the Lord, so the rendering of indignation and wrath upon the disobedient cannot take place before that event or before the Judge comes to execute the sentence.

Again the Apostle says, "For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in (under) the law shall be judged by the law." (Rom. ii. 12) In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel." ver. 16. The judgment is in accordance to truth. It is at the coming of the Judge of the quick and the dead; (2 Tim. iv. 1) who will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and make manifest the counsels of the hearts. The individual transgressors of Paul's day, and those of our day who spurn the goodness of God and after their hardness and impenitent heart treasure up unto themselves wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God; those of Paul's day, and men of our day of like character shall perish in that day—not be tormented forever as some would have it; nor be purged and chastened, disciplined and corrected as others would have it; but perish, die; for the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom. vi. 23.

The Jew boasting in his knowledge of the law and of the advantages pertaining to him, but despising the riches of God's goodness, forbearance and long-suffering; and Gentiles without the law but with the light of the gospel shining; about them, but refusing to obey it will meet the same doom. God is no respecter of persons; and in the final settlement with men the Jew will have no reason to plead exemption from the punishment due to his deeds; nor the Gentile ground of excuse because he was not under the law. I know the love of God is to be preached, for the Word so enjoins; but I find that God through his Word and in connection with the sweet message of love, employed language whose legitimate meaning was designed to impress the sinner with a wholesome dread of what will befall him in a day of reckoning. Every proclaimer of the gospel is bound to follow the example of Paul, of Peter and of Christ and declare the whole counsel of God. The language used by inspiration can convey but one meaning, that of death most literally inflicted. Whoever says that the terms employed—[illegible]—and the figures of speech [illegible] forth the doom of the ungodly have a milder meaning than that which belongs to them primarily, has a task on hand which the most learned and logical may well shrink.

But, "What manner of persons ought ye to be?" or we to be? is the weighty question that concerns the household of faith. The infidel may go on arguing the stability of nature's laws and denying the history of the flood, and scoffing at the idea of a future change, even more radical, as the believers claim, than any that took place in the history of the past since man came on the stage. We believe the day of the Lord is coming, and in view of it what should be our attitude, what the manner of our behavior? seeing we look for things as Peter portrays. The present order of things is to pass away. The new heavens and new earth are to succeed the present sin-burdened ones. In the new the righteous are to dwell. We want to witness the mighty change and be the happy tenants of the new creation. There must be the moral fitness for that perfect state. Our conversation or conduct (as the word meant when the translation was made) must be holy and our character godlike. In verse 14 the Apostle says, "Wherefore beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot and blameless. Peace and harmony must exist in the membership of the Christ-body. Jarring discords, bickering and back-biting will surely unfit us for the heavenly society to which the Word invites us. "The pure in heart shall see God." Day by day we must measure ourselves by the divine Word and model, by the pattern shown us in the person and character of Christ. To strive for the highest attainments in point of Christian character is pleasing to God; for it is according to his expressed will that believers could grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." 2 Pet. iii. 18.

Growth is the divine order. "As new-born babes desire the sincere milk of the Word, that ye may grow thereby." 1 Pet. ii. 2. To further this end God has promised to aid us in our struggle and striving to be overcomers. "The Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men." 1 Thes. iii. 12. Paul more than once urges those to whom he writes to increase, to abound, especially in love; nor is growth in knowledge overlooked. It is thus that we carry out God's purpose in our "high calling." He who ceases to labor and strive against the elements of evil within and without will soon find himself led captive by Satan at his will. The many sorry specimens of Christian profession is the result of neglect of indifference and of laziness. They do not work, nor "give all diligence to make their calling and election sure."

JOHN L. WINCE.

Growth of the Kingdom of God.

"And he said, so is the kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the ground, and should sleep and wake night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how. For the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself, first, the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear. But when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come." Mark iv. 26-29.

This text in many respects is a remarkable one. It is the outline in parable of the kingdom of God, in the varied and successive stages of its development.

Let us draw an outline here upon the blackboard, that the eye may aid the ear, and that we may get a clearer conception of the Master's teaching; thus:

1. The sowing time.
2. The first appearance of the blade.
3. The development of the ear.
4. The full, or ripe corn in the ear.
5. The harvest.

What is this illustration intended to represent? The text says, "So is the kingdom of God." It is the kingdom then, that Jesus is illustrating. It does not refer to any condition of men in relation to salvation, but to the kingdom to be set up among men.

The illustration is from nature and is easily understood. The successive stages in the figure are clearly marked, and we are not left to guess at its meaning, for we are told that Jesus is discoursing on the coming kingdom.

The divine government that God is establishing among men, is a successive work, and marked by distinct stages in its growth. I said "Is establishing." I mean by that, that the work has already begun, by the sowing of the Word of the kingdom. We are yet in the sowing time.

You will not be startled then when I say, that these stages in the growth of the wheat in the illustration, represent ages, in the work of redemption. God's purpose is to redeem the world by means of the kingdom. But before he will set up the kingdom he must prepare a people, who shall be the teachers and rulers, and who are prepared to administer the divine government in righteousness. Hence the sowing time or an age of preparation.

From the nature of the figure it is evident that the blade age is after the sowing age is past. And the blade stage is followed by an age which shows signs of fruitage; spoken of as the "ear." This is followed by an age when the principles of that kingdom will have reached all the world—the age of "full corn." After this an age of "harvest," or the age of the world's ingathering.

The kingdom of God in its administration of blessing the world, will cover three ages of growth besides this present age of sowing. The "leaven" of another parable was put into three measures of meal. This is only another way of teaching the same great truth.

We think that we interpret correctly, when we apply the sowing time to the present age. We should also bear in mind that the sowing time referred to in these parables, has especial reference to the publication of the gospel of the kingdom, which we know began in Galilee. Mark i. 14. The sower soweth the Word. Mark iv. 14. This "Word" is the word of the kingdom. Matt. xiii. 19.

This is the same Word or gospel which Jesus commissioned his disciples to preach in all the world. Mark xvi. 15. And the prophecy of the Savior is, that this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness to all nations. Matt. xxiv. 14.

The kingdom of God is to be a government of God for the people, through his chosen instrumentalities. The earth is yet to be filled with a knowledge of God. Mankind are to be schooled and disciplined, until their actions shall conform to the divine law.

I will consider attentively these successive phases of the kingdom's growth as introduced by the great Teacher.

The formative or elementary state of the kingdom spoken of as the appearance of the blade, aptly represents the kingdom when it first appears, at the age of sowing. It will be after the second appearing of the Christ, in the dawn of a new age in God's history that the kingdom will first appear. 2 Tim. iv. 1; Dan. vii. 13, 14. It will be like the tiny shoot of the wheat when it first comes up through the soil—so small that Jesus in another parable likens the kingdom at its point to a grain of mustard seed, the smallest of all seeds, but capable of the most marvelous growth. Mark iv. 30-33.

At this stage of its growth, Daniel compares it to a stone, which in its wonderful growth becomes so great that it ultimately fills the whole earth. Dan. ii. 35, 45.

But before this blade state can make its appearance to begin this work, the elements which go to make up a kingdom, in its organized state, must all have been developed and brought together. The territory, subjects, laws, central place of government and rulers, each and all are necessary, and will receive their proper share of preparation in the divine plan. After these have all been made ready the kingdom in organized form will begin its work in the world. Dan. ii. 44.

The kingdoms of this world are given to the Christ when he comes. Dan. vii. 14; Rev. xi. 15-18. The resurrection of the righteous dead, and change of the living will take place before the kingdom is organized, for they reign with Jesus. Rev. v. 10; Dan. vii. 22, 27; 2 Tim. v. 12.

This reign with the Christ will begin with his coming. The first age will be one of conquest, the antitype of Canaan by Joshua. The judgments of God will be abroad in the earth. Psa. xcix. 1-9; Isa. xxvi. 9; Acts xvii. 31. This age of conquest and judgment, will be followed by the millennium or the 1000 years of Rev. xx.

There will also be a resurrection at the beginning of this second age. Rev. xx. 4. Those who come upon this resurrection, are the martyrs who were beheaded under the power of the beast, during the first age of the kingdom.

After the close of the millennium there will be an open rebellion of the forces of sin, which will be followed by severe judgments. Rev. xx. 7-9. This will be followed by a general resurrection of all the dead, at the beginning of the third, and last age before the harvest.

This will be the final age of probation. That there will be probation for those who never have had an opportunity in this life, there can be no doubt.

First, because Christ tasted death for every man; and because he is the true Light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world. Heb. ii. 9; John i. 9. Second, because the books are then opened. We always open up [illegible] at the beginning of business and when business is over we close them by settling the account. The dead are raised and the books are opened, that in them their works may be written; for they are judged by the things written in them.

After the books are opened, they will remain open until the close of the age, when the dead will be judged out of the things that were written in them; and we are told that whatsoever was not written in the Book of Life, was cast into the lake of fire, or the second death.

Then the harvest of the earth is ripe. The time has come for reaping. The angels will gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and they who do wickedly, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire. Matt. xiii. 41. Paul says that Christ must reign until he has put down all his enemies, when the kingdom will be given up to the Father, and God will be all in all. The wheat has been gathered into the garner. The righteous shine as the sun in the kingdom of the Father.

The Stone has become a great mountain and fills the whole earth. The three measures or ages have been harvested. Blade, ear and full corn have been rounded out, the harvest over, and the new heavens and new earth come in view.

A. J. EYCHANER.

Immortality.

"And God placed at the east gate of the garden of Eden, cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life." Gen. iii. 24.

The importance of the above quotation is apparently lost sight of by a vast majority of the professing religious world, and indeed, it may be safe to assume, that only those who hold to the primitive faith give it more than a passing thought.

The first three chapters of Genesis may well be called the a, b, c of man's relation towards God; and to fully understand our present and future condition, it is essential that we commit to memory these primary rules, and follow on, step by step, as God in his mercy, has unfolded his plan of redemption.

In these first three chapters we have an account of man's creation, showing that he was created in the image of the person of God, that he was a living soul and how he became so: we have also an account of the temptation, the fall, the sentence of death, the curse, the hidden promise of life in the Seed of the woman, and the guard placed over the tree of life.

There are a multitude of views in religious matters occasioned no doubt by the belief that God gave to man an entity of which no mention is made in the record: and that that entity or principle was immortal life. Eliminate that belief from the world, and you will create universal harmony so far as religion is concerned, and the many isms that are in existence today would become things of the past, for their foundation would be gone. It is very easy to ask why people believe they possess present immortality, but it is not so easy to answer.

In God's dealing with Adam, he made all things subject to him; gave him dominion over the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air; he was limited by only one thing. "Thou shalt not eat of the fruit of the tree in the midst of the garden, lest ye die." But he did eat, disobeyed the divine command, and the sentence of death passed upon him: forfeited his life by breaking the law of God, and not only his own life, but the lives of all men; for Paul says "Wherefore as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men for that all have sinned." Rom. vi. 12. We therefore conclude that all men are under the dominion of death on account of the sin of our first parents, and being under death's dominion, we necessarily are possessed of only mortal life.

But if the popular theory be true, for what purpose did God place a flaming sword in the way of the tree of life? "Oh, that was to keep Adam from eating of that particular tree." Why did not God want Adam to eat of the tree? "Well, ahem, the book says to keep him from living forever." Why that answer will hardly do, for according to your theory he was immortal and would live forever any way, so the prohibition would be of no use, as it would add nothing to his present estate, neither would there be any need of a Redeemer. But God is not mocked. He has a beneficent purpose in all he does, and it was only because of his infinite love and mercy for his creature, that he guarded the tree of life. God's ways are higher than our ways, and he desired to unfold a plan by which man might become supremely happy, and it was necessary for him to hold in his own grasp the power to destroy the cause of sin and evil. After the disobedience of Adam he became a sinner; and if he had had free access to the tree of life, he would surely have eaten thereof and thus have become an immortal sinner and sin with its concomitants of evil, would ever existed. Therefore God in his wisdom and mercy prevented such a dire calamity, by placing a guard over the tree of life; and as Adam was prevented from taking upon himself immortal life, he could transmit to posterity no other condition than that which he possessed. Therefore God in harmony with the promise to the woman, provided a way by which man might be redeemed from his fallen estate, and as "by the offence of one, judgment came upon all men to condemnation (of death), even so by the righteousness of One (Christ Jesus), the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life" (eternal). But the gift of the Son by whom we are reconciled unto God, changed not the natural estate of man toward his Creator. It gave man an opportunity of life through the Seed of the woman on the same conditions imposed in the garden of Eden, viz. obedience. Comply with the conditions and you will receive life, joyous eternal life. It is a free gift; but it will not be forced upon any. Come and buy without money and without price; "Come and drink of the water of life freely. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life." It is incumbent upon us to not only believe, have faith in the crucified One, but to our faith add the works of obedience, "which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession," ever growing in grace and knowledge, ever abounding in good works, and looking for the coming of our blessed Lord who shall change our vile bodies and fashion them like unto his own glorious body, and thus shall be ministered unto us an abundant entrance, into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Yours in hope,

MERRITT ELLIOTT.

OBITUARY.

Julia L. Williams fell asleep in Jesus at Morse Mills, Mo., April 10th, 1900, aged 31 years.

She was the daughter of Samuel and Ella Burrows. She was baptized 13 years ago by Bro. A. J. Eychaner. About 12 years ago she was married to J. F. Williams. They had two boys and one girl. Her affliction was rheumatism and typhoid fever, and while her suffering was great she never murmured nor complained, and exhorted all to be faithful, as we knew in whom we trusted, and that she would go to sleep, but would not sleep long as the Lord would soon come. She told her Baptist lady friends that she did not talk of it to hurt their feelings, but because she knew that we were right, and that she believed it true, that we did not go to heaven. All she worried about was her children and husband and friends. It seemed that God gave her strength to talk to her friends and to her neighbors, about the sleep of the dead. On the 11th we met at a Union Church in the County Seat of Jefferson Co., where I spoke to a large congregation of people, from Titus i. 2, "In hope of eternal life which God that cannot lie, promised before the world began." I put it in a new phase to them, and my prayer is to God that they will receive the truth in the same spirit as it was given to them. It seems that much good might be done here, and that new and seemingly strange doctrines may yet open the eyes of many these good listeners, and that they will understand and obey the truth is my prayer. Now comes the trial. How we will miss our dear Sister. Besides husband and children she leaves a mother, four or five sisters, one brother and many other relatives, also a number of good brothers and sisters in the church, and a host of other good and kind friends. Our dear Sister was always found at her place in the church or in her home. Dear Brothers and Sisters, let us try to live so as to meet her in the morning of the first resurrection.

JOHN FOORE.

"How violently do rumors blow the veils of popular judgments! How few there be that can discern between truth and truth-likeness, between shows and substance!"—Sir P. Sidney.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
B. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA. APRIL 25, 1900.

"LIFE'S evening will take its character from the day which preceded it."

IN many things a comprehensive survey of a subject is the shortest way of getting at a precise knowledge of a particular division of it.

THOLUCK truthfully says, "There is not a more repulsive spectacle than an old man who will forsake the world which is fast forsaking him."

LORD Palmerston once said that man by nature is a fighting and quarreling animal; and no material change seems to have come over his nature yet.

IF the servant of "the Lord must not strive towards all men," violence, and defiance, and scorn, and insult, are not the weapons of our warfare."

"WHAT we truly and earnestly aspire to be, that in some measure we are. The mere aspiration, by changing the frame of the mind, for the moment realizes itself."

HANNAH More once said, that there is one fact which offsets all the wit and argument of infidelity, the fact that no one ever repented of Christianity on his death-bed.

LUTHER'S definition of saving faith was as follows: "Saving faith is not an intellectual assent to a system of doctrine superior to reason, but a personal trust on God in Christ,—appropriation of God's personal Word and promise of redeeming love."

CHRISTIANITY does not consist of talking about Christ, but walking after him. Christ has many to follow after him in the calm, who fly from him in the storm. Withered leaves fall off in windy weather, so do dry professors in time of temptations. They that endure to the end shall be saved."

IN answer to the question, where is the kingdom of God to be established? First, Daniel says that the kingdom "under the whole heaven" will be God's kingdom: that means on earth. Second, it will be where the four great kingdoms, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Grecia and Rome were. They are removed to make a place for it.

MAX Mueller says there is, between the whole animal kingdom on the one side, and man even in his lowest estate, on the other, a barrier which no animal has ever crossed, and that barrier is, language. By no effort of understanding, by no stretch of imagination, can I explain to myself how language could have grown out of any thing which animals possess, even if we granted them millions of years for that purpose. Valuable testimony!

VISITORS at a plantation in the South had a conversation with an old colored man, who, in answer to the question:—"Will you not soon die? You are an old man. Where do you expect to go, said, "I think I shall go to the good land." "Why do you think you will go there?" "I cannot tell; but the nearer I come to death, somehow, Jesus and I get nearer together." Of course we could not recommend the poor old man's hope, for which he could not give a reason; but we just want to ask you, reader, if the hope, based upon the promise and oath of God, of the soon coming of Christ our life, has the practical effect of getting Jesus and you nearer together? If not, why not?

CUYLER says the mightiest sermon Jesus ever preached began "When he was accused of the chief priests and elders," and "answered nothing." Then said Pilate unto him, "Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee? And he answered them never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly." Matt. xxvii. 12-14. There is not much marvel among sinners when saints revile when they are reviled. That is perfectly natural. They make up their mind that they (saints?) are no better than themselves. If when reviled, abused, slandered and aggravated, they "answered nothing," they would marvel as did Pilate. Think of Jesus who was subject to temptation, and was tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin."

"THERE are no greater self-deceivers than those who think they reason when they only feel."

"All for the Best."

That we some times hear an old pilgrim say, when a dark cloud passes over him, knows something of the peace there is in Christ. It shows confidence in the assertion that all things shall work together for good, to them that love God and are the called according to his purpose. Experience has taught the veteran soldiers that it pays to trust God in the dark. Things that looked so forbidding at first, have resulted so differently from what was looked for in the natural course of things, that they have been brought into our habitual expectation of sunshine after a storm. We feel confident, that even in these days of widespread apostacy and declension, there are some who say without cant, "All for the best," when as yet the how and the why is not discernable. These thoughts were suggested by reading an anecdote of Bernard Gilpin. He was to be tried for his faith in God,—and expected to be put to death. He was known to be in the habit of saying: "It is all for the best." On starting for London to be tried for his life, he broke his leg. In derision one of his associates said to him, "I suppose you think this is for the best?" "Of course," said he, "'tis for the best my leg is broken;" and so it proved. Before he was well enough to go to London, Queen Mary died, and instead of going to London to be burned for Christ's sake he went home free. It is always for the best. "All things work together for good to them who love God."

Matthew xxv.

"Bro. Joblin, please explain the meaning of Matt. xxv., and more especially the 32nd verse, and on to the end of the chapter. When does the scene there take place, at Christ's first appearing, or at the end of the millennial reign? 2nd, When do little children come up, if so revealed? And are they put on probation, if so revealed, and where is the proof? These questions have been raised here, and cannot be settled, apparently. Please answer through THE RESTITUTION, and oblige your brother in the hope of the gospel."

J. F. METTLER.

We would suggest that if a careful survey of the 24th chapter be taken, it will be seen that although it is in answer to three distinct questions, a large part of it refers to ONE of the questions,—viz: the sign of the Lord's coming. And the first word of the 25th, "Then," shows that the division of the chapter is an arbitrary one, by referring to events just related in the preceding chapter; and the parables of lead up directly to the coming of the Son of Man, when he shall sit upon the throne of glory promised him,—the throne of his father David; and which according to his own promise in Rev. iii. 21, is to be shared by all who overcome. We are distinctly told that these will be welcomed with "Well done, good and faithful servants, enter into the joy of thy Lord;" and the 34th verse of our chapter has become with us a sort of a stereotyped quotation, as it were to be addressed to his associate kings and priests. But on carefully considering the matter, the 32nd and 33rd verses seem to throw the old ideas out of joint. This verse does not comport with the fact that the Lord is coming as a thief in the night to the world,—and even before a clearance is made for the erection of David's tabernacle, as in the days of old. After immortalization the saints appear with him on the Mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, while the throne of David is yet in ruins. They co-operate with him in clearing the territory of the kingdom of his enemies, so that the restoration of the kingdom to Israel may take place,—or in other words,—

THE VIRGINS AND TALENTS

THE KINGDOM OF GOD

be set up. It is after he has come in his glory that all nations are gathered before him; and it would appear that it is as NATIONS he deals with them, not as individuals. We are not surprised that the enquirer and those with him should be perplexed, because there is a vague idea by many that this is a general assize of good, bad and indifferent of

ALL AGES AND CLIMES.

The fact that the saints are to judge the world in association with Jesus will preclude any such thought; they will be with him when this gathering of the nations takes place; they will have been taken out of the nations on the principle of faith and obedience for this purpose. Power over [illegible] tions was offered them as an [illegible] ment to steadfastness. Rev. [illegible] For our part, we see no way to [illegible] the conclusion that mean all nations; the ground [illegible] the awards seem to show this. [illegible] is no mention of faith, repentance or baptism, on the one part, or [illegible] faith or apostacy on the other, but the nations as nations, appear to be rewarded and punished as nations, on the basis of their treatment [illegible] brethren. Inasmuch as ye [illegible] or did not, to one of the least [illegible] my brethren, ye did it to me. [illegible] are to be two classes of Jesus' brethren at that time, as now,—those who became such by

ALL NATIONS

FAITH, AND OBEDIENCE

to the gospel of Christ and the Israelites fleshwise. There are three parties before the throne,—the goat nations, the sheep nations, and the brethren of the King who had been befriended. In this connection it might be well to read of Jehovah's love for Israel as [illegible] in Isa. lxiii. 9, "In all their affliction he was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and in his pity he redeemed them and he bore them, and carried them all the days of old;" and also Zech. ii. 8, where the prophet says to Israel," he that toucheth you, toucheth

THE APPLE OF HIS EYE.

And how much of tender solicitude is manifested by God through Isaiah, chapter xvi. 4, "Let my outcasts dwell with thee, Moab; be thou a covert to them from the face of the spoiler." Taking these and other like Scriptures in connection with Matt. xxv., and remembering that we learn from the 3rd chapter of Joel that when the captivity of

JUDAH AND JERUSALEM

shall end, God says, "I will gather all the nations and bring them into the valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people, and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.....Let the nations be awakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat, for all the nations round about".....The Lord also shall roar out of Zion and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth shall shake, but the Lord will be the strength of the children of Israel. Prove all things, dear brother, and hold fast to that which is good. It is for you to decide whether or not these scenes depicted by the prophets are the same as those in Matt. xxv. We think they are, and expect to, until we get a better light upon it. And if this be true, then those nations who have befriended Israel will be the blessed of the Father,—while those who have scattered and peeled them shall be utterly annihilated. In Zech. i. 14, 15 we read, "I am and for Zion with a great jealousy, and I am sore displeased with the nations, that are at ease, for I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction." Of course some will think that the words "These shall go away into aglastling life, cannot apply to nations." But why not? There are to be nations in the kingdom of God, why may they not exist

THERE WILL I SIT TO JUDGE

JEALOUS FOR JERUSALEM

ALL THROUGH THE AGES

And although they do not have the honor of the thousand years,—are not of the first-fruits,—that does not say they shall not be of the afterfruits, or full harvest when God shall be all in all. But our advice is, to turn on the search light,—like our enquirer, we want all the lights we can get, and are ready for the exchange of darkness for light at any time.

The second question is easily disposed of. What is revealed belongs to us: secret things belong to God. If there be PROOF that little children come up we do not know where it is. It will be time enough to answer the question of their probation, when the proof of their rising is before us. Let us not be wise above what is written.

News Notes.

A big battle is likely being fought near Wepener between the British and Boers. There is no more talk of investigation to stop the war, but it is thought Russia will lead in demanding a readjusting of matters so as to preserve the "balance of power" when the war is over.

Considerable attention is given now to the trouble between Turkey and the United States. Several years ago a claim was made by this country on account of the killing of some missionaries. The settlement was arranged all but the payment, and Turkey failing to hand over the money, has put our government out, to the extent that a threat is made to send our warships to Smyrna and seize the customs house. The other nations are having trouble with the Turks also on account of the increase in import duties. Several "joint notes" have been sent, but so far without effect.

The German Press sparingly discusses the movement in Italy for a new Latin alliance as disclosed by the discussion of the Emperor Franz Josef's traveling plans in the Italian press. Italy's discontent with the dreibund appears to be deeper than has been supposed.

A dispatch from Tangier, says:—"A special delegate from the Sultan of Morocco has arrived here on a mission of protest on behalf of his master against the French advance to the oasis of Tuat, a proceeding which he considers a usurpation of his rights over the territory. The outlook is not hopeful in regard to the future of Morocco, as Spain and France, it is believed, have an understanding as to their action in this country."

It is reported and believed in diplomatic circles that Emperor Francis Joseph, during his visit to Berlin, will ask the consent of the Kaiser to the occupation of Macedonia by Austria. This project has been the subject of communication for months between the Austrian, Russian, and German Foreign Ministers. Italy has been kept advised, but has made no protest.

"Pope Deals a Hard Blow."

[The above heading is found over an article in the Chicago Tribune of April 22, and not only tells of the action of the Pope in suppressing the most important paper of the Assumptionist Society, but gives such a complete account of the workings of this order, that we venture to give it place in our paper.—ED.]

The proceedings by the government of France against the "Congregation of the Augustin Fathers of the Assumption" afforded a deep and instructive view into the inner workings of the strongest organization of the French Clericals. It turns out that the Assumptionists are also undoubtedly the strongest political organization in France. While the Jesuits and the Dominican Fathers confine themselves chiefly to educational affairs, with particular regard to the sons of the middle classes—the bourgeois—to pave for them the way to the higher public administrative functions, especially in the army and navy, the Assumptionists devote themselves to the task of the political development of the masses for the purpose of obtaining public office by means of the ballot for the Clerical politicians.

The order of the Assumptionists was founded in 1850, ostensibly for purely religious purposes. Its object was to be the "extension of the empire of Jesus Christ." The present trial has shown, however, that the actuality of the aims was the extension of the political power of the Clericals by other means than those at the disposal of the various Jesuit organizations. It appears that the first thirty years of the existence of the Assumptionists was indeed devoted to the perfection of the inner organization of the order. Moreover the cause of the Clericals was, in the period from 1850 to 1880—during the second empire and the Clerical-monarchistic reign of the first decade of the third republic—officially strong enough to forego the agitatorical activity of the Assumptionists. Their public political activity began in 1886 with the founding of La Croix [the Cross,] a political daily paper. This was three years after the expulsion of all religious organizations not authorized by law. Last Tuesday's cable dispatches told of the suppression of La Croix by the Pope.

The "expulsion" noted is quite characteristic for the method of the campaign against the Clericals by the Republicans. The latter, immediately after the defeat of the Clerical-monarchistic faction, passed the decrees of expulsion, in 1880. But those expelled, among them the Jesuits and Assumptionists, were soon after permitted, with or without change of name, to resume their activity. The law of 1886 concerning the secularizing of the school and the taxing of religious congregations was not much more effective.

The progress of the Assumptionists was particularly rapid during the last few years. The records of this order, which were produced in court, show that there are upward of 400 "fathers," beside an unknown number of "brethren" and novices, and that they own in France fourteen important estates, of which the most valuable are in Paris, Livry, Nimes, Bordeaux, and Arras. The order has also valuable property elsewhere, chiefly in Italy, Belgium, and the Orient. In France the Assumptionist Fathers are officially but "tenants" of the buildings which they use, and in this way they escape the tax upon religious congregations. Thus, the search of the building in Paris, which serves as headquarters for the central administration, resulted in the finding of a "lease" between the fathers and the alleged owner. Attached to this lease was a revers in the which the ownership of the fathers was acknowledged. This particular property has a value of $250,000, conservatively estimated.

The most important means of agitation of the order is its press. The Paris "House of the Good Press" prints every week 12,500,000 copies of various newspapers and periodicals, which are circulated all over France. The Almanach Pontifical Catholique, the papal annual for 1899, contains the following figures concerning the Assumptionist press at the beginning of 1898:

The Daily Cross—the names of the publications are as a matter of convenience given in the English translation—180,000 copies; the Sunday Cross, 510,000 copies; the Cross of the Seamen, 10,000 copies; the Pilgrim, 176,000 copies; the Lives of the Saints, 500,000 copies; the Cosmos, 4,000 copies; the Actual Questions, 7,000 copies; the Contemporary, 35,000 copies; the Christmas, 10,000 copies and the Sunday Gossip, 155,000 copies.

The principal and central organ was the Paris Cross, which, during the Dreyfus affair, was the most rabid of all anti-Dreyfus organs. It had ninety-six subeditions for provinces, concerning which exact figures cannot be given, but it can be stated as a fact that these provincial editions exceed those of the most widely read French newspapers, the famous Petit Journal, with its daily edition of 600,000, not excepted.

The Petit Journal, by the way, is also a clerical organ, but not published under the auspices of the Assumptionists.

Each provincial Cross forms the central point for the secular organization connected with the congregation of the province. The provincial Cross committees are so numerous that a separate paper, the Croix des Comites, is published for them to facilitate the uniform working of the committees.

The activity of the Assumptionists is regulated by a committee known as "Justice-Egalite," which is nominally independent. It was founded in 1890 and is managed by Father Adeodat. All resources of the order are at the disposal of this committee. All the pious leagues of the Assumptionists, of which there are about forty in the shape of "sodalities," serve for the furtherance of election work. In an instruction of the central committee, in which the most detailed provisions for a "good election" are given, it is frankly stated as main purpose of the Assumptionist agitation "to have an administration above the administration, a municipality in the municipality, a minor judiciary beside the judiciary." This would seem to indicate a state within the state. It is even said that the Assumptionists have regular secret service of their own, so well organized and so closely guarded that the recent investigation could only disclose traces of it.

The first great action of the Assumptionists developed in the election for the national Legislature in 1898. They were particularly successful at that time, because they worked hand in hand with the Meline government. In the organ of the Central committee, L'Œuvre Electorale (Election Work), the number of Assumptionist delegates is given at twenty-five, including, of course, all the Nationalist-anti-Semitic notabilities.

The Assumptionist investigation has so far resulted only in some palliative measures proposed by the government, which are not considered as being of any incisive or lasting effect. The economic basis of the congregation's power and influence remains unchanged, and the demand for a confiscation of the order's property, made by a few extreme Radicals, has not found even a decent minority support in the national Legislature.

The most serious blow struck the order, therefore, was the suppression of the Cross, the Pope giving as a reason that religious orders should not print newspapers.

Sowing the Seed.

In the 4th chapter of Colossians 5th and 6th verses we read as follows, "Walk in wisdom toward them that are without redeeming the time. Let your speech be alway with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man." In Ephes. v. 14-17, we read, "Awake thou that sleepeth, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time because the days are evil. Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." Do as commanded in 1 Peter iii. 15, "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason for the hope that is in within you. In John ix. 5, we find him who spake as never man spake, saying, "As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world." But hundreds of years ago he went away. Then where is the light of the world now?

Listen to him in Matt. v. 13, 14, 15, 16. Addressing his disciples, he says, "Ye are the salt of the earth, but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." The disciples took up the work where Christ left off, and as his disciples we should continue the work. While we should not persistently present the truth to those who scoff at it, at the same time every opportunity should be embraced to present it to those who have ears to hear. A bride for the Bridegroom has to be selected. We have heard the joyful sound, we know the law of pardon and its conditions. We have laid hold of the hope set before us in the Word of truth, a life of unfading glory in the promised kingdom of God on earth. We are not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation. The present age requires men and women who will be valiant for the truth. Men and women whom no favor can allure, who can scorn the world's frown. The conflict may be a hard one, but the end will be glorious. Reader, have you entered the ranks in opposition to infidelity in every form? Are you one of them? If not, I pray you decide quickly. Time is short and the work is urgent.

JAMES C. THOMPSON.

"Neither human applause nor human censure is to be taken as a test of the truth: but either should set us upon testing ourselves."—Bishop Whately.

"When the millions applaud you, seriously ask yourself what harm you have done; when they censure you, what good."—Colton.

Attractive Summer Resort.—Winona Lake, on the Pennsylvania Lines.

Rest, recreation, entertainment and instruction, amid delightful surroundings and congenial company, are the attractions offered by Winona Lake, the pretty resort on the Pennsylvania Lines in Northern Indiana.

This resort is the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, and is annually visited by many persons who are strengthened in mind by the excellent facilities for educational work, and invigorated in body by the health-giving influences for which Winona Lake is famous.

May 15th marks the opening of the season for 1900, and commencing that date excursion tickets to Winona Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. For particular information on the subject of rates and time tables apply to Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburgh, Pa. Information about attractions at Winona Lake, entertainment, the Summer School sessions, etc., will be furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to Mr. S. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind.—june 80

Excursion to Chicago via Pennsylvania Lines.

April 30th and May 1st for Admiral Dewey reception low round trip non-transferable excursion tickets will be sold to Chicago via Pennsylvania Lines; and good returning until Thursday May 3d. Elaborate preparations will be made to welcome Admiral Dewey to the metropolis of the west on the second anniversary of the battle of Manilla.

For Our Children.

The Little Grumbler.

He begins in the morning to grumble,
He says that he's called too soon,
And he'll keep right on while dressing
With the same old whining tune.
Then when he goes to his breakfast,
If it don't suit, how he'll growl!
When you do your best to please him
He is very apt to scowl.

When his hands are all how you're washing,
Be careful—he's sure to cry;
He don't see the use of such rubbing,
He says, with a dreadful sigh.
But still don't call him dirty,
If his hands and face are soiled,
For it greatly offends this fellow,
Who by grumbling may be spoiled.

Yes, dear little grumbler, remember
That when you become a man,
This fretting will then be chronic,
If you don't stop it now, while you can.
If you only could see, my darling,
That from care your life is now free;
By and by will come the trials—
Very happy now you should be.

—Alice Penney Hurd.

Dear Restitution:

I live in northern Wisconsin. We have no minister here, but we have THE RESTITUTION and mamma teaches me that Christ will come again. I want to be good so I can live with him. Mr. Wagoner has been here with us. We think so much of him; I hope he can come again. I am nine years old, I will try and write better next time. From your friend,

HERMIE HILLS.

The Story of Israel. No. 96.

BALAK AND BALAAM.

"You thought we would not remember where the lesson was, Auntie, but here it is. Num. xxii. 37."

"Pretty well done, Edna, you marked the place, did you not?"

"No, I did not think of that: I just kept saying over to myself, where it was, and then, I couldn't forget. That is the way Mr. Fay tells us to do when we want to remember anything. He says, 'Think of it on the way home from school, and when you first get up in the morning and when you are out playing on the pond.' We all tried it and found it a good way."

"It is an excellent plan Edna, and I wish all who listen to Bible lessons or to sermons, would take the same course, they would learn some thing then. But we must get at our story. Balak had met with Balaam when we left off at the 37th verse. He scolded him a little at first, for not coming at once when he sent for him, but was pacified when Balaam told him that God had held him back, and even now, he could only speak that which God should put into his mouth.

Then they went on together to Kirgathuzoth, the city of streets, Balak's capital, and there Balak offered oxen and sheep and sent them to Balaam and to the princes that were with him.

"But why did he offer them first, Auntie, that is the way God's priest's did; was he trying to be like them?"

"No, dear, but idol-worshiping people seem to have had the same custom of offering animals to their gods, and of saving the whole or a portion of them for their priests. It was considered as paying an act of worship to the idol, to eat of the food that had been offered to him. God prohibited his people from eating meats that had been so offered. That is one reason why Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego would not touch the fine roasts and delicate cakes, that were brought to them from King Nebuchadnezzar's table. To eat them would have been to defile themselves with the awful sin of idol-worship.

After Balaam had been feasted to his heart's content, and had had a good night's rest, Balak 'brought him up into the high places of Baal,' that from thence 'he might see the utmost part of the people' of Israel. The altars of this god were usually built on high mountains and hills. Travelers say there is such a place on one of the high cliffs at Petra,—a ruined city of the ancient Edomites. Baal is the same god that was worshiped at Babylon, under the name of Bel.

We come now to the 23d chapter. After Balaam had looked over the country and had seen the camp of the Israelites, he ordered the King of Moab to build seven altars."

"What for, Auntie? I thought the king had taken Balaam, 'into the high places of Baal, already."

"He had taken him up into the mountains that were consecrated to the worship of this god, but there seem to have been no altars there. The heathen altars were often very simple affairs. You could see some of them still were you to travel in England and Ireland. They were formed by laying very large stones on one another, or by cutting them out of the solid rock. The ones on the cliffs of Petra was out out and formed a kind of basin, where sacrifices could be offered.

"But why build seven altars? Was not one enough?"

"Seven was a sacred number, Jessie, and Balaam used it, no doubt, because he was to make his appeal to the living God, and get from him the answer that he sought. Seven days make one week, and seven thousand years another or great week of the world's age. It is a perfect number.

All the letters and words of the Greek New Testament are numbered by sevens, and this is one way to tell that God had the writing of it done, because no other book has ever been written in such a way. It is the same in the Hebrew Bible. Seven oxen and seven rams were offered; one of each, on every altar, and then Balaam made Balak stand by his burnt offering, while he went off to see if the Lord would meet him. And the Lord did meet him, (through his angel) and told him just what to say to Balak. And when he had returned, he said, 'You, O King, brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the east to curse the people of Jacob, and to defy Israel.' But "How shall I curse whom God hath not cursed, or how shall I defy them whom the Lord hath not defied? For from the top of the rock I see him, and from the hills I behold him; lo, the people shall dwell alone and not be reckoned among the nations. Who can count the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Israel? Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his."

"Why Auntie, that makes us think of the promises God made to Abraham in Genesis. He said there, that he would bless them who would bless the people or nation that was to come from Abraham, and would curse them that cursed that nation, and that he would make that people as the dust of the earth, so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then can that people also be numbered."

"But they could be counted in Balaam's time, could they not?"

"Yes, Edna, what Balaam said was prophetic of what would be. God was speaking through him and was telling us that his promises to his chosen people would yet be fulfilled. He has never given them up and he never will. For thousands of generations to come the people of Israel are still to be. You could never count them even now, if all of them who have ever lived were made to pass before you, one by one. How much less will we be able to count them, when they number millions, multiplied by millions!"

"But what does it mean, Auntie, where it says, 'the people shall dwell alone, and not be reckoned among the nations?'"

"It means that they shall be 'cut off' from other peoples and put in a land of their own, that they shall not be counted as belonging to the image-worshiping nations of Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece and Rome, but in religion, laws and manner of life shall be counted for God as on his side, separated for ever, to carry on his works in the world.

Balak did not like what Balaam said. He thought God would perhaps give a different answer from some other place, so he climbed to the top of Mount Pisgah and built seven altars there, and made the same offerings as before. But it was the same thing over again. God will not lie. He will not change his mind as man does. What he has said he will do. What he has spoken he will make good.

He had blessed Israel, and Balaam had no power to reverse the blessing. God was with Israel. It was he who had brought them out of Egypt and who had given them the strength of a unicorn or crowned horse that they might push their enemies to the ends of the earth. There was no enchantment that could be used against them. The time would come when it would be said of them, 'What hath God wrought!' so surprising would their greatness be, and the marvelousness of the blessings showered upon them."

"Will you let me ask a question, Auntie?"

"Certainly, Edna, what is it?"

"Did not the words, 'What hath God wrought!' form the first message sent over the ocean by the Atlantic cable?'"

"Yes, dear, but we cannot stop to talk about that now, but at the very time when it would be said of them, 'What hath God wrought' the people were to rise up as a great lion and lift up himself as a young lion, and not lie down until he had eaten the prey and had drank the blood of the slain."

"What does that mean, Auntie?"

"It looks as if it applied to the great battle that is to take place just before the coming of the Lord. God's people will not lie down in peace and safety until war is at an end.

Balak was still dissatisfied and brought Balaam to another place, where other altars were built and other sacrifices were made. But I see you are getting sleepy. Good night. Numbers xxiv. next time.

AUNTY WISE.

Communicated.

A Lecture.

I have been requested to speak on the subject of the brain of men and animals. It can be shown that the functions of the brain are in perfect harmony with the creation records. It has been and is accepted by many, with all the emphasis they are capable of giving to it, "That matter cannot think." Such persons seem to suppose that their assertions settles the matter at once and settles it forever that God is incapable of so constructing matter that it can think, and so they prove that the [illegible] who thinks has an immortal spirit, but by such assertions they prove too much; for if this theory is true, then all the animals have an immortal spirit as well, for I will give you conclusive evidence that animals both think and reason.

If such objectors had been present when Christ told the Jews that "God was able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham," they would have assured him that it could not be done; for these stones were material. Christ did not say that God could make bodies out of these stones for spirits of the seed of Abraham to dwell in. We are told in God's Word, that, "He made man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul," and man was told that because he had transgressed against God's laws that he would return to the ground from whence he was taken.

Men and animals are all alike made of the dust of the ground, and if allowed, will all return to mother earth sooner or later.

There are a few, such as the Theosophists, who contend that animals have immortal spirits as well as men, and of course such persons will have no difficulties in their way when it is proved that animals can and do reason, but the great majority of professed believers in the Bible, who believe that man is an immortal spirit, strenuously object to the reasoning powers of animals, because, if logical they see that it destroys their theory.

It is an axiom among scientific men that if sufficient cause for a result is found no other cause need be sought for. Supposing that glass door behind you were suddenly broken, and you sent some one to find out the cause, he found a stone just inside the door which he knew was not there before the glass was broken, and looking out he saw a boy running away, and some children told him that they saw that boy throw the stone, he would be perfectly satisfied that he had found the cause, and he would not think it necessary to go to the Spiritualists and get them to try and find out if the spirits had any hand in the breakage. Apply this common-sense principle to the brain and what do we find?

Dr. Ferrer and other physiologists have proved for many years that electric currents applied to the brains of animals at different points causes different portions of their bodies to move and if that which controls the foot, say, is destroyed, the animal looses all power over that foot. It has also been proven that electric stimulation of the front part of the brain causes no motion to the body. Dr. Ferrer in order to test what was the functions of the front brain, cut it away in various intelligent monkeys preserving them alive afterwards for a time. He then found that the animal could still move about when stimulated, and could eat when food was presented to it, but all intellectual manifestations further than this was gone. The result of these experiments is, that all physiologists now, with rare exceptions recognized the front part of the brain as containing the intellectual organs. Just in proportion as the front brain is injured in men and animals it injures their intellectual ability to that extent. (Apart from the discoveries of Dr. Gall, the discoverer of phrenology which has been sadly abused by "Professors" who read bumps and tell fortunes, which Gall never dreamed of.) The medical faculty admit that the portion of brain immediately behind and above the eye gives the power of language and it is a well known fact that if this portion of brain is seriously injured the power of speech. If [illegible] upon the brain, the [illegible] unconscious and re- [illegible] the pressure is remov- [illegible] once, at the battle of [illegible] sailor was struck on the [illegible] ing block, a portion of [illegible] driven into the brain, [illegible] re, a number of months [illegible] depressed piece of skull [illegible] he at once sat up and [illegible] as the battle gone?" [illegible] owledge of what had oc- [illegible] e was struck. If the [illegible] an injury is not too [illegible] ted to a small part it [illegible] ptense activity of the [illegible] nce, a boy was kicked [illegible] n the side of the head; [illegible] be commenced to whistle [illegible] ncessantly until a sur- [illegible] d the wound and found [illegible] picula of bone had been [illegible] brain, when this was [illegible] stopped whistling. [illegible] tate of Ohio was [illegible] hold the [illegible] fence. W[illegible] raving ma[illegible] Newburg a[illegible] n for many years and was very [illegible] nt. After seventeen years his [illegible] prevailed upon Dr. Thayer to [illegible] what an operation would do, a[illegible] had been in[illegible] performed [illegible] she felt sure the brain [illegible] pointed out [illegible] ed, the operation was [illegible] ter the operation he was perfectly same, but had no knowledge of even[illegible] that occurred during that seventeen years. I might give you very many more illustrations of this fact, that just in proportion as the brain is injured so will the effects be on the body or mind. The brains of animals are not developed to anything like the extent that man's brain is, and various grades of animals differ immensely in their intellectual capacity on account of their development, but that they do reason the following facts will show; and their reasoning powers depend just like ourselves upon brain development and cultivation.

The Rev. Egerton R. Young, now living in Toronto, Canada, was formerly a Methodist Missionary to the Indians in the Northwest Territories, in an article in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly, Nov., 1899. The article is entitled "Do Animals Reason?" He gives many proofs of this fact. He had an Indian called Papanekis who set his net to catch fish coming down at the mouth of a river, the net was stretched on a rope across the stream and weighted at the bottom; when the net was hauled in and again let go the force of the stream set the net. One day Papanekis came to Young in a great state of excitement, and declared that the windegoo or the devil was taking the fish out of the net and leaving only their heads in the net, and that he, the Indian was going to leave. Young laughed at his fears and got him to construct a place near by among some trees and watch. Papanekis with another Indian got there very early in the morning. "They eagerly scanned every point of vision, and for a time could observe nothing unusual."

"Hush" said one, "see that dog."

It was Caesar, cautiously skulking along the trail. He would frequently stop and sniff the air. Fortunately for the Indian watchers the wind was blowing towards them, and so the dog did not catch their scent. On he came in a quiet yet swift gait until he reached the spot where Papanekis stood when he pulled in the net. He gave a searching glance in every direction, and then he set to work. Seizing the rope in his teeth, Caesar strongly pulled it in it, while rapidly backed up, [illegible] the trail. Then walking on the rope to the waters edge as it lay on the ground, to keep the pressure of the current from dragging it in, he again took a fresh grip upon it and repeated the process. This he did until the sixty feet of rope was hauled in and the end of the net was reached to which it was attached. The net he now hauled in little by little keeping his feet firmly upon it, to securely hold it down. As he drew it up, several varieties of inferior fish, such as suckers, mullets, pike or jack fish, were at first observed. To them Caesar paid no attention. He was after the delicious white fish, which does as well as human beings prefer to other kinds. When he had perhaps hauled twenty feet of the net, his cleverness was rewarded by the sight of a fine white fish. Still holding the net with its struggling captives securely down with his feet, he began to devour the white fish. Papanekis and his comrade had seen enough and they rushed on him and gave him a thrashing."

Rev. Young gives many more illustrations in his article proving conclusively that dogs can and do reason. In this same journal is a letter from Mr. H. C. Hall. In part he says:—"Some years ago, before the establishment of the National Geological Park in this city (Washington) Dr. Frank Baker, the curator kept a small nucleus of animals in the rear of the National Museum; among this collection were several monkeys. On a hot summer day, as I was passing the monkey cage I handed to one of the monkeys a large piece of fresh molasses taffy. The animal at once carried it to his mouth and commenced to lick it. The candy was somewhat soft, and stuck to the monkey's paws. He looked at his paws, licked them with his tongue and then turned his head from side to side looking about the cage. Then taking the candy in his mouth, he sprang to the further end of the cage and picked up a wad of brown paper: this ball of paper he carefully unfolded and laying it down on the floor of the [illegible] with both paws [illegible] smoothed it out to his satisfaction he took the taffy from his mouth and laid it in the center of the paper and folded the paper over the candy, leaving a part of it exposed. He then sat down on his haunches and ate the candy, first wiping one paw and then the other upon his lips, just as any boy or man might do. If that monkey did not show reason what would you call it?

In the East Indies I have seen very many instances of elephants reasoning closely. For instance, the leader of a drove of elephants will always try a bridge to see if it will vibrate to a [illegible] and if it does, not one of them will put a foot on it.

When animals can reason with their brains, man can do the same, who are gifted with a much larger share of them. Consequently the whole of the man was made of the dust of the ground, as the Scriptures tell us, and it is only by and through Jesus Christ that we can become immortal, or receive spirit nature, until then we are creatures of the dust, wither like the grass, are soon cut off. In death man knows not anything, for his brain in the mean time is destroyed, but if we come in Christ now, believe in his promises he will raise us up at the last day. If we do not accept his offer now we will be utterly destroyed both root and branch, not by being roasted in a horrible hell-fire forever and ever as people used to describe, but of which they are now somewhat ashamed, but by dying the second death after judgment. Now is the day of our salvation, and it is our privilege and duty to accept God's offer and enjoy his favor through the endless ages of eternity in spirit nature. Those who deny his Word have no eternal life abiding in them. Those who believe and obey shall be saved.

DR. WALLACE MASON.

Contentment.

"But godliness with contentment is great gain." 1 Tim. vi. 6.

Yes, if people were only content with their lot in life, what a different world this would be. There would be no such thing as jealousy, or discord, there would be no more lusting after wealth that we might outdo someone who has more of this world's goods than we have, but it would cause us to use what we do possess in a more godly way. Contentment would cause us to live more peaceable and quiet lives, it would lead us to be more truthful and upright in all our dealings with our fellowmen, it would lead us to live such lives as would be good and acceptable to God; which will in the end be far more precious to us than all the wealth of the entire world. For Paul says, "The love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." 1 Tim. vi. 10. While money is in itself harmless, and is a necessity under the present dispensation as a medium of exchange, and it is necessary for us to labor to accumulate some of this world's goods for the support of our families, for Paul tells us, "If any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." 1 Tim. v. 8. I for one do not want to be classed as an infidel, or as one that has denied the faith, but I do want to live in that form of godliness that brings contentment, for says Paul, "They that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil." It was Judas' love for money that caused him to betray the Master; I have heard it said that Judas probably thought that Jesus would save himself from his persecutors. Admitting this to be the facts of the case, it does not make the crime any the less on the part of Judas, for it seems that he had premeditated the crime before hand, and Paul says, "If we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries." Heb. x. 26, 27.

I will not try to enumerate the different crimes that the love for money has been the cause of. We cannot pick up a newspaper without reading of some crime that has been committed for money, and Paul tells us, "That some covet after it so strong, that they have erred from the faith," and he goes on and exhorts the brethren to shun every thing that has the appearance of evil; and he says, "But thou, O man of God, flee these things; [illegible] the good fight of [illegible] of eternal [illegible] called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses." 1 Tim. vi. 11.

Oh, dear brothers and sisters in Christ, are we trying to build up a character in this life, that will lead us into that straight and narrow way that leadeth unto life eternal; or do we continue in the broad way that leads to destruction? I tell you, dear brothers and sisters in the faith, it is the work that we do in this life that fits us for an inheritance in the everlasting kingdom of God. The Apostle Peter tells us what kind of a character to build, and if we would take his advice we would build up a character that no man on this earth could tear down; he tells us that after we have laid hold of those "Exceeding great and precious promises." That we must "Add to our faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity; for if these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ, but he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins." 2 Tim. i.

Now if we will study these things and try to do them, we will finally root out of our hearts, to a great extent, the wicked elements that flesh is heir to. We know it is easier said than done, but we have the assurance that, "If ye do these things, ye shall never fall; for so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." Yes, dear friends, we must build a character on those principles before we are fit to become joint-heirs with Christ in the everlasting kingdom of God. O, it is the prayer of my heart, that we may one and all so live, as to gain an abundant entrance into the kingdom of God. Let us bear in mind, that if we sow to the flesh we shall of the flesh reap corruption; and if we sow to the wind, we shall reap the whirlwind. "But if we sow to the Spirit, we shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." And now may the love of God dwell and abide with you all is my prayer.

JOS. WILLIAMS.

Editor Restitution:

I would like to say a few words to the dear brothers and sisters about a few sentences of Scripture, which I think is a little misunderstood. We read 1 Tim. vi. 15, "Christ will then show himself King of kings, Lord of the lords of the earth, and at that time when these kings and lords of the earth gather against him, he will be the only King among them that is immortal. This looks to me like the correct teaching in his words here, for at this time of which he is speaking the saints will have put on immortality, for that time of which he is speaking will be after he has come for his saints and returned to earth with all his saints. Another Scripture which Jesus said to Martha about her supper; she called on Mary because she could not attend to so many different kinds of food. Christ says but one thing is needful; if he had said only one dish is necessary, that seems to be the idea. He might have said and perhaps did, "Martha I have made many dinners from a crust of barley bread." He and his disciples lived very plain. We see it by some of his miracles.

C. ISHAM.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

"Charity Covereth a Multitude of Sins."

This beautiful poem by the late Mrs. Henry, seems so tender and appropriate in these times of lukewarm indifference, when strife and discord arising often from trifling causes, grow into such proportions as to cause alienation among brethren in the Church of God. Instead of hiding a brother's faults, and bearing him up by encouraging words of sympathy and kindness, his faults are magnified, and he is made to feel that his room is worth more than his company. God help us to reflect long enough on this matter of judgment upon another, to recognize our own frailties. To first consider whether we may not be in need of a mantle of some kind to hide us from the scorn and sport of the passer by. Let us rejoice that heaven has been so merciful as to prepare a mantle, sin-covering for us, and not refuse to spread its ample folds with loving hands over the erring for Christ's dear sake. "When one member suffers the whole body suffers." Our anxiety to bring others to a better way than those whom the Lord has given us already, to wander away and perish is not the part of a faithful shepherd.

A. B. WINES.

"All day long at the loom of love,
A beautiful angel sat and wove.
The woof was of silver threads of light,
The warp was gossamer dainty white,
Headed with dew from the tender skies,
That lay in the depths of the angel's eyes.

Back and forth the shuttle flew,
Weaving a web of texture new.
Nothing like it in heaven was known,
From the veil that hung before the throne,
To the robe like robes, so strangely fair,
That the star-eyed infant angels wear.

Nothing like it in earth was seen.
From the Summer morning's golden sheen
To the drapery draped of a winter night,
O'er the window pane of crystal white.
Naught in earth or heaven so fair,
That with this web it could compare.

As the pattern grew, a sweet surprise,
Came, more and more in the angel eyes.
And the Rose of Sharon upon her cheek
Blushed faintly, and as if to speak,
Her lips were open, no one by one
The threads flashed through till the work was done.

Alone in silence the angel wrought,
The secret of her holy thought;
Something was sealed down there below,
In sin-cursed world of death and woe,
To hide from the sight of earth and heaven,
The stains of sin by Christ forgiven.

Something to hide the faults of men,
From the vulture's eyes, whose greedy ken
Hunted them out, by night and day,
That human souls might be its prey.
To meet this want the angels wove,
That wonderful web in the loom of love.

And she fashioned a mantle, with sweeping train,
That nothing of earth could ever stain;
A mantle for Christians hands to take,
And backward bear, for Christ's dear sake,
And cast wherever a soul doth lie
In shame, a sport for the passer by."

—Mrs. S. M. I. Henry.

An Earnest Appeal to all the Brotherhood of the Church of God.

Seeing the great need of better order and a more thorough knowledge of the work being done for the cause of truth most certainly believed and accepted by the Church of God in the United States and the Territories; at the Annual Conferences in Michigan and Indiana last June, measures were taken to meet this end, viz:—A committee was appointed, consisting of B. W. Woodward, of the Michigan Conference, and A. H. Zilmer of the Indiana Conference, to issue a call to each and every Conference Board in said States and Territories, and to all churches where there are no organized conferences, to report immediately to Bro. A. H. Zilmer, the number of recognized ministers in each conference, also the number and value of church buildings; also let the secretaries of the different churches report the number of members in each church or isolated members they may have a knowledge of, also that any isolated member who may see this call, report their names or any others they may know of, to Bro. Zilmer.

At the last census taken the Census Department wrote me to know the strength of our church body, and I was not able to give them much light on the subject. Now, brethren, by an earnest effort on the part of all, we will approximate the facts very closely. The census will soon be taken again—they will again ask for the facts, and we will want a correct statement. The government demands it, and is justly entitled to it. Do not lay this paper aside and forget all about it. It is a duty; do it at once—TODAY. Address all communications to A. H. Zilmer, Rensselaer, Indiana.

B. W. WOODWARD,
A. H. ZILMER,
Committee.

Conference Notice.

To the brethren greeting:

The quarterly conference of Beloit District will convene at the Pleasant Hill school house near Bro. Peter Hulls on May 11, 1900, and continue over Sunday in Jell Co., Kan., 9 miles southwest of Mancater and 5 miles northeast of Iona, 18 miles north of Glenelder. Come one and all and let us have a good meeting.

Yours in hope of eternal life,
T. H. OWENS, Pres.
WM. BARNET, Sec.

Notice.

The brethren and friends interested in the June meeting at the Antioch church, Marshall Co., Ind., are requested to meet at the church April 28, 1900 at 2:00 P. M. to decide whether it is advisable to hold a meeting this year, and to attend to the business pertaining thereto. The officers constituting the Conference Executive Board are specially requested to beat the meeting.

To the Brethren of the Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The time will soon be here for tent work, and as the tent needs some repairs, we ask all that have subscribed to the work to send in the amount of your subscription, and all others who will help in the work send in what you can.

The work this year, with the possible exception of one meeting will be down the state line, south from Kansas City.

We want to get into the field at the earliest possible moment.

I think the reason the brethren do not receive greater blessings in their work is that they have gone out of the way. I would recommend that all the brethren read Malachi iii. 7-12. If the Lord would bless the united effort and obedience in that day, will he not do it now?

Brethren, let us lay aside our differences and enter the work with the "Gospel of the Kingdom," as our cry. Let us support the work with our best energies, our prayers and substance and the Lord will certainly bless our labors.

Send all money to P. H. Oatman, 2711 Olive St., St. Joseph, Mo.

A. W. DANBY, Sec.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

A Sister in the Faith,	1.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	1.75
W. D. Townsend,	8.00

TRACTS FOR SALE.

"My reasons for withdrawing from the Evangelical Association." A brief statement of the truths set forth by the holy prophets. 24 pages. To be had from the author at 5 cents per copy, or 25 copies for $1. Address A. H. Zilmer, Rensselaer, Ind.

The Gospel of the Kingdom.

Advocated in a series of Ten Discourses. A Volume of 283 pages, cloth 25 cents, leather bound, embossed, and gilt edges, $1.00. By Wiley Jones. This book is so well known that it is only necessary to announce that it is for sale, to insure a market for it. We have undertaken to dispose of these books for the Widow of our lamented Brother Jones, and while getting them at this low price, you at the same time will help Sister Jones to much-needed money.

Methodist General Conference at Chicago, May 2nd to 31st inclusive. Tickets are available from stations on the Nickel Plate Road May 1st, 2nd, 7th, 14th and 21st, good returning by depositing until June 1st inclusive at one and one-third fare for the round trip from points within a radius of 200 miles from Chicago. Inquire agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A. Ft. Wayne, Ind.—may 21.

The Nickel Plate Road

Offers excursion tickets from Ft. Wayne and points west to Chicago, at one fare for the round trip for the reception to Admiral Dewey. Tickets good going April 30th and May 1st, and returning until May 3rd inclusive. See agents or address C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A. Ft. Wayne, Ind.—may 5.

BOOKS AND TRACTS.

BIBLE PEARLS—2 page tracts suitable for wide distribution. 1 Gospel. 2 Coming and Kingdom of Christ, by 20,000 Baptists in 1900. 3 Immateriality. 4 Kingdom of God. 5 Nature of Man, and Thoughts for Thinkers. 6 Two Advents. 7 What is Religion? 8 Restitution. 9 Destiny of the Wicked. 10 Baptism. 10 copies for 5 cts, or assorted packages of 100 for 20 cts.

FOUR-PAGE TRACTS.

Can You Believe? a series of questions setting forth the fundamental points of our faith.

State of Man in Death. A collection of proof texts on this subject.

Life and Death. A short concise statement of the facts in the case.

10 for 10 cts, 50 for 25 cts—100 for 40 cts.

A Letter to a Friend.—This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by which we are justified. C. C. Woodruff. 10 cents.

Future Probation.—Is the world awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 160-page pamphlet by Wm. Gay Moncrieff. Post paid, 10 cents.

Glad Tidings of the Kingdom of God.—Twelve large size pages, clear and comprehensive. 5 cts or 30 for $1.00.

Modern events in the Light of Prophecy.—By H. V. Reed, 5 cents each, or 30 for $1.00.

A few reasons why we should not believe man goes to heaven at death.

Good Reasons why we should not believe man has an immortal soul.

What must I do to be saved?

Where are the dead?

The above are titles to some small 4-page tracts suitable to place in an envelope. Short and to the point. Price 8 copies for 5 cents—or 100 for 25 cents.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Works of Bro. Wiley Jones.

TWELVE WORDS, or the true meaning of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as learned by their uses in the Bible. A tract of 40 pages, sold formerly at 10 cents a copy.

THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM, an 8 page, double column tract, sold formerly at 10 cents a dozen.

EARLY LESSONS, suitable for young or old, 30 pages, sold formerly for 10 cts a copy.

These works are excellent for use by those who wish to do missionary labor, and we offer them at such a low price that they should be out in a short time. Bro. Jones had large editions of these tracts printed, and by dying suddenly, and his Widow being in feeble health, we have undertaken the task of selling them. Her income is quite limited, and all that can be gotten out of the sales goes to her after expenses are paid. When you buy these tracts you get several times the worth of your money, and also aid a worthy Sister, who will thank you for it.

Assorted package 30 cents per pound. Gospel of the Kingdom, alone at 25 cents per pound.

Excursion Rates via Vandalia Lines.

To Indianapolis, Ind., April 23, 24 and 25, account of Eastern Star Convention. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, Ind., April 24 and 25, account of State Republican Convention. One fare for the round trip.

To Knightstown, Ind., April 24 and 25, account of Christian Endeavor Union. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis, Ind., April 30, May 1 and 2, account of State Prohibition Convention. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, May 7 and 8, account of Peoples Party National Convention. One fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis May 14 and 15, account I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge. One and one-third fare for the round trip.

To Indianapolis May 14, 15, 16, account of G. A. R. encampment. Fare $2.40 for round trip. For full information apply at Vandalia Ticket office.

T. A. DOWNS.

Opportunities for Business

At towns on the new line of the Chicago & North-Western Railway are summarized in a pamphlet that may be obtained upon application to W. B. Kniskern, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago, Ill.—may 5.

LIST OF CHURCHES.

Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., now meets in the Hart Building No. 1028 Gates Avenue, near Broadway. Sunday morning services at 10.30—all are welcome. Elders, W. G. Rothe and B. T. MacDonald.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1281½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

The "Church of God" at Wenatchee, Washington, meet each Sunday at 10 A. M., for Bible class and social worship, and preaching occasionally. H. W. Patterson Elder, and C. E. Stevens, Secretary.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and strangers are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitor welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by F. L. Austin four Sundays in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Bay St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

The Church of God near Scircleville, Ind. meet in their new Church as follows:—1st and 3rd Sundays for Social meeting and communion. The 2nd Sunday preaching by J. S. Hatch, the 4th Sunday preaching by J. F. Wagoner of Rochester, Ind.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.—Address A. D. Eshelman.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Schuler's Hall, corner of First and Galena Aves., for Sunday School and Bible Study.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kuifa, Kasaler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trudell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. Welcome all.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday of their at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Groat of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Douglas County, Washington, meets every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. for worship in their new church house on Central Avenue in Waterville, Wash. Brethren and sisters from other places will always be welcome with us. Sunday School at 10:00 A. M., preaching by Elder Richard Corbaley Pastor, or his son A. L. Corbaley, who has been selected by the Church as an Evangelist.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 6:30 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Fotaythe, Leader.

Church of God at Waterloo, Iowa, meet for service every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bible readings and practical talks by the brethren. A. D. Allen in charge.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver.

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.

	9	15	29	3	85
Pittsburgh, lv.	10 00		4 35	7 45	12 25
Allegheny	10 05		4 40	7 50	12 30
Crafton	10 12		4 47	7 57	12 37
Wilkinsburg	10 16		4 51	8 01	12 41
Turtle Creek	10 21		4 56	8 06	12 46
Trafford	10 25		5 00	8 10	12 50
Irwin	10 31		5 06	8 16	12 56
Greensburg	10 45		5 20	8 30	1 10
Derry	11 03		5 38	8 48	1 28
Latrobe	11 08		5 43	8 53	1 33
Youngwood	11 15		5 50	9 00	1 40
Scottdale	11 20		5 55	9 05	1 45
Connellsville	11 30		6 05	9 15	1 55
Dawson	11 45		6 20	9 30	2 10
Confluence	11 55		6 30	9 40	2 20
Meyersdale	12 20		6 55	10 05	2 45
Garrett	12 35		7 10	10 20	3 00
Myersdale	12 45		7 20	10 30	3 10
Rockwood	1 05		7 40	10 50	3 30
Somerset	1 15		7 50	11 00	3 40
Berlin	1 30		8 05	11 15	3 55
Boswell	1 40		8 15	11 25	4 05
Hooversville	1 45		8 20	11 30	4 10
Stoystown	1 55		8 30	11 40	4 20
Central City	2 05		8 40	11 50	4 30
Jennerstown	2 15		8 50	12 00	4 40
Conemaugh	2 20		8 55	12 05	4 45
Johnstown	2 30		9 05	12 15	4 55
Cresson	3 05		9 40	12 50	5 30
Altoona	3 30		10 05	1 15	5 55
Tyrone	3 50		10 25	1 35	6 15
Bellwood	4 10		10 45	1 55	6 35
Hollidaysburg	4 20		10 55	2 05	6 45
Duncansville	4 25		11 00	2 10	6 50
Williamsburg	4 35		11 10	2 20	7 00
Tyrone	4 40		11 15	2 25	7 05
Vail	4 45		11 20	2 30	7 10
Birmingham	4 50		11 25	2 35	7 15
Tipton	4 55		11 30	2 40	7 20
Fostoria	5 00		11 35	2 45	7 25
Bellefonte	5 15		11 50	3 00	7 40
Milesburg	5 20		11 55	3 05	7 45
Curtin	5 25		12 00	3 10	7 50
Mount Eagle	5 30		12 05	3 15	7 55
Howard	5 35		12 10	3 20	8 00
Eagle Rock	5 40		12 15	3 25	8 05
Lamar	5 45		12 20	3 30	8 10
Mill Hall	5 50		12 25	3 35	8 15
Flemington	5 55		12 30	3 40	8 20
Lock Haven	6 00		12 35	3 45	8 25
Renovo	6 40		1 15	4 25	9 05
Driftwood	7 15		1 50	5 00	9 40
Sterling Run	7 30		2 05	5 15	9 55
Emporium	7 45		2 20	5 30	10 10
Cameron	7 55		2 30	5 40	10 20
Wilcox	8 10		2 45	5 55	10 35
Kane	8 40		3 15	6 25	11 05
Ridgway	9 05		3 40	6 50	11 30
Brockport	9 20		3 55	7 05	11 45
Falls Creek	9 30		4 05	7 15	11 55
DuBois	9 40		4 15	7 25	12 05
Punxsutawney	10 05		4 40	7 50	12 30
Big Run	10 15		4 50	8 00	12 40
Brookville	10 30		5 05	8 15	12 55
Sligo	10 40		5 15	8 25	1 05
Clarion	10 50		5 25	8 35	1 15
Limestone	11 00		5 35	8 45	1 25
Oil City	11 45		6 20	9 30	2 10
Titusville	12 10		6 45	9 55	2 35
Meadville	12 45		7 20	10 30	3 10
Conneaut	1 30		8 05	11 15	3 55
Girard	1 40		8 15	11 25	4 05
Erie	1 55		8 30	11 40	4 20
North East	2 15		8 50	12 00	4 40
Ripley	2 30		9 05	12 15	4 55
Dunkirk	3 00		9 35	12 45	5 25
Salamanca	3 30		10 05	1 15	5 55
Olean	4 00		10 35	1 45	6 25
Bradford	4 30		11 05	2 15	6 55
Kinzua	4 50		11 25	2 35	7 15
Warren	5 05		11 40	2 50	7 30
Irvine	5 30		12 05	3 15	7 55
Garland	5 40		12 15	3 25	8 05
Corry	5 55		12 30	3 40	8 20
Union City	6 15		12 50	4 00	8 40
Girard	6 30		1 05	4 15	8 55
Fairview	6 40		1 15	4 25	9 05
Erie	7 00		1 35	4 45	9 25
Chicago, ar.	9 45	7 45	4 30	7 30	12 10
	7 PM	5 PM	1 PM	7 AM	7 PM

Eastward.

	20	8	6	80	28	18
Chicago, lv.	7 50	3 00	11 30	11 30	5 40	2 55
Garrett	8 25		12 05	12 05	6 15
Hooversville	9 25		1 05	1 05	7 15
Berlin	9 35		1 15	1 15	7 25
Boswell	9 45		1 25	1 25	7 35
Rockwood	9 55		1 35	1 35	7 45
Meyersdale	10 15	4 25	1 55	1 55	8 05	4 12
Garrett	10 40		2 20	2 20	8 30
Confluence	11 00	5 05	2 40	2 40	8 50	4 52
Dawson	11 15		2 55	2 55	9 05
Connellsville	11 30	5 35	3 10	3 10	9 20	5 22
Scottdale	11 40		3 20	3 20	9 30
Youngwood	11 45		3 25	3 25	9 35
Latrobe	11 52		3 32	3 32	9 42
Derry	11 57		3 37	3 37	9 47
Blairsville	12 15	6 05	3 55	3 55	10 05	5 52
Saltsburg	12 30		4 10	4 10	10 20
Vandergrift	12 40		4 20	4 20	10 30
Leechburg	12 45		4 25	4 25	10 35
Apollo	12 55		4 35	4 35	10 45
Parnassus	1 00		4 40	4 40	10 50
New Kensington	1 05		4 45	4 45	10 55
Tarentum	1 15		4 55	4 55	11 05
Brilliant	1 20		5 00	5 00	11 10
Etna	1 25		5 05	5 05	11 15
Pittsburgh	1 40	6 40	5 20	5 20	11 30	6 25
Allegheny	1 45		5 25	5 25	11 35
Pittsburgh, ar.	1 50	6 45	5 30	5 30	11 40	6 30
	PM	PM	PM	PM	AM	AM

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jct. Pittsburgh, Pa.
Crestline, O. Mansfield, O.
Wooster, O. Orrville, O.
Akron, O. Cleveland, O.
Fostoria, O. Toledo, O.
Bellefontaine, O. Sandusky, O.
Upper Sandusky, O. Tiffin, O.
Forest, O. Findlay, O.
Kenton, O. Bucyrus, O.
Galion, O. Mansfield, O.
Delphos, O. Lima, O.
Columbus, O. Newark, O.
Ada, O. Marion, O.
Fort Wayne, Ind. Chicago, Ill.
Van Wert, O. Lima, O.
Lima, O. Kenton, O.
Bluffton, Ind. Huntington, Ind.
Crestline, O. Mansfield, O.
Mansfield, O. Wooster, O.
Wooster, O. Orrville, O.
Massillon, O. Akron, O.
Canton, O. Alliance, O.
Alliance, O. Pittsburgh, Pa.
Pittsburgh, Pa. Chicago, Ill.

Through Sleeping Cars on Nos. 19, 20, Fort Wayne to Pittsburgh. Parlor Cars on Nos. 9, 15, 29, 3, 85, Fort Wayne to Pittsburgh. Dining Cars on Nos. 9, 15, 29, 3, 85, Fort Wayne to Pittsburgh. Through Coaches on Nos. 9, 15, 29, 3, 85, Fort Wayne to Pittsburgh. Through Coaches on Nos. 19, 20

The Restitution.

ISSUED WEEKLY BY
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
FOR THE
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Life's Melody.

Life gathers up its lessons with the years
Many are taught us with the smile of love,
Others are hallowed by our pain and tears.
But all are benedictions from above.

In thoughtless joy we take the gifts of God
As though by virtue of ourselves they came,
And when he touches with his chastening rod,
His blessings we forget and him we blame.

I met a little child upon whose face
Was written innocence and health and glee,
No blush of shame had ever marred its grace
Or tainted its sweet childish purity.

I stopped and asked her what she knew of life,
About its cares and sorrows, hopes and fears,
Whether she ever heard of toiland strife;
Whether her joys were ever mixed with tears.

The child replied, her face serene and bright,
"This world is very happy. All day long
I play among the flowers, and at night
The birds lull me to sleep with evening song."

"But," said I, not satisfied in mind,
"Suppose the birds are flown, the flowers all dead;
Suppose the sun is cold and winds unkind
Drift snow-flakes where your little feet now tread."

"Ah, then I hide my face in mother's breast,
And, while she tells me of the winter drear,
In peace and happiness content I rest;
For well I know the spring will soon be here.

"And then how happy I shall be once more,
For God will send the birds and flowers again,
My joy will be far greater than before,
Because my loss has taught me of my gain."

Dear fellow pilgrim, what has life taught you?
Has God sent blessing not unmixed with grief?
Have burning blasts dried up the morning dew?
Has bitter anguish tempted unbelief?

Doubt not that he who said, "Come unto me,"
Can turn to blessing every sigh and tear.
Believe, rejoice, and every grief shall flee;
Love, confidence, and hope will banish fear.

If we but rightly know our several parts,
Life is a melody of sweetest strain;
God plays with marvelous skill upon our hearts
And makes a harmony of joy and pain.

—C. H. Mead.

Communicated.

Some Lessons of Sixty Years. No 2.

LOSS AND THE RECOVERY.

The conversion of Paganism and Christianity was mutual. Philosophy was the solvent between them. The new substance was a mule—more vicious than either parent.

Immediately after the Apostles' times the church began to lose its purity of doctrine drawn from the LITERAL SENSE of the Old Testament and Jesus' teachings. The literal sense as opposed to allegorical is the "common sense." The former was lost and the latter triumphed chiefly through Origen (b. 185, d. 253), and the schools of Alexandria, an amalgam of Judaism, philosophy and Paganism taking the place of pure Christian literature. The contest was bitter through the 2nd, 3rd and 4th centuries. The object was to make Christianity the one great religion of the world as Rome was the one great civil power. The corruption succeeded and the little horn was established early in the 5th century, about A. D. 538; but the struggle was continued to the present time; the truth, the pure Word of God, however, having many noble witnesses in every age and every year; but organized power, religious and civil, favored the two older elements in the Amalgam—Paganism and philosophy—rather than Christianity which, under the ban of authority, endured the 1260 cruel years of the Man of Sin, till Napoleon's iron hand in 1798 brought relief. The visible church—almost invisible in its seclusion among rocks and caves and mountain fastnesses—had borne faithful testimony for Jesus; and now and then in the darkest days, one here and the other there, like beacon lights on mountain peaks, strong men had stood forth and defied the powers of darkness, and many of them sealed in the testimony at the stake.

In the ebb and flow of spiritual life we may notice the high tide of error about the middle of the little horn period, 11th to 15th centuries; the reaction starting in the 11th and coming to full force in the 15th century. Horatius Bonar says, "It was not till the church had learned to Platonize, or had taken lessons in the school of Origen, that they could condemn Chiliasm without disputing the inspiration of Revelation." Bishop Newton refers approvingly to the language of Mr. Cox of England that,—"The great chasm in the history of Chiliasm, seems to be the awful centuries of Rome's supremacy when almost every truth was hidden." The Paulikians, the Waldenses, Valdenses, Vaudois or People of the valleys "have always regarded the Papal Church as the Anti-christ, and the Babylon of the Apocalypse.....They condemn the mystical or allegorical interpretation of Scripture, and are of course literalists. Some of the most conspicuous lights in the long centuries in Papal darkness were Joachim Abines, A. D. 1190; who lectured before Richard Coeur de Lion on the Apocalypse, at Messina while the latter was on his way in a crusade to the Holy Land. He was refreshingly literal.

John Wickliff D. D. (b. 1324, d. 1384); born in Yorkshire, England. A zealous antagonist of Rome, he was called the "Morning Star of the Reformation," and Mosheim says he was "a man of an enterprising genius and extraordinary learning." His intimate acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures gained for him the title of the "Gospel Doctor," a turning to good account "the popularity of attacking a foreign power that overawed the throne, and submitted the industry and revenues of the kingdom to its own avaricious views, he loudly inveigled against the errors and the encroachments of the Romish church. His writings alarmed the clergy, and a council was assembled at Lambeth, by archbishop Sudbury, 1377, and Wickliff summoned to give an account of his doctrines. He appeared before it, accompanied by the duke of Lancaster, then in power, and made so able a defence that he was dismissed without condemnation. His acquittal, however, displeased the pope, Gregory IX., who directed his emissaries to seize the offending heretic, or if he were protected by the great and powerful of the kingdom, to cite him to Rome, to answer in person the supreme pontiff. .....A second council assembled at Lambeth, and the nineteen propositions which the pope had declared heretical, were so ably vindicated by the undaunted reformer, that his judges, afraid of offending the nobles, or of exciting a commotion among the people, who loudly supported the cause of their champion, permitted him to depart in safety, and enjoined him silence in matters of religion and of controversy. Undismayed by the powers of his enemies, Wickliff continued to preach his doctrines, which were now more universally spread, and a third council therefore assembled under Courtnay, the primate, 1382, and twenty-four propositions of the reformer were condemned as heretical, and fourteen as erroneous. The severity of the church was, at the suggestion of the pope, and the concurrence of the weak Richard II. directed against the supporters of the new heresy; but whilst some of his followers suffered punishment for their adherence to his principles, Wickliff unfortunately died at Lutterworth, 1384. But this Morning Star awoke the Waldenses, the Lollards, Walter Rute, the martyrs Huss and Jerome of Prague, and the lamented Lord Cobham, all either followers of or intimate associates with Wickliff.

Over the 200 years from Wickliff to Luther several scores of martyr-witnesses built a bridge of light. Wickliff illuminated the midnight of Papacy by the translation of the New Testament into English. The Bible had been kept in Latin to prevent the common people reading it. At that time no better place than England could have been chosen to put the Word of God into the vernacular so that all men could read it, and no better man than Wickliff to do it. Thence to Luther many translations of the whole or parts of the Bible were made. When the people came to read the Bible in their own tongue, they believed it as it reads. The translators and reformers were literalists. Hence the darkness of popery began to lift and the true light to shine.

O. B. L. C.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLIX. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAY 9, 1900. NUMBER 18.

The Coming Day.

"Behold the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven." Mal. iv. 1.

At the time this language was spoken, had you been in that country where the prophet dwelt, you might have witnessed the gathering of the stubble by the women, whose task it was to grind the meal, and prepare the bread for the household. This oven consisted of a simple [illegible] In the ground [illegible] stubble and dry grass and then set it on fire, and kept it burning until the sides, and the bottom of this oven were hot enough to bake the loaves or cakes of bread. They then removed the ashes and dust carefully, and it was ready for baking. The prophet [illegible] upon this familiar incident, to illustrate what he was inspired of God to communicate to the people. His subject was the fate of the proud and the wicked, and the time was a coming day. The word "cometh" signifieth literally "is approaching." "That shall burn as an oven." Literally like the fire in the oven. The fuel are the proud, and those that do wickedly, instead of the stubble, but like the stubble the fire says "shall burn them up;" that it (the fire) shall leave them the (proud and wicked) neither root nor branch. The simile is complete, and seems to us to need no explanation. It simply teaches, in simple language, that the wicked shall be destroyed by burning them to ashes like the stubble in the oven, and that they should have no being like the burned stubble. Man is a material being as regards his substance. Made of the dust (earth) and atmosphere combined, and is combustible and yields to the action of fire. Fire is the element that God has chosen to destroy the wicked, and has so repeatedly declared it, that no one but an unbeliever in his Word would call it in question. But says one, how can literal fire destroy an immaterial soul? I confess I do not know. I do not believe it can. I know there exists literal fire. I have heard of an immaterial soul, but I can have no conception of it, unless it should materialize, after that I believe fire might act upon it, and destroy it. The prophet was not treating of such souls, but of material souls that could be burned to ashes like stubble, not leaving a vestige of its original form. Ashes are not stubble. Neither can stubble be reproduced from ashes alone. Throughout the Scriptures there is an uniform adherence to material things. No reference is made to the immaterial nor an equivalent, since it could have no such quality that could be expressed in words. To us the term is blank, and enters not into our conception. We are told that God is a spirit, but we are not told that he is an immaterial spirit. Had this been affirmed of him the Scriptures would have been a medly of contradictions and an impenetrable mystery. The reward that is offered to us in the world to come, consists in a real home and material surroundings. The resurrection of the dead is explained by our Lord to mean, the coming forth of those that are in their graves. They are the same who receive the eternal life. Those who are condemned are of the all who hear his voice, and come from the same place, and must surely be material as the grave in which they lie. These are condemned to destruction (death). Those are clothed upon with immortality (eternal life). "And they shall never perish," says Jesus "But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the Lord shall be as the fat of lambs. They shall consume into smoke, and ashes shall they consume away." Surely immaterial, immortal spirits could not be reduced to smoke and ashes. This reminds me of the fact that there are no promises made to spirits, and no punishment threatened against spirits in all God's Book. It deals absolutely with material beings. And when spirits are referred to in connection with man, he is the owner of the spirits, and he is responsible for his possessions whether good or bad. This does not include the breath when it is called spirit, since no reasonable man would affirm that the Spirit of God in my nostrils means an immaterial, immortal entity, or that such a gift was a thing to be rewarded, or punished. We desire to be changed, but not left out. "As we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly." (The same we) "This mortal shall put on immortality." This corruptible (man) shall put on incorruption. This process is what is meant by the figure of death being [illegible] the death nature [illegible] figure in the lesson that Paul has given us in Cor. xv. where our present and future condition and nature is so sharply contrasted, the material man is kept in view as the one upon whom all the change is affirmed in the resurrection. He says, it is sown a natural body. "It is raised a spiritual body." There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. He does not say it is sown a body, and a spirit is raised. He does not say there is a natural body and there is a spirit. That would not be telling us anything of the resurrection, nor the change that awaits us there. But the Apostle is continually calling the man that is to die before our minds, and contrasting his condition when he shall rise again at the last day. The doctrine of the resurrection and the Platonic theory of the immortality of the soul are as antipodes. They absolutely touch nowhere. The resurrection is a familiar phrase to every Bible reader. But immortal is a word so rare in the Book that it is used to express an attribute of God alone, and but once. It is never used with reference to man, nor soul, nor spirit; while immortality is used but five times, and is plainly a gift of God through our Lord Jesus Christ; to be sought for by us, and received by the worthy at the coming of the Lord, and the resurrection of the just at that day, and is to be bestowed on the man who was dead, and came forth from the grave at that time. Let us show respect unto the recompense of the reward, and accept Christ as the way, the truth and the life.

A. B. WINCE.

The First Conference held at Jerusalem, Acts xv.

I will call your attention to verses 13 to 18 of this chapter, and especially to verses 17 and 18. "That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things. Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world." "Remember the former things of old; for I am God, and there is none else; I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure." Isa. xlvi. 9, 10.

If God knew from the beginning all his works, and can declare the end from the beginning, then he knew that all things would be just as they have been. So when he made Adam he knew just what the consequences would be by such a creation He knew also, just what step Eve would take when he made her: for "He saw the end from the beginning." God in creating the first man, Adam, did it upon a natural principle; he purposed in himself to create the second Adam upon a spiritual principle. As God created a bride for the first man. 1st Cor. xv. 45 to 49 tells us that the first man was made a living soul, the second a quickening spirit. The first man is natural and came from the earth; the second one is spiritual and will come from heaven. As the first man had a natural bride of the same nature as himself, so the second will have a spiritual bride of the same nature as himself. Paul says, Adam is the figure of him that was to come, Rom. v. 14. He also says to the church at Corinth, "I have espoused you to one husband." 2 Cor. ii. 2, 3.

Many I fear will allow themselves to be beguiled by the enemy, as Eve was, and will not be in the number that will be presented as a chaste virgin to Christ.

After God created man of the dust of the ground, he placed him in a good condition by putting him in reach of the tree of life which would perpetuate his existence. God placed Adam under a law to bring out a spiritual nature; for the law is spiritual, just and good. Rom. vii. 4–14. Adam failed to bring such a development; but the second Adam did not fail to develop the nature, so we are taught that the "Seed of the woman, (which pointed to Christ,) should bruise the serpent's head." Christ is emphatically the Seed of the woman. The promise was also made to Abraham, "In thy Seed, (which is Christ,) shall all the nations of the earth be blessed." Gen. xii. 3. These promises were renewed to David, "Thy Seed will I establish forever, and build up thy throne to all generations." Psa. lxxxix. 4. Peter confirms this promise on the day of Pentecost, by saying, "Therefore, he (David,) being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to set on his throne." Acts ii. 30.

The above promises will be fulfilled in Christ, and his glorified church, in the future ages. Jesus in bringing out the spiritual nature learned obedience by the things which he suffered, and was made perfect through suffering. Heb. ii. 10. As he, Christ, is the head of the body, the church, and was made perfect through suffering. So must his body also, suffer with him in order to reign with him. 2 Tim. ii. 12. Col. i. 24. 1 Peter iv. 12, 13. This Jesus, who is called the Seed of the woman, the Seed of David, the Seed of Abraham, did God raise up from the dead, to die no more. So when the creation of the second Adam was perfected, God seated him at his own right hand, until the bride, the church, is glorified, and presented to him perfect, and spiritual, of the same nature as himself; not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; but holy and without blemish. Well might the Revelator in his vision exclaim: "Alleluia; for the Lord Omnipotent reigneth. Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him; for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his betrothed has made herself ready." Rev. xix. 5, 9.

So Christ will take the church the bride to himself when finished, and made perfect; but she is now in her formative state, being moulded under the hand of God by "trials and tribulations." If we suffer with Christ, (2 Tim. ii. 12,) we must overcome in order to reign with Christ on his throne. Rev. iii. 21. The church in her glorified state will become kings and priests unto God, and will reign on the earth. Rev. v. 9, 10. Before entering upon this reign she must be made incorruptible, which is the work of God, to bring her to this perfect state. She will then be presented to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. Eph. v. 27. She will then be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white. So when the second Adam and his bride take the government of the world, they will be of the same nature—spiritual. Then they will be prepared for the great work of restitution of all things. Here the preparation will end, and the restitution of all things will begin. The first man and his bride were to multiply and replenish the earth; but the second man and his bride will restore all things spoken of by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began. Acts iii. 19–21.

My daily prayer is to God, Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in heaven and earth the same. Then is when Christ and his bride will be united into one body. "Then the spirit and the bride say, Come, and let him that heareth say, Come, and let him that is athirst come, and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely." Rev. xxii. 17.

Brothers, and Sisters, are we ready for the Bridegroom? He may come at an unguarded moment or hour.

JOHN FOORE.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1900. The cost is only three cents a week.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Thy Kingdom Come.

"Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven," are words used by all classes of Christians more than any Bible words. They are repeated individually, domestically, and in concert at the churches. And no fault, for Jesus said, say ye, "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come." This is the model prayer, and when used we should realize what we pray for, so as to know whether our prayer is answered. "Give us this day our daily bread." That is well understood, and sadly realized when we do not receive it. Now, the Kingdom—what is it, and when will it come? We are to pray, "Thy kingdom come," not go, but come. I consult my Bible, whose author gave commandment how and what to pray for. Luke xxi. 43—"Therefore, I say unto you, the kingdom of God shall be taken from you and given to a people bringing forth the fruit thereof." Here is the kingdom of God taken from a people, and reserved for another people bringing forth the fruits thereof. Mark x. 24, "It is hard for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God. No drunkard, covetous, wicked or vile person can enter the kingdom of God."

"Here is Bible enough to show that the kingdom of God is not the church, for some of all these classes do get into the church, and it is not hard for a rich man to find his way into the church. Neither is the kingdom of God in men's hearts, for the Bible assures us that we shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of God. And if the Bible does not teach thus, what does it teach? We have a little promise in Luke xii. 32, which reads thus: "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." Who are the little flock the promise is made to? An old colored man at the South was asked what that meant. He as readily replied, "Them be the good folks." Right, Jack. Well, then, the good folks are not the kingdom, but it is their Father's good pleasure that they should have it." This kingdom is their reward; this kingdom is their future home, their heaven, their paradise. Hence you hear Daniel saying: "The kingdom and the greatness under the whole heaven shall be given to the saints of the Most High (the little flock), and they shall inherit it forever and ever."

Now hear what Jesus says about the wheat and tares that are to grow in the field (kosmos) till the harvest. When is the harvest, Master? At the end of the world. The crops are to be harvested. "He will send his angels and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them that do iniquity, and cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth." "Then the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." I have written thus to give a glimpse of what the Lord designed by telling us how to pray and what to pray for. The earth being the territory of this kingdom, "the world to come whereof we speak," then it follows that the prayer, "thy will be done on earth as in heaven," involves the bringing in of God's will to be done in earth as in heaven. That would bring heaven upon earth with his divine will done and the Lord's prayer fulfilled. When this is done the prayer, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven," will be fully answered, and not before.—Goshen Record.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell low rate excursion tickets to North Manchester, Ind., account annual meeting of German Baptists (Dunkards) at one fare for the round trip. Tickets good going on May 29th to June 4th inclusive, beyond a radius of 100 miles, and on May 31st to June 8th within a radius of 100 miles from North Manchester, Ind. Good returning until June 10th, or by deposit until July 5th inclusive. Call on or address R. J. Hamilton, Agent Ft. Wayne, Ind., or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A. Ft. Wayne, Ind.—June 4.

The Restitution.

A. H. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, May 9, 1900.

We had the unspeakable pleasure of burying with Christ on April 29, Sister Annie Parker, daughter of our recently deceased Bro. Parker, whose consistent walk, and joyful hope under deep affliction, did much toward commending to her the gospel of the blessed God. That she may prove faithful to the end and be crowned abundantly with life we pray.

We wish to call attention to the appeal made by Bros. Woodward and Zilmer. Where churches are in a Conference the Church officers should have the report of number of members and value of church property made to the Conference officers, and they to the committee. Where a church is not connected with a Conference send report direct to Bro. Zilmer, and where isolated members are not united in church organization, send your numbers to Bro. Zilmer. Do it now, as the time is very short.

Take notice of the Conference calls and appoint delegates in time, and instruct them in any business you wish brought before the meetings. Make arrangements, all who can, to be there at the first meeting, and stay to the last. The signs of the times indicate a change before long, and your chances to work for the Master are growing fewer every year. This is a reason why we should redouble our energies and work the harder. Attend the Conferences, and give aid to others and get help for yourself.

Some time since we were called upon for the authority for saying that Luther responded to the decree of Pope Leo X. as follows: "I permit the Pope to make articles of faith for himself and his faithful, such as the soul is the substantial form of the human body, —the soul is immortal, etc., but could not give it. In Glad Tidings we learn that it quoted from Luther's works, Vol. II. folio 107, Wittemberg, 1562. It is not likely that recent editions contain it, as his followers now go with the popular tide.

We dislike very much to do so, but we are compelled to again call attention of a number of our subscribers to their delinquency. Surely, brethren, you do not want to subject us to the expense of sending statements to each one. You certainly know if you have paid for your paper for 1900. You will remember the last time you paid, and you surely know that we must have our money in order to do our work. Please look up your account, and if you are owing us, send the money at once. You can surely be trusted to attend to this, and save us farther anxiety.

The Commands of Christ.

